"Hereafter when any repairs of streets, avenues, alleys, or sewers within the District of Columbia are to be made, or when new pavements are to be substituted in place of those worn out, new ones laid, or new streets opened, sewers built, or any works the total cost of which shall exceed the sum of one thousand dollars, notice shall be given in one newspaper in Washington and if the total cost shall exceed five thousand dollars, then in one newspaper in each of the cities of New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore also for one week, for proposals, with full specifications as to materials for the whole or any portion of the works proposed to be done; and the lowest responsible proposal for the kind and character of pavement or other work which the Commissioners shall determine upon shall in all cases be accepted: Provided, however, That the Commissioners shall have the right, in their discretion, to reject all of such proposals: Provided, That work capable of being executed under a single contract shall not be subdivided so as to reduce the sum of money to be paid therefor to less than one thousand dollars. All contracts for the construction, improvement, alteration, or repairs of the streets, avenues, highways, alleys, gutters, sewers, and all work of like nature shall be made and entered into only by and with the official unanimous consent of the Commissioners of the District, and all contracts shall be copied in a book kept for that purpose and be signed by the said Commissioners, and no contract involving an expenditure of more than one hundred dollars shall be valid until recorded and signed as aforesaid. No pavement shall be accepted nor any pavement laid except that of the best material of its kind known for that purpose, laid in the most substantial manner; and good and sufficient bonds to the United States, in a penal sum not less than the amount of the contract, with sureties to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, shall be required from all contractors, guaranteeing that the terms of their contracts shall be strictly and faithfully performed to the satisfaction of and acceptance by said Commissioners; and that the contractors shall keep new pavements or other new works in repair for a term of five years from the date of the completion of their contracts; and ten per centum of the cost of all new works shall be retained as an additional security and a guarantee fund to keep the same in repair for said term, which said per centum shall be invested in registered bonds of the United States or of the District of Columbia and the interest thereon paid to said contractors. The cost of laying down said pavement, sewers, and other works, or of repairing the same, shall be paid for in the following proportions and manner, to wit: When any street or avenue through which a street-railway runs shall be paved, such railway company shall bear all of the expense for that portion of the work lying between the exterior rails of the tracks of such roads, and for a distance of two feet from and exterior to such track or tracks on each side thereof, and of keeping the same in repair; but the said railway companies, having conformed to the grades established by the Commissioners, may use such cobblestone or Belgian blocks for paving their tracks, or the space between their tracks, as the Commissioners may direct; the United States shall pay one half of the cost of all work done under the provisions of this section, except that done by the railway companies, which payment shall be credited as part of the fifty per centum which the United States contributes toward the expenses of the District of Columbia for that year; and all payments shall be made by the Secretary of the Treasury on the warrant or order of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia or a majority thereof, in such amounts and at such times as they may deem safe and proper in view of the progress of the work: That if any street railway company shall neglect or refuse to perform the work required by this act, said pavement shall be laid between the tracks and exterior thereto of such railway by the District of Columbia; and if such company shall fail or refuse to pay the sum due from them in respect of the work done by or under the orders of the proper officials of said District in such case of the neglect or refusal of such railway company to perform the work required as aforesaid, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall issue certificates of indebtedness against the property, real or personal, of such railway company, which certificates shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum until paid, and which, until they are paid, shall remain and be a lien upon the property on or against which they are issued together with the franchise of said company; and if the said certificates are not paid within one year, the said Commissioners of the District of Columbia may proceed to sell the property against which they are issued, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due, such sale to be first duly advertised daily for one week in some newspaper published in the city of Washington, and to be at public auction to the highest bidder. When street railways cross any street or avenue, the pavement between the tracks of such railway shall conform to the pavement used upon such street or avenue, and the companies owning these intersecting railroads shall pay for such pavements in the same manner and proportion as required of other railway companies under the provisions of this section. It shall be the duty of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to see that all water and gas mains, service pipes, and sewer connections are laid upon any street or avenue proposed to be paved or otherwise improved before any such pavement or other permanent works are put down; and the Washington Gas Light Company, under the direction of said Commissioners, shall at its own expense take up, lay, and replace all gas mains on any street or avenue to be paved, at such time and place as said Commissioners shall direct. The President of the United States may detail from the Engineer Corps of the Army not more than three officers, junior to the engineer officer belonging to the Board of Commissioners of said District, to act as assistants to said Engineer Commissioner in the discharge of the special duties imposed upon him by the provisions of this act."

AMENDMENT

This section of the 1878 act was amended by the act of Aug. 7, 1894, 28 Stat. 246, ch. 232, by changing words therein reading "two officers of rank subordinate to that of the engineer" to "three officers junior to the engineer"; by adding a comma after the word "District"; and by taking out a comma after the words "Engineer Commissioner."

CROSS REFERENCE

This section was contained in D. C. Code, 1929 ed., as §§ 71–75 of Title 12 and § 24 of Title 20, and is contained herein as §§ 7–601—7–605 and 1–212.

NOTE TO DECISIONS

BREACH OF CONTRACT

The District is liable for breach of a contract entered into for the doing of certain work on its streets, including repair work, when the contract was entered into under authority of an act of Congress, even though the work may have been dependent on annual appropriations, especially where the appropriation was ample to cover the work. District of Columbia v. Cranford Paving Co. (50 App. D. C. 300, 271 Fed. 374).

§ 7–602 [12: 72]. Contracts—Unanimous consent of Commissioners required—Contracts to be copied into book.

All contracts for the construction, improvement, alteration, or repairs of the streets, avenues, highways, alleys, gutters, sewers, and all work of like nature shall be made and entered into only by and with the official unanimous consent of the commissioners of the District, and all contracts shall be copied into a book kept for that purpose and be signed by the said commissioners, and no contract involving an expenditure of more than one hundred dollars shall be valid until recorded and signed as aforesaid. (June 11, 1878, 20 Stat. 106, ch. 180, § 5.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The provision in regard to contracts involving less than $100 has apparently been superseded and the limit raised to $1,000, §§ 1–805, 7–603.

NOTE TO DECISIONS

AUTHORITY OF COMMISSIONERS

When the Board of Commissioners was constituted by statute to carry the powers of the municipal corporation called the District of Columbia into effect, the Commissioners could adopt for the corporation any seal they chose, whether intended to be permanently used or adopted for the time being. When, acting officially, as in this instance, they signed and sealed the instrument as for the corporation, their signatures and seals bound the corporation as by a specialty. District of Columbia v. Camden Iron Works (181 U. S. 453, 45 L. Ed. 948, 21 Sup. Ct. 680).

§ 7–603 [12: 73]. Pavement to be of best known materials—Bond of contractors—Liability for repairs.

No pavement shall be accepted nor any pavement laid except that of the best material of its kind known for that purpose, laid in the most substantial manner; and good and sufficient bonds to the District of Columbia shall be required (except when otherwise provided by section 1–805) from the contractors in a penal sum of not less than twenty-five per centum of the amount of the contract with sureties or a surety company to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia guaranteeing that the terms of the contract shall be strictly and faithfully performed to the satisfaction of said commissioners; that the contractors shall promptly make payments to all persons supplying them labor and materials in the prosecution of the work provided for in such contracts; and that such work shall be kept in repair for a period of one year from the date of completion of said work; and where repairs are necessary during the four years following the said one year period due to inferior work or defective materials, such repairs shall be made at the expense of the contractor, and the bond furnished by the contractor shall be liable for such expense; but no cash retent to guarantee such repair shall be held or required on such contracts. (June 11, 1878, 20 Stat. 106, ch. 180, § 5; Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 688, ch. 433; May 10, 1926, 44 Stat. 427, ch. 276; Mar. 2, 1927, 44 Stat. 1308, ch. 271; May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 657, ch. 659.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section apparently partially supersedes § 7–602 and exempts contracts for less than $1,000 from the provisions of this section, § 1–805.

AMENDMENTS

This section is a composite of the credits cited in the history line. The parenthetical exception was inserted by the compilers in view of the provisions of § 1–805. The act of 1878 originally required contractors to keep new pavements or other new works in repair for 5 years, 10 per centum of the cost to be retained as additional security, such sum to be invested in United States or District of Columbia bonds, and the interest paid to the contractors.

The act of 1916 changed these requirements to read as above, except for the provision as to repairs necessary because of inferior work or defective materials which was added by the act of May 10, 1926, 44 Stat. 427, ch. 276, and repeated in acts of March 2, 1927, 44 Stat. 1308;

May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 657, ch. 659; June 16, 1933, 48 Stat. 230, ch. 93; July 15, 1939, 53 Stat. 1037, ch. 281; June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333.

SIMILAR PROVISIONS

The provision respecting repairs necessary over a five-year period due to inferior work and defective materials was repeated in substance in the following Appropriation Acts:

1951—July 18, 1950, ch. 467, § 1, 64 Stat. 347.
1950—June 29, 1949, ch. 279, § 1, 63 Stat. 303.
1949—June 19, 1948, ch. 555, § 1, 62 Stat. 553.
1948—July 25, 1947, ch. 324, § 1, 61 Stat. 442.
1947—July 9, 1946, ch. 544, § 1, 60 Stat. 518.
1946—June 30, 1945, ch. 209, § 1, 59 Stat. 289.
1945—June 28, 1944, ch. 300, § 1, 58 Stat. 526.
1944—July 1, 1943, ch. 184, § 1, 57 Stat. 341.
1943—June 27, 1942, ch. 452, § 1, 56 Stat. 455.

The cost of laying down said pavement, sewers, and other works, or of repairing the same, shall be paid for in the following proportions and manner, to wit: When any street or avenue through which a street railway runs shall be paved, such railway company shall bear the entire cost of paving, repairs, or replacements incident to track repairs, replacements, or changes made at a time when the street or bridge is not being paved, and shall bear one-half the cost of other paving, repaving, or maintenance of paving between its track and for two feet outside the outer rails, and shall bear the excess cost of construction and maintenance of public bridges due to the existence or installation of its tracks on such bridges: Provided further, That nothing herein contained shall relieve such railway company from liability for street paving as owner of real estate apart from right of way occupied by its tracks as provided by section 6–712, but the said railway companies, having conformed to the grades established by the commissioners, may use such cobblestone or Belgian blocks for paving their tracks, or the space between their tracks, as the commissioners may direct; the cost of the work done by the railway companies shall be credited as part of any per centum which the United States may contribute toward the expenses of the District of Columbia for that year; and all payments shall be made by the Secretary of the Treasury on the warrant or order of the commissioners of the District of Columbia or a majority thereof, in such amounts and at such times as they may deem safe and proper in view of the progress of the work: If any street railway company shall neglect or refuse to perform the work required by this act, said pavement shall be laid between the tracks and exterior thereto of such railway by the District of Columbia; and if such company shall fail or refuse to pay the sum due from them in respect of the work done by or under the orders of the proper officials of said District in such case of the neglect or refusal of such railway company to perform the work required as aforesaid. the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall issue certificates of indebtedness against the property, real or personal, of such railway company, which certificates shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum until paid, and which, until they are paid, shall remain and be a lien upon the property on or against which they are issued together with the franchise of said company; and if the said certificates are not paid within one year, the said Commissioners of the District of Columbia may proceed to sell the property against which they are issued, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due, such sale to be first duly advertised daily for one week in some newspaper published in the city of Washington, and to be at public auction to the highest bidder. When street railways cross any street or avenue, the pavement between the tracks of such railway shall conform to the pavement used upon such street or avenue, and the companies owning these intersecting railroads shall pay for such pavements in the same manner and proportion as required of other railway companies under the provisions of this section. (June 11, 1878, 20 Stat. 106, ch. 180, § 5; Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 759, ch. 10, § 3.)

AMENDMENTS

As originally enacted between the word "bear" in the sixth line, and the line reading "but the said railroad companies, having conformed" appeared the following, "all of the expense for that portion of the work lying between the exterior rails of the tracks of such roads, and for a distance of two feet from and exterior to such track or tracks on each side thereof, and of keeping the same in repair."

The matter inserted in lieu of this language is from the act of Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 759, ch. 10, § 3, which provided that, "All provisions of law making it incumbent upon any street railway company to bear the expense of policemen at street railway crossings and intersections, the laying of new pavement, the making of permanent improvements, renewals, or repairs to the pavement of streets and public bridges, and the permanent improvements, renewals, or repairs to public bridges over which the street car lines operate, are hereby repealed, such repeal to be effective on the date the unification herein authorized becomes operative."

This was followed by the language that has been inserted in lieu of the words first above quoted. The act of Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 752, ch. 10, § 3, did, however, read "the Capital Transit Company herein provided for shall bear" instead of "such railway company shall bear." This for the reason that the then existing street railway companies were being consolidated under the name of the Capital Transit Company, but it was thought that the true intention of Congress would be expressed if the section was given a general wording.

As originally enacted, this section also provided, "the United States shall pay one-half of the cost of all work done under the provisions of this section, except the work done by the railway companies, which payment shall be credited as part of the fifty per centum which the United States contributes."

This 50–50 ratio was changed to 60 for the District and 40 for the United States, by a general provision found in the appropriation act of June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, § 1, which also repealed all prior inconsistent acts. This provision was in turn repealed by the act of May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8, adding Title X to the act of Aug. 17, 1937. This last-mentioned repealing act provided no substitute for the 60–40 ratio but apparently left it for each appropriation act to fix its own ratio and if none were fixed it would seem that the District would be required to pay whatever sums were needed over and above the lump sum appropriation, if any.

The commissioners, in submitting the schedules of streets and avenues to be improved, shall each year arrange said streets and avenues in the order of their importance, as determined by them after personal examination of said streets and avenues. (Mar. 3, 1903, 32 Stat. 962, ch. 992.)

§ 7–608 [12: 78]. Improvement and repair of alleys and sidewalks, and construction of sewers and sidewalks under permit system—Hearing—Notice—Cost—Assessment, collection, liability for sale, deposit.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered, whenever in their judgment the public health, safety, or comfort require it, or whenever application shall be made therefor, accompanied by a deposit equal to one-half the estimated cost of the work, to improve and repair alleys and sidewalks, and to construct sewers and sidewalks in the District of Columbia of such form and materials as they may determine, and to pay the total cost of such work from appropriations for assessment and permit work.

Said commissioners shall give notice by advertisement, twice a week for two weeks in some newspaper published in the city of Washington, of any assessment work proposed to be done by them under this section, designating the location and the kind of work to be done, specifying the kind of materials to be used, the estimated cost of the improvement, and fixing a time and place when and where property-owners to be assessed can appear and present objections thereto, and for hearing thereof. One-half of the total cost of the assessment work herein provided for, including the expenses of the assessment, shall be charged against and become a lien upon abutting property, and an assessment therefor shall be levied pro rata according to the linear frontage of said property. One-half of the cost of the assessment work done under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia, as follows: One-third of the amount within sixty days after service of notice of such assessment, without interest; one-third within one year, and the remainder within two years from the date of such service of notice, and interest shall be charged at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of service of such notice on all amounts which shall remain unpaid at the expiration of sixty days after service of notice of such assessment, which in all cases shall be served upon each lot owner, if he or she be a resident of the District, and his or her residence known, and if he or she be a nonresident of the District, or his or her residence unknown, such notice shall be served on his or her tenant or agent, as the case may be, and if there be no tenant or agent known to the commissioners, then they shall give notice of such assessment by advertisement twice a week for two weeks in some newspaper published in said District. The service of such notice, where the owner or his tenant or agent resides in the District of Columbia, shall be either personal or by leaving the same with some person of suitable age at the residence or place of business of such owner, agent, or tenant; and return of such service, stating the manner thereof, shall be made in writing and filed in the office of said commissioners: Provided, That the cost of publication of the notice herein provided for, and the service of such notices shall be paid out of the appropriations for assessment and permit work. Any property upon which such assessment and accrued interest thereon, or any part thereof, shall remain unpaid at the expiration of two years from the date of service of notice of such assessment shall be subject to sale therefor under the same conditions and penalties which are imposed by existing laws for the nonpayment of general taxes; and if any property assessed as herein provided for shall become liable to sale for any other assessment or tax whatever, then the assessments levied under this section shall become immediately due and payable, and the property against which they are levied may be sold therefor, together with the accrued interest thereon, and the cost of advertising, to the date of such sale. Property-owners who request improvements under the permit system shall deposit in advance with the Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia an amount equal to one-half the estimated cost of such improvements, and in such cases it shall not be necessary to give the notice hereinbefore provided for. All moneys received by the Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia for work done upon the request of property-owners, as herein provided for, shall be deposited by him in the United States Treasury to the credit of the permit fund. Upon the completion of work done as aforesaid at the request of property-owners, the commissioners shall repay to the then current appropriation for assessment and permit work, out of the permit fund, a sum equivalent to one-half of the cost of the work, and shall return to the depositors, from the same fund, as application may be made therefor, any surplus that may remain over and above one-half of the cost of the work. All sums received by the collector under the provisions of this section on account of assessment work, and in payment of assessments heretofore made prior to August 7, 1894, for compulsory permit work, shall be credited to the appropriation for assessment and permit work for the fiscal years in which they are collected: Provided further, That the costs of service connections with water-mains and sewers shall be assessed against the lots for which said connections are made, and shall be collected in the same manner and upon the same conditions as to notice as herein provided for assessment work. (Aug. 7, 1894, 28 Stat. 247, ch. 232; Feb. 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1198, ch. 246, § 9.)

AMENDMENT

The act of Feb. 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1198, ch. 246, reduced the rate of interest from 8 percent. per annum to 6 percent.

This same act also provided for interest at the rate of 12 percent. on all instalments not paid within the time provided in this section, see § 7–630.

§ 7–611 [12: 80]. Paving or repairing roadway of streets, avenues, and roads—Maintenance and improvements—Cost—Assessment.

Whenever under appropriations made by Congress, the roadway of any street, avenue, or road in the District of Columbia is improved by laying a new pavement thereon or completely resurfacing the same not less than one square in extent, from curb to curb, or from gutter to gutter where no curb exists, where the material used is sheet asphalt, asphalt block, asphaltic or bituminous macadam, concrete, or other fixed roadway pavement, such proportion of the total cost of the work, including all expenses of the assessment, to be made as prescribed by section 7–612, shall be charged against and become a lien upon the abutting property, and assessments therefor shall be levied pro rata according to the linear frontage of said property on the street, avenue, or road, or portion thereof upon the roadway of which said new pavement or resurfacing is laid: Provided, That there shall be excepted from such assessment the cost of paving the roadway space included within the intersection of streets, avenues, and roads, as said intersections are included within the building lines projected, and also the cost of paving the space within such roadways for which street railway companies are responsible under their charters or under law on streets, avenues, or roads where such railways have been or shall be constructed.

All of the expenses of maintenance and repairs shall be paid from the revenues of the District of Columbia and in addition, such sums as may be appropriated out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as relieving street-railway companies from bearing one-half the expense of paving streets or avenues between the exterior rails of the tracks of their roads in the District of Columbia and for a distance of two feet from and exterior to such tracks on each side thereof and of keeping the same in repair, as required by section 7–604. AMENDMENTS

The first paragraph of this section and the first sentence of the second paragraph are from act of July 21, 1914, cited to the text, and the last sentence is from act of July 29, 1914, also cited in the history line.

This section formerly contained the 60–40 provision for the division of the expense of maintenance and repair of streets found in the act of June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, § 1, but this provision was repealed by the act of May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8.

It also provided that street railway companies should bear all the expense of paving between tracks and two feet beyond each rail, but the act of Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 759, ch. 10, § 3, provided that street railway companies should bear only half of this expense.

Lump-sum appropriations are now made for the District and specific sums assigned to the various agencies and projects. See appropriation acts of April 4, 1938, 52 Stat. 156, ch. 62; July 15, 1939, 53 Stat. 1004, ch. 281; June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION TO CITY STREET

This act applies to a city or village street, not to a country road, for it is unusual to speak of squares or curbs when referring to a road of that character. Rudolph v. Knox (52 App. D. C. 33, 280 Fed. 1007).

If the paving of an avenue be treated as an original improvement, converting a highway into a paved city street, its constitutional infirmities are emphasized by reason of the existence of physical conditions forbidding any equal, fair, or equitable application of the frontage rule of taxing benefits. If considered as a repair of the avenue, in the form of repaving, its validity must be condemned as a general city improvement. Johnson v. Rudolph (57 App. D. C. 29, 16 Fed. (2d) 525).

FRONT-FOOT RULE

Size, shape, improvements, or favorable location of the instant property is not the test to be applied in determining the validity of an assessment under the front-foot rule. The test is the relation of the property to other properties facing on the avenue, and in the immediate vicinity. Taliaferro v. Railway Terminal Warehouse Co. (59 App. D. C. 376, 43 Fed. (2d) 271).

Paving assessment on triangular shaped lot on frontage basis is invalid under the Borland Amendment. Dougherty v. American Security & Trust Co. (59 App. D. C. 301, 40 Fed. (2d) 813); Crosby v. Dodge (60 App. D. C. 36, 46 Fed. (2d) 727); Crosby v. Moebs (61 App. D. C. 42, 57 Fed. (2d) 408); Reichelderfer v. Hechinger (61 App. D. C. 104, 57 Fed. (2d) 943); Gotwals v. Miller (61 App. D. C. 402, 59 Fed. (2d) 1051).

The half cost of the paving or repaving of a roadway between the side thereof and the center thereof with sheet asphalt, asphalt block, granite block, vitrified block, cement concrete, bituminous concrete, macadam, or other form of pavement shall be assessed against the property abutting the side of the street so improved, such assessments to be levied and collected as provided on September 1, 1916, as to alleys and sidewalks: Provided, That the advertisement by publication of the commissioners' intention to do such work and the formal hearing in respect thereto required by law as to alley and sidewalk improvements shall not be required as to roadway improvements.

There shall be included in the area the cost of which is assessable hereunder only the roadway area abutting the property between lines normally projected from the building line of the street being improved at the points of intersection with the building lines of intersecting streets.

There shall be excluded from the cost of the roadway work to be assessed hereunder:

First. The cost of all such work beyond a line twenty feet from the side thereof.

Second. The cost of all such work within the space within which street railway companies are required to pave by law, and nothing herein contained shall be construed as relieving street-railway companies from bearing one-half the cost of paving and repairing streets and avenues between lines two feet exterior to the outer rails of their tracks, as required by section 7–604.

Third. That no frontage of abutting property, on which a legal assessment for paving or repaving has been levied and paid hereunder, shall be liable to any further assessment hereunder on account of the replacement of such pavement. (Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 716, ch. 433, § 8; Feb. 9, 1927, 44 Stat. 1064, ch. 87; Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 759, ch. 10, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is probably superseded in part by §§ 7–622 to 7–634, and note to § 7–604.

AMENDMENTS

The last paragraph of this section was added by act of 1927.

Subdivision "second" originally provided that street railway companies should bear all the expense of paving between tracks and two feet beyond each exterior rail, but the act of Jan. 14, 1933, 47 Stat. 759, ch. 10, § 3, provides that street railway companies shall bear only half of this expense.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FRONT-FOOT RULE

Special repaving assessment on basis of frontage, under this act, invalid. Reichelderfer v. Hechinger (61 App. D. C. 104, 57 Fed. (2d) 943).

§ 7–612a. Special assessments for curbs and gutters—Definition of gutter.

When any curb or gutter is laid, or any curb and gutter are laid, on any street, avenue, or road in the District of Columbia which said curb shall be constructed of concrete, stone, or other permanent type of construction, or which said gutter shall be constructed of concrete, brick, granite block, asphalt on a concrete base, or other permanent type of construction, one-half of the total cost thereof shall be charged against and become a lien upon the property abutting the side of the street, avenue, or road, or portion thereof, so improved, and assessments therefor shall be levied pro rata according to the linear frontage of said property on the side of the street, avenue, or road, or portion thereof, so improved: Provided, however, That no assessments shall be levied hereunder on account of the replacement of any curb or gutter or curb and gutter of a permanent type of construction. When any gutter shall be constructed, in whole or in part, as an integral portion of a permanent type of roadway of any street, avenue, or road, so much of said roadway as lies within two feet of the curb line shall be considered as a gutter for the purposes of sections 7–612a to 7–612d. (May 25, 1943, 57 Stat. 83, ch. 98, § 1.)

§ 7–612b. Same—Computation of assessment.

The total assessment levied hereunder against any abutting property shall not exceed the number of square feet of area of said property multiplied by 1 per centum of the linear front-foot assessment and shall not exceed 10 per centum of the value of the said abutting property, exclusive of improvements thereon, as assessed for the purpose of taxation at the time of the laying of the curb or gutter or curb and gutter for which said assessment is levied. In computing assessments hereunder against unsubdivided land according to the assessed valuation, there shall be excluded from the computation land lying back more than one hundred feet from the street, avenue, or road being improved where the depth is even, and where the depth is uneven the average depth shall be taken in computation but not to exceed more than one hundred feet. (May 25, 1943, 57 Stat. 83, ch. 98, § 2.)

§ 7–612c. Same—Property abutting two or more streets, avenues, or roads.

When any property abuts two or more streets, avenues, or roads, the assessments against said property levied hereunder shall not exceed in the aggregate, together with any legal assessments heretofore levied and paid for paving, curbing, and guttering of or on said streets, avenues, or roads, under the authority of sections 7–611, 7–612, relating to assessments for the paving of streets, avenues, and roads, or under section 7–606, relating to assessments for laying curbs, or under sections 7–622 to 7–625, 3½ cents per square foot of area of said property, or 20 per centum of the value of said property, exclusive of improvements thereon, as assessed for the purpose of taxation at the time of the laying of the curb or gutter or curb and gutter for which said assessment is levied. (May 25, 1943, 57 Stat. 83, ch. 98, § 3.)

§ 7–612d. Same—Roadway improvements and curbs and gutters completed after May 25, 1943.

No assessments shall be levied under sections 7–622 to 7–625, for any roadway improvement completed subsequent to May 25, 1943, but for curbs or gutters, or curbs and gutters, completed subsequent to May 25, 1943, assessments shall be levied against the abutting property in accordance with the provisions of sections 7–612a to 7–612d. (May 25, 1943, 57 Stat. 83, ch. 98, § 4.)

§ 7–613 [12: 82]. Width of pavement of streets.

No street or avenue in the District of Columbia shall be paved less in width than the width provided by law except by express authority of Congress upon estimates to be submitted to Congress by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 2, 1907, 34 Stat. 1127, ch. 2510.)

§ 7–614 [12: 83]. Street railway companies to keep tracks free of snow and ice.

Every street railway company in the District of Columbia shall keep its tracks and the spaces between and for a distance of two feet outside thereof at the crossings of the several streets which intersect their railroads, at all times free from snow and ice, and shall not spoil or deposit the same in such location and quantity as to impede or hinder traffic. And in the event of any street railway company failing and refusing to comply with this section, the necessary work may be done by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, in their discretion, after notice to said company, the cost to be paid from the appropriation available for cleaning snow and ice from streets, sidewalks, crosswalks, and gutters and collected from such street railway company in the manner provided for in section 7–604, and shall be deposited to the credit of the appropriation for the fiscal year in which it is collected. (June 26, 1912, 37 Stat. 152, ch. 182.)

§ 7–615 [12: 84]. Cutting trenches in highways—Reservation or public space without permit prohibited—Inapplicable to public buildings.

It shall be unlawful for any person to make any cut or trench in any highway, reservation, or public space in the District of Columbia, or to disturb or remove any public work or material therein, without a permit so to do from the commissioners of the District of Columbia: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to public buildings of the United States, or to diminish the authority of the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds, or the Architect of the Capitol. (June 18, 1898, 30 Stat. 477, ch. 467, § 7.)

§ 7–616 [12: 85]. Penalty—Prosecution.

Any person violating any of the provisions of sections 7–615 and 7–616 shall, on conviction thereof in the police court, be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars; and in default of payment of such fine such person shall be confined in the workhouse of the District of Columbia for a period not exceeding six months; and all prosecutions shall be in the police court of said District, in the name of the District of Columbia. (June 18, 1898, 30 Stat. 477, ch. 467, § 8.)

§ 7–617 [12: 86]. Use of bituminous macadam authorized.

The use of bituminous macadam is authorized on streets, avenues, and roads to be improved or paved. (June 26, 1912, 37 Stat. 150, ch. 182.)

§ 7–618 [12: 87]. Use of portable asphalt plant.

The portable asphalt plant purchased under the appropriation for repairs of streets, avenues, and alleys for the fiscal year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, may be operated under the immediate direction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in doing such work of resurfacing and repairs to asphalt pavements, in the repair of macadam streets by constructing on such macadam streets and asphalt macadam wearing surface and in the construction of asphaltic macadam surfaces on concrete base, as in their judgment may be economically performed by the use of said plant: Provided, That at no time shall more work of resurfacing and repairs be done with the portable asphalt plant than can be accomplished with the single portable plant owned on March 4, 1913, by the District of Columbia. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 948, ch. 150.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The District of Columbia Appropriation Act for 1933 (June 29, 1932, 47 Stat. 354, ch. 308) contained the following provision: "The Commissioners of the District of Columbia, should they deem such action to be to the advantage of the District of Columbia, are hereby authorized to purchase a municipal asphalt plant at a cost not to exceed $30,000."

The same authorization was continued in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for 1934 (48 Stat. 229, ch. 93) and is found in the Appropriation Act of June 12, 1940 (54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, § 1).

§ 7–619 [12: 88]. Unexpended allotments for street paving made available for succeeding year.

When as many streets and entire blocks of streets in any section have been paved as the amount allotted to that section will permit, and there still remains a balance insufficient to pave an entire block of the street provided for pavement upon the schedule, such balance shall remain available and be added to the allotment for that section for the next succeeding year. (June 6, 1900, 31 Stat. 559, ch. 789.)

§ 7–620 [12: 89]. Limitation on contracts of District Commissioners.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are prohibited from incurring or contracting liabilities on behalf of the United States in the improvement of streets, avenues, and reservations beyond the amount of appropriations previously made by Congress, and from entering into any contract touching such improvements on behalf of the United States, except in pursuance of appropriations made by Congress. (R. S. § 1813; June 20, 1874, 18 Stat. 116, ch. 337.)

§ 7–621 [12: 90]. Contracts for repairs may be made for not more than 5 years.

Contracts for repairs to pavements may be made for periods not exceeding five years, and subject to annual appropriation therefor by Congress. (July 18, 1888, 25 Stat. 319, ch. 676.)

§ 7–622 [12: 90a]. Assessment when roadway of street, avenue, or road is paved—One-half of cost assessed—Improvement of one-half only of roadway.

Whenever under the appropriations made by Congress, the roadway of any street, avenue, or road in the District of Columbia is paved or repaved with sheet asphalt, asphalt block, asphaltic or bituminous concrete (except penetration macadam), cement concrete, granite block, vitrified brick, or other form of permanent pavement, one-half of the total cost thereof shall be charged against and become a lien upon the abutting property, and assessments therefor shall be levied pro rata according to the linear frontage of said property on the street, avenue, or road, or portion thereof, upon the roadway of which said new pavement or repaving is laid: Provided, however, That when such new pavement or repaving is laid solely on one side of the center line of such roadway, the one-half cost thereof shall be assessed, as herein provided, against the property abutting the side of the street, avenue, or road, or portion thereof, so improved. (Feb. 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1197, ch. 246, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The provisions of §§ 7–622 to 7–634, apparently supersede, in whole or in part, §§ 7–604, 7–606, 7–611, 7–612.

The maximum linear front foot assessment levied hereunder shall not exceed $3.50 per linear front foot. The total assessment levied hereunder against any abutting property shall not exceed the number of square feet of area of said property multiplied by 1 per centum of the linear front foot assessment, and shall not exceed 20 per centum of the value of the said abutting property, exclusive of improvements thereon, as assessed for the purpose of taxation at the time of the paving or repairing of the street, avenue, or road for which said assessment is levied. In computing assessments hereunder against unsubdivided land by the square foot or according to the assessed valuation, there shall be excluded from the computation land lying back more than one hundred feet from the street, avenue, or road being improved where the depth is even; where the depth is uneven, the average depth shall be taken in computation, but not to exceed one hundred feet. § 7–631 [12: 90j]. Protest of aggrieved property owner—Adjustment of assessment by Commissioners.

Any property-owner, aggrieved by any assessment levied under sections 7–622 to 7–633, may, within sixty days after service of notice of such assessment, file with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia a protest in writing against such assessment, accompanied by affidavits if he so desires, and if said commissioners find that the property of such owner so protesting is not benefited by the improvement for which said assessment is levied, or is benefited less than the amount of such assessment, or is unequally or inequitably assessed with relation to other property abutting such improvement, said commissioners shall abate, reduce, or adjust such assessment in accordance with such finding. In computing the sixty days provided in section 7–608, within which such assessment may be paid without interest, there shall be excluded therefrom the time between the date of the filing of any such protest and the date of action thereon by the commissioners. (Feb. 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1199, ch. 246, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PRIOR ASSESSMENTS, VALIDITY

Where Congress, in authorizing improvement of a particular street made finding of benefit to abutting property, the conclusiveness of the finding that benefits would be conferred on abutting landowners was not affected by fact that "existing law" in 1929 regarding assessments was replaced by this section. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. R. v. Hazen, 1940 (116 F. 2d 543, 73 App. D. C. 37).

PRIOR LAW

Act of Feb. 25, 1929, 45 Stat. 1272, authorizing improvement of a particular street in District of Columbia and providing for assessments against abutting property owners in accordance with the existing law, for protest to Commissioners of District by abutting property owners, does not negative finding that the act fixed with particularity location of the improvement, and of property to be benefited, and set up a method of assessment which required only mathematical computation for its application, but rather the provision was merely a recognition that in unusual situations application of general method of assessment may be inequitable. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. R. v. Hazen, 1940 (116 F. 2d 543, 73 App. D. C. 37).

Should any provision of sections 7–622 to 7–633 be decided by the courts to be unconstitutional or invalid, the validity of sections 7–622 to 7–633 as a whole or of any part thereof other than the part decided to be unconstitutional shall not be affected. (Feb. 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1199, ch. 246, § 12.)

REPEAL

Section 13 of act of February 20, 1931, 46 Stat. 1199, ch. 246, read as follows: "All laws and parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act (§§ 7–622 to 7–633) enacted prior to Feb. 20, 1931, are hereby repealed."

§ 7–634 [12: 90n]. Not applicable to assessments levied prior to 1885.

(a) The provisions of sections 7–626, 7–627, and 7–628 shall not preclude the levying of assessments hereunder if the improvement for which such prior assessment was levied, or, if the original paving, curbing, or curbing and guttering, laid at the whole cost of the owner, were completed prior to January 1, 1885.

(b) The provision of section 7–629, relating to legal assessments heretofore levied, shall not be applicable where said prior assessments were levied for any improvement completed prior to January 1, 1885.

Sec.
7–701. Street lighting—Rates for street lighting—Cost and maintenance of lighting facilities—Powers of Commissioners.
7–702. Overhead wires prohibited.
7–703. Deductions for failure to provide required illumination—Testing facilities.
7–704. Contracts for gas and electric lighting not required.
7–705. Penalty for failure to furnish, erect, maintain, move, or discontinue street lamps.
7–706. Extension of gas-mains for maintenance of street lamps—Cost.
7–707. Regulating hours of lighting of street lamps.
7–708. Washington Terminal Company to pay for certain street lighting.
7–709. Railroads to pay for certain street lighting.
7–710. Increase in number of street lamps authorized.

§ 7–701 [12: 91]. Street lighting—Rates for street lighting—Cost and maintenance of lighting facilities—Powers of Commissioners.

No more than the following rates shall be paid for lighting avenues, streets, roads, alleys, and public spaces.

For mantle gas lamps of sixty candlepower, eighteen dollars and forty cents per lamp per annum.

For mantle gas lamps of not less than one hundred and twenty candlepower, twenty-seven dollars per lamp per annum.

For street designation lamps, using flat-flame burners, consuming not more than two and one-half cubic feet of gas per hour, or eight candlepower incandescent electric lamps, with posts and lanterns furnished by the District of Columbia, ten dollars per lamp per annum.

For forty candlepower, fifty watt, incandescent electric lamps on overhead wires, fifteen dollars per lamp per annum.

For forty candlepower, fifty watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, nineteen dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For sixty candlepower, seventy-five watt, incandescent electric lamps on overhead wires, seventeen dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For sixty candlepower, seventy-five watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, twenty-three dollars per lamp per annum.

For eighty candlepower, one hundred watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, twenty-six dollars per lamp per annum.

For one hundred candlepower, one hundred and twenty-five watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, twenty-seven dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For one hundred and fifty candlepower, one hundred and eighty-seven watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, thirty-six dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For two hundred candlepower, two hundred and fifty watt, incandescent electric lamps on underground wires, forty-six dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For four glower Nernst lamps on underground wires, fifty-two dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For six and six-tenths ampere, five hundred and twenty-eight watt, direct-current, series-inclosed arc lamps, eighty dollars per lamp per annum.

For five amperes, five hundred and fifty watt, direct-current, multiple-inclosed arc lamps, eighty dollars per lamp per annum.

For four ampere, three hundred and twenty watt, magnetite, or other arc lamps of equal illuminating value acceptable to the commissioners of the District of Columbia, on overhead wires, fifty-nine dollars per lamp per annum.

For four ampere, three hundred and twenty watt magnetite, or other arc lamps of equal illuminating value acceptable to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, on underground wires, seventy-two dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For six and six-tenths ampere, five hundred watt magnetite, or other arc lamps of equal illuminating value acceptable to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, on overhead wires, eighty-four dollars per lamp per annum.

For six and six-tenths ampere, five hundred watt magnetite, or other arc lamps of equal illuminating value acceptable to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, on underground wires, ninety-seven dollars and fifty cents per lamp per annum.

For flame arc lamps, five hundred watt, General Electric type, or other arc lamps of equal illuminating value acceptable to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, one hundred and fifty dollars per lamp per annum.

For the rates named above it shall be the duty of each gaslight company and each electric-light company doing business in the District of Columbia to erect and maintain such street lamps as the Commissioners of said District may direct; and each such company shall furnish, install, and maintain all posts, lamps, lanterns, burners, wires, cable, conduits, gas pipes, street designations, and fixtures necessary for the respective lamps maintained by each of them, including lighting and extinguishing lamps, and repairing, painting, and cleaning.

The cost of each lamp-post for incandescent electric lighting furnished by any lighting company under the above rates shall not exceed fifteen dollars, except as hereinafter provided, which cost shall include only the lamp-post, the globe, the ornamental top, and the street-designation frame and signs. All other fixtures, parts, fittings, lamps, sockets, wires, cables, and appurtenances necessary for the lamps maintained by said lighting company on said posts, including the cost of erection, shall not be included in said cost.

The cost of each lamp-post for gaslighting furnished by any lighting company under the above rates shall not exceed fifteen dollars, except as hereinafter provided, which cost shall include only the lamp-post and the street-designation frame and signs. All other fixtures, parts, fittings, burners, lamps, pipes, and appurtenances necessary for the lamps maintained by said lighting company on said posts, including the cost of erection, shall not be included in said cost.

The cost of each lamp-post for arc lighting furnished by any lighting company under the above rates shall not exceed fifty dollars, except as hereinafter provided, which cost shall include only the lamp-post, the street-designation frame and signs, and the arm or top from which the lamp is hung. All other fixtures, parts, fittings, lamps, cables, wires, and appurtenances necessary for the lamps maintained by said lighting company on said posts, including the cost of erection, shall not be included in said cost.

Each lamp-post and its equipment shall be of a design and quality acceptable to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

For each such lamp-post furnished by a lighting company by direction of the District Commissioners which shall cost in excess of fifteen dollars for gas or electric incandescent lamps, or which shall cost in excess of fifty dollars for electric arc lamps, the company furnishing the same shall receive, in addition to the above rates, eleven per centum per annum on such additional or excess cost.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized, in their discretion, to purchase or construct from street-lighting appropriations made in the Act of June 26, 1912 (37 Stat. 181), posts, lanterns, street designations, and all necessary fixtures or appurtenances for any of the systems of lighting above named: Provided, That whenever the said commissioners shall furnish a lamp-post including only the globe, the ornamental top, and the street-designation frame and signs for the electric incandescent lamps, or including only the street-designation frame and signs for gas lamps, or including only the street-designation frame and signs and the arm or top for arc lamps, one dollar and sixty-five cents per lamp per annum for gas or electric incandescent lamps and four dollars and forty cents per lamp per annum for electric arc lamps shall be deducted from the rates above fixed.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are further authorized, in their discretion, to adopt other forms of electric street lighting than those named, in which event payments under appropriations made in the Act of June 26, 1912 (37 Stat. 181), shall be made for the lighting service rendered at not to exceed three cents per kilowatt-hour for current consumed, and, in addition thereto, eleven per centum per annum of the cost to the lighting company of furnishing and installing lamps, posts, street designations, fixtures, and the cable from lamps to the nearest point of current supply, and a fair sum for the cost of maintenance.

When ordered to do so by the said commissioners, lighting companies shall move and readjust any lamps maintained by them at the following rates:

For each electric arc lamp, ten dollars.

For each electric incandescent lamp, five dollars.

For each gas lamp moved not more than six feet, two dollars and fifty cents.

For each gas lamp moved more than six feet, four dollars.

For each gas lamp raised or lowered to new grade, one dollar and fifty cents.

When ordered by the commissioners to do so, lighting companies in the District of Columbia shall discontinue any public lamps maintained by them without further payment therefor, and shall remove from the streets, at their own expense, all posts, lanterns, and fixtures connected therewith. (Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 1008, ch. 192, § 7; June 26, 1912, 37 Stat. 181, ch. 182, § 7.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The first part of the 27th and the last part of the 28th paragraphs of this section are probably temporary and obsolete.

The foregoing section fixes the rate therein specified for the fiscal year 1913 only. Successive appropriation acts have specified that the appropriations should be expended in accordance with the provisions of this section and of § 7 of the act of March 2, 1911 (36 Stat. 1008). The rates in both acts are identical. The act of May 10, 1926 (44 Stat. 430), provided that for the fiscal year 1927 "this appropriation shall not be available for the payment of rates for electric street lighting in excess of 87½ per centum of rates heretofore established by law, and rates established by the commissioners in accordance with law, and payment for electric current for new forms of street lighting shall not exceed 2 cents per kilowatt-hour for current consumed." The reduced rates were promulgated by the Public Utilities Commission effective July 1, 1926. (Orders Nos. 633 and 634 of June 30 and July 1, 1926.) Public Utilities Order No. 656 of December 21, 1926, established new rates for electric service, including street lighting, effective January 1, 1927, but the basic rates remain as above set out.

The act of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, provided that the sum appropriated therein for street lighting should be expended in accordance with the provisions of the appropriation acts for the fiscal years 1912 and 1913 (36 Stat. 1008–1011, §§ 7, 8, and 37 Stat. 181–184, § 7) and other laws applicable thereto.

§ 7–706 [12: 96]. Extension of gas mains for maintenance of street lamps—Cost.

Each gas company in the District of Columbia shall, at its sole and entire expense, make reasonable extensions of its gas-mains whenever the said extensions shall be necessary for maintaining street lamps for the public safety and comfort, and the said commissioners shall regulate the location and depth of the said gas-mains in the streets, avenues, roads, alleys, and spaces of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1893, 27 Stat. 544, ch. 199; May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 996, ch. 901, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1928 repealed the requirement that "any failure to comply with this provision shall be reported to Congress by the Commissioners."

§ 7–707 [12: 98a]. Regulating hours of lighting of street lamps.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia, subject to appropriations therefor, are hereby authorized and empowered to require that all public and other lamps under their control be lighted during such hours as in their judgment will most effectively promote the safety and convenience of the public. (Mar. 6, 1939, 53 Stat. 511, ch. 7.)

§ 7–708 [12: 99]. Washington Terminal Company to pay for certain street lighting.

The Washington Terminal Company, its successors, or transferees shall pay to the District for the lighting of the streets, avenues, alleys, and grounds over and under which its right of way may cross, as well as for the lighting of those streets, avenues, alleys, and grounds bordering on its right of way, under the direction and control of the commissioners; and in case of default of payment of such bills, actions at law may be maintained by the District of Columbia against said terminal company or its successors, or transferees therefor: Provided, That not more than eighty-five dollars per annum shall be paid for any electric arc light burning from fifteen minutes after sunset to forty-five minutes before sunrise, and operated wholly by means of underground wire; and each arc light shall be of not less than one thousand actual candlepower: Provided further, That no more than eighteen dollars per annum shall be paid for each gas-lamp equipped with a self-regulating flat-flame burner so adjusted as to secure under all ordinary variations of pressure and density a consumption of five cubic feet of gas per hour, nor more than twenty dollars and eighty-five cents per annum for each gas and twenty-two dollars and eighty cents per annum for each oil lamp equipped with an incandescent mantle burner of not less than sixty candlepower. (May 26, 1908, 35 Stat. 288 and 287, ch. 198.)

§ 7–709 [12: 100]. Railroads to pay for certain street lighting.

All railroads other than street railroads shall pay to the District of Columbia for the lighting, under the direction and control of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, of the public roads, streets, avenues, and alleys, for their full width, through which their tracks may be laid, for the length of the street occupied by the said tracks, whether the said tracks be laid above, below, or at grade; as well as for the lighting of the subways and bridges over or under which the tracks of said railroads pass; and in default of payment of such bills, actions at law may be maintained by the District of Columbia against said railroads or their successors, transferees, or lessees therefor: Provided, That nothing herein shall be held to repeal section 7–708. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 953, ch. 150.)

The proper authorities are directed to increase from time to time, as the public good may require, the number of street-lamps on any of the streets, lanes, alleys, public ways, and grounds, in the city of Washington, and to do any and all things pertaining to the well lighting of the city. (R. S., D. C., § 233.)

Chapter 8.—REMOVAL OF SNOW AND ICE

Sec.

7–801. Snow and ice to be removed from sidewalks within fire limits by owner or occupant of abutting property.
7–802. Removal by Commissioners from walks adjacent to public buildings—Making safe with sand or ashes.
7–803. Removal from sidewalks adjacent to Federal buildings—Making safe with sand or ashes.
7–804. Temporary use of sand and ashes.
7–805. Removal by Commissioners upon default by owner or occupant—Expense.
7–806. Suit for recovery of cost.

§ 7–801 [19: 71]. Snow and ice to be removed from sidewalks within fire limits by owner or occupant of abutting property.

It shall be the duty of every person, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or syndicate in charge or control of any building or lot of land within the fire limits of the District of Columbia, fronting or abutting on a paved sidewalk, whether as owner, tenant, occupant, lessee, or otherwise, within the first eight hours of daylight after the ceasing to fall of any snow or sleet, to remove and clear away, or cause to be removed and cleared away, such snow or sleet from so much of said sidewalk as is in front of or abuts on said building or lot of land. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 845, ch. 318, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY TO PEDESTRIANS

This section and section 805 of this title do not purport affirmatively to make property owner liable to respond in damages to a pedestrian who is injured by falling on snow or ice which owner has not removed from abutting sidewalk. Radinsky v. Ellis (App. D. C. 1948, 167 F. 2d 745).

§ 7–802 [19: 72]. Removal by Commissioners from walks adjacent to public buildings—Making safe with sand or ashes.

It shall be the duty of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia within the first eight hours of daylight after the ceasing to fall of any snow or sleet, or after the accumulation of ice on the paved sidewalks within the fire limits of the District of Columbia, in front of or adjacent to all public buildings, public squares, reservations, and open spaces in the said District owned or held by lease by said District, to cause such snow, sleet, and ice to be removed; and also to cause the same to be removed from all crosswalks of improved streets and places of intersection of alleys with paved sidewalks, and also from all paved sidewalks or crosswalks used as public thoroughfares through all public squares, reservations, or open spaces within the fire limits of said District owned or held by lease by the District of Columbia; but in the event of inability to remove such accumulation of snow, sleet, and ice without injury to the sidewalk, by reason of the hardening thereof, it shall be their duty, within the first eight hours of daylight after the hardening thereof, to make reasonably safe for travel, or cause to be made reasonably safe for travel, by the sprinkling of sand or ashes thereon, such paved sidewalks, crosswalks, and places of intersection of alleys with paved sidewalks, and shall, as soon thereafter as the weather shall permit, thoroughly clean, or cause to be thoroughly cleaned, said sidewalks, crosswalks, and places of intersection of alleys with paved sidewalks. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 845, ch. 318, § 2.)

§ 7–803 [19: 73]. Removal from sidewalks adjacent to Federal buildings—Making safe with sand or ashes.

It shall be the duty of the Director of National Park Service within the first eight hours of daylight after the ceasing to fall of any snow or sleet, or after the accumulation of ice upon the paved sidewalks within the fire limits of the District of Columbia, to remove or cause to be removed from such sidewalks as are in front of or adjacent to all buildings owned or leased by the United States, except the Capitol buildings and grounds and the Congressional Library building, and from all paved sidewalks or crosswalks used as public thoroughfares in front of, around, or through all public squares, reservations, or open spaces within the fire limits of the District of Columbia, owned or leased by the United States, such snow, sleet, and ice; but in the event of inability to remove such accumulation of snow, sleet, and ice, by reason of the hardening thereof, without injury to the sidewalk, it shall be his duty, within the first eight hours of daylight after the hardening of such snow, sleet, and ice, to make reasonably safe for travel, or cause to be made reasonably safe for travel, by the sprinkling of sand or ashes thereon, such paved sidewalks and crosswalks, and shall, as soon thereafter as the weather shall permit, thoroughly clean said sidewalks and crosswalks. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 845, ch. 318, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section originally placed the duty of removing ice and snow from sidewalks of public buildings on the Chief Engineer of the United States Army. Act of February 26, 1925, 43 Stat. 983, ch. 339, § 3, transferred the duties imposed upon the Chief of Engineers to the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital. Ex. Or. No. 6166, June 10, 1933, transferred the functions of the Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital to the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations. Act of March 2, 1934, 48 Stat. 389, ch. 38, § 1, changed the name of the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations to the National Park Service.

§ 7–804 [19: 74]. Temporary use of sand and ashes.

In case the snow, sleet, and ice can not be removed from so much of the paved sidewalks within the fire limits of the District of Columbia as front upon or abut such buildings or lots of land as are not owned or held by lease by the District of Columbia or the United States without injury to said sidewalks, because of the hardening thereof, the person, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or syndicate in charge or control of such buildings or lots of land, whether as owner, tenant, occupant, lessee, or otherwise, shall, within the first eight hours of daylight after the same has formed, make reasonably safe for travel, or cause to be made reasonably safe for travel, by the sprinkling of sand or ashes thereon, said sidewalks, and shall, as soon thereafter as the weather shall permit, thoroughly clean said sidewalks. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 845, ch. 318, § 4.)

§ 7–805 [19: 75]. Removal by Commissioners upon default by owner or occupant—Expense.

In the event of the failure of any person, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or syndicate to remove or cause to be removed such snow or ice from the said sidewalks, or to make the same reasonably safe for travel, or cause the same to be made reasonably safe for travel, as hereinbefore provided, it shall be the duty of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, as soon as practicable after the expiration of the time herein provided for the removal thereof, or for the making of the said sidewalks reasonably safe for travel, to cause the snow and ice in front of such building or lot of land to be removed or to cause the same to be made reasonably safe, as hereinbefore directed to be done by such person, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or syndicate in charge or control of such building or lot of land, and the amount of the expense of such removal or such work of making the said sidewalks reasonably safe for travel, shall in each instance be ascertained and certified by the said commissioners to the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 846, ch. 318, § 5.)

The corporation counsel is hereby directed and authorized to sue for and recover from such person, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or syndicate, the amount of such expense in the name of the District of Columbia, together with a penalty not exceeding $25 for each offense, with costs, and when so recovered the amount shall be deposited to the credit of the District of Columbia. (Sept. 16, 1922, 42 Stat. 846, ch. 318, § 6.)

Chapter 9.—RENTAL OF VAULTS UNDER SIDEWALKS

Sec.
7–901. Authority conferred on Commissioners.

§ 7–901 [25: 411]. Authority conferred on Commissioners.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to assess and collect rent from all users of space occupied under the sidewalks and streets in the District of Columbia, which said space is occupied or used in connection with the business of said users. (Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 716, ch. 433, § 7.)

Sec.
7–1001. Signs on sidewalk or parking prohibited—Number of signs—Removal—Penalties.

§ 7–1001 [19: 91]. Signs on sidewalk or parking prohibited—Number of signs—Removal—Penalties.

No sign or advertisement relating to the sale, rent, or lease of land or premises shall be located on the sidewalk or parking of any street, avenue, or road in the District of Columbia. One painted or printed sign or advertisement for the sale, rent, or lease of land or premises may, with the written consent of the owner or legal representative of the owner, be placed, by any one of not exceeding three real estate agents, on any lot, piece, or parcel of land abutting on a street, avenue, or road in said District, or attached to the exterior of any building fronting thereon. The commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to use the police authority vested in them, to require the removal of any sign or advertisement in violation of this provision, and to institute prosecutions, in the police court of the District of Columbia, against persons violating the provisions hereof, and every such person, upon conviction of such violation, shall be fined in the sum of not less than $5 nor more than $25. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 974, ch. 150, § 7.)

7–1102. Construction or maintenance outside fire limits.
7–1103. Notice to remove—Service.
7–1104. Penalties.
7–1105. Notice by publication—Removal by inspector of buildings—Cost, assessment.

§ 7–1101 [19: 131]. Construction or maintenance within fire limits.

No fence, barrier, or obstruction consisting or made, in whole or in part, of what is commonly called barbed wire shall be erected, constructed, or maintained along the line of or in or upon any street, avenue, alley, road, or other public walk, driveway, or public or private parking within the fire limits of the District of Columbia. (July 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 724, ch. 640, § 1.)

§ 7–1102 [19: 132]. Construction or maintenance outside fire limits.

No fence, barrier, or obstruction made, in whole or in part of what is commonly called barbed wire shall be erected, constructed, or maintained within the said District of Columbia, outside of the fire limits, along the line of or in or upon any street, avenue, alley, road, or other public walk, driveway, or public or private parking without a permit therefor from the commissioners of said District. (July 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 724, ch. 640, § 2.)

§ 7–1103 [19: 133]. Notice to remove—Service.

Whenever, under the provisions of sections 7–1101 and 7–1102, any barbed wire in use in whole or in part on July 8, 1898, for a fence, barrier, or obstruction, along the line of or in or upon any street, avenue, alley, road, or other public walk, driveway, or public or private parking within the District of Columbia is required to be removed, said wire shall be removed by the owner of the building or other property upon which such fence, barrier, or obstruction exists, or his or her agent, within thirty days from the service by the inspector of buildings of said District of a notice, served in like manner as notices in regard to assessment and permit work are required by law to be served, directing the owner, agent, or other person or persons owning or controlling the land, structure, or other property upon which such fence or barrier exists to remove the same. (July 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 724, ch. 640, § 3.)

Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall, upon conviction thereof in the police court of said District, be fined not more than ten dollars for each day such violation shall continue. (July 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 725, ch. 640, § 4.)

§ 7–1105 [19: 135]. Notice by publication—Removal by inspector of buildings—Cost, assessment.

In case the owner, agent, or other person or persons in control of the property along which such fence, barrier, or obstruction unlawfully exists can not be found within five days after the issue of such notice, the commissioners shall publish such notice twice a week for two successive weeks in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the District of Columbia. If within five days after the last publication of said notice the fence, barrier, or obstruction therein described be not removed, the inspector of buildings of said District shall immediately cause such fence, barrier, or obstruction to be removed, and the expense of such removal shall be paid out of the assessment and permit fund; and the cost of such removal, together with the cost of said advertising, shall be assessed against said property and collected as general taxes in said District are assessed and collected; and the funds from which said payments are made shall be reimbursed from such collections. (July 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 725, ch. 640, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Departure From Established Route

The title to the streets of Washington being in the United States, the authorization for a use of the streets by a railroad for its depots must be by act of Congress, and act of June 21, 1870 (16 Stat. 161, ch. 142), providing for a railroad extension from the terminus at Ninth Street by way of Maryland Avenue to the Long Bridge, does not, by construction, authorize the company to depart from Maryland Avenue on its way to the bridge. District of Columbia Commissioners v. Baltimore & P. R. Co. (114 U. S. 453, 29 L. Ed. 216, 5 Sup. Ct. 1098).

It shall be lawful for the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company to extend and construct, from time to time, branch tracks or sidings from the lines of railroad authorized hereunder, into any lot or lots adjacent to any street or avenue along which said lines of railroad are located, upon the application of the owner or owners of such lot or lots, to enable such owners to use their property for the purpose of coal, wood, or lumber yards, manufactories, warehouses, and other business enterprises: Provided, however, That no grade crossing of any street or avenue within the city of Washington shall be thereby created, but such connecting tracks shall be carried across such street or avenue in such manner as not to obstruct the free use thereof, and the plans of such connecting tracks shall in every case be first filed with and approved by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. (Feb. 12, 1901, 31 Stat. 772, ch. 353, § 10.)

§ 7–1212 [12: 121]. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company authorized to extend tracks and maintain additional stations.

In addition to the main or terminal station or depot, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, or the Washington Terminal Company may from time to time construct, establish, and maintain such additional stations or depots, for passengers or freight, as the company may deem necessary or useful in the conduct of its business, or for the accommodation of the freight and passenger traffic passing over the lines of railroad authorized by this act, at such point or points within said District as the commissioners of the District of Columbia shall approve: Provided, That no such station or depot within the city limits shall be located east of Second Street east, and west of North Capitol Street, and it shall be lawful for either of said companies to acquire, by gift, purchase, or condemnation, any land adjacent to any street or avenue along or upon which the lines of railroad and works hereby authorized shall be located, and hold and improve the same in such manner as it may deem necessary or beneficial to accommodate or promote the traffic on said railroad, and to extend and construct tracks of railroad into and upon any lands so acquired and connect the same with the tracks on such adjacent street or avenue: Provided, however, That no grade crossing of any street or avenue within the city of Washington shall be thereby created, but such connecting tracks shall be elevated and carried over the portion of such street or avenue crossed in such manner as not to obstruct the free use thereof, and the plans of such connecting tracks and elevated structure shall in every case be first filed with and approved by the commissioners of the District of Columbia. And it shall be lawful for said companies, or either of them, subject to the same conditions and restrictions, to extend and construct, from time to time, branch tracks or sidings from the lines of railroad authorized hereunder into any lot or lots adjacent to any street or avenue along which said lines of railroad are located, upon the application of the owner or owners of such lot or lots, to enable such owners to use their property for the purposes of coal, wood, or lumber yards, manufactories, warehouses, and other business enterprises. § 7–1214 [12: 123]. Streets to be under or over steam-railroad tracks—Cost of opening streets—Maintenance.

Any and all streets or highways within the District of Columbia now or hereafter planned or projected to cross any line of railroad, other than a street railway, in the District of Columbia, which may be hereafter opened to public use, shall be located, constructed, and maintained either beneath such railroad by a suitable subway, or above the same by a suitable viaduct bridge at such altitude as will not interfere with the free and safe operation thereof: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall require the location, construction, or maintenance of any such street or highway under or above any spur, industrial, switching or side track, or branch line of any railroad unless the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall find the same is necessary in the public safety. The cost and expense of opening said streets or highways within the limits of such railroad company's right of way, including the cost of constructing the portion of any viaduct bridge, within said limits, shall be borne and paid half by such railroad company, its successors and assigns, and half by the District of Columbia and the United States, but after construction the cost of maintenance shall be wholly borne and paid as in the case of other public highways in the District of Columbia; and the portions of such streets planned or projected as above which lie within a right of way belonging to such railroad company shall be dedicated by such company as a public thoroughfare when the portions of such street adjoining such right of way have been similarly dedicated or otherwise acquired. (Feb. 28, 1903, 32 Stat. 918, ch. 856, § 10; May 9, 1941, 55 Stat. 182, ch. 93, § 1.)

§ 7–1215 [12: 124]. Subways and viaducts to eliminate grade crossings authorized in discretion of Commissioners—Cost.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized whenever in their judgment it may be necessary for the public safety, and subject to appropriations made therefor by Congress, to construct subways or viaducts and approaches thereto, in accordance with plans and profiles of said works to be approved by them, to carry any street or highway crossing at grade any line of steam-railroad track or tracks in the District of Columbia, or any street or highway within the District of Columbia planned or projected to cross any such line of railroad, under or over said track or tracks: Provided, That one-half of the total cost of constructing any viaduct or subway and approaches thereto shall in each case be paid by the railroad company, its successors or assigns, whose tracks are so crossed; and in the event the rights of way of two or more railroad companies are so crossed said half cost as herein provided shall be paid by the said railroad companies, their successors or assigns, in proportion to the widths of their respective land holdings, to the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia for deposit to the credit of the District of Columbia, and the said half cost shall be valid and subsisting liens against the franchises and property of the railroad companies concerned and shall constitute a legal indebtedness against the said railroad companies in favor of the District of Columbia, and said liens may be enforced in the name of the District of Columbia by a bill in equity brought by the said commissioners in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or by any other legal proceeding against the said railroad companies: Provided, That no street railway company shall use the said subways, viaducts or any approaches thereto herein authorized for its tracks until said companies shall have paid to the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia, a sum equal to one-fourth of the total cost of constructing said viaducts and approaches, to be applied to the credit of the District of Columbia. No limitation shall run against claims made by the District of Columbia under the provisions of this section. The said commissioners are further authorized to acquire the necessary land, or any portion of the same, by purchase at such price or prices as in their judgment they may deem reasonable and fair, or, in their discretion, by condemnation in accordance with the provisions of sections 7–202 to 7–215 under a proceeding or proceedings in rem instituted in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia: Provided, That of the entire amount found to be due and awarded by the jury as damages for, and in respect of, the land to be condemned to carry the provisions of this section into effect, plus the costs and expenses of the proceeding or proceedings taken pursuant hereto, not less than one-half thereof shall be assessed by the jury as benefits, the amounts collected as benefits to be covered into the treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia. The authority to establish, construct, acquire, maintain, and operate the tracks, switch connections, extensions, turnouts, sidings, branches, spurs, and other facilities provided for in sections 7–1216 to 7–1224 is given upon the following conditions, to wit: The said facilities shall be open to any and all freight traffic by rail whether originating within or without the District of Columbia either on the said The Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington Railroad Company or any other common carrier railroad, upon such just, reasonable, and nondiscriminatory rates, terms, and conditions as may be embraced in public tariffs, subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission as provided for other rates under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act: Provided, That no greater charge shall be made for deliveries to be made upon said facilities than is or are or may be made for delivery of like traffic consigned for delivery at any other delivery point on The Philadelphia, Baltimore, and

Washington Railroad Company in the District of Columbia; special, free, or reduced rates or charges for deliveries of property consigned to the United States or any of its departments, bureaus, or subordinate branches or to or for use of the municipality of the District of Columbia not included: And provided further, That any common carrier by railroad now or hereafter authorized to operate in the District of Columbia shall, upon application to and approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, be permitted to use jointly all such facilities as provided in sections 7–1216 to 7–1224 on such terms and for such compensation as may be prescribed by the said Interstate Commerce Commission in accordance with the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended. (June 18, 1932, 47 Stat. 324, ch. 269, § 8.)

The right to alter, amend, or repeal sections 7–1216 to 7–1224 is reserved without regard to any payments required or agreements established under their terms. (June 18 1932, 47 Stat. 324, ch. 269, § 9.)

§ 7–1225 [12: 134]. Pennsylvania Railroad Company—Construction of switch connections authorized.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, operating lessee of all of the railroads and appurtenant properties of the Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington Railroad Company in the District of Columbia, be, and it is hereby, authorized to establish switch and siding connections with its existing siding tracks in square numbered 4263 (also shown as parcel 154/44) to cross West Virginia Avenue into and through square numbered 4105 along and adjacent to the existing main-line tracks, thence into and through square numbered 4104 and 4099, crossing New York Avenue by means of a suitable overhead bridge, thence to and through square numbered 4099 and the parcels of land known and identified on the plat books of the Surveyor's Office of the District of Columbia as parcels 153/44, 143/25, 142/25, and 142/28, to and through the square known as and numbered 4038 (portions of which are included in parcel 142/28), 4093, south of 4093, and 4098, with all switches, crossings, turnouts, extensions, spurs, and sidings, as may be or become necessary for the development of the squares and parcels of land above indicated for such uses as may be permitted in the use district or districts in which said squares and parcels of land are now or may hereafter be included as defined in the zoning regulations of the District of Columbia and shown in the official atlases of the Zoning Commission. (Aug. 6, 1935, 49 Stat. 537, ch. 449, § 1.)

§ 7–1226 [12: 135]. Plans to be approved by Commissioners.

Before any of the work authorized in section 7–1225 shall be begun on the ground, a plan or plans thereof shall be prepared and submitted to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for their approval and only to the extent that such plans shall be so approved shall said work or any portion thereof be permitted or undertaken. (Aug. 6, 1935, 49 Stat. 537, ch. 449, § 2.)

§ 7–1227 [12: 136]. Grade crossings subject to approval of Commissioners—Overhead bridge.

Subject only to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia the crossing of any public street or alley other than New York Avenue, within the limits of the total area noted in section 7–1225 may be at or on grade. The said railroad shall, when and as directed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, construct at its entire cost and expense, an additional overhead bridge for the track hereby authorized to be established over such other street located between Montello Avenue and New York Avenue as such street may now or may hereafter be shown on the Plan of the Permanent System of Highways. (Aug. 6, 1935, 49 Stat. 537, ch. 449, § 3.)

excepting, however, such portion thereof as the President may, by executive order or orders, prescribe, which portion shall be added to, and administered as part of, the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, authorized by the Act approved May 23, 1928 (45 Stat. 721), as amended. (June 29, 1940, 54 Stat. 686, ch. 444, § 1.)

§ 7–1302. Powers and duties of Administrator—Rules and regulations.

The Administrator shall have control over, and responsibility for, the care, operation, maintenance, and protection of the airport, together with the power to make and amend such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary to the proper exercise thereof. (June 29, 1940, 54 Stat. 687, ch. 444, § 2.)

§ 7–1303. Lease of space or property.

The Administrator is empowered to lease, upon such terms as he may deem proper, space or property within or upon the airport for purposes essential or appropriate to the operation of the airport. (June 29, 1940, 54 Stat. 687, ch. 444, § 3.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Other provisions for lease of public buildings and property, § 9–202 and notes.

§ 7–1304. Authority to make arrests—Carrying of firearms—Park Police patrol.

(a) The Administrator, and any Civil Aeronautics Administration employee appointed to protect life and property on the airport, when designated by the Administrator, is hereby authorized and empowered (1) to arrest under a warrant within the limits of the airport any person accused of having committed within the boundaries of the airport any offense against the laws of the United States, or against any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant to this Act; (2) to arrest without warrant any person committing any such offense within the limits of the airport, in his presence; or (3) to arrest without warrant within the limits of the airport any person whom he has reasonable grounds to believe has committed a felony within the limits of the airport.

(b) Any individual having the power of arrest as provided in subsection (a) of this section may carry firearms or other weapons as the Administrator may direct or by regulation may prescribe.

(c) The United States Park Police may, at the request of the Administrator, be assigned by the Director of the National Park Service, in his discretion, subject to the supervision and direction of the Secretary of the Interior, to patrol any area of the airport, and any members of the United States Park Police so assigned are hereby authorized and empowered to make arrests within the limits of the airport for the same offenses, and in the same manner and circumstances, as is provided in this section with respect to employees designated by the Administrator. (June 29, 1940, ch. 444, § 4, as added May 15, 1947, 61 Stat. 94, ch. 62.)

§ 7–1305. Penalty for violations.

Any person who knowingly and willfully violates any rule or regulation prescribed under this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both. (June 29, 1940, ch. 444, § 5, as added May 15, 1947, 61 Stat. 94, ch. 62.)

§ 7–1306. Deposit of collateral by person charged with violation.

The officer on duty in command of those employees designated by the Administrator as provided in section 4 may accept deposit of collateral from any person charged with the violation of any rule or regulation prescribed under this Act, for appearance in court or before the appropriate United States commissioner; and such collateral shall be deposited with the United States commissioner at Alexandria, Virginia. (June 29, 1940, ch. 444, § 6, as added May 15, 1947, 61 Stat. 94, ch. 62.)

§ 7–1307. Agreements for municipal services—Charges—Appropriations authorized.

The Administrator may enter into agreements with the State of Virginia, or with any political subdivision thereof, for such municipal services as the Administrator shall deem necessary to the proper and efficient government of the airport, and he may, from time to time, agree to modifications in any such agreement: Provided, however, That where the charge for any such service is established by the laws of the State of Virginia, the Administrator may not pay for such service an amount in excess of the charge so established. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary for the making of payment for services under any such agreement. (June 29, 1940, ch. 444, § 6, as added May 15, 1947, 61 Stat. 95, ch. 62.)

§ 7–1402. Selection of site.

For the purpose of carrying out this chapter, the Secretary is authorized to acquire, by purchase, lease, condemnation, or otherwise (including transfer with or without compensation from Federal agencies or the District of Columbia, or any State or political subdivision thereof), such lands and interests in lands and appurtenances thereto, including avigation easements or air-space rights, as may be necessary or desirable for the construction, maintenance, improvement, operation, and protection of the airport: Provided, That before making commitments for the acquisition of land, or the transfer of any lands, the Secretary shall consult and advise with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission as to the conformity of the proposed location with the Commission's comprehensive plan for the National Capital and its environs, and said Commission shall, upon request, submit a report and recommendations thereon within thirty days: Provided further, That the choice of site by the Secretary shall be made only after consultation with the governing body in the county in which the airport is to be located, with respect to the suitability of the site to be selected, and its possible impact on the vicinity. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 771, ch. 905, § 2)

§ 7–1403. Acquisition and construction of facilities.

For the purposes of this chapter, the Secretary is empowered to acquire, by purchase, lease, condemnation, or otherwise (including transfer with or without compensation from Federal agencies or the District of Columbia, or any State or political subdivision thereof), rights-of-way or easements for roads, trails, pipe lines, power lines, railroad spurs, and other similar facilities necessary or desirable for the construction or proper operation of the airport.

The Secretary is authorized to construct any streets, highways, or roadways (including bridges) as may be necessary to provide access to the airport from existing streets, highways, or roadways. Upon completion of construction of any street, highway, or roadway within the District of Columbia, such street, highway, or roadway shall be transferred to the District of Columbia without charge, and thereafter shall be maintained by the District of Columbia. Upon construction of any street, highway, or roadway within a State or political subdivision thereof, such street, highway, or roadway may be transferred to such State or political subdivision thereof, without charge, on the condition that such street, highway, or roadway thereafter be maintained as a public street, highway, or roadway by such State or political subdivision thereof. Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 771, ch. 905, § 3.)

§ 7–1404. Maintenance and operation.

The Secretary shall have control over and responsibility for the care, operation, maintenance, improvements, and protection of the airport, together with the power to make and amend such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary to the proper exercise thereof: Provided, That the authority herein contained may be delegated by the Secretary to such official or officials of the Department of Commerce as the Secretary may designate. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 771, ch. 905, § 4.)

§ 7–1405. Lease of space or property.

The Secretary is empowered to lease under such conditions as he may deem proper and for such periods as may be desirable space or property within or upon the airport for purposes essential or appropriate to the operation of the airport: Provided, That no lease for the use of any hangar or space therein shall extend for a period exceeding three years. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 771, ch. 905, § 5.)

§ 7–1406. Contracts for supplies and services.

The Secretary is authorized to contract with any person for the furnishing of supplies or performance of services at or upon the airport necessary or desirable for the proper operation of the airport, including but not limited to, contracts for furnishing food and lodging, sale of aviation fuels, furnishing of aircraft repairs and other aeronautical services, and such other services and supplies as may be necessary or desirable for the traveling public. No such contract, not including contracts involving the construction of permanent buildings or facilities, shall extend for a period of longer than five years, except the restaurant. The provisions of section 3709 of the Revised Statutes shall not apply to contracts authorized under this section, to leases authorized under section 7–1405 hereof, or to contracts for architectural or engineering services necessary for the design and planning of the airport. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 771, ch. 905, § 6.)

§ 7–1407. Transfers of property by federal agencies.

Any executive department, independent establishment, or agency of the Federal Government or the District of Columbia, for the purposes of carrying out this chapter, is authorized to transfer to the Secretary, without compensation, upon his request, any lands, interests in lands (including avigation easements or air-space rights), buildings, property, or equipment under its control and in excess of its own requirements, which the Secretary may consider necessary or desirable for the construction, care, operation, maintenance, improvement, or protection of the airport. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 772, ch. 905, § 7.)

§ 7–1408. Authority to make arrests—Park Police patrol.

(a) The Secretary, and any Department of Commerce employee appointed to protect life and property on the airport, when designated by the Secretary, is hereby authorized and empowered (1) to arrest under a warrant within the limits of the airport any person accused of having committed within the boundaries of the airport any offense against the laws of the United States, or against any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant to this chapter; (2) to arrest without warrant any person committing any such offense within the limits of the airport, in his presence; or (3) to arrest without warrant within the limits of the airport any person whom he has reasonable grounds to believe has committed a felony within the limits of the airport.

(b) Any individual having the power of arrest as provided in subsection (a) of this section may carry firearms or other weapons as the Secretary may direct or by regulation may prescribe.

(c) The United States Park Police may, at the request of the Secretary, be assigned by the Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, to patrol any area of the airport, and any members of the United States Park Police so assigned are hereby authorized and empowered to make arrests within the limits of the airport for the same offenses, and in the same manner and circumstances, as is provided in this section with respect to employees designated by the Secretary.

(d) The officer on duty in command of those employees designated by the Secretary as provided in subsection (a) of this section may accept deposit of collateral from any person charged with the violation of any rule or regulation prescribed under this chapter, for appearance in court or before the appropriate United States Commissioner; and such collateral shall be deposited with such United States Commissioner. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 772, ch. 905, § 8.)

§ 7–1409. Agreements for municipal services.

The Secretary may enter into agreements with the State, or any political subdivision thereof, in which the airport or any portion thereof is situated, for such State or municipal services as the Secretary shall deem necessary to the proper and efficient operation and protection of the airport, and he may, from time to time, agree to modifications in any such agreement: Provided, however, That where the charge for any such service is established by the laws of the State, the Secretary may not pay for such service in excess of the charge so established. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 772, ch. 905, § 9.)

§ 7–1410. Penalty for violations.

Any person who knowingly and willfully violates any rule, regulation, or order issued by the Secretary under this chapter shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500 or to imprisonment not exceeding six months, or to both such fine and imprisonment. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 772, ch. 905, § 10.)

Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions of the words and phrases used in this chapter shall be the definitions assigned to such words and phrases by the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 772, ch. 905, § 11.)

§ 7–1412. Appropriations authorized.

There is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $14,000,000 for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this chapter, said appropriation to remain available until expended. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated from year to year such sums as may be necessary for the proper development, improvement, maintenance, protection, control, and operation of said airport or as may be otherwise necessary to carry out the purpose of this chapter. (Sept. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 773, ch. 905, § 212.)

§ 8–101 [20: 1531]. Park and playground system—National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

(a) Establishment of commission; composition; term; service without compensation; expenses; executive and disbursing officer.—To develop a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs in the States of Maryland and Virginia, to preserve the flow of water in Rock Creek, to prevent pollution of Rock Creek and the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, to preserve forests and natural scenery in and about Washington, and to provide for the comprehensive, systematic, and continuous development of park, parkway, and playground systems of the National Capital and its environs there is constituted a commission to be known as the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, composed of the Chief of Engineers of the Army, the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia; the Director of the National Park Service, the Chief of the Forest Service, the chairmen of the Committees on the District of Columbia of the Senate and House of Representatives, and four eminent citizens well qualified and experienced in city planning, one of whom shall be a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia, to be appointed for the term of six years by the President of the United States: Provided, That the first members appointed under this section shall continue in office for terms of three, four, five, and six years, respectively, from April 30, 1926, the terms of each to be designated by the President; but their successors shall be appointed for terms of six years, except that any person chosen to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the member whom he shall succeed. All members of the said commission shall serve without compensation therefor, but each shall be paid actual expenses of travel when attending meetings of said commission or engaged in investigations pertaining to its activities, and an allowance of $8 per day in lieu of subsistence during such travel and services. At the close of each Congress the presiding officer of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint, respectively, a Senator and a Representative elect to the succeeding Congress to serve as members of this commission until the chairmen of the committees of the succeeding Congress shall be chosen. The Director of the National Park Service shall be executive and disbursing officer of said commission.

(b) Duties; employment of personal services and experts; cooperation with other departments.—The said commission is hereby charged with the duty of preparing, developing, and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plan shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation; plats and subdivisions; highways, parks, and parkways; school and library sites; playgrounds; drainage, sewerage, and water supply; housing, building, and zoning regulations; public and private buildings; bridges and water-fronts; commerce and industry; and other proper elements of city and regional planning. It is the purpose of this section to obtain the maximum amount of cooperation and correlation of effort between the departments, bureaus, and commissions of the Federal and District Governments. To this end plans and records, or copies thereof, shall be made available to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, when requested. The commission may, as to the environs of the District of Columbia, act in conjunction and cooperation with such representatives of the States of Maryland and Virginia as may be designated by such States for this purpose. The said commission is hereby authorized to employ the necessary personal services, including the personal services of a director of planning and other expert city planners, such as engineers, architects, and landscape architects. Such technical experts may be employed at per diem rates not in excess of those paid for similar services elsewhere and as may be fixed by the said commission without regard to the provisions of sections 661 to 674 of Title 5 of the U. S. Code or any rule or regulation made in pursuance thereof.

(c) Highway commission abolished; powers and duties transferred.—The commission established by section 2 of the Act entitled "An Act to provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of cities" (Twenty-seventh Statutes at Large, pages 532 and 533), known as the Highway Commission, is hereby abolished, and all the functions, powers, and duties conferred and imposed upon said Highway Commission by law are hereby transferred to and conferred and imposed upon the National Capital Park and Planning Commission hereby constituted, and all records of said Highway Commission are hereby transferred to said National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

(d) Authorities and duties of National Capital Park Commission transferred.—All authority, powers, and duties conferred and imposed by law on the National Capital Park Commission shall after April 30, 1926, be held, exercised, and performed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission hereby constituted. All appropriations heretofore made for expenditure by the National Capital Park Commission are hereby made available for the use of the commission hereby constituted. (June 6, 1924, 43 Stat. 463, ch. 270, § 1; Apr. 30, 1926, 44 Stat. 374, ch. 198; May 24, 1928, 45 Stat. 726, ch. 726.)

Compiler's Note

This section in the act of April 30, 1926, ch. 198, provided that one member of the Commission should be the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, and that such officer should be executive and disbursing officer of the Commission. The office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the Capital was abolished and its functions transferred to the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations of the Department of the Interior by Executive Order No. 6166, June 10, 1933. See U. S. C., title 5, § 132, note. The name of the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations was changed to the National Park Service by act of March 2, 1934, 48 Stat. 389, ch. 38, § 1, U. S. C., title 28, § 1.

The first section of the act of June 6, 1924, ch. 270, was amended to read substantially as above by act of April 30, 1926.

The amendment of 1928 changed the allowance for subsistence from a possible maximum of $10 to an outright allowance of $8 per day in lieu of subsistence.

§ 8–102 [20: 1532]. Acquisition of land by commission—Advice of Commission of Fine Arts—Approval of President.

Said commission or a majority thereof is authorized and directed to acquire such lands as in its judgment shall be necessary and desirable in the District of Columbia and adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia, within the limits of the appropriations made for such purposes, for suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system. Said commission is authorized to acquire such lands by purchase when they can be acquired at prices reasonable in the judgment of said commission, otherwise by condemnation proceedings, such proceedings to acquire lands within the District of Columbia to be in accordance with the provisions of section 120 of title 40 of the Code of the Laws of the United States, the Chief of Engineers of the Army being, for the purposes of sections 8–101, 8–102, 8–106, 8–107, hereby clothed with all the power vested by section 120 of title 40 of the Code of the Laws of the United States in the board thereby created. Said commission is hereby authorized to acquire such lands, located in Maryland or Virginia, either by purchase or condemnation proceedings, by such arrangements as to acquisition and payment for the lands as it shall determine upon by agreement with the proper officials of the States of Maryland and Virginia. In the selection of lands to be acquired the advice of the Commission of Fine Arts shall be requested. The designation of all lands to be acquired by condemnation, all contracts for purchase of lands, and all agreements between said commission and the officials of the States of Maryland and Virginia shall be subject to the approval of the President of the United States. (June 6, 1924, 43 Stat. 463, ch. 270, § 2.)

ARCHBOLD PARKWAY

The Chief of Engineers, United States Army, is hereby authorized and directed to accept, as an addition to the park system of the District of Columbia, the land, approximately 28.12 acres in extent, lying along Foundry Branch between the Glover Parkway and Reservoir Road, donated by Mrs. Anne Archbold to the United States for park purposes in accordance with the terms of her dedication as shown on the map of said area dated November 10, 1924, on file in the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds (National Park Service), which tract shall be known as the "Archbold Parkway"; and the Chief of Engineers, United States Army (Director of National Park Service) shall be, and is hereby, further authorized to accept dedications of additional land in the District of Columbia and adjacent thereto on request of the National Capital Park Commission and in accordance with the plans of said commission for the extension of the park system of the District of Columbia under the authority contained in Public Act Numbered 202, Sixty-eighth Congress, approved June 6, 1924. The authority of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, established by section 8–101, is hereby enlarged as follows:

Said commission is hereby authorized to acquire, for and in behalf of the United States of America, by gift, devise, purchase, or condemnation, in accordance with the provisions of sections 8–101, 8–102, 8–106, 8–107, (1) fee title to land subject to limited rights, but not for business purposes, reserved to the grantor: Provided, That such reservation of rights shall not continue beyond the life or lives of the grantor or grantors of the fee: Provided further, That in the opinion of said commission the permanent public park purposes for which control over said land is needed are not essentially impaired by said reserved rights and that there is a substantial saving in cost by acquiring said land subject to said limited rights as compared with the cost of acquiring unencumbered title thereto; (2) permanent rights in land adjoining park property sufficient to prevent the use of said land in certain specified ways which would essentially impair the value of the park property for its purposes: Provided, That in the opinion of said commission the protection and maintenance of the essential public values of said park can thus be secured more economically than by acquiring said land in fee or by other available means: Provided further, That all contracts for acquisition of land subject to such limited rights reserved to the grantor and for acquisition of such limited permanent rights in land shall be subject to the approval of the President of the United States. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION AS TO USE

The United States, under the cession from Maryland and by virtue of powers surrendered by the states under the Constitution, may exercise their discretion in use of portion of land below high water of Anacosta River in District of Columbia in the public right of fishing, or in the promotion of commerce and navigation. U. S. v. Belt, 1944 (142 F. 2d 761, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 87).

RIPARIAN RIGHTS

Where Maryland ceded District of Columbia territory to United States and act of ratification, Acts Md. 1791, ch. 45, provided that nothing therein contained should be construed to vest in United States any right of property or affect rights of individuals otherwise than as transferred by individuals to United States, and where commissioners of the United States appointed to lay out city of Washington made agreement with owners of lots along Anacostia River to reconvey to lot owners one-half of their original frontage and lot owners received back lots in one-half quantity surrendered bordering on river and acquired by purchase remaining lots which the commissioners offered for sale, the proprietors of lots binding the high-water line of the Anacostia River and their successors in interest were riparian proprietors with all rights and privileges pertaining to such riparian property. U. S. v. Belt, 1944 (142 F. 2d 761, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 87).

On establishment of District of Columbia, the United States succeeded to Maryland's right of regulation of riparian rights or proprietors of lots along Anacostia River so that the common-law rights of riparian owners, within the limits of the District, are subject to change and modification by act of Congress to the same extent and with the same limitations that change or modification might have been made by Maryland while the land was within its boundaries. U. S. v. Belt, 1944 (142 F. 2d 761, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 87).

§ 8–105 [20: 1534]. Lease of lands acquired for park, parkway, or playground purposes.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized, subject to the approval of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, to lease, for a term not exceeding five years, and to renew such lease, subject to such approval, for an additional term not exceeding five years, pending need for their immediate use in other ways by the public, and on such terms as the director shall determine, land or any existing building or structure on land acquired for park, parkway, or playground purposes. (Dec. 22, 1928, 45 Stat. 1070, ch. 48, § 2.)

§ 8–106 [20: 1535]. Appropriation for acquisition of such lands—Control—Use.

There is authorized to be appropriated, each year, in the annual District of Columbia Appropriation Act, a sum not exceeding 1 cent for each inhabitant of the continental United States as determined by the last preceding decennial census, said sum to be used by said commission for the payment of its expenses and for the acquisition of the lands herein authorized to be acquired by said commission for the purposes named, the compensation for the land, the expense of surveys, ascertainment of title, condemnation proceedings, if any, and necessary conveyancing to be paid from said appropriations. The funds so appropriated shall be paid from the revenues of the District of Columbia and the general funds of the Treasury in the same proportion as other expenses of the District of Columbia. The land so acquired within the District of Columbia shall be a part of the park system of the District of Columbia and be under control of the Director of the National Park Service. Areas suitable for playground purposes may, in the discretion of said commission, be assigned to the control of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for playground purposes. The land so acquired outside the District of Columbia shall be controlled as determined by agreement between said commission and the proper officers of the States of Maryland and Virginia, such agreements to be subject to the approval of the President. (June 6, 1924, 43 Stat. 463, ch. 270, § 3; Ex. Ord. No. 6166, § 2, June 10, 1933; Mar. 2, 1934, 48 Stat. 389, ch. 38, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 4 of an act approved May 29, 1930, 46 Stat. 485, provided as follows: "There is hereby further authorized to be appropriated the sum of $16,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, for the acquiring of such lands in the District of Columbia as are necessary and desirable for the suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of June 6, 1924 (43 Stat. 462; §§ 8–101, 8–102, 8–106, 8–107), as amended, except as in this section otherwise provided. Such funds shall be appropriated for the fiscal year 1931 and thereafter as required for the expeditious, economical, and efficient accomplishment of the purposes of this act and shall be reimbursed to the United States from any funds in the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia as follows, to wit: $1,000,000 on the 30th day of June, 1931; and $1,000,000 on the 30th day of June each year thereafter until the full amount expended hereunder is reimbursed without interest. The National Capital Park and Planning Commission shall, before purchasing any lands hereunder for playground, recreation center, community center, and similar municipal purposes, request from the Commissioners of the District of Columbia a report thereon. Said commission is authorized to accept the donation to the United States of any lands deemed desirable for inclusion in said park, parkway, and playground system, and the donation of any funds for the acquisition of such lands under this act."

§ 8–108 [20: 1537]. Park system—Control—Inclusions—Exclusions, improvements, parking spaces—"Business streets"—Conditions requisite.

The park system of the District of Columbia is placed under the exclusive charge and control of the Director of the National Park Service, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the President of the United States.

The said park system shall be held to comprise:

(a) All public spaces laid down as reservations on the map of 1894 accompanying the annual report for 1894 of the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds;

(b) All portions of the space in the streets and avenues of the said District, after the same shall have been set aside by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for park purposes.

Provided, That no areas less than two hundred and fifty square feet between sidewalk lines shall be included within the said park system, and no improvements shall be made in unimproved public spaces in streets between building lines or building lines prolonged until the outlines of such portions as are to be improved as parks shall have been laid out by the commissioners of the District of Columbia: And provided further, That the said director is authorized temporarily to turn over the care of any of the parking spaces included in Classes (a) and (b) above, to private owners of adjoining lands under such regulations as he may prescribe and with the condition that the said private owners shall pay special assessments for improvements contiguous to such parking, under the same regulations as are or may be prescribed for private lands: And provided further, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to denominate portions of streets in the District of Columbia as business streets and to authorize the use, on such portions of streets, for business purposes by abutting property owners, under such general regulations as said commissioners may prescribe, of so much of the sidewalk and parking as may not be needed, in the judgment of said commissioners, by the general public, under the following conditions, namely: First, wherein a portion of a street not already denominated a business street a majority of a frontage not less than three blocks in length is occupied and used for business purposes; and second, where a portion of a street has already been denominated a business street, and there exists adjoining such portion a block or more whose frontage is occupied and used for business purposes. AMENDMENTS

The 1904 amendment changed the last proviso to read as above.

The 1906 amendment corrected a typographical error by striking out of the first proviso in the fifth paragraph the words "Class B" and substituting therefor "Classes (a) and (b)."

COMPILER'S NOTE

By act July 1, 1898, cited to text, this section applied to transfers of land from the jurisdiction of the Chief of Engineers of the United States Army, as established by said act to that of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or vice versa. The Office of Public Buildings and Grounds under the Chief of Engineers was abolished and the functions of the Chief of Engineers and of the Secretary of War with respect thereto were transferred to the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital by act Feb. 26, 1925, ch. 339, § 3, 43 Stat. 983. The Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital was abolished and the functions thereof were transferred to the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations of the Department of the Interior by Ex. Ord. No. 6166, § 3, June 10, 1933, set out as note under 5 U. S. C. § 132. The name of the latter office was changed to "National Park Service" by act Mar. 2, 1934, ch. 38, § 1, 48 Stat. 389. The functions of the Director of the National Park Service relating to public buildings were transferred to the Federal Works Administrator by section 303 (b) of Reorg. Plan No. I, July 1, 1939, 4 F. R. 2729, 53 Stat. 1427, set out as note under 5 U. S. C. § 133t.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

POWER VESTED IN COMMISSION

Whether the space or part of a sidewalk and parking is needed by the public is a question committed to the judgment of the Commissioners and not that of the courts. United States ex rel. Crupper v. Newman (47 App. D. C. 345).

§ 8–109 [20: 1538]. Control by director of vehicles and traffic regulations.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized and empowered to make and enforce all regulations for the control of vehicles and traffic, and limiting the speed thereof on roads, highways, and bridges within the public grounds in the District of Columbia, under his control, subject to the penalties prescribed in sections 40–601 to 40–616. NOTES TO DECISIONS

In determining whether vendor suing purchaser for breach of contract for sale of lots in Square 1067 on 15th Street SE., near the Anacostia River in Washington, D. C., had ability to obtain wharfage facilities and privilege of running pipe line from wharf to lots as required by contract, Commissioners of District of Columbia, National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and United States Engineers Office had legal authority to make decisions involving eventual granting of such facilities and privilege. Decatur Corporation v. Friedman (D. C. D. C. 1941, 39 F. Supp. 692, affirmed 135 F. 2d 812, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

Public parks acquired by the condemnation of small park areas at the intersections of streets outside the limits of the original city of Washington, shown on the map on file showing areas surrounded by streets, in the office of the engineer commissioner, shall become a part of the park system of the District of Columbia and be under the control of the Director of the National Park Service. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 971, ch. 150, § 1; July 21, 1914, 38 Stat. 550, ch. 191; Aug. 1, 1914, 38 Stat. 625, ch. 223, § 1.)

Meridian Hill Park is a part of the park system of the District of Columbia, under the control of the Director of the National Park Service. The sum annually appropriated and expended for the maintenance and improvement of said park shall be paid by the United States and the District of Columbia in the proportions fixed by law. (June 25, 1910, 36 Stat. 700, ch. 383, § 36.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, title 20, § 670a of the 1929 code, which is set out as a note to § 47–134 of this code, formed the basis for various sections of the code which provide for the 60 percent payment by the District of certain expenses, was repealed by the act of May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8, adding title X to the act of Aug. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 673, ch. 690. This repealing act does not provide any substitute provision, and consequently the aforesaid sections are left without foundation in the statutes. The aforesaid 1922 act, p. 671, contains a provision repealing all prior inconsistent acts, and, therefore, the prior acts which were the bases for these various sections no longer apply. The division of expenses between the District and the United States, if any, is apparently a matter of practice, not controlled by the statutes as they now stand. If there is no division it would seem that the District would pay all expenses, if any, over and above the lump-sum appropriation as apportioned to the various agencies.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPROVAL OF REGULATIONS

National Capital Park Regulations, promulgated by the Department of the Interior, are not required to be approved by the President. 1945, 40 Op. Atty. Gen. August 30.

EVIDENCE

Defendant's own testimony that his alleged indecent exposure in public park was purely accidental because he was urinating and did not know that anyone was observing him justified his conviction, where he knowingly exposed his person within a short distance and in full unobstructed view of a women's dormitory. Davenport v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 851).

INDECENT EXPOSURE

Though an alleged indecent exposure must be intentional in sense that criminal intent is essential element of any crime charged, the intent required is general and not specific, and an indecent exposure in a public place likely to be observed by others is a criminal offense regardless of purpose with which it is made; the only thing required being that defendant be aware of existence of facts making his conduct criminal. Davenport v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 851).

INSTRUCTIONS

In prosecution for making an obscene and indecent exposure in a public park, refusal to charge that to find defendant guilty it was necessary to find that the exposure was "willful" and "deliberate" was not error, since "willful" and "deliberate" have varied meanings and without some qualifying explanation requested charge would have been misleading. Davenport v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 851).

In view of defendant's failure to assign error regarding general charge, appellate court was required to assume that, in prosecution for obscene and indecent exposure in a public park, an instruction was given that the exposure was required to be intentional, in view of fact that record, though not setting forth charge in full, stated that court charged fully on all other issues. Davenport v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 851).

§ 8–144 [20: 1560]. Authority to make regulations—Extended to sidewalks.

The application of the rules and regulations prescribed prior to March 4, 1909, or that may be thereafter prescribed by the Director of the National Park Service, under the authority granted by sections 5–204, 8–108, 8–110, 8–127, 8–135, 8–143, for the Government and proper care of all public grounds placed by that act under the charge and control of the said Director of the National Park Service, is hereby extended to cover the sidewalks around the public grounds and the carriageways of such streets as lie between and separate the said public grounds. (Mar. 4, 1909, 35 Stat. 994, ch. 299, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FINALITY

The decision of the Commissioners of District in regulating use of driveways across sidewalk will not be disturbed, if it has any reasonable basis in the facts. Brownlow v. O'Donoghue Bros. (App. D. C. 1921, 276 F. 636).

REASONABLENESS

The Commissioners of the District can make reasonable regulations for the use of driveways across sidewalks, but the right to regulate does not include the right to prohibit. Brownlow v. O'Donoghue Bros. (App. D. C. 1921, 276 F. 636).

§ 8–145 [20: 1561]. Public spaces resulting from filling of canals under jurisdiction of director.

All public spaces resulting from the filling of canals in the original City of Washington, except such portions as are included in the navy yard or in actual use as roadways and sidewalks, and except the portions assigned by law to the District of Columbia for use as a property yard and the location of a sewerage pumping station, respectively, are placed under the jurisdiction of the Director of the National Park Service and shall be laid out as reservations as a part of the park system of the District of Columbia. STATUTORY REFERENCE

§ 8–146 [20: 1562]. Rock Creek Park—Establishment.

The tract of land lying on both sides of Rock Creek, beginning at Klingle Ford Bridge, and running northwardly, following the course of said creek, acquired under the Act of September 27, 1890, chapter 1001, shall be perpetually dedicated and set apart as a public park or pleasure ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of the United States, to be known by the name of Rock Creek Park. (Sept. 27, 1890, 26 Stat. 492, ch. 1001, § 1.)

DERIVATION

Section 1 of act Sept. 27, 1890, cited to text, entitled "An Act authorizing the establishment of a public park in the District of Columbia."

Sections 2–6 of said act, now executed, created a commission to select the land for a park and provided for the survey and acquisition thereof by purchase or condemnation, the assessment of the cost and expenses on the lands benefited, the collection of the assessments and the disposition of the proceeds thereof, and made an appropriation for the expenses.

COMPILER'S NOTE

As enacted this section following the words "the course of said creek," contained the following language: "of a width of not less at any point than six hundred feet, nor more than twelve hundred feet, including the bed of the creek, of which not less than two hundred feet shall be on either side of said creek, south of Broad Branch road and Blagden Mill road and of such greater width north of said roads as the commissioners designated in this act may select, shall be secured, as hereinafter set out and be perpetually dedicated * * *," and at the end thereof following the words Rock Creek Park was a proviso clause reading: "The whole tract so to be selected and condemned under the provisions of this act shall not exceed two thousand acres nor the total cost thereof exceed the amount of money herein appropriated."

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPRAISAL

The Rock Creek Park Commission, limited by the act creating it to the expenditure of a certain sum of money, and having appraised the land proposed to be taken at less than that amount, but fearing that many of the owners would not accept the amounts awarded, and that the appraisement by judicial proceeding would cause entire cost to exceed amount appropriated, should nevertheless proceed with its work, and if necessary make selection and acquire such of the lands selected most to be desired as would come within the appropriation. 1891 (20 Op. Atty. Gen. 67).

The President was authorized to determine, parcel by parcel, whether the valuation of the lands embraced within the reduced area of the contemplated Rock Creek Park, as recommended by the Rock Creek Park Commission, bringing the total cost within the amount appropriated by the act on which this section is based is reasonable or unreasonable. 1892 (20 Op. Atty. Gen. 377).

Where an appropriation for acquiring title to land for a public park is limited to $1,200,000, and the law required the President to decide that the prices to be paid for various parcels of land are reasonable, and the commission appointed by the act on which this section is based had presented for his decision a report of appraisers in condemnation that would make the cost of the park considerably exceed that amount, it would not be lawful for the President to decide that the prices as submitted are reasonable. 1892 (20 Op. Atty. Gen. 326).

Appraisers in proceedings to condemn land under act on which this section is based could rely not only upon evidence brought before them, but on their own judgment and observation, and could fix the value of the land at its market price for residence or other purposes, excluding speculative values. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

The court refused to administer to the appraisers appointed under the act on which this section is based, an oath to fix the value of the lands to be taken upon the whole evidence, guided by the rules of law furnished by the court, but instead administered an oath to faithfully and impartially appraise the value to the best of their skill and judgment. Said act did not prescribe any form for the oath. This was a rightful exercise of the court's discretion, and the oath actually administered did not leave the appraisers at liberty to make their appraisement at their discretion without regard to the evidence. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

ASSESSMENTS

The fact that a public park in the District of Columbia is dedicated by Congress to the use and enjoyment of the people of the United States as done by this section does not render inapplicable the rule as to assessments of benefits. Craighill v. Lambert, 1898 (18 S. Ct. 217, 168 U. S. 611, 42 L. Ed. 599).

COMMISSION, ACQUISITION OF LAND

The mere fact that the law on which this section is based required the commission, if unable to agree with the owner of the land selected within 30 days' time, to apply for an assessment of the value of such land as it had been unable to purchase at its appraised price, did not preclude the commission from later purchasing by agreement the land of certain property owners, although judicial proceedings had been commenced for the assessment of the value of the land. 1891 (20 Op. Atty. Gen. 129).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

The appropriation of a fixed sum to pay all expenses of the Park Commission, including the cost of lands taken, was merely a limitation of the amount to be expended by the Government, and was not a direction to the appraisers to keep within any given limit in valuing any particular piece of property, and hence section did not arbitrarily fix value of property taken, and was constitutional. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

Section was constitutional, and did not impose a judicial function upon the President, whose duty was merely to decide whether the United States would take the land at the appraised value, and not to decide whether such value was reasonable. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

Section was not an attempt by Congress to exercise the appointing power, since its effect was merely to lay upon the two engineers, being officers already appointed, new duties germane to their offices. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

Act on which section is based provided for the assessment of a proportional part of the cost upon property specially benefited by the improvement, but in the condemnation proceedings held thereunder no special request as to the legal effect of this provision was made to the trial court, and there was no specific assignment of error as to it, nor was any person actually assessed for special benefits a party to the writ of error. Therefore the court was not called upon to consider the constitutionality of such provision. Shoemaker v. U. S., 1893 (13 S. Ct. 361, 147 U. S. 282, 37 L. Ed. 170).

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMISSION, VALIDITY OF

The validity and regularity of the proceedings culminating in recommendation of reduced area of contemplated park by Rock Creek Park Commission were judicial questions for the determination of the court and not for the Executive. 1892 (20 Op. Atty. Gen. 377).

§ 8–147. Rock Creek Parkway—Area.

The total area of lands finally to be acquired for said parkway shall not exceed the area and parcels described and delineated on map numbered 2, contained in House Document Numbered 1114 of the Sixty-fourth Congress, first session. (July 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 282, ch. 209, § 1; Mar. 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1382, ch. 161, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The section was repeated in the act of 1921.

§ 8–148 [20: 1563]. Rock Creek Park—Control and regulations.

The public park authorized and established by section 8–146 shall be a part of the park system of the District of Columbia, defined by section 8–108 and shall be under the control of the Director of the National Park Service, whose duty it shall be, as soon as practicable, to lay out and prepare roadways and bridle paths, to be used for driving and for horseback riding, respectively, and footways for pedestrians; and whose duty it shall also be to make and publish such regulations as he deems necessary and proper for the care and management of the same. Such regulations shall provide for the preservation from injury or spoliation of all timber, animals, or curiosities within said park, and their retention in their natural condition, as nearly as possible. (Sept. 27, 1890, 26 Stat. 495, ch. 1001, § 7; July 1, 1918, 40 Stat. 650, ch. 113, § 1.)

DERIVATION

Act Sept. 27, 1890, cited to text, and Sundry Civil Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1919, also cited to text.

AMENDMENT

Before amendment of July 1, 1918, this section provided that this park should be "under the joint control of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and the Chief of Engineers of the United States Army."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PRIOR BOARD

The board of control under this section, as originally enacted, had no power to authorize the water department of the District of Columbia to construct a reservoir for the use of the District within the limits of Rock Creek Park. 1897 (21 Op. Atty. Gen. 566).

§ 8–149 [20: 1564]. Rock Creek Park—Lease of buildings and grounds authorized.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized to rent or lease, for periods not exceeding one year at any one time, the buildings and arable ground in Rock Creek Park, for such rental as shall seem proper to the director, and deposit the proceeds of such rents or leases with the collector of taxes to the credit of the United States and said District in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the Treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia. (Aug. 7, 1894, 28 Stat. 252, ch. 232; July 1, 1918, 40 Stat. 650, ch. 113, § 1; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

AMENDMENTS

As originally enacted this section read: "The authorities in joint control of Rock Creek Park were authorized * * *." This was changed to "The Director of the National Park Service is authorized * * *," on the authority of Ex. Ord. No. 6166, June 10, 1933, and Mar. 2, 1934, 48 Stat. 389, ch. 38, § 1.

The act of 1918 made Rock Creek Park a part of the park system.

The act of Feb. 21, 1921, changed the proportions from equal parts to those fixed by appropriations for the particular fiscal year.

The Piney Branch Parkway is made a part of the park system of the District of Columbia defined by section 8–108. (July 1, 1918, 40 Stat. 650, ch. 113, § 1.)

EXCHANGE OF LANDS AUTHORIZED

In order to better adjust the boundaries of Piney Branch Parkway and to make said parkway more usable and more readily developed, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to convey, by and on behalf of the United States of America, to the owners of parcel 69/47, or to such party or parties as said owners shall designate, the title of the United States in and to a triangular piece of land containing approximately twenty-two thousand square feet at the northern boundary of Piney Branch Parkway near Argyle Terrace and abutting parcel 69/47: Provided, That the owners of said parcel 69/47 shall furnish the United States of America with a good and sufficient title in fee simple, free of all encumbrances, to a triangular piece of land containing approximately twenty-six thousand square feet, abutting the northern boundary of Piney Branch Parkway at its intersection with the eastern boundary of Rock Creek Park. The transfers provided for herein are designated approximately upon plat file numbered 3.6–114 in the files of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The conveyances shall be by proper deed and other instruments containing full legal description by exact survey of the land exchanged, as provided by law. (Aug. 3, 1939, 53 Stat. 1177, ch. 412.)

§ 8–153 [20: 1568]. Potomac Park—Establishment.

The entire reclaimed area formerly known as the Potomac Flats, together with the tidal reservoirs, are made and declared a public park, under the name of the Potomac Park, and to be forever held and used as a park for the recreation and pleasure of the people. § 8–156 [20: 1571]. Potomac Park—Temporary occupancy by Department of Agriculture.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized to grant permission to the Department of Agriculture for the temporary occupation of such area or areas of Potomac Park, not exceeding a total of seventy-five acres in extent, as may not be needed in any one season for the reclamation or park improvement, the said areas to be used by the Department of Agriculture as testing grounds: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to change the essential character of the lands so used, which lands shall continue to be a public park, as provided in section 8–153: And provided further,

That said area or areas shall be vacated by the Department of Agriculture at the close of any season upon the request of the said director: And provided further, That the entire park shall remain under the charge of the said director. (Mar. 3, 1899, 30 Stat. 1378, ch. 458, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

The original act of March 3, 1899 vested in the Secretary of War authority to grant permission to the Department of Agriculture to use these lands, and provided that the lands should remain under his charge.

Act Sept. 1, 1916, ch. 433, 39 Stat. 689, provided certain described lands were reincluded as a part of the connecting parkway between Potomac Park, the Zoological Park, and Rock Creek Park.

Act July 1, 1916, ch. 209, § 1, 39 Stat. 282, directed that the lands when acquired for the parkway in question be part of the park system of the District of Columbia, subject to the provisions of § 8–108.

STREET ALTERATIONS

Act June 29, 1922, ch. 249, § 1, 42 Stat. 703, and Act June 7, 1924, ch. 302, § 1, 43 Stat. 574, prohibited the granting of permission to open, widen, or extend, at private expense, any street, avenue, or highway in the District of Columbia which would or might in the judgment of the District Commissioners permanently injure or diminish the existing flow of Rock Creek or any of its tributaries, except by the joint consent and approval of the commissioners of the District of Columbia and the officer in charge of Public Buildings and Grounds (now the Director of the National Park Service).

ROCK CREEK AND POTOMAC PARKWAY COMMISSION

To enable the commission created by section 22 of the Public Buildings Act approved March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. L. 885), to continue proceedings toward the acquisition of lands required for a connecting parkway between Potomac Park, the Zoological Park, and Rock Creek Park, $100,000, together with the unexpended balance of the appropriation for this purpose for the fiscal year 1917, to be available until expended and to be payable one-half out of the Treasury of the United States and one-half out of the revenues of the District of Columbia. The total area of lands finally to be acquired for said parkway shall not exceed the area and parcels described and delineated in the map numbered 2, contained in House Document Numbered 1114 of the Sixty-fourth Congress, first session. (June 12, 1917, 40 Stat. 126, ch. 27.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LANDS OUTSIDE BOUNDARIES

Described tract of land acquired by the United States for the Naval Observatory, was not within exterior boundaries of the parkway provided for in this section hence within jurisdiction of the Navy Department. 1924 (34 Op. Atty. Gen. 126).

§ 8–159 [20: 1574]. Boundaries of parkway authorized by section 1573 changed.

The authority of the commission created by section 8–158 is extended to include the acquisition of such additional lands and premises lying adjacent to or in the immediate vicinity of the taking lines as shown on the map on file in the office of the executive and disbursing officer and known as the map of the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway (in four sheets) dated May, 1923, as may in its discretion, subject to the approval of the Commission of Fine Arts, be necessary for the best development of the connecting parkway between Rock Creek Park, the Zoological Park, and Potomac Park: Provided, That the total sum expended for lands needed for this parkway shall not exceed that authorized by section 8–158, and amended by the Second Deficiency Act of May 5, 1926: Provided further, That the commission may exclude such lands and premises, not owned by the United States on March 2, 1929, but within the taking lines heretofore authorized for the said parkway, as may in its discretion, and upon the advice of the Commission of Fine Arts, be found not to be desirable or necessary for the connecting parkway. (Mar. 2, 1929, 45 Stat. 1523, ch. 542.)

§ 8–160 [20: 1575]. Connecting parkway to be part of park system.

When the lands authorized to be purchased pursuant to sections 8–147, 8–158, for a connecting parkway between Potomac Park, the Zoological Park, and Rock Creek Park, shall have been acquired, said lands shall be a part of the park system of the District of Columbia subject to the provisions of section 8–108. (July 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 282, ch. 209.)

PARKS—ACQUISITION OF LAND AUTHORIZED

To enable the commission created by section 22 of the Public Buildings Act approved March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. L. 885), to continue proceeding toward the acquisition of lands required for a connecting parkway between Potomac Park, the Zoological Park, and Rock Creek Park, $75,000: Provided, That the following areas and parcels described and delineated on map numbered 2, contained in House Document Numbered 1114, Sixty-fourth Congress, first session, as a part of total area to be acquired for said parkway shall be excluded from the total area finally to be acquired, to wit: Three hundred and fifteen square feet of lot 801 in square 2,541, three hundred and forty-nine square feet of lot 836, one thousand three hundred and three square feet of lot 74 in square 2,543, five hundred and forty-nine square feet of lot 58, two thousand one hundred and six square feet of lot 800 in square 1,262, three thousand six hundred square feet of lot 20 in square 23, one hundred and ninety-nine square feet of lot 80 in square 1,238, and fifty square feet of lot 3 in square numbered 1: Provided further, That the following-described lots and parcels that are without the taking line shall be included in the area finally to be acquired, namely, four thousand four hundred and eighty-three square feet of lot numbered 1, two thousand nine hundred and nineteen square feet of lot 2, three thousand two hundred and fifty-nine square feet of lot 3 in square 2,510, six thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine square feet of lot 1 in square 47, and about nine hundred and two square feet of lot 803 in square 2,543: Provided further, That in order to protect Rock Creek and its tributaries, none of the moneys herein or heretofore appropriated for the opening, widening, or extending of any street, avenue, or highway in the District of Columbia shall be expended for the opening, widening, or extension of any street, avenue, or highway which shall or may in the judgment of the District commissioners permanently injure or diminish the existing flow of Rock Creek or any of its tributaries, nor shall permission so to do at private expense be granted to any private person or corporation except by the joint consent and approval of the commissioners of the District of Columbia and the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds. (Feb. 28, 1923, 42 Stat. 1366, ch. 148.)

§ 8–161 [20: 1576]. Anacostia Park.

The entire area of the Anacostia River and Flats reclaimed and to be reclaimed from the mouth of the river to the District line is made and declared a part of the park system of the District of Columbia and designated Anacostia Park. (Aug. 31, 1918, 40 Stat. 950, 951, ch. 164, § 1.)

TREE NURSERY

The transfer to the jurisdiction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia of a certain portion of the Anacostia Park for use as a tree nursery. (May 7, 1926, 44 Stat. 405, ch. 251.)

§ 8–162 [20: 1577]. Glover Parkway and Children's Playground.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to accept the land lying along Foundry Branch between Massachusetts Avenue and Reservoir Street, dedicated by Charles C. Glover for park purposes, and containing approximately seventy-seven and one-half acres, as more accurately shown on map number 1003, filed in the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, which tract of land shall be known as "The Glover Parkway and Children's Playground"; and the said commissioners are further authorized to accept any dedications of additional land contiguous to this tract for park purposes. (June 6, 1924, 43 Stat. 464, ch. 271, § 1.)

The Glover Parkway and Children's Playground and additions thereto, when acquired, shall become a part of the park system of the District of Columbia. (June 6, 1924, 43 Stat. 464, ch. 271, § 2.)

§ 8–164 [20: 1578a]. Theodore Roosevelt Island—Acceptance authorized—Maintenance and development.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized to accept and receive as a gift from the Roosevelt Memorial Association (Incorporated), for and in behalf of the United States, the island in the Potomac River heretofore variously known as Barbadoes, Analostan, and Masons Island, together with accretions thereto; and upon acceptance of this gift of land, the said island shall after May 21, 1932, be known as Theodore Roosevelt Island and shall be maintained and administered by the Director of the National Park Service as a natural park for the recreation and enjoyment of the public: Provided, That no general plan for the development of the island be adopted without the approval of the Roosevelt Memorial Association; and so long as this association remains in existence, no development, inconsistent with this plan, shall be executed without the association's consent. (May 21, 1932, 47 Stat. 163, ch. 200, § 1; Feb. 11, 1933, 47 Stat. 799, ch. 48, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The amendment of Feb. 11, 1933, changed the name of this island from "Roosevelt Island" to "Theodore Roosevelt Island."

§ 8–168 [20: 1581]. Public bathing beach authorized.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized and permitted to construct a beach and dressing houses upon the east shore of the tidal reservoir against the Washington Monument Grounds, and to maintain the same for the purpose of free public bathing, under such regulations as they shall deem to be for the public welfare; and the Secretary of War is requested to permit such use of the public domain as may be required to accomplish the objects above set forth. (Sept. 26, 1890, 26 Stat. 490, ch. 949.)

§ 8–169 [20: 1582]. Bathing pools and beaches—Construction authorized.

The Director of the National Park Service is authorized and directed to locate and construct in the District of Columbia, subject to the approval of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and after consultation with the Commission of Fine Arts, as appropriations shall be provided therefor, artificial bathing pools or beaches, not exceeding 6 in number, with suitable buildings, shower baths, lockers, provisions for the use of filtered water, purification of the water, and all things necessary for the proper conduct of such pools or beaches, and to conduct and maintain the same. The cost of construction of any of these pools or beaches, with buildings and equipment, shall not exceed $150,000 each, and the appropriation of the sums necessary for the purposes named is hereby authorized to be paid in like manner as other appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia. (May 4, 1926, 44 Stat. 394, ch. 234; Feb. 28, 1929, 45 Stat. 1412, ch. 384, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The amendment of Feb. 28, 1929, changed the number of pools to be constructed from 2 to 6, and the cost of construction from a maximum of $345,000 for 2 to a maximum of $150,000 for each pool, with buildings and equipment. The original section provided that one pool should be for the white race and one for the colored race, and the amending act contained no such specification.

BATHING AND SWIMMING POOL

A plot of ground comprising not to exceed forty-two thousand square feet in the southwest corner of square numbered 3,530, being a portion of the site of the McKinley High School and the Langley Junior High School, is hereby made available for one of the bathing pools authorized by the act approved May 4, 1926. § 8–209. Superintendent of Recreation—Appointment and duties—Qualifications—Other employees—Compensation—Part-time employees—Compensation—Volunteer services.

The Board is hereby authorized to appoint a Superintendent of Recreation, which position is hereby authorized and created, who shall be the chief executive officer of the Board but not a member thereof, and shall be charged with the general organization, administration, and supervision of the program of public recreation contemplated and provided for by this chapter. The Superintendent shall be a person of such training, experience, and capacity as will especially qualify him to discharge the duties of the office. He shall possess those qualifications of education, training, and experience in recreation work as well as executive and administrative experience which will assure a thorough knowledge of current theory and practice in public recreation and give promise of the administrative ability necessary to administer a program of public recreation in and for the Nation's Capital.

The Board, upon the recommendation of the Superintendent, is empowered to appoint, promote, demote, and terminate the employment of such personnel as are necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter. The Superintendent may suspend for cause for a period not exceeding thirty days any employee of the Board.

All present personnel of the Community Center and Playgrounds Department whose services have heretofore been rated satisfactory shall be retained by the Board with the understanding that this provision does not contemplate the continued employment of individuals whose service is inefficient, and such personnel shall continue to function under existing rules and regulations until such time as classification and Civil Service requirements have been effected.

The Superintendent and all other regular annual personnel of the Recreation Board shall be employees of the District of Columbia. Their salaries and positions shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), without regard to race, sex, or creed, and the Civil Service requirements as agreed upon between the Civil Service Commission and the District Commissioners or any existing agreement between them relative to the selection and change of status of District of Columbia employees.

Upon recommendation of the Superintendent, the Board is authorized to employ, on a part-time basis, at rates of pay to be fixed by the Board without reference to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and without reference to Civil Service requirements, and without regard to the prohibition against double salaries provided by section 1763, Revised Statutes (U. S. C., title 5, § 58), such teachers, custodial, and other employees of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Board of Education, upon approval by the present employer, as may be necessary to keep in operation and to conduct therein appropriate phases of the recreation program authorized by this chapter.

The respective facilities of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Board of Education shall, by the agreement of the respective agencies of the Government having control of such facilities, be made available to the Board under the terms of this chapter.

The Superintendent is authorized to employ for a ninety-day period as full- or part-time employees, such referees, umpires, swimming-pool guards and attendants, gymnasium and playground supervisors, and other similar special employees as may be necessary to carry out the recreation program authorized by this chapter, at rates of pay to be fixed by the Board without reference to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and without reference to Civil Service requirements, and without regard to the prohibition against double salaries provided by section 1763, Revised Statutes (U. S. C., title 5, § 58): Provided, That the retention in the District service of any such employees for a period longer than ninety days shall be subject to the approval of the Board.

The Board is authorized to accept upon recommendation of the Superintendent the gratis services of such persons as may volunteer to aid in the conduct of any of its activities. (Apr. 29, 1942, 56 Stat. 262, ch. 265, art. II, § 2.)

The Board shall have power and authority to adopt, conduct, direct, or cause to be conducted or directed, under its supervision, a comprehensive program of public recreation which shall include the operation and direction of games, sports, arts and crafts, hobby shops, music, drama, speech, nursery play, dancing, lectures, forum for informal discussion, and such other physical, social, mental, and creative opportunities for leisure-time participation as the Board shall deem advisable to offer in major recreation centers, playfields, athletic fields, playgrounds, tennis courts, baseball diamonds, swimming pools, beaches, golf courses, community centers, and social centers in schools, parks, or other publicly owned buildings, as well as other recreational facilities which may be agreed upon between the Board and the agencies having jurisdiction over such facilities. The public properties utilized by the Board for the above purposes shall include those designated by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in accordance with a comprehensive plan, as suitable and desirable units of the District of Columbia recreational system.

Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed as affecting any rights under any existing lease or leases lawfully entered into by any agency mentioned or affected by this chapter, nor shall anything in this chapter contained be construed as affecting the right of any such agency in the future lawfully to enter into leases of land or premises under its control for recreational purposes. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Jurisdiction To Grant Wharfing Privileges

Commissioners of District of Columbia, National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and United States Engineers Office had legal authority to make decisions involving eventual granting of wharfing facilities and privilege. Decatur Corporation v. Friedman (D. C., D. C. 1941, 39 F. Supp. 692, affirmed 135 F. 2d 812, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

Riparian Rights

Riparian rights claimed by the appellants, which originally were appurtenant to the land by virtue of its adjoining the Potomac River, passed to the United States by the conveyance which vested in them the ownership of the land on which the street was laid out and has been built. Potomac Steamboat Co. v. Upper Potomac Steamboat Co. (109 U. S. 672, 27 L. Ed. 1070, 3 Sup. Ct. 445, 4 Sup. Ct. 15).

The Compact of 1785 between Maryland and Virginia relating to the mutual use of the waters of the Potomac and the rights of riparian owners was never in force in the District of Columbia. United States ex rel. Greathouse v. Hurley (61 App. D. C. 360, 63 Fed. (2d) 137).

§ 9–102 [20: 1580]. Authority to make rules and regulations for wharf property—Leases—Rents.

Said commissioners and the Chief of Engineers of the United States Army are authorized and empowered to make all needful rules and regulations for the government and proper care of all the property placed in their charge and under their respective control by the provisions of section 9–101 and to annex such reasonable penalties to said rules and regulations as will secure their enforcement; and also to make and enforce rules and regulations in regard to building and repairing wharves, the rental thereof, and the rate of wharfage. All rents so collected shall be covered into the treasury of the United States, to be placed to the credit of the United States and to the credit of the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia. No lease made under the provisions of said section 9–101 shall extend beyond the period of ten years. (Mar. 3, 1899, 30 Stat. 1378, ch. 458, § 2; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

AMENDMENT

Prior to act of 1921, this section provided that rents so collected should be covered into the treasury of the United States, one-half to be placed to the credit of the United States and one-half to the credit of the District of Columbia.

COMPILER'S NOTE

Act of June 29, 1940, 54 Stat. 694, ch. 451, authorized the furnishing of steam from the Central Heating Plant to the National Academy of Sciences.

§ 9–105 [20: 1601]. Capitol grounds — Protection of buildings and property—Authority to make regulations.

The Sergeants at Arms of the Senate and of the House of Representatives are authorized to make such regulations as they may deem necessary for preserving the peace and securing the Capitol from defacement, and for the protection of the public property therein, and they shall have power to arrest and detain any person violating such regulations, until such person can be brought before the proper authorities for trial. (R. S., § 1820.)

DERIVATION

Act March 30, 1867, 15 Stat. 12, ch. 20, § 2; April 29, 1876, 19 Stat. 41, ch. 86.

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of March 4, 1929, 45 Stat. 1694, ch. 708, as amended, provided for the enlargement of the Capitol grounds as follows:

SEC. 1. "The commission created by the act entitled 'An Act to create a commission to be known as the Commission for the Enlarging of the Capitol Grounds, and for other purposes,' approved April 11, 1928, is authorized and directed to carry out the plan for the enlarging of the Capitol Grounds recommended by the commission in Scheme B of its report to the Congress contained in House Document Numbered 252, Seventieth Congress, first session, with certain modifications, as follows:

"(1) Provision for an avenue extending from the western fountain in front of the Union Station southwesterly to Pennsylvania Avenue, joining said avenue between Second and Third Streets Northwest;

"(2) Closing of North Capitol Street south of D Street;

"(3) Closing of C Street to vehicular traffic between New Jersey Avenue and Delaware Avenue, and removal of street-car tracks from C Street and re-laying them in a depression and subway between New Jersey Avenue and Delaware Avenue, and extending the street-car tracks on C Street from Delaware Avenue to First Street Northeast;

"(4) Removal of street-car tracks from Delaware Avenue and B Street (including the spur extending from Delaware Avenue into the Capitol Grounds) and re-laying them on First Street Northeast;

"(5) Construction of an underground garage extending from Delaware Avenue to New Jersey Avenue;

"(6) Acquisition of private property and removal of existing buildings, as hereinafter provided; and

"(7) Construction of terraces and fountains, grading, landscaping, and architectural treatment."

SEC. 2. "For the purposes of this act the Architect of the Capitol is authorized, under the direction of the commission—

"(1) To acquire, on behalf of the United States, by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, all or any part of the privately owned lands, including buildings and other structures, in lot 800 of square numbered 574; square numbered 575; lots 1, 2, and 818 of square numbered 630; lot 1 of square numbered 631; the western half of square numbered 633; and reservation numbered 12, as such squares and reservation appear on the records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia as of the date of the approval of this act.

"The Architect of the Capitol is authorized to acquire all or any part of the lands, including buildings or other structures, in lot 801 of square 574 and lot 821 of square 630 as such squares appear on the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia as of the date of the approval of this amendatory act. Any condemnation proceedings instituted under authority of this act shall be in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled 'An Act to provide for the acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for the use of the United States,' approved March 1, 1929 (§§ 16–619 to 16–644).

"(2) When title to the property specified in subdivision (1) of this section has been vested in the United States, to provide for the demolition and removal, as expeditiously as possible, of any structures thereon; and to provide for the demolition and removal, as expeditiously as possible, of any structures on other lands within the area of the proposed development.

"(3) To enter into contracts, to purchase materials, supplies, equipment, and accessories, in the open market, to employ the necessary personnel, including professional services without reference to section 35 of the act approved June 25, 1910, and to make such expenditures, including expenditures for advertising and travel and the purchase of technical and reference books, as may be necessary."

SEC. 3. "All privately owned lands acquired under the provisions of this Act, together with all other lands within the area of development proposed in Scheme B of House Document Numbered 252, Seventieth Congress, first session, including streets and roadways, shall be a part of the Capitol Grounds under the jurisdiction and control of the Architect of the Capitol, and all lands within such area heretofore under the jurisdiction and control of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby transferred to the jurisdiction and control of the Architect of the Capitol; except that any street or roadway within such area under the jurisdiction and control of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall not be transferred to the jurisdiction and control of the Architect of the Capitol until such time as the Architect of the Capitol files notice in writing with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia that such transfer is necessary for the proposed development."

SEC. 4. "(a) It shall be the duty of any street-railway company, the removal of whose tracks is necessary under the plan of the proposed development, when so requested in writing by the Architect of the Capitol, to remove any of such tracks, to repair and restore the space vacated, and to re-lay such tracks on the streets designated, as may be directed by the Architect of the Capitol, the total cost thereof to be borne by said companies.

"(b) Whenever, in carrying out the provisions of this act, it becomes necessary to change the grade of any street occupied by the tracks of any street-railway company the company shall adjust the grade of such tracks to the new grade of the street, the total cost of such adjustment to be borne by said company."

STATUES

Act of June 8, 1940, 54 Stat. 260, ch. 294, provides for removal of the statue of John Marshall from its present site in the Capitol grounds to a new site in proximity to the Supreme Court Building. Act of June 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 299, ch. 317, authorizes selection of a site in the Capitol grounds and erection thereon of a statue of George Washington.

WASHINGTON POST OFFICE—CUSTODY AND CONTROL

The Post Office Department shall have exclusive jurisdiction, control, and custody of the Washington City post office and the additions thereto, located at North Capitol Street and Massachusetts Avenue, to be operated and maintained by it the same as other public buildings under its custody and control. (Mar. 1, 1933, 47 Stat. 1419, ch. 162; June 10, 1933, Ex. Ord. No. 6166, § 1.)

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to acquire by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, all of squares numbered 490, 491, 533, and reservation 10, in the District of Columbia, including buildings and other structures thereon, as a site for a municipal center, and to construct thereon necessary buildings to house municipal activities: Provided, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to close and vacate such portions of streets and alleys as lie between or within such squares, as in the judgment of said commissioners may be necessary, and the portions of such streets and alleys so closed and vacated shall thereupon become parts of such sites: Provided further, That if this property or any part thereof shall be condemned, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall be entitled to enter immediately into the possession of any such property for which an award shall have been made by paying the amount of such award into the registry of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (Feb. 28, 1929, 45 Stat. 1408, ch. 379, § 1.)

The act of July 3, 1930 (46 Stat. 957, ch. 848), provided: "For the preparation of plans and design of buildings for the municipal center, and for a model and estimates of cost of the complete group of buildings, including supplies, equipment, and traveling and other necessary expenses, and the employment, by contract or otherwise, of such architectural and other professional services as shall be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia without reference to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, $65,000."

By the act of February 23, 1931 (46 Stat. 1384, ch. 282), the following appropriation was made in connection with the municipal center: "For beginning the construction of the first unit of the municipal center, $1,500,000 to be immediately available; and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to enter into contract or contracts for the preparation of site and completion of such unit at a total cost not exceeding $6,000,000: Provided, That not to exceed $200,000 of this appropriation shall be available for the preparation of plans and specifications, cost of superintendence of construction, and employment of such architectural or other professional services as shall be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia without reference to section 3709 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C., title 41, § 5), or the Classification Act of 1923, as amended."

The District of Columbia Appropriation Act for 1933 (June 29, 1932, 47 Stat. 350, ch. 308), contained the following provision with respect to the municipal center: "For the acquisition of land in the municipal center, and for grading and paving the streets, and relocation and construction of District of Columbia owned utilities within and/or adjacent to the municipal center, $222,000, and in addition thereto not to exceed $1,278,000 of the unexpended balance of the appropriation for the municipal center contained in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1932, of which sums not to exceed $900,000 shall be available for the acquisition of land in the municipal center, and not to exceed $600,000 shall be available for grading and paving of streets, and relocation and construction of District of Columbia owned utilities within and/or adjacent to the municipal center: Provided, That the Washington Railway and Electric Company is hereby directed to rebuild and relocate at its own expense the tracks of said company in D Street Northwest between Fifth Street and Indiana Avenue, and in Indiana Avenue east of Fifth Street to the vicinity of Second Street, in accordance with plans and profiles to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and in the event of the failure of said Washington Railway and Electric Company to perform the work herein directed within the time fixed by the said Commissioners the said work shall be performed by the District of Columbia and this appropriation shall be available for such purposes, and the cost of said work shall be a valid and subsisting lien against the franchises and property of the said railway company and shall constitute a legal indebtedness of said company in favor of the District of Columbia, and the said lien may be enforced in the name of the District of Columbia by a bill in equity brought by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, or by any other lawful proceeding against the said railway company."

§ 9–205 [20: 1588]. Public buildings—Funds available for acquiring lands for public use—Condemnation proceedings.

The sum authorized by section 9–204, or any part thereof, shall, when borrowed, be available to the commissioners of the District of Columbia for the acquisition by dedication, purchase, or condemnation of the fee simple title to land, or rights or easements in land, for the public uses authorized by sections 9–204 to 9–207, and for the preparation of plans, designs, estimates, models, and contracts, for architectural, and other necessary professional services, without reference to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, and section 5 of Title 41, U. S. Code, for the construction of buildings, including materials and labor, heating, lighting, elevators, plumbing, landscaping, and all other appurtenances, and the purchase and installation of machinery, apparatus, and any and all other expenditures necessary for or incident to the complete construction of the aforesaid buildings and plants. All contracts, agreements, and proceedings in court for condemnation or otherwise, pursuant to sections 9–204 to 9–207, shall be had and made in accordance with existing provisions of law, except as otherwise herein provided. (June 25, 1934, 48 Stat. 1215, ch. 743, § 2.)

§ 9–206 [20: 1589]. Public buildings—Reimbursement, proportion of tax receipts to be credited to reimbursement fund—Anticipating payments.

Seventy per centum of so much of said sum authorized by section 9–204 as may be expended as therein provided shall be reimbursed to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works from any funds in the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia, as follows, to wit: Not less than $1,000,000 on the 30th day of June each year after such sum shall have been advanced to said District until the full amount expended hereunder is reimbursed, without interest for the first three years after any such advances and with interest at not exceeding 4 per centum per year thereafter on annual balances as of each June 30: Provided, That whenever the District of Columbia is under obligation by virtue of the provisions of section 4 of Public Act Numbered 284, Seventy-first Congress, entitled "An Act for the acquisition, establishment, and development of the George Washington Memorial Parkway, and so forth," approved May 29, 1930 (46 Stat. 485, ch. 354), to reimburse the United States for sums appropriated by the Congress under that act, the total reimbursement required under both that act and sections 9–204 to 9–207 shall be not less nor more than $1,300,000 in any one fiscal year: Provided, That the Commissioners may, in their discretion, repay more than said amount: And provided further, That the Commissioners may, in their discretion, allocate any reimbursement as between the sums due by them to the United States under the aforesaid act and the sums due by them to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works under sections 9–204 to 9–207: Provided, That such sums as may be necessary for the reimbursement herein required of or permitted by the District of Columbia, and for the payment of interest, shall be included in the annual estimates of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the first reimbursement to be made on June 30, 1936. Until 70 per centum of so much of said sum authorized by section 9–204 as may be expended as therein provided shall be reimbursed to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, with interest as provided in this section, 10 cents of the tax levied and collected upon each $100 of the assessed valuation of all real and tangible personal property subject to taxation in the District of Columbia shall be deposited in the treasury of the United States to the credit of a special account for such reimbursement to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and shall not be available for any other purpose. The commissioners may, in their discretion, anticipate from said special account the payments required by sections 9–204 to 9–207: Provided, That whenever the District of Columbia is under obligation by virtue of the provisions of section 4 of said Public Act Numbered 284, Seventy-first Congress, reimbursement shall be not less than $300,000 in any one fiscal year. (June 25, 1934, 48 Stat. 1215, ch. 743, § 3; May 6, 1935, 49 Stat. 175, ch. 91, § 2.)

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall submit with their annual estimates to the Senate and the House of Representatives a report of their activities and expenditures under section 9–204. (June 25, 1934, 48 Stat. 1216, ch. 743, § 4.)

§ 9–208. May borrow money from United States for public works—Approval of President—Certain projects authorized.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to accept advancements for the District of Columbia from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, created by the National Industrial Recovery Act, and said administration with the approval of the President is authorized to advance to said commissioners the sum of $18,150,000, or any part thereof, in addition to any sums heretofore advanced to the District of Columbia by said administration, out of funds authorized by law for said administration, for the acquisition, purchase, construction, establishment, and development of public works, including among others a building or buildings for the municipal court, the recorder of deeds, and the juvenile court, or any of them, said buildings to be located on such portions or parts of Judiciary Square, or the area bounded by Fourth and Fifth Streets, D and G Streets, Northwest, or upon such other area or areas as shall be approved by said commissioners and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the making of such advances is hereby included among the purposes for which funds heretofore appropriated or authorized for said administration, including funds appropriated by the Public Works Administration Appropriation Act of 1938, may be used, in addition to the other purposes specified in the respective acts appropriating or authorizing said funds. (June 25, 1938, 52 Stat. 1203, ch. 704, § 1.)

§ 9–209. Purposes for which funds may be used.

The sum authorized by section 9–208, or any part thereof shall, when advanced, be available to the commissioners of the District of Columbia for the acquisition by dedication, purchase, or condemnation of the fee-simple title to land, or rights or easements in land, for the public uses authorized by sections 9–208 to 9–212, and for the preparation of plans, designs, estimates, models, and specifications; and for architectural and other necessary professional services without reference to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, U. S. C., title 5, ch. 13, and U. S. C., title 41, § 5; for the construction of buildings, including materials and labor, heating, lighting, elevators, plumbing, landscaping, and all other appurtenances, and the purchase and installation of machinery, furniture, equipment, apparatus, and any and all other expenditures necessary for or incident to the complete construction and equipment for use of the aforesaid buildings and plants. All contracts, agreements, and proceedings in court for condemnation or otherwise, pursuant to sections 9–208 to 9–212 shall be had and made in accordance with existing provisions of law except as otherwise herein provided. (June 25, 1938, 52 Stat. 1204, ch. 704, § 2.)

§ 9–210. Repayment of funds.

The Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works shall be repaid 55 per centum of any moneys advanced under section 9–208 in annual instalments over a period of not to exceed twenty-five years with interest thereon for the period of amortization: Provided, That such sums as may be necessary for the reimbursement herein required of the District of Columbia, and for the payment of interest, shall be included in the annual estimates of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the first reimbursement to be made on June 30, 1941: Provided further, That whenever the District of Columbia is under obligation by virtue of the provisions of section 4 of Public Act Numbered 284, Seventy-first Congress [46 Stat. 485, ch. 354], reimbursement under that act shall be not less than $300,000 in any one fiscal year. (June 25, 1938, 52 Stat. 1204, ch. 704, § 3.)

§ 9–211. Estimates and report to Congress.

§ 9–212. Limitations on borrowing power.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are not authorized to borrow any further sum or sums under the provisions of sections 9–204 to 9–207. (June 25, 1938, 52 Stat. 1204, ch. 704, § 5.)

§ 9–213. Interest on funds borrowed from Public Works Administration.

The commissioner of Public Works, under the direction and supervision of the Federal Works Administrator, and the commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized to amend existing contracts and agreements by which funds have been loaned or advanced or are obligated to be loaned or advanced to said commissioners, for the acquisition, purchase, construction, establishment, and development of public works, pursuant to the authority of sections 9–204 to 9–207, or sections 9–208 to 9–212, so as to provide for the payment of interest on the amounts of such loans and advances to be repaid to the Public Works Administration at such rate as would, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, be the lowest interest rate available to the District of Columbia were said District authorized by law to issue and sell obligations to the public at the par value thereof, in a sum equal to the repayable amounts of such loans and advances, maturing serially over a period of fifteen years in approximately equal annual instalments, including both principal and interest, and secured by a first pledge of and lien upon all the general-fund revenues of said District. (July 1, 1940, 54 Stat. 706, ch. 494, § 1.)

§ 9–214. Interest to be determined by Secretary of Treasury.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to advise the Commissioner of Public Works and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia of such interest rate which, in his opinion and in the aforesaid circumstances, would be available to the District of Columbia on the date of enactment of this joint resolution. (July 1, 1940, 54 Stat. 706, ch. 494, § 2.)

§ 9–215. Authorized to borrow additional funds for public works—Approval of President—Certain project specified.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to accept advancements for the District of Columbia from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, or its successor, and said administration, or its successor, with the approval of the President is authorized to advance to said commissioners the sum of $450,000, or any part thereof, in addition to any sums heretofore advanced to the District of Columbia by said administration, or its successor, out of funds authorized by law for said administration, or its successor, for a building for the office of the recorder of deeds to be located on premises now known as 515 D Street Northwest, formerly used as the police court, as recommended by a committee appointed by the commissioners under order of January 12, 1940, and the making of such advances is hereby included among the purposes for which funds heretofore appropriated or authorized for said administration or its successor, including funds appropriated by the Public Works Administration Appropriation Act of 1938, may be used, in addition to the other purposes specified in the respective acts appropriating or authorizing said funds. (July 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 757, ch. 583, § 1.)

§ 9–216. Purposes for which funds may be used.

The sum authorized by section 9–215, or any part thereof shall, when advanced, be available to the commissioners of the District of Columbia for the preparation of plans, designs, estimates, models, and specifications; and for architectural and other necessary professional services required for carrying out the provisions of sections 9–215 to 9–219; for the construction of a recorder of deeds building, including materials and labor, heating, lighting, elevators, plumbing, landscaping, transportation or rental thereof, and all other appurtenances, and the purchase and installation of machinery, furniture, equipment, apparatus, and any and all other expenditures necessary for or incident to the complete construction and equipment for use of the aforesaid building and plant. (July 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 757, ch. 583, § 2.)

§ 9–217. Repayment — Interest — Included in annual budget.

The Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, or its successor, shall be repaid 55 per centum of any moneys advanced under section 9–215 in annual instalments over a period of not to exceed twenty-five years with interest thereon at such rate as is agreed upon by the commissioners of the District and the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, or its successor, for the period of amortization: Provided, That such sums as may be necessary for the reimbursement herein required of the District of Columbia, and for the payment of interest, shall be included in the annual estimates of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, the first reimbursement with interest to be made not later than June 30, 1944: Provided further, That whenever the District of Columbia is under obligation by virtue of the provisions of section 4 of Public Act Numbered 284, Seventy-first Congress, 46 Stat. 482, ch. 354, reimbursement under that act shall not be less than $300,000 in any one fiscal year. (July 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 757, ch. 583, § 3.)

§ 9–218. Estimates and report to Congress.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall submit with their annual estimates to the Congress a report of their activities and expenditures under section 9–215. (July 11, 1940, 54 Stat. 758, ch. 583, § 4.)

The superintendent shall, before entering upon the performance of his duties, give bond to the District of Columbia in the penal sum of $5,000, signed by two sureties or by a bonding company, to be approved by the Commissioners, conditioned on the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before the Commissioners that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of his office, which bond and oath shall be deposited with the Commissioners. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1217, ch. 118, § 2.)

CHANGE OF TITLE

Title of Superintendent of Weights, Measures, and Markets, changed to Director, see § 10–101a.

§ 10–103 [28: 3]. Superintendent to have exclusive powers—Weighing and measuring devices to be examined—Condemnation of devices not conforming to standards—Unapproved weighing and measuring devices not to be possessed or used—Superintendent not required to approve devices belonging to United States.

The Superintendent and, under his direction, his assistants and inspectors, shall have exclusive power to perform all the duties provided in sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–136, and 10–138. They shall, at least every six months, and oftener when the Superintendent thinks proper, inspect, test, try, and ascertain whether or not they are correct, all weights, scales, beams, measures of every kind, instruments or mechanical devices for weighing or measuring, and all tools, appliances, or accessories connected with any or all such instruments or mechanical devices for weighing or measuring used or employed in the District of Columbia by any owner, agent, lessee, or employee in determining the weight, size, quantity, extent, area, or measurement of quantities, things, produce, or articles of any kind offered for transportation, sale, barter, exchange, hire, or award, or the weight of persons for a charge or compensation, and shall approve and seal, stamp, or mark, in the manner prescribed by the Commissioners, such devices or appliances as conform to the standards kept in the office of the Superintendent, and shall seize and destroy or mark, stamp, or tag with the word "condemned" such as do not conform to the standards, and shall also mark the date of such condemnation upon the same. Any weight, scale, beam, measure, weighing or measuring device of any kind which shall be found to be unsuitable for the purpose for which it is intended to be used or of defective construction or material shall be condemned. No person shall use or, having the same under his control, shall permit to be used for any of the purposes enumerated in said sections any weight, scale, beam, measure, weighing or measuring device whatsoever unless the same has been approved in accordance with the provisions of said sections within six months prior to such use, or that does not conform to the standards kept in the office of the Superintendent of Weights, Measures, and Markets, or that does not bear the approval seal, stamp, or mark prescribed by the Commissioners, or which, having been condemned, has not thereafter been approved as provided in said sections.

Any person who shall acquire or have in his possession after the passage of sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–135, and 10–138 any scale, weighing instrument, or nonportable measure or measuring device, subject to inspection or test under the provisions of said sections, which has not been approved in accordance with the provisions of said sections within six months prior to acquisition or possession and which does not bear the approval seal, stamp, or mark prescribed by the Commissioners, shall notify the Superintendent in writing at his office, giving a general description thereof, and the street and number or other location where same may be found, and it shall be the duty of the Superintendent to cause the same to be inspected and tested within a reasonable time after receipt of such notice. Any person who shall acquire or have in his possession after the passage of said sections any portable measure or measuring device, subject to inspection or test under the provisions of said sections, which has not been approved in accordance with the provisions of said sections within six months prior to acquisition or possession and which does not bear the approval seal, stamp, or mark prescribed by the Commissioners shall cause the same to be taken to the office of the Superintendent for inspection and test.

Every peddler, hawker, huckster, transient merchant, or other person with no fixed or established place of business shall, before using any weight, scale, measure, weighing or measuring device for any of the purposes enumerated in sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–136, and 10–138, cause the same to be taken to the office of the Superintendent for inspection and test semi-annually, and shall not use for the purposes herein mentioned any weight, scale, measure, weighing or measuring device which has not been approved within six months prior to the time of such use, and does not bear the approval seal, stamp, or mark prescribed by the Commissioners. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1217, ch. 118, § 3; Apr. 27, 1945, 59 Stat. 96, ch. 99, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEFENSES

Lack of intent to cheat is no defense. Great A. & P. Tea Co. v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 30, 89 Fed. (2d) 502, cert den. 301 U. S. 691, 81 L. Ed. 1347, 57 Sup. Ct. 794).

IMPLIED REPRESENTATION OF WEIGHT

In prosecution for selling under weight, there was an implied representation of weight by statement of price per pound, and total cost. Great A. & P. Tea Co. v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 30, 89 Fed. (2d) 502, cert. den. 301 U. S. 691, 81 L. Ed. 1347, 57 Sup. Ct. 794).

§ 10–108 [28: 8]. Commodities sold by weight—Net weight—"Ton" defined.

When any commodity is sold by weight it shall be net weight. When any commodity is sold by the ton, it shall be understood to mean two thousand pounds avoirdupois. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1219, ch. 118, § 8; Mar. 31, 1945, 59 Stat. 45, ch. 46, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Mar. 31, 1945, cited to text, amended section by omitting "except coal" following "any commodity" in second sentence, and omitted third sentence which read "Coal shall be sold by the long ton, consisting of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds avoirdupois.".

The catchline has been reworded.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 2 of the act of Mar. 31, 1945, cited to text, provided that this act should take effect on April 1, 1945.

§ 10–109 [28: 9]. Regulation of coin-in-slot and automatic vending devices—Responsible person—Placard—Contents.

No person, firm, or corporation shall erect, operate, or maintain, or cause to be erected, operated, or maintained within the District of Columbia any coin-in-the-slot machine or automatic vending device without placing in charge thereof some responsible person. No such machine shall be maintained for use when the same is not in perfect working order, and the person in charge as well as the owner of such machine or device shall be held responsible for operating or maintaining any such machine or device which is not in perfect working order. A sign or placard shall be placed on every such machine or device in a conspicuous place and shall contain the name and business address of the owner and of the person in charge of such machine or device, and shall state that the person in charge of such machine or device will refund to any person money deposited by him for which the commodity or service promised expressly or impliedly has not been received, and such person shall so refund such money. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1219, ch. 118, § 9.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 10–110 [28: 10]. Sales tickets—Furnished on request—Contents.

Every person, firm, or corporation shall, when a sales ticket is given with a purchase, cause such sales ticket to show the correct name and address of such person, firm, or corporation and the weight, measure, or numerical count, as the case may be, of each commodity sold to the purchaser, and every such person, firm, or corporation is hereby required to deliver such sales ticket to such purchaser when requested to do so by such purchaser at the time of sale. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1219, ch. 118, § 10.)

It shall be unlawful to sell or offer for sale in the District of Columbia any coal, charcoal, or coke in any manner other than by weight. No person shall sell or deliver or attempt to deliver to any purchaser within the District of Columbia any coal, charcoal, or coke unless the quantity so sold or delivered or attempted to be delivered to each purchaser shall have been weighed separately. No person shall deliver to any purchaser within the District of Columbia any coal, charcoal, or coke unless the same shall have been kept separated from any other coal, charcoal, coke, or other commodity after same has been weighed as aforesaid until final delivery thereof.

No person shall deliver or attempt to deliver any coal, charcoal, or coke in a quantity of one-fourth of a ton or more without accompanying the same by a delivery ticket and a duplicate thereof, the original of which shall be in ink or indelible substance, on each of which shall be clearly and distinctly expressed the following information:

(a) The gross weight of the load, the tare weight of the delivery vehicle, and the net weight of the coal, charcoal, or coke expressed in pounds avoirdupois;

(b) The name of the owner and location of the scale on which the coal, charcoal, or coke shall have been weighed;

(c) Name and address of the seller and of the purchaser; and

(d) The name of the person who weighed said coal, charcoal, or coke.

Upon demand of the Superintendent or any of his assistants or inspectors upon the person in charge of the vehicle of delivery, the original of these tickets shall be surrendered to the official making such demand. The duplicate ticket shall be delivered to the purchaser of said coal, charcoal, or coke, or to his agent or representative, at the time of delivery of such coal, charcoal, or coke. Upon demand of the Superintendent or any of his assistants or inspectors, or of the purchaser or intended purchaser, his agent, or representative, the person delivering such coal, charcoal, or coke shall convey the same forthwith to a public scale, owned and operated as hereinafter provided, or to any legally approved private scale in the District of Columbia, the owner of which may consent to its use, and shall permit the verifying of the weight, and after the delivery of such coal, charcoal, or coke shall return forthwith with the wagon, truck, or other vehicle used to the same scale and permit to be verified the weight of the wagon, truck or other vehicle.

When coal, charcoal, or coke is sold in quantities of one-fourth ton or more, it shall be sold in quantities of one-fourth ton, one-half ton, one ton, or in multiples of a ton. When coal, charcoal, or coke is sold in quantities of less than one-fourth ton, it shall be weighed at the time of delivery or sold in packages containing one hundred pounds, fifty pounds, twenty-five pounds, fifteen pounds, or ten pounds. No package of coal, charcoal, or coke shall be made for sale, kept for sale, offered for sale, exposed for sale, or sold unless it shall have distinctly and conspicuously printed on the outside thereof in plain bold-face type, not smaller than thirty-six point, the name of the commodity, the quantity of contents in pounds, and the name and address of the maker of said package. When coal, charcoal, or coke is sold and delivered in packages, no delivery ticket shall be required.

No coal, charcoal, or coke shall be sold which contains at the time the weight is taken more water or other liquid substance than is due to the natural condition of the coal, charcoal, or coke.

Every vendor of coal, charcoal, or coke shall cause his name and address to be distinctly and conspicuously displayed in letters and figures at least four inches high on both sides of every vehicle used by or for him for the sale or delivery of coal, charcoal, or coke. In case of an estate, the trustee, administrator, or executor, or other person in charge of the affairs of such estate shall be deemed to be the vendor. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1219, ch. 118, § 10; Apr. 27, 1945, 59 Stat. 97, ch. 99, § 3.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Apr. 27, 1945, cited to text, amended section generally.

The catchline has been rewritten.

CHANGE OF TITLE

Title of Superintendent of Weights, Measures, and Markets, changed to Director, see § 10–101a.

§ 10–112 [28: 12]. Ice—Sale by weight—Scales for weighing.

It shall be unlawful to sell, within the District of Columbia, any ice in any manner other than by weight, such weight to be ascertained at the time of delivery of such ice, and every person, or in case of a firm, copartnership, or corporation, the person in charge of its business in the District of Columbia, engaged in the sale of ice shall keep on each of his or its wagons or other vehicles used in the sale or delivery of ice, while in use, a scale suitable for weighing ice which has been tested and approved in accordance with the provisions of sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–136, 10–138. Every scale used for weighing ice in making sales in quantities of one hundred pounds or less shall have graduations of one pound or less. Scales used for weighing ice in making sales in quantities of more than one hundred pounds may have graduations of five pounds or less. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1220, ch. 118, § 12.)

§ 10–113 [28: 13]. Bread—Standard loaf—Label—Permissible variation in weight.

The standard loaf of bread manufactured for sale, sold, offered, or exposed for sale in the District of Columbia shall weigh one pound avoirdupois, but bread may also be manufactured for sale, sold, offered, or exposed for sale in loaves of one-half pound, one pound and a half, or multiples of one pound, but shall not be manufactured for sale, sold, offered, or exposed for sale in other than the aforesaid weights. Every loaf of bread manufactured for sale, sold, offered, or exposed for sale in the District of Columbia shall have affixed thereon in a conspicuous place, a label at least one inch square, or, if round, at least one inch in diameter, upon which label there shall be printed in plain bold-face Gothic type, not smaller than twelve point, the weight of the loaf in pound, pounds, or fractions of a pound, as the case may be, whether the loaf be a standard loaf or not, the letters and figures of which shall be printed in black ink upon white paper. The business name and address of the maker, baker, or manufacturer of the loaf shall also be plainly printed on each such label. Every seller of bread in the District of Columbia shall keep a suitable scale which shall have been inspected and approved in accordance with the provisions of sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–136, 10–138 in a conspicuous place in his bakery, bakeshop, or store, or other place where he is engaged in the sale of bread, and shall, whenever requested by the buyer, and in the presence of the buyer, weigh the loaf or loaves of bread sold or offered for sale. Nothing herein shall apply to crackers, pretzels, buns, rolls, scones, or to loaves of fancy bread weighing less than one-fourth of one pound avoirdupois, or to what is commonly known as stale bread, provided the seller shall, at the time the sale is made, expressly state to the buyer that the bread so sold is stale bread: Provided, That any loaf of bread weighing within 10 per centum in excess or within 4 per centum less than standard weight shall be deemed of legal weight. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1220, ch. 118, § 13; Aug. 24, 1921, 42 Stat. 201, ch. 92.)

AMENDMENT

The acts of March 3, 1921, and August 24, 1921, are the same, except that in the first sentence after "loaves of one-half pound" there have been inserted the words "one pound and a half" and in the same sentence the word "weight" changed to "weights."

§ 10–114 [28: 14]. Bottles or jars for sale of milk—Markings.

Bottles or jars used for the sale of milk or cream shall be of the capacity of one gallon, half gallon, three pints, one quart, one pint, half pint, or one gill. Such bottles or jars shall have clearly blown or otherwise permanently marked in the side of each such bottle or jar or printed on the cap or stopple the name and address of the person, firm, or corporation who or which shall have bottled such milk or cream. Any person who uses, for the purpose of selling milk or cream, bottles or jars which do not comply with the requirements of this section shall be deemed guilty of using false measure. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1221, ch. 118, § 14; Apr. 27, 1945, 59 Stat. 98, ch. 99, § 4.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Apr. 27, 1945, cited to text, amended section by omitting "when filled to the bottom of the cap seat, stopple, or other designating mark" in the first sentence.

Basket to have cover six and one-fourth inches by fourteen inches, when cover is used.

The standard twelve-quart climax basket shall be of the following dimensions: Length of bottom piece, sixteen inches; width of bottom piece, six and one-half inches; thickness of bottom piece, seven-sixteenths of an inch; height of basket, seven and one-sixteenth inches, outside measurement; top of basket, length nineteen inches, width nine inches, outside measurement. Basket to have cover nine inches by nineteen inches, when cover is used.

(c) The six-basket carrier crate for fruits and vegetables shall contain six four-quart baskets, each basket having a capacity of two hundred and sixty-eight and eight-tenths cubic inches.

(d) The four-basket flat crate for fruits and vegetables shall contain four three-quart baskets, each basket having a capacity of two hundred and one and six-tenths cubic inches.

(e) The standard box, basket, or other container for berries, cherries, shelled peas, shelled beans, and other fruits and vegetables of similar size shall be of the following capacities standard dry measure: One-half pint, pint, and quart. The one-half pint shall contain sixteen and eight-tenths cubic inches; the pint shall contain thirty-three and six-tenths cubic inches; the quart shall contain sixty-seven and two-tenths cubic inches.

(f) Standard lug boxes for fruits and vegetables shall be the one-half bushel box and the one-bushel box.

The one-half bushel lug box shall be of the following inside dimensions: Length, seventeen inches; width, ten and five-tenths inches; depth, six inches.

The one-bushel lug box shall be of the following inside dimensions: Length, twenty and three-fourths inches; width, thirteen inches; depth, eight inches; and no lug box of other than the foregoing dimensions shall be used in the District of Columbia.

(g) The standard hampers for fruits and vegetables shall be the one-peck hamper, one-half bushel-hamper, one-bushel hamper, and one and one-half-bushel hamper.

The one-peck hamper shall contain five hundred and thirty-seven and six-tenths cubic inches; the one-half-bushel hamper shall contain one thousand and seventy-five and twenty-one one-hundredths cubic inches. The one-bushel hamper shall contain two thousand one hundred and fifty and forty-two one-hundredths cubic inches, and the one and one-half-bushel hamper shall contain three thousand two hundred and twenty-five and sixty-three one-hundredths cubic inches.

(h) The standard round-stave baskets for fruits and vegetables shall be the one-half-bushel basket, one-bushel basket, one and one-half-bushel basket, and two-bushel basket.

The one-half-bushel basket shall contain one thousand and seventy-five and twenty-one one-hundredths cubic inches. The one-bushel basket shall contain two thousand one hundred and fifty and forty-two one-hundredths cubic inches. The one- and one-half-bushel basket shall contain three thousand two hundred and twenty-five and sixty-three one-hundredths cubic inches, and the two-bushel basket shall contain four thousand three hundred and eighty-four one-hundredths cubic inches.

(i) The standard apple box shall contain two thousand one hundred and seventy-three and five-tenths cubic inches and be of the following inside dimensions: Length, eighteen inches; width, eleven and one-half inches; depth, ten and one-half inches.

(j) The standard pear box shall be of the following inside dimensions: Length, eighteen inches; width, eleven and one-half inches; depth, eight and one-half inches.

(k) The standard onion crate shall be of the following inside dimensions: Length, nineteen and five-eighths inches; width, eleven and three-sixteenths inches; depth, nine and thirteen-sixteenths inches.

(l) No person shall sell, offer, or expose for sale in the District of Columbia any fruits, vegetables, grain, or similar commodities in any manner except in the standard containers herein prescribed or by weight or numerical count; and no person shall sell, offer, or expose for sale, except by weight or numerical count, in the District of Columbia any commodity in any container herein prescribed which does not contain, at the time of such offer, exposure, or sale, the full capacity of such commodity compactly filled: Provided, That fresh beets, onions, turnips, rhubarb, and other similar vegetables, usually and customarily sold by the bunch, may be sold by the bunch.

All kale, spinach, and other similar leaf vegetables shall be sold at retail by net weight. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1221, ch. 118, § 15.)

§ 10–121 [28: 21]. "Barrel of corn" defined.

Three hundred and fifty pounds of corn on the cob shall constitute a barrel and two hundred and eighty pounds of shelled corn shall constitute a barrel: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be held to prohibit the sale of corn on the cob by the barrel. (Mar. 3, 1899, 30 Stat. 1346, ch. 432, § 2.)

§ 10–122 [28: 22]. Automatic measuring pumps—"Out of use" sign—Inspection.

Every user of an automatic measuring pump or similar device, shall, when the supply of the commodity which he is measuring for sale with such pump or similar device, is insufficient to deliver correct measure of such commodity by the usual or customary method of operating such pump or device or when, for any cause whatever, such pump or device does not, by the usual or customary method of operating same, deliver correct measure, place a sign with the words, "Out of use" in a conspicuous place on such pump or device where it may readily be seen, and shall forthwith cease to use the same until his supply of such commodity is replenished or until such pump or device is repaired, adjusted, or otherwise put in condition to deliver correct measure. All automatic measuring pumps or other similar measuring devices in use shall be subject to inspection, and approval or condemnation, whether used for measuring or not. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1223, ch. 118, § 20.)

§ 10–123 [28: 23]. Sale of pro rata quantity to be at pro rata price unless purchaser informed to contrary.

Whenever any commodity is offered for sale at a stated price for a stated quantity, a smaller quantity shall be sold at a pro rata price unless the purchaser is informed to the contrary at the time of sale. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1224, ch. 118, § 21.)

§ 10–124 [28: 24]. Superintendent shall weigh, measure, and inspect commodities.

The superintendent, or under his direction, his assistants and inspectors, shall from time to time weigh or measure and inspect packages or amounts of commodities of whatever kind kept for sale, offered or exposed for sale, sold, or in the process of delivery, in order to determine whether or not the same are kept for sale, offered for sale, or sold in accordance with the provisions of sections 10–101 to 10–120, 10–122 to 10–134, 10–136, 10–138, and no person shall refuse to permit such weighing, measuring, or inspection whenever demanded by the superintendent or any of his assistants or inspectors. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1224, ch. 118, § 22.)

CHANGE OF TITLE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INTENT

To permit a defendant charged with a violation of the statute to avoid the consequences by contending that it was a mistake on his part, without intent to cheat and defraud the customer, would measurably defeat the purpose of the statute. Great A. & P. Tea Co. v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 30, 89 Fed. (2d) 502, cert. den. 301 U. S. 691, 81 L. Ed. 1347, 57 Sup. Ct. 794).

§ 10–135 [28: 35]. Jurisdiction over fish wharf and market—Leases, rentals, fees—Regulations.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed in the name of the District of Columbia to exclusively control, regulate, and operate as a municipal fish wharf and market, the water frontage on the Potomac River lying south of Water Street, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, including the buildings and wharves thereon, and said wharf shall constitute the sole wharf for the landing of fish and oysters for sale in the District of Columbia; and said commissioners shall have power to make leases, fix and determine rentals, wharfage and dockage fees, and to collect and pay the same into the treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia, and to make and amend, from time to time, all such regulations as they may deem proper for the control, regulation, and operation of said municipal fish wharf and market. (Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 72, ch. 958; Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 941, ch. 150; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1906 read as follows: "That the commissioners of the District of Columbia be, and they are hereby, authorized and empowered to make such regulations as they may deem proper for the sale of the rights and privileges of the fish wharf in the District of Columbia: Provided,

That no letting or sale of such rights or privileges shall be for a longer term than one year."

Prior to the act of 1921, the section provided that rentals and fees should be paid into the treasury, one-half to the credit of the United States and one-half to the credit of the District of Columbia.

§ 10–136 [28: 36]. Markets—Disposition of receipts—Charges.

On and after July 1, 1906, all receipts of the Wholesale Producers' Market, including the receipts for the occupation of the south side of B street northwest, and the farmers' street markets adjacent to the Eastern, Western and Georgetown markets, respectively, shall be paid to the collector of taxes, to the credit of the revenues of the District, weekly. And the commissioners are hereby authorized to make such reasonable charges for the use of space at the above-mentioned street markets as may be deemed just, but in no case shall the collections for such space and for labor, and the sweeping, cleaning and hauling away of refuse at such space exceed the sum of twenty cents per day for each space occupied, and the market masters of the several markets herein mentioned shall make such collections daily and make a return thereof, with a sworn statement, weekly to the collector of taxes to the credit of the revenues of the District of Columbia. AMENDMENTS

The act of 1913 changed the limitation of 10 cents per day to 20 cents per day.

The act of 1921 repealed the act appointing a sealer and assistant sealer of weights and measures in the District of Columbia, so that the provision for payment of receipts to the collector of taxes through the sealer of weights and measures, which appeared in the 1906 Act, has been omitted.

§ 10–137 [28: 37]. Farmers' produce market—Regulations—Charges.

The area of squares 354 and 355 and the portion of F Street southwest within the adjacent curb lines of Tenth and Eleventh Streets southwest when same shall have been acquired and closed, shall be used and occupied by the District of Columbia as and for the purposes of a wholesale farmers' produce market.

And the said commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to make, promulgate, and enforce all appropriate rules and regulations for the control and operation of such market when established, and may establish a reasonable scale of charges to be paid by farmers and others making use of the market or of any of its appurtenant facilities. (Mar. 2, 1929, 45 Stat. 1487, ch. 501.)

By the act of July 3, 1930 (46 Stat. 952, ch. 848), the following appropriation in connection with the farmers' produce market was made: "For the acquisition of squares numbered 354 and 355, including all necessary expenses for the clearing and leveling of the ground, the erection of protection sheds and suitable stands and stalls, and the installation of sanitary conveniences and heating and telephone service, in accordance with the provisions of the Act entitled 'An Act authorizing acquisition of a site for the farmers' produce market, and for other purposes,' approved March 2, 1929 (45 Stat., p. 1487), $300,000, to be immediately available."

With reference to this market, the act of August 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 1215, ch. 457, provided that, "Whereas a farm market was conducted on Louisiana Avenue between Ninth and Twelfth Streets for thirty or forty years under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture; and

"Whereas the farmers were induced to give up this market on condition that other land of equal size and value would be obtained; and

"Whereas three hundred thousand dollars was appropriated in March 1929 for this purpose; and

"Whereas two city blocks, known as 354 and 355 in southwest Washington, were obtained and deeded to the District of Columbia to be used expressly for a farmers' market; and

"Whereas part of block 355 has now been taken for a District inspection station in direct opposition to this agreement and breaking the implied contract that this project would be available for a farm market; and

"Whereas there is danger of the rest of the market also being confiscated: Therefore be it

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the remaining parts of these lots shall from now on be inviolate as a farmers' market and shall not be taken from them as long as needed by said farmers as a market place."

CENTER MARKET—HISTORICAL

The following law is considered obsolete but is preserved as a note for whatever historical value it may have. It appeared in the D. C. Code, 1929 edition, as follows: "Center Market; spaces for sale of produce; no penalty to be imposed for sale by farmer or producer of sound produce.—The provisions of the ordinance of the City of Washington approved May 27, 1857, requiring the clerks of the several markets to lay off and mark in convenient spaces the several pavements adjoining and bordering on the market squares, which spaces may be used for the sale or exposure for sale of vegetables or other country produce, and extending the powers of the clerks to fifteen feet of the streets, measuring from the curb line on which said squares front, shall apply to the south front of Center Market and to a clerk who may be designated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. The said ordinance shall be applicable to farmers and truckmen raising produce doing business on the north side of B Street north along the south front of the Center Market in said City of Washington: Provided, That no fine or fee be assessed or punishment shall be imposed upon any farmer or producer for selling at any time within the District during market hours any article of provision or vegetable grown or produced by him and sound and fit for use. (Feb. 20, 1897, 29 Stat. 702, Res. No. 16; June 27, 1906, 34 Stat. 485, ch. 3553; Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 940, ch. 150; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1225, ch. 118, § 33.)"

The act of June 6, 1930 (46 Stat. 523, ch. 412), provided for the termination of the lease of the Washington Market Company upon notice by the Secretary of Agriculture, and that "thereafter the property known as Center Market in the District of Columbia shall no longer be used as a public market."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CENTER MARKET

Under the act of May 20, 1870, chartering the Washington Market Company and authorizing the establishment of a market in the City of Washington, and the rental of stalls therein by auction, holders of stalls are not authorized to continue in possession of such stalls indefinitely upon payment of rental. Washington Market Co. v. Hoffman (11 Otto (101 U. S.) 112, 25 L. Ed. 782).

The act of May 20, 1870, chartering the Washington Market Co. and authorizing the erection of a market building, provided for the rental of stalls to the highest bidder at auction, and that at the end of 30 years the City of Washington might take possession on paying for the buildings and improvements, and that the property should revert to the United States in 99 years. Washington Market Co. v. Hoffman (11 Otto (101 U. S.) 112, 25 L. Ed. 782); District of Columbia v. Washington Market Co. (108 U. S. 243, 27 L. Ed. 714, 2 Sup. Ct. 543).

The act incorporating the Washington Market Company (Act May 20, 1870), and fixing the terms for the use of the public property granted to it, did not establish an irrevocable trust for the poor of Washington City, nor disable itself from authorizing any subsequent changes in the conditions of the grant, nor estop the market company from becoming parties to an arrangement for additional uses of the land on an equitable apportionment of the rent. District of Columbia v. Washington Market Co. (108 U. S. 243, 27 L. Ed. 714, 2 Sup. Ct. 543).

The act of May 20, 1870, ch. 108, 16 Stat. 124, chartering the Washington Market Co., was not repealed by act of March 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1441. Nusbaum v. District of Columbia (58 App. D. C. 47, 24 Fed. (2d) 622).

§ 11–101 [18: 1]. Courts.

The judicial power in the District shall be vested in—

First. Inferior courts, namely, municipal court, juvenile court of the District of Columbia, and the police court; and

Second. Superior courts, namely, the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and the Supreme Court of the United States. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1190, ch. 854, § 2; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; June 7, 1934, 48 Stat. 926, ch. 426; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804.)

AMENDMENTS

Section 2 of the act of 1901 originally provided for inferior courts, consisting of justices of the peace and police courts, and for superior courts, namely, the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and the Supreme Court of the United States. Other sections of this act established courts of justices of the peace and the police court.

The act of 1906 established the juvenile court.

The act of 1909 changed the name and jurisdiction of the court of justices of the peace to the municipal court.

The act of 1934 changed the name of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

The act of 1936 changed the name of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

In the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, references to District Courts include the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and references to a Circuit Court of Appeals include United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, see Rule 81 (d).

CONSTITUTION

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia are constitutional courts of the United States ordained and established under article 3 of the Federal Constitution. O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740).

HISTORICAL

In 1863, all the powers and jurisdiction, previously possessed by the Circuit Court of the District, including the appellate jurisdiction from justices of the peace, were transferred by Congress to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Capital Traction Co. v. Hof (174 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 873, 19 Sup. Ct. 580).

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

Justices of the peace in the District were judicial officers, and held their office for five years. They were authorized to hold courts, and have cognizance of personal demands of value of $20. Marbury v. Madison (1 Cranch (5 U. S.) 137, 2 L. Ed. 60).

Historical survey of justice of the peace courts. Capital Traction Co. v. Hof (174 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 873, 19 Sup. Ct. 580).

Organic Act of February 27, 1801, 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15, § 11, provided for justices of the peace and fixed the compensation which they were to have for their services in holding their courts. This compensation was given in the form of fees, payable when the services were rendered. That the justice's compensation could not be diminished during his continuance in office, seemed to follow as a necessary consequence from the provisions of the Constitution. O'Malley v. Woodrough (307 U. S. 277, 83 L. Ed. 1289, 59 Sup. Ct. 838, 122 A. L. R. 1379).

MUNICIPAL COURT

The municipal court is a part of the judicial system of the District. W. B. Moses & Sons v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194).

TERMS

Under the terms of the act establishing the Supreme Court of the District, the court consisted of four justices, any three of whom could hold a general term, and any one of whom could hold a Circuit Court or special term for the purposes and under the conditions therein prescribed, or could hold a District Court of the United States in the same manner and with the same powers and jurisdiction as are possessed and exercised by the Federal District Courts within the several States. Smith v. Mason (14 Wall. (81 U. S.) 419, 20 L. Ed. 748).

§ 11–102 [18: 2]. Justices may withdraw books from Library of Congress.

The chief justice and associate justices of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and the chief justice and associate justices of the District Court of the United States for the said District are authorized to use and take books from the Library of Congress in the same manner and subject to the same regulations as justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. (Jan. 27, 1894, 28 Stat. 577, Res. No. 9.)

§ 11–103. Courthouse construction authorized—Cost—Repayment to U. S.

The Federal Works Administrator is hereby authorized to construct, equip, and furnish the building for the use of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, the planning and site acquisition of which were authorized by the Act of May 29, 1947 (Public Law 80, Eightieth Congress), under a total limit of cost for the entire project of $18,665,000, including architectural, engineering, and administrative expenses (which limit of cost also includes the credit of $2,420,000 granted the District of Columbia as compensation for the site of the project by said Act of May 29, 1947, and the $370,000 for plans and specifications heretofore appropriated under Public Law 271, Eightieth Congress, approved July 30, 1947): Provided, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall repay to the United States, over a period of twenty-five years, 50 per centum of the cost of the entire project upon completion, less the credit of $2,420,000 granted the District of Columbia as compensation for the site of the project by said Act of May 29, 1947, in equal annual installments, beginning with the July 1 next following the date of completion of the project: Provided further, That the cost of operation, maintenance, and repair of the completed project shall be divided equally between the United States of America and the District of Columbia. (May 14, 1948, 62 Stat. 235, ch. 290, § 1.)

§ 11–104. Maintenance and operation of new courthouse.

The operation, maintenance, and repair of the completed building shall be under the control of the Public Buildings Administration, in the Federal Works Agency, and the allocation of space therein shall be vested in the chief justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and the chief justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (May 14, 1948, 62 Stat. 235, ch. 290, § 2.)

There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of sections 11–103 and 11–104. (May 14, 1948, 62 Stat. 235, ch. 290, § 3.)

Section relating to the constitution of the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia was based on Act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 434, ch. 74, § 1; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 221; June 19, 1930, 46 Stat. 785, ch. 538; May 31, 1938, 52 Stat. 584, ch. 290, § 2, and is now covered by section 44 of title 28, U. S. C.

Compiler's Notes

The Code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189–1436, ch. 854, §§ 1 to 1642, was the last code of the District enacted as original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

In this section and all sections, the words "Court of Appeals" were changed to read "United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia," on the authority of act of June 7, 1934, 48 Stat. 926, ch. 426.

Amendments

By act of June 19, 1930, 46 Stat. 785, ch. 538, "The President is authorized to appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, two additional justices of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, who shall have the same tenure of office, pay and emoluments, powers, and duties as provided by law for the justices of said court."

By act of May 31, 1938, 52 Stat. 584, ch. 290, § 2, "The President is authorized to appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, one additional associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia."

AMENDMENTS

Section 224 of act of 1901 was amended by act of 1902 so as to add to the caption thereof the words "crier and messenger"; also by adding at the end of the section the following: "Said court may appoint a crier at a compensation not to exceed $75 a month and a messenger at a compensation not to exceed $60 a month, both payable at the Treasury of the United States, who shall perform such duties as may be assigned by that court."

The section as enacted contained a provision providing that the clerk should "receive as compensation for his services, in the discretion of the court, an annual salary not to exceed the sum of $3,000 payable monthly at the Treasury of the United States," preceding the provision concerning his bond.

It also contained a provision that the deputy clerk should "receive as compensation for his services, in the discretion of the court, an annual salary not to exceed the sum of $2,000 payable monthly at the Treasury of the United States."

The salaries of the clerk, deputy clerk, bailiffs, crier, and messenger are now fixed by the Classification Act of 1923 (U. S. C., title 5, § 673).

Act of Aug. 23, 1912, 37 Stat. 412, ch. 350, provided that "on and after July 1, 1912, the surplus fees collected by the clerk of the Supreme Court (District Court of the United States for) of the District of Columbia shall be deposited in the Treasury, one-half to the credit of the District of Columbia."

The act of Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7, provided in effect, that on and after July 1, 1921, all fees, fines, and other miscellaneous items were to be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District in proportion to fiscal-year appropriations.

Act of May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 654, ch. 659, provided: "In order to defray the expenses of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, any revenue (not including the proportionate share of the United States in any revenue arising as the result of the expenditure of appropriations made for the fiscal year 1924 and prior fiscal years) now required by law to be credited to the District of Columbia and the United States in the same proportion that each contributed to the activity or source from whence such revenue was derived shall be credited wholly to the District of Columbia, and, in addition, $9,000,000 is appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be advanced July 1, 1928, and all the remainder out of the combined revenues of the District of Columbia and such advances from the Federal Treasury as are authorized in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1923."

The above paragraph has appeared, at least in substance, at the beginning of each subsequent appropriation act including that of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, except that the last mentioned act leaves out the words "and such advances from the Federal Treasury as authorized in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1923."

Sec. 15 of the act June 25, 1948, cited to text, effective Sept. 1, 1948, amended section by deleting reference to "Assistant Clerk."

Sec. 137 of the act of May 24, 1949, cited to text, struck out the word "clerk" appearing after the word "deputy" in the first sentence of the section, and inserted in lieu thereof the word "clerks".

Cross Reference

The Federal Government now makes a lump-sum appropriation for the District, § 47–134.

§ 11–205 [18: 25]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section relating to terms and rules was based on act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 435 ch. 74, § 6; July 30, 1894, 28 Stat. 161, ch. 172, § 2; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1225, ch. 854, § 225, and is now covered by sections 43, 47 and 48 of title 28, U. S. C.

In re Bernhard (244 U. S. 646, 61 L. Ed. 1369, 37 Sup. Ct. 741).

Remedial Writs

This court must receive the interpretation which was given it by the Court of Appeals. United States ex rel. Queen v. Alvey (182 U. S. 456, 45 L. Ed. 1180, 21 Sup. Ct. 876).

Rule is still in force and has been interpreted to include the perfecting of an appeal by filing bond, and is the only rule governing the time within which appeals from the Supreme Court of the District shall be taken or perfected. Ex parte Dante (228 U. S. 429, 57 L. Ed. 905, 33 Sup. Ct. 579).

Mandamus was refused, to compel the Court of Appeals of the District to reinstate a bill of exceptions, which was stricken out for failure to comply with rules. Ex parte First Nat. Bank (228 U. S. 516, 57 L. Ed. 946, 33 Sup. Ct. 591).

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia which, on appeal from Federal Communications Commission's decision, compelled obedience to its correction of legal error, could not, on petition for a writ of mandamus, command commission to set aside its order designating application for hearing on a comparative basis with two other applications and to hear and reconsider application on basis of record as originally made and in accordance with court's opinions. Federal Communications Commission v. Pottsville Broadcasting Co., 1940 (60 S. Ct. 437, 309 U. S. 134, 84 L. Ed. 656, reversing 105 F. 2d 36, 70 App. Div. 157, certiorari granted 60 S. Ct. 107; 308 U. S. 535, 84 L. Ed. 451).

A motion for leave to amend petition for mandamus so as to make the petition an appeal from judgment would be denied in view of rule 73 (a), 28 U. S. C. following § 723c, requiring an appeal to be taken by filing with District Court a notice of appeal. In re De Marcos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 841, 78 U. S. C. App. D. C. 187).

Rules—Application

Rules of court "have the force of law, and are binding upon the court and upon the suitors, and those who represent suitors." They can not be dispensed with by the court to meet the hardship of a particular case. Murphy v. Gould (39 App. D. C. 363, cert. den. 226 U. S. 613, 57 L. Ed. 382, 33 Sup. Ct. 325); citing District of Columbia v. Humphries (11 App. D. C. 68); District of Columbia v. Roth (18 App. D. C. 547); Talty v. District of Columbia (20 App. D. C. 489); United States ex rel. Mulvihill v. Clabaugh (21 App. D. C. 440).

Assignments of Error

Ordinarily, the Court of Appeals will not examine the record to ascertain whether the evidence supports a conviction, in the absence of assignments of error. Clinton v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 12, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 413).

Bill of Exceptions

Where, after hearing case on its merits, Court of Appeals struck out a bill of exceptions as not being in conformity with rules, Supreme Court of United States would not by mandamus compel its reinstatement. Ex parte First Nat. Bank (228 U. S. 516, 57 L. Ed. 946, 33 Sup. Ct. 591).

Conclusiveness of Findings

The Court of Appeals should be slow to substitute its own view of the facts, even if strongly to the contrary, for that of the judge who saw the parties and heard them testify. White v. White (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 157, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 156).

In suit to quiet title, it is duty of federal appellate court to accept findings of trial court warranted in the evidence. U. S. v. Belt, 1944 (142 F. 2d 761, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 87).

The truth thereof not being denied, a finding by the District Court for the District of Columbia that claims were rejected by the Patent Office solely because the applicant for a patent failed to present a claim suggested by the Examiner would be accepted on appeal as correct. Ethyl Gasoline Corporation v. Coe, 1944 (139 F. 2d 372, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 233).

Circumstantial evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for second-degree murder. Morton v. U. S., 1945 (147 F. 2d 28, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 329, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1015, 324 U. S. 875, 89 L. Ed. 1428; see also 179 F. 2d 957).

The verdict of a jury must be sustained if there is substantial evidence, taking the view most favorable to the government, to support it. Morton v. U. S., 1945 (147 F. 2d 28, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 329, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1015, 324 U. S. 875, 89 L. Ed. 1428; see also 179 F. 2d 957).

Correction of Errors

Even if federal appellate court has power to issue writ of mandamus or prohibition, where error, if any, can be corrected on appeal, the power should not be exercised except in rare and extraordinary cases. Dilling v. U. S., 1944 (142 F. 2d 473, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 47).

Error, if any, in trial judge's rejection of affidavits of bias and prejudice because they failed to comply with statutory requirements both as to time of filing and as to manner of certification could be corrected on appeal. Dilling v. U. S., 1944 (142 F. 2d 473, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 47).

Costs

Wife was not warranted in taking appeal from divorce judgment after having accepted alimony payments thereunder in view of ruling by Court of Appeals in prior case, and hence wife was not entitled to have husband pay costs of appeal, which was dismissed, or to counsel fees on appeal. Stein v. Stein (C. A., D. C. 1948, 170 F. 2d 162).

Death of Appellant

Where appeal was taken from judgment for plaintiff in action on a foreign judgment for arrears of alimony but defendant thereafter died, motion by plaintiff for a rule, directed to defendant's widow, to show cause why appeal should not be dismissed would be denied without prejudice on ground that whatever persons might be interested in estate and might yet procure appointment of representatives of the estate should not be foreclosed from litigating appeal through such representatives. Griffin v. Griffin (App. D. C. 1947, 164 F. 2d 906; appeal dismissed 176 F. 2d 68, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 427).

Filing Transcript

An appeal which is not to operate as a supersedeas is within the provisions of this rule as to time for filing transcript, promulgated under authority of 27 Stat. 434, ch. 74. United States ex rel. Queen v. Alvey (182 U. S. 456, 45 L. Ed. 1180, 21 Sup. Ct. 876).

Final Order

For purposes of review of order of Civil Aeronautics Board, there was no "final order" until rehearing had been denied by the board. Braniff Airways v. Civil Aeronautics Bd., 1945 (147 F. 2d 152, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 341).

"Final orders, judgments and decrees" which are subject to review are those which expressly or by necessary implication determine rights and liabilities of all parties with reference to matter in controversy and leave nothing of a judicial character to be done. Stewart v. Roberts (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 697).

An order denying motion for judgment in accordance with previous motion for directed verdict and, in effect, restoring case to docket for retrial was not an appealable "final order", and appeal was required to be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Stewart v. Roberts (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 697).

Judgment on the Pleadings

In reviewing judgment for plaintiff which was entered on the pleadings, case must be treated as if facts alleged in answer were established. National Metropolitan Bank v. U. S., 1945 (65 S. Ct. 354, 323 U. S. 454, 89 L. Ed. 383).

Judgments

Appellate courts sustain judgments which they think are right for reasons other than those which the trial courts gave. Laughlin v. Eicher, 1944 (145 F. 2d 700, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 266, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1403, 325 U. S. 866, 89 L. Ed. 1985).

Jurisdiction

The Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, like the several Circuit Courts of Appeal, is without jurisdiction over original suits conferred on District Courts. American Federation of Labor v. National Labor Relations Board, 1940 (60 S. Ct. 300, 308 U. S. 401, 84 L. Ed. 347, affirming 103 F. 2d 933, 70 App. D. C. 62, certiorari granted 60 S. Ct. 76, 308 U. S. 531, 84 L. Ed. 448).

The United States Court of Appeals, for the District of Columbia had jurisdiction of petitions to review order of Securities and Exchange Commission denying applications of corporations for declaration of their status under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, 15 U. S. C. § 79x (a). Koppers United Co. v. Securities and Exchange Commission, 1944 (138 F. 2d 577, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 151).

The United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia has jurisdiction to vacate National Labor Relations Board's certification of a bargaining representative, provided an affirmative showing is made that the Board has acted arbitrarily in the ordering or conducting of the election. Reilly v. Millis (D. C., D. C. 1944, 52 F. Supp. 172, affirmed 144 F. 2d 259, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 171, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1566, 325 U. S. 879, 89 L. Ed.).

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is without power to determine on appeal whether verdicts were excessive. Behrman v. Sims (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 862).

Moot Questions

A court is not empowered to decide moot questions or abstract propositions or to declare, for the government of future cases, principles which cannot affect the result as to the thing in issue in the case before it. Nelson v. B. Simon Hardware Co., 1944 (145 F. 2d 386; 79 U. S. App. D. C. 250).

Where motion to dismiss, filed after decision was rendered, disclosed that parties had settled case, judgment would be vacated and appeal dismissed, and cause remanded with directions to dismiss case as moot.—Mueller Brass Co. v. Alexander Milburn Co. (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 142).

Opinion by Divided Court

Affirmance of judgment or order of trial court when appellate court is equally divided is not a "decision," and it does not affirm the decision of the trial court. Lambros v. Young, 1944 (145 F. 2d 341, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 247).

Power to Make Rules

Court of Appeals of the District was authorized by this section to make rules limiting the time of taking appeals to the court from decisions of Commissioner of Patents. In re Hien (166 U. S. 432, 41 L. Ed. 1066, 17 Sup. Ct. 624).

This section authorized the Court of Appeals to make rules and regulations for the transaction of its business and the taking of appeals to it, with power to prescribe what should constitute the record. Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

Questions Not Raised Below

The power of an appellate court on its own motion to consider grounds of error not raised below is not one which should be exercised in an ordinary case, but where it is apparent on face of record that a miscarriage of justice may occur because counsel has not properly protected his client by timely objection, error which had been waived below may be considered on review. Shokuwan Shimabukuro v. Higeyoshi Nagayama, 1944 (140 F. 2d 13, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 271, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1270, 322 U. S. 755, 88 L. Ed. 1584).

In action to recover money allegedly advanced and evidenced by 384 entries on nine sheets of scrap paper, where court instructed jury, in effect, that they could choose among the 384 items, rejecting those items they believed to be false and not made contemporaneously with the loans and accepting the balance without requiring jury to consider authenticity of any of exhibits as a whole, and amount of verdict suggested that jury accepted the court's invitation to guess and compromise, instruction was erroneous and appellate court could notice the error on its own motion. Shokuwan Shimabukuro v. Higeyoshi Nagayama, 1944 (140 F. 2d 13, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 271, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1270, 322 U. S. 755, 88 L. Ed. 1584).

Where employer's counsel assured trial court that he was satisfied with instructions given, it was too late on appeal from judgment for employee to complain that instructions were insufficient because they did not authorize credit for sums which employee might have earned in mitigation of damages. Spigel v. Gumenick, 1944 (141 F. 2d 19, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 361).

A ruling of the court that a question propounded by a party to his own witness should not be answered must be followed by an offer of the testimony expected or by something which would clearly indicate it, if it is desired to reserve the point for review in the appellate court. Mas v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 32, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 223, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 267).

Questions Reviewable

On defendants' appeal from denial of motion to dismiss complaint or in alternative for summary judgment, the question before appellate court was the sufficiency of the complaint. National War Labor Board v. U. S. Gypsum Co., 1944 (145 F. 2d 97, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 239, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 857, 324 U. S. 856, 89 L. Ed. 1415, rehearing denied 65 S. Ct. 1011, 324 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 1437).

Report made by National War Labor Board to Director of Economic Stabilization and to the President because of employer's noncompliance with directive order of the board was merely advisory and correctness of the administrative advice could not be reviewed by court. National War Labor Board v. U. S. Gypsum Co., 1944 (145 F. 2d 97, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 239, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 857, 324 U. S. 856, 89 L. Ed. 1415, rehearing denied 65 S. Ct. 1011, 324 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 1437).

It is not the function of appellate courts to retry cases on intangibles involved in evidence which might have been, but was not, introduced at the trial. Morton v. U. S., 1945 (147 F. 2d 28, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 329, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1015, 324 U. S. 875, 89 L. Ed. 1428).

The Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has power to review decisions of Board of Tax Appeals for the District as under equity practice in which the whole case, both facts and law, are open for consideration, subject to rule that findings of fact are treated as presumptively correct and accepted unless clearly wrong. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. District of Columbia (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 867).

RECORD

Where nature of offense does not on its face justify severity of sentence against a minor it is important that trial court insist that enough facts appear on record to indicate the basis for its action as the absence of such a showing lends at least some support to inference that minor did not intelligently waive counsel because it indicates that the assistance of counsel might have been of great benefit to him. Williams v. Huff, 1945 (146 F. 2d 867, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

REMAND

Where United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia erroneously reversed conviction on only one ground and did not pass upon other grounds urged for reversal, the judgment would be reversed and the case remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with opinion. U. S. v. Beach, 1945 (65 S. Ct. 602, 324 U. S. 193, 89 L. Ed. 865, opinion conformed to 149 F. 2d 837).

Although it is always desirable, on a trial to a judge without a jury, that the facts should be found to aid the court of appeals in understanding the basis of the decision, where the record as a whole did not present a genuine issue as to any material fact, case would not be sent back to the district court for special findings of fact. Burman v. Lenkin Const. Co. (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 827, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 125).

RES JUDICATA

Where record disclosed no ground for appeal, and petitioner sought to have the appellate court determine that he was entitled to a jury trial, and that question had been decided on appeal adversely to petitioner, appellate court was without jurisdiction to take any action respecting such matter. In re De Marcos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 841, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 187).

TIME FOR APPEAL

Appeal was properly dismissed when not taken within the time prescribed by the rules. Ex parte Dante (228 U. S. 429, 57 L. Ed. 905, 33 Sup. Ct. 579).

The rules of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, including rule 10, providing that no judgment of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia or any justice thereof shall be reviewed by the Court of Appeals unless the appeal shall be taken within 20 days after the judgment complained of shall have been made or pronounced, have the force of law, Hill v. Hawes, 1942 (132 F. 2d 569, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 308, certiorari granted, 1943, 63 S. Ct. 852, 318 U. S. 753, 87 L. Ed. 283, reversed on other grounds 64 S. Ct. 334, 320 U. S. 520, 149 A. L. R. 736, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 515, 321 U. S. 801, 88 L. Ed. 1088).

Rule 10 of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, requiring appeal to be taken within 20 days after judgment complained of has been made or pronounced is valid. Hill v. Hawes, 1944 (64 S. Ct. 334, 320 U. S. 520, 88 L. Ed. 283, 149, A. L. R. 736, reversing 132 F. 2d 569, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 308, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 515, 321 U. S. 801, 88 L. Ed. 1088).

Where plaintiff failed to appeal to Court of Appeals for District of Columbia within 20 days allowed by rule 10, but clerk had not sent notice of entry of judgment of dismissal, court properly vacated judgment, during term, and entered new judgment, of which notice was sent, and from which appeal was taken. Hill v. Hawes, 1944 (64 S. Ct. 334, 320 U. S. 520, 88 L. Ed. 283, 149 A. L. R. 736, reversing 132 F. 2d 569, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 308, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 515, 321 U. S. 801, 88 L. Ed. 1088).

VACANCIES

In the event of a vacancy on account of the absence of one of the members, the remaining members are authorized to designate a justice of the Supreme Court of the District to sit in his place "while such vacancy shall exist." Shore v. Splain (49 App. D. C. 6, 258 Fed. 150).

WITHDRAWAL OF COUNSEL

In determining power of District Court to permit withdrawal of counsel who represented accused at trial, after federal appellate court had acquired jurisdiction of cause, a realistic interpretation of rules in criminal cases after verdict, rules 4, 7–9, 18 U. S. C. following § 688, required consideration of situation which prevails in all other circuits as well as the District of Columbia. Edwards v. U. S., 1944 (139 F. 2d 365, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 226, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 523, 321 U. S. 769, 88 L. Ed. 1064).

§ 11–206 [18:31]. Reporter—Duties—Copies of reports to be furnished judges.

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is authorized to appoint a reporter, who shall serve during the pleasure of the court and whose duty shall be to report, edit, and publish, in form to be prescribed by the court, its opinions.

Said reporter shall furnish and deliver one copy of each volume of the reports of said opinions immediately after the issue thereof to each of the justices of the United States Court of Appeals, the District Court, and the judges of the police court of said District, and the copies so received by each of them shall, in case of his death, resignation, or removal from office, be delivered to his successor. (Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 10; July 30, 1894, 28 Stat. 162, ch. 172, § 3; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1226, ch. 854, § 229; July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265; May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 109, ch. 139, § 138.)

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1949 amended the first paragraph of the section by omitting the following language which had previously appeared at the beginning: "The opinion of the said United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in every case shall be rendered in writing, and shall be filed in such case as a part of the record thereof".

Act of 1902, provided as follows: "The permanent indefinite appropriation * * * to pay the reporter of the court of appeals for volumes of the reports of the opinions of said court, is hereby repealed. And the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall hereafter annually submit estimates for the amounts required to pay said reporter for volumes of the reports authorized to be furnished by him under said section two hundred and twenty-nine."

The 1901 act provided for a salary of $1,000 per annum. This is now governed by the Classification Act of 1923, March 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265.

§ 11–207 [18:32]. Cost of reports of opinion to be fixed by court.

The reports of the court shall not be sold for a price exceeding that approved by the court and for not more than $6.50 per volume. (Feb. 25, 1929, 45 Stat. 1287, ch. 314.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is repeated in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act for 1933 (47 Stat. 368, ch. 308) and other appropriation acts down to and including the act of August 9, 1939, 53 Stat. 1309, ch. 633, § 1. It seems to have been omitted from the act of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333.

Section relating to issuance of writs by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia was based on Act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 11; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 230, and is now covered by section 1651 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bill of Exceptions

It is discretionary with the judge of the trial court to sign a proposed bill of exceptions and it will not be disturbed on appeal when there was no deliberate charge of fraudulent falsification. Clawans v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 58, 89 Fed. (2d) 802).

Bond

Although Appellate Court has power to issue all necessary and proper remedial prerogative writs in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, the court may not stay orders and decisions pending appeal without bond or other security. General Broadcasting System v. Bridgeport Broadcasting Station ((D. C.-Conn.), 53 Fed. (2d) 664).

Since the stay order was made without any security whatever, its issue was necessarily not in the exercise of any power inherent in the Court of Appeals in its judicial capacity. General Broadcasting System v. Bridgeport Broadcasting Station ((D. C.-Conn.), 53 Fed. (2d) 664).

Habeas Corpus

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia cannot entertain an original petition for writ of habeas corpus, since no statute confers such jurisdiction upon the court. In re Greene, 1944 (140 F. 2d 175, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 320).

Function of Court

It is not function of appellate court to assume the powers of trial court. Schilling v. Schwitzer-Cummins Co., 1944 (142 F. 2d 82, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 20).

Mandamus

Use of mandamus to compel approval of appeal bond. Mulvihill v. Clabaugh (21 App. D. C. 440).

Mandamus held proper remedy to require Board of Tax Appeals to take jurisdiction of appeal. United States ex rel. Dascomb v. Board of Tax Appeals (56 App. D. C. 392, 16 Fed. (2d) 337).

Where trial judge had rejected affidavits of bias and prejudice because they failed to comply with statutory requirements both as to time of filing and as to manner of certification and had refused to disqualify himself and trial was in progress, federal appellate court would not issue writ of mandamus or prohibition. Dilling v. U. S., 1944 (142 F. 2d 473, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 47).

Where District Court erred in refusing to enter a declaration that federal employee was entitled to notice of hearing before discharge, District Court would be directed to enter declaratory judgment to that effect, but mandamus would not issue to restore employee to his office unless at expiration of 90 days no review by Supreme Court was asked and granted, or plaintiff had not been restored to office. Borak v. Biddle (App. D. C. 1944, 141 F. 2d 278, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 374, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 42, 323 U. S. 738, 89 L. Ed. 591, 78 F. Supp. 123, 112 C. Cl. 592, cert. den. 69 S. Ct. 43, 335 U. S. 821, 93 L. Ed. 375, rehearing den. 69 S. Ct. 129, 335 U. S. 821, 93 L. Ed. 410).

Courts should be slow in issuing mandamus which may result in interfering with the internal management of executive departments of government. Borak v. Biddle, 1944 (141 F. 2d 278, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 374, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 42, 323 U. S. 738, 89 L. Ed. 591).

A petition for mandamus to review action of trial court in treating petitioner's complaint as an application for writ of habeas corpus would be denied, since petitioner's remedy was by appeal, and mandamus may not be used as a substitute for appeal. In re De Marcos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 841, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 187).

Prohibition

"The writ (of prohibition) can not issue unless it is clearly made to appear that the inferior court is about to exceed its jurisdiction." Nor can such writ serve the purpose of a writ of error or of certiorari. United States ex rel. Holmead v. Barnard (29 App. D. C. 431).

Where each petitioner seeking leave to file petition for writs of prohibition alleged that respondent district judge had ordered petitioner to be represented by a lawyer in criminal trial who also represented an additional defendant and that there was a conflict of interest between the two defendants but where there was no assertion of absence of jurisdiction in sense that trial court had no power to deal with class of case before it and present issuance of writ and present determination of question whether there was conflict of interest would unduly interrupt criminal proceeding, petitions would be denied. Noble v. Eicher, 1944 (143 F. 2d 1001, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 217).

A writ of prohibition does not issue as a matter of right unless there is no other adequate remedy. Noble v. Eicher, 1944 (143 F. 2d 1001, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 217).

Where trial judge denies sufficiency of affidavit filed to disqualify judge on ground of personal prejudice, bias and interest, remedy of appeal is adequate and justifies denial of writ of prohibition. Hurd v. Letts (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 121, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 233).

In absence of special circumstances requiring the issuance of writ of prohibition, it will not ordinarily issue where remedy of appeal exists. Hurd v. Letts (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 121, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 233).

Petition for writ of prohibition, mandamus, or injunction requiring exclusion of certain testimony in criminal trial would be denied, since the remedy by appeal would be adequate. Connors v. Pine (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 643).

Stay of Proceedings

A Federal court can stay enforcement of a judgment pending the outcome of an appeal. Scripps-Howard Radio v. Federal Communications Commission, 1942 (62 S. Ct. 875, 316 U. S. 4, 86 L. Ed. 1229).

Under 26 U. S. C. § 377, permitting an appeal to be taken from a decision of the Communications Commission to the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in certain cases, denial of power of the court to issue stay orders should not be inferred merely because Congress failed specifically to repeat the general grant of auxiliary powers to Federal courts. Scripps-Howard Radio v. Federal Communications Commission, 1942 (62 S. Ct. 875, 316 U. S. 4, 86 L. Ed. 1229).

Congress, by 47 U. S. C. § 402, authorizing appeal to be taken from decisions of the Communications Commission to the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in certain cases, has not deprived that court of the conventional power of an appellate court to stay the enforcement of an order pending determination of an appeal challenging its validity. Scripps-Howard Radio v. Federal Communications Commission, 1942 (62 S. Ct. 875, 316 U. S. 4, 86 L. Ed. 1229).

Section relating to execution of orders and process of United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia was based on Act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 231 and is now covered by section 547 of title 28, U. S. C.

Section relating to percentage liability of District for expenditures of United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia was based on Act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 232; Apr. 27, 1938, 52 Stat. 265, ch. 180, § 1; June 29, 1939, 53 Stat. 903, ch. 248; May 14, 1950, 54 Stat. 181, ch. 189, § 1, and is now obsolete.

§ 11–211 [18: 36]. Clerk to be custodian of building.

The clerk of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall be the custodian of the Court of Appeals building, under the direction and supervision of the justices of said court. (Mar. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 964, ch. 150; May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 671, ch. 659.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

§ 11–301 [18: 41]. Constitution—Court of general jurisdiction—Assignment of justice for condemnation cases.

The chief judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall assign from time to time, and for such period or periods as he may determine, one of the judges of the said court to hear cases involving the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, and it shall be the primary duty of the judge so assigned to preside at the hearing of such cases, and only when not engaged in such cases shall he be subject to assignment to the other business of the court. The chief judge may assign for service in condemnation cases any judge of said court in case of disability of the judge so serving or for any other reason. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91, §1; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 60; Dec. 20, 1928, 45 Stat. 1056, ch. 41; June 19, 1930, 46 Stat. 785, ch. 537; May 31, 1938, 52 Stat. 584, ch. 290, §5; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 990, ch. 646, § 24.)

AMENDMENTS

The second and third sentences were added by the 1928 act.

The act of June 25, 1948, effective Sept. 1, 1948, cited to text, repealed the first sentence of this section which provided for the appointment of a chief justice and eleven associate justices by the President. The second and third sentences were amended to show the "assignment" of judges rather than the "appointment" thereof.

Act June 19, 1930, 46 Stat. 785, ch. 537, provided: "The President is authorized to appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, two additional justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, who shall have the same tenure of office, pay, and emoluments, powers, and duties as the present justices of that court."

Acts May 31, 1938, 52 Stat. 584, ch. 290, § 5, provided: "The President is authorized to appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, three additional associate justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

The act of June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804, changed the name of the Supreme Court to "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia," and provided "Nothing in this act shall affect the jurisdiction or functions of the court."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

In the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, reference to a district judge includes a justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see Rule 81 (d).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

For collation of acts of Congress relative to establishment of the courts of the District of Columbia, see Gassenheimer v. District of Columbia (6 App. D. C. 108).

CONSOLIDATION OF COURTS

What Congress intended was a merger of the Circuit Courts into the District Courts, and in transferring to the District Courts the business of the Circuit Courts, there was given to the District Courts all the machinery for disposing of its business which the Circuit Courts possessed, and a specific case must be treated precisely as it would have been treated had the trial taken place in the old Circuit Court under the practice which Congress had once approved for that court and which it has never disapproved. Nashville Interurban R. Co. v. Barnum ((C. C. A. 2), 212 Fed. 634).

LIABILITY OF JUDGES TO CIVIL ACTIONS

Judges of courts of superior or general jurisdiction are not liable to civil actions for their judicial acts, even when such acts are in excess of their jurisdiction, and are alleged to have been done maliciously or corruptly. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

RESIDENTIAL REQUIREMENTS

The requirement of 28 U. S. C. § 1 that judges of District Courts of the United States shall reside in the district for which they are appointed is not applicable to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. The relevant statutes and congressional legislative history indicate that Congress did not intend the residential requirement to apply to such court in view of the peculiar geography of the District and in view of the unusual powers conferred. U. S. ex rel. Laughlin v. Eicher (D. C., D. C. 1944, 56 F. Supp. 972).

The fact that associate justice of District Court for District of Columbia was a resident of Maryland did not disqualify judge, since 28 U. S. C. § 1 that district judges should be residents of District does not apply to District Court for District of Columbia. Pyle v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 852, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 209).

Section relating to salary of justices was based on Act Dec. 13, 1926, 44 Stat. 919, ch. 6 and is now covered by section 135 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTE TO DECISIONS

DIMINUTION OF SALARY

The compensation of the judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) and the Court of Appeals (United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia) can not be diminished during their term of office. O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740).

§ 11–303 [18: 48]. Oath of justices.

Each justice, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take the oath prescribed to be taken by judges of the courts of the United States. (R. S., D. C., § 752.)

Section relating to administration of oaths by justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on R. S., D. C., § 771 and is now obsolete, being covered by section 459 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–305 [18:43]. Jurisdiction—Powers of District Courts conferred.

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia, in addition to its jurisdiction as a United States district court, shall continue to have and exercise all the jurisdiction possessed and exercised by it on August 31, 1948. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 61; Mar. 3, 1911, 36 Stat. 1167, ch. 231, § 289; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39; May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 108, ch. 139, § 135.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of May 24, 1949, reenacted and amended the section to its present form. Said section had formerly read: "The said court shall possess the same powers and exercise the same jurisdiction as the District Courts of the United States, and shall be deemed a court of the United States" and was repealed by section 39 of the act approved June 25, 1948 (ch. 646, 62 Stat. 992). Subsection 135 (b) of said act provided:

"(b) The reenactment and amendment, by subsection (a) of this section, of section 61 of the Act approved March 3, 1901 (ch. 854, 31 Stat. 1199; D. C. Code, 1940 edition, sec. 11–305) shall be deemed to be in effect as of September 1, 1948."

Act of 1911 abolished the Circuit Courts.

NOTES PRIOR TO 1949 AMENDMENT

Section relating to jurisdiction and powers was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 61; Mar. 3, 1911, 36 Stat. 1167, ch. 231, § 289, and is now covered by section 132 et seq. of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

By this section the justices of the Supreme Court of the District (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) were vested with the power and jurisdiction of judges of the District Courts of the United States. Federal Trade Comm. v. Klesner (274 U. S. 145, 71 L. Ed. 972, 47 Sup. Ct. 557, rev'g. 56 App. D. C. 3, 6 Fed. (2d) 701).

The fact that District Court for District of Columbia was known as the "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia", when act Feb. 13, 1925, ch. 229, § 1, 43 Stat. 938, amending 28 U. S. C. § 345 and restricting direct review by Supreme Court of District Court judgments became law, did not exclude the District Court for District of Columbia from such restriction, since at that time the Supreme Court of District of Columbia possessed the jurisdiction of a District Court of the United States. U. S. v. Belt, 1943 (63 S. Ct. 1278, 319 U. S. 521, 87 L. Ed. 1559, vacating 47 F. Supp. 239).

ACTIONS AGAINST UNITED STATES

In suit by stockholders of steamship company against members of Maritime Commission to recover stock delivered to Commission under contract providing aid for company, on ground that Commission was unauthorized to acquire shares outright and that, in any event, contract resulted in no more than a pledge of shares, determination of whether suit was one against United States over which District Court would have no jurisdiction depended upon decision on merits, and District Court had jurisdiction to determine its jurisdiction by proceeding to a decision on the merits. Land v. Dollar, 1947 (67 S. Ct. 1009, 91 L. Ed. 1209).

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

50 U. S. C. App. 35 (b) providing that in time of war property of any foreign country or national thereof shall vest as directed by the President and seizure of a friendly alien's property by Alien Property Custodian, pursuant to President's directive, did not nullify 50 U. S. C. App. 9 (a) providing that any person not an enemy or ally thereof claiming any property transferred to Alien Property Custodian might institute suit in District Court to obtain possession thereof. Uebersee Finanz-Korporation, A. G., v. Markham (App. D. C. 1947, 158 F. 2d 313, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 284, certiorari granted 67 S. Ct. 772, 330 U. S. 813, 91 L. Ed. 1268, affirmed 68 S. Ct. 174, 332 U. S. 480, 92 L. Ed. 88).

BACK PAY OF FEDERAL EMPLOYEE

The District Court was without jurisdiction to award judgment for back pay to employee in the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice who had been dismissed as a probationary employee without notice. Borak v. Biddle, 1944 (141 F. 2d 278, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 374, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 42, 323 U. S. 738, 89 L. Ed., 591, 78 F. Supp. 123, 112 C. Cl. 592, cert. den. 69 S. Ct. 43, 335 U. S. 821, 93 L. Ed. 375, rehearing den. 69 S. Ct. 129, 335 U. S. 821, 93 L. Ed. 410).

CONSPIRACY

Supreme Court has jurisdiction to try conspiracy entered into the District of Columbia, although the overt act is shown to have been committed in another jurisdiction or even in a foreign country. Hyde v. Shine (199 U. S. 62, 50 L. Ed. 90, 25 Sup. Ct. 760).

Conspiracy to commit offense against the United States is triable in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), sitting as a criminal court. Pitts v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 195, 50 Fed. (2d) 485).

COSTS, LAWS RELATING TO

Section 815 of title 28, U. S. C., disallowing costs to plaintiff recovering less than $500 in action brought in District Court of United States where jurisdictional amount exceeds such sum is applicable to District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. Silverman v. Central Amusement Co. (D. C., D. C. 1943, 49 F. Supp. 364).

"COURT OF THE UNITED STATES"

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) is a "court of the United States." Benson v. Henkel (198 U. S. 1, 49 L. Ed. 919, 25 Sup. Ct. 569); O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740); and as such has power to punish for contempt of court. Moss v. United States (23 App. D. C. 475).

CRIMINAL APPEALS ACT

This section does not constitute the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) a District Court for the purposes of the Criminal Appeals Act. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. Ct. 574).

DISCRETION

The Court of Appeals has jurisdiction to review matters resting in the discretion of the trial justices. Billings v. Field (36 App. D. C. 16), citing with approval Degge v. Hitchcock (35 App. D. C. 218, aff'd. 229 U. S. 162, 57 L. Ed. 1135, 33 Sup. Ct. 639).

DISMISSAL

Suit will be dismissed where an indispensable party is not joined. Mine Safety Appliances Co. v. Knox (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 733, affirmed 66 S. Ct. 219, 326 U. S. 371, 90 L. Ed. 694).

ENFORCEMENT OF SHERMAN LAW

This section is plain and unambiguous, and transfers to the District Courts all the jurisdiction and power that the Circuit Courts had with regard to the enforcement of the Sherman Law. Wogan Bros., Inc. v. American Sugar Ref. Co. ((D. C.-La.). 215 Fed. 273).

ENJOINING ORDERS OF SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The general equity jurisdiction of the District Court for the District of Columbia authorized it to hear suit to enjoin the Secretary of Agriculture from enforcing allegedly illegal provisions of order dealing with marketing of milk in Greater Boston, Mass., area. Stark v. Wickard, 1944 (64 S. Ct. 559, 321 U. S. 288, 88 L. Ed. 733, reversing 136 F. 2d 786).

EMERGENCY PRICE CONTROL ACT

50 U. S. C. App. 924 (d), The Emergency Price Control Act confers exclusive jurisdiction on Emergency Court of Appeals to determine validity of any regulation or order issued under said sections and District Court of United States for District of Columbia was without jurisdiction of action for declaratory judgment that regulation of Price Administrator was invalid and to enjoin enforcement of regulation notwithstanding contention that Secretary of Agriculture, Price Administrator, and Director of Economic Stabilization conspired to avoid statutory standards for promulgation of orders affecting agricultural commodities. Cooper v. Anderson (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 564, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 166).

HABEAS CORPUS

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), is without jurisdiction to inquire into the grounds of the detention of persons unlawfully restrained of their liberty beyond the District of Columbia. McGowan v. Moody (22 App. D. C. 148).

HISTORICAL

When Maryland railroad extended limits into District of Columbia, as the unity of the road was unchanged in name and locality, it was proper and allowed by act of Congress, and under 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15, § 6, the District court had jurisdiction for injuries done on said road although outside of the District. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Harris (12 Wall. (79 U. S.) 65, 20 L. Ed. 354).

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia had the same powers and jurisdiction that had previously belonged to the Circuit Court which it superseded; and the appellate power of this court was declared to be the same as that which it had, by law, over the Circuit Court. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Trustees of the Sixth Presbyterian Church (19 Wall. (86 U. S.) 64, 22 L. Ed. 97).

Authority to issue writs of mandamus in cases in which the parties are by common law entitled to them was vested in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. United States ex rel. McBride v. Schurz (12 Otto (102 U. S.) 378, 26 L. Ed. 167).

Circuit Court of Appeals did not have jurisdiction of criminal cases in District of Columbia. In re Heath (144 U. S. 92, 36 L. Ed. 358, 12 Sup. Ct. 615).

Act of February 6, 1889, did not authorize a writ of error from Circuit Court to the Supreme Court of the District to review a judgment in general term affirming a judgment of the trial court which convicted a person of a capital offense. Cross v. United States (145 U. S. 571, 36 L. Ed. 821, 12 Sup. Ct. 842).

16 Stat. 160, ch. 141, § 4, provided that the several general terms and special terms of the various courts, Circuit, District, and Criminal, should be considered terms of the Supreme Court of the District and that their judgments should be the judgments of the Supreme Court, but that this should not affect the right of appeal as provided by law. Cross v. United States (145 U. S. 571, 36 L. Ed. 821, 12 Sup. Ct. 842).

The Supreme Court had no jurisdiction to review on writ of error, a judgment of the Court of Appeals to the District in a criminal matter under § 8 of the act of February 9, 1893, ch. 74, 27 Stat. 434. Chapman v. United States (164 U. S. 436, 41 L. Ed. 504, 17 Sup. Ct. 76).

JUDICIAL NOTICE

Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) must take judicial notice of the laws of the States. Moore v. Pywell (29 App. D. C. 312).

United States District Court for District of Columbia could not take judicial notice of municipal ordinance of the District of Columbia establishing speed limits. Gardner v. Capital Transit Co. (App. D. C. 1946, 152 F. 2d 288).

The district court of the United States for the District of Columbia will take judicial notice of the public statutes to a state. Hicks v. Hicks (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 219).

JURISDICTION—LIMITATION

Where the actual damages recoverable are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Municipal Court, the District Court of the United States has no jurisdiction, and a mere ad damnum clause will not confer it. Minick v. Associates Inv. Co. (71 App. D. C. 367, 110 Fed. (2d) 267).

Where maker, who had given deed of trust on automobile as security for note, alleged that transaction was fraudulent and usurious and that defendant had seized automobile on maker's default and maker demanded damages in an aggregate amount of $2,000, an order that defendants disclose the state of the account between the parties, and an injunction against the sale of the automobile, District Court for District of Columbia did not have jurisdiction of the action. Rowe v. Nolan Finance Co., 1944 (142 F. 2d 93, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 35).

JURISDICTION SAME AS DISTRICT COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES

By this section the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) was given the same powers and the same jurisdiction as District Courts of the United States. Federal Trade Comm. v. Klesner (274 U. S. 145, 71 L. Ed. 972, 47 Sup. Ct. 557, rev'g. 56 App. D. C. 3, 6 Fed. (2d) 701).

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) is a District Court within this section. Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. v. United States (285 U. S. 382, 76 L. Ed. 808, 52 Sup. Ct. 440); In re Macfarland (30 App. D. C. 365, App. dism. 215 U. S. 614, 54 L. Ed. 349, 30 Sup. Ct. 402); Moder v. United States (62 App. D. C. 65, 64 Fed. (2d) 703); Ormsby v. United States ((C. C. A. 6), 273 Fed. 977).

The District Court of United States for District of Columbia has all the ordinary and usual jurisdiction of a state court in respect to matters which in a state would be exercised by a state court, and it has all jurisdiction and powers of United States District Court elsewhere. King v. Wall & Beaver Street Corporation, 1944 (145 F. 2d 377, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

LAW GOVERNING

The District Court of United States for District of Columbia is both a federal district court governed by national legislation respecting venue, jurisdiction, and procedure, and a local trial court of general jurisdiction governed by local legislation embodied in this Code. Fehlhaber Pile Co. v. Tennessee Val. Authority (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 864, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 124).

NEGLIGENCE

Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) has jurisdiction of action for negligence causing death where the act complained of was committed in the District, notwithstanding the fact that death occurred elsewhere. Moore v. Pywell (29 App. D. C. 312).

PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR ACTS

Chief Justice and Associate Justice when affixing their signature to an order for disbarment act within scope of their official authority and within jurisdiction of the court and they are not liable for damages therefrom. Fletcher v. Wheat (69 App. D. C. 259, 100 Fed. (2d) 432).

PUNISH FOR CONTEMPT

An attorney while as a witness need not disclose the name of party for reason that he promised not to divulge his name, and he is not guilty of contempt of court, for this would require him to divulge a privileged communication. Elliott v. United States (23 App. D. C. 456).

REMOVAL OF PRISONER TO DISTRICT

One properly indicted in the District of Columbia may be removed from a district in which he is found to the District of Columbia to await trial. Benson v. Henkel (198 U. S. 1, 49 L. Ed. 919, 25 Sup. Ct. 569).

SAFETY APPLIANCE ACT

Circuit branch of Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) has jurisdiction to entertain suit for violation of safety appliance act. United States v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (26 App. D. C. 581).

SEAMAN'S ACTION FOR INJURIES

Under this section, abolishing the Circuit Court, concurrent jurisdiction of seamen's action for personal injuries rested in the United States District Court and the state court. Pitts v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 195, 50 Fed. (2d) 485); Cook v. Alaska S. S. Co. ((D. C.-Wash.), 8 Fed. (2d) 207).

WRITS TESTED BY CHIEF JUSTICE

§ 11–306 [18: 44]. General jurisdiction.

Said court (except as otherwise provided in this title) shall have cognizance of all crimes and offenses committed within said district and of all cases in law and equity between parties, both or either of which shall be resident or be found within said district and also of all actions or suits of a civil nature at common law or in equity, in which the United States shall be plaintiffs or complainants; and of all seizures on land or water, and all penalties and forfeitures made, arising or accruing under the laws of the United States. (R. S., D. C., § 763; Feb. 27, 1877, 19 Stat. 253, ch. 69, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

The act of February 27, 1877, 19 Stat. 253, amended R. S., D. C., § 763, by striking out said section and inserting the above in lieu thereof. The section as amended had a semicolon following the words "United States" followed by a clause reading as follows: "and any one of the justices may hold a criminal court for the trial of crimes and offenses arising within the District." This last clause is superseded by §§ 11–311, 11–322.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

District Court for District of Columbia did not have jurisdiction of action to have trust impressed on funds amounting to $1,980 or, in alternative, for money judgment, regardless of whether complaint would have formerly been denoted a suit at law or a bill in equity, in view of § 11–755 giving Municipal Court exclusive jurisdiction of "civil actions" involving "personal property" having value less than $3,000. Klepinger v. Rhodes, 1944 (140 F. 2d 697, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1047, 322 U. S. 734, 88 L. Ed. 1568).

CONSPIRACY

Charge of conspiracy against the United States is triable before Supreme Court of District sitting as a criminal court. Pitts v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 195, 50 Fed. (2d) 485).

EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION

This section giving District Court of United States for District of Columbia jurisdiction of all civil actions brought by the United States, confers a privilege and does not impose a restriction on the United States, and, therefore, the District Court does not have exclusive jurisdiction of actions brought by the United States in the District of Columbia. Ridgley v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 45 A. 2d 475).

JURISDICTION, GENERALLY

In a civil action brought by the United States to recover less than $3,000.00, the district court acquired jurisdiction and should have entertained the suit, since by this and previous statutes the United States has expressly conferred upon its district courts jurisdiction of its suits and the statutes have not limited this jurisdiction. United States v. Kloman (C. A. D. C. 1949, 176 F. 2d 27).

JURISDICTION, WITHHOLDING OF

The federal District Courts may in their discretion properly withhold the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon them where there is no lack of another suitable form. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

Where action by plaintiff against defendant was instituted in District Court for District of Columbia before defendant instituted action against plaintiff on same cause of action in federal District Court for Maryland, even though plaintiff filed counterclaim in Maryland action, when trial in Maryland resulted in hung jury, plaintiff had right to insist on trial of his case in District of Columbia. Brooks Transp. Co. v. McCutcheon (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 841, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 406).

LAW GOVERNING

The District Court of United States for District of Columbia is both a federal district court governed by national legislation respecting venue, jurisdiction, and procedure, and a local trial court of general jurisdiction governed by local legislation embodied in this Code. Fehlhaber Pile Co. v. Tennessee Val. Authority (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 864, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 124).

MAINTENANCE ACTIONS

The "public policy" of the District of Columbia does not require its courts to take jurisdiction of a matrimonial dispute between two persons who are neither domiciled in the District nor even residents thereof, especially where there is no showing that the welfare of children, rights of property, or other public interests in the District are affected. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

Under the doctrine "forum non conveniens" the District Court's jurisdiction of actions for separate maintenance between nonresidents domiciled elsewhere should not be exercised unless unusual circumstances justify trial in the District of Columbia. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

The District Court properly accepted jurisdiction of a wife's action for separate maintenance, even though husband and wife were nonresidents domiciled outside the District of Columbia, where husband's work when not traveling was in the District and husband's domicile was uncertain, both parties lived a few miles away, and husband at one time lived in the District. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

REDEMPTION OF REAL PROPERTY

The right to redeem Maryland land foreclosed in Maryland or to set aside or modify foreclosure decree could only be granted by Maryland court, and not by District of Columbia court. Smith v. Schlein (App. D. C. 1944, 144 F. 2d 257, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 166).

SUIT TO RESTRAIN FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

Court held to have jurisdiction of suit to restrain and set aside order of Federal Trade Commission, not proceeding under § 5, of the Federal Trade Commission Act (U. S. C., title 15, § 45), seeking to compel the officers of an unincorporated association to produce documents, where refusal to comply with the order will subject such officers to a criminal penalty under § 10 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (U. S. C., title 15, § 50), and will thus deprive them of their constitutional rights. Federal Trade Comm. v. Millers Nat. Federation (57 App. D. C. 360, 23 Fed. (2d) 968).

Section relating to jurisdiction of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia under the copyright and patent laws was based on R. S., D. C., § 764; Act Mar. 4, 1909, 35 Stat. 1084, ch. 320, § 34; Mar. 3, 1927, 44 Stat. 1394, ch. 364, and is now obsolete, being covered by section 1338 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADVERSE PARTIES

Where parties, awarded priority on one count in interference proceeding, brought suit to obtain patent against party awarded priority on six counts and his assignee and against party awarded priority on another count and his assignee, and defendants resided in plurality of districts not embraced within same state, District Court for District of Columbia had jurisdiction as against contention that count awarded to the third party was for subject matter separable from subject matter of remaining counts and that the third party and his assignee should not have been joined in the same suit with the party awarded the six counts. Vietti v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 769, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 17).

The present owner of title to one of applications for patent which was joined in interference proceeding is an "adverse party" within 35 U. S. C. § 72a, giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of suit to obtain patent, where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts not embraced within same State. Robinson v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 767, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 15, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 63, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 156, 320 U. S. 812, 88 L. Ed. 491).

Title 35 U. S. C. § 72a giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of certain suits involving right to patent applied where there was a single adverse party residing in a foreign country, and was not restricted to cases involving a plurality of adverse parties. Autogiro Co. of America v. Kay Gyroplanes (D. C., D. C. 1944, 55 F. Supp. 919).

In absence of an indispensable party to the proceedings, Commissioner of Patents was not an "adverse party" within 35 U. S. C. § 72a relating to jurisdiction of District Court of United States for District of Columbia where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts or foreign countries, and hence action against commissioner was not maintainable in District Court of United States for District of Columbia. Thorne, Neale & Co. v. Coe (D. C., D. C. 1944, 3 F. R. D. 259).

COLLATERAL ATTACK

Where Commissioner of Patents, pursuant to erroneous practice then prevailing, recognized defeated applicants' purported withdrawal of appeal to Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, and applicants then brought equity suit under 35 U. S. C. § 63 and commissioner admitted jurisdictional allegations and did not raise question of election of remedies, court in District of Columbia had jurisdiction of subject matter and parties, and hence its decree that patent should issue was not a nullity and infringer could not attack it collaterally, or claim illegality in issuance of patent in compliance with decree. General Elec. Co. v. Hygrade Sylvania Corp. (D. C., N. Y. 1945, 61 F. Supp. 476).

COUNTERCLAIM

Where, in an action for a patent, the jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was invoked because defendants and adverse parties resided in a plurality of districts not embraced in any one State, said court had jurisdiction to hear and determine an infringement counterclaim filed in said action and under Rules 13 (e) and 13 (f) the court did not have discretion to strike said counterclaim. Michigan Tool Co. v. Drummond ((D. C.–D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 540).

DEFAULT, EFFECT OF

Under 35 U. S. C. § 72a, giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of suit to obtain patent where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts not embraced within same State, if party on whom court's jurisdiction depends was, at that time, actually an adverse party, that is sufficient, and if he chooses, thereafter, to default, that does not deprive court of jurisdiction. Robinson v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 767, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 15, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 63, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 156, 320 U. S. 812, 88 L. Ed. 491).

In suit to obtain patent, by one applicant in interference proceeding against second and third applicants who were Texas residents and against company which was alleged present owner of third applicant's application and which was incorporated in Delaware and had place of business in New York, District Court for District of Columbia had jurisdiction under 35 U. S. C. § 72a giving it jurisdiction of suit where there are "adverse parties" residing in plurality of districts not embraced within same State, notwithstanding the third applicant and owner of his application did not appear. Robinson v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 767, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 15, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 63, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 156, 320 U. S. 812, 88 L. Ed. 491).

DETERMINATION

In suit to obtain patent, the important consideration in determining whether District Court for District of Columbia has jurisdiction under 35 U. S. C. § 72a, giving it jurisdiction, in suit where there are adverse parties residing in plurality of districts not embraced within same State, is not what Patent Office awarded at conclusion of interference proceeding, but is what the parties to the interference claimed. Vietti v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 769, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 17).

The court formerly known as Supreme Court of the District of Columbia was a court of United States, and its justices had the power and jurisdiction of federal district judges, and it had jurisdiction over equity suits under 35 U. S. C. § 63 to obtain patents. General Elec. Co. v. Hygrade Sylvania Corp. (D. C., N. Y. 1945, 61 F. Supp. 476).

PERSONS SUBJECT TO JURISDICTION

Where defendant, which was a British company with place of business in Scotland, accepted letters patent, it thereby became subject to 35 U. S. C. § 72a providing for determination of right to patent, and could not question jurisdiction of District Court for District of Columbia in suit for determination of validity of patent. Autogiro Co. of America v. Kay Gyroplanes (D. C., D. C. 1944, 55 F. Supp. 919).

PURPOSE OF FEDERAL LAW

The purpose of 35 U. S. C. § 72a giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of suit to obtain patent where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts not embraced within same State is to permit the bringing together, in one proceeding, of all parties whose interests are adverse, whether their adversity arises out of interfering patents, or because they were adverse parties in an interference proceeding, in order that all interests may be determined, and for such purpose there is not "separable controversy". Vietti v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 769, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 17).

The purpose of 35 U. S. C. § 72a, giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of suit to obtain patent where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts not embraced within same State is to make possible adjudication of all issues involved, between all adverse parties, in one proceeding and in one forum. Robinson v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 767, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 15, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 63, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 156, 320 U. S. 812, 88 L. Ed. 491).

Section 72a of title 35, U. S. C., giving District Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of suit to obtain patent where adverse parties reside in plurality of districts not embraced within same State does not make jurisdiction depend on appearance but purpose of said section is to make jurisdiction depend on situation revealed by complaint. Robinson v. Wayne, 1943 (136 F. 2d 767, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 15, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 63, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 156, 320 U. S. 812, 88 L. Ed. 491).

No action or suit shall be brought in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia by original process against any person who shall not be an inhabitant of, or found within, the District, except as otherwise specially provided. (R. S., D. C., § 767.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROCESS, ISSUANCE OF

Under this chapter covering jurisdiction of courts in District of Columbia, District Court of United States for District of Columbia may exercise jurisdiction if defendants are found within the District, but process from District Court may not issue or be served on any person not an inhabitant of or found within the District. King v. Wall & Beaver Street Corporation, 1944 (145 F. 2d 377, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

In derivative action by New York stockholders against Connecticut citizens who were temporarily living in District of Columbia, and Maryland corporation which had not transacted business in District of Columbia, jurisdiction of District Court of United States for District of Columbia could not be sustained by applying this chapter to jurisdictional question involving the Connecticut citizens and ignoring the restrictive provision precluding service of process on person not an inhabitant of or found within District, and by applying exception to 28 U. S. C. § 112, with relation to service of process on corporation and ignoring the restrictive provisions of 28 U. S. C. § 112, in relation to jurisdiction as to the individual defendants. King v. Wall & Beaver Street Corporation, 1944 (145 F. 2d 377, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

RESIDENTS

Where, at time of filing of action and service of process defendants were actually but temporarily residing in District of Columbia and had actual citizenship in Connecticut where they maintained permanent home, the defendants were not "residents" of District of Columbia, within 28 U. S. C. § 112. King v. Wall & Beaver Street Corporation, 1944 (145 F. 2d 377. 79 U. S. App. D. C. 234).

VENUE

District Court of District of Columbia has jurisdiction to entertain a suit for injunctive relief brought against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen when service of process is legally perfected to enforce petitioners' rights to nondiscriminatory representation by their statutory representatives in collective bargaining negotiations. Graham v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, 1949 (70 S. Ct. 14, 338 U. S. 232, 94 L. Ed. 1).

Section relating to powers of justices was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 62; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 522, ch. 1329, and is no longer necessary since District Court for the District of Columbia made a district court of the United States by sections 88 and 132 of title 28, U. S. C.

AMENDMENT

The act of June 30, 1902, added the words "under said act of March 3, 1863, and at the date of the adoption of this code." The act of 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91, is the act which created the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

The section as enacted also contained the words "Circuit and" preceding the words "District Courts" but Circuit Courts were abolished by the act of March 3, 1911, 36 Stat. 1167, ch. 231, § 289.

Section relating to terms of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 63 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The act of June 21, 1870 (16 Stat. 160, ch. 141), relating to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) declared that the general and special terms authorized by the act of March 3, 1863, should be terms of the Supreme Court and the judgments, decrees, and orders of said terms should be the judgments, decrees, and orders of the Supreme Court. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478); Cross v. United States (145 U. S. 571, 36 L. Ed. 821, 12 Sup. Ct. 842); Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

GENERAL CONSTRUCTION

The provisions of the act of March 3, 1863, establishing the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with its special and general terms, which was taken from the legislation of New York in substantially the same language, are to be construed in the sense in which they were then understood in the system from which they were taken. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Moore (121 U. S. 558, 30 L. Ed. 1022, 7 Sup. Ct. 1334).

Section relating to special terms of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 64 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–312 [18:51]. Appointment of auditor, messengers and other officers.

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia may appoint an auditor and also a messenger for each judge and all other officers of the court necessary for the due administration of justice. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 65; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 522, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 555, ch. 153; Apr. 3, 1926, 44 Stat. 234, ch. 103; May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 108).

AMENDMENT

The 1949 act amended the section generally.

NOTES PRIOR TO 1949 AMENDMENT

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of February 24, 1933, 47 Stat. 904, ch. 119 (U. S. C., title 28, § 723a), provided:

"The Supreme Court of the United States shall have the power to prescribe, from time to time, rules of practice and procedure with respect to any or all proceedings after verdict in criminal cases in district courts of the United States, including the District Courts of Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone, and Virgin Islands, in the Supreme Courts of the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, in the United States Court for China, in the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals, and in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

"SEC. 2. The right of appeal shall continue in those cases in which appeals are now authorized by law, but the rules made as herein authorized may prescribe the times for and manner of taking appeals and of preparing records and bills of exceptions and the conditions on which supersedeas or bail may be allowed.

"SEC. 3. The Supreme Court may fix the dates when such rules shall take effect and the extent to which they shall apply to proceedings then pending, and after they become effective all laws in conflict therewith shall be of no further force."

AMENDMENTS

Act of 1901 provided as follows: "The general term of said court shall be open at all times for the transaction of business; and said court, by orders passed in general term, may regulate the periods of holding the special terms, fix the number of said terms, and alter the same from time to time, as public convenience may require; may direct as many terms of any of the special terms to be held at the same time as the public business may make necessary; may assign the several justices, from time to time, to the respective special terms; may provide by rule of court for the transfer from time to time, as the occasion shall require, of a jury summoned to any one special term to any other special term having cognizance of jury trials, and for the filling of vacancies arising in such transferred jury; may establish rules of practice in special terms not inconsistent with the laws of the United States; may appoint a clerk, an auditor, a crier, and a messenger for each court in special term, and all other officers of court necessary for the due administration of justice, with the exception of all officers and employees in any manner connected with the probate term, and also United States commissioners; may hear charges of misconduct against any justice of the peace, and remove them from office for cause shown; may admit persons to the bar of said court and dismiss them from the same, and may pass all other orders not inconsistent with existing laws which may be necessary to the effective administration of justice in said court, but said court shall not hear any cause in general term."

Act of 1902 amended act of 1901 by inserting after the word "auditor" the words "and also," and by striking out the comma after the word "crier."

Act of 1920 amends prior section to read as above except that the provision as to appointment to fill a vacancy in the office of clerk was inserted by act of 1926.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ANNUAL ACCOUNT OF FIDUCIARIES

Where will creating trust and naming trustee did not require trustee to account to court, mere appointment of substitute trustee and his choosing to ask court's instruction in regard to a particular matter did not bring trustee within court rule requiring fiduciary administering estate under "supervision" of court to file annual account and report. Smithson v. Callahan, 1944 (141 F. 2d 13, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 355).

Under rule requiring fiduciary administering an estate under "supervision" of court to file annual account and report, quoted word implies more than power in court to intervene, in its discretion, in order to prevent or redress improper action by trustee and implies a duty in trustee to consult court before taking action. Smithson v. Callahan, 1944 (141 F. 2d 13, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 355).

APPOINTMENTS

Appointment of elisor unauthorized, without showing disqualification of marshal or coroner. Doherty v. Kalmbach (66 App. D. C. 322, 87 Fed. (2d) 539).

COMPUTATION OF TIME

Rule 10, requiring that appeals be filed within 20 days after judgment, and Rule 36, providing that in computing time Sundays and legal holidays shall be excluded, are not superseded by Rule 6 (a), relating to "any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules, by order of court, or by any applicable statute," providing that Sundays and holidays are excluded only when the period of time prescribed is less than 7 days. Atlantic Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. Keesee (72 App. D. C. 45, 111 Fed. (2d) 657).

EQUITY RULES

Equity Rule 15 of the Supreme Court of the District provided, among other things, that "anyone claiming an interest in the litigation may at any time be permitted to assert his right by intervention." This rule, though somewhat broader than Equity Rule 37, was not in conflict therewith, and responded to the power of the Court to establish rules regulating pleading, practice, and procedure. California Co-op. Canneries v. United States (55 App. D. C. 36, 299 Fed. 908).

District of Columbia was bound by the provisions of the Federal Equity Rules, notwithstanding any local rule to the contrary. Saul v. Saul (70 App. D. C. 112, 104 Fed. (2d) 245).

REFERENCE, RULES OF

District Court rule providing for domestic relations commissioner with authority to investigate cases involving determination of question of temporary custody of child or question of amount of temporary maintenance for a wife or child and providing that when no objections are filed to report, court shall have authority to act on report without hearing, provides a convenient method by which facts may be secured and presented in interlocutory matters when both parties consent to its use, and rule is not invalid or beyond court's power to adopt. Brown v. Brown, 1942 (134 F. 2d 505, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 73).

Where under District Court rule providing for domestic relations commissioner with authority to investigate cases involving determination of question of temporary custody of child, father who had instituted suit for custody of child had full power to prevent application of rule to him by objecting to commissioner's report, the father was not entitled to an order that his motion for amendment of pendente lite custody order be not referred to the commissioner for investigation and report. Brown v. Brown, 1942 (134 F. 2d 505, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 73).

The purpose of the District Court rule providing for a domestic relations commissioner with authority to investigate cases involving determination of question of temporary custody of child or question of amount of temporary maintenance for wife or child and to make report and recommendation in such matters is not to deprive party of opportunity to present such evidence as he wishes to offer in the usual manner and the rule does not make the report evidence or admissible in evidence. Brown v. Brown, 1942 (134 F. 2d 505, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 73).

Any party to a divorce action is entitled to have a motion for custody of a child or for temporary maintenance for wife or child heard on its merits by the trial judge, regardless of fact that he has not appeared and declines to appear before the Domestic Relations Commissioner. Kernan v. Kernan (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 232, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 382).

RULES OF PRACTICE

This section authorized the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) to establish rules of practice for the trial terms, not inconsistent with the laws of the United States. Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

SERVICE OF PROCESS

Where return showed that service of rule and order to show cause why a person should not be adjudged in contempt for failure to comply with order requiring turning over of assets of deceased's estate was made on the wife of the person to whom the order was addressed, the service was sufficient, since it complied with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure adopted for the probate court for the District of Columbia. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

TRIAL BY JURY

As to right of trial by jury in police court, see Callan v. Wilson (127 U. S. 540, 32 L. Ed. 223, 8 Sup. Ct. 1301).

Section relating to causes to be heard in special terms of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 66 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEAL TO GENERAL TERM

Parties aggrieved by any order, judgment or decree made or pronounced at a special term could, if the same involve the merits of the action or proceeding, appeal therefrom to the general term. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Trustees of the Sixth Presbyterian Church (1 Otto (91 U. S.) 127, 23 L. Ed. 260.)

Section relating to certification of cases from one justice to another—criminal cases—exceptions—was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 67; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 556, ch. 153, and is no longer necessary. To be regulated by rule of court rather than statute.

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 originally provided that "by mutual consent and arrangement between justices, civil causes may be certified by any justice holding a circuit court to any justice holding a criminal court for trial in the latter; and, by similar arrangement, any cause may be certified by any justice to another justice, to be heard or tried by the latter."

Section relating to the issuance of writs by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 68 and is now covered by section 1651 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ENJOINING BREACH OF LABOR CONTRACT

In an action by a labor union designated by the National Labor Relations Board as bargaining representative, the District Court had jurisdiction to enjoin breach of its contract by a telegraph company's undertaking to observe seniority rights of the employees of another company as party to a proposed merger. Commercial Telegraphers' Union, A. F. L. v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (D. C., D. C. 1944, 53 F. Supp. 90).

HABEAS CORPUS AD PROSEQUENDUM

Justices of United States District Court for the District of Columbia have the power to issue writs of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Downey v. United States (67 App. D. C. 192, 91 Fed. (2d) 223).

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia has the power to issue writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum for a person confined outside the limits of the District. Noble v. Botkin (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 228, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 354).

INJUNCTION

The federal district court does not have the power by injunctive relief to control conduct of hearings in investigatory proceedings by Securities and Exchange Commission. Securities and Exchange Commission v. Harrison (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 226).

MANDAMUS

Under the code of the District of Columbia, as on general principle, mandamus is an extraordinary remedial process, which is awarded, not as a matter of right, but in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion. U. S. ex rel. Stowell v. Deming (57 App. D. C. 223, 19 Fed. (2d) 697).

NE EXEAT

It was within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), in equity, to issue a writ of ne exeat to defendant in suit for limited divorce, and upon his departure from the District without payment of alimony as required, the court had jurisdiction to declare the bond forfeited and to direct the money to be paid into the registry of the court. Murphy v. Paris (57 App. D. C. 19, 16 Fed. (2d) 515).

Expiration of former husband's sentence for contempt for failure to pay alimony under limited divorce decree did not oblige the district court to quash a writ of ne exeat issued at divorced wife's request, where arrears of alimony apparently remained unpaid, but because writ deprived husband of his liberty, he was entitled to a prompt disposition of his motion to quash. Jacobsen v. Jacobsen, 1942 (126 F. 2d 13, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 223).

Where former husband denied allegations of divorced wife's complaint alleging that he had defaulted in alimony and that he was about to leave the jurisdiction of the court and asking that he be adjudged in contempt and that a writ of ne exeat be issued to prevent him from leaving, husband was entitled to a full hearing including a full opportunity to introduce oral testimony, and if he was given no such opportunity, continuing in force writ of ne exeat issued on wife's complaint deprived him of his liberty without "due process of law" in violation of the U. S. Const. Amend. 5. Jacobsen v. Jacobsen, 1942 (126 F. 2d 13, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 223).

If, at a hearing on former husband's motion to quash writ of ne exeat issued on complaint of divorced wife who alleged that husband was about to leave the jurisdiction of the court, husband had offered no testimony, it would have been necessary to quash the writ unless wife introduced substantial evidence in its support. Jacobsen v. Jacobsen, 1942 (126 F. 2d 13, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 223).

Where divorced wife's sworn complaint asking for the issuance of a writ of ne exeat contained necessary averment that former husband intended to leave the District of Columbia to avoid the court's jurisdiction and alleged that husband had previously stayed away from the District, but husband denied that averment and alleged facts showing that he had been available for service of process in the District, that he had made no effort to avoid it, and that his absences were due to efforts to earn a living, though complaint would have been sufficient to warrant ex parte issuance of temporary writ with an order to show cause why it should not be extended, complaint was insufficient without supporting proof to sustain any writ in face of husband's answer and motion to quash. Jacobsen v. Jacobsen, 1942 (126 F. 2d 13, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 223).

Under this section, the writ of ne exeat may be used in a proper case to thwart an intention to leave the District of Columbia for the purpose of defeating the court's jurisdiction in a pending action. Jacobsen v. Jacobsen, 1942 (126 F. 2d 13, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 223).

Although 28 U. S. C. § 1651 provides that no writ of ne exeat shall be granted unless defendant designs quickly to depart from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in a divorce proceeding, is exercising its local and not federal jurisdiction, and the authority upon which, in such a case, it may issue the writ of ne exeat is found in this section. Judson v. Judson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 336).

Writ of ne exeat is no longer a prerogative writ, but is an ordinary or mesne process of equity, and no writ of ne exeat shall be granted unless a suit in equity be commenced. Judson v. Judson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 336).

In divorce proceeding, where service of original process was not valid, the defendant by giving bond did not enter a general appearance and bring himself within court's jurisdiction, so as to preclude him from seeking to have writ of ne exeat quashed. Judson v. Judson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 336).

POWER TO EMPLOY

Nature and function of writ discussed. Power to employ it inheres in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia) as possessing a general common-law jurisdiction and supervisory control over inferior tribunals. Hartranft v. Mullowney (247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, 38 Sup. Ct. 518).

TESTED BY CHIEF JUSTICE

Section relating to the trial of common-law civil causes was based on Act Feb. 27, 1801, 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15; Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 854, § 69 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUIT COURT—HISTORICAL

The Organic Act of 1801 provided for the government of the District of Columbia, and erected a Circuit Court for the District, to which it transferred all the causes then pending in the court of hustings; and enacted, that the Circuit Court should hold four sessions a year, in Alexandria, viz, on the second Mondays of January, April and July, and the first Monday of October. Resler v. Shehee (1 Cranch. (5 U. S.) 110, 2 L. Ed. 51).

The Circuit Court had cognizance of all crimes and offences committed within said District, and of all cases in law and equity. Garnett v. United States (11 Wall. (78 U. S.) 256, 20 L. Ed. 79); Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

By reason of the adoption of the laws of Maryland for the government of this part of the District, the circuit court, under this act which defined its jurisdiction, could, as incident to its common-law powers, issue the writ to an executive officer of the United States, if at that time having general jurisdiction at common law, and being the highest court of original jurisdiction in the District. United States v. Schurz (12 Otto (102 U. S.) 378, 26 L. Ed. 167).

Under the Organic Act of 1801 equity jurisdiction was vested in the Circuit Court of the United States. Thaw v. Ritchie (136 U. S. 519, 34 L. Ed. 531, 10 Sup. Ct. 1037); In re Heath (144 U. S. 92, 36 L. Ed. 358, 12 Sup. Ct. 615).

Appellate jurisdiction, granted by § 8 of the Organic Act of 1801, was confined to civil cases. Sinclair v. District of Columbia (192 U. S. 16, 48 L. Ed. 322, 24 Sup. Ct. 212).

JURISDICTION

The Circuit Court had no other powers than those which had been given generally, to the Circuit Courts of the United States. Young v. Bank of Alexandria (5 Cranch (9 U. S.) 45, 3 L. Ed. 32); O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740); Munoz v. Porto Rico R. Light & Power Co. ((C. C. A. 1), 83 Fed. (2d) 262).

MANDAMUS

Circuit Court in the district was the highest court of original jurisdiction; and if the power to issue a mandamus directing Postmaster General to do a ministerial act, existed in any court, it was vested in that court. Kendall v. United States (37 U. S. 524, 9 L. Ed. 1180).

Power of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia to exercise jurisdiction to issue a writ of mandamus to a public officer to do an act required of him by law, resulted from the third section of the Act of 1801 (2 Stat. 103, ch. 15) which declared that the court and judges should have the power by law vested in Circuit Courts of United States. Kendall v. United States (37 U. S. 524, 9 L. Ed. 1181).

There is no authority for a review of an appealable judgment by a writ of mandamus. Ex parte Bradley (74 U. S. 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

MARYLAND LAWS APPLICABLE

Except as modified by statute, the practice of the courts of the District of Columbia is modeled upon that which obtained in the courts of Maryland at the time of the cession. (Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

This section and R. S., § 92 carry the Maryland laws to the District of Columbia and make them as applicable to the District as if such laws had been expressly enacted by congress. In re Wolf ((D. C.-Ark.), 27 Fed. 606).

When by this act Congress accepted the cession from Maryland and assumed jurisdiction over the ceded territory, it was specifically provided that the laws of Maryland as they then existed should continue in force. Harrison v. Moyer ((D. C.-Ga.), 224 Fed. 224); Tyner v. United States (23 App. D. C. 324). See United States v. Watkins (Fed. Cas. 16649, 3 Cranch C. C. 441).

REVIEW

Any final judgment, order or decree wherein the matter exclusive of costs exceeded $100 was under § 8, subject to review in the United States Supreme Court, by writ of error or appeal. Nicholls v. Hodges (1 Pet. (26 U. S.) 562, 7 L. Ed. 263).

Section 8 of the Organic Act of 1801 authorized a writ of error to the Circuit Court in those cases only in which there had been a final judgment. Van Ness v. Van Ness (6 How. (47 U. S.) 62, 12 L. Ed. 344).

Section relating to trial of civil causes by District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1200, ch. 851, § 70 and is now superseded by rule 38 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Sections which provide that the trial of issues of fact in the Circuit Courts shall be by jury unless the parties or their attorneys file with the clerk a stipulation in writing waiving a jury, in which case they may be tried and determined by the court, are not repealed by the Judicial Code and they are clearly applicable to the District courts. Lillie v. Dennert ((C. C. A. 6), 232 Fed. 104).

Unless the act charged be a crime, there is no possible ground for a contention that a jury trial is provided for by the Clayton Act. United States v. Taliaferro (290 Fed. 214).

APPEAL

Judgment in case tried by court without jury even though erroneous, should be upheld when there is neither bill of exceptions, nor motion for judgment. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181); International Finance Corp. v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (63 App. D. C. 325, 72 Fed. (2d) 376).

FINDINGS OF THE COURT

Court finding in favor of plaintiff, which finding was entered by the clerk, had the same effect as a verdict of the jury. Goode v. United States (44 App. D. C. 162); Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Assn. v. Case (68 App. D. C. 43, 93 Fed. (2d) 56).

Where District Court for District of Columbia properly dismissed complaint for lack of jurisdiction, its findings on the merits were without effect. Rowe v. Nolan Finance Co., 1944 (142 F. 2d 93, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 35).

FUNCTION OF JUDGE

In the trial of a cause by a court on a waiver of jury, the trial judge assumes, in addition to his judicial duties, the function of a jury, and passes on both the law and the facts. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181); Central of Georgia R. Co. v. W. Va. Pulp & Paper Co. (67 App. D. C. 309, 92 Fed. (2d) 292).

STIPULATION

The filing of a motion to quash service of process, and of affidavits in opposition to the motion, does not confer jurisdiction on the courts to determine the facts in issue without the filing of a written stipulation as required by this section. Fischer v. Munsey Trust Co. (44 App. D. C. 212).

Section relating to exceptions in trials of civil causes by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 71 and is now superseded by rule 46 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

This section is intended to provide the requisites and manner of review in the appellate court. It insures re-examination of trial judge in every case in which an exception is taken and afterwards embraced in a bill of exceptions, and it further provides the mode of challenging the sufficiency of the evidence and obtaining a review if the decision is adverse. This benefit may be secured by motion for judgment and an exception to its refusal. Darby v. Montgomery County Nat. Bank (63 App. D. C. 313, 72 Fed. (2d) 181).

Exceptions Not Taken

An appeal without bill of exceptions can not be entertained even though there was presented an agreement as to the facts by the parties by their respective attorneys. Frizell v. Murphy (19 App. D. C. 440).

Judgment entered by court without jury should be affirmed when no exception was taken by appellant either during the progress of the trial or at its conclusion, nor was any motion made for judgment. International Finance Corp. v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (63 App. D. C. 325, 72 Fed. (2d) 376).

Exceptions to Rulings Not Made in the Trial

"We find nothing in the code, or in the rules of practice established under it to require an exception in order that an error apparent upon the record may be reviewed. Sections 71, 73 (§§ 11–318, 11–320) pertain to the taking of exceptions to rulings made during trial in the Supreme Court. There seems to be no section that in terms recognizes a right to take exceptions on rulings other than such as are made in the trial, unless this right follows from the adoption of the statute of Westminster as being among the 'British statutes in force in Maryland.'" Nalle v. Oyster (230 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 1439, 33 Sup. Ct. 1043).

Sufficiency of Evidence

Authority of Court of Appeals is limited on appeal to the inquiry as to whether or not there was some substantial evidence to support the finding of the trial court on the subject, and must be determined by not considering and weighing conflicting testimony. Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Assn. v. Case (68 App. D. C. 43, 93 Fed. (2d) 56).

§ 11–319 [18: 74]. Special panel—Struck jury—Procedure.

In all cases called for trial in said court in which either party shall desire a struck jury the clerk shall prepare a list of twenty jurors from the jurors in attendance and furnish the same to each of the parties, and it shall be lawful for each party or his counsel to strike off four persons from said list, and the remaining persons shall thereupon be impaneled and sworn as the petit jury in said cause; and if either party or his counsel shall neglect or refuse to strike off from said list the number of persons hereby directed, the clerk may strike off such names, and the remaining twelve jurors shall be sworn and impaneled as aforesaid. Or, instead of the proceeding aforesaid, if it shall not be insisted upon by either party, it shall be lawful for either party to furnish to the clerk a list of the jurors, not exceeding four in number, whom he wishes to be omitted from the panel sworn in the cause, and the clerk in making up said panel shall omit the jurors objected to as aforesaid: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to take away the right of any person to challenge the array or polls of any panel returned: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to have all or any of the jurors examined on their voir dire before the list is prepared to determine their competency to sit in the particular case. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 72; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

Amendment

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out at the end thereof the words "according to existing law" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to have all or any of the jurors examined on their voir dire before the list is prepared to determine their competency to sit in the particular case."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Examination of Jurors

Where, on voir dire examination, questions concerning claims for personal injuries previously suffered by jurors were propounded to panel and in response two jurors remained silent, there was no sufficient inquiry by counsel, on voir dire, to support a motion for new trial, or contention on appeal based on ground that some jurors gave false answers or concealed information by silence, and a denial of new trial was not an abuse of discretion. Orenberg v. Thecker, 1944 (143 F. 2d 375, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 149).

Section relating to exceptions taken upon a trial before a jury in the District Court of the United States was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1201, ch. 854, § 73; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 4 and is now superseded by rule 46 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Exceptions, Corrections

"There is no power in this court, by certiorari or otherwise, to correct the imperfections or misstatements that are alleged to exist in the bill of exceptions taken and certified to this court." Kelly v. Moore (22 App. D. C. 1).

Exceptions Not Filed

A motion to dismiss an appeal for failure to file a bill of exceptions will be denied where "the right of appeal is not dependent upon the appearance of a regular bill of exceptions in the transcript of the record." Raymond v. United States (26 App. D. C. 250).

In the absence of a bill of exceptions it will be presumed on appeal "that the proceedings had in the court below were in all respects regular." Raymond v. United States (26 App. D. C. 250).

Exceptions, When Entertained

"Every reasonable presumption will be indulged in favor of the regularity of a bill of exceptions that the record will permit. But it seems to be the settled practice * * * not to entertain a bill of exceptions which clearly appears from the record to have been settled, etc., after the expiration of the term of the court or of any period beyond which it could not be legally postponed." Talty v. District of Columbia (20 App. D. C. 489).

Exceptions, When Not Required

"The purpose of a bill of exceptions * * * is to make that a matter of record which otherwise would not appear on the record. But when the questions raised already sufficiently appear from the pleadings and proceedings of record, no such bill of exceptions is necessary." Evans v. Humphreys (9 App. D. C. 392).

As to the consideration of stipulations of counsel in lieu of bill of exception, see Frizell v. Murphy (19 App. D. C. 440).

Necessary Inclusions

"A general exception to a charge, which does not direct the attention of the court to the particular portions of it to which objection is made raises no question for review by an appellate court." Thomas v. Presbrey (5 App. D. C. 217).

On a plea of nul tiel record to a scire facias on judgment the record inspected is no part of the proceedings, and a bill of exceptions setting forth the record offered and the ruling thereon to which exception is taken is necessary on appeal. Lyon v. Ford (7 App. D. C. 314), citing Otterback v. Patch (5 App. D. C. 69).

"In order to warrant an Appellate Court in determining whether there was error in giving or refusing an instruction to return a verdict, the bill of exceptions must show that all of the evidence has been set forth." Rockwell v. Capital Trac. Co. (25 App. D. C. 98).

An objection not appearing in the bill of exceptions comes too late. Fields v. United States (27 App. D. C. 433, 446), dism. 205 U. S. 292, 51 L. Ed. 807, 27 Sup. Ct. 543).

PERMITTED EXCLUSIONS

A stipulation setting forth an agreed statement of facts on which the case is tried need not be included in a formal bill of exceptions. American Security & Trust Co. v. Walker (23 App. D. C. 583).

§ 11–321 [18: 76]. Exceptions—Sealing by justice.

When one that is impleaded before any of the justices doth alledge an exception, praying that the justices will allow it, which if they will not allow, if he that alledged the exception, do write the same exception, and require that the justices will put to their seals for a witness, the justices shall so do; and if one will not, another of the company shall. (2) And if the King, upon complaint made of the justices, cause the record to come before him, and the same exception be not found in the roll, and the plaintiff shew the exception written, with the seal of a justice put to, the justice shall be commanded that he appear at a certain day, either to confess or deny his seal. (3) And if the justice can not deny his seal, they shall proceed to judgment according to the same exception, as it ought to be allowed or disallowed. (13 Edw. 1, ch. 31 (1285); Alex. Br. Stat. 126; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 442, § 5.)

Section relating to criminal court term of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 83; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEALS

The Criminal Appeals Act does not impliedly repeal the appellate system created by the District of Columbia Code. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. Ct. 574).

The Criminal Appeals Act is inapplicable to criminal cases tried in the District Court of the District. United States v. Burroughs (289 U. S. 159, 77 L. Ed. 1096, 53 Sup. St. 574).

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

Charge of conspiracy against United States is triable before Supreme Court (now District Court) of District sitting as a criminal court. Pitts v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 195, 50 Fed. (2d) 485).

A bill of exceptions which, under a local rule of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, was required to be filed within a specified time, cannot after such time has expired be settled and signed nunc pro tunc by the District Court and made a part of the record, and the Court of Appeals may, on motion of appellee, or on its own motion, strike the same. Joerns v. Irvin (72 App. D. C. 170, 114 Fed. (2d) 458).

Any act done within the District of Columbia by any defendant in furtherance of objectives of alleged conspiracy to cause insubordination and refusal of duty by members of United States military forces would establish venue in the District of Columbia as to all parties to conspiracy, regardless of where conspiracy was entered into. U. S. v. McWilliams (D. C., D. C. 1944, 54 F. Supp. 791).

CRIMINAL RULES, APPLICATION OF

The rules in criminal cases after verdict, rules 4, 7–9, 18 U. S. C. following § 688, are intended to be of general operation throughout the United States. Edwards v. U. S., 1944 (139 F. 2d 365, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 226, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 523, 321 U. S. 769, 88 L. Ed. 1064).

HISTORICAL

Historical development of criminal court traced. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

Under the act of 1863, reorganizing the courts of the District, the Supreme Court (now District Court) not only possessed no jurisdiction in criminal cases, except in an appellate form, but established a separate and independent court, invested with all the criminal jurisdiction, to hear and punish crimes and offenses within the district. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

Under the act of March 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91, by which the courts of the District were reorganized, the criminal court still remained a separate and independent court, although held by a justice of the Supreme Court (now District Court) of the District created by the act, and the only jurisdiction of the Supreme Court (now District Court) in criminal cases was appellate. Cross v. United States (145 U. S. 571, 36 L. Ed. 821, 12 Sup. Ct. 842).

IMPAIRMENT OF JURISDICTION

Jurisdiction in a criminal case is not impaired by fact that accused was brought before court in an unlawful manner. Sheehan v. Huff, 1944 (142 F. 2d 81, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 391, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1287, 322 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 1591).

WITHDRAWAL AND APPOINTMENT OF COUNSEL

The judge of District Court, so far, at least, as he has power to control the activities of lawyers practicing before him, had power to permit withdrawal of assigned counsel who represented accused at trial, as well as to appoint new counsel, after federal appellate court had acquired jurisdiction of the cause. Edwards v. U. S., 1944 (139 F. 2d 365, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 226, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 523, 321 U. S. 769, 88 L. Ed. 1064).

Section relating to attendance of the clerk, marshal and district attorney upon the criminal court of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1220, ch. 854, § 185; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329 and is now covered by sections 507, 547, 956 of title 28, U. S. C.

Section relating to jurisdiction of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 84 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The District Court and Court of Appeals of the District are constitutional courts of the United States, ordained and established under article 3 of the Constitution; the judges of these courts hold their offices during good behavior, and their compensation cannot, under the Constitution, be diminished during their continuance in office. O'Donoghue v. United States (289 U. S. 516, 77 L. Ed. 1356, 53 Sup. Ct. 740).

The fact that District Court for District of Columbia was known as the "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia," when act Feb. 13, 1925, ch. 229, § 1, 43 Stat. 938, amending 28 U. S. C. § 345 and restricting direct review by Supreme Court of District Court judgments became law, did not exclude the District Court for District of Columbia from such restriction, since at that time the Supreme Court of District of Columbia possessed the jurisdiction of a District Court of the United States. U. S. v. Belt, 1943 (63 S. Ct. 1278, 319 U. S. 521, 87 L. Ed. 1559, vacating 47 F. Supp. 239).

POWER OF JUSTICES

By §§ 62, 84 of the 1901 Code (§§ 11–309, 11–324), justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia were vested with the power and jurisdiction of judges of the District Courts of the United States. Federal Trade Comm. v. Klesner (274 U. S. 145, 71 L. Ed. 972, 47 Sup. Ct. 557, rev'g 56 App. D. C. 3, 6 Fed. (2d) 701).

Section relating to equity court term of District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1202, ch. 854, § 85 and is now inconsistent with sections 137–141 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DIVORCE

Divorce proceeding is equitable in character. Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005).

A divorce proceeding in the District of Columbia is "equitable" in character so that in such proceeding district court had continuing jurisdiction to grant full and complete relief concerning custody and maintenance of child of the parties. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia acquired jurisdiction over maintenance and custody of minor child upon filing of suit for divorce. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

The Court had jurisdiction under its general equity powers to adjudicate and settle a dispute between the parties concerning their respective rights in funds and property which had been acquired during marriage. Reilly v. Reilly (C. A. D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 108, appeal pending).

EQUITY RULES

Equity Rule providing for the transfer of an action in law erroneously begun as a suit in equity cannot be invoked for the first time on appeal to the United States Supreme Court. Curriden v. Middleton (232 U. S. 633, 58 L. Ed. 765, 34 Sup. Ct. 458).

Provisions of the Judicial Code are superior to any rule of procedure inconsistent therewith formulated under authority of this section. Tuckerman v. Mearns (49 App. D. C. 153, 262 Fed. 607).

JURY TRIAL

When an issue was sent by a court of equity to be tried by a jury in a court of law, and exceptions were taken during the progress of the trial at law, these exceptions had to be brought before the court of equity and there decided, in order to give United States Supreme Court cognizance of them when the case was brought up for appeal. McLaughlin v. Bank of Potomac (7 How. (48 U. S.) 220, 12 L. Ed. 675).

Where ownership of house, proceeds from its occupancy under lease executed by defendant, and disposition of furniture were put in issue by complaint for divorce, but defendant averred that she was not plaintiff's wife because she had been granted a foreign divorce decree, if defendant desired pretrial and jury trial on property issues she should have made demand therefor. Scholl v. Scholl (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 672, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

LOST WILLS

The equity branch of the District Court is without jurisdiction to set up a lost will. Gracie v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

PERSONAL RIGHTS

District Court had jurisdiction to grant injunction against exclusion of plaintiff and similarly situated members of the National Woman's Party from the party's headquarters. Berrien v. Pollitzer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 21).

POWER OF COURT

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia has power to grant full and complete relief in an equity case. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

§ 11–326 [18: 102]. Enforcement of decrees.

The said court may, for the purpose of executing a decree, or to compel obedience to the same, issue an attachment against the person of the defendant, and may order an immediate sequestration of his real and personal estate, or such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the decree, or may issue a fieri facias and attachment by way of execution against his lands, tenements, chattels, and credits, or other incorporeal property, to satisfy the decree; or the court may, by order and injunction, cause the possession of the estate and effects whereof the possession or a sale is decreed to be delivered to the complainant, or otherwise, according to the tenor and import of the decree and as the nature of the case may require; and in case of sequestration may order payment and satisfaction to be made out of the estate and effects so sequestrated, according to the true intent and meaning of the decree; and in case any defendant shall be arrested and brought into court upon any process of contempt issued to compel the performance of any decree, the court may, upon motion, order such defendant to stand committed, or may order his estate and effects to be sequestrated and payment made, as above directed, or possession of his estate and effects to be delivered by order and injunction as above directed, until such decree or order shall be fully performed and executed, according to the tenor and true meaning thereof, and the contempt cleared; but where the decree only directs the payment of money no defendant shall be imprisoned except in those cases especially provided for. (Mar. 3, 1901. 31 Stat. 1208. ch. 854, § 113.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECREE AWARDING CUSTODY

A divorce decree awarding custody of children to wife and directing payment by husband of a specified sum monthly for their maintenance does not only direct payment of money within this section, and husband who failed to make the required monthly payments could be imprisoned for contempt, notwithstanding that the divorce was granted to husband on his application. Evans v. Evans (D. C., D. C. 1941, 36 F. Supp. 12).

FINAL ORDERS

An order requiring the payment of maintenance, even pendente lite, is a "final order" and not an "interlocutory order", for purpose of determining court's jurisdiction to imprison for contempt for noncompliance with the order. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT

Order directing government employee, whose salary was not subject to attachment or garnishment, to pay over a certain amount of his salary each month to a receiver in satisfaction of a judgment was a violation of the provisions of this section forbidding imprisonment for debt, for necessarily it threatened defendant with punishment as for contempt of court if he failed to pay. McGrew v. McGrew (59 App. D. C. 230, 38 Fed. (2d) 541, cert. den. 281 U. S. 739, 74 L. Ed. 1153, 50 Sup. Ct. 349).

The provision that no defendant shall be imprisoned, where decree is for fine, is a limitation on the fundamental power of the court. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

Under this section providing that where a decree directs only payment of money no defendant shall be imprisoned except in those cases especially provided for, court has no power to overstep that limitation. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

After final decree was entered dismissing divorce suit but containing no reference to unpaid installments of alimony which had accrued under pendente order, this section for bidding imprisonment for violation of decree ordering only payment of money came into play. Cole v. Cole (App. D. C. 1947, 161 F. 2d 883).

MANDATORY INJUNCTIONS

Where plaintiffs sought injunction requiring defendants to restore to plaintiffs possession of an apartment, mandatory injunction was properly denied on ground that plaintiffs had an adequate remedy at law. Leonardo v. Leonardo, 1944 (145 F. 2d 849, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 258).

A mandatory injunction should be denied when its issuance will cause injury to defendant and no benefit or very little benefit to plaintiff, especially when money damages will afford compensation. Leonardo v. Leonardo, 1944 (145 F. 2d 849, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 258).

§ 11–327 [18: 103]. Enforcement of interlocutory decrees.

All interlocutory orders may be enforced by such process as might be had upon a final judgment or decree to the like effect, and the payment of costs adjudged to any party may be enforced in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 114.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section provided that interlocutory orders might be enforced by the same process that might be had upon a final judgment or decree to the like effect, and payment of costs adjudged to any party might be enforced in like manner. Karrick v. Edes (57 App. D. C. 219, 19 Fed. (2d) 693).

NONPAYMENT OF MAINTENANCE PENDENTE LITE

Under § 16–415 authorizing imprisonment for enforcement of permanent maintenance and §§ 16–410, 16–411, for enforcement of alimony during pendency of divorce suit and this section, permitting enforcement of interlocutory orders by same process as final decrees, court had no power to imprison husband for failure to pay awards of maintenance pendente lite and suit money, in wife's suit for maintenance. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

§ 11–328 [18: 104]. Enforcement of decrees for delivery of chattels.

An order or decree for the delivery of chattels may be enforced by the same writs as are used in the action of replevin at common law, as well as those heretofore used for its enforcement in equity practice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 115.)

§ 11–329 [18: 60]. District Court building under control of Attorney General.

The District Court building in the city of Washington shall be under the supervision and control of the Attorney General. (Mar. 3, 1875, 18 Stat. 374, ch. 130.)

§ 11–330 [18: 62]. Fees and fines.

There shall be credited to the District of Columbia that proportion of the fees and fines collected by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, including fees and fines collected by the offices of the clerk of that court, of the Register of Wills of the District of Columbia, and of the United States marshal for the District of Columbia, as the amount paid by the District of Columbia toward salaries and expenses of such court and of the offices of the United States district attorney for the District of Columbia and of the United States marshal for the District of Columbia bears to the total amount of such salaries and expenses; and such proportion of the fees and fines, if any, collected by the United States Court of Appeals for the Distract of Columbia Circuit, including fees and fines, if any, collected by the office of the clerk of that court, as the amount paid by the District of Columbia toward the salaries and expenses of such court bears to the total amount of such salaries and expenses. (July 26, 1939, 53 Stat. 1107, ch. 367, title III; Aug. 2, 1949, 63 Stat. 491, ch. 383, § 7.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Aug. 2, 1949, cited to text, inserted the words "of the Register of Wills of the District of Columbia" after the words "including fees and fines collected by the offices of the clerk of that court," and deleted the words "On and after July 1, 1939," at the beginning of the section. Sec. 10 of said act provided: "This Act shall take effect on July 1, 1949."

Section relating to percentage liability of the District for expenditures for the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia was based on Act Feb. 9, 1893, 27 Stat. 436, ch. 74, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 232; Apr. 27, 1938, 52 Stat. 265, ch. 180, § 1; June 29, 1939, 53 Stat. 903, ch. 248; May 14, 1940, 54 Stat. 181, ch. 189, § 1 and is now obsolete.

Chapter 4.—CLERK OF DISTRICT COURT

Sec.
11–401. Deputy clerks.
11–402. Repealed.

§ 11–401 [18: 111]. Deputy clerks.

The clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia may assign any of the deputy clerks in his office to duty in the general or special terms of the court, except in the probate term. Any of the duties of the clerk may be performed in his name by any of the deputy clerks, and such deputies may sign the name of the clerk to any process, certificate, and other official act required by law or by the practice of the court to be performed by the clerk, and may authenticate said signature by affixing the seal of the court thereto when the seal is necessary to its authentication. In such cases the signature shall be—

_____, Clerk.

By _____, Deputy Clerk.

(Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1218, ch. 854, § 174; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329; Dec. 15, 1941, 55 Stat. 801, ch. 574, § 1; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 988, ch. 646, § 14.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189–1436, ch. 854, was the last code of the District enacted as original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

It is not clear that the words "at such compensation as may be authorized by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in general term" (which follow the word "employees") are entirely superseded by the Classification Act (U. S. C., title 5, § 673).

AMENDMENTS

The act of Dec. 15, 1941, cited to text, substituted "deputy clerks" for "assistant clerks". It also deleted the words "at such compensation as may be authorized by the District Court of the United States in general term" after the words "other necessary employees".

Act June 25, 1948, cited to text, amended the catchline, struck out the first sentence and amended the second sentence by striking out provision re appointing deputy clerks and other necessary employees.

The catchline has been rewritten.

Section relative to clerk administering oaths was based on Act Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 178; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329, and is now covered by section 953 of title 28, U. S. C.

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the ending which stated "and shall receive the same fees for the latter service as other officers authorized to take such acknowledgments."

§ 11–403 [18: 113]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section which related to salaries, expenses and appointment of clerk was based on Act Mar. 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1412, ch. 161, and is now covered by sections 604 and 751 of title 28, U. S. C.

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of Mar. 4, 1921, 41 Stat. 1412, ch. 161, § 1, insofar as applicable, reads: "Provided, That provisions of the act entitled 'An Act to fix the salaries of the clerks of the United States district courts and to provide for their office expenses, and for other purposes,' approved February 26, 1919, shall be applicable on and after July 1, 1921, to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, excepting that said clerk shall be appointed as heretofore by said Court in General Term, and to the clerks of the district courts of the United States for Hawaii and Porto Rico: Provided further, That no clerk or deputy clerk or assistant in the office of the clerk of a United States district court shall receive any compensation or emoluments through any office or position to which he may be appointed by the court, other than that received as such clerk, deputy clerk, or assistant, whether from the United States or from private litigants."

11–518. Costs—Judgment—Execution.
11–519. Depositions—Exceptions—Granting new trial—Decree admitting will to probate—As evidence.
11–520. Arbitration—Exceptions may be taken.

§ 11–501 [18: 121]. Special term to be designated as probate court.

The special term of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, known prior to March 3, 1901, as the orphans' court, shall be designated the probate court, and the justice holding said court shall have and exercise all the power and jurisdiction by law held and exercised by the orphans' court of Washington County, District of Columbia, prior to June 21, 1870. (Feb. 27, 1801, 2 Stat. 107, ch. 15, § 12; June 21, 1870, 16 Stat. 160, ch. 141, § 4; June 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 434, ch. 394; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The probate court is a special term of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia (see § 11–311) and has plenary jurisdiction over probate matters, § 11–503.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

An appeal lay to the United States Supreme Court from the judgment of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia affirming a judgment of the Orphan's Court of Alexandria County, dismissing a petition to revoke the probate of a will. Carter v. Cutting (8 Cranch (12 U. S.)

251, 3 L. Ed. 553); West v. Smith (8 How. (49 U. S.) 402, 12 L. Ed. 1130)).

The 1870 act (16 Stat. 160, ch. 141, § 4) abolished the orphans' court and invested the justice holding the special term of the Supreme Court for that purpose with the powers and jurisdiction then held and exercised by the former court, subject to the provisions giving an appeal to the general term from any order involving the merits, which is expressed in § 5, act of March 3, 1863. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

Supreme Court of the District, in special and general term respectively, has, by virtue of successive acts of Congress, the probate jurisdiction formerly exercised by the Orphans' Court and the Court of Chancery of the State of Maryland and by the Orphans' Court and Circuit Court of the United States for the District; with authority also, at a special term, to order any matter to be heard in the first instance at a general term. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

APPEAL TO GENERAL TERM

An appeal to the general term from the final order of probate made in the special term, which was not based upon a judicial determination of facts, but merely upon the finding of a jury of necessity, brought into review before the general term all the questions of law that are properly presented by the bill of exceptions taken at the trial. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

JURISDICTION

If probate court invested only with authority over wills and the settlement of estates should proceed to try parties for public offenses, jurisdiction over the subject of offenses being entirely wanting in the court, and this being known to the judge, his commission would afford no protection to him in the exercise of usurped authority. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

The question of the jurisdiction of the court below can be raised by either party or by the court on its own motion. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

The probate court of the District of Columbia has limited jurisdiction. Perkins v. Berger, 1944 (145 F. 2d 856, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 286).

ORDER AS FINAL JUDGMENT

An order at special term, admitting a will to probate and record, is a final judgment reviewable by the general term; and such review, in this case a proceeding involving the validity of a will, is a "case," the final judgment of which can be reviewed by the Supreme Court of the United States. Ormsby v. Webb (134 U. S. 47, 33 L. Ed. 805, 10 Sup. Ct. 478).

A judgment admitting a will to probate may be reviewed by the United States Supreme Court. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

The said court shall hold weekly session on such days as it may appoint and on as many days as may be necessary for the dispatch of its business. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 118.)

§ 11–503 [18: 123]. Plenary jurisdiction.

In addition to the jurisdiction conferred in section 11–501, plenary jurisdiction is hereby given to the said court holding the said special term to hear and determine all questions relating to the execution and to the validity of any and all wills devising any real estate within the District of Columbia, and of any and all wills and testaments properly presented for probate therein, and to admit the same to probate and record in said special term; and neither the execution nor the validity of any such will or testament so admitted to probate and record shall be impeached or examined collaterally, but the same shall be in all respects and as to all persons res judicata, subject, nevertheless, to the provisions hereinafter contained. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 117.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"It is not the province of a probate court to become a court of construction; that function belongs to the ordinary courts of law or equity." Vestry v. Bostwick (8 App. D. C. 452). Compare McIntire v. McIntire (14 App. D. C. 337, aff'd 192 U. S. 116, 48 L. Ed. 369, 24 Sup. Ct. 196).

Jurisdiction and powers of probate court are substantially the same as those of its predecessor under the former laws. Richardson v. Daggett (24 App. D. C. 440). Cited Miniggio v. Hutchins (43 App. D. C. 117).

Although the probate court is one of limited jurisdiction, it has all the authority necessarily implied in the act of its creation. Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

Court, in its sound discretion, may remove collector. Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

The provisions of 1901 code, § 141 (§ 19–313) are permissive and not mandatory. Young v. Norris Peters Co. (27 App. D. C. 140).

The probate court of the District of Columbia is one of limited powers and jurisdiction. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS ON APPEAL

"A proceeding in a probate court is not a proceeding in equity, and final orders therein are reviewable only in accordance with the practice at common law. * * * And the evidence in such cases must be brought up in bill of exceptions." Craighead v. Alexander (38 App. D. C. 229).

PROOF OF WILLS

Probate court has exclusive jurisdiction to take proof of wills and to admit the same to probate and record. Gracie v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE

Determination of title to real estate devised by will held to be within general jurisdiction of a court of equity. Beyer v. Le Fevre (186 U. S. 114, 46 L. Ed. 1080, 22 Sup. Ct. 765, rev'g 17 App. D. C. 238).

Prior to act of June 8, 1898 (30 Stat. 434) (§ 11–501). "the probate of a will was evidence of its validity only so far as it affected personal property. As showing the passage of title to real estate the instrument itself must have been produced, with the proof of subscribing witnesses." Young v. Norris Peters Co. (27 App. D. C. 140).

UNPROBATED WILL AS EVIDENCE

Where plaintiff sought to enjoin obstruction of right of way easement on theory that plaintiff and her predecessors in title continuously, openly, notoriously, and adversely used right of way for more than 20 years, unprobated will of plaintiff's predecessor which had been filed in probate court was properly received to prove privity, a transfer of possession, and continuity of interest. Bonds v. Smith, 1944 (143 F. 2d 369, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

WILL LOST OR DESTROYED

The will must be shown to have been irretrievably lost or destroyed, and that it had been duly and properly executed and attested; and that its destruction, if in the lifetime of the testator, was wholly without his knowledge or consent, at the time, or his subsequent ratification. Fitzgerald v. Wynne (1 App. D. C. 107).

§ 11–504 [18: 124]. Powers—Not exclusive of equity jurisdiction in certain cases.

It shall have full power and authority to take the proof of wills of either personal or real estate and admit the same to probate and record, and for cause to revoke the probate thereof; to grant and, for any of the causes hereinafter mentioned, to revoke letters testamentary, letters of administration, letters ad colligendum, and letters of guardianship, and to appoint a successor in the place of anyone whose letters have been revoked; to hear, examine, and decree upon all accounts, claims, and demands existing between executors and administrators and legatees, or persons entitled to a distributive share of an intestate estate, or between wards and their guardians; to enforce the rendition of inventories and accounts by executors, administrators, collectors, guardians, and trustees required to account to said court; to enforce the distribution of estates by executors and administrators, and the payment or delivery by guardians of money or property belonging to their wards: Provided, That the jurisdiction of said probate court shall not be exclusive of the jurisdiction of the said equity court to entertain suits by legatees or next of kin against executors or administrators, or by wards against their guardians for an accounting; and, except in cases provided for in section 11–520, any settlement of accounts in said probate court shall only be prima facie evidence as to the correctness of said accounts in any such suits, or in suits by creditors against executors or administrators, or against heirs or devisees, to subject the real estate of decedents to the payments of their debts. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 119; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 525, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The Rules of Civil Procedure, by their own terms, do not apply to probate proceedings in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, but said court, under its rule-making power, has made the above-mentioned rules applicable to the trial of issues in probate proceedings. See Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by inserting after the word "guardians" the words "to enforce the rendition of inventories and accounts by executors, administrators, collectors, guardians, and trustees required to account to said court"; and by striking out the words "and concurrently with the equity court to direct the sale of real estate of decedents for the payment of their debts and the application of the proceeds thereof" which immediately preceded the proviso; also by changing the internal cross reference from § 144 of the Code of 1901 to § 145 (§ 11–520) thereof.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPOINTING NEW ADMINISTRATOR

"Once letters have been granted to a party upon a misstatement or misconception of the facts, the same may be revoked and the party really entitled thereto appointed." Emery v. Emery (45 App. D. C. 576).

Probate court has power, over objection of surviving administrator, to appoint an administrator to fill a vacancy caused by the death of one of two administrators. Dennis v. Hamilton (48 App. D. C. 160), distinguishing Williams v. Williams (24 App. D. C. 214).

CAVEAT

Upon reversal of judgment sustaining caveat, and its remand, the case is reinstated in the court below upon the issue as originally framed. If caveator insists on new trial, he is entitled to it. Until the case is disposed of, the probate court is without jurisdiction to probate the will. Hutchins v. Hutchins (49 App. D. C. 118, 261 Fed. 460).

Where will was admitted to probate July 5, 1938 and letters testamentary issued, a caveat filed June 30, 1939 will be dismissed insofar as it is a caveat to a will of personal property. Hengesbach v. Hengesbach (— App. D. C. —, 114 Fed. (2d) 845).

CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATE

"The probate court is without jurisdiction to compel an executor or administrator to pay a claim asserted against a decedent's estate." Miniggio v. Hutchins (43 App. D. C. 117). See Dante v. Miniggio (46 App. D. C. 162).

Claims of son in the amount of $318.30 as against sister involving rents from deceased father's property held not against an administratrix within meaning of this section, but were within jurisdiction of the municipal court. Shields v. Shields (69 App. D. C. 331, 101 Fed. (2d) 255).

CONTEMPT

Where probate court of District of Columbia had personal jurisdiction in main cause, that jurisdiction continued in that cause for purpose of making court's decree effective and in civil contempt proceeding for purpose of enforcing the original decree. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

Where status of petitioner as an executor was fixed by will which he offered for probate, and, under the will and without necessity for ratification of his appointment by letters testamentary, he was authorized to perform certain acts in relation to the estate, and, instead of renouncing the appointment, petitioner acted upon his testamentary authority, he thereby voluntarily submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the probate court of the District of Columbia, so that the probate court had jurisdiction to commit petitioner for contempt where he failed to comply with a turn-over order following determination of invalidity of the will. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

CONTRACTS OF EXECUTORS

"In view of its supervisory power over their accounts a court of probate, of course, has a check upon the contracts of executors and administrators, and yet it has neither power to make contracts for them nor to direct or authorize them to make any." MacKie v. Howland (3 App. D. C. 461).

COSTS AND COUNSEL FEES

Counsel fee paid upon petition of certain legatees, said petition stating that counsel "had been managing their interests" and not reserving any right to have it finally charged against the estate, was properly charged against said legatees' interest. McIntire v. McIntire (14 App. D. C. 337, 20 App. D. C. 134, aff'd 192 U. S. 116, 48 L. Ed. 369, 24 Sup. Ct. 196).

An executor who has unsuccessfully defended a will may obtain counsel fees and costs incurred by him even though after term has expired at which judgment was rendered, for the costs and expenses chargeable in the probate court are costs of administration, payable out of the estate and is in control of the court during the whole period of administration. Tuohy v. Hanlon (18 App. D. C. 225).

In contest between next of kin of a testator and his legatees as to validity of will, the orphans' court has no power to allow counsel fees for defending the will so far as it will affect claims of creditors who have nothing to do with the contest. Hamilton v. Shillington (19 App. D. C. 268).

If upon the trial of the issues the executor sustains the validity of the will, or if he shows that he acted in good faith throughout, although the will may be overthrown for the want of testamentary capacity in the deceased, he may, in the discretion of the court, have an allowance for costs and counsel fees; but if will is not sustained, undue influence and bad faith decided against him, he should not be entitled to an allowance. Kengla v. Randall (22 App. D. C. 463).

There was no error in the allowance made for attorneys' fees to the administratrix. She was entitled to the services of an attorney in winding up the estate, and there is no evidence that the services were not worth the sum allowed, or that they were exclusively for the personal benefit of the administratrix. Howard v. Howard (38 App. D. C. 575).

Supreme Court, as a probate court, has power to grant an allowance to executors for counsel fees and costs from the estate, when they had unsuccessfully defended the validity of the will. Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 286).

DISTRIBUTION

The court has jurisdiction to order partial distribution. McLane v. Cropper (5 App. D. C. 276).

Probate Court has jurisdiction over residuum of estate of which testator died intestate. Sinnott v. Kenaday (12 App. D. C. 115). See also Sinnott v. Kenaday (14 App.). D. C. 1, rev'd on other grounds 179 U. S. 606, 45 L. Ed. 339, 21 Sup. Ct. 233).

ESCHEAT

The probate court has power, in absence of next of kin, to order in a proper case the payment of residuum of intestate's estate to an escheatee, as § 18–717 provides. Frazier v. Kutz, 1944 (139 F. 2d 380, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 241).

The probate court, upon a finding that there are no heirs of deceased intestate, has power to decree distribution to District of Columbia as escheatee. Frazier v. Kutz, 1944 (139 F. 2d 380, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 241).

The probate court's jurisdiction to hear, determine and decree upon all claims between executors and administrators and legatees or persons entitled to a distributive share of an intestate estate includes duty of finding that there are or that there are not statutory heirs, and upon the finding to make distribution as § 18–717 requires. Frazier v. Kutz, 1944 (139 F. 2d 380, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 241).

NEW TRIAL

In granting a new trial, the court may limit the scope thereof. Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

The action of a trial court in granting or refusing a new trial is not reviewable unless there is a clear case of abuse of discretion. Ecker v. Potts (72 App. D. C. 174, 112 Fed. (2d) 581).

PURPOSE

The object of this section creating the probate court was to provide a tribunal in which it might be judicially determined who takes property left by a deceased intestate. Frazier v. Kutz, 1944 (139 F. 2d 380, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 241).

POWERS

The Probate Court of the District of Columbia has only the powers expressly conferred on it by law, and is a court of limited jurisdiction. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. McQuade, 1941 (123 F. 2d 337, 74 App. D. C. 383).

SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Although in Maryland before 1798, the orphans' court had no authority to order a sale of a ward's real estate, the orphans' court of the District of Columbia, with the approval of the Circuit Court of the United States of that District sitting in chancery, had such power. Thaw v. Ritchie (136 U. S. 519, 34 L. Ed. 531, 10 Sup. Ct. 1037).

Under this section, jurisdiction of the probate court over suits of creditors to subject real estate of decedents to payment of their debts was not exclusive of the jurisdiction of the equity court. West v. McLaughlin (57 App. D. C. 163, 18 Fed. (2d) 813).

TITLE TO PROPERTY

Holzbeierlein v. Grant, 1941 (117 F. 2d 26, 73 App. D. C. 154).

Where party allegedly holding money as trustee for a minor under an active executory trust created by written instrument never admitted and in fact denied right of minor or minor's guardian to possession of money, the probate court had no jurisdiction to determine who was entitled to possession, since that court has no jurisdiction to decide a dispute regarding the title or the right of possession of personalty. Jones v. Dunlap, 1940 (115 F. 2d 689, 73 App. D. C. 59).

TRIAL BY JURY

A proceeding for the probate of a will is not a suit in equity, but one in which the parties have the right to trial by jury. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

§ 11–505 [18: 125]. Seal.

The probate court shall keep a seal for the said court, and for the office of register of wills; and the said seal shall be fixed to all certificates of the court, or of the register, and to every process and writ of every kind issued from the court. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 12; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Sections 11–505 to 11–512, are from the Maryland statutes indicated in the history line and are inserted on authority of § 11–501, which is § 116 of the 1901 Code.

§ 11–506 [18: 126]. Power to issue summons—Failure to appear—Penalty.

The probate court shall, in all cases, have power to issue a summons for any person concerned in the affairs of a deceased person, or for any witness or other person whose appearance in the said court, for any purpose, shall be deemed necessary or proper, and the said summons shall be returnable, at the discretion of the court; and if it be necessary or proper to enforce the appearance of the party, the court, on the return of the "summoned," and failure to appear, may issue an attachment; and when the party shall appear, or be brought in thereon, may fine him or her, not exceeding $30; and if a witness before the court shall refuse to give evidence, the court may commit him or her to the custody of the marshal or coroner (if the case may require), there to remain until he give evidence, or be discharged according to law; or the court may attach and sequester the party's estate, or a part thereof, as directed by sections 11–508 to 11–512, inclusive. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

§ 11–507 [18: 127]. Process or summons to be served by marshal—Liability.

The marshal or coroner, (as the case may require,) shall serve any summons or process to him directed by the probate court and shall make return thereof according to its tenor, and on failure, he shall be liable to be proceeded against by attachment and fine as aforesaid, or otherwise, as any other person may be proceeded against. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 14; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Service of process, see Rule 4.

§ 11–508 [18: 128]. Sequestration where party fails to appear—Bond required.

In any case where two summonses shall be regularly returned non est by the marshal and it shall be necessary to proceed further to compel the party's attendance, the court may order and issue an attachment against his or her lands, tenements, goods, and chattels, and on return of such attachment, to which a schedule of the property (if any) attached shall be annexed, the court, by order, or commission under seal, may authorize some person or persons to take into his care and custody the lands, tenements, goods and chattels, return in the schedule, or any part thereof, and receive the profits thereof, to be accounted for, until the party shall appear and obey the order of the court, or until further order, and the marshal or other officer, shall deliver the property accordingly, or be liable to be proceeded against as aforesaid; Provided, That the person or persons so authorized shall first give bond to the United States with such security, and in such penalty, as the court shall direct, to be recorded, sued, and to be on a footing with an administration bond, conditioned for rendering a true account of the said estate or property, and of the profits thereof, and to deliver the same according to the court's order, deducting such allowance for loss, and such commission, not exceeding 5 per cent. on the whole, as the court shall think proper to grant; and whenever the purpose for which the said property was sequestered shall have been answered, the court shall direct the said estate or property, and profits (deducting as aforesaid) to be restored to the party; and on the death of the party, the court shall order the same to be delivered to his or her heirs, devisees or legal representatives, as soon as the said purpose shall be answered, or immediately, on application, and satisfying the court of the party's right, in case the said purpose, after the death of the original party, can not be answered. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 15; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

§ 11–509 [18: 129]. Plenary proceedings—How regulated.

Whenever either of the parties having a contest in the probate court shall require, the said court may direct a plenary proceeding, by bill or petition, to which there shall be an answer, on oath (or affirmation) and if the party refuse to answer on oath (or affirmation, as the case may require) to any matter alleged in the bill or petition, and proper for the court to decide upon, the said party may be attached, fined, and committed, or his property may be attached and sequestered as aforesaid. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 16; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

§ 11–510 [18: 130]. Plenary proceedings—Issues to be made up—Jury trial.

And on such plenary proceeding the probate court shall give judgment, or decree upon the bill and answer, or upon bill, answer, depositions, or finding of the jury; and in all cases of contest, the probate court may award costs to the party in their opinion entitled thereto, and may compel payment, by attachment of the body, and fine, or attachment and sequestration, as aforesaid, of the property. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 17; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

§ 11–511 [18: 131]. When appeal shall not stay proceedings.

An appeal from the probate court shall not stay any proceedings therein which may with propriety be carried on before the appeal is decided, provided the said probate court can provide for conforming to the decision of the court above, whether the said decision may eventually be for or against the appellant. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 19; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

§ 11–512 [18: 132]. Limitation on jurisdiction — Enforcement of decrees and orders.

The said probate court shall not, under pretext of incidental power, or constructive authority, exercise any jurisdiction whatever not expressly given by this code; but every judgment, decree, decision, or order, of the said court, may be enforced by attachment and sequestration as aforesaid; and if the said judgment, decree, decision, or order, be for paying money, the property sequestrated may, at the discretion of the court, be applied to the purpose for which such judgment, decree, decision, or order, was given. (Act of Maryland, 1798, ch. 101, subch. 15, § 20; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1208, ch. 854, § 116.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION OF STATUTES

As the powers of the probate court are strictly limited, the statutes are equally applicable, at least so far as they are pertinent to the administration of all estates in the District, whether domiciliary or ancillary. Duehay v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co. (70 App. D. C. 245, 105 Fed. (2d) 768).

POWER TO REMOVE ADMINISTRATOR

Like its predecessor, the orphan's court of Maryland, the Probate Court is a court of special jurisdiction with limited powers, and consequently, unless power to remove an executor for a particular cause can be found in the statute, or by necessary inference therefrom, it does not exist. Hawley v. Hawley (72 App. D. C. 357, 114 Fed. (2d) 505).

Unless power of probate court to remove an administratrix for a particular cause can be found in this chapter or by necessary inference therefrom, it does not exist. D C. Code. Perkins v. Berger, 1944 (145 F. 2d 856, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 286).

The fact that administratrix asserted a stale claim against deceased's estate did not authorize removal of administratrix. Perkins v. Berger, 1944 (145 F. 2d 856, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 286).

§ 11–513 [18: 133]. Power to order investment of funds—Penalty—Revocation of letters.

The said court may, in its discretion, order an executor, administrator, collector, or guardian, whom it may have appointed, to bring into court or invest in securities, to be approved by the court, any money or funds received by such executor, administrator, collector, or guardian and if said party shall not, within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the court, comply with the order, his letters may be revoked. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1209, ch. 854, § 123.)

Referred to but not construed in Guthrie v. Welch (24 App. D. C. 562).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMINGLING OF FUNDS BY EXECUTOR

Where money was deposited in bank by executor, mingled with his own and subject to his check at all times, it renders both him and his coexecutor, who acquiesced in this disposition, liable for legal interest on the fund during the whole time of his possession. Mades v. Miller (2 App. D. C. 455).

§ 11–514 [18: 134]. Power to compel performance of duty—Summons, revocation of letters.

The court shall have power to order any executor, administrator, collector, guardian, or testamentary trustee, who appears to be in default in respect to the rendering of any inventory or account or the fulfillment of any duty in said court to be summoned to appear therein and fulfill his duty in the premises, on pain of revocation of his power to act; and on his appearing the court may pass such order as may be just; and upon his failure to appear, after having been duly summoned, may revoke his power to act and make such further order and other appointment as justice may require. In case the summons to appear is returned by the marshal "not to be found," an alias summons shall be mailed to the last-known post-office address of such fiduciary or served upon his attorney of record, if he be within the jurisdiction of the court; and on the failure of such fiduciary to appear, the court may revoke his power to act and make such further order and other appointment as justice may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 854, § 126; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 557, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment added the words "or testamentary trustee" in the first sentence; deleted the words "his letters testamentary or of administration or collection or of guardianship" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "his power to act" as such words appear for the first time in the first sentence; deleted the word "letters" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "power to act" the second time such words appear in the first sentence; and added the second sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REMOVAL OF ADMINISTRATOR

An executor or administrator can be removed only for legal causes specified in the statute, which confers power upon the probate court. Hawley v. Hawley (72 App. D. C. 357, 114 Fed. (2d) 505).

§ 11–515 [18: 135]. Revocation of letters—Accounting, power to compel performance.

Whenever said court shall revoke letters testamentary or of administration or of collection or of guardianship, it shall be the duty of the party whose letters may be revoked to render forthwith an account of his administration or guardianship up to the period of the rendition of said account and to deliver and turn over to the person appointed in his place all the estate, money, and effects remaining in his hands that were received and held by him by virtue of his appointment so revoked; and all moneys in the hands of an executor, administrator, or collector realized by him by the sale of the specific property shall be considered unadministered assets and be turned over in like manner; and the court may compel the performance of said duty in the manner hereinafter mentioned, and may direct the bond of said executor, administrator, or collector whose letters may be revoked to be put in suit for the use of the new administrator or collector appointed in his place. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1210, ch. 854, § 127.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REMOVAL WITHOUT NOTICE AND TRIAL

When executors and administrators are once regularly appointed and qualified they can not be removed without notice and a trial. Brosnan v. Brosnan (53 App. D. C. 149, 289 Fed. 547).

§ 11–516 [18: 136]. Enforcement of judgments, orders, and decrees as in equity court.

The said court, in addition to the powers herein specially conferred, shall have power to enforce its judgments, orders, and decrees in like manner as orders and decrees may be enforced in the equity court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1211, ch. 854, § 129; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the word "hereinafter" where it appeared following the word "powers" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "herein."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Forms of actions have been abolished in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see Rule 2.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONTEMPT

Where petitioner seeking writ of habeas corpus offered for probate a will in which he was named as executor and he acted upon testamentary authority, but after determination of invalidity of will he failed to comply with order directing him to turn over assets of deceased's estate, the probate court of the District of Columbia properly exercised its power by adjudging petitioner guilty of contempt for his refusal to comply with the turn-over order. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

POWER OF COURT

The probate court of the District of Columbia is empowered to enforce its decrees with those powers which may be exercised by courts of equity. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

§ 11–517 [18: 137]. Trial of other issues—Time—Notice.

The trial of other issues pending in said court than such as relate to the execution or validity of wills shall also be had in said court. For the trial of issues not relating to wills the justice holding said court shall have authority to fix the time of trial and determine the notice thereof to be given. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 142; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the following words: "and no person shall be required to serve as a juror more than twenty secular days in any one term in any one year, except in a trial pending and not determined when said twenty days expire."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OUSTING JURISDICTION

Administration proceedings for property within the District, in a court of the District having proper jurisdiction, need not be dismissed because one of the parties asks for letters of administration in another jurisdiction on the claim that deceased had been domiciled in such State. Overby v. Gordon (177 U. S. 214, 44 L. Ed. 741, 20 Sup. Ct. 603, aff'g 13 App. D. C. 392).

§ 11–518 [18: 138]. Costs—Judgment—Execution.

The said court shall have authority to render judgment for costs against the unsuccessful party in any proceeding conducted in said court and to issue execution therefor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 143; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329).

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by striking out the word "trial" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "proceeding."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION

Court has discretionary power, notwithstanding this section, to award costs to the party in their opinion entitled thereto. Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 286). Followed in Manning v. Childress (48 App. D. C. 256).

§ 11–519 [18: 139]. Depositions — Exceptions — Granting new trial—Decree admitting will to probate—As evidence.

The said court shall have authority to issue commissions to take the testimony of nonresident witnesses, and such depositions, as well as depositions de bene esse, taken according to law, may be read at the trial of any issue in said court. On the trial of any such issue exceptions may be taken to the rulings of the court, and the said court may set aside the verdict and grant a new trial for the same causes and in the same manner as in case of a trial in the Circuit Court. Unless and until the same be reversed, any final order or decree admitting a will to probate shall be conclusive evidence of the validity of such will in any collateral proceeding in which such will may be brought into question, and a transcript of the record of such will, and of the decree admitting the same to probate, shall be sufficient proof thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 144; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 526, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1901 was amended by inserting, after the word "unless," the words "and until" in the third sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

UNPROBATED WILL AS EVIDENCE

Where plaintiff sought to enjoin obstruction of right of way easement on theory that plaintiff and her predecessors in title continuously, openly, notoriously, and adversely used right of way for more than 20 years, unprobated will of plaintiff's predecessor which had been filed in probate court was properly received to prove privity, a transfer of possession, and continuity of interest. Bonds v. Smith, 1944 (143 F. 2d 369, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

§ 11–520 [18: 140]. Arbitration—Exceptions may be taken.

The said court shall have power, with the consent in writing of both parties, to arbitrate between a complainant and an executor or administrator, or between an executor or administrator and a person against whom the estate represented by him has a claim, or, with like consent, may refer the matter in dispute to an arbitrator. If reserved by the parties in their submission, exception as to matters of law may be filed to the award of such arbitrator, and the court may confirm or overrule the award, and said award, when confirmed, shall be conclusive between the parties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1214, ch. 854, § 145.)

§ 11–601 [18: 151]. Constitution—Number of judges—Qualifications, tenure, salary, sessions—Hours, rules—Quarters and equipment.

The police court of the District shall consist of four judges learned in the law, appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. No person shall be so appointed unless he has been an actual resident of the District for a period of at least five years immediately preceding his appointment and has been in the actual practice of law before the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for a period of five years prior to his original appointment. The term of office of each judge shall be six years, except that any judge in office at the expiration of the term for which he was appointed may continue in office until his successor takes office. Each judge shall be subject to removal by the President for cause. The salary of each judge shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923 (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 13). The judges shall hold separate sessions and may carry on the business of the court separately and simultaneously, but the holding of such sessions shall be so arranged that the court shall be open continuously from nine o'clock antemeridian until eleven o'clock postmeridian each day, Sundays excepted, for the trial of cases involving violations of traffic laws and regulations. The judges shall have power to make rules for the apportionment of business between them and the act of each judge respecting the business of the court shall be deemed and taken to be the act of the court. Each judge when appointed shall take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States.

(b) The commissioners shall provide for the use of the police court such quarters, furniture, books, stationery, and office equipment as may, in their opinion, be necessary for the efficient execution of the functions of the court, and as may be appropriated for by the Congress from time to time. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1196, ch. 854, § 42; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 522, ch. 1329; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1119, ch. 443, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The Code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189–1436, ch. 854, was the last code actually enacted by Congress and it was original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in the history line, they have to do only with origins and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

Provision was made in this section for the holding of police court sessions from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. each day in traffic cases. Limitations on appropriations have provided that no portion of the appropriations shall be expended "for the holding of court on any day after 6 o'clock postmeridian for the trial of cases involving violations of traffic laws and regulations." (See act of May 21, 1928, 45 Stat. 669.)

The basic law is that set forth in this section.

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment added the provision for serving until the successors are appointed.

The 1925 amendment added the second sentence, the exception in the third sentence, the fourth and fifth sentences, that part of the sixth sentence following the word "but," and paragraph (b); and, deleted the word "two" in the first sentence and inserted in lieu thereof the word "four" and deleted the provision for the salaries of the judges of $3,000 each per year.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

Accused could, under 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133, be tried in the court of original jurisdiction, upon the issue of guilt or innocence; and by its judgment, unless he gave security for his appearance in another court, he could be deprived of his liberty. The police court was not, in such cases, an examining court merely, but a trial court. Callan v. Wilson (127 U. S. 540, 32 L. Ed. 223, 8 Sup. Ct. 1301).

While other courts of the United States could, under 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133, commit for an indefinite period a defendant in default of payment of a fine, the Police Court of the District was limited to one year. Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

INFERIOR COURT

Police court is an "inferior court" of "limited jurisdiction." Mullen v. Canfield (70 App. D. C. 168, 105 Fed. (2d) 47).

JURISDICTION

Constitution gives to inferior courts the capacity to take jurisdiction but it requires an act of Congress to confer it. Myers v. United States (272 U. S. 52, 71 L. Ed. 160, 47 Sup. Ct. 21).

§ 11–602 [18: 152]. Jurisdiction—Crimes and offenses—Exceptions, limitations.

The said court shall have original jurisdiction concurrently with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, except where otherwise expressly herein provided, of all crimes and offenses committed in the said District not capital or otherwise infamous and not punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, except libel, conspiracy, and violation of the post-office and pension laws of the United States; and also of all offenses against municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District of Columbia. The said court shall also have power to examine and commit or hold to bail, either for trial or further examination, in all cases, whether cognizable therein or in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1196, ch. 854, § 43.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTORNEYS

The police court has no power to admit attorneys nor suspend an attorney on charge of solicitation. Mullen v. Canfield (70 App. D. C. 168, 105 Fed. (2d) 47).

COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

The police court is not a "court of the United States" within the meaning of R. S., § 1042 of the United States. United States v. Mills (11 App. D. C. 500).

The police court is a "proper court of the United States" within the meaning of the Food and Drug Act (34 Stat. 768). Huyler's v. Houston (41 App. D. C. 452).

HOUSE BREAKING

Although the police court and the juvenile court of the District have no trial jurisdiction whatever of a charge of housebreaking, the police court has power to examine and commit or hold to bail for trial or further examination all persons, and the juvenile court all minors under 17 years of age, charged with such offense. Peak v. Reed (58 App. D. C. 44, 24 Fed. (2d) 619).

LIMITATION OF JURISDICTION

Police court may try criminal cases upon information but it has no jurisdiction of capital or otherwise infamous crimes and can not sentence to a penitentiary. It may direct that a convicted person sentenced to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months be confined in either the workhouse or jail, but it will not be presumed that appellant will be imprisoned at hard labor. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

Police court had no jurisdiction over crimes punishable by death or by imprisonment in the penitentiary. Peak v. Reed (58 App. D. C. 44, 24 Fed. (2d) 619).

Police court may, in default of payment of fine, commit to jail for period not exceeding one year. Palmer v. Lenovitz (35 App. D. C. 303); Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

SALE OF LIQUOR

Jurisdiction was exclusively in the police court, for the violation of act of Congress of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat. 563) which regulated the sale of liquors, and the then Supreme Court of the District of Columbia had no jurisdiction. Gassenheimer v. District of Columbia (6 App. D. C. 108).

Prosecution for first offense under National Prohibition Act may be in the police court by way of information. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

§ 11–603 [18: 152a]. Jurisdiction—Cruelty to children—Witness fees—Humane Society.

Except as provided in sections 11–906, 11–907, the police court of the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction in all cases arising under section 32–209, and the same witness fees shall be allowed in the prosecution of all cases of cruelty to children or animals in the District of Columbia as are allowed in other cases by law; but no officer or member of the Humane Society shall be entitled to any fee as a witness in any such case. (June 25, 1892, 27 Stat. 60, ch. 135, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

As enacted the police court was given jurisdiction in all cases arising under the act of Feb. 13, 1885, 23 Stat. 302, ch. 58, the pertinent section of which appears herein as § 32–209.

This jurisdiction given the police court was subject to appeal to the Supreme (now District) Court of the District, according to the provisions of § 4 of chapter 536, 26 Stat. 849, entitled "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia." This section, as amended by the act of March 2, 1897, 29 Stat. 607, ch. 360, § 1, has been superseded by § 17–103.

The jurisdiction given herein has probably been made subject to that of the juvenile court as defined in the act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, as amended by the act of July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 735, ch. 525, which is contained in this code as § 11–901 et seq., particularly § 11–907.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Lower court was invested by Congress with original jurisdiction "of all offenses against municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District." Tipp v. District of Columbia (69 App. D. C. 400, 102 Fed. (2d) 264).

ENTRY OF DWELLING

The trial of information charging accused with violation of section 3102 of Title 22 prohibiting unlawfully entering and unlawfully declining to leave a dwelling house in District of Columbia would not present question of fact "involving title to real property" so as to deprive police court of District of Columbia of jurisdiction of the prosecution. Fletcher v. McMahon, 1941 (121 F. 2d 729, 73 App. D. C. 263, certiorari denied, 1942, 62 S. Ct. 131, 314 U. S. 662, 86 L. Ed. 531).

§ 11–604 [18: 153]. Affrays and bawdy-houses—Concurrent jurisdiction.

The police court shall have jurisdiction, concurrently with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, of affrays and the keeping of a bawdy or disorderly house. (July 16, 1912, 37 Stat. 192, ch. 235, § 1.)

§ 11–605 [18: 154]. Threats to do bodily harm—Concurrent jurisdiction.

Said police court shall also have concurrent jurisdiction with said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia of threats to do bodily harm. (July 16, 1912, 37 Stat. 193, ch. 235, § 2.)

§ 11–606 [18: 155]. Powers—To issue process, punish for contempt—Limitation, allow bond or bail—Fines and forfeitures—Embezzlement thereof—Penalty.

The police court shall have power to issue process for the arrest of persons against whom information may be filed or complaint under oath made and to compel the attendance of witnesses; to punish contempts by fine not exceeding twenty dollars and imprisonment for not more than forty-eight hours, or either, and to enforce any of its judgments by fine or imprisonment, or both, and to make such rules and regulations as may be deemed necessary and proper for conducting business in said court. In all cases where the said court shall impose a fine it may, in default of the payment of the fine imposed, commit the defendant for such a term as the court thinks right and proper, not to exceed one year.

Every person charged with an offense triable in the police court may give security for his appearance for trial or for further hearing, either by giving bond to the satisfaction of the court or by depositing money as collateral security with the appropriate officer at the said police court or the station keeper of the police precinct within which such person may be apprehended. And whenever any sum of money shall be deposited as collateral security as hereby provided it shall remain, in contemplation of law, the property of the person depositing it until duly forfeited by the court; and when forfeited it shall be, in contemplation of law, the property of the United States of America or of the District of Columbia, according as the charge against the person depositing it is instituted on behalf of the said United States or of the said District; and every person receiving any sum of money deposited as hereby provided shall be deemed in law the agent of the person depositing the same or of the said United States or the said District, as the case may be, for all purposes of properly preserving and accounting for such money. And all fines payable and paid under judgment of the said police court shall upon their payment, immediately become, in contemplation of law, the property of the said United States or the said District, according to the charge upon which such fine may be adjudged; and the person receiving any such fine shall be deemed in law the agent of the said United States or the said District as aforesaid, as the case may be; and any person, being an agent as hereinbefore contemplated and defined, who shall wrongfully convert to his own use any money received by him as hereinbefore provided shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall affect the ultimate rights under existing law of the Washington Humane Society, of the District of Columbia, in or to any fines or forfeitures paid and collected in the said police court. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 48.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FINES AND IMPRISONMENT

Where defendant, convicted of being drunk in a public park and unable to pay fine, was imprisoned, his argument that general authority given by § 11–606 and § 11–616 is limited by the later § 25–128, is without merit, since the general statute existed before the special one and Congress must have been aware of the older ones. Had the Congress intended later to modify the earlier, it would have done so. Accordingly, judgment of conviction affirmed. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

A note of warning should be addressed to the trial court that the alternative sentence is a mode of compelling payment of a fine and its use should be confined to such and should not be used for the purpose of imposing a longer term of imprisonment than is permitted by law. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

The alternative sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine is not imposed as a part of the penalty but as a means of compelling payment of the fine. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

Where the statute provides a fine but no imprisonment, an alternative prison sentence may be imposed, and where a fine or imprisonment or both may be imposed, and both are imposed, the weight of authority is that in default of payment of fine, the defendant may be committed for an additional term after expiration of the term for which sentenced. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

IMPRISONMENT FOR NONPAYMENT

A defendant convicted for violation of Female Eight Hour Law, § 36–301 et seq., could be sentenced to prison in event of default in payment of fines, notwithstanding that § 36–309 provided for fines only, in view of this section authorizing commitment of defendant in default of payment of fine imposed. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 710).

Sentences imposing fines or term in jail in default of paying fines were not illegal as jail sentences. Savage v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 562, affirmed, 1948, 169 F. 2d 889, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 401, certiorari denied 69 S. Ct. 654, 336 U. S. 924, 93 L. Ed. 1086, rehearing denied 63 S. Ct. 810, 336 U. S. 947, 93 L. Ed. 1103).

LIMITATION OF JURISDICTION

Police court is an "inferior court" of "limited jurisdiction." It has original jurisdiction concurrently with the District Court, except as otherwise provided, of all crimes in the District not capital or infamous, and all offenses against municipal ordinances. It has the power to examine, commit, or hold to bail, but has no power to admit attorneys nor suspend an attorney on charge of solicitation. Mullen v. Canfield (70 App. D. C. 168, 105 Fed. (2d) 47).

PAYMENT OF FINE PRECLUDING APPEAL

Where defendant on conviction was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve 25 days, and he paid fine without attempting to stay judgment and without making protest or giving notice of intent to appeal, the payment which was voluntary, satisfied the judgment, rendered case "moot" and precluded defendant from appealing. Hanback v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 189).

§ 11–607 [18: 156]. Power to issue executions on forfeited recognizances.

The said court shall have power to issue execution on all forfeited recognizances, upon motion of the proper prosecuting officer, and all writs of fieri facias or other writs of execution on judgments issued by said court shall be directed to and executed by the marshal of the District. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 57.)

§ 11–608 [18: 157]. Seal—Judges may take acknowledgments, oaths, affirmations.

The said court shall have a seal, and each of the judges shall have power to take the acknowledgment of deeds and to administer oaths and affirmations to public officers. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 49.)

§ 11–610 [18: 159]. Disability of judge—Filling vacancy.

In cases of sickness, absence, disability, expiration of the term of service of or death of any of the judges of said court, any one of the justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may designate one of the judges of the municipal court to discharge the duties of said police judge until such disability be removed or vacancy filled. The justice so designated shall take the same oath prescribed for the judge of the police court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 51; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 522, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Act of July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352, § 1, provides that "hereafter any justice of the peace (judge of the municipal court) designated to serve as judge of the police court, as provided in section 51 of the act to establish a code of law for the District of Columbia shall receive no additional compensation while so serving."

AMENDMENTS

The 1901 act originally provided for designation of a justice of the peace to take the place of a police judge.

The 1902 act repeated the provision.

The 1909 act changed this provision to refer to judges of the municipal court.

§ 11–616 [18: 165]. Prosecutions—Jury trials—Default of fines—Penalty.

Prosecutions in the police court shall be on information by the proper prosecuting officer. In all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury, unless the accused shall in open court expressly waive such trial by jury and request to be tried by the judge, in which case the trial shall be by such judge, and the judgment and sentence shall have the same force and effect in all respects as if the same had been entered and pronounced upon the verdict of a jury.

In all cases where the accused would not by force of the Constitution of the United States be entitled to a trial by jury, the trial shall be by the court without a jury, unless in such of said last-named cases wherein the fine or penalty may be more than $300, or imprisonment as punishment for the offense may be more than ninety days, the accused shall demand a trial by jury, in which case the trial shall be by jury. In all cases where the said court shall impose a fine it may, in default of the payment of the fine imposed, commit the defendant for such a term as the court thinks right and proper, not to exceed one year. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1196, ch. 854, § 44; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1925, amended the second paragraph by changing the words "fifty dollars or more" to "more than three hundred dollars" and the words "thirty days or more" to "more than ninety days."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Although police court may try criminal cases on information, there is no presumption that it will sentence one to hard labor so as to deprive it of jurisdiction. Cleveland v. Mattingly (52 App. D. C. 374, 287 Fed. 948).

One guilty of changing the name of a licensee appearing on a motor vehicle operator's permit, whereupon he was sentenced to pay a fine of $275, and in default to be committed to the Washington Asylum and Jail for 60 days; it was proper and within the jurisdiction of the court. Dorsey v. Peak (58 App. D. C. 54, 24 Fed. (2d) 892, 57 A. L. R. 865).

While other courts of the United States may commit for an indefinite period, a defendant in default of payment of a fine, the police court of the District is limited to one year. Dodd v. Peak (60 App. D. C. 68, 47 Fed. (2d) 430).

The alternative sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine is not imposed as a part of the penalty but as a means of compelling payment of the fine. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

Where the statute provides a fine but no imprisonment, an alternative prison sentence may be imposed, and where a fine or imprisonment or both may be imposed, and both are imposed, the weight of authority is that in default of payment of fine, the defendant may be committed for an additional term after expiration of the term for which sentenced. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

A person charged with having committed the crime of conspiracy in the District of Columbia is entitled to a jury trial; and to accord the accused a right to be tried by jury in an appellate court, after he has been once fully tried, otherwise than by a jury, in the court of original jurisdiction and sentenced to pay a fine or be imprisoned, does not satisfy the requirements of the Constitution. Callan v. Wilson (127 U. S. 540, 32 L. Ed. 223, 8 Sup. Ct. 1301).

Constitutional requirement that trial of all crimes shall be by jury is to be interpreted in the light of the common law, according to which petty offenses might be proceeded against summarily before a magistrate sitting without a jury. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52, aff'g 59 App. D. C. 224, 38 Fed. (2d) 535).

This act does not violate either the Fifth or Sixth Amendments. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587. Rehearing den. 299 U. S. 624, 81 L. Ed. 89, 57 Sup. Ct. 319).

CUMULATIVE SENTENCES

Section 934 of 1901 code (U. S. C., title 6, § 401), relative to cumulative sentences, does not apply to sentences imposed upon different informations, after separate convictions at different times. Nor does it apply to a sentence to pay a pecuniary fine, followed by imprisonment in default of payment, as provided in this section. Harris v. Lang (27 App. D. C. 84). See also Harris v. Nixon (27 App. D. C. 94, cert. den. 201 U. S. 645, 50 L. Ed. 903, 26 Sup. Ct. 761).

FINDINGS OF COURT

Under this section the finding and judgment entered by the police court were entitled to the same force and effect in all respects as if entered and pronounced upon the verdict of a jury. District of Columbia v. Kendall (57 App. D. C. 271, 20 Fed. (2d) 287).

FINES AND IMPRISONMENT

Where defendant, convicted of being drunk in a public park and unable to pay fine, was imprisoned, his argument that general authority given by § 11–606 and 11–616 is limited by the later § 25–128, is without merit, since the general statute existed before the special one and Congress must have been aware of the older ones, and had it intended to modify the earlier, would have done so. Accordingly, his imprisonment must be affirmed. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

A note of warning should be addressed to the trial court that the alternative sentence is a mode of compelling payment of a fine and its use should be confined to such and should not be used for the purpose of imposing a longer term of imprisonment than is permitted by law. Peeples v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 845).

MUNICIPAL ORDINANCE

One charged with the violation of a municipal ordinance, the maximum penalty for which is a fine not exceeding $40, is not entitled to a trial by jury. Bowles v. District of Columbia (22 App. D. C. 321).

NATIONAL PROHIBITION ACT

One convicted of violation of the National Prohibition Act, and sentenced to jail in default of fine is entitled to benefit of this section authorizing release of indigent prisoners. Green v. Peak (62 App. D. C. 176, 65 Fed. (2d) 809).

RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY

Congress in the exercise of its general and exclusive power of legislation over the District, could provide for the trial of civil causes of moderate amount by a justice of the peace, or, in his presence, by a jury of 12, or of any less number, and allowing either party an appeal. Capital Traction Co. v. Hof (174 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 873, 19 Sup. Ct. 580).

Where the accused would be entitled to a jury trial under the Constitution, trial shall be by jury unless waived, but petty offenses may be tried without jury. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52).

The right of trial by jury does not extend to every criminal proceeding. District of Columbia v. Clawans (300 U. S. 617, 81 L. Ed. 843, 57 Sup. Ct. 660, aff'g 66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

Constitutional provisions with relation to jury trial apply, first, in all cases, especially in all cases where as here there is no election of right and no appeal of right, in which the offense charged was an indictable offense under the common law, without regard to the measure of punishment; and, second, in all cases without regard to the nature of the offense, where the punishment which may be inflicted under the statute involves a sentence as severe as confinement in jail for 90 days. Clawans v. District of Columbia (66 App. D. C. 11, 84 Fed. (2d) 265).

A single offense of using premises for a purpose other than a single family dwelling without an occupancy permit or of operating a rooming house without a license, is a petty offense not involving moral turpitude nor indictable at common law, and therefore a jury trial is not demandable as of right. Savage v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 562, affirmed, 1948, 169 F. 2d 889, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 401, certiorari denied 69 S. Ct. 654, 336 U. S. 924, 93 L. Ed. 1086, rehearing denied 63 S. Ct. 810, 336 U. S. 947, 93 L. Ed. 1103).

SOLICITING PROSTITUTION

Soliciting prostitution, punishable by jail sentence of 90 days, is a crime which is of right tried by a jury. Blackburn v. United States (66 App. D. C. 15, 84 Fed. (2d) 269).

Neither the nature of the offense of soliciting prostitution nor the amount of the punishment brought the prosecution within the limits of the constitutional guaranty of a jury trial. Bailey v. United States (69 App. D. C. 25, 98 Fed. (2d) 306).

VIOLATION OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

One charged with operating a motor vehicle in violation of statute not only recklessly but so as to endanger property and individuals, has a constitutional right to a jury trial. District of Columbia v. Colts (282 U. S. 63, 75 L. Ed. 177, 51 Sup. Ct. 52, aff'g 59 App. D. C. 224, 38 Fed. (2d) 535).

WAIVER

This section quoted as showing that trial by jury may be waived. Shick v. United States (195 U. S. 65, 49 L. Ed. 99, 24 Sup. Ct. 826).

§ 11–617 [18: 166]. Jury — Qualifications, compensation, tenure—Trial not concluded with term—Jury to hold over.

The jury for service in said court shall consist of twelve persons, who shall have the legal qualifications necessary for jurors in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall receive a like compensation for their services, and such jurors shall be drawn and selected under and in pursuance of the laws concerning the drawing and selection of jurors for service in said court, and shall serve for a like term as the petit jury in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. When at any term of said court it shall happen that in a pending trial no verdict shall be found, nor the jury otherwise discharged before the next succeeding term of the court, the court shall proceed with the trial by the same jury, as if said term had not commenced: Provided, That this section shall not be effective as to any panel or panels of jurors drawn under the existing law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 45; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 5; Aug. 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 681, ch. 604.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1901 act provided for a jury term of three successive monthly terms of the court, the terms to begin on the first Monday in January, April, July, and October, respectively.

The 1925 act changed the term to one jury term beginning on the first and third Mondays of each month.

The 1935 act changed the word "men" to "persons," made the jury term the same as the term of the petit jury of the District Court, and added the proviso.

§ 11–618 [18: 167]. Jury—Deficiencies in panels—Eligibility of jurors—Marshal in charge.

Deficiencies in any panel of any jury may be filled according to the law applicable to jurors in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and for this purpose any judge of said police court shall possess all the powers of a judge of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and of said court sitting as a special term. No person shall be eligible for service on a jury in said police court for more than one jury term in any period of twelve consecutive months, but no verdict shall be set aside on such ground unless objection shall be made before the trial begins. Service on such jury shall not render any person exempt, ineligible, or disqualified for service as a juror in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, except during his term of actual service in said police court. The marshal of said District, by himself or deputy, shall have charge of said jury, and may appoint a deputy for that purpose. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 46.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

It is not clear that the words "who shall be paid three dollars a day while so employed" (which follow the word "purpose" in the last line in the statute) are entirely superseded by the Classification Act (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 13).

§ 11–619 [18: 168]. Judgment to be final.

In all cases tried before said court the judgment of the court shall be final, except as provided in section 17–103. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1197, ch. 854, § 47.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 17–103 provides for appeals from police court.

§ 11–620 [18: 169]. Clerk — Appointment — Bond — To charge no fees.

The court shall have power to appoint a clerk, who shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court, and he shall give bond with surety and take the oath of office prescribed by law for clerks of the District Courts of the United States, and said clerk shall charge no fee for any service rendered by him. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 52.)

The said clerk may appoint six deputies, with the approval of the court, if the business of the court requires it. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 53; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

Section 53 of the 1901 Code provided that said clerk may appoint four deputies.

The act of March 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3, purported to amend section 42 of the 1901 code but (c) of said section 3 provided that "the judges of the police court are authorized to appoint not exceeding two additional deputy clerks, * * *. The salaries of such additional deputy clerks * * * shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923." (U. S. C., title 5, § 673.)

§ 11–622 [18: 171]. Clerks may administer oaths.

The said clerk and deputy clerks shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 54.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIMITATION OF POWER

No authority to issue a warrant of arrest was conferred upon the clerk and deputy clerk of the District of Columbia. The section merely provided that they should have power to administer oaths and affirmations. Zerega v. United States (59 App. D. C. 67, 32 Fed. (2d) 963).

§ 11–623 [18: 172]. Bailiffs and other officers.

The said court may appoint not exceeding five bailiffs. Said bailiffs may act as deputies to the marshal for service of process issued by the court. The said court may also appoint a doorkeeper, an engineer, and a janitor. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1198, ch. 854, § 55; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 3.)

AMENDMENT

Section 55 of the Code of 1901 fixed the number of bailiffs at three. The act of March 3, 1925, ch. 443, § 3 (c) provided for the appointment of two additional bailiffs, the salaries of the additional bailiffs to be paid in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, U. S. C., title 5, § 673.

§ 11–624 [18: 173]. Salaries, how paid.

The salaries of the judges, clerk, deputy clerks, bailiffs, deputy marshal, doorkeeper, engineer, and janitor of the said court shall be paid as other salaries of the District of Columbia, from appropriations made by Congress. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 56.)

§ 11–625 [18: 174]. Fines to be paid to clerk—Accounting by clerk.

All fines, penalties, costs, and forfeitures imposed or taxed by the police court shall be paid to the clerk of said court, either with or without process or on process ordered by the court. The clerk of the police court shall, on the first secular day of each week, deposit with the collector of taxes the total amount of all fines, penalties, costs and forfeitures collected by him during the week next preceding the date of such deposit, to be covered into the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. The said clerk shall render an itemized statement of each deposit aforesaid upon such forms and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the auditor of the District of Columbia. (June 17, 1870, 16 Stat. 153, ch. 133; Mar. 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 848, ch. 536; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1199, ch. 854, § 58; Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 718, ch. 433, § 12.)

AMENDMENT

The foregoing section as enacted, had following the words "District of Columbia" where they first appear, the words "subject to the requirements of the provision of the act of June 11, 1896 (29 Stat. 404, 405) to meet any deficiency in the police fund or the firemen's relief fund." This provision has been superseded by the act of Sept. 1, 1916, cited to the text.

CROSS REFERENCES

Provisions relating to jurisdiction and powers made applicable to Municipal Court for District of Columbia, see § 11–755 (a).

§ 11–701 [18: 191]. Judges—Number — Appointment and qualifications—Bond of clerk.

The judges of the municipal court shall be five in number, and shall each be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of four years, and until his successor is duly appointed and qualified: Provided, That no person shall be appointed to said office unless he shall have been a bona fide citizen and resident of said District for the continuous period of at least five years immediately preceding his appointment, and shall either have been a judge of said court for at least one year, or shall have been engaged in the actual practice of law before the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years prior to his appointment. Each judge, when appointed, shall take an oath for the faithful and impartial performance of the duties of his office. The judges of said court shall not be required to give bond, but a bond shall be given by the clerk of said court, who shall receive and account for all fees as hereinafter provided. Said municipal court shall sit for the trial of causes in one building to be designated by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, to be rented by said District of Columbia. Any member of said court may try any case within its jurisdiction according to law, regardless of the place of residence of the defendant therein. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 13.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The municipal court was formerly the justice of the peace court. The act of February 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134, provided: "The inferior court known as 'justice of the peace, in the District of Columbia shall remain as now constituted, but shall hereafter be known as 'the municipal court of the District of Columbia'."

Furthermore, the acts of February 17, 1909 and March 3, 1921, cited in the history lines throughout this chapter are acts defining the jurisdiction, powers, and duties of the municipal court and they and the applicable provisions of the 1901 code were consolidated by the compilers of the 1929 code.

NOTARY FEES

The act of July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352, § 1, provides: "Hereafter justices of the peace (judges of the municipal court) in and for the District of Columbia who are also notaries public shall account for and pay over to the collector of taxes all fees earned as such notaries public, as they are required by law to do as to fees earned by them as justices of the peace (judges of the municipal court)."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT

Under provisions of this section regarding attachment and garnishment and giving the municipal court exclusive jurisdiction over various classes of actions, including proceedings by attachment that involve $1,000 or less, in action for $490.10 and interest on foreign judgment against nonresident, municipal court had jurisdiction to issue writs of attachment and notices of garnishment before judgment directed to executor of estate in which the nonresident claimed an interest and to bank in which estate funds had been deposited. Frank v. Malone, 1942 (126 F. 2d 651, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 296).

CIVIL RIGHTS

Civil Rights Act did not confer jurisdiction upon U. S. courts in general but so far as actions for penalties, it gave jurisdiction specifically to the territorial, district or circuit courts, and the Municipal Court is not one of these courts and has no such jurisdiction. Henderson v. E. Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 649).

EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION—IMPLIED CONTRACTS

Municipal court of District of Columbia had jurisdiction of a claim for debt arising out of an "implied" contract, not exceeding $300. District of Columbia v. Thompson (281 U. S. 25, 74 L. Ed. 677, 50 Sup. Ct. 172, aff'g 58 App. D. C. 313, 30 Fed. (2d) 476).

JURISDICTION

Jurisdiction of a subject matter may neither be assumed by a court nor conferred upon it by consent or silence. Objection to court's jurisdiction may be raised at any stage of the proceedings or upon appeal sua sponte. Henderson v. E. Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 49).

PERSONAL ACTION

Where, in an ordinary action for personal damages, the proof establishes that the title to realty is really in issue, the case no longer involves personal property, debt or damage, so as to come within court's expanded jurisdiction. Duvall v. Southern Municipal Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 336).

RENTS FROM REAL ESTATE

Claims of son against sister involving rents from deceased father's property were within jurisdiction of municipal court. Shields v. Shields (69 App. D. C. 331, 101 Fed. (2d) 255).

REFORMATION, RESCISSION OR PERFORMANCE

The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia would be without jurisdiction to try issues appropriate to suit for reformation or rescission of instrument or for specific performance, unless such issues were presented by way of defense to action within the court's jurisdiction. Howenstein Realty Corporation v. Richardson, 1943 (135 F. 2d 803, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 299).

SUITS AGAINST ADMINISTRATOR

Municipal court does not have jurisdiction over suits against an administrator for the debt of the decedent, for judgment for full amount of debt. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

Under § 11–755, Municipal Court for District of Columbia had jurisdiction to entertain suit against administrator for unpaid balance of note executed by deceased. Mazo v. Ed. L. Stock, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 660).

SUITS FOR $1,000 DAMAGES

Municipal court acted within its jurisdiction when it entered judgment for landlord and could enter judgment on tenant's undertaking to secure a stay of execution on a review of a judgment by writ of error even though judgment was for more than $1,000. Bailey v. Allan E. Walker (55 App. D. C. 74, 2 Fed. (2d) 123).

Suit for $1,000 as damages for negligence was in exclusive jurisdiction of municipal court and as writ of error was available the judgment could not be reviewed by certiorari to the District Court. United States ex rel. Eure v. Borden (65 App. D. C. 84, 80 Fed. (2d) 527).

The actual damages recoverable being for a sum within the exclusive jurisdiction of the municipal court, the District Court had no jurisdiction, and a mere ad damnum clause did not confer it. Minick v. Associates Inv. Co. (71 App. D. C. 367, 110 Fed. (2d) 267).

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE

Retrial of title to real estate. Gray v. Ward (45 App. D. C. 498).

This section expressly excludes from the jurisdiction of the municipal court actions involving title to real estate. Johnson v. Simmons (53 App. D. C. 356, 290 Fed. 331).

It is obvious that Congress intended to exclude from the jurisdiction of the municipal court only cases where there is a necessary and direct issue as to the title to real estate, and the court properly assumed jurisdiction of an action to recover the balance of money received on a foreclosure sale. Schwartz v. Murphy (72 App. D. C. 103, 112 Fed. (2d) 24).

§ 11–704 [18: 194]. Jurisdiction in cases of trespass except where title is in issue.

The said jurisdiction of the municipal court shall extend to cases of trespass upon or injury to real estate: Provided, That if the defendant shall file with the court an affidavit that he claims title or acts under a person claiming title to the real estate, setting forth the nature of his title, the court shall take no further cognizance of the case. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1191, ch. 854, § 10; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACTION TO POSSESS REALTY

The action of trespass to realty contemplated by this section is one for damages, and it was not applicable to give Municipal Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of action to obtain possession of realty. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

The District of Columbia Municipal Court has jurisdiction to try actions involving possession of realty. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400, modified, 1947, 54 A. 2d 144).

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER

Forcible entry and detainer is not a substitute for trespass, and the actions are not the same. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

§ 11–705 [18: 195]. Judges may issue warrants returnable to police court—Record.

Any judge of the municipal court may at any time, including Sundays and legal holidays, on complaint under oath or actual view, issue warrants returnable to the police court against persons accused of crimes and offenses committed in the District of Columbia, and he shall make a record of his proceedings in every case in a book to be kept for that purpose. Such warrants shall be issued free of charge. (Apr. 21, 1906, 34 Stat. 126, ch. 1646; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

§ 11–706 [18: 196]. Assignment of cases for trial.

All actions shall be assigned for trial among the members of said court in nearly equal numbers and in such manner as may be agreed upon between them. The judges of said court shall hold separate sessions, and are empowered to make rules for the apportionment of the business between them, and the act of each of said judges respecting the business of said court shall be deemed and taken to be the act of said court. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

§ 11–707 [18: 197]. Transfer of judges to police and juvenile courts.

In case of sickness, absence, disability, expiration of term of service of or death of any of the judges of the police court or of the juvenile court, any one of the justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may designate one of the judges of the municipal court to discharge the duties of said judges until such disability be removed or vacancy filled. The justice so designated shall take the same oath prescribed for these judges. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 609, ch. 1352, § 1, provides that, "Hereafter any justice of the peace (judge of the municipal court) designated to serve as judge of the police court, as provided in section 51 of the act to establish a code of law for the District of Columbia, shall receive no additional compensation while so serving." See § 11–610.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SENTENCES

Under Act Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134 (§§ 11–610, 11–706 to 11–708, 11–710), providing that in case of sickness, vacation, or disability of either of District of Columbia police court judges, any justice of the Supreme Court may designate a municipal court judge to discharge such duties until the disability be removed or vacancy filled, a judge so designated and acting on trial held at least de jure judge and authorized to sentence prisoner convicted on trial even though regular police court judge had resumed his duties after the trial but before sentence was pronounced. Shore v. Splain (49 App. D. C. 6, 258 Fed. 150).

§ 11–708 [18: 198]. Clerk—Appointment, tenure.

The said court shall have power to appoint a clerk and an assistant clerk whose salaries shall be payable monthly by the District of Columbia, which clerks shall hold office at the pleasure of the court. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1488, ch. 265.)

AMENDMENT

The 1923 act is the Classification Act of 1923 which now determines salaries.

§ 11–709 [18: 199]. Clerk—Bond.

The clerk shall give bond to the District of Columbia in the sum of $5,000, with surety or sureties to be approved by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, and the assistant clerk shall give a like bond in the sum of $2,000. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 625, ch. 134.)

§ 11–710 [18: 200]. Clerk—To receive and care for fees—Deposits—Accounting.

The clerk shall receive and care for all deposits for costs made and fees exacted under the rules governing the fee charges of said court, and shall make a weekly deposit with the collector of taxes for the District of Columbia of all fees earned during the preceding week; and the money so collected shall be disposed of by said collector as other moneys belonging to the District are.

He shall return to suitors making such deposits any proportion of a deposit which shall remain in his hands over and above the earned fees in completed cases, and shall render an itemized statement to the auditor of the District of Columbia of every fee earned, on such forms and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the auditor of the District of Columbia. In case there shall remain in the hands of the said clerk for a term of three years a balance or part of a deposit in any case which shall not have been called for by the party or parties entitled to receive the same, the same shall revert to the District of Columbia, and be paid forthwith to the collector of taxes as part of the revenues of the District of Columbia. Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1191, ch. 854, § 6; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 624, ch. 134.

§ 11–711 [18: 201]. Clerk—Process—How signed.

In all suits in said court process shall be signed by the said clerk or assistant clerk in the name of the court. The assistant clerk may sign the name of the clerk to any official act required by law or by the practice of the court to be performed by the clerk. In such case the signature shall be "——— ———, Clerk, by ——— ———, Assistant Clerk." (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 625, ch. 134.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

STAMPED SIGNATURE

In landlord's action for possession of realty, where chief deputy clerk personally placed a facsimile of her signature on the summons by means of a stamp, the summons was valid since it was "signed" within this section. McGrady v. Munsey Trust Co. (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 106).

§ 11–712 [18: 202]. Clerk—Power to administer oaths.

Both the clerk and assistant clerk are hereby given authority to administer oaths in all cases pending in said court, or about to be filed therein. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 625, ch. 134.)

§ 11–713 [18: 203]. Clerk—Duty to keep docket—Contents—Liability for failure to keep.

The clerk is required to keep a docket, in which he shall enter from day to day concurrently with the respective proceedings—

First. The title of each action.

Second. The date of the writ issued and the time of its return, the fact of affidavits being filed, with the name of any affiant.

Third. The appearance of the parties.

Fourth. The nature of the pleadings in brief.

Fifth. The names of witnesses sworn, and at whose request.

Sixth. The judgment of the court and the items of cost.

Seventh. The appeal, if one is taken, by which party taken, the undertaking and the time of giving the same.

Eighth. The satisfaction of the judgment and the date thereof.

And it shall be his duty to furnish a copy of any judgment rendered by him when required by either party to the action. If he shall omit to keep such docket or be guilty of any other negligence or omission whereby the plaintiff, having obtained a judgment before him, shall lose his debt, the clerk shall pay and satisfy to the plaintiff the debt, interest, and costs so lost, to be recovered in an action of debt against said clerk and his surety or sureties, with any additional interest that may have accrued. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1195, ch. 854, § 38; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 625, ch. 134.)

§ 11–714 [18: 204]. Clerk—Duties prescribed by court.

The clerk shall perform such other and further duties as may from time to time be prescribed by the municipal court. (Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 625, ch. 134.)

§ 11–715 [18: 205]. Right to jury trial—Proceedings after verdict.

When the value in controversy in any action pending in said municipal court shall exceed $20, and in all actions for the recovery of possession of real property, either party may demand a trial by jury. The trial judge shall conduct such jury trial and according to the practice and procedure now obtaining, or as hereafter modified, in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall have the same power to instruct juries, set aside verdicts, arrest judgments, and grant new trials as said District Court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION

This section providing that, in all actions for recovery of possession of real property, either party may demand a trial by jury, is permissive rather than mandatory and gives right to jury trial but does not require such trial. Kass v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 513).

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

When the value in controversy exceeds $20, either party to an action in the municipal court may demand a trial by jury. Kennedy v. David (71 App. D. C. 340, 109 Fed. (2d) 676).

Where court rule required demand for jury trial to be filed not later than appearance day, and two days before appearance day defendants filed motion to dismiss and before it was decided, but after appearance day, defendants filed demand for jury trial, demand was timely. Daly v. Scala (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 478).

Where defendants in a class B suit against them on note, filed their jury demand before the return day, but did not accompany it by an answer as required by court rule, striking out defendants' jury demand was not error. Alvarado v. Rosenberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 50 A. 2d 269).

DISCRETION OF COURT

Where defendant did not file demand for jury trial within time prescribed by court rule nor request extension of time for demand, denial of motion for jury trial filed four days later was not an abuse of discretion, where trial court found that defenses involving questions of fact were insubstantial, that jury trial was being sought primarily for purposes of delay, and that no circumstances indicating the advisability of such trial in the interest of justice existed. Kass v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 513).

EVIDENCE

Where landlord sued for possession, the situation disclosed a genuine issue as to whether landlord sought the premises in good faith for immediate personal use. Since this was a material factual issue, the court must disregard the tenants' affidavits which were based on information and belief and did not conform to the rules. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

FACTUAL ISSUES

If conflict appears as to a material fact, the summary judgment procedure does not apply unless the evidence on one or the other hand is too incredible to be accepted by reasonable minds or is without legal probative force even if true; and to support summary judgment, the situation must justify a directed verdict insofar as the facts are concerned. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

In making determination of factual issues, doubts are to be resolved against the granting of a summary judgment. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

Factual issues are not to be tried or resolved by summary judgment procedure; only the existence of a genuine and material factual issue is to be determined. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

GOOD FAITH

In a suit for possession, the presence of the question of good faith as a crucial one should cause the court to hesitate more than ordinarily before concluding that it is in a position to deny a trial. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

INTERROGATORIES

Where there is a seeming inconsistency in answers of jury to interrogatories or some question as to what constituted true verdict of jury, matter is to be decided by trial judge in the proper exercise of his discretion. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

Where jury found in answer to three interrogatories that there had been a subletting, that landlord was not precluded from charging it as a basis of suit for possession, and that landlord was entitled to possession for tenant's violation of covenant against subletting, a comprehensive disposition of entire case was made, and it was unnecessary for jury to consider remaining interrogatories as to whether there had been a transfer of possession to alleged subtenant and jury's answer to remaining interrogatories was voluntary and mere surplusage. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

QUESTIONS FOR JURY

Under the evidence, whether tenant violated covenant in lease against subletting so as to authorize landlord to repossess premises was for jury. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

In landlord's action for possession of leased premises, tenant could not complain that fact issue of landlord's oral agreement that tenant might remain in possession was left to jury. J. & J. Slater, Inc. v. Brainerd (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 714).

Where in a suit for possession for immediate and personal use, the crucial issue is whether landlord seeks possession in good faith, it is an extraordinary issue of fact since it involves the state of mind or motives rather than the ascertainment of a fact in the ordinary sense. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

RULES OF COURT

Parties may not be deprived of right to jury trial by a rigid construction of a procedural court rule. Daly v. Scala (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 478).

Rules of the Municipal Court that demand for jury trial shall be filed not later than time for appearance of defendant stated in notice, or such extended time as judge may fix by special order, is reasonable. Kass v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 513).

"Excusable neglect" is not a factor in fixing the applicability of a rule of court which makes no reference to such neglect. Kass v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 513).

SPECIAL VERDICT

In landlord's action to recover possession of leased premises, conflicting evidence authorized submission for special verdict of issue whether landlord orally agreed that tenant could remain in possession so long as it paid any rental asked by landlord, and municipal court properly assumed responsibility of deciding remainder of case and questions of law. J. & J. Slater, Inc. v. Brainerd (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 714).

Jurors for said municipal court shall be drawn and selected under and in pursuance of the laws now obtaining, or as hereafter modified, concerning the drawing, selection, term of service and mode of filling deficiencies in a panel and shall be subject to the same duties and liabilities, and shall receive the same compensation as petit jurors in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, as fully as if such laws directly referred to said municipal court, excepting that in said municipal court there may be an additional term of service to begin on the first Tuesday in August of each year, and to terminate on the first Tuesday of October. At least ten days before the term of service of jurors shall begin, the clerk of the said District Court shall certify to the said municipal court, for service as jurors for the then ensuing term, the names of not to exceed thirty-six persons, drawn as directed by law. Deficiencies in any panel of any such jury may be filled according to the law applicable to jurors in said District Court, and for this purpose any judge of said municipal court shall possess all the powers of a judge of said District Court and of said court sitting as a special term.

Whenever the judges of the municipal court shall certify in writing that the business of said court requires the services of additional jurors and shall file a certificate to that effect in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, said District Court shall direct the clerk of the said District Court to certify to said municipal court for service as jurors for the then ensuing terms the names of such number of other persons as may be necessary for such service, which names shall be drawn as directed by law. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 4.)

CROSS REFERENCE

This section is affected by § 11–1407.

§ 11–717 [18: 207]. Trial by court—Findings—General, special—Exceptions.

If neither party shall demand a trial by jury, or if the value in controversy shall not exceed $20, the case may be tried and determined by any judge of the court, and his finding upon the facts, which may be either general or special, shall have the same effect as a verdict of a jury, with the same right of either party to take an exception to any ruling of the court, and have the same embodied in a bill of exceptions, as in case of a jury trial. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY OF COURT

In a case tried by the court without a jury, the court has the duty to rule upon requested and pertinent questions of law. Eggleton v. Vaughn (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 362).

§ 11–718 [18: 208]. Judgments—Duration—Docketing—Lien of.

All judgments entered after June 1, 1921, by said municipal court shall remain in force for six years and no longer, unless the same shall have been docketed in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as provided by law, in which event they shall be liens as is provided by sections 15–101 to 15–111, 15–201 to 15–218, 15–301 to 15–313, and 15–401 to 15–403 for judgments of the municipal court. No judgment shall become a lien upon any lands, tenements, or hereditaments until so docketed. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, 1313, ch. 125, §§ 6, 14.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMPUTATION OF TIME

The clause "from the date when an execution might first be issued thereon," signifies the date when an execution might first have been issued upon the judgment as and when docketed in the Supreme Court, and has no reference to the date when execution might first have been issued upon the judgment in the municipal court. Brown v. Allan E. Walker & Co. (58 App. D. C. 173, 26 Fed. (2d) 545).

Computation of time of six years' limitation. Branham v. Johnson (66 App. D. C. 230, 85 Fed. (2d) 807).

Fact that the suit in the case was begun within the period of six years after the rendition of the judgment is sufficient to sustain the jurisdiction of the court. Branham v. Johnson (66 App. D. C. 230, 85 Fed. (2d) 807).

§ 11–719 [18: 209]. Costs—Deposit for.

Nonresidents of the District of Columbia may commence suits in said municipal court without first giving security for costs, but upon motion may be required to give such security in pursuance of section 11–1506. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 7.)

§ 11–720 [18: 210]. Costs—Paupers.

Upon satisfactory evidence being presented to the court or one of the judges thereof that the plaintiff in any suit is indigent and unable to make deposit of costs, such court or judge may, in its or his discretion, permit the prosecution of such suit without the prepayment or deposit of costs. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 8.)

§ 11–721 [18: 211]. Assignment of deputy marshals.

The marshal of the United States in and for the District of Columbia shall designate two of his deputies to take charge of the jurors in the municipal court, under the direction of the trial judge, and they shall perform such other services as the judge may require. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 10.)

§ 11–722 [18: 212]. Power to make rules, prescribe fees, and costs.

The said municipal court, sitting in banc, shall have power to prescribe fees and costs, including the fee to be paid for a jury trial, to make rules of practice, pleading, and procedure, not inconsistent with law, and to modify and change the same from time to time, to insure the proper administration of justice. Section 11–1502 relating to fees, shall not apply to said municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AMENDMENT OF PLEADINGS

The trial court has wide discretion in the allowance of amendments of pleadings both before and during trial. Peake v. Ramsey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 763).

In landlords' action for possession of realty on ground of default in payment of rent, wherein tenant moved to dismiss complaint because of failure to show whether notice to quit had been given or had been waived in writing, and it was admitted that tenant held possession under written lease which waived notice to quit in event of default in payment of rent, trial court properly permitted landlords to amend complaint by inserting a check mark on printed form indicating that notice to quit had been waived. Barnes v. Conner (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 925).

Where broker sought to recover commissions from another broker and owner of realty under claim that they had authorized him to obtain a purchaser for realty and that he had done so, but at trial plaintiff advanced evidence in support of that claim and in support of inconsistent claim that he was engaged only by the other broker to assist in selling realty with agreement that commission should be shared, court properly permitted plaintiff to amend bill of particulars after verdict on second claim in order to conform to the evidence. Davis v. Bruno (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 828).

COMMENCEMENT OF ACTION

An action by landlords for possession of business property occupied by defendant as a tenant by sufferance was commenced when the complaint was filed, and not when the complaint was verified. Globe Clothing Shop v. Skolnick (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 50 A. 2d 271).

CONSOLIDATION OF TRIALS

Under court rule regarding consolidation and joinder, consolidation of two or more informations for trial is conditioned on possibility of joinder of the offenses and of the defendants in a single information, and joinder is permitted only if defendants are alleged to have participated in the same act or transaction or in the same series of acts or transactions constituting an offense or offenses. District of Columbia v. Hunt (App. D. C. 1947, 163 F. 2d 833, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 159).

CONTINUANCE

When a witness not under subpoena fails to make his promised appearance, the granting of a continuance rests in the discretion of the trial court. Union Storage & Transfer Co. v. Lamphere (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 258).

COSTS

Where it was held that party attempting to appeal had no right to do so and judgment was affirmed, cost of stenographic record included in record on appeal could not be taxed against appellant by Municipal Court of Appeals, but could only be taxed by trial court. Klein v. Liss (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 757).

Rule 68 (a) of municipal court permitting trial judge to make order respecting outside stenographers concerning furnishing of copies of transcript and compensation to be paid therefor is not mandatory. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

Where trial was half over and court requested defendant to furnish court with transcript of record up to that point with result that reporter's bill was $150 instead of lower cost at defendant's request was not called, refusal of court to make order fixing lower costs at defendant's request was not an abuse of discretion. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

DEFAULT JUDGMENT

Where a defendant had filed preliminary motion in behalf of all defendants, including himself, but it later developed that moving defendant, who was member of Virginia bar, had not been admitted to practice in District of Columbia, and was not entitled to appear in municipal court in representative capacity, plaintiff's motion for judgment by default against all other defendants was properly overruled. Horne v. Ostmann (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 174).

A default judgment by court upon amended complaint not served upon defendant, though erroneous, is not void. Campbell v. Campbell (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 825).

Municipal Court had authority to render default judgment for treble amount of overpayments for used automobile, though copy of complaint served on defendant differed from complaint filed in court in designating model years of automobiles involved. Campbell v. Campbell, (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 825).

DIRECTED VERDICT

Question of whether accident was proximately caused by negligence of appellee's driver, and of appellee's contributory negligence, was sufficiently in issue and directed verdict may not be granted in a case of this nature unless reasonable men could arrive at but one verdict. Wohlstetter v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 797).

DISMISSAL

Under rule providing that any dismissal other than dismissal for lack of jurisdiction operates as adjudication on merits unless dismissal order otherwise specifies, dismissal is adjudication on merits and raises bar of res judicata against further actions on the same subject matter, and such defense of res judicata is good not only as to every claim which was actually offered in support of the first action but also as to every ground of recovery which might have been presented. Mitchell v. David (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 125).

Defendant's motion to dismiss action could not properly be passed upon until evidence had been heard, where motion was based on an assumption of a disputed fact. Tate v. Brawner (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 307).

A motion to dismiss concedes all facts well pleaded and if the complaint states a cause of action, however loosely drawn it may be, it is not subject to dismissal. Such motion may only be granted when it appears certain that the plaintiff would not be entitled to relief under any state of facts which could be proved in support of the claim. Mancuso v. Santucci (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 69 A. 2d 274).

EFFECT OF RULES

Under this section authorizing Municipal Court of District of Columbia to make rules of practice, pleading, and procedure, court rules have the force of law. District of Columbia v. Hunt (App. D. C. 1947, 163 F. 2d 833, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 159).

FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., are not in force in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. Plummer v. Johnson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 647).

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., do not control practice in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. Werth v. Nolan (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 386, reversed on other grounds 142 F. 2d 9, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 33).

FINDINGS OF FACT

An issue of fact was presented whether or not a compromise agreement had been entered into, and though the trial court could have decided that plaintiff had not proved his case by the preponderance of evidence, it could also have decided the other way. After hearing the evidence the trial court accepted plaintiff's version, and we cannot say that it was wrong in doing so. Saunders System Washington Co., v. Kuffner (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 136).

JURISDICTION, WAIVER OF

The Rules of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, and the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C. foll., § 723c, sharply limit acts which constitute a waiver of lack of jurisdiction over the person. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

LIMITATIONS

The fact that in a class B action in the Municipal Court the defendant was not called upon to file an answer or other pleading did not dispense with necessity of timely calling to the attention of trial court that plaintiff's claim was barred by limitations. Atchison & Keller v. Taylor (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 297).

MINUTE ENTRIES

Under rule 48 of Municipal Court stating that action by the court shall be evidenced by a minute entry, the entry is not a condition of the effectiveness of the court's action. Conrad v. Medina (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 562).

MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

In motion for summary judgment, it is not enough for an affiant to state that he has personal knowledge of the facts, but he must state facts in detail showing that he has personal knowledge, and the burden of establishing the non-existence of any genuine issue is upon the moving party. Schwartz v. Sandidge (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 869).

NOTICE OF ENTRY

Rule 66 (e) of the Municipal Court providing for notice immediately upon the entry of an order or judgment signed or decided out of the presence of parties or their counsel was not applicable where the judgment was pronounced in the presence of the parties and their counsel. Conrad v. Medina (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 562).

ORDERS REVIEWABLE

Orders of the Rent Administrator must be reversed where he has not followed procedural due process in arriving at his findings of fact, or where he has adopted different fundamental bases in passing upon different requests involving fundamental facts approximately the same. Winkler v. Ballard (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 660).

PLEADING

After delay of more than a month during which defendant did not demand trial by jury, such demand filed six days, and notice to opposing litigant given two days before time set for trial on the non-jury docket was properly denied. Kennedy v. David (71 App. D. C. 340, 109 Fed. (2d) 676).

The primary purpose of rule of municipal court of the District of Columbia providing that no formal pleadings shall be required, even for initiation of Class B cases, is to assure people of small means, ignorant of complexities of pleading and practice, often unrepresented by counsel, their day in court and that fair hearing on merits which in our system of jurisprudence is regarded as fundamental. Shields v. Hawkins, 1942 (125 F. 2d 204, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 172).

REAL PARTY IN INTEREST

Where leases were assigned to manager of building as landlord under express instructions of owners of building, in light of this section giving landlord right to sue for possession and in light of holding that manager was real landlord, manager was "real party in interest" within meaning of rule 17a restricting right to maintain suit to real party in interest. Koehne v. Harvey (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 780).

THIRD PARTY PRACTICE

Under rules governing third party practice, the broker and third party defendant had the right and did assert numerous defenses to the purchaser's claim against the seller. Murphy v. O'Donnell (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 340).

VACATING DEFAULT

Where defendant had made clear to court and to plaintiff that defendant intended to defend the case, continuance of one day was granted, court's alleged intention that defendant should file his papers prior to call of next day's calendar was not clearly expressed and defendant filed his affidavit of defense and demand for jury trial a few hours after default was entered, refusal to vacate default was an abuse of discretion. Barnes v. Conner (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 925).

A motion to vacate Municipal Court's default judgment on ground that copy of complaint served upon defendant differed materially from complaint as filed, made after judgment had been entered "paid and satisfied" after execution through garnishment proceedings, must be treated as an unseasonably filed "collateral attack". Campbell v. Cambell (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 825).

Since action to set aside default judgment of Municipal Court must be considered an independent action, same requirements of jurisdictional service would apply as in other cases of beginning suit, including rule that personal service is not accomplished by service on attorney of record in original action. Campbell v. Campbell (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 825).

On moving to vacate default, it is essential to present a prima facie defense to the action, but assertion in affidavit that affiant had a good and valid defense is a mere conclusion supported by no allegation of fact. Huff v. Kraft (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 667).

§ 11–722a. Deposits for jury trials earned.

Deposits made on demands for jury trials in accordance with rules prescribed by the court under authority granted in section 11–722, shall be earned unless, prior to three days before the time set for such trials, including Sundays and legal holidays, a new date for trial be set by the court, cases be discontinued or settled, or demands for jury trials be waived. (July 18, 1950, 64 Stat. 347, ch. 467, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROCEDURE

Judgment of corporation court of Virginia, based upon a judgment of the municipal court of the District, is not open to collateral attack, the court having jurisdiction. Edward Thompson Co. v. Thomas (60 App. D. C. 118, 49 Fed. (2d) 500).

By the 1921 act, appeals from the municipal court to the Supreme Court were abolished and the authority to issue statutory writ of certiorari should be denied when writ of error is provided. United States ex rel. Eure v. Borden (65 App. D. C. 84, 80 Fed. (2d) 527).

§ 11–724 [18: 214]. Judgments and executions — Interest.

It shall be lawful for the municipal court, in all cases within its jurisdiction, to try, hear, and determine the matter in controversy between the parties upon their allegations and proofs, and to give judgment according to law; and all judgments for money rendered by it shall bear interest from their date until paid or satisfied, unless by the terms of the judgment interest runs from an earlier date. The municipal court is authorized to issue writs of execution in all cases in which it is authorized to render judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1191, ch. 854, § 12; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1311, ch. 125, § 6.)

LIENS STATUTORY

Competing judgment liens find their support in the statute and are governed by the statute without regard to equitable principles. Ginder v. Guiffrida (61 App. D. C. 338, 62 Fed. (2d) 877).

STAY OF JUDGMENT

Defendants, upon failing to present certain defense until after adverse decision by Municipal Court of Appeals, could not thereafter relitigate the issue upon their new theory in trial court by presenting motion for stay and for reconsideration. Shay v. Randall H. Hagner & Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 617).

TIME LIMITATION ON JUDGMENT

It was provided by § 12, D. C. Code of 1901, as amended by act of Mar. 3, 1921 (41 Stat. 1311), that judgments of the municipal court of the District of Columbia remained in force for six years and no more after rendition unless docketed in the Supreme Court of the District. Brown v. Allan E. Walker & Co. (58 App. D. C. 173, 26 Fed. (2d) 545).

§ 11–725 [18: 215]. Replevin—Form of declaration—Affidavit—Undertaking.

The municipal court shall have authority to issue a writ of replevin whenever a plaintiff shall file a declaration in replevin, in the following or an equivalent form, to wit:

"The plaintiff sues the defendant for wrongfully taking and detaining (or wrongfully detaining) his, said plaintiff's, goods and chattels, to wit (here describe them), of the value of ——— dollars. And the plaintiff claims that the same may be taken and delivered to him, or, if they are eloigned, that he may have judgment for their value and all mesne profits and damages, which he estimates at ——— dollars, besides costs." And at the same time said plaintiff, his agent, or attorney shall file an affidavit stating, first, that, according to affiant's information and belief, the plaintiff is entitled to recover possession of the chattels described in the declaration; secondly, that the defendant has seized and detains or detains the same; thirdly, that said chattels were not subject to such seizure or detention, and were not taken under any writ of replevin between the parties; fourthly, that said chattels are not of the value of more than $1,000; and at the same time the plaintiff shall enter into an undertaking, with surety approved by said court, submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, to abide by and perform the judgment of said court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 13; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

§ 11–726 [18: 216]. Replevin—Officer's return—Further prosecution, renewal of writ.

If the officer's return of the writ of replevin be that he has served the defendant with copies of the declaration, affidavit, and summons, but that he could not get possession of the goods and chattels sued for, the plaintiff may prosecute the action for the value of the goods and damages for the detention, not to exceed in all $1,000, or he may renew the writ, in order to get possession of the goods and chattels themselves. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 14; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DAMAGES FOR VALUE AND DETENTION

Where writ in action to replevy an alleged irreplaceable fender shield was returned "not executed" and plaintiff did not renew the writ but prosecuted action without seizure of the shield, plaintiff was properly given judgment merely for value of shield and damages for its detention rather than for recovery of shield, though defendant had voluntarily produced shield and had put it in evidence, and court thereafter ordered shield to be turned over to the marshal pending decision. Byrne v. Tabet (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 50 A. 2d 815).

§ 11–727 [18: 217]. Replevin—Defendant not found—Notice by publication.

If the officer's return be that he has taken possession of the goods and chattels sued for, but that the defendant is not to be found, the said court may order that the defendant appear to the action by some fixed day, and cause notice of such order to be given by publication in some newspaper of said District at least three times, the first publication to be at least twenty days before the day fixed for the defendant's appearance; and if the defendant fails to appear, the court may proceed, as in case of default after personal service, to render judgment for the property in favor of the plaintiff. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 15.)

§ 11–728 [18: 218]. Replevin—Pleading.

If the defendant appears, he may plead not guilty, in which case all matters of defense may be given in evidence, or he may plead specially. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 16.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BURDEN OF PROOF

In replevin to recover household goods which defendant claimed as a gift from plaintiff and which, it was not disputed, had originally been plaintiff's property, defendant had burden of establishing a gift of such goods. Imhoff v. Walker (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 309).

In replevin to recover household goods which plaintiff claimed defendant had bought for plaintiff with his money and which defendant claimed to have bought with her own money, burden of proof upon such issue was upon plaintiff, and, if no evidence were produced on either side, plaintiff would have been out of court. Imhoff v. Walker (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 309).

§ 11–729 [18: 219]. Replevin—Marshal to retain property—Sufficiency of undertaking, quashing writ, return of property.

Property taken by the marshal under a writ of replevin, issued by the municipal court, shall be retained by him for three days, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, before delivering the same to the plaintiff, in order that the defendant or other persons claiming an interest therein may present objections to the said court to the sufficiency of the security on the undertaking or the jurisdiction of said court, and if the said court shall deem said undertaking insufficient, such property may be directed to be retained by the marshal for a further short time, to be designated by said court, until an undertaking to be approved by him shall be filed, in default of which the marshal shall return the property to the person from whom it was taken; or if it shall be made to appear to the said court that the property is of the value of over $1,000 he shall quash the writ of replevin and direct the property to be returned to the party out of whose possession it was taken. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 17; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

§ 11–730 [18: 220]. Replevin—Motion for return of property.

Section 16–1809, governing the return to defendant of goods and chattels taken by virtue of the writ of replevin is hereby made applicable to the municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

§ 11–731 [18: 221]. Replevin—Measure of damages for plaintiff.

Whether the defendant plead and the issue joined be found against him, or his plea be held bad, or he make default after personal service, the plaintiff's damages shall be the full value of the goods, not to exceed $1,000, if eloigned by the defendant, and damages for the detention thereof, and judgment shall be given accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1192, ch. 854, § 18; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1310, ch. 125, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

Testimony of witness that, when he took check drawn by defendant's husband, now deceased, to order of cash to bank and had it cashed for him, defendant's husband stated that he intended to use the money to buy furniture from third party was inadmissible as part of "res gestae". Jackson v. Goode (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 913).

Evidence failed to show that refrigerating equipment was sold and installed by plaintiff upon false representations by owner of one of defendant companies concerning his own credit standing or that of his company or as to leasing business to other defendant company, so as to authorize plaintiff to recover the equipment in replevin suit. Premier Poultry Co. v. Wm. Bornstein & Son (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 632).

INSTRUCTIONS

Defendant's instruction that question for jury to determine was whether plaintiff had shown by a fair preponderance of evidence that on date she brought replevin suit she was entitled as against all the world to immediate and exclusive possession of the furniture which was subject of the suit was properly modified by substituting for the words "all the world" the words "the defendant." Jackson v. Goode (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 913).

JUDGMENT FOR VALUE AND DETENTION

Where writ in action to replevy an alleged irreplaceable fender shield was returned "not executed" and plaintiff did not renew the writ but prosecuted action without seizure of the shield, plaintiff was properly given judgment merely for value of shield and damages for its detention rather than for recovery of shield, though defendant had voluntarily produced shield and had put it in evidence, and court thereafter ordered shield to be turned over to the marshal pending decision. Byrne v. Tabet (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 50 A. 2d 815).

RIGHT TO POSSESSION

Testimony as to statements made by defendant's deceased husband that he bought the property in controversy in replevin suit from certain person was not admissible as part of the "res gestae". Jackson v. Goode (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 913).

In replevin suits it is not necessarily the title which is in issue but merely the right to possession as between the parties. Jackson v. Goode (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 913).

If buyer obtains by fraud the seller's assent to transfer ownership of goods the seller may sue for value thereof or at his election may rescind and sue to regain title or possession, and replevin is a proper procedural remedy to test issue of the right to possession. Premier Poultry Co. v. Wm. Bornstein & Son (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 632).

§ 11–732 [18:222]. Replevin—Judgment for defendant—Damages.

If the issue be found for the defendant, or the plaintiff shall dismiss or fail to prosecute his suit, the judgment shall be that the goods, if delivered to the plaintiff, be returned to the defendant, with damages for their detention, or, on failure, that the defendant recover from the plaintiff and his surety the damages sustained by him, to be assessed by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 19.)

The provisions of this code relating to attachments shall apply to attachment proceedings in said municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Attachment and garnishment, §§ 16–301 to 16–335.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

The provisions of this section regarding attachment and garnishment are applicable in municipal court. Frank v. Malone (App. D. C. 1942, 126 F. 2d 651).

ATTACHMENT AGAINST EXECUTOR

In action in municipal court of District of Columbia wherein writ of attachment is directed to an executor, in connection with an action against a third party who claims an interest in the estate, the interest of other persons in the estate and the exclusive jurisdiction of district court in probate proceedings are fully protected by statutory provision that, if executor is in doubt whether defendant's share of estate will prove sufficient to pay plaintiff's debt, no judgment shall be entered against the executor until passage by probate court of his final or other account showing money or property in his hands to which defendant is entitled. Frank v. Malone, 1942 (126 F. 2d 651, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 296).

§ 11–734 [18: 224]. Payment of money into court.

Sections 13–217, 16–1401, 16–1402, authorizing payment of money into court in certain cases, are hereby made applicable to the said municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

§ 11–735 [18: 225]. Forcible entry and detainer—Definition—Summons—Procedure.

Whenever any person shall forcibly enter and detain any real property, or shall unlawfully, but without force, enter and unlawfully and forcibly detain the same; or whenever any tenant shall unlawfully detain possession of the property leased to him, after his tenancy therein has expired; or any mortgagor or grantor in a mortgage or deed of trust to secure a debt shall unlawfully detain the possession of the real property conveyed, after a sale thereof under such deed of trust or a foreclosure of the mortgage, or any person claiming under such mortgage or grantor, after the date of the mortgage or deed of trust, shall so detain the same; or a judgment debtor or any person claiming under him, since the date of the judgment, shall so detain possession of real property, after a sale thereof under an execution issued on such judgment, it shall be lawful for the municipal court, on complaint under oath, verified by the person aggrieved by said unlawful detention or by his agent or attorney, having knowledge of the facts, to issue a summons to the party complained of to appear and show cause why judgment should not be given against him for the restitution of the possession. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 20; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 555, ch. 153.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AGREEMENTS AS PRECLUDING RECOVERY

Where tenant agreed to rent basement to landlord's grantee, entry of landlord's grantee into basement was not forcible so as to authorize tenant to recover, against landlord's grantee as for forcible entry. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

In owner's action to recover apartment from former tenant's estranged wife who had moved out of apartment during marital difficulties and who had resumed occupancy after tenant had surrendered his tenancy, evidence relating to manner in which wife re-entered apartment warranted finding that wife's re-entry and detention of possession was "forcible" within this section. Tate v. Brawner (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 307).

APPEAL

Proceedings in appeal in cases of forcible entry and detainer, which are regulated by §§ 1232, 1233 of the 1901 code, are different from those which govern appeals in ordinary cases. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

The complaint should be sufficient to advise the tenant of the breach which the landlord claims gives him a right to recover possession of the property, and if the complaint states only one ground, the landlord must be confined to that ground on appeal. Davis v. Taylor (51 App. D. C. 97, 276 Fed. 619).

In forcible entry and detainer action, exclusion of witnesses was discretionary with the trial judge, and, where it was not shown that denial of motion was prejudicial to appellant, there was no basis for review by appellate court. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

BOND

Defendant, in order to perfect his appeal from justice of peace, in landlord and tenant case, need not give supersedeas bond. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

Bond given on appeal from justice of peace in a landlord and tenant case must be entered by two sureties in order to operate as a supersedeas. Dowling v. Buckley (27 App. D. C. 205).

CONCURRENT ACTIONS

A landlord could maintain action against tenant in District of Columbia District Court for arrears of rent and an action against tenant in the municipal court for possession of leased premises. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400).

CONSTRUCTION OF PRIOR LAW

Construing original section, see Green v. McIntire (42 App. D. C. 250), holding code provision applicable, although title is claimed under instrument executed prior to adoption of code.

COUNTERCLAIMS

Court should not have entertained the counterclaims of defendant in suit in which possession was sought on the grounds of unlawful entry and detainer. Though it has been held that where a tenant is sued for possession for nonpayment of rent, he may defend by an equitable defense sufficient to defeat the claim for rent or may defend by way of recoupment for a total or partial failure of consideration in order to avoid circuity of action, and where, as here, the suit was not for nonpayment and the counterclaim sounded in tort, this rule does not apply. Bellmore v. Baum (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 588).

DAMAGES

Quaere: Whether landlord can recover damages for loss of rental of entire building when tenant leases only a part thereof. Such action, however, cannot be maintained under this section. Desio v. Hutchinson (36 App. D. C. 68).

DIRECTED VERDICT

Where subtenant claimed in opening statement that tenant in consideration of increased rent had orally agreed that subtenant might remain in possession as long as tenant's lease remained in effect, and that subtenant had thereafter paid such increased rent and had made certain substantial improvements on the premises, direction of verdict for tenant was error. De Grazia v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 194).

DISCRETION OF COURT

In forcible entry and detainer action against a Chinese, appointment of principal defendant's niece as his interpreter rested in trial court's discretion. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

In forcible entry and detainer action against a Chinese, trial court did not abuse its discretion in appointing principal defendant's niece as his interpreter when his testimony had no substantial bearing upon the factual issues. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

EMERGENCY RENT CONTROL ACT

The effect of Emergency Rent Control Act, § 45–1605, restricting landlord's right to recover possession of housing accommodations is to create a noncontractual statutory right of possession in tenant, continuing at his option beyond expiration of his lease or rental agreement by depriving landlord, unless he claims under one of the permitted grounds, of right to maintain an action for possession. Warthen v. Lamas (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 759).

Under the Emergency Rent Control Act, § 45–1605, the procedure in landlord's action against tenant for possession of premises, except for restrictions as to ground upon which landlord may claim right of possession, remains the same as it was previously. Warthen v. Lamas (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 759).

A roomer, although a tenant under Emergency Rent Control Act, § 45–1611 (f), who had allegedly failed to pay rent could be evicted without institution of court proceedings for possession, in absence of any reference to roomers in this section relating to summary proceedings for possession. Tamamian v. Gabbard (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 513).

EQUITABLE RELIEF

Equity will relieve against a forfeiture caused by nonpayment of rent unless it is unjust or was inequitable to do so; the only condition precedent to such relief being the tender or payment of the arrears with accrued interest and tender, here, avoided forfeiture of the lease. Burrows Motor Company v. Davis (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 163).

EVIDENCE

In forcible entry and detainer action by tenant against landlord's grantee, tenant's denial that he had made any "agreement" with agent of landlord's grantee to rent basement to him was a "conclusion" insufficient to contradict testimony of landlord's grantee. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

Evidence supported finding that there was no unlawful delegation of authority to vice president of real estate company serving as agent of insurance company in managing building owned by insurance company by president of insurance company in authorizing vice president of realty company to verify complaint in action to recover one of storerooms in building from tenant after expiration of lease. Fowel v. Continental Life Ins. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 205).

FORCE, NECESSITY OF

In action brought under this section giving Municipal Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of action brought against person charged with having forcibly entered and detained real property, there must be actual force employed in the entry or in detention of possession or such threats and menaces of personal violence as will prevent one through fear from asserting his rights. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

FORFEITURE OF LEASEHOLD

Forfeiture of a leasehold for conditions broken, and restrictions upon the right to assign are looked upon with disfavor. Burrows Motor Company v. Davis (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 163).

The transfer of a portion of a tenant corporation's stock did not constitute an assignment of its lease in violation of its covenant not to assign without the lessor's consent, and judgment awarded to landlord must be reversed. Burrows Motor Company v. Davis (D. C. Mun App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 163).

IMPROVEMENTS

Where tenant of a row house, shortly before expiration of a five-year lease, made improvements on the property at a cost of more than $200, but the only improvement landlord was cognizant of was the painting of front porch by tenant, such repairs were not sufficient to have bound tenant for a renewal term of five years, and hence did not constitute notice to landlord that tenant was exercising option contained in lease to renew for a five-year period, and landlord was at liberty, after expiration of lease, to terminate the tenancy and recover possession for landlord's personal occupancy. Warthen v. Lamas (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 759).

ISSUES TRIABLE

Landlord's suit for possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent under this section is statutory substitute for ancient action of ejectment, and issue to be tried is the right to possession. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

JURISDICTION

Municipal court had jurisdiction of subject-matter involved in landlord and tenant proceeding and also over the person of defendant in the case, who appeared and made a defense, and the judge was not liable in civil action for the issuance of writ of restitution. Spruill v. O'Toole (64 App. D. C. 85, 74 Fed. (2d) 559).

The jurisdiction of Municipal Court for District of Columbia to render judgment for possession of real estate is limited to those cases provided for by this section. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

The District of Columbia Municipal Court has jurisdiction to try actions involving possession of realty. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400, modified, 1947, 54 A. 2d 144).

The jurisdiction of the Municipal Court over summary suits to recover possession of real property under this section is limited explicitly to actions by landlords against tenant. Spruill v. Brooks (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 204).

Municipal court should not reject jurisdiction unless and until it is made to appear that the title to land is necessarily directly in issue between the parties, since this is a mandatory requirement provided for by statute. Mindell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 340. As aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

MERITS

Where there was a voluntary dismissal by landlord of his action to recover possession of leased premises, prior to trial, and no issue was adjudicated, intervenor was not entitled to a judgment on the merits. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

MONEY JUDGMENT

The recovery of a money judgment for rent in landlord's action for possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent is but incidental to the main action, which remains basically one for possession. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

NATURE OF POSSESSORY ACTION

A landlord's action for possession of leased premises for nonpayment of rent is statutory substitute for the ancient remedy of ejectment. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400, modified, 1947, 54 A. 2d 144).

NOTICE

Tenant is entitled to 30-day notice to quit before institution of summary proceedings for possession. Thornhill v. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. (63 App. D. C. 184, 70 Fed. (2d) 846).

Sufficient notice of termination of a month to month tenancy does not in and of itself allow institution of an action for possession, since notice merely cuts off future expectancy of a continuation of the tenancy for one or more terms, and thereupon a tenancy for the terminal month runs its course, and upon the occurrence of both events landlord may maintain action for possession, as tenant is then holding over. Zoby v. Kosmadakes (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 618).

A notice to quit is a condition precedent to filing of action by landlord to recover possession of premises from tenant, but is not jurisdictional. Zindler v. Buchanon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 616).

PARTIES

A realty dealer acting as owner's rental agent for percentage of rents is not a party in interest such as is entitled to conduct a landlord and tenant proceeding. Heiskell v. Mozie (65 App. D. C. 255, 82 Fed. (2d) 861).

Where husband and wife own property by the entireties, a possessory action against a tenant may be brought by either, and a judgment in such an action inures equally to benefit of both. Zoby v. Kosmadakes (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 618).

In owner's action to recover possession of apartment rented by defendant's husband, defendant was a proper party and owner was not required to name husband as a party defendant, where husband had surrendered key after defendant removed furniture and left apartment at time of marital difficulties and had stated to owner's representative that husband was finished with apartment and owner in reliance thereon had rented apartment to third party. Tate v. Brawner (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 307).

PERSON AGGRIEVED

One suing under this section for recovery of leased premises was only obliged to establish that he was the person aggrieved by tenant's failure to vacate. J. & J. Slater, Inc., v. Brainerd (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 714).

Provision in lease for abatement of rent if lessor should be unable to deliver possession did not prevent lessor from being "person aggrieved" who could sue former tenant for possession, in absence of evidence that lessor had yielded right to sue to new tenant or had done anything to extinguish his own title. J. & J. Slater, Inc., v. Brainerd (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 714).

Owner was proper party to maintain suit against tenant to recover business premises at expiration of term lease, since he was a "person aggrieved" within this section authorizing municipal court to issue summons on complaint under oath of "person aggrieved" to recover premise detained, notwithstanding lease was made in the name of owner's agent. Bell v. Westbrook (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 50 A. 2d 264).

PETITION

Complaint alleging that defendant obtained possession of premises by fraud and had trespassed thereon and that he had refused to surrender possession, but not alleging that defendant entered by actual force or that he retained possession by force, or by menaces or other acts legally equivalent to force, did not state a case of forcible entry and detainer within jurisdiction of Municipal Court for District of Columbia. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

PLEADING

Although proceedings in landlord and tenant actions are informal, tenant is entitled to be informed by complaint of nature of recovery sought against him. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

If a landlord seeks a money judgment for rent in action to recover leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent, he must set forth his claim for such in his complaint. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

Where action by husband and wife as landlords for possession of housing accommodations was brought as a summary proceeding, the verification of complaint by husband, for himself and as agent for his wife, was authorized by this section providing that complaint shall be verified by person aggrieved or by his agent or attorney having knowledge of the facts. Wynn v. Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 275).

PURPOSE

This section giving Municipal Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of actions of forcible entry and detainer is intended to provide a summary remedy in definitely limited classes of cases, and is not a substitute for action of ejectment. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

RES JUDICATA

Where suit filed on March 17, 1942, was essentially one for trespass with conversion of personal property laid in aggravation of damages, in subsequent statutory action to recover possession allegedly withheld since April, 1942, evidence was insufficient to sustain defendant's plea of res judicata based on judgment in the former suit. Kincade v. Wah (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 112).

A consent judgment awarding plaintiff husband possession of premises, in action brought by husband alone against defendant as tenant of property owned by husband and wife as tenants by the entireties, which judgment necessarily determined defendant's status as a tenant, was res judicata on that issue in subsequent suit brought by husband and wife against defendant to recover rent. David v. Nemerofsky (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 838).

Where husband and wife owned realty as tenants by the entireties, as respects doctrine of res judicata, the wife should be regarded as in "privity" with husband, which denotes mutual or successive relationship to the same rights of property. David v. Nemerofsky (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 838).

RIGHT TO POSSESSION

Where plaintiff sued for possession of property, which it had purchased at foreclosure sale, against defendant who had previously owned the property but had defaulted on the second trust note, the defense that, when the deed of trust was foreclosed, defendants automatically became tenants at will under § 45–822 and could not be ousted by reason of § 45–1605, is not applicable where premises are not housing accommodations within the meaning of § 45–1611. Surratt v. Real Estate Exchange, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 587).

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS

Summary proceedings under R. S., D. C., 684 cannot be maintained unless conventional relation of landlord and tenant exists between the parties. Willis v. Eastern Trust & B. Co. (169 U. S. 295, 42 L. Ed. 752, 18 Sup. Ct. 347).

SURRENDER OF TENANCY

Where wife removed furniture and left apartment and husband, who was the tenant, surrendered his tenancy, wife had no further rights in premises and her forcible re-entry and detention of possession was unlawful so as to entitle owner to recover possession under this section. Tate v. Brawner (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 307).

TITLE NOT ISSUE

If complaint were forcible entry and detainer, a claim of title by the defendant would be a proper defense to the action. Loring v. Bartlett (4 App. D. C. 1).

In proceedings for forcible entry and detainer, the title is not tried and is not at issue, but solely the right to the possession. Brown v. Slater (23 App. D. C. 51).

Right to possession of alleged purchaser at trustee's sale, not proved where tenant under 5-year lease continued to comply with said lease and dealt throughout with the same agent and knew nothing of the sale. Capital Apartment Corp. v. Vassos (62 App. D. C. 136, 65 Fed. (2d) 482).

TRESPASS, ACTION FOR

The action of trespass to realty contemplated by section 11–704 is one for damages, and said section was not applicable to give Municipal Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of action to obtain possession of realty. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

Forcible entry and detainer is not a substitute for trespass, and the actions are not the same. Thurston v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 342).

§ 11–736 [18: 226]. Forcible entry and detainer—Service of summons.

The summons shall be served seven days, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, before the day fixed for the trial of the action. If the defendant has left the District of Columbia, or can not be found, said summons may be served by delivering a copy thereof to the tenant, or by leaving the same with some person above the age of sixteen years residing on or in possession of the premises sought to be recovered, and if no one be in actual possession of said premises, or residing thereon, by posting a copy of said summons on the premises where it may be conveniently read. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CHALLENGING SERVICE OF PROCESS

It is a general rule, with limited exceptions, that the question of defective service can be raised only by one on whom the attempted service was made and that one defendant has no standing to question the service on a co-defendant. Therefore, a motion to quash service made by one not even a party ought not to be heard. Everett v. Miller (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 399).

CONFESSION OF JUDGMENT

A judgment in favor of landlord suing tenant for possession of leased premises was void for failure of court to acquire jurisdiction over tenant who was not served with process and who did not voluntarily appear, notwithstanding that tenant had signed "confession of judgment", where "confession of judgment" did not purport to contain a power of attorney authorizing landlord's attorney to appear for tenant and confess judgment. Sandler v. Kass Realty Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 617).

CONSTRUCTION

For the purpose of this statute, a person below the age of sixteen years does not come within the term "any one". Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

Requirements of the statutory phrase "Cannot be found" were met by the deputy marshal in posting summons on door. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

POSTING ON DOOR

In suit to recover possession of house, process was not defective on ground that marshal, without using diligent effort to obtain personal service, posted summons on door, where record disclosed service in strict compliance with this section. Gordon v. Tino (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 50 A. 2d 593).

Where deputy marshal returned to premises three times with no response, and finally fastened the two summons flat against the door, valid service was made, since defendant was not to be found and no one over sixteen could be said to be in possession. Dewey v. Clark (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 766).

RETURN

Where a valid service had been effected in landlord's action against tenant for possession of realty, either by delivery of copy to one in possession of realty, or by posting copy on realty, service was valid regardless of whether marshal's return correctly showed the method by which the service was effected. Etelson v. André (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 806).

SUBSTANTIAL COMPLIANCE

Service of summons by leaving a copy with a person over 16 years of age in possession of the premises and a return to that effect by the marshal was a substantial compliance with this section. Bliss v. Duncan (44 App. D. C. 93). Compare Settlemier v. Sullivan (7 Otto (97 U. S.) 444, 24 L. Ed. 1110).

SUBSTITUTE SERVICE

Where marshal returned in afternoon after receiving no response when he had rung bell several times on morning visit, and maid refused to take paper marshal requested her to take, and marshal tacked it on the door, failure to make more than two attempts to effect personal service was not as a matter of law a lack of due diligence to effect personal service so as to invalidate substituted service under this section prescribing methods of service available in summary actions for possession of realty. Etelson v. André (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 806).

VOLUNTARY APPEARANCE

The voluntary appearance of tenant, through its attorney, gave the court jurisdiction to enter judgment in favor of landlord suing for possession of leased premises, notwithstanding that tenant was not served with process. Crescent Cafe Co. v. Kass Realty Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 618).

§ 11–737 [18: 227]. Forcible entry and detainer—Judgment and execution for possession and for costs.

If upon the trial it appears that the plaintiff is entitled to the possession of the premises, judgment and execution for the possession shall be awarded in his favor, with costs; if the plaintiff becomes nonsuit or fails to prove his right to the possession, the defendant shall have judgment and execution for his costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 22.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ATTORNEY'S FEE

Where landlord in his suit for possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent made no claim in his complaint for a money judgment, trial court was justified in denying landlord's claim for attorney's fee pursuant to provision in lease. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

Attorney's fees were not taxable as costs in landlord's action to recover possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

INTERVENTION

Where landlord took a voluntary nonsuit in a summary proceedings by landlord against tenant, intervenor who, though not specifically allowed to intervene as a defendant, intervened for the purpose of contesting landlord's right to possession, was entitled as a matter of law to judgment for her costs. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

LAW GOVERNING

Where there was a conflict between Landlord and Tenant Rule 6 and this section dealing with costs in a summary proceeding between landlord and tenant, this section would prevail. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

MANDATORY

This section providing that if it appears that plaintiff is entitled to possession of leased premises in summary proceeding between landlord and tenant, judgment and execution for possession shall be awarded in plaintiff's favor with costs, and that if plaintiff becomes nonsuit or fails to prove his right to possession, defendant shall have judgment and execution for his costs, is mandatory. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

§ 11–738 [18: 228]. Forcible entry and detainer—Plea of title—Undertaking.

If upon the trial the defendant pleads title to the premises, in himself or in another under whom he claims, setting forth the nature of said title, under oath, and shall enter into an undertaking, with sufficient surety, to be approved by the court, to pay all intervening damages and costs and reasonable intervening rent for the premises, the court shall certify the proceedings to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and the same shall be further continued in said court according to its rules. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 23; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REJECTION OF JURISDICTION

Generally, the municipal court will not reject jurisdiction until it is made to appear that the title to land is necessarily and directly in issue between the parties. Knowles v. Mosher (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 755).

SPECIAL PLEA, NECESSITY FOR

If tenant holding over after expiration of lease wished to dispute purchaser's title in suit instituted by purchaser in Municipal Court to obtain possession of dwelling for use as a residence, a special plea was required to be filed and undertaking given whereupon the case would be certified to district court. Miller v. Prophet (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 450).

In a summary proceeding brought in municipal court, question of title can enter the case only by special plea but defendant in such a plea must comply with this section, and if no plea of title is filed the court is free to proceed and try the issue of possession. Knowles v. Mosher (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 755).

This section providing that title in summary proceedings be put in issue by plea under oath, accompanied by an undertaking, is mandatory, since in such action the issue to be tried is one of possession and not of title. Knowles v. Mosher (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 755).

Questions of title can enter the case only by special plea of the defendant and such a plea must comply with the statute. If no plea of title is filed, there is no question of title, and the court is free to proceed to try the issue of possession. Mindell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A 2d 340, as aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

§ 11–739 [18: 229]. Forcible entry and detainer—When judgment not a bar.

A judgment before the municipal court in this proceeding, shall not be a bar to any after action brought by either party or conclude any question of title between them, where title is not pleaded by the defendants as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 24; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

TERMINATION OF TENANCY

An agreement whereby property was conveyed to holder of a deed of trust did not affect lease of the premises previously made by owner, but the title taken was subject to the lease, in absence of foreclosure of the deed of trust, even though the lease was not of record, and to terminate the tenancy it was necessary that notice to quit expire on the day on which the tenancy commenced to run. Knowles v. Mosher (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 755).

§ 11–740 [18: 230]. Witnesses — Attendance — Punishment for contempt.

The municipal court shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses from any part of the District of Columbia by attachment and to punish them for disobedience, as well as to punish anyone for disorder or contempt committed in its presence, by fine not exceeding ten dollars or imprisonment not exceeding ten days. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1193, ch. 854, § 25; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

§ 11–741 [18: 231]. Nonresident witnesses—Testimony—How taken.

Where the testimony of nonresident witnesses is required by either party the municipal court may, upon motion designating the names of such witnesses, appoint an examiner to take such testimony, to whom it shall issue a commission; and said testimony shall be taken on written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, which written interrogatories shall be filed at least three days before the issue of such commission: Provided, That such commission shall not issue unless the party or his agent or attorney applying therefor file his affidavit, setting forth that he believes that the testimony of said witnesses is material to the issue in said suit and that the motion is not made for the purpose of delay. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1194, ch. 854, § 26; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

§ 11–742 [18: 232]. Satisfaction of judgment—Receipt of plaintiff.

No judgment or execution shall be recorded as satisfied without the receipt of the plaintiff or his attorney annexed thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1194, ch. 854, § 28.)

§ 11–743 [18: 233]. Docketing judgment in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

After recovering a judgment for twenty dollars or more, exclusive of costs, before the municipal court, the judgment creditor may, when execution is returned "No personal property found whereon to levy," file in the clerk's office of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia a certified copy of said judgment, which shall be docketed in the docket of law causes in said office; and when it is docketed the force and effect of the judgment for all purposes shall be the same as if it had been a judgment of the said District Court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1194, ch. 854, § 29; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

After rendition of judgment by the municipal court, the judgment creditor may file in the clerk's office of the Supreme Court a certified copy of the judgment, and, when so docketed, the judgment shall have the same force and effect as if it had been a judgment of the Supreme Court of the District. Brown v. Allan E. Walker & Co. (58 App. D. C. 173, 26 Fed. (2d) 545).

PETITION TO CORRECT ERROR

Where the court below accepted the record made by the municipal court as against an affidavit by party that there was clerical error, on appeal the ruling will not be disturbed. Dreslin v. Phillips (51 App. D. C. 324, 279 Fed. 303).

REVIVAL OF JUDGMENT

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may revive judgment filed by scire facias. Green v. Mann (19 App. D. C. 243).

§ 11–744 [18: 234]. Trial of right to attached property—Notice to marshal, notice to plaintiff.

When personal property taken on execution or other process issued by the municipal court is claimed by a person other than the defendant therein, or is claimed by the defendant to be property exempt from execution, and such claimant shall give notice, in writing, to the marshal of his claim, or the defendant shall give notice, in writing, that the property is exempt, the marshal shall notify the plaintiff of such claim and return said notice to the court, and a trial of said right of property, or said question of exemption, shall be had before said court.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1194, ch. 854, § 33; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

This section "provides summary statutory method, unknown to the common law, of determining the right of property and restoring possession thereof to the rightful owner. * * * It makes no provision for the recovery of damages." Tribby v. O'Neal (39 App. D. C. 467).

Conclusiveness of Findings

Where evidence was such that in statutory proceeding for trial of right of property either one of two different conclusions might reasonably be drawn therefrom, trial court's judgment could not be disturbed by Municipal Court of Appeals. Perlman v. Chal-Bro., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 755).

Judgment

Judgment for third-party claimant on trial of right of property in goods seized was not res judicata against United States marshal and his surety, as they were not parties to the action and may defend on ground of fraudulent transfer prior to levy made by the marshal thereon. Snyder v. Charles Levine, Inc. (65 App. D. C. 81, 80 Fed. (2d) 382).

Jurisdiction to Enjoin

The District Court of the District of Columbia has jurisdiction to enjoin sale of chattels under execution writ from municipal court of the District as the District Court, similar to nisi prius courts in the States, is the first court of general equity powers. Palais Royal v. Calhoun (67 App. D. C. 364, 92 Fed. (2d) 515).

Notice to Marshal

Notice to marshal of company's claim to chattels was given as provided by this section. Stern Co. of Washington v. Rosenberg (67 App. D. C. 99, 89 Fed. (2d) 843).

Possession Under Lien

Person in possession of property under lien may claim benefit of section and does not waive his right to maintain action thereunder by becoming purchaser at marshal's sale. Brown v. Petersen (25 App. D. C. 359). See Bond v. Carter Hdw. Co. (15 App. D. C. 72, construing 28 Stat. 668).

Subsequent Action for Damages

A proceeding under this section is no bar to subsequent action for damages. Tribby v. O'Neal (39 App. D. C. 467).

§ 11–745 [18: 235]. Claim against attached property—How docketed and tried.

The case made by such claim shall be entered on the docket as an action by the claimant or the defendant against the plaintiff and tried in the same manner as other cases before the municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1194, ch. 854, § 34; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

See notes to § 11–744. United States ex. rel. Robertson v. Barnard (24 App. D. C. 8); Tribby v. O'Neal (39 App. D. C. 467).

§ 11–746 [18: 236]. Claim against attached property—Judgment.

In case the property shall appear to belong to the claimant or to be exempt from such process, judgment shall be entered against the plaintiff for costs, and the property levied upon shall be released. If the property shall not appear to belong to the claimant or to be exempt, as aforesaid, judgment shall be entered against said claimant or the defendant, as the case may be, for costs, including additional costs occasioned by the delay in the execution of the writ. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1195, ch. 854, § 35; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 521, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 555, ch. 153.)

Amendments

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "execution" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "such process" and struck out the words "in the execution" following the word "plaintiff" in the first sentence.

The act of April 19, 1920, struck out the above section as originally enacted and inserted the foregoing in lieu thereof. The change made was to leave out a sentence providing for appeal.

Cross Reference

See note to § 11–744. Snyder v. Charles Levine, Inc. (65 App. D. C. 81, 80 Fed. (2d) 382).

§ 11–747 [18: 237]. Claim against attached property—Replevin.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent a claimant other than the defendant from bringing an action of replevin against the officer levying upon the property claimed as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1195, ch. 854, § 37.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Legislative Intention

Statute is mainly intended, by summary means, to indemnify and save harmless the officer charged with the execution of the writ or process, and to protect plaintiff who may direct the levy upon or seizure of the property, and also to uphold and maintain power and jurisdiction of the justice, in making his process effective, but at same time to avoid injury to third persons. Snyder v. Charles Levine, Inc. (65 App. D. C. 81, 80 Fed. (2d) 382).

§ 11–748 [18: 238]. Process, service of—Judgments—Stay of execution.

All process issued by the municipal court shall be served by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia, or, if he is disqualified, by the coroner, and the fees for such service shall be as prescribed by rule of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

SUPERSEDEAS

On all judgments rendered by the municipal court, except as hereinafter provided, stay of execution may be had upon good and sufficient security being entered by a person who may be at the time the owner of sufficient real property located in the District, above all liabilities and exemptions, to secure the debt, costs, and interest.

In such cases stay of execution shall be entered as follows:

For the sum of five dollars, and not exceeding twenty dollars, one month.

For all sums over twenty dollars, and not exceeding forty dollars, two months.

For all sums over forty dollars, and not exceeding seventy-five dollars, four months.

For all sums exceeding seventy-five dollars, six months.

There shall be no stay of execution on any judgment for the wages of a servant or common laborer, nor upon any judgment for a less sum than five dollars. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1195, ch. 854, § 41; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

§ 11–749 [18: 239]. Deposits for jury trials—When earned.

Deposits made on demands for jury trials in accordance with rules prescribed by the court under authority granted in section 11–722 shall be earned unless, prior to three days before the time set for such trials, including Sundays and legal holidays, a new date for trial be set by the court, cases be discontinued or settled, or demands for jury trials be waived. SUBCHAPTER II.—THE MUNICIPAL COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 14 of act April 1, 1942, cited to text, provided as follows: "The provisions of this Act authorizing the appointment and salaries of the judges of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and the clerk, deputy clerks, and other employees of said court, shall take effect one month after approval of this Act. The other provisions of this Act shall take effect three months after the date of its approval.

"The expression 'effective date of this Act', as used in this Act, means three months after the approval of this Act."

§ 11–751. Consolidation of Police Court and Municipal Court—Designation.

The Police Court of the District of Columbia and the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, be, and they are hereby, consolidated into a single court to be known as "The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia". (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1.)

SEPARABILITY CLAUSE

Section 12 of act April 1, 1942, cited to text, provided as follows: "If any provision of this Act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, shall be held invalid, the remainder of the Act, and the application of such provisions to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby; and if any provision hereof becomes inoperative, either by reason of failure of appropriations or otherwise, it shall not affect the legality or operative effect of any or all of the remaining features and provisions hereof."

§ 11–752. Composition—Appointments—Chief judge—Tenure—Seal—Court of record.

The court shall consist of thirteen judges appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, one of whom shall be designated by the President as chief judge.

The court shall adopt and have a seal, and shall be a court of record. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1; Oct. 25, 1949, 63 Stat. 887, ch. 706, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The Act of Oct. 25, 1949, cited to text, increased the number of judges from ten to thirteen, and provided that "appointments and reappointments in the case of the additional judges authorized by this Act shall be for a term of ten years each."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COURT OF RECORD

The Municipal Court of the District of Columbia created by Congress under this chapter is a court of record and, within the limits of its civil jurisdiction which is far in excess of that of the old municipal court, has equitable jurisdiction. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

Municipal Court is a court of record and its judgments have full effect (except as liens on real estate) without docketing in District Court. The express power of a court of record to enforce its judgment by proper process should not be abridged by courts in absence of express or implied statutory authority. Halperin v. Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 295).

§ 11–753. Judges—Appointments—Removal—Salaries—Oath—Qualifications.

Subsequent appointments and reappointments to this court shall be for a term of ten years each. All judges shall continue in office until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. Each judge shall be subject to removal only in the manner and for the same causes as are now or hereafter provided for the removal of Federal judges. The salary of the chief judge shall be $13,500 per annum and the salary of each associate judge shall be $13,000 per annum. Each judge, when appointed shall take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States. No person other than a bona fide resident of the area consisting of the District of Columbia; Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland; Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia; and the city of Alexandria, Virginia, and maintaining an actual place of abode in such area for at least five years immediately prior to his appointment, or who shall have been a judge of one of the courts of the District of Columbia, shall be appointed a judge of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia: Provided, however, That not more than two nonresident persons may be appointed and serve as judges of the said Municipal Court at any one time. Further, all appointees shall have been members of the bar of the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years, and shall have been actively engaged in the private practice of law in the District of Columbia for a period of at least five consecutive years immediately prior to their appointment, or shall have been employed as an attorney in the District of Columbia in the Government of the United States or in the government of the District of Columbia for a period of at least five consecutive years immediately prior to their appointment. Service during the present emergency in the armed forces of the United States shall be included in the computation of the five-year requirements herein specified. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 191, ch. 207, § 2; July 28, 1949, 63 Stat. 482, ch. 369, § 2; Oct. 25, 1949, 63 Stat. 887, ch. 706, §§ 2, 3.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of July 28, 1949, cited to text, increased the salary of the chief judge from $8,500 to $13,500, and of each associate judge from $8,000 to $13,000.

The act of Oct. 25, 1949, cited to text, struck out the words "bona fide resident of the District of Columbia and maintaining an actual place of abode therein" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "bona fide resident of the area consisting of the District of Columbia; Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland; Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia; and the city of Alexandria, Virginia, and maintaining an actual place of abode in such area" and also struck out the words "further, all appointees shall have been actively engaged in the practice of law in the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years immediately prior to their appointment" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "further, all appointees * * * for a period of at least five consecutive years immediately prior to their appointment."

§ 11–754. Chief judge — Duties — Disability of chief judge—Duties of judges—Clerk—Appointment and tenure—Salary—Duties—Probation officer—Appointment and tenure—Duties—Retention of officials and employees of Police Court and Municipal Court.

(a) The chief judge shall, from time to time and for such period or periods as he may determine, designate the judges to preside and attend at the various branches and sessions of the court. He shall have the power to determine the number and fix the time of the various sessions of the court, to arrange the business of the court, and to divide it and assign it among the judges. He shall also be charged with the general administration and superintendence of the business of the court.

(b) The chief judge shall give his attention to the discharge of the duties especially pertaining to his office, and to the performance of such additional judicial work as he may be able to perform.

(c) It shall be the duty of the chief judge and the associate judges to meet together at least once in each month in each year, at such time as may be designated by the chief judge, for the consideration of such matters pertaining to the administration of justice in said court as may be brought before them.

It shall be the duty of each associate judge to attend and serve at any branch or session of the court to which he is assigned. Each associate judge shall submit to the chief judge a monthly report in writing of the duties performed by him, which report shall specify the number of days attendance in court of such judge during said month, and the branch courts upon which he has attended, and the number of hours per day of such attendance, and such other data as may be required by the chief judge, and in such form as the chief judge shall require.

The chief judge shall submit to the Attorney General of the United States and to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia a quarterly report in writing of the business of the court and of the duties performed by each of the judges of the court during the preceding three months. A copy of said report shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court and shall be available and subject to public inspection during business hours.

In the event of the absence, disability, or disqualification of the chief judge, his duties shall devolve upon and be performed by the other judges in the order of seniority of their commissions.

Each judge shall be entitled to vacation, which shall not exceed thirty-six court days in any one calendar year, and which shall be taken at such times as may be determined by the chief judge.

The court shall have authority to appoint and remove a clerk of the court, whose salary shall be fixed by the court in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and the clerk so appointed shall have and exercise the powers and authority heretofore had or exercised by the clerk of the Police Court of the District of Columbia and the clerk of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia.

The clerk of the court shall have authority, subject to the approval of the chief judge, to appoint and remove such deputy clerks and such other employees as he may deem necessary, and to have their compensation fixed by the chief judge in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and shall have supervision and direction over them, except clerks serving the respective judges, who shall be appointed and removed from office by the respective judges, their compensation to be fixed by the respective judges in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674).

The court shall have authority to appoint and remove a probation officer of the court, whose salary shall be fixed by the court in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and the probation officer so appointed shall have and exercise the powers of the authority heretofore had or exercised by the probation officer of the Police Court of the District of Columbia.

The probation officer of the court, subject to the approval of the chief judge, shall have authority to appoint and remove such assistant probation officers and such other employees of the probation office as he may deem necessary, and to have their compensation fixed by the chief judge in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and shall have supervision and direction over them.

All officials and employees of the Police Court of the District of Columbia and of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia holding office on the effective date of this subchapter shall continue in office unless and until they are removed therefrom; and all appropriations for the said Police Court or the said Municipal Court shall be available for the payment of the salaries and expenses of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia as hereby established. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 191, ch. 207, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REDUCTION OF SENTENCE

Municipal Court of District of Columbia had power to reduce sentences during term at which they were imposed. Peden v. Fleming (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 800).

Where Municipal Court of District of Columbia imposing sentence in August, 1942, directed that its term then current be kept open, the court could not extend the August, 1942, term until September 3, 1943, and could not at that time reduce sentences imposed more than a year before. Peden v. Fleming (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 800).

Where order of probation was void because entered after defendant had been committed, release of defendant under the probation order was premature and it was duty of court to cause him to be recommitted, and the void probation order did not amount to an unconditional reduction of sentence. Peden v. Fleming (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 800).

§ 11–754a. Reporters' fees for transcripts.

In addition to their annual salaries, official reporters for the municipal court for the District of Columbia are authorized to charge and collect from parties, including the United States and the District of Columbia, who request transcripts of the original records of proceedings, such fees therefor, and no other, as may be prescribed from time to time by the court. All supplies shall be furnished by the official reporters at their own expense. The court shall have the power and is hereby directed to prescribe such rules, practice, and procedure pertaining to fees for transcripts as it may deem necessary, and the same shall conform as nearly as may be practicable to the rules, practice, and procedure pertaining to fees for transcripts established for the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. No fee shall be charged or taxed for any copy of a transcript delivered to a judge at his request or for any copies of a transcript delivered to the clerk of the court for the records of the court. Except as to transcripts that are to be paid for by the United States or the District of Columbia, the reporters may require any party requesting a transcript to prepay the estimated fee therefor in advance of delivery of the transcript. (July 18, 1947, 61 Stat. 381, ch. 267.)

§ 11–755. Jurisdiction—Criminal and civil branch—Exclusive in certain actions—Service of process—Judgments—Duration—Docketing—Fees.

(a) The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, as established by this subchapter shall consist of a criminal and a civil branch. The court and each judge thereof shall have and exercise the same powers and jurisdiction as were heretofore had or exercised by the Police Court of the District of Columbia or by the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia or the judges thereof on the effective date of this subchapter and in addition the said court shall have exclusive jurisdiction of civil actions, including counterclaims and crossclaims, in which the claimed value of personal property or the debt or damages claimed, exclusive of interest, attorneys' fees, protest fees, and costs, does not exceed the sum of $3,000 and, in addition, shall also have exclusive jurisdiction of such actions against executors, administrators and other fiduciaries: Provided, however, That the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction of counterclaims and crossclaims interposed in actions over which it has jurisdiction. The court shall also have jurisdiction over all cases properly pending in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia or the Police Court of the District of Columbia on the effective date of this subchapter.

(b) Service of process in the criminal division of the court shall be had as provided under existing law for the Police Court of the District of Columbia; service of process in the civil division of the court shall be had as provided under existing law for the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, or in such other manner as may be prescribed by rules of court.

(c) All judgments entered by the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia on or after the effective date of this subchapter shall remain in force for six years and no longer unless the same be docketed in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. Upon payment of a fee of 50 cents the clerk of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia shall prepare a copy of any judgment of the said court whether heretofore rendered and in force and effective on the effective date of this subchapter or hereafter rendered, and the same upon being docketed with the clerk of said District Court shall have the same force and effect for all purposes as if it had been a judgment of said District Court. For the docketing of the same the clerk of said District Court shall charge a fee of 50 cents. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 192, ch. 207, § 4.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

The defense of the statute of frauds is an affirmative defense and must be pleaded. Saunders System Washington Co., v. Kuffner (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 136).

ADMINISTRATORS

Municipal Court for District of Columbia had jurisdiction to entertain suit against administrator for unpaid balance of note executed by deceased. Mazo v. Ed. L. Stock, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 660).

AMOUNT CLAIMED

District Court for District of Columbia did not have jurisdiction of action to have trust impressed on funds amounting to $1,980 or, in alternative, for money judgment, regardless of whether complaint would have formerly been denoted a suit at law or a bill in equity, in view of this section giving Municipal Court exclusive jurisdiction of "civil actions" involving "personal property" having value less than $3,000. Klepinger v. Rhodes, 1944 (140 F 2d 697, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1047, 322 U. S. 734, 88 L. Ed. 1568).

Suits in which the alleged value of personal property or debt or damages claimed does not exceed $3,000 are in exclusive jurisdiction of Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. Rowe v. Nolan Finance Co., 1944 (142 F. 2d 93, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 35).

Where husband and wife in a single action each sought damages in amount of $3,000 for personal injuries, suit was within jurisdiction of Municipal Court, since each of claims was within $3,000 limit of court's jurisdiction. Taylor v. Yellow Cab Co. of D. C. (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 691).

The District Court had jurisdiction of action by administrator for balance due on compensation award to plaintiff's decedent although amount owing at time of decedent's death was less than $3,000. Turner v. Christian Heurich Brewing Co. (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 681).

In some classes of cases, such as suits for rent overcharges and actions transferred by the District Court, the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court is unlimited as to amount. However, its jurisdiction in tort and contract cases is limited to $3,000. It is entirely clear that this limitation applies not only to the original claim but also to counterclaims and cross claims. Hillyard v. Kline (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 759).

The trial court is one of limited jurisdiction and the pleadings in that court should show that the matter involved is within its jurisdiction. Where there was no claim of value stated in the petition below, but where it was agreed that when the case was tried, the goods involved had then been converted into cash exceeding the jurisdictional limits, the court was without jurisdiction. Bowles v. Stonebraker (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 575).

When a third party makes claim to goods seized under an attachment on a judgment, the amount involved is not the amount of the judgment but the value of the property claimed. Bowles v. Stonebraker (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 575).

CONTINUANCE

Where accused was represented by counsel of his own choice at time of arraignment and such counsel was with accused on date case was originally set for trial, but case was continued at request of accused and there was no evidence of further action by such counsel or explanation of his absence on trial date or showing that accused on day of trial made any effort to locate such counsel, there was no abuse of discretion in refusing a continuance or in proceeding to trial with assigned counsel. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 700).

Denial of continuance requested by accused because of the absence of witnesses was not improper in absence of showing of expected testimony or probability that absent witnesses would be available if case were continued or showing of probability that absence of witnesses substantially affected result of trial or that result would have been different if they had been located and produced. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 700).

Where the trial court had said a doctor's certificate would be required before the case could be continued because of appellant's illness and appellant was produced in court for the trial which continued without further objection, the question of granting the continuance was in the judicial discretion of the trial court. Campbell v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 191).

Under the circumstances of the case, the question whether to grant a further continuance was a matter of discretion with the trial judge. The refusal thereof affords no basis for inquiry by an appellate court. Glenn v. Mindell (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 74 A. 2d 835).

Where illness of defendant prevented trial, motion for continuance rests in sound discretion of the Trial Court and is not subject to reversal unless discretion is abused or not in accordance with fixed legal principles. Etty v. Middleton (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 371).

The granting or refusal of a continuance by the trial court is not reviewable except for abuse of discretion. Hillyard v. Smither & Mayton, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 166).

DISCOVERY

Where case originates in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia and proceeds to judgment in that forum, which judgment is subsequently transcripted to the District Court for lien purposes or to extend the statutory period of limitations, the better practice would be to utilize the methods of discovery provided by the rules of the Municipal Court. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

DISCRETION OF COURT

Whether a defense shall stand or be set aside rests in the sound discretion of the trial court and where before denying the motion to vacate, the trial court heard all testimony to determine whether appellant had a meritorious defense and was convinced that no such defense existed, discretion was not abused. Schoon v. Marvins Credit, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 212).

DISMISSAL

Where, on the second call of the calendar after plaintiff failed to appear, defendant moved that the action be dismissed with prejudice, and the court granted this motion, argument that rule permits only dismissal without prejudice is unfounded. The rule limits the authority of the clerk to a dismissal but imposes no express restriction on action by the court. Unless expressly restricted by statute or rule, a court has inherent power to dismiss an action for want of prosecution. Jarcy v. Griffith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 919).

Where a complaint for libel did not set forth the alleged defamatory matter verbatim, dismissal of the complaint was plainly correct. Watwood v. Credit Bureau, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 905).

DIRECTED VERDICT

Directed verdict in favor of the District was proper where there was no evidence showing that defendant's automobile ran through a depression and collided with plaintiff's automobile in road maintained by the District. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 551).

DOCKETING, EFFECT OF

Under this chapter, the mere docketing of a judgment of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia in the District Court makes the judgment of the Municipal Court a judgment of the District Court for all purposes as if it had originally been obtained there, but the judgment does not lose its character as a judgment of the inferior court although it also becomes a judgment of the District Court. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

Where judgment obtained in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia was docketed in the District Court, giving the District Court concurrent jurisdiction with the Municipal Court, and there was no reason why proceedings supplemental to execution could not be taken in the Municipal Court, the District Court would, under the doctrine of forum non conveniens, refuse to exercise its jurisdiction of the proceeding. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

Municipal Court is not divested of jurisdiction where it entertains supplemental proceedings in aid of execution of its judgment subsequent to the docketing of the judgment in the District Court, since there is no statute to the effect that Municipal Court loses jurisdiction upon the docketing of its judgment in District Court. Halperin v. Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 295).

EXECUTION

Generally, in the absence of statute to the contrary, execution should issue from the court rendering the judgment, rather than from the superior court to which the judgment has been transcripted. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

EQUITABLE POWER

Even in the exercise of its equitable power, the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had no right to entertain a collateral attack on foreign judgment or to award judgment debtor a retrial of his case. Suydam v. Ameli (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 763).

Principles that equitable defense may be interposed in all actions at law, that mutual debts and claims under contract between parties to common-law action may be set off against each other and that where claim of set-off is made, judgment must be rendered for balance found due whether to plaintiff or defendant with costs, apply to landlord and tenant actions in Municipal Court in District of Columbia. Mitchell v. David (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 375).

The remedy in equity for breach of a partnership agreement is not exclusive, and there may be at law a recovery for such breach. It is only when the controversy involves an investigation and audit of accounts that resort must be had to equity. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

IDENTITY OF CLAIM

If two separate and distinct primary rights should be invaded by one and the same wrong or if a single primary right should be invaded by two distinct and separate legal wrongs, two causes of actions would result, and unless the "evidence necessary to prove one cause of action would establish the other" there is no identity of causes of action. Astor Pictures Corp. v. Shull (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 160).

JURISDICTION

Where the parties both claim title to the real estate, which is the subject of the possessory action, it is clear that the trial court has no power to decide the question of ownership. Everett v. Miller (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 399).

In a class B action involving less than $500, Municipal Court rules apply, and trial court erred in ruling that defendant waived jurisdiction by failing to raise it by motion since rules do not preclude raising any defense available; further, jurisdiction over subject matter may never be conferred by consent and may even be questioned for first time on appeal. Duvall v. Southern Municipal Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 336).

So long as a wife's action for divorce or separate maintenance was pending in District Court, the Municipal Court ought not to entertain a proceeding between the parties involving any of the issues in the District Court proceeding. Keleher v. Keleher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 638).

Jurisdiction of the subject matter may neither be assumed by a court nor conferred upon it by consent or silence, and it may be raised at any stage of the proceedings or upon appeal sua sponte. Henderson v. E Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 649).

Where, in an ordinary action for personal damages, the proof establishes that the title to realty is really in issue, the case no longer involves personal property, debt or damage, so as to come within court's expanded jurisdiction. Duvall v. Southern Municipal Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 336).

Where in a motion for summary judgment, supporting affidavits show plainly that the issue between the parties was whether defendant had good title to real estate, the court is without jurisdiction since court would have had to determine the state of the title. Cohen v. Brandt (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 853).

JURISDICTION AFTER APPEAL

When the mandate of an appellate court is filed in the lower court, that court reacquires the jurisdiction which it lost by the taking of the appeal. Pyramid National Van Lines, Inc. v. Goetze (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 693).

JURISDICTION, DISTRICT COURT DECREE

An issue of how much defendant should pay his wife for necessaries litigated in District Court was res judicata between husband and wife and that court alone had the power to reopen and modify decree. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

LAW OF THE CASE

Instructions approved by appellate court became "law of the case", and failure to give them upon retrial was error unless they were given in substance in general charge. Frazer v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 54).

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Trial judge may on his own motion require more detailed affidavits or testimony for and against motion for new trial, but failure to do so does not necessarily constitute abuse of discretion. Peay v. Parks (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 250).

One seeking a new trial must present substantial reasons for believing that an injustice has been done or that for some other good reason the circumstances entitle him to a second day in court, and it is not enough merely to suggest vague grounds for new trial. Peay v. Parks (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 250).

Where defendant moved for a new trial or for judgment notwithstanding verdict, trial court must act upon each and granting of motion for judgment is not ground for summarily denying motion for new trial. The court must indicate its reasons therefor. Crusade v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 878, see also 68 A. 2d 207).

PLEADINGS

An assertion in pleadings that plaintiff received tax deed from commissioner does not place title in issue and where intervenor did not plead irregularity in tax deed, he did not waive right to raise the question of the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court over the controversy. Duvall v. Southern Municipal Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 336).

Where subject matter of the present suit was returned after suit was filed, but prior to the filing of the answer, evidence warranted the invocation of the rule providing that when issues not raised by the pleadings are tried by express or implied consent of the parties, they shall be treated in all respects as if they had been raised by the pleadings, and failure to amend does not affect the result of these issues. Orrison v. Ferrante (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 771).

PROBATION CONDITIONED ON RESTITUTION

The Municipal Court of the District of Columbia may in its discretion order restitution or reparation as a condition of probation. Basile v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 620).

Where record was devoid of anything indicating that there was newly discovered evidence or that claimed newly discovered evidence met any of the familiar tests which would entitle defeated litigant to a new trial, refusal of motion for new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence was not an abuse of discretion. Levy v. Bryce (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 765).

PURPOSE

The real purpose of this section providing that where a judgment of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia is docketed in the District Court it becomes a judgment of the District Court, was to provide for a lien on real estate and to extend the period of limitation. Paley v. Solomon (D. C., D. C. 1945, 59 F. Supp. 887).

REMEDY AS LEGAL OR EQUITABLE

The term "personal property," within this section giving Municipal Court for District of Columbia jurisdiction of civil actions involving personal property having value less than $3,000, covers choses in action whether they are legal or equitable, and the words "civil actions" are generally held to cover both actions at law and actions in equity. Klepinger v. Rhodes, 1944 (140 F. 2d 697, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1047, 322 U. S. 734, 88 L. Ed. 1568).

The jurisdiction of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia embraces equitable as well as legal actions. Ridgley v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 45 A. 2d 475).

Representation by Counsel

Where accused made no protest or objection with respect to appointment of counsel but conferred with such counsel for some fifteen minutes prior to trial, and no request was made for further period of consultation or for continuance, accused could not complain that he was deprived of effective assistance of counsel because of short time that elapsed between appointment of counsel and time of trial, particularly where accused was free on bond for four months between time of arraignment and time of trial, during which period he and counsel of his choice had ample opportunity to prepare defense. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 700).

Where defendant had been granted four additional days in which to procure his own counsel and the trial court finally appointed an attorney with the defendant expressing no dissatisfaction, conferred with him for fifteen minutes prior to the trial and did not ask for a longer period, the defendant was not deprived of counsel of his own choice at the trial of his case. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 570, C. A. D. C. 1949, 172 F. 2d 281).

Res Judicata

Where, even assuming jurisdiction in Municipal Court, the responsibility of the husband to pay rent for wife's separate apartment has been fully presented to and decided by the District Court, and the doctrine of res judicata precluded relitigation of that issue in the Municipal Court. Keleher v. Keleher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 638).

Right of Suit

To acquire the right of suit, the plaintiff must be a direct, as distinguished from a mere incidental beneficiary because an incidental beneficiary acquires by virtue of the promise no right against the promisor or the promisee. Schwartz v. Brown (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 298).

Right to Jury Trial

In the Landlord and Tenant Branch of the Municipal Court, parties are not entitled as a matter of right to separate jury trials on what used to be called pleas and abatements and it lies within the sound discretion of the trial court to decide whether such separate jury trials shall be had. Rubenstein v. Swagart (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 690).

Right to Nonsuit

Under rule 37 (a) of the Municipal Court, plaintiffs have lost their right to a nonsuit or voluntary dismissal after defendant's answer has been filed, since beyond that point an action shall not be dismissed at the plaintiff's instance save upon order of the court and upon such terms and conditions as the court deems proper. Mercer v. Equitable Life Insurance Society (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 207).

Separate Maintenance

Municipal court has no power to compel a husband to provide funds for his wife's separate maintenance. Accordingly, judgment obtained by physician for professional services rendered to wife against husband must be dismissed. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

Wife's claim against husband for amount of rent due was in substance an action to compel the husband to provide funds for her separate maintenance over which the Municipal Court had no jurisdiction since such relief is specifically given to the District Court. Keleher v. Keleher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 638).

Splitting of Claim

A single or entire claim or demand cannot be split up and divided into separate claims and separate suits maintained for the various parts thereof. But the rule does not require that two distinct causes of actions, either of which would by itself authorize independent relief, must be presented in a single suit though they exist at the same time and might be considered together. Astor Pictures Corp. v. Shull (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 160).

Statutory Penalty

Civil Rights Act did not confer jurisdiction upon United States courts in general but in respect of actions for penalties, the act gave jurisdiction specifically to the territorial, district or circuit courts. The Municipal Court is not one of these courts and has no such jurisdiction. Henderson v. E Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 649).

Stay of Proceedings

The Municipal Court has power, under proper circumstances, to stay its own proceedings pending determination of an action in the District Court. Bradley v. Triplex Shoe Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 208).

Subpoena Duces Tecum

There is no rule in the trial court with respect to the issuance of subpoena duces tecum in criminal cases, but the practice there appears to require the approval of the court for the issuance of such a subpoena. In view of the federal rules and the trial court's own rule in civil cases, it would have been better policy to issue the subpoena and rule on the admissibility of the evidence when offered, but we find no prejudicial error in the court's refusal of such requests. Kelly v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 232).

Where appellant was convicted for violation of Code § 22–2701, it was not error for the court to refuse to issue a compulsory process for obtaining witnesses, since the rule is well established that a party is not entitled of right to a subpoena duces tecum in any form, at any time and under any circumstances and a subpoena duces tecum too indefinite in terms, too broad in scope, or untimely requested may properly be denied. Kelly v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 232).

Title to Realty

Municipal court should not reject jurisdiction unless and until it is made to appear that the title to land is necessarily directly in issue between the parties. Mindell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 340, as aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

Where plaintiff's purchase included real property at a sale under a deed of trust made by defendant to secure a debt, suit for possession must not be confused with other categories of actions in which it is claimed that title to real property is involved. Mindell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 340, as aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

United States Actions

The Municipal Court of District of Columbia does not have jurisdiction of suits brought by the United States. U. S. v. Sheriff Motor Co. (D. C., D. C. 1943, 63 F. Supp. 685).

The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had jurisdiction of action brought by the United States to recover $269.03 for rent. Ridgley v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 45 A. 2d 475).

The United States was not precluded from bringing dispossessory proceedings against tenant in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, over objection of tenant that the United States District Court for the District of Columbia had exclusive jurisdiction. Wittek v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 747; reversed 171 F. 2d 8, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 377, cert. granted 69 S. Ct. 737, 336 U. S. 931, 93 L. Ed. 1092; reversed and remanded 69 S. Ct. 1108, 337 U. S. 346, 93 L. Ed. 1406).

§ 11–756. Transfer of actions from District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia—Amount of judgment—Power to prescribe rules and procedure—Attendance of witnesses.

(a) If, in any action, other than an action for equitable relief, pending on the effective date of this subchapter or thereafter commenced in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court at any pretrial hearing thereof that the action will not justify a judgment in excess of $1,000, the court may certify such action to The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia for trial. The pleadings in such action, together with a copy of the docket entries and of any orders theretofore entered therein, shall be sent to the clerk of the said Municipal Court, together with the deposit for costs, and the case shall be called for trial in that court promptly thereafter; and shall thereafter be treated as though it had been filed originally in the said Municipal Court, except that the jurisdiction of that court shall extend to the amount claimed in such action, even though it exceed the sum of $3,000.

(b) The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia shall have the power and is hereby directed to prescribe, by rules, the forms of process, writs, pleadings and motions, and practice and procedure in such court, to provide for the efficient administration of justice, and the same shall conform as nearly as may be practicable to the forms, practice, and procedure now obtaining under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Said rules shall not abridge, enlarge, or modify the substantive rights of any litigant. After September 16, 1938, all laws in conflict therewith shall be of no further force or effect: Provided, however, That nothing in this section shall be construed to require any change in the existing rules, procedure, or practice now in effect in the small claims and conciliation branch of the presently constituted Municipal Court of the District of Columbia; nor shall this subchapter and subchapter III or any section thereof in any way repeal or modify the provisions of sections 11–801 to 11–820, establishing said small claims and conciliation branch.

(c) The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses from any part of the District of Columbia by attachment, and any judge thereof shall have the power to punish for disobedience of any order, or contempt committed in the presence of the Court by a fine not exceeding $50 or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 193, ch. 207, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

Contributory negligence is an affirmative defense and must be pleaded and proved by defendant. Gittleson v. Robinson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 635).

The defense of the statute of frauds is an affirmative defense and must be pleaded. Saunders System Washington Co. v. Kuffner (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 136).

CONDITIONS ON DISMISSAL

Rule 37 providing that after service of answer an action shall not be dismissed at plaintiff's instance save on order of the court and on such terms as the court deems proper, does not make it mandatory on the trial judge to assess counsel fees as a condition to dismissal without prejudice. Adams v. Davis (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 792).

Where plaintiffs did not know seriousness of injuries for which recovery was sought until shortly before trial in municipal court because physician who had treated injuries could not previously be located because he was in the navy, plaintiffs' motion to dismiss the action without prejudice was granted without requiring plaintiffs to pay defendants' counsel fees as a condition of the dismissal. Adams v. Davis (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 792).

CONTEMPT

Where an attorney for accused during trial publishes a document containing highly derogatory assertions regarding trial judge's alleged relations to trial and his alleged conduct of the trial and which is in effect a public profession of contempt for the judge's character, attorney should ask to be excused from trial. Laughlin v. Eicher, 1944 (145 F. 2d 700, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 266, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1403, 325 U. S. 866, 89 L. Ed. 1985).

Where during trial and in open court attorney accused trial judge of gross and habitual misconduct in the trial, the attorney's conduct was contempt in court's presence and justified order dismissing attorney from the trial. Laughlin v. Eicher (App. D. C. 1944, 145 F. 2d 700).

A defendant may be adjudged in contempt for failure to pay permanent alimony awarded in a final judgment for absolute divorce. Tilghman v. Tilghman (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 417).

A court, once having acquired jurisdiction over person of defendant, is empowered to enter a contempt order, notwithstanding defendant's absence from jurisdiction, provided he received notice of the motion. Tilghman v. Tilghman (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 417).

To call another a liar in the presence of the court and while the court is in session amounts to contempt of court. An attorney, as an officer of the court, must behave with propriety in the courtroom. In re Chaifetz (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 228).

Due process of law in the prosecution of contempt, except where committed in open court, requires that the accused be advised of the charges and have a reasonable opportunity to meet them by way of defense or explanation. In re Chaifetz (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 228).

Where contempt would be civil in nature, the rule is that action on such a matter is not reversible unless an abuse of discretion is made to appear. Daime v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 611).

COMPLIANCE WITH PROCESS

A court will not condone a wilful or negligent disregard of court process, rules or orders. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

COUNTERCLAIMS

Whether claim asserted in District of Columbia Municipal Court action actually constituted compulsory counterclaim to suit in District Court of United States for District of Columbia was question for District Court, since such question involved interpretation of District Court's own rules. Kaplowitz Bros. v. Kahan (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 795).

Defendant's argument that, under rules of the Municipal Court, his claim constituted a compulsory counterclaim which would be waived if not pleaded in the Municipal Court action, is unfounded since the Municipal Court could not change or enlarge its jurisdiction by a rule. Hillyard v. Kline (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 759).

It is clear that in an action for earned freight charges, a counterclaim for cargo damages is a compulsory counterclaim under court rules. Pyramid National Van Lines, Inc. v. Goetz (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 693).

Defendant's Statement Before Sentence

Where accused, conducting his own defense, testified fully and argued his position exhaustively, he was not deprived of any substantial right by failure to afford him the opportunity to make a statement before sentence was pronounced as accorded him by Rule 12 (a) of the Criminal Division of the Municipal Court. Savage v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 562, affirmed, 1948, 169 F. 2d 889, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 401, certiorari denied, 69 S. Ct. 654, 336 U. S. 924, 93 L. Ed. 1086, rehearing denied, 69 S. Ct. 810, 336 U. S. 947, 93 L. Ed. 1103).

Depositions

Municipal court has no general authority to award counsel fees or traveling expenses incurred by counsel to attend taking of deposition in another city on notice of opposing party, in absence of specific statutory authority or court rule having statutory force and effect. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Where counsel served notice that deposition would be taken in another city and on assurance that witness would attend failed to serve subpoena but witness, because of emergency surgical operation, was unable to attend and would not have done so even under subpoena, opposite party was not entitled under municipal court rule to attorney's fees and expenses for attendance at time and place stated in notice. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Directed Verdict

The practice of submitting cases to the jury and reserving determination of questions of law raised on motion for a directed verdict, so that if the Municipal Court of Appeals disagrees with the trial court's ruling on motion for directed verdict, the jury's verdict can be reinstated without necessity for a new trial, is commendable. Resnick v. Wolf & Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 809).

Question of whether accident was proximately caused by negligence of appellee's driver and question of appellee's contributory negligence, was sufficiently in issue and directed verdict may not be granted in a case of this nature unless reasonable men could arrive at but one verdict. Wohlstetter v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 797).

Dismissal

The municipal court, after hearing evidence and taking case under advisement, was authorized to make finding for either plaintiffs or defendant, had discretion to reopen case for purpose of taking further testimony respecting plaintiffs' damages, and could have suggested to plaintiffs advisability of taking voluntary nonsuit, but was not authorized to order dismissal of case without prejudice, in absence of plaintiffs' consent.—Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 58 A. 2d 493).

Dismissal of cause without prejudice on ground that plaintiff has shown no right to relief after he has completed presentation of his evidence has effect of involuntary nonsuit, but such dismissal after completion of evidence on both sides and submission of case for decision is not authorized by municipal court rules.—Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 493).

Municipal Court Rule 37, providing that an action shall not be dismissed at plaintiff's insistence save on order of court, was not applicable in suit by landlord to recover leased premises, and municipal court was governed by general practice which existed prior to adoption of municipal court rules, and which permitted plaintiff to dismiss his action at any time prior to verdict, since Rule 10 of the Landlord and Tenant Branch which makes applicable to that branch of the court certain general civil rules, does not include the Municipal Court Rule 37 dealing with voluntary dismissal by plaintiff.—Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

Duty of Court

A party to a cause of action is entitled to have his theory submitted to jury when supported by evidence and pleadings, and the court has duty to submit all such issues, both affirmative and negative. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 45 A. 2d 757).

In a case tried by the court without a jury, the court has the duty to rule upon requested and pertinent questions of law. Eggleton v. Vaughn (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 362).

The trial court not only has the power but also the duty to set aside a verdict which is grossly and capriciously excessive. Failure to do so will constitute reversible error. Munsey v. Safeway Stores (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 598).

Examination and Cross-Examination

Where trial court erroneously ruled that defendant was bound by testimony of plaintiff when plaintiff was called for cross-examination by defendant, but before conclusion of trial announced that it would not treat testimony of witness as binding, defendant could not be deemed prejudiced thereby. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

Under court rule providing that party may call, interrogate and impeach adverse party in all respects as if he had been called by adverse party, defendant was not bound by testimony of plaintiff when plaintiff was called for cross-examination by defendant. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

Federal Laws

28 U. S. C. § 632 providing that the failure of a defendant in a criminal case to testify shall not create any presumption against him applies to prosecution in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia since there is no local statute on the subject. Brooks v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 339).

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., do not control the practice in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, and, although this section authorized that court to prescribe court rules, the existing rules prevail until adoption of new rules. Yellow Cab Co. of D. C. v. Rogers (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 36).

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C. do not control practice in the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. Werth v. Nolan (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 386, reversed on other grounds 142 F. 2d 9, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 33).

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C., are inapplicable to Municipal Court for District of Columbia. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

Rules of United States District Court for District of Columbia do not govern practice of Municipal Courts for District of Columbia. Coates v. Ellis (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 28).

Findings

Under Municipal Court rule providing for the entry of judgment on the fifth day after verdict or finding by the court and that if a motion for new trial or for judgment notwithstanding the verdict has been filed forthwith upon the ruling of the court on such motion, "finding" means a general finding or decision of the court which ripens into a judgment on the fifth day in the absence of the filing of a motion. Rice v. Simmons (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 587).

Municipal Court Rule 37 (b) authorizing defendant to move for dismissal of action on ground that plaintiff has shown no right to relief on facts and law after plaintiff completes presentation of his evidence, does not give such court power to make fact findings at conclusion of plaintiff's case, but such findings should await conclusion of entire evidence. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

INSTRUCTIONS

Where defendant's counsel twice objected to prosecutor's statement in presence of jury that defendant had not testified and was directed by court to proceed, prosecutor's statement was improper and was not cured by instruction after argument that defendant's failure to take the stand should not be taken against him and that jury should not speculate as to reason for such failure. Brooks v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d. 339).

The trial court does not have duty to recast a misleading instruction requested by accused in a criminal case. Davenport v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 851).

Police officers who, though privately employed, are engaged in keeping law and order in a public place, are neither informers nor detectives engaged in the business of spying for hire and are not the type of witnesses whose testimony the court must instruct shall be received with caution. Davenport v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 209, appeal denied, 180 F. 2d 909).

JOINDER OF CLAIMS

Parties asserting claims arising out of the same transaction or occurrence may join claims in one action under Municipal Court rule. National City Development Co. v. McFerran (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 342).

JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

Under rule 46 (b) of the Municipal Court, a motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict cannot be granted unless as a matter of law the opponent of the movant failed to make a case and therefore a verdict in movant's favor should have been directed. McSweeney v. Wilson (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 469).

Granting of new trial is addressed to sound discretion of trial judge. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Under Municipal Court rule 46 (b), a motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict can be entertained only where party making it has at trial moved for a directed verdict. Snyder v. Thorniley (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 316).

LAW GOVERNING

Where there was a conflict between Landlord and Tenant Rule 6 and § 11–737 dealing with costs in a summary proceeding, § 11–737 would prevail. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

LAW OF THE CASE

Where on appeal in an action for abuse of civil process, summary judgment was granted in favor of the defendant, and the action originally filed in the District Court was transferred to the Municipal Court, this jurisdiction requires a final judgment to sustain the application of the rule of the law of the case. The procedural rights and duties of the litigant are governed by the municipal court rules from the time of filing of the case in that court. Davis v. Boyle Brothers (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 517).

MINUTE ENTRIES

Under rule 48 of Municipal Court stating that action by the court shall be evidenced by a minute entry, the entry is not a condition of the effectiveness of the court's action. Conrad v. Medina (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 562).

NEW TRIAL

The municipal court's finding, at completion of both parties' evidence, that plaintiff failed to prove amount of damages to which he was entitled, but might supply sufficient evidence to substantiate his claim on new trial, and that, consequently, action was dismissed without prejudice, did not order new trial, especially as such order would have been improper at that stage of case. Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 493).

MOTIONS IN NON-JURY ACTIONS

A motion by defendant for directed verdict at conclusion of plaintiff's case in action tried by court without jury is improper, but proper procedure is to move for finding for defendant, and law questions to be decided at conclusion of all evidence should be raised by request for rulings of law, not by motion for directed verdict. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

NOTICE OF ENTRY

Rule 66 (e) of the Municipal Court providing for notice immediately upon the entry of an order or judgment signed or decided out of the presence of parties or their counsel was not applicable where the judgment was pronounced in the presence of the parties and their counsel. Conrad v. Medina (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 562).

NOTICE OF HEARING

Notice by defendant to plaintiff's counsel of the taking of plaintiff's deposition by oral examination was sufficient without resort to a subpoena to secure plaintiff's attendance at deposition hearing, since notice to attorney was notice to plaintiff. Parker v. Hot Shoppes (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 657).

PERMISSIVE JOINDER OF PARTIES

Where subsection (b) of this section directed Municipal Court to prescribe rules conforming as nearly as might be practicable to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following section 723c of 28 U. S. C., proviso not appearing in Rule 20 (a) following section 723c of 28 U. S. C. but inserted in Municipal Court Rule 20 (a) relating to permissive joinder of parties, to effect that total amount claimed must not exceed court's jurisdiction, was invalid as constituting an attempt to limit court's jurisdiction. Taylor v. Yellow Cab Co. of D. C. (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 691).

QUESTIONS FOR COURT

The trial judge could not consider weight or credibility of evidence and render judgment for defendant after plaintiff rested his case, without requiring defendants to introduce their evidence, as there was then no fact question before judge, but only law question of legal sufficiency of plaintiff's case. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

REAL PARTY IN INTEREST

Where leases were assigned to manager of building as landlord under express instructions of owners of building, in light of this section giving landlord right to sue for possession and in light of holding that manager was real landlord, manager was "real party in interest" within meaning of rule 17a restricting right to maintain suit to real party in interest. Koehne v. Harvey (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 780).

REMAND

District of Columbia Municipal Court cannot remand cases to District Court of United States for District of Columbia even though it might seem in the interests of justice so to do. Kaplowitz Bros. v. Kahan (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 795).

REOPENING CASE

In action by mother against purchaser of rooming house and rooming house business owned by her daughters to recover value of goods and services claimed by purchaser to have been included in sales price, where court found upon ample evidence that purchaser had agreed to buy disputed items but that no sales price had been agreed upon, court could properly reopen case of its own motion after both sides had rested and case had been taken under advisement to admit evidence as to value of goods notwithstanding mother's case had been based on theory of account stated. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

Motion to reopen case to receive testimony of additional witnesses is addressed to sound discretion of trial judge. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

Where trial court refused to order official reporter and requested that stenographer employed by appellant write up testimony for court at conclusion of two different sessions of trial practice, though not to be approved, could not be deemed reversible error since appellee was not a party to court's action and was not to be prejudiced thereby. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

Where outcome of case was not affected by refusal of trial judge to order proceedings reported by one of court's official reporters when requested to do so by defendants, and defendants were not harmed by judge's action except to extent that amount they paid to private reporter was greater than that which an official reporter would have charged, defendants had no ground to complain, since such expenditures were not taxable as costs. Premier Poultry Co. v. Wm. Bornstein & Son (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 632).

Where trial court refused to provide an official stenographer at government's expense to report argument on motion for new trial, court did not abuse discretion where it appeared that the motion was one with which the judge was already familiar and where the proceedings consisted only of legal argument usually unnecessary to report. Campbell v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 191).

RULES OF COURT

Although this section authorized Municipal Court for District of Columbia to prescribe court rules, existing rules would prevail until adoption of new rules. Werth v. Nolan (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 386, reversed on other grounds 142 F. 2d 9).

In construing Municipal Court Rule based on Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C., Municipal Court of Appeals must give due and careful consideration to federal cases, but must keep clearly in mind different practices in two jurisdictions and avoid such construction of rule as to produce too great departure from established traditions and practice peculiar to Municipal Court. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

Where in a suit for possession of real estate, the tenants desired to contest service of process and filed a motion to quash service and demanded jury trial on factual issues raised by such motion and another jury trial on the merits of the case if the issues of the motion were lost, trial judge correctly ruled that it is in the discretion of the court to order that jury trials upon the motion be deferred until the trial on the merits. Rubenstein v. Swagart (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 690).

It is the policy of the court to give defendant an opportunity to present his case, and court is prone to adopt a liberal attitude in dealing with default judgment when satisfied of the good faith of the applicant. Such relief is remedial and should be liberally construed. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

STATEMENT OF CLAIM

If a party is in doubt as to how evidence will develop, he may under rule of Municipal Court set forth two or more statements of his claim alternatively or hypothetically, either in one count or separate counts. Etty v. Federal Consulting Service (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 692).

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS

Where first party sued second party for personal injuries in District Court, and after filing of that complaint, but before service of process, second party filed independent action against first party in Municipal Court for property damages sustained in same collision, Municipal Court had power to stay proceedings until claims of both parties had finally been determined in District Court though it had no right to dismiss second action even if without prejudice. Coates v. Ellis (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 28).

SUMMARY JUDGMENT

The Municipal Court Rule relating to summary judgment is substantially the same as Rule 56 following section 723c of 28 U. S. C. which has been construed as authorizing summary judgment only where the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law, where it is quite clear what the truth is and no genuine issue remains for trial. McConchie v. Realty Associates (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 862).

In motion for summary judgment, it is not enough for an affiant to state that he has personal knowledge of the facts but he must state facts in detail showing that he has personal knowledge. The burden of establishing the non-existence of any genuine issue is upon the moving party. Schwartz v. Sandidge (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 869).

THIRD PARTY PRACTICE

Where third party defendants were not served with notices of the motion for summary judgment, such a defendant was deprived of no rights by such failure to serve notice and cannot complain; and court properly exercised its discretion in passing on the motion. Schwartz v. Sandidge (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 869).

Under rules governing third party practice, the broker and third party defendant had the right to assert defenses to the purchaser's claim against the seller. Murphy v. O'Donnell (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 340).

VACATING DEFAULT

Allowance or refusal of a motion to set aside a default is within the discretion of the Trial Court but such discretion implies conscientious judgment which takes into account the law, the particular circumstances and competing considerations. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

There is nothing in the record indicating lack of good faith, or a showing of wilful disregard or contempt of the process. Although appellant was served only five days before return date, he acted with reasonable diligence after realizing his default and was in court less than twenty days after he was served with a prima facie defense. Reversal of a default judgment was justified. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

VARIANCE

Under rules of municipal court, a variance between pleading and proof is "material" where it is of a character to take the adversary by surprise and mislead him in the prosecution of his cause of action or defense. Etty v. Federal Consulting Service (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 692).

There was no "fatal variance" between complaint alleging that defendant wrongfully withheld from plaintiff a sum of money representing a portion of funds which came into defendant's hands for distribution to plaintiff, and proof tending to show that defendant engaged plaintiff to assist defendant in making a sale of steel and agreed to pay plaintiff a sum equal to one-half of commission received by defendant, that through plaintiff's efforts the sale was made, and that defendant received her commission but refused to pay plaintiff the full sum agreed on. Etty v. Federal Consulting Service (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 692).

SUBCHAPTER III.—THE MUNICIPAL COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CROSS REFERENCES

Prior provisions covering this subject matter, see §§ 11–601 to 11–626 and §§ 11–701 to 11–749.

§ 11–771. Creation—Court of record—Seal—Judges—Number — Appointments — Qualifications — Tenure—Salaries—Oath—Disability—Clerk—Appointment and tenure—Duties—Salary—Other employees—Salaries.

There is hereby established and created an intermediate appellate court for the District of Columbia to be known as "The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia", for the hearing of appeals from judgments and orders of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia as established by subchapter I, and of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, as hereinafter provided.

The court shall adopt and have a seal, and shall be a court of record.

The said court shall consist of three judges appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and one of whom shall be designated by the President as chief judge.

No person other than a bona fide resident of the area consisting of the District of Columbia; Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland; Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia; and the city of Alexandria, Virginia, and maintaining an actual place of abode in such area for at least five years immediately prior to his appointment, or who shall have been a judge of one of the courts of the District of Columbia, shall be appointed a judge of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Further, all appointees shall have been actively engaged in the practice of the law in the District of Columbia for a period of at least five years immediately prior to their appointment. Service during the present emergency in the armed forces of the United States shall be included in the computation of the five-year requirements herein specified.

The chief judge shall be appointed for a term of ten years and the associate judges shall be appointed initially for terms of eight and six years each.

Subsequent appointments and reappointments to this court shall be for a term of ten years each. All judges shall continue in office until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. Each judge shall be subject to removal only in the manner and for the same causes as are now or hereafter provided for the removal of Federal judges. The salary of the chief judge shall be $14,500 per annum and that of each associate judge shall be $14,000 per annum. Each judge, when appointed, shall take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States. In the event of the absence, disability, or disqualification of any judge of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, or in the event of a vacancy in the office of any such judge, the chief judge of said court may designate and assign any judge of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia to act temporarily as a judge of said court. Likewise the chief judge, whenever he finds it in the public interest to do so, may designate and assign any judge of said Municipal Court of Appeals to act temporarily as a judge of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. In the event of the absence, disability, or disqualification of the chief judge of said court, his powers shall be exercised by that judge of said court next in seniority according to the date of commission.

The said court shall appoint and remove a clerk who shall exercise the same powers and perform the same duties in regard to all matters within the jurisdiction of the court as are exercised and performed by the clerk of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, so far as the same may be applicable, and his compensation shall be fixed by the court in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674). The clerk of the court, subject to the approval of the chief judge, shall have authority to appoint and remove such deputy clerks and such other employees as he may deem necessary, and to have their compensation fixed by the chief judge in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674), and shall have supervision and direction over them, except clerks serving the respective judges, who shall be appointed and removed from office by the respective judges, their compensation to be fixed by the respective judges in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, §§ 661–663, 664–673, and 674). (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 194, ch. 207, § 6; July 28, 1949, 63 Stat. 483, ch. 369, § 3; Oct. 25, 1949, 63 Stat. 887, ch. 706, § 2.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of July 28, 1949, cited to text, increased the salary of the chief judge from $9,500 to $14,500, and of each associate judge from $9,000 to $14,500.

The act of Oct. 25, 1949, cited to text, changed the residence qualifications for judges by striking out the words "bona fide resident of the District of Columbia and maintaining an actual place of abode therein" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "bona fide resident of the area consisting of the District of Columbia; Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland; Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia; and the city of Alexandria, Virginia, and maintaining an actual place of abode in such area".

§ 11–772. Right to appeal—Final order or judgment—Interlocutory orders—Appeals to United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia—Procedure—Printing of record or briefs on appeal—Scope of review—Retroactive effect.

(a) Any party aggrieved by any final order or judgment of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, as created by subchapter I, or of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, may appeal therefrom as of right to The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Appeals may also be taken to said court as of right from all interlocutory orders of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia whereby the possession of property is changed or affected such as orders dissolving writs of attachment and the like: Provided, however, That reviews of judgments of the small claims and conciliation branch of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, and reviews of judgments in the criminal branch of the court where the penalty imposed is less than $50, shall be by application for the allowance of an appeal, filed in said Municipal Court of Appeals. Said application shall be on a standard form, in simple language, prescribed by The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia. When the appealing party is not represented by counsel, it shall be the duty of the clerk to prepare the application in his behalf. The application for appeal shall be filed in The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia within three days from the date of judgment. It shall be promptly presented by the clerk to the chief judge and to each of the associate judges for their consideration. If they or any one of them are of the opinion that the appeal should be allowed, the appeal shall be recorded as granted, and the case set down for hearing on appeal, and given a preferred status on the calendar, and heard in the same manner as other appeals in said court. If the chief judge and both associate judges shall be of the opinion that an appeal should be denied, such denial shall stand as an affirmance of the judgment of the trial court, from which there shall be no further appeal.

After the effective date of this subchapter, no writs of error or appeals, except in respect of judgments theretofore rendered, shall be granted by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to the said Municipal Court or to the said Juvenile Court.

(b) The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have the power to prescribe by rules what parts of the proceedings in the court below shall constitute the record on appeal, and to require that the original papers be sent to it instead of copies thereof, and generally to regulate all matters relating to appeals, whether in the court below or in said The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

(c) The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall not require the record or briefs on appeal to be printed, and if they are printed, the cost of printing shall not be taxed as costs in the case. Said court shall review the record on appeal and shall affirm, reverse, or modify the order or judgment in accordance with law. If the issues of fact shall have been tried by jury, The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall review the case only as to matters of law. If the case shall have been tried without a jury, The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have the power to review both as to the facts and the law, but in such case the judgment of the trial court shall not be set aside except for errors of law or unless it appears that the judgment is plainly wrong or without evidence to support it.

(d) This section shall not apply to any judgments rendered prior to the effective date of this subchapter. (Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 195, ch. 207, § 7.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia cannot extend language of statute so as to include a class of appeals which Congress plainly did not intend to be within court's jurisdiction. Brown v. Randle & Garvin (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 104).

The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has no power to entertain special appeals nor discretionary power with reference to interlocutory orders. Brown v. Randle & Garvin (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 104).

An unsuccessful party cannot reinvest himself with a lost right of appeal by moving to set aside the judgment and grant new trial. Crowley v. Wood (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 861).

Generally, applications for allowance of appeal from judgment of Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of Municipal Court of District of Columbia are allowed only when there is a showing of apparent error or a question of law which has not been, but should be, decided by Municipal Court of Appeals. Ionescue v. Dettmers (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 287); American Storage Co. v. Briggs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 557).

In brokers' action against restaurant owners for commissions for attempted sale of restaurant, agreement between restaurant owners and prospective buyers for sale of business, subsequent to trial and subsequent to submission of case on appeal, could not affect decision of reviewing court. Young v. De Vito (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 558).

AFFIRMANCE

The Municipal Court of Appeals is entitled to affirm a decision which it believes correct, even though the reasons given for the decision by the trial court are erroneous. Plant v. Plant (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 204).

ALLOWANCE OF APPEAL

Where application for leave to appeal from judgment of Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of Municipal Court merely stated that court denied defendant right to present a complete defense without any facts to support the conclusion, application would be denied. American Storage Co. v. Briggs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 557).

ALTERNATIVE PENALTIES

That the penalty imposed was $25 or 30 days did not take case out of this section requiring application for allowance of appeal where penalty imposed was less than $50, since the alternative of imprisonment may be avoided by payment of the fine. Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

APPEALABLE ISSUES

Where defendant motor carrier by a motion to quash service of process raised question of jurisdiction of Municipal Court for the District of Columbia because of service on a person allegedly not authorized to accept service of process, defendant could participate in trial on merits and preserve right to present question on appeal. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

A finding or verdict on sharply conflicting evidence presents no reviewable issue on appeal. McKenna v. Wilcox (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 303).

Government's contention that because a fine was suspended, there was no final sentence from which an appeal may be taken, is erroneous. Smith v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 766).

The unauthorized suspension of execution of sentence did not take away appellant's right of appeal. The court had the power to impose the sentence and the void suspension did not void the sentence. Ziegler v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 618).

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS

Where record contained a full stenographic report of proceedings and testimony, Municipal Court of Appeals overlooked violation of its rules and considered various points argued in brief but which were not specifically assigned as error. Watwood v. Potomac Chemical Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 728).

Assignment of errors must be specific and must be filed prior to filing proposed statement of proceedings and evidence. Lee v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 250).

Appellants' failure to file a statement of errors, was a breach of rules. Hoover v. Babcock (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 591).

In Municipal Court's statement of proceedings and evidence, recital of evidence was surplusage when not called for by any of the errors assigned by appealing defendants, and could not establish trial court's lack of jurisdiction. Brooks v. Trigg (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 302).

Where alleged ruling by trial judge refusing to direct verdict for plaintiff did not appear in stenographic transcript or in record and there was neither written prayer for preemptory instruction nor verbal request therefor, plaintiffs could not predicate assignment of error on a refusal to direct a verdict. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Where appellant assigned part of the judgment as error but did not mention it in his brief, the court would consider the assignment of error as abandoned and hence would not reach it. Consumers Credit Service v. Craig (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 525).

Contention that the trial court should not have believed the testimony of prosecuting witness but should have believed appellant's testimony is not subject to review as an assignment of error. Cohen v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 854).

Burden of Proof

It is well established that proof of delivery of goods and failure of bailee to retain them makes out a prima facie case for plaintiff, even in the case of gratuitous bailment. Where defendant offered no explanation or justification for his loss but did offer proof regarding care of a car in his possession, burden of proof was not shifted to defendant but remained always with plaintiff presenting a question of fact for determination by the trial court. Firestone Tire and Rubber Company v. Billow, To the Use of American Automobile Insurance Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 338).

In a suit against an attorney for negligence, the plaintiff must prove three things in order to recover: The attorney's employment, his neglect of a reasonable duty, and his negligence as the proximate cause of the loss to the client. Niosi v. Aiello (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 69 A. 2d 57).

The general rule that the burden of proof in its true sense remains throughout the trial upon the party who affirms is not to be limited in application where the facts as to a given issue are solely or peculiarly within the knowledge of one party, although authorities may be found which seemingly place upon this party the burden of proving such facts, Lang v. F. G. Arwood and Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 194).

In an insured's action on a policy insuring against any loss arising from any cause whatsoever, with certain exceptions, the burden of proving that the loss comes within the exception rests on the insurer. Lang v. F. G. Arwood and Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 194).

Change in Law

A change in the law between a nisi prius and an appellate decision requires reviewing court to apply changed law. Cosby v. Shoemaker (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 27).

Where landlord made no motion for mistrial after objecting to opening statement of tenants' counsel that landlord's action to recover possession of premises was not brought in good faith and was motivated by dispute over an increase in rent, claim that court erred in overruling such objection could not be considered. Daly v. Scala (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 478).

Save in exceptional cases, appellate court can review only points specifically brought to attention of and ruled upon by trial court. Lee v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 250).

Objection to instruction presented for first time in appellate court was too late. Collins v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 515).

Conclusiveness of Findings

The Municipal Court of Appeals cannot disturb a verdict if it is supported by substantial evidence. De Bobula v. Coppedge (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 255).

Ultimate findings of fact of a trial court, if reached upon an application of erroneous legal standards, are not binding upon the appellate court. Zis v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 65).

Generally, negligence is a matter of fact to be determined by trial court, and if supported by substantial evidence its determination cannot be reviewed on appeal, and the same principle applies to contributory negligence. Eclov v. Dalton (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 661).

Findings of trial judge, supported by substantial evidence, cannot be disturbed. Ferranti v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 116).

The Municipal Court of Appeals is not at liberty to set aside trial judge's findings of fact unless they are clearly erroneous. Goldberg v. Roumel (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 790).

Where the Municipal Court of Appeals could not say that the evidence as a whole was such as to justify holding that trial judge was plainly wrong in deciding for plaintiff on his claim, the judgment would be affirmed. Rossiter v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 540).

Where evidence was such that either of two different conclusions might reasonably have been drawn therefrom and Municipal Court of Appeals could not say with conviction that trial judge's finding was plainly wrong or without evidence to support it, judgment could not be disturbed. Little v. Dilling (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 371).

In action for legal services rendered to defendant charged with sedition, wherein evidence was in conflict on essential issues whether plaintiff had agreed to act without compensation, whether agreement extended beyond beginning of trial, whether arrangement required plaintiff to certify to affidavit of prejudice, and whether plaintiff actually performed services entitling him to compensation, trial judge's finding for defendant could not be disturbed. Little v. Dilling (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 371).

Where municipal court judge in a case without a jury first made a general finding for plaintiff and then on defendant's motion entered judgment for defendant, findings of trial court could not be treated as conclusive on appeal. Rice v. Simmons (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 587).

Where municipal court judge found that garage operator was negligent in failing to lock customer's automobile which was placed overnight in lot without a watchman, but that such negligence was not the proximate cause of injury to another parked automobile which was run into by one who had stolen such unlocked automobile, such findings of fact could not be disturbed on appeal. Eesley v. Dottellis (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 564).

On appeal from judgment of conviction, appellate court cannot reweigh evidence or override trial court's fact findings, unless judgment is plainly wrong or without evidential support, though government produced only one witness, whose testimony contained elements of weakness and contradictions and two witnesses testified for defense. Filippone v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 565).

General finding of trial court on factual issue cannot be overridden on appeal if there is sufficient evidence in the record, together with inferences to be fairly drawn therefrom to sustain the finding. Hollingsworth v. Rieffer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 199).

Rarely is expert testimony as to value binding on the trier of the facts and it is never binding when inconsistent with other evidence. Urciolo v. Sachs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 308).

Ruling of trial court on question of knowledge by plaintiff of liability printed on claim check is one of fact, and cannot be disturbed where there is sufficient evidence to support it. Lucas v. Auto City Parking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 557).

Court has no right to substitute its own judgment as to how the case should have been decided on the facts. Goldberg v. Stouck (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 785).

The evidence clearly presented questions of fact as to negligence and contributory negligence. In such case, the findings of the trial court must stand. Shipp v. Weaver (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 925).

Trial court's findings are to be accepted if supported by evidence or are not plainly wrong. Rogers v. Cox (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 776).

A trial judge may not find the absence of negligence or contributory negligence as matter of law unless the evidence is so clear as to be beyond question. Wohlstetter v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 797).

The weight of the evidence is a question for the trier of the facts and a finding of fact supported by substantial evidence cannot be set aside on appeal. Cohen v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 854).

CONTINUANCE

Generally, postponement or continuance of trial is within discretion of trial court, and its action will not be disturbed on appeal except for an abuse of discretion. Boyer v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 247, reversed on other grounds 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202, 166 A. L. R. 209).

Where illness of defendant prevented trial, motion for continuance rests in sound discretion of the Trial Court and is not subject to reversal, unless discretion is abused or not in accordance with fixed legal principles. Etty v. Middleton (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 371).

COSTS

The question whether intervenor in summary proceedings by landlord against tenant for possession of realty, was entitled to judgment for cost of stenographic transcript when landlord took a voluntary nonsuit, was a matter for the trial court, and until the trial court passed specifically on that question, the Municipal Court of Appeals had nothing to review. Schwaner v. George (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 161).

Where costs consisted of a charge for the reporter's transcript of the trial, they must be disallowed since such charges under the rules are not recoverable as costs. Holmes v. Floyd E. Davis Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 212).

Usage and practice, as well as statutory law, determine whether the cost of a bond is taxable and it was not error to disallow a bond premium as a taxable cost. Thompson v. Clark (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 166).

An unusual item of expense, such as the cost of a reporter's transcript, cannot properly be taxed as costs either by the Municipal Court or the Municipal Court of Appeals. In the absence of express statutory authority, attorney's fees are not taxable as costs nor are expenses incurred in attempting to take the deposition of plaintiff in advance of trial. Thompson v. Clark (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 166).

Counsel fees may be awarded as a condition of the vacating of the judgment of the garnishee, and the rule that, in the absence of statutory authority, attorneys' fees are not taxable as costs has no application since the payment of counsel fees is not imposed as costs but as a condiiton to obtaining relief to which the party is not entitled as a matter of right. Bridgett v. Perpetual Building Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 780).

DIRECTED VERDICT

Defendant having proceeded with submission of its own evidence after denial of its motion for directed verdict at close of plaintiff's case was precluded from seeking review of such action on appeal. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed, (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

Defendant who introduced evidence waived her right to complain of court's refusal to direct a verdict at close of plaintiff's case. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

The trial court is not justified in directing a verdict where there is substantial evidence upon which jury may base a conviction. Collins v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 515).

On appeal from judgment on verdict directed for defendants, Municipal Court of Appeals was required to consider as admitted, every fact in evidence that tended to sustain plaintiff's case together with every inference reasonably deducible therefrom. Resnick v. Wolf & Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 809).

The practice of submitting cases to the jury and reserving determination of questions of law raised on motion for a directed verdict, so that if the Municipal Court of Appeals disagrees with the trial court's ruling on motion for directed verdict, the jury's verdict can be reinstated without necessity for a new trial, is commendable. Resnick v. Wolf & Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 809).

Failure to interpose motion for directed verdict at close of all testimony and secure ruling thereon precludes party from questioning sufficiency of evidence on appeal. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

On appeal from judgment on directed verdict for defendants, evidence of plaintiffs was taken in light most favorable to plaintiffs. Young v. De Vito (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 558); Snyder v. Thorniley (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 316).

Directed verdict in favor of the District was proper where there was no evidence showing that defendant's automobile ran through a depression and collided with plaintiff's automobile in road maintained by the District. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 62 A. 2d 551).

The Municipal Court should use more frequently special verdicts as authorized by court rules in multiple controversies or complicated situations for such procedure tends to produce better defined issues of fact, better focused legal questions, and clearer and safer results. Bill's Auto Rental, Inc. v. Bonded Taxi Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 254).

Court may set aside a verdict supported by substantial evidence where in its opinion it is contrary to the weight of the evidence, or is based upon evidence which is false. Even though the evidence be sufficient to preclude the direction of a verdict, it is still duty of the appellate court to exercise such power to prevent miscarriage of justice. Capital Transit Co. v. Crusade (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 207).

A defendant does not lose his right to make a motion for a directed verdict in his favor even though he has himself offered evidence. Such a party is entitled to make such a motion even though he has made his opening statement. Niosi v. Aiello (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 69 A. 2d 57).

DISCRETION OF COURT

A ruling refusing new trial will not be disturbed except for an abuse of discretion. District Hauling & Construction Co. v. Argerakis (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 31).

The right of appeal is a statutory right, and Municipal Court of Appeals has no discretion to entertain appeals not taken in accordance with this section requiring application for allowance of appeal where penalty is less than $50, nor can language of this section be extended. Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

Ordinarily, the denial of motion for new trial is nonappealable, but refusal to grant new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence may be ground for reversal where an abuse of discretion appears, since newly discovered evidence does not appear on the record supporting judgment and the only possibility for review of the ruling lies in appeal from denial of motion for new trial. Hamilton v. U. S., 1944 (140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316, reversing 31 A. 2d 887).

Where accused was convicted in the morning for offense committed the night before, trial court abused its discretion in denying motion for new trial for newly discovered evidence when court indulged in hypothetical interpretation of statement of newly discovered evidence in affidavit in order to make it consistent with testimony it was intended to rebut. Hamilton v. U. S., 1944 (140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316, reversing 31 A. 2d 887).

The granting of a mistrial because of prejudicial newspaper publicity is within sound discretion of trial judge. Sherman v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 556).

The question whether trial should continue on without a recess past the dinner hour is a matter in the realm of discretion of trial judge. Shapiro v. Vautier (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 349).

Whether a jury shall be permitted to view premises is discretionary with trial court and its action thereon is reviewable only for abuse. Coleman v. Chudnow (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 925).

Whether testimony shall be received on motion for new trial is largely in discretion of trial court and except in clear cases action of trial court in such matters ought not to be disturbed. Coleman v. Chudnow (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 925).

Whether discretion to grant or refuse a continuance is abused depends upon whether it is exercised in the furtherance of justice, and, if it serves to delay or defeat justice, it may well be deemed an "abuse of discretion". Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia does not have discretionary power to entertain special appeals from interlocutory orders. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

Under civil rule 53 (b), authorizing trial court to grant relief from judgment entered against party through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect, ordinarily that is a matter in trial court's discretion and is not reviewable. Barnes v. Conner (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 925).

Where defendant had made clear to court and to plaintiff that defendant intended to defend the case, continuance of one day was granted, court's alleged intention that defendant should file his papers prior to call of next day's calendar was not clearly expressed and defendant filed his affidavit of defense and demand for jury trial a few hours after default was entered, refusal to vacate default was an abuse of discretion. Barnes v. Conner (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 925).

Rules limiting time for various steps on appeal in the Municipal Court of Appeals were not adopted for the convenience of the court but in the interest of an orderly and expeditious appellate procedure as prescribed by the Congress. Karika v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 93).

The refusal of a new trial may not be reviewed on appeal unless there is clear abuse of discretion. Brown v. Haas (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 39).

Trial court did not commit error when, after the jury had retired, it gave further instructions at jury's request as to what constituted a trespass and refused plaintiff's counsel's request for additional instructions on the ground that such instructions would only confuse the jury. Munsey v. Safeway Stores (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 598).

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by not reinstating a second action on the mere showing that plaintiff's counsel through inadvertence failed to appear and was in another court at the time. Jarcy v. Griffith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 919).

Where trial court stated to counsel for the defendant "Don't you ever again ask a question like that before me or you will be done with", it did not violate the rule that a trial judge should not use language which tends to bring an attorney into contempt before the jury. It is within the judge's province to admonish and rebuke counsel as occasion may require, and to use other preventative measures necessary to maintain the dignity of the court. In rebuking counsel, the degree of severity is left to the trial judge so long as it does not prevent the party from having a fair trial. Rosenberg v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 489).

It was not an abuse of discretion for trial court to refuse moving party leave to amend after verdict, where she knew or should have known what the pending litigation would probably develop. Having lost on one defense, she had no right to have case reopened to assert a new one. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

A court may not limit cross-examination upon a pertinent subject at the outset, but after a substantial exploration of the subject, a judge is within his right in limiting examination which may become needlessly protracted. Where the record discloses that on a trial for the illegal sale of alcoholic beverages, appellant's counsel was permitted to cross-examine freely and fully all government witnesses, there was no undue restriction or limitation upon the right of cross-examination. Davenport v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 209, appeal denied, 180 F. 2d 909).

Where government witness admitted that, during a recess, he had talked with another government witness who had been excluded from the court room, trial court did not abuse its discretion in permitting him to testify. Davenport v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 209, appeal denied, 180 F. 2d 909).

Allowance or refusal of a motion to set aside a default is within the discretion of the Trial Court. Such discretion implies conscientious judgment which takes into account the law, the particular circumstances and competing considerations. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

While the rules of the court contemplate that leave to amend shall be freely given, it is not their purpose to allow amendments under any and all circumstances. Buchanan v. Farmer and Light v. Farmer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

Allowance or refusal of a motion to set aside a default is within the sound discretion of trial court. Huff v. Kraft (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 667).

Whether a defense shall stand or be set aside rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, and where, before denying the motion to vacate, the trial court heard all the testimony to determine whether appellant had a meritorious defense and was convinced that no such defense existed, discretion was not abused. Schoon v. Marvins Credit, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 212).

It was error for trial court to refuse to exercise its discretion in setting aside a dismissal since a refusal to exercise discretion has the same effect as an abuse of discretion. Quick v. Paregol (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 211).

Dismissal

Where Municipal Court of Appeals lacked jurisdiction of appeal in a criminal case, the appeal must be dismissed although appellee made no motion to dismiss and did not raise the question in his brief, since neither silence nor consent of the parties could confer jurisdiction on appeal, and lack of jurisdiction must be noticed even though the parties desire a decision on the merits. Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

The denial of motion to dismiss action was not a "final" or appealable order and dismissal of appeal from such decision was required. De Bobula v. Tamamian (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 204).

Where brief for appellant set out twenty-two alleged errors occurring at trial but contained no statement of the case with references to the transcript of record and no arguments in support of the claim of error as required by rule and where the errors assigned would require searching through the two hundred-page transcript, the so-called brief is no brief at all and the appeal must be dismissed. Poole v. Hurlbert (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 266).

Where record on appeal was not only filed late but was filed without authority in complete disregard of order refusing further extentions, the appeal should be dismissed. Greene v. Mindell (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 775).

Duty of Court

In absence of objection, a duty is nevertheless imposed on court to notice an excess of jurisdiction and to limit review to appealable orders or judgments. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

Evidence

Appellate court examines evidence only to test its sufficiency. Collins v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 515).

The Municipal Court of Appeals may not substitute its judgment on conflicting evidence for that of the trial court. Modern Engineering & Service Corp. v. McCrea (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 767).

Where defendant went to the jury without moving for a directed verdict at close of the case, she could not challenge the sufficiency of the evidence on appeal by assigning as error the refusal to grant a judgment notwithstanding verdict. Snyder v. Thorniley (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 316).

Question of weight of evidence was for trial court as trier of the facts, and was not subject to review on appeal. Etty v. Federal Consulting Service (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 692).

On appeal from judgment entered on jury's verdict, Municipal Court of Appeals was bound to accept jury's determination of the facts and could not reweigh the evidence. Lyons v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 312).

Reviewing court determines only whether there was sufficient evidence to support trial court's finding. De Bobula v. Winston (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 742).

A general finding for plaintiff requires appellate court to accept evidence most favorable to his case. Shu v. Basinger (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 295).

Preliminary evidentiary questions such as the competency of a witness and the admissibility of the evidence are within the control of the trial judge, but these questions must be distinguished from credibility and the weight to be assigned to competent and admissible testimony. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

Declaration made from a few moments to five or ten minutes after an accident neither met test of spontaneity nor closeness of time so as to be considered part of the res gestae. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 551).

Admission in evidence of an "incidental book" maintained at police precinct to show District had notice of the depression in District road was harmless error where there was other evidence covering the same subject and the report would have no relevancy without testimony connecting the depression with the accident. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 551).

Weight of the evidence and credibility of the witness are questions for the trial court. Rogers v. Cox (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 776).

The weight of the evidence is a question for the trier of the facts, and a finding of fact supported by substantial evidence cannot be set aside by an appellate court. The trier of the facts is the judge of the credibility of witnesses. Soresi v. Repetti (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 585).

As a general rule any evidence which is logically probative of some fact in issue is relevant and prima facia admissible unless it conflicts with some settled exclusionary rule. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

Testimony offered as character evidence was inadmissible where plaintiff's good character had not been put in issue. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

An offer made in compromise is not admissible in evidence. The test is whether the statement is made conditionally or unconditionally. A conditional concession is not admissible whereas an unconditional assertion is admissible. Firestone Tire and Rubber Company v. Billow, To the Use of American Automobile Insurance Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 338).

It is necessary that one objecting to evidence make known to the court and opposing parties the precise ground on which he relies, since grounds not raised in the trial court will not be considered on appeal. Firestone Tire and Rubber Company v. Billow, To the Use of American Automobile Insurance Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 338).

No error was committed in excluding federal and district income tax returns by which defendant proposed to show that the business was owned and operated by her alone and not as a partnership where such evidence would have been merely corroborative of other evidence, verbal and documentary. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

It was not error for trial court to refuse to permit police officer to testify regarding the extent to which arrest followed from tips or information given to the police, where the information sought was immaterial. Glover v. Jewish War Veterans of United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 233).

Where an owner signed a listing agreement with broker, authorizing sale on specified terms if and when a purchaser was found, it was not error for trial court to permit the owner to testify that she had signed on the assurance that time of her occupancy would be extended if she had no place to go. Such testimony does not vary a written contract by parole testimony and was not offered to contradict any written instrument, but only to show misrepresentation. Ellis v. Morgan (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 797).

One cannot speculate on allowing evidence to be introduced, participate in developing it, and then, when evidence proves unfavorable, demand that it be stricken. Lewis v. Shiffers (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 269).

While it is well established that the proof of delivery and failure of the bailee to return makes out a prima facie case for the plaintiff, even in case of a gratuitous bailment, requiring the defendant to go forward with proof, such proof need not necessarily consist of an explanation or justification of the loss. Columbia Operating Corp v. Kettler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 267).

Findings of Fact

Although there was no requirement that trial court file findings of fact, where judgment was entered on specific findings leaving undetermined a material issue of fact as to which evidence was conflicting, Municipal Court of Appeals could require finding on such issue. Provident Life Ins. Co. v. Grant (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 885).

An order overruling a motion to quash service on garnishee was interlocutory and not appealable, but appeal was properly taken from final judgment, as against claim that application for appeal was not filed within statutory time. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 563).

The rule that findings of fact are entitled to great weight in an appellate court is modified where such findings are based wholly on depositions. Rogers v. Cox (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 776).

Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

It was not error for the trial court to deny appellant's request for findings of fact and conclusions of law, for trial court rules provide that in actions tried on the facts without a jury the court may, if requested by any party, find the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law. The rule is permissive, not mandatory. Eide v. Traten (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 522).

Instructions

Defendant's request for instruction that opinion evidence of a handwriting expert is so weak as scarcely to deserve a place in our system of jurisprudence was properly refused as not stating the law. Boyer v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 247, reversed on other grounds 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202, 166 A. L. R. 209).

Trial court had duty of including in its charge a definition of reasonable doubt, and appellate court could not assume that trial court failed in its duty in such respect. Boyer v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 247, reversed on other grounds 150 F. 2d 595).

Charge to jury cannot be considered piecemeal but must be viewed in its entirety. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

Where the text of the instructions was not included in the record and the court cannot tell what parts of the sections in question were read, and the record shows that defendant's only objection to the court's charge was confined to that portion of it relating to unjust enrichments, we cannot consider such objection on appeal. Hillyard v. Smither & Mayton, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 166).

Instructions must be suited to the facts of the particular case and the judge should explain the law of the case, state the issues involved, and should also point out the essentials to be proved on one side or the other. Reese v. Wells (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 899).

Police officers, who, though privately employed, are engaged in keeping law and order in a public place, are neither informers nor detectives engaged in the business of spying for hire and are not the type of witnesses whose testimony the court must instruct shall be received with caution. Davenport v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 209, appeal denied, 180 F. 2d 909).

Joint Appeal

Where eight separate charges were consolidated for trial and verdict of guilty and a fine of $25 was imposed for each offense, defendant could not consider the total of the fines imposed as one penalty and file a joint appeal, since judgment in each case was a single judgment from which there was no right of appeal but only the right to make application for appeal. Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

Where appellants made no motion for directed verdict at trial, Municipal Court of Appeals would not review ruling refusing judgment notwithstanding verdict. Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Reviewing court, in judging the correctness of decision entering a judgment notwithstanding the verdict, applies the same tests as are applied upon review of ruling on motion for directed verdict. Vaughn v. Neal (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 234).

There is a difference between the legal discretion of the court to set aside a verdict as against the weight of evidence, and the obligation of the court to withdraw a case from the jury or direct a verdict for insufficiency of evidence. In the latter case, it must be so insufficient in fact as to be insufficient in law. In the former case, it is merely insufficient in fact and it may be either insufficient in law, or may have more weight, and not enough to justify the court in exercising the control which the law gives it to prevent unjust verdicts, to allow a verdict to stand. Capital Transit Co. v. Crusade (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 207).

JUDICIAL NOTICE

Municipal Court of Appeals took judicial notice of wartime difficulties in obtaining laundry service as well as many other services in the District of Columbia, but refused to assume therefrom that it was impossible for a customer of one laundry to find another laundry willing and able to accept him as a customer. Manhattan Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 172).

The court will take judicial notice of adoption of OPA regulations and existence of official acts necessary to their validity. Sherman v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 556).

Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia took judicial notice that Criminal Division of the Municipal Court was in session on Monday, July 5, 1943, for the arraignment and trial of persons held under arrest and unable to give collateral or bond, notwithstanding that that Monday was a legal holiday. Burns v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 714).

Court took judicial notice that suffering and inability to get about and climb stairs is normal sequel of most surgical operations, especially in the presence of pregnancy. Barnett v. Bachrach (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 626).

The Municipal Court of Appeals will take judicial notice that Government of the United States has no connection with Inter-Allied Shipping Pool and that such Pool does not exist as an agency of the United States Government and is not created by agreement to which United States is a party. Trost v. Tompkins (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 226).

The Municipal Court of Appeals would take judicial notice of appeal in prior case between the same parties. Block v. Wilson (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 646).

Courts will judicially notice that desks are ordinarily and properly used by officers and employees of the government for keeping their personal effects. Blok v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 70 A. 2d 55).

Court will take judicial notice that during the war the government and various persons in official and unofficial positions urged that the public forego luxury items which consumed manpower and critical war materials. It cannot be said as a matter of law that the landlord's refusal to supply such items rendered him guilty of a service standard violation. Connolly v. B. F. Saul Co., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 236).

Courts may take judicial notice that the period of human gestation is about two hundred eighty days or nine calendar months. Monday v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 68).

JURISDICTION

Where motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment rested on claim that service on defendant had not been made and that Small Claims Branch of District of Columbia Municipal Court acquired no jurisdiction over defendant, motion was sufficiently broad to include by implication an attack on service of process, and irregularity was cured by subsequent filing of motion to quash service, and filing of motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment was "special" and not "general appearance," and going to trial on merits after denial of such motion did not preclude defendant from raising jurisdictional question on appeal. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 232).

JURISDICTION OF GOVERNMENT APPEALS

Under this section providing that any party aggrieved by any final order or judgment of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia may appeal to the Municipal Court of Appeals, such court had jurisdiction of government's appeal from an order of the municipal court for such district quashing a warrant of arrest in a disorderly house case, in view of § 23–105 entitling the government to appeal in criminal prosecutions. U. S. v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 185).

In a class B action involving less than $500, Municipal Court rules apply, and trial court erred in ruling that defendant waived jurisdiction by failing to raise it by motion since rules do not preclude raising any defense available; further, jurisdiction over subject matter may never be conferred by consent and may even be question for first time on appeal. Duvall v. Southern Municipal Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 336).

LAW GOVERNING

The Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia must follow the law as stated in highest appellate court of the District. Davidson v. Jones (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 261).

In absence of local statutes governing landlord's liability to tenant, Municipal Court of Appeals must look to the common law as reflected in decisions of Supreme Court, of United States Court of Appeals, and the courts of some of the states. Hariston v. Washington Housing Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 287).

MANDATE

Mandate of appellate court from which the trial court had no power to deviate, clearly required that there be a trial on the merits, completely unemcumbered by any earlier proceedings below. Even upon a reversal with general directions, the case stands in the trial court in the same position as if no trial had been held, pleadings can be amended or new ones filed, new issues framed, and a complete new trial will result, subject only to the restriction that the new proceedings shall not be inconsistent with the opinion of the appellate court. Glenn v. Mindell (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 74 A. 2d 835).

MODIFICATION OF JUDGMENT

Where judgment for insured for recovery of disability benefits under life policy and for return of premiums was incorrectly computed in favor of insured, Municipal Court of Appeals ordered insured to file a remittitur of excessive amount or, in the alternative, ordered a new trial. National Life Ins. Co. v. White (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 663).

Where no authority was cited in support of proposition and record contained no evidence from which its soundness could be determined, appellate court would not pass upon such proposition. Manhattan Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 172).

A judgment appealed from may be modified by reducing amount thereof when computation of amount due appellee is clear on record. Group Health Ass'n v. Shepherd (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 749).

MOOT QUESTIONS

Where defendant on conviction was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve 25 days, and he paid fine without attempting to stay judgment and without making protest or giving notice of intent to appeal, the payment which was voluntary, satisfied the judgment, rendered case "moot" and precluded defendant from appealing. Hanback v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 189).

A federal appellate court will not review a moot case. Hanback v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 189).

Where in District of Columbia Municipal Court no supersedeas bond was filed to stay judgment for landlord for possession of an apartment and United States marshal evicted tenant, who stated restitution was expected if the appeal from judgment was successful, the surrender of possession was not voluntary, and appeal was not moot. Zindler v. Buchanon (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 616).

It is not the duty of the court to give opinions upon moot questions or abstract propositions, or to declare principles or rules of law which cannot affect the matter in issue. Moreover, it has often been decided where possession of land was involved under an alleged lease, the question becomes moot after the expiration of such lease. Alpert v. Wolf (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 525).

Where petitioner failed to post bond and was committed to jail the case became moot after petitioner served his sentence upon its expiration there was no longer a subject matter on which the judgment of court could operate. Reversal of the judgment cannot operate to undo or restore the petitioner to the penalty of the term of imprisonment which he has served. Hill v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 138).

The question of refusal to require the posting of a supersedeas bond pending appeal has become moot because even if a supersedeas bond had been posted, it would have expired by its own terms upon the reversal of the judgment which the bond superseded. Daime v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 611).

Motion for Summary Judgment

In motion for summary judgment, it is not enough for an affiant to state that he has personal knowledge of the facts but he must state facts in detail showing that he has personal knowledge, and the burden of establishing the non-existence of any genuine issue is upon the moving party. Schwartz v. Sandidge (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 869).

Motion for New Trial

Refusal to grant a new trial may be reviewed by Municipal Court of Appeals only if there is an abuse of discretion. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

The grant or refusal of new trial may be reviewed on appeal only where there is a clear abuse of discretion. Palmer Const. Co. v. Patouillet (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 273).

Trial judge's disposition of a motion for new trial is not subject to appellate review unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Peav v. Parks (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 250).

Once an appeal is perfected, trial court is without power to order a new trial. Maltby v. Thompson (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 142).

To warrant new trial in Municipal Court on ground of newly discovered evidence, evidence must be in fact newly discovered since trial, it must be shown that it was not due to want of diligence that movant did not discover evidence sooner, evidence relied on must not be merely cumulative or impeaching, and it must be such as would probably produce a different verdict if new trial were granted. Imhoff v. Walker (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 309).

Plaintiff was not entitled to new trial on ground of alleged newly discovered evidence, where affidavits in support of motion revealed incidents practically all of which had taken place in plaintiff's presence. Imhoff v. Walker (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 309); Krupsaw v. W. T. Cowan, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 624).

Fact that trial judge kept case, which had been submitted to him without jury, under advisement for some 13 months did not so taint finding as to require granting of new trial and refusal of new trial was not an abuse of discretion, notwithstanding that only a factual issue was involved. Eberhard v. Mehlman (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 540).

An order granting a new trial was not a "final order", was not reviewable and dismissal of attempted appeal from such order was required. De Grazia v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 306); Snyder v. Thorniley (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 316).

Since judgment will not be entered until after a new trial is had, plaintiff cannot appeal from an order which is not a final order or judgment. An order made within the time limited by the rules and granting a new trial is not appealable, since the effect of the motion to reinstate the "judgment" was to test the validity of the grant of the new trial. A litigant is not allowed to do by indirection what he could not do directly. Students Book Company v. Semerjian (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 487).

Where the chief reason given to support a motion for dismissal was a desire to file the suit anew and demand a jury trial on the ground that refusal to permit dismissal subjected her to material injury and deprived her of fundamental rights, the court did not abuse discretion in rejecting such motion when moving party failed to comply with the rule relating to jury trial. Failure to make timely demand therefor constituted a waiver thereof. Mercer v. Equitable Life Insurance Society (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 207).

Counsel cannot be permitted to make the motion for new trial a vehicle for asserting objections retroactively or for grounding an appeal on a theory never presented during the trial. Germaine v. Cramer (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 573).

Granting or denying a motion for a new trial is not an appealable order unless it is shown that the trial court has abused its discretion. Capital Transit Co. v. Crusade (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 207).

Where defendant moved for a new trial or for judgment notwithstanding verdict, trial court must act upon each, and granting of motion for judgment is not ground for summarily denying motion for new trial. Crusade v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 878; see also 68 A. 2d 207).

Where evidence was introduced and no announcement of surprise nor request made for any continuance or recess in order to make use of the evidence claimed to have been damaging to plaintiff's case, it cannot be said that the refusal of the trial court to set aside the judgment and award a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence was an abuse of discretion. Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association v. McGinn (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 643).

The granting or denial of a motion for new trial based on newly discovered evidence is within discretion of trial court. Kreis v. Block (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 523).

New Trial

Where it appears probable that a trial court has by comment invaded the fact finding function of the jury, particularly in a criminal case, a new trial ought to be awarded. Prezzi v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 196).

While a new trial does not automatically follow every general reversal, such will ordinarily be the result. Where there is doubt as to what further proceedings are to be taken by the trial court after reversal, such doubt is generally resolved by granting a new trial. Price v. Daime (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 608).

Notice of Appeal

Where penalty imposed was less than $50 and defendant's right to review is by application for allowance of an appeal and not by notice of appeal, defendant's notice of appeal filed in the Municipal Court and not in the Municipal Court of Appeals could not be regarded as an "application for allowance of appeal". Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

Where defendant took no action within the time limited for filing a notice of appeal, defendant's motion for leave of court to file notice of appeal was denied for want of jurisdiction to hear the appeal. Beach v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 926).

Rules provide that notice of appeal in civil cases shall be filed with the clerk of the trial court within ten days of the date of the judgment or order appealed from. Such time limit is jurisdictional and may not be enlarged or extended either by the trial court or by this court. Holland v. Eng (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 143).

The time for filing notice of appeal is jurisdictional and cannot be extended by the trial court or by this court. Glenn v. Mindell (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 74 A. 2d 835).

Rules of this court make the filing of the notice of appeal jurisdictional. When such notice is filed out of time, court has no power to review the case. Syndicated Construction Corp. v. Ross (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 899).

Orders or Judgments

An order striking out item of damage from complaint and bill of particulars did not finally dispose of rights of the parties, and was not reviewable by the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Brown v. Randle & Garvin (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 104).

An order striking out item of damage from complaint and bill of particulars was neither a "final order or judgment", nor an "interlocutory order whereby possession of property is changed or affected", within this section. Brown v. Randle & Garvin (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 104).

An appeal taken during pendency of motion for new trial was subject to dismissal on ground that there was no "final judgment". Hamilton v. U. S. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 887, reversed on other grounds 140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316).

A judgment is not "final" and is not appealable while a motion for new trial, seasonably filed, remains undecided. Hamilton v. U. S. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 887, reversed on other grounds 140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316).

Ordinarily trial court's action on motion for new trial is not subject to review on appeal unless there is shown a clear abuse of discretion. Franklin v. Chas. C. Schulman Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 871).

Where matters raised by motion to set aside judgment and grant new trial could have been reviewed by timely appeal from the original judgment, action on such motion was not appealable. Crowley v. Wood (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 861).

Ruling on motion to vacate judgment rendered because of a party's default in appearing or pleading is not reviewable except for an abuse of discretion. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

Where motion for new trial was granted after entry of verdict, there was no "final judgment" from which an appeal would lie until after a new trial was had. Phillips v. Marvin's Credit (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 825).

Accused does not ordinarily have the right to an independent appeal from a ruling on a motion to quash a warrant of arrest. U. S. v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 185).

An order quashing a warrant of arrest in a disorderly house case was appealable. U. S. v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 185).

Granting or refusing a continuance is usually discretionary and not subject to review on appeal except when it is shown to have been an abuse of discretion. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

An appeal cannot be heard while motion for new trial is pending, since judgment at that time has not become final. Hamilton v. U. S., 1944 (140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316, reversing 31 A. 2d 887).

The jurisdiction of the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is limited to a review of final orders or judgments and interlocutory orders whereby possession of property is changed or affected. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696); Crowder v. Lackey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 223); Lee v. Zentz (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 872).

An order of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, overruling defendant's motion to quash service, was an interlocutory order which did not change or affect possession of property, and order was not appealable to such court. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

An express desire of both parties for a decision on merits would not confer jurisdiction on the Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia of special appeals from interlocutory orders. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

Orders granting motion to amend complaint to include claim for overdue rent, overruling motion for summary judgment, granting motion to dismiss counterclaim without prejudice to right to file separate suit, and denying leave to amend counterclaim, were not "final orders" or "interlocutory orders affecting possession of property" from which appeal would lie to Municipal Court of Appeals. Crowder v. Lackey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 223).

An order granting a motion for new trial was not a "final order" and hence not appealable. United Retail Cleaners and Tailors Ass'n of D. C. v. Denahan (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 69).

Order denying motion filed within term at which judgment was entered, to vacate default judgment against garnishee, is not an "appealable order." Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

The "finality" of an order, necessary to jurisdiction of the Municipal Court of Appeals depends not upon its name, its propriety, or its normal function, but upon whether it disposes of the whole case on its merits so that the court has nothing to do but to execute the judgment or decree rendered. Lee v. Zentz (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 872).

An order vacating a judgment, which left the case undecided with the right in plaintiff to proceed to trial and judgment, was "interlocutory" and not "final," and was not appealable to the Municipal Court of Appeals. Lee v. Zentz (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 872).

Where plaintiff permitted time to lapse for taking appeal from order dismissing complaint before filing motion to amend complaint, plaintiff could not appeal from order denying motion to amend complaint, especially where it did not appear that there had been any abuse of discretion in refusing leave to amend. Mitchell v. David (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 84).

A "final order" within this section is one that disposes of the whole case on its merits so that court has nothing to do but to execute judgment or decree already rendered. Whitman v. Noel (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 280).

Order denying defendant's motion for summary judgment on ground that it was apparent on face of claim that it was barred by statute of limitations was not an appealable "final order." Whitman v. Noel (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 280).

An order denying a motion for rehearing of order denying motion to vacate judgment was not appealable. Brooks v. Trigg (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 302).

District of Columbia Municipal Court's order overruling motion to dismiss or to remand action to District Court of United States for District of Columbia was not "final order" and hence was not appealable to Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia. Kaplowitz Bros. v. Kahan (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 59 A. 2d 795).

An order of Municipal Court vacating default judgment which had been entered "paid and satisfied" after execution through garnishment proceedings was appealable. Campbell v. Campbell (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 825).

Record did not indicate that plaintiff was compelled to take a voluntary nonsuit because his request for a continuance and motion to dismiss without prejudice was denied so as to permit review of trial court's order on appeal since plaintiff could have submitted to the court's ruling and proceeded to trial and in case of an adverse judgment could have appealed. Halpern v. Gunn (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 741).

Where in an interpleader action, judgment was rendered on the counterclaim in favor of the plaintiff, such judgment is not a final and appealable one because it did not decide all issues between the parties since the main action remained pending and unheard. Weiss v. Young (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 309).

Where a motion to set aside a judgment was not filed within the time limited by the court's rule, the court was without jurisdiction to grant such relief. Mike's Mfg. Company v. Zimzoris (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 414).

Where defendant moved to set aside a judgment on the ground that, through inadvertence, defendant's counsel failed to appear to defend and defendant had a good defense, the granting or denial of the motion rested in the sound discretion of the trial court. Madden v. Horigan (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 525).

Where a judgment previously entered by defendant is reversed without further order, the mandate to that effect does not preclude any other affirmative action unless specifically so directed by the appellate court. The lower court is free to make any other order or direction in further progress of the case not inconsistent with the appellate decision. Pyramid National Van Lines, Inc. v. Goetze (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 693).

Generally, an order denying a motion for rehearing, a motion for new trial or other like order is not an appealable order. However, where it is obvious that the appeal was intended to be from the order granting judgment, and appellee concedes that, because the motion for rehearing extended the time for appealing, the notice was timely filed even as to that order; the notice may be treated as an appeal from the judgment. Diatz v. Washington Technical School (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 227; rehearing denied by 73 A. 2d 718).

Trial court had power to vacate judgment where, in execution or judgment, the marshal had taken funds from the garnishee and was prepared to deliver them to the plaintiff since vacating such judgment prevented delivery subject to future order of the court. Bridgett v. Perpetual Building Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 780).

It was beyond the power of the trial court to set aside the judgment where the motion to vacate came more than three months after the entry of the judgment and hence was too late. Breckenridge v. Mebane and Calvert Fire Insurance Company v. Mebane (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 441).

The imperative condition of equitable intervention in setting aside a judgment is that the party applying for it shall make it clearly apparent that he had a good defense to the action which, by fraud or accident, he was prevented from making, and also that there was neither fault nor negligence on his part. Thomas v. Marvins Credit, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 773).

A default judgment by the court upon an amended complaint not served upon the defendant, though erroneous, is not void. Thomas v. Marvins Credit, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 773).

Motion for summary judgment cannot be granted if the record discloses the existence of a genuine and material factual issue. Rosenberg v. Ichcovitz (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 466).

Allowance or refusal of a motion to set aside a default is within the sound discretion of trial court. Huff v. Kraft (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 667).

Mere denial of a preliminary injunction is not a final order and does not dispose of a case on its merits unless the order possesses sufficient attributes of finality or is in a form of an interlocutory order from which appeal lies. Levy v. Arsenault (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 671).

It is clear that orders staying proceedings are not appealable. However, the reviewability of a final judgment or order is not affected by any consideration of form and a holding by a court that it is without jurisdiction to try a case is obviously final in its effect. Mondell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 340; as aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

Parties, Right to Appeal

Where landlord sued for possession of office occupied by tenant, and tenant opposed the action but sought no affirmative relief, tenant was not an "aggrieved party" so as to be entitled to appeal from denial of his motion to dismiss notwithstanding court in dismissing without prejudice did not sustain all of tenant's contentions. Koehne v. Harvey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 39 A. 2d 871).

The successful party below cannot appeal. Koehne v. Harvey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 39 A. 2d 871).

Appellant cannot question a ruling made by trial court favorable to him. Glassman v. Graver (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 160).

Persons Entitled to Appeal

In landlord's actions against tenant for possession of rented building, subtenant, who was not a party, was not represented by amicus curiae and could not appeal from judgment for landlord to complain that parties failed to carry out stipulation with amicus curiae respecting trial. Klein v. Liss (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 757).

An amicus curiae cannot take over management or control of a case, and cannot except to rulings of court or take an appeal. Klein v. Liss (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 757).

An amicus curiae must take case as he finds it, with issues made by the principal parties, and cannot raise new issues not made by parties litigant. Givens v. Goldstein (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 725).

The general rule is that a person in a representative capacity, when prosecuting or defending an appeal, should be properly described in that capacity, but such rule is subject to the limitation that a designation is sufficient where the records show the representative capacity of the party, even if he is not so designated. Niosi v. Aiello (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 69 A. 2d 57).

Postponement of Time

A motion to vacate judgment postponed running of time for appeal until final action on the motion. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

Presumption

In absence of congressional regulation of relations between laundries and their customers in District of Columbia, Municipal Court of Appeals would not assume right to prescribe terms upon which they may contract, since determination of public policy is primarily a legislative matter. Manhattan Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 172).

In considering correctness of verdict for buyer who sued for seller's breach of warranty, appellate court must assume the truth of buyer's testimony regarding alleged statement by seller's representative. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

On appeal from judgment for plaintiff, evidence was accepted in light most favorable to plaintiff. Shapiro v. Vautier (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 349).

In determining whether wife was entitled to payment under a separation agreement, appellate court would assume that trial court, in determining amount to award as alimony and counsel fees, was influenced by the surrounding circumstances presented by the pleadings and evidence. Cooper v. Cooper (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 921).

Error will not be presumed on appeal and must be shown affirmatively by party asserting it. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

The Municipal Court of Appeals takes judicial notice that many hundreds of petitions for adjustment of rent have been filed with and decided by Administrator under sections 45–1601 to 45–1611. Gould v. Delsnider (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 140, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 54).

Discrepancies in plaintiff's testimony affected only weight of evidence, and reviewing court must assume that trial judge gave it such consideration as it deserved. Heindrich v. Dimas-Aruti (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 138).

Judicial notice may not be extended to supply element of specific intent of depriving automobile owner of his property rights in mental processes of 3½-year-old child who entered unlocked automobile and caused it to start down hill. Unkelsbee v. Homestead Fire Ins. Co. of Baltimore (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 168).

On plaintiff's appeal from trial court's decision on findings for defendant made by court sua sponte, plaintiff's evidence must be taken as true. Merriam v. Sugrue (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 166).

Where trial court's charge was not included in record, Municipal Court of Appeals was required to assume that issues were properly submitted to jury. Davis v. Bruno (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 828).

If a party has it within his power to produce witnesses whose testimony would elucidate transaction, the fact that he does not do it creates the presumption that the testimony, if produced, would be unfavorable. But failure to produce such evidence can always be explained. Woolard v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 640).

There is a strong presumption in the constitutionality of a statute, but where Supreme Court has spoken and found a statute unconstitutional, the presumption should be to the contrary. Henderson v. E Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 649).

Trial court had the right to waive the presumption against the testimony of defendant, an interested party, and in its discretion to conclude that the presumption outweighed the evidentiary value of the testimony. Koehne v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 806).

If the bailee fails to explain the damage, it leaves the trier of the facts free to draw an inference unfavorable to him upon the bailor's establishing the unexplained failure to deliver the goods safely. Columbia Operating Corp. v. Kettler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 267).

When a statutory presumption is met by some credible evidence, it becomes like an inference and when more than a single inference may be drawn from the evidence, then a question of fact is presented for jury determination. Bill's Auto Rental, Inc. v. Bonded Taxi Company and Bonded Taxi Company v. Bill's Auto Rental, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 254).

Questions Not Raised Below

In action between brokers for division of commission for sale of realty, contention urged by defendant for first time on appeal that plaintiff did not allege and prove that he was a duly licensed broker or salesman and that such failure was jurisdictional as relating to plaintiff's want of capacity to sue was unavailing for failure to raise contention in trial court. McDevett v. Waple & James (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 39).

Counsel after gambling on jury's verdict and losing may not use motion for new trial as vehicle for asserting objections retroactively or for grounding an appeal on theory not presented during trial. District Hauling & Construction Co. v. Argerakis (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 31).

Where defendant in automobile collision case made no motion for an instructed verdict and did not object to charge, questions as to sufficiency of evidence to support verdict and as to whether case was submitted on an erroneous theory of damages raised for first time in motion for new trial, could not be considered on appeal. District Hauling & Construction Co. v. Argerakis (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 31).

Point which was not raised by the parties would not be considered on appeal. Bedrosian v. Wong Kok Chung (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 33 A. 2d 811).

Questions neither raised nor considered in trial court and not presented or argued on appeal would not be passed on. Kincade v. Wah (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 112).

The Municipal Court of Appeals cannot order reopening of case for consideration of point not made at trial in court below. Group Health Ass'n v. Shepherd (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 749).

Where tenant holding over after expiration of lease did not challenge purchaser's title at trial of suit to recover possession of dwelling for personal use by purchaser as a residence nor object to plaintiff's testimony that she had purchased the dwelling or to various exhibits offered in support of such statements, tenant could not urge for the first time on appeal that plaintiff's deed should have been produced to prove ownership and that title of her grantor should have been established. Miller v. Prophet (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 450).

A judgment should not be reversed and a new trial ordered to permit unsuccessful party to object to evidence received without objection at first trial or to try case upon some new and different theory. Miller v. Prophet (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 450).

Objection, made for first time on appeal, that trial judge erred in causing or permitting trial to continue on without a recess past the dinner hour, was too late. Shapiro v. Vautier (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 349).

Municipal Court of Appeals was not required to pass upon the validity of an interpretative order of the Administrator under the Emergency Rent Act, § 45–1601 et seq., where neither tenant nor landlord had sought a court review of such order. Hall v. Henry J. Robb, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 863).

The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia must limit review to appealable orders or judgments though no objection is made. Atlas Van Lines v. Austin (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 696).

Where appellant acquiesced in ruling respecting interrogatories, appellant could not thereafter complain that there was an inconsistency because of jury's answer to an interrogatory which was mere surplusage. Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

An objection to form of verdict which was not presented in trial court could not be advanced in appellate court, Henderson v. Allison (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 220).

Where litigant acquiesced in charge when it was given, correctness of charge could not be questioned for first time on appeal. Watwood v. Potomac Chemical Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 728).

Where plaintiff's counterclaim in amount of $3,000 was beyond jurisdiction of small claims branch of municipal court, Municipal Court of Appeals took cognizance of absence of jurisdiction even though question had not been raised before it or in the trial court and reversed case with instructions to vacate judgment and strike the counterclaim. 1425 F St. Corp. v. Jardin (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 278).

Where defendants did not allege contributory negligence and did not request trial court to instruct jury on that subject, assignment that trial court erred in refusing to sustain contention of defendants that evidence conclusively showed that any damage suffered by plaintiffs was due entirely to negligence of plaintiff came too late. Gittleson v. Robinson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 635).

An assignment of error in refusing to allow plaintiff to amend complaint cannot be considered, where record shows neither a request by plaintiff to amend nor denial by court of such request. Higgins v. Dail (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 38).

Where defendant made no request for instructions and, in response to trial judge's inquiry upon completion of charge, did not object to those given, she could not complain on appeal of the instructions given. Snyder v. Thorniley (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 316).

Where appellant made no request in the trial court for leave to amend, it cannot be said that the trial court was in error in not granting that which was not asked. Watwood v. Credit Bureau, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 905).

Counsel at jury trials must make their objections known while there is still opportunity for the trial judge to correct any apparent error. Brown v. Haas (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 39).

Matters not raised and passed upon in the trial court afford no basis for review on appeal. Brooks v. Jensen (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 32).

Where the record nowhere shows that the point was made before or at the time of trial, but seems to have been first advanced in the motion for new trial, it cannot be considered on appeal. Glennon v. Butler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 519).

Where appellant's answer did not raise an issue and no evidence in respect thereof is offered at the trial, such issue could not be raised upon appeal. Dawson v. Fox (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 102).

The rule that points not raised in a trial court will not be considered on appeal is subject to the equally well recognized rule that if error vital to a defendant has been committed, it may be noted and corrected on appeal, notwithstanding the absence of objection and exception in the trial court. Varrella v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 310).

It is fundamental that appellate courts sit to correct errors of trial courts, and that, save in exceptional cases, questions not presented to the trial court will not be considered on appeal. Germaine v. Cramer (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 573).

Counsel cannot be permitted to make the motion for new trial a vehicle for asserting objections retroactively, or for grounding an appeal on a theory never presented during the trial. Germaine v. Cramer (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 573).

Where the defense of the statute of limitations was not made at the trial and appeared to have been raised for the first time in the motion for new trial, such defense was asserted too late. Turner v. Bowman (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 231).

Questions of Fact

Only in exceptional cases will questions of negligence, contributory negligence and proximate cause pass from the realm of fact to one of law. Unless the evidence is so clear and undisputed that fair-minded men can draw only one conclusion, the questions are factual and not legal. Lewis v. Shiffers (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 269).

In action for breach of contract for conveyance of realty, questions of good faith and collusive intent are questions of fact requiring submission to the jury. Buchanan v. Farmer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

If a conflict appears as to a material fact, the summary procedure does not apply unless the evidence on one or the other hand is too incredible to be accepted by reasonable minds or is without legal probative force even if true. Messall v. Efron (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 694).

Factual issues are not to be tried or resolved by summary judgment procedure. Only the existence of a genuine and material factual issue is to be determined and once it is determined that there is such an issue, summary judgment may not be granted. Messall v. Efron (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 694).

Where broker contended that he secured suitable accommodations and seller arbitrarily refused to accept such accommodations a question of fact was presented. Murphy v. O'Donnell (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 340).

Record

The reviewing court could not consider plaintiff's objections or particulars of objections to statement of proceedings and evidence or objections to substituted statement of proceedings and evidence, since they had no place in record and court was required to base its decision upon statement of proceedings and evidence as approved by trial judge. District Hauling & Construction Co. v. Argerakis (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 31).

On review of ruling on motion for instructed verdict, court will not consider questions of mere weight or credibility of evidence, but will decide only its sufficiency to make a case for jury. Yellow Cab Co. of D. C. v. Griffith (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 340).

Where, at time statement of evidence was prepared and approved, there was before trial court only specific assignment of error relating to admission of evidence, but thereafter supplemental statement of errors was filed claiming that verdict was contrary to the evidence and contrary to the law, appellate court would confine review to the specific error asserted in admission of evidence. Lee v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 250).

Record failed to sustain defendants' contention that they were denied the privilege of argument of the case on the merits. Zis v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 65).

Where judgment, under rule that record imports absolute verity, would not have been disturbed upon showing made if attacked directly, judgment could not be disturbed on collateral attack predicated on errors in record. Scholl v. Tibbs (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 352).

Appellate court could not hold as matter of law that trial court's refusal to compel streetcar company to produce motorman's report of accident in action against company for injuries sustained by passenger was not prejudicial to passenger, where contents of report were not disclosed. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

Where statement of proceedings and evidence did not set out substance of plaintiff's opening statement but on argument on appeal counsel had stenographic transcript thereof at counsel table and at instance of court filed it with clerk, it was properly before court for consideration. Horne v. Ostmann (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 174).

In detinue in 1943 for household goods conditionally sold in 1934, where defendant pleaded limitations and discharge in bankruptcy in 1941, but record did not show terms of contract, price of goods, payments made, or dates when defendant abandoned part of goods, record was so inadequate that court could not say there was error in judgment for plaintiff, and hence judgment must be affirmed. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

Appellate court may not reweigh conflicting evidence or override findings, except where it clearly appears they are manifestly wrong. Pegues v. Wray (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 299).

Municipal Court of Appeals must accept record as it comes to court and cannot attempt to exercise functions of trial judge or reconstruct happenings at trial. Levy v. Bryce (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 765).

The Municipal Court of Appeals could not consider as part of the record a birth certificate which was attached to defendant's brief on appeal, but was not in evidence in trial court. Gray v. Droze (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 340).

Where trial judge rendered no formal opinion upon motion of defendant for jury trial but in a later case, when the same question was before the same judge, he rendered an exhaustive opinion, in which he recited his course of action in the first case, the Court of Appeals could not consider the opinion as part of the record in the first case but could consider it as a statement of the court's understanding of the law upon the point. Kass v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 513).

In determining meaning and effect of municipal court's finding that plaintiff failed to prove amount of damages to which he was entitled, but might supply sufficient evidence to substantiate his claim on new trial, appellate court is confined to record on appeal from subsequent order denying plaintiff's motion to reopen and retry case after dismissal thereof without prejudice. Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 493).

Copies of a contract and a release appearing apparently as exhibits to a pleading, and copies of the contract and of a chattel mortgage attached to brief, could not be considered by reviewing court where it did not appear in the record that such papers were received in evidence. Fabrizio v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 314).

Where a note appended to the statement of proceedings and evidence by trial court was in substance nothing more than a note addressed to appellate court reciting and interpreting some, but not necessarily all, of the reasoning process of the trial court, it is not a part of the record in the case below nor a part of the statement of the proceedings and evidence. Such a note has no place in the record on appeal and thus will be disregarded. Martin v. Schlein (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 614).

Where assignment of error relates to the trial court's statement in the course of the trial that the interpretation of the contract would be left to the jury, court cannot say that this was error when the record does not make plain what the court meant by this ruling. Since the record does not contain the charge to the jury, it is impossible to tell whether the question was left to the jury, or, if so, in what manner this was done. Ellis v. Morgan (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 797).

Where the record does not contain a transcript of testimony or a statement of proceedings in evidence or an agreed statement on appeal, appeal must be dismissed since an appeal must be decided on the record and not on the briefs. Jaffe v. Sterrett Operating Services, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 780).

REMAND

The remand for further proceedings is always made when the record does not enable the reviewing court to determine the rights for the parties. Price v. Daime (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 608).

Where a judgment previously entered for a defendant is reversed without further order, the mandate to that effect does not preclude any other affirmative action unless specificaly directed by the Appellate Court. Price v. Daime, (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 608).

REMARKS OF COURT

Where claimant assigns as error, alleged statements made by trial court which he believed reflected on him as a lawyer, but which were made out of the presence of the jury and could not have affected the jury, it was harmless; moreover, since the case properly terminated in a directed verdict, it is doubly clear that even if the remarks were erroneous they were not prejudical. Glover v. Jewish War Veterans of United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 233).

REMITTITUR

Urging an appeal that appellate court should reinstate the first verdict and order such remittitur as it deemed proper to remove the excess of the verdict is without merit. In federal jurisdictions, the practice seems to be limited to contract cases and the like where the excess amount of the verdict can be fairly well determined. No case in the federal jurisdiction has been called to court's attention where an appellate court undertook to cure by remittitur an excessive verdict rendered in a court action for unliquidated damages. Munsey v. Safeway Stores (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 598).

REVERSAL

Where overtaking streetcar struck automobile which had been stopped because way was obstructed by motorist making left turn, in action against streetcar company for damage to the overtaken automobile finding that streetcar was not negligently operated was plainly wrong, requiring reversal of judgment. MacDonald, to Use of Emmco Ins. Co. v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 862).

Where under evidence nominal damages only could be allowed, failure to award such damages was no ground for reversal. Lee v. Dunbar (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 178).

A reversal benefits only those who have appealed. Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

Statement of proceedings and evidence is not necessary on appeal where a question of law arises upon the face of the record, but where parties are properly before the court, pleadings state a case, and judgment conforms to pleadings, matters which arise during progress of trial cannot be reviewed unless record includes such portion of the evidence and proceedings as must be considered in determining whether trial court's rulings were correct. Moncure v. Curry (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 143).

Exclusion of testimony of a witness who did not hear the entire conversation was reversible error, where it appeared that such testimony, according to the proffer of proof went to the heart of the controversy and the witness should have been permitted to testify as to how much of the conversation he heard. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

Question of whether accident was proximately caused by negligence of appellee's driver, and of appellee's contributory negligence, was sufficiently in issue and directed verdict may not be granted in a case of this nature unless reasonable men could arrive at but one verdict. Wohlstetter v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 797).

Ordinarily appellate court must accept as correct the statement properly settled and approved by a trial judge. Appeals court cannot undertake to settle disputes between court and counsel as to what happened in court below. However, where there are inadequacies and inconsistencies plainly apparent in the transcript and where the judge himself acknowledged on the record that he has deleted substantial portions of defendant's evidence on the merits of the case from the narrative statement, the defendant is entitled to a reversal. Smith v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 766).

The Court of Appeals is reluctant to overrule a decision of a Trial Court resting in the field of discretion but where it interferes with a trial on the merits, slight abuse of discretion in refusing to set aside a default judgment is sufficient to justify a reversal of the order. Manos v. Fickenscher (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 791).

It was reversible error to exclude entries made in the accounts receivable ledger regarding credit transactions of a client to prove that such client was operating as a partnership since such ledger sheet was admissible under the Federal Shop Book Rule as a record made in the regular course of business. Orndorff v. Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 794).

RIGHT TO NONSUIT

Under rule 37 (a) of the Municipal Court, plaintiffs have lost their right to a nonsuit or voluntary dismissal after defendant's answer has been filed, since beyond that point an action shall not be dismissed at the plaintiff's instance save upon order of the court and upon such terms and conditions as the court deems proper. Mercer v. Equitable Life Insurance Society (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 207).

SCOPE OF REVIEW

In action to recover balance due under rent assignment contract, where issue was whether defendant or corporation of which he was an officer was liable, and evidence was such that either one of the two different conclusions might reasonably have been drawn from it, Municipal Court of Appeals did not have appellate jurisdiction to substitute its own findings and to reverse judgment for defendant. Nolan v. Werth, 1944 (142 F. 2d 9, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 33, reversing 32 A. 2d 386).

Where evidence is such that either one of two different conclusions might reasonably be drawn from it, the decision is for the trial court and its judgment must stand, and appellate court may not reweigh the evidence or override the findings, except where it clearly appears that they are manifestly wrong. Nolan v. Werth, 1944 (142 F. 2d 9, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 33, reversing 32 A. 2d 386).

Tenants' surrender of possession constituted a voluntary compliance with the judgment for landlord in landlord and tenant proceeding, rendering case moot and leaving no question for determination on appeal. Baugh v. Young (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 478).

The Municipal Court of Appeals cannot weigh evidence or pass upon the credibility of witnesses or override trial court findings which are supported by substantial evidence. Zis v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 65); Rossiter v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (D. C. Mun. App 1946, 46 A. 2d 540).

Where evidence is such that either one of two different conclusions might reasonably have been drawn from it, the decision is for the Municipal Court, and the Municipal Court of Appeals cannot reweigh the evidence or override findings of Municipal Court unless manifestly wrong. Weimann v. Sheppard (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 847).

In broker's action for commissions, where the evidence was conflicting and would support a judgment for either party, the Municipal Court of Appeals could not override decision of Municipal Court who saw and heard the witnesses, although more witnesses testified for defendants than for plaintiff. Weimann v. Sheppard (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 847).

The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia cannot act as triers of fact, but must leave to the trial court questions of weight of evidence and credibility of witnesses. Yellow Cab Co. of District of Columbia, Inc. v. Sutton (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 655).

An appellate court may not reweigh the evidence or override the trial court's findings except where it clearly appears they are manifestly wrong. Yellow Cab Co. of District of Columbia, Inc. v. Sutton (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 655).

Municipal Court of Appeals, on reviewing a case, does not try the facts and will not choose among uncertain and conflicting inferences or direct contradictions in the evidence. Mead v. Kane Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 567).

A judgment as result of an erroneous exercise of power is reversible only by an appellate court, while a judgment as result of usurpation of power may be declared a nullity collaterally. Scholl v. Tibbs (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 352).

Where separate actions by depositor's widow and brother against bank were consolidated for trial, on brother's appeal from judgment for bank, merely on basis of such consolidation, Municipal Court of Appeals could not review judgment for widow against bank from which bank did not appeal. Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

In determining whether there was probable cause justifying issuance of a warrant of arrest in a disorderly house case, reviewing court was not called upon to determine whether the offense charged had in fact been committed but was concerned only with question whether the affiant had reasonable ground at the time of the affidavit and issuance of the warrant for belief that the law was being violated. U. S. v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 185).

The District of Columbia Municipal Court of Appeals cannot reweigh evidence to resolve doubts arising from question of credibility of witnesses. Perlman v. Chal-Bro., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 755).

Where evidence was such that in statutory proceeding for trial of right of property either one of two different conclusions might reasonably be drawn therefrom, trial court's judgment could not be disturbed by Municipal Court of Appeals. Perlman v. Chal-Bro., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 755).

On appeal from order committing infant to National Training School for Boys until 21 years of age, the issue was whether there was sufficient evidence to support a finding that the boy's welfare or the safety and protection of the public required removal from the home of his parents. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

The Municipal Court of Appeals cannot reweigh evidence or override findings. Lindquist v. Steele (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 925).

Municipal Court of Appeals cannot weigh the evidence, and in jury cases is limited in its review to matters of law. Watwood v. Potomac Chemical Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 728).

The decision of Municipal Court on conflicting evidence cannot be disturbed. Imhoff v. Walker (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 309).

On appeal from municipal court's order denying plaintiffs' motion to reopen and retry case after dismissal thereof without prejudice pursuant to finding that plaintiffs failed to prove amount of damages to which they were entitled, but might supply sufficient evidence to substantiate their claim on new trial, appellate court need not determine whether record discloses adequate evidence of damages. Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 493).

Defendant's oral statement of intention to appeal in open court within time limited by Municipal Court Rule 27 (b) for filing notice of intention to appeal would not be construed as notice of intention to appeal from sentences imposed on pleas of guilty in addition to sentences imposed on pleas of not guilty. Slaughter v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 309).

Qualification of an expert is primarily for trial court and will not ordinarily be reviewed on appeal, but where facts are not in dispute, a reviewable question of law is presented. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 54).

From a study of the record, appellate court was satisfied it had no right to say that the judgment below was plainly wrong, for it was obvious that evidence supported such judgment. Since this is the standard fixed by the statute creating the court, rule must be followed and appellate court had no right to reweight evidence or to override findings of the trial court. Watwood v. Bradford (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 41).

Appellate court unable to say as matter of law that trial court, which tried the case without a jury, was plainly wrong in holding that the accident was caused by the negligence of defendant or his employee and that plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence. While court might have reached a contrary conclusion had it been the triers of the facts, appellate court could not say that the conclusion of the trial court was not supported by substantial evidence. Columbia Operating Corp. v. Kettler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 267).

An argument that a verdict is not supported by the evidence raises no question for an appellate court when it brings up for review no ruling by the trial court. As defendants did not object to the case going to the jury or to the instructions under which it was submitted, they cannot now assert that there was no case for the jury's consideration or that the jury should have been instructed otherwise. Johnson v. Kupper (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 265).

One cannot take his chance on a favorable verdict, reserving a right to impeach it if it happens to go the other way. Where the point now made was raised in the motion for a new trial, such motion cannot be used as a vehicle for asserting objections retroactively or for grounding an appeal on a theory not advanced at trial. Johnson v. Kupper (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 265).

Appellant's criticism of the method of computing interest adopted by the judge is unfounded, where such method was more favorable to appellant than the method for which his counsel contends. Sloan v. Sloan (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 799).

Review by this court is limited to final orders or judgments and interlocutory orders whereby the possession of property is changed or affected, and a stay order was not final because it did not determine the merits of the controversy. Bradley v. Triplex Shoe Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 208).

The rule is well established that where no controversy remains except as to costs, an appellate court will not pass upon the merits. Holmes v. Floyd E. Davis Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 212).

If counsel had other questions he wished to ask witnesses, or another line of inquiry he wished to pursue, he should have indicated to the trial court the nature of the questions or inquiry in order that the court make a specific ruling. In the absence of such ruling, there is no showing of prejudicial error. Munsey v. Safeway Stores (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 598).

On the merits there was ample evidence to support the general finding of the trial court and therefore trial court was correct in making no ruling as to the applicability of the principle of res ipsa loquitur. Endy v. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 514).

The rule is that the inquirying party is concluded by the witness' answer when cross-examination relates to a matter collateral to the issue, and he may not later rebut it for purposes of impeachment. The test of whether or not a matter of fact inquired of in cross-examination is collaterial is: Would the cross-examining party be entitled to prove it as a part of his case? If so, it is not collateral, otherwise it is. Kelly v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 232).

Trial Court's finding of fact is conclusive on this appeal in view of conflicting evidence, but it will not be conclusive in the new trial which will be necessary because of an error as to a matter of law. Keith v. Berry (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 300).

Where no showing of fraud, duress, or mistake is made at the trial, courts have no right to relieve parties to contracts merely because certain provisions may operate disadvantageously to them. Simm v. Bovee (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 800).

Where the parties are properly before the court, and pleadings state a cause of action, and the trial court's judgment conforms to the pleadings, it must be assumed, in the absence of a statement of proceedings and evidence, that the evidence presented was sufficient to support the verdict and judgment. Wilkins v. Woodruff (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 74 A. 2d 59).

The finality of an order depends not upon its name, its propriety or its normal function, but upon whether it disposes of the whole case on its merits so that nothing remains to be done except execution of a judgment or decree. Levy v. Arsenault (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 671).

Appellate court has no power to weigh the evidence and therefore cannot consider that the verdict was contrary to the evidence or weight of the evidence. Hooper v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 466).

Action on a discretionary matter, such as motion for continuance as a result of illness, is reversible where the error in its exercise is plainly shown, and worked material hardship and injustice. Etty v. Middleton (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 371).

Where purchaser sought no judgment against the third party defendant and broker, the broker could not appeal from the judgment against the seller. Therefore on appeal from the judgment of the seller against the broker, the court has no authority to review the judgment of the purchaser against the seller from which no appeal was taken. Murphy v. O'Donnell (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 340).

Jurisdiction of the subject matter may neither be assumed by a court nor conferred upon it by consent or silence, and objection thereto may be raised at any stage of the proceedings or upon appeal sua sponte. Henderson v. E. Street Theatre Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 649).

Statement of Proceedings and Evidence

The reviewing court cannot decide disagreements between trial court and counsel as to occurrences at trial, but must generally accept as correct the statement of proceedings and evidence, properly settled and approved by trial judge. District Hauling & Construction Co. v. Argerakis (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 31).

An appeal from conviction was not dismissible because notice of appeal was prematurely filed before motion for new trial was disposed of, where the motion was thereafter overruled and appellant filed a statement of errors claimed which assigned as one error the denial of the motion. Hamilton v. U. S., 1944 (140 F. 2d 679, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 316, reversing 31 A. 2d 887).

When statement of proceedings and evidence is submitted to trial court, the court must approve statement if accurate or, if not, must assist in making it accurately reflect the trial proceedings, and should not approve an incomplete or inaccurate statement. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

Appellate court could not pass on alleged error of trial court in holding that evidence did not establish the authority of an agent in absence of a statement of proceedings and evidence. Moncure v. Curry (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 143).

District Court of Appeals cannot decide cases on basis of disputed facts as they appear in briefs of the parties but must be governed by recitals in statement of proceedings and evidence approved by trial court. King v. McKnight (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 714).

Where appellant apparently had a stenographic report made of evidence at trial in municipal court but did not bring it before reviewing court as permitted by rules, reviewing court was required to rely on statement of proceedings and evidence certified by trial judge. De Bobula v. Winston (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 742).

Where the record is not a stenographic transcript of testimony but is a narrative statement of proceedings and evidence approved by the trial court, appellate court and the parties are bound by that statement. Counsel has no right and ought not to attempt to supplement or contradict the record by statements in a brief. Povello v. Falvey Granite Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 71 A. 2d 536).

The contention that the trial court erred in not granting new trial on account of newly discovered evidence is without foundation where the only reference to such evidence is in the statement made in the motion for new trial. This is not sufficient to justify trial court in granting new trial and certainly does not warrant appellate court in so holding. Turner v. Bowman (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 231).

A transcript of the proceedings below or a statement of proceedings and evidence are not required where an error of law is shown to exist upon the face of the record. Mindell v. Glenn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 340, as aff'd 74 A. 2d 835).

Facts agreed to by the petitioner's counsel, which did not appear in the examiner's statement of evidence or any other evidentiary form in the record and bearing no approval or certification of the rent administrator, are not part of the record and cannot be considered on appeal. Bailey v. Maple (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 63 A. 2d 333).

Summary Judgment

In an action for malicious prosecution, even if supporting affidavits are true and complete statements relating to defendant's connection with the criminal proceeding, it may be that plaintiff has no cause of action, but on motion for summary judgment, court cannot indulge in such an assumption. Moreover, a party cannot be compelled to try his case on affidavits without the benefit of cross-examinations. Milstead v. W. P. Ballard and Company, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 589).

Supersedeas Bond

In action to recover rented premises for breach of condition, failure of tenant to furnish a supersedeas bond did not waive the right of appeal. Quick v. Paregol (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 407, 1949, 68 A. 2d 211).

Third Party Practice

Where third party defendants were not served with notices of the motion for summary judgment, such a defendant was deprived of no rights by such failure to serve notice and cannot complain; and court properly exercised its discretion in passing on the motion. Schwartz v. Sandidge (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 869).

Time for Appeal

An order denying motion to set aside judgment was not appealable where the motion was filed more than two months after the judgment and the appeal was taken more than four months after the judgment. Union Provision & Distributing Corp. v. Thomas J. Fisher & Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 85).

The reviewing court cannot extend time for appeal from Municipal Court beyond 10 days after judgment. Brooks v. Trigg (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 302).

Where appeal on face of record appeared to be too late but trial court certified a supplemental record showing that on appellant's motion to correct the record by having it show that judgment purporting to be entered on certain date was not in fact entered until a subsequent date, trial court found that date of entry of judgment was within 10 days of filing of notice of appeal, appeal would not be dismissed. Corbett v. Urciolo (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 577).

The time for filing notice of appeal is jurisdictional and cannot be extended by trial or appellate court. Corbett v. Urciolo (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 577).

A motion, filed long after expiration of time for appeal from judgment, to strike or vacate judgment, must be considered as unseasonably filed and treated as collateral attack on judgment. Wade v. Union Storage & Transfer Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 493); Slaughter v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 309, 60 A. 2d 700, C. A., D. C. 1949, 172 F. 2d 281, 84 U. S. App. D. C. 232, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 135, 338 U. S. 874, 94 L. Ed. 115, rehearing denied 70 S. Ct. 245, 338 U. S. 901, 94 L. Ed. 200, D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 570).

Where defendant failed to file written notice of appeal within time limited therefor by Municipal Court Rule 27 (b) but did within such period give oral notice of intention to appeal in open court, the oral notice would be held to be a substantial compliance with such rule, so that defendant's right of appeal from conviction on charges to which he had pleaded not guilty, was not lost. Slaughter v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 58 A. 2d 309, 60 A. 2d 700, C. A., D. C. 1949, 172 F. 2d 281, 84 U. S. App. D. C. 232, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 135, 338 U. S. 874, 94 L. Ed. 115, rehearing denied 70 S. Ct. 245, 338 U. S. 901, 94 L. Ed. 200, D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 570).

UNASSIGNED ERRORS

A point not made in defendant's motion for new trial or assigned as error on appeal presented nothing for review. Sherman v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 556).

WAIVER OF ERRORS

Any error in refusing to grant defendant's motion for a directed verdict at close of Government's case was waived when defendant proceeded to offer evidence in his behalf. Boyer v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 247, reversed on other grounds 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202, 166 A. L. R. 209).

The rule in class B actions requires that any person desiring a jury trial shall file an answer accompanied by a jury demand, and where appellant filed neither an answer nor a demand for jury trial, such right was waived. Clark v. General Electric Credit Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 43).

Where motion was made at close of plaintiff's evidence for a directed verdict and, upon its denial, defendants proceeded to present evidence on their behalf, they thereby waived benefit of their motion. Since the motion was not renewed at the close of all the evidence there is no basis for this claim of error. Brooks v. Jensen (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 32).

Where the explanation of plaintiff's counsel was that he forgot to strike two names from the jury panel and after the trial court refused to remove these two jurors on the ground that the objection came too late, and opposing counsel offered to consent to the removal of the two jurors and try the case with a jury of ten, which was refused, the objection, even if valid, came too late. Glover v. Jewish War Veterans of United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 233).

When the motion to dismiss was heard and appellant argued the merits of the motion and did not object to proceeding with the hearing because of the pendency of another motion to set aside the default, such conduct constituted a consent to the hearing of the motion to dismiss and a waiver of the right to insist that the motion to set aside the default be disposed of first. Raimonde v. Purcell (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 678).

All errors and irregularities in the notice for taking a deposition are waived unless written objection is promptly served upon the party giving the notice. Gross v. Utilities Engineering Institute (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 363).

WITHHOLDING ENTRY PENDING APPEAL

To avoid the labor and expense of filing application for allowance of an appeal in all of several cases, which were controlled by one common question of law, resort could be had to the practice of filing application for appeal in one case, and withholding entry of final judgment in the others upon stipulation that action therein abide the results of the single appeal. Yeager v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 629).

WITNESS, COMPETENCY

The question as to competency of a child as a witness is one primarily for trial judge, whose decision will not be disturbed on appeal unless shown to be clearly erroneous. Posey v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 300).

The testimony of an infant may be excluded in toto on grounds of incompetency, but once he is allowed to testify, the uncertainty of his evidence goes only to its weight and does not disqualify such testimony. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

WRIT OF MANDAMUS

The traditional use of the writ of mandamus in aid of appellate jurisdiction both at common law and in the federal courts has been to confine an inferior court to a lawful exercise of its prescribed jurisdiction or to compel it to exercise its authority when it is its duty to do so. Where, if an order is not promptly and effectively rescinded, petitioner may lose his security and suffer irreparable damage, the situation justifies a writ of mandamus requiring trial court to vacate its order setting aside a judgment. Mike's Mfg. Company v. Zimoris (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 414).

WRIT OF PROHIBITION

Though the act creating the Municipal Court of Appeals does not expressly give the court power to issue a writ of prohibition or any of the extraordinary writs, since the court is expressly authorized to hear and determine appeals and to regulate all matters relating to such appeals, it has implied an inherent power to issue extraordinary writs in aid of its appellate jurisdiction and such a writ may issue even though no appeal has been noted or is pending. Mike's Mfg. Company v. Zimoris (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 414).

§ 11–773. Review of judgments in United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia—Procedure.

Any party aggrieved by any judgment of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia may seek a review thereof by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia by petition for the allowance of an appeal. The petition shall be in writing and shall be filed with the clerk of said United States Court of Appeals within ten days after the entry of such judgment, the contents of the petition to conform to the requirements which said United States Court of Appeals may by rule prescribe. Said Court of Appeals may prescribe rules governing the practice and procedure on such applications, the preparation of and the time for filing the transcript of the record in such cases, and generally to regulate all matters relating to appeals in such cases. If said Court of Appeals shall allow an appeal, the court shall review the record on appeal and shall affirm, reverse, or modify the order or judgment in accordance with law. NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISMISSAL

Where plaintiffs appealed to Municipal Court of Appeals from order denying motion for clarification of order dismissing their action for want of prosecution and, after affirmance petitioned United States Court of Appeals for allowance of appeal on question of whether a dismissal for nonappearance in municipal court is with or without prejudice, dismissal of petition for appeal was required, since only question involved in case was right to clarification of order of dismissal. Taylor v. Yellow Cab Co. of D. C. (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 299).

§ 11–774. Rules for procedure—Service of process—Punishment for contempt.

(a) The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have the power and is hereby directed to prescribe, by rules, the forms of process, writs, pleadings and motions, and practice and procedure in such court, to provide for the efficient administration of justice, and the same shall conform as nearly as may be practicable to the forms, practice, and procedure now obtaining under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (U. S. C., title 28, following § 723c). Said rules shall not abridge, enlarge, or modify the substantive rights of any litigant. After September 16, 1938, all laws in conflict therewith shall be of no further force or effect.

Service of process shall be made by the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia.

(b) The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, or any judge thereof, shall have the power to punish for disobedience of any order or contempt committed in the presence of the court by a fine not exceeding $50, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days. NOTES TO DECISIONS

COSTS

Where it was held that party attempting to appeal had no right to do so and judgment was affirmed, cost of stenographic record included in record on appeal could not be taxed against appellant by Municipal Court of Appeals, but could only be taxed by trial court. Klein v. Liss (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 757).

Successful appellant was not entitled to tax against appellee the cost of a reporter's transcript of testimony which was made part of the record on appeal. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 96).

In prescribing in rule 41 (c) that, on reversal, cost of transcript of record shall be taxable as costs, the usual transcript on appeal, consisting of copies of pleadings and statement of proceedings and evidence which is ordinarily prepared by counsel and settled and approved by trial judge, was contemplated and not the unusual items of expense such as the cost of a reporter's transcript. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 96).

DUTY OF APPELLANT

The primary responsibility for prosecuting an appeal rests upon an appellant and he must guard against time lapses which may result in dismissal. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623).

It is duty of the parties and primarily of appellant to present a record complete and adequate for purposes of all questions to be argued on appeal. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

In the absence of a statute or rule requiring the giving of notice of trial, a party litigant who has appeared in court is required to keep himself informed of the time his case is set for trial. An allegation of fraud in obtaining judgment based on lack of notice is without merit. Rosenberg v. Ichcovitz (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 466).

EXTENSION OF TIME

An appeal to Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia is perfected by filing a notice of appeal with clerk, and time therefor may not be extended and thereafter trial court has no power to grant extensions except one ten-day extension for filing statement of proceedings and evidence or reporter's transcript and one extension of five days for filing objections thereto, and other extensions must be obtained from Court of Appeals. Tendler v. L. E. Massey, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 33).

Where Municipal Court without authority extended for five days time for hearing appellee's objections to reporter's transcript because of absence from city of appellee's counsel, and transcript was thereafter approved, Court of Appeals, in its discretion, within time for filing transcript of record on appeal, extended time for approval of transcript to include date on which it was approved. Tendler v. L. E. Massey, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 33).

The prohibition against enlarging time for taking appeal is absolute. Crowley v. Wood (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 861).

Counsel could not by their consent to application for extension of time for filing brief render inoperative court rule fixing time limit or fix new limitations of time not contemplated by court rules or specifically sanctioned by court orders. Werth v. Nolan (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 679).

Alleged fact that appellants' counsel had been engaged in other court work and other legal practice to such extent that he had not had sufficient time to prepare brief did not constitute sufficient cause for failure to file brief within time limited by court rules and extended by court order, and did not justify failure to seek extension of time within prescribed period and therefore an out of time application for extension of time for filing brief was required to be denied even though appellee consented to the application. Werth v. Nolan (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 679).

That appellant miscalculated the time within which to file the designation of record and statement of errors was not an "extraordinary reason" for granting leave to file after the expiration of time fixed by court rule, particularly where extension was sought after expiration of the time fixed. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623).

Counsel could not by their consent to application for leave to file designation of record and statement of errors after expiration of time render inoperative court rule fixing time limit for filing, or by withholding consent prevent the court from granting relief in a proper case. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623).

Court's discretion in matter of permitting extension of time for filing record and statement of errors will be exercised very sparingly and only upon substantial justification. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623); Graves v. MacDonald (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 91).

The timely filing of notice of appeal is jurisdictional and, unless such notice is timely filed, court has no power to extend or to review case. Beach v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 926).

The purpose of Municipal Court of Appeals rule 27 (p) that there shall be no extensions of time for filing notice of appeal, reserving power in court to enlarge time for taking any step after notice of appeal is filed, is to set a definite point of time when litigation shall be at an end unless, within the time limited, an appeal is initiated in the prescribed manner. Beach v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 926).

Appellant, filing no brief or application for extension of time to do so before last day for filing thereof, was not entitled to extension of time therefor on oral motion, made by his counsel after case was placed on next month's calendar, solely on ground that counsel had been busy with other matters. Nash v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 48 A. 2d 469).

Tenant in landlord's action for possession of business property, was not entitled to additional time for completing appeal which was not perfected in time allegedly because pressure of business had prevented tenant's attorney from perfecting appeal, attorney was out of town, and attorney had no idea that landlord's attorney would seek enforcement of rules dealing with time limits for various steps on appeal. Graves v. MacDonald (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 91).

The reason given in support of motion for leave to file in the trial court a statement of proceedings and evidence, time for so doing having expired, that counsel had been engaged in other courts and had overlooked the date statement of proceedings and evidence was due, was not an "extraordinary reason" within rule, which would justify granting relief. Cunningham v. Dade (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 894).

FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C., are inapplicable to Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia. Taylor v. United Broadcasting Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 480).

PRESUMPTIONS

Error will not be presumed on appeal and must be shown affirmatively by party asserting it. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

QUESTIONS CONSIDERED

Where case was never submitted to jury, there could be no complaint, on appeal, of trial court's refusal to grant certain instructions. National Life Ins. Co. v. White (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 663).

Where plaintiff made no motion for an instructed verdict and did not object to submission of case to jury, claim that court erred in not directing a verdict could not be considered. Abbott v. Fant (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 618).

Where no objection or motion for a mistrial was made before the return of the verdict, and court instructed jurors that it was their duty to disregard any remarks of counsel tending to arouse their sympathy, claim that court should have declared a mistrial because counsel referred to appellee as American citizen whose son was overseas fighting for his country would be overruled. Abbott v. Fant (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 618).

Record

Stenographic transcript of former trial of case before a different judge was not properly part of record. Mee v. Marlyn Apartment Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 864).

The responsibility for a complete record rests primarily on the parties and not on the trial court or appellate court. Zweig v. Schwartz (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

A suggestion by losing party, after case has been briefed, argued, and decided, that there are omissions in the record, come too late. Zweig v. Schwartz (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

It is duty of parties coming to appellate court to bring a record complete and adequate for purposes of all questions to be argued, since appellate court cannot consider matter outside record. Zweig v. Schwartz (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

Where appellees' request to have record corrected was made for first time in motion for rehearing after appellate court had reversed judgment, the request was not in time. Zweig v. Schwartz (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

If anything material to either party is omitted from record, omission should be called to attention of appellate court timely in order that omission may be supplied and supplemental record, if necessary, filed. Zweig v. Schwartz (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 857).

If record before Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is inadequate to present questions raised, court cannot review the proceedings. Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

Appellate court can consider only what the record discloses. Heslop v. Robert A. Grahame, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 856); Barrett v. Adkins Furniture Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 44).

Where copies of letters were attached to defendant's brief but they did not appear in record and counsel had not taken witness stand to identify them nor to recite circumstances of their being written, they were not properly before court on appeal. McHugh v. Duane (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 282).

Rules of Court

Time limitations in court rules governing appeals to Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia were designed to prevent unnecessary delay, and Court of Appeals, in its discretion, may decline to accept as sufficient excuses for failure to comply with limitations. Tendler v. L. E. Massey, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 33).

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., and the Rules of Municipal Court of Appeals for District of Columbia are intended to avoid harshness of the old rules. Tendler v. L. E. Massey, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 33).

Where there has not been a compliance with requirements of rules governing appeals, court may, either upon appropriate motion, or sua sponte, dismiss appeal. Lloyd v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 669, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 88, 320 U. S. 780, 88 L. Ed. 468, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 814, 88 L. Ed. 491, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 1148, 322 U. S. 770, 88 L. Ed. 1595).

Where appellant did not submit to trial judge nor to opposing counsel a "Statement of Proceedings and Evidence" as required by court rules, nor was such a statement or agreed statement in lieu thereof filed, a motion to have the appeal docketed and dismissed could have been filed by appellee. Lloyd v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 669, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 88, 320 U. S. 780, 88 L. Ed. 468, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 814, 88 L. Ed. 491, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 1148, 322 U. S. 770, 88 L. Ed. 1595).

Where appellant did not submit to trial judge nor to opposing counsel a "Statement of Proceedings and Evidence" but there was set forth in brief for appellant a statement of case and appellee's brief contained a section entitled "Restatement of the Case," the statements would be treated as part of record on appeal and appeal would be entertained, but such action was not to be construed as a precedent for pending or future cases. Lloyd v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 669, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 88, 320 U. S. 780, 88 L. Ed. 468, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 814, 88 L. Ed. 491, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 1148, 322 U. S. 770, 88 L. Ed. 1595).

That appellant filed notice of appeal the next day after judgment rather than waiting the full ten days did not excuse unexplained failure to follow up with filing designation of record and assignment of errors within five days required by rule. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623).

Where appellant failed to file designation of record and statement of errors within five days from date of filing notice of appeal as required by court rule and no extraordinary reason for granting relief was shown, appellee's motion to docket and dismiss was granted. Bowers v. Basiliko (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 623).

The rules of Municipal Court of Appeals contemplate that assignments of error shall be specific and definite for the reason that many cases in trial court are not stenographically reported and statements of proceedings and evidence in those cases are prepared in view of errors claimed. Watwood v. Potomac Chemical Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 728).

The rules of the Municipal Court of Appeals providing how an appeal should be taken and fixing time for filing notice of appeal are in conformity with mandate of this section to follow the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C. foll. § 723c, except as to time limits which conform to the Rules of Practice and Procedure in Criminal Cases, 18 U. S. C. foll. § 687, adopted by the Supreme Court. Beach v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 926).

On appeal from judgment of Municipal Court, the Municipal Court of Appeals will not apply a Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, 28 U. S. C. foll. § 723c, which the Municipal Court has not adopted.' Conrad v. Medina (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 562).

Appellants' failure to file a statement of errors was a breach of rules. Hoover v. Babcock (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 591).

The court rule providing that judgment if no motion is filed, shall be entered on fifth day after verdict or finding, does not mean that judgment is to be dated as of the fifth day even though entered later. Corbett v. Urciolo (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 577).

The purpose of the rules of the Municipal Court of Appeals is the orderly and prompt disposition of appeals. Cunningham v. Dade (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 52 A. 2d 894).

Rule permitting Municipal Court of Appeals to call for further statement of evidence, approved by trial court, if such is necessary to determine application for leave to appeal, contemplates such action only when there is at least a prima facie showing of merit in the application. Ionescue v. Dettmers (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 287).

Rules of the appellate court permit the use of original papers on appeal, and the statute itself provides that there shall be no requirement for printed records or briefs. Rules make it possible for counsel and parties to expedite the hearing of appeals, but they still have the responsibility for calling to our attention the need for emergency actions. Hill v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 138).

The purpose of the rules is the orderly and prompt disposition of appeals. Rules are not made for the convenience of the court but for the benefit of litigants, and counsel who have the right to rely on them, ought to comply with them. The court will not condone either wilful or negligent disregard of court rules or orders. Phucas v. Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 59).

Where counsel for appellant has given no explanation of how an inadvertence could have occurred in not filing the brief, court is obliged to conclude that counsel, after receiving two extensions of time totaling twenty-eight days, simply failed to comply with the rules and order of this court. Phucas v. Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 59).

Where the so-called brief in no manner complied with rules, consisted of three pages with an obviously incomplete statement of the case in the first page, seven claims of error in the third, and containing some general statements under the heading "Conclusion" with no index, no citations of authority and no arguments; such a document is not entitled to be called a brief and appeal must be dismissed. Phucas v. Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Company (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 59).

STATEMENT OF PROCFEDINGS AND EVIDENCE

Where only explanation for failure to file statement of proceedings and evidence within time or failure to apply for extension of time was that appellant's counsel was occupied with trial of cases, appellee's motion to docket and dismiss would be granted. Stroup v. Howe (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 297).

Where statement of proceedings and evidence is prepared by counsel for one of interested parties, with or without suggestions or instructions from court, counsel for other side is entitled to be served with copy and afforded an opportunity of making objections prior to final action thereon. Franklin v. Chas. C. Schulman Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 871).

The settling and approval of statement of proceedings and evidence is a "judicial function", and trial judge should not delegate the duty to counsel for one of the parties. Franklin v. Chas. C. Schulman Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 871).

A properly authenticated statement of proceedings and evidence must be accepted by appellate court as conclusive. Franklin v. Chas. C. Schulman Co. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 871).

Where appellee's counsel filed objections to statement of proceedings and evidence prepared by appellant's counsel and after conference trial judge directed appellee's counsel to prepare statement, approval of statement prepared by appellee's counsel without notice to appellant a new trial. Heslop v. Robert A. Grahame, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 856).

A statement of proceedings and evidence properly settled and approved by trial judge must be accepted by appellate court as correct. Heslop v. Robert A. Grahame, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 856).

Where trial judge did not settle statement, but instead approved two conflicting statements, appellate court could not pass on the merits and would remand case to trial court to approve and send to appellate court one correct statement of proceedings and evidence, or, if it was impossible to do so, to set aside judgment and order a new trial. Heslop v. Robert A. Grahame, Inc. (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 856).

Where appellant submitted a statement of proceedings and evidence to the trial judge and appellees filed objections thereto and both the statements and objections were approved by the trial judge and separately incorporated into the record, such procedure was confusing and proper procedure was to have statements of proceedings and evidence reflect in one document a complete and continuous narrative statement of what happened at the trial. Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v. Stanton (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 680).

Testimony in trial court may be presented to the Municipal Court of Appeals by an agreed statement on appeal, by a narrative statement of proceedings and evidence prepared by counsel and approved by the trial judge, and through the medium of a reporter's transcript of the testimony. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 96).

Rules contemplate that in preparing a statement of proceedings and evidence, both parties be given an opportunity to assist in the preparation, and when disagreement arises as to what actually occurred at the trial, it is the function of the trial judge to confer with the parties and settle the dispute since the appellate court must accept as conclusive the statement properly settled and approved. Edmonston v. Stanley (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 778).

TIME FOR MOTIONS

Where finding is made out of presence of counsel or parties, notice of such action shall be given by mail, and in such a situation the time for filing a motion for new trial is enlarged by one day. United Retail Cleaners and Tailors Ass'n of D. C. v. Denahan (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 69).

Motion of appellant's counsel for leave to file brief almost a month after it was due, on ground that because of the pressure of other cases he had not been able to concentrate on the preparation of the brief sought to be filed, was denied and appeal was dismissed. Karika v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 93).

The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, and The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia as established by this subchapter, shall have full power and authority to censure, suspend, or expel from practice, at their respective bars, any attorney for any crime involving moral turpitude, or professional misconduct, or any conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice. Before any such attorney is censured, suspended, or expelled, written charges under oath against him must be presented to the court, stating distinctly the grounds of complaint. The court may order the charges to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court and shall fix a time for hearing thereon. Thereupon a certified copy of the charges and order shall be served upon the attorney personally by the marshal or such other person as the court may designate, or in case it is established to the satisfaction of the court that personal service cannot be had, a certified copy of such charges and order shall be served upon him by mail, publication, or otherwise, as the court may direct. At any time after the filing of said written charges, the court shall have the power, pending the trial thereof, to suspend from practice at its bar the person charged. § 11–776. Retirement of judges—Length of service—Salary—Definitions—Recall to service.

(a) Any judge of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, any judge of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, as established by subchapter II and this subchapter, or any judge of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, may hereafter retire after having served as a judge of such court for a period or periods aggregating twenty years or more, whether continuously or not. Any judge who so retires shall receive annually in equal monthly installments, during the remainder of his life, a sum equal to such proportion of the salary received by such judge at the date of such retirement as the total of his aggregate years of service bears to the period of thirty years, the same to be paid in the same manner as the salary of such judge. In no event shall the sum received by any such judge hereunder be in excess of the salary of such judge at the date of such retirement. In computing the years of service under this section, service in either the Police Court of the District of Columbia or the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, or the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, as heretofore constituted, shall be included whether or not such service be continuous. The terms "retire" and "retirement" as used in this section shall mean and include retirement, resignation, or failure of reappointment upon the expiration of the term of office of an incumbent.

(b) Any judge receiving retirement salary under the provisions of this section may be called upon by the chief judge of The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia or the chief judge of The Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to perform such judicial duties as may be requested of him in either of said courts, or in the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, but in any event no such retired judge shall be required to render such service for more than ninety days in any calendar year after such retirement. In case of illness or disability precluding the rendering of such service such retired judge shall be fully relieved of any such duty during such illness or disability. § 11–801 [18: 241]. Establishment.

There is hereby established in the municipal court of the District of Columbia a small claims and conciliation branch. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PURPOSE

The principal purpose of legislation establishing Small Claims Branch of Municipal Court for the District of Columbia was to provide informality and the kind of friendly atmosphere not found in ordinary procedure, and to accomplish this purpose conciliation procedure was prescribed in every case. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

The purpose of legislation establishing small claims court was to secure prompt and inexpensive adjudication of small claims free from technicalities of procedural law, and Congress did not intend to deprive litigants of their lawful claims or defenses, or to substitute the abstract conception of justice of an individual judge for recognized rules of substantive law. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

In creating the small claims branch of the trial court, Congress did not intend to deprive litigants of their lawful claims or defenses, or to substitute the abstract conception of justice of an individual judge for recognized rules of substantive law. Universal Jewelry Company, Inc. v. McIver (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 226).

§ 11–802 [18: 241a]. Definitions.

Whenever used in this chapter—

(a) "Branch" means the small claims and conciliation branch of the municipal court, herein created.

(b) "Judge" means the judge or judges presiding in said branch.

(c) "Clerk" means the clerk or any assistant clerk of said municipal court assigned to said branch.

(d) "Court" means the municipal court of the District of Columbia and the several judges thereof. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 2.)

§ 11–803 [18: 241b]. Judges—Tenure—Rotation.

One or more judges of the municipal court shall serve in said branch for such periods and in such order of rotation as the judges of the court may determine. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 3.)

§ 11–804 [18: 241c]. Jurisdiction—Limited — Exclusive in certain actions—Authority of judges—Compensation.

(a) Said branch shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all cases within the jurisdiction of the court in which the amount of the plaintiff's claim or the claimed value of personal property in controversy does not exceed $50 exclusive of interest, attorneys' fees, protest fees, and costs. Said jurisdiction shall not include actions for recovery of the possession of real estate, whether or not such actions include a claim for arrears of rent, or personalty, or both arrears of rent and personalty.

(b) In order to effect the speedy settlement of controversies said branch shall also have authority with the consent of all parties to settle cases, irrespective of the amount involved, by the methods of arbitration and conciliation. The judges of said branch may also act as referees or arbitrators, either alone or in conjunction with other persons, under sections 16–1701 to 16–1719, or under the United States Arbitration Act of February 12, 1925 (U. S. C., 1934 ed., title 9, sections 1 to 15), or otherwise. No judge, officer, or other employee of the municipal court shall receive or accept any fee or compensation in addition to his salary for services performed under this subsection. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 4.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AMOUNT OF CLAIM AS CONTROLLING

The amount of plaintiff's claim and not amount of his possible or even probable ultimate recovery determines forum within the Municipal Court in which a plaintiff's action is to be lodged. Goldberg v. Roumel (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A 2d 253).

DEFENSES

An improvident or extravagant purchase may not be rescinded simply because it is contrary to the dictates of good judgment and a court has no basis for relieving one party from contract provisions to which he has agreed, merely because they operate disadvantageously as to him. Universal Jewelry Company, Inc. v. McIver (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68, A. 2d 226).

EMERGENCY PRICE CONTROL ACT

The small claims branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia had jurisdiction to entertain action by customer to recover $50 for alleged violation of price regulation promulgated under the Price Control Act, 50 U. S. C. App., § 925 (e). Hall v. Chaltis (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 699).

JURISDICTION

In an action brought to recover a balance on a sale of a pair of shoes for $15.00, the court not only had jurisdiction, but had exclusive jurisdiction and it was error to hold otherwise. Universal Jewelry Company, Inc. v. McIver (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 226).

§ 11–805 [18: 241d]. Commencement of action—Form of statement of claim—Preparation by clerk—Notice—How served, cost, form—Judgment by default—Memorandum to plaintiff.

(a) Actions shall be commenced in said branch by the filing of a statement of claim, in concise form and free of technicalities. The plaintiff or his agent shall verify the statement of claim by oath or affirmation in the form herein provided, or its equivalent, and shall affix his signature thereto. The clerk of said branch shall, at the request of any individual, prepare the statement of claim and other papers required to be filed in an action in this branch, but his services shall not be available to any corporation, partnership, or association in the preparation of such statements or other papers. A copy of the statement of claim and verification shall be made a part of the notice to be served upon the defendant named therein. The mode of service shall be by the United States marshal, as provided by law; or by registered mail with return receipt; or by any person not a party to or otherwise interested in the suit, especially appointed by the judge for that purpose.

(b) When notice is to be served by registered mail, the clerk shall inclose a copy of the statement of claim, verification, and notice in an envelope addressed to the defendant, prepay the postage with funds obtained from plaintiff, and mail the same forthwith, noting on the records the day and hour of mailing. When such receipt is returned, the clerk shall attach the same to the original statement of claim, and it shall constitute prima facie evidence of service upon the defendant.

(c) When served by a private individual, as above provided, he shall make proof of service by affidavit before the clerk, showing the time and place of such service.

(d) When served by the marshal, or by registered mail, the actual cost of service shall be taxable as costs. When served by an individual, as above provided, the cost of service, if any, shall not be taxable as costs.

(e) The statement of claim, verification, and notice shall be in the following or equivalent form, and shall be in lieu of any forms now employed and of any form of summons now provided by law:

(f) The foregoing verification shall entitle the plaintiff to a judgment by default, without further proof, upon failure of defendant to appear, when the claim of the plaintiff is for a liquidated amount; when the amount is unliquidated, plaintiff shall be required to present proof of his claim.

(g) The clerk shall furnish the plaintiff with a memorandum of the day and hour set for the hearing, which time shall be not less than 5 nor more than 15 days from the date of the filing of the action. All actions filed in this branch shall be made returnable herein. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 103, ch. 43, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SERVICE BY MAIL

The presumption must be that Congress intended service by registered mail to be so made as to insure due process of law. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

APPEARANCE TO QUASH SERVICE

Where motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment rested on claim that service on defendant had not been made and that Small Claims Branch of District of Columbia Municipal Court acquired no jurisdiction over defendant, motion was sufficiently broad to include by implication an attack on service of process, and irregularity was cured by subsequent filing of motion to quash service, and filing of motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment was "special" and not "general appearance", and going to trial on merits after denial of such motion did not preclude defendant from raising jurisdictional question on appeal. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 282).

PRACTICE OF LAW

Filling out and filing of blank forms necessary to commence an action in the small claims court by lay employees of an automobile association for its members does not constitute the unauthorized "practice of law", this section being intended to help layman in presenting small claims informally and providing that complaint may be verified by the plaintiff or his agent, who is not required to be an attorney. American Automobile Ass'n v. Merrick, 1940 (117 F. 2d 23, 73 App. D. C. 151, modifying Merrick v. American Automobile Ass'n, D. C., D. C., 1940, 31 F. Supp. 876).

PURPOSE

The purpose of legislation establishing small claims court was to secure prompt and inexpensive adjudication of small claims free from technicalities of procedural law, and Congress did not intend to deprive litigants of their lawful claims or defenses, or to substitute the abstract conception of justice of an individual judge for recognized rules of substantive law. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

Process can only be served as provided by this section or by rules adopted pursuant to this section and registered mail may only be employed as a means of serving process when specifically authorized by law. Craig v. Heil (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 871).

SERVICE, SUFFICIENCY OF

Where record showed that registered letter intended to constitute service of process under rule of Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of Municipal Court was delivered by postman to defendant's wife, service was valid and justified a refusal to vacate default judgment, notwithstanding that defendant testified that his wife failed to either deliver or inform him of the registered letter. Maktos v. Hill (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 706).

Notice by registered mail delivered to wife of defendant, who was then serving in United States Army in time of war and who had been out of country for four months prior thereto, was not calculated to give reasonable notice or any notice to defendant, and attempted service was invalid and should have been quashed. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 232).

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' CIVIL RELIEF ACT

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, 50 U. S. C. App. § 520, does not exempt defendant soldier from service of civil process. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 232.)

WHO MAY SERVE

The act permits service by persons designated for that purpose by the court. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

§ 11–806 [18: 241e]. Separate docket.

A separate small claims and conciliation docket shall be maintained in said branch, in which shall be indicated every proceeding and ruling had in each case. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 6.)

§ 11–807 [18: 241f]. Fees and costs—Waiver—Discretion of court.

The fee for issuing summons and copies, trial, judgment, and satisfaction in an action in said branch shall be not more than $1. Other fees shall be as the court shall prescribe. The judge sitting in said branch shall have full discretionary power to waive the prepayment of costs or the payment of costs accruing during the action upon the sworn statement of the plaintiff or upon other satisfactory evidence of his inability to pay such costs. When costs are so waived the notation to be made on the records of said branch shall be "Prepayment of costs waived," or "Costs waived." The term "pauper" or "informa pauperis" shall not be employed in said branch. If a party shall fail to pay accrued costs, though able to do so, the judge of said branch shall have power to deny said party the right to file any new case in said branch while such costs remain unpaid, and likewise to deny such litigant the right to proceed further in any case pending in said branch. The award of costs shall be according to the discretion of the judge who may include therein the reasonable cost of bonds and undertakings, and other reasonable expenses incident to the suit, incurred by either party. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 7.)

CROSS REFERENCES

General provisions concerning costs do not apply to municipal courts, §§ 11–722, 11–1509.

Other provisions concerning deposit of costs by poor persons, § 11–1508.

(a) On the return day mentioned in section 11–805, or such later time as the judge may set, the trial shall be had. Immediately prior to the trial of any case, the judge shall make an earnest effort to settle the controversy by conciliation. If the judge fails to induce the parties to settle their differences without a trial, he shall proceed with the hearing on the merits pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) The parties and witnesses shall be sworn. The judge shall conduct the trial in such manner as to do substantial justice between the parties according to the rules of substantive law, and shall not be bound by the statutory provisions or rules of practice, procedure, pleading, or evidence, except such provisions relating to privileged communications.

(c) If the defendant fails to appear, judgment shall be entered for the plaintiff by default as above provided, or under any rule or rules of the municipal court now existing or hereafter promulgated, or on ex-parte proof. If the plaintiff fails to appear, the suit may be dismissed for want of prosecution, or a nonsuit may be ordered, or defendant may proceed to a trial on the merits, or the case may be continued or returned to the files for further proceedings on a later date, as the judge may direct. If both parties fail to appear, the judge may return the case to the files, or order the same dismissed for want of prosecution, or make any other just and proper disposition thereof, as justice may require. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 8.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

In small claims branch of Municipal Court, trial judge is not bound by statutory provisions or rules of practice, procedure, pleading, or evidence except those relating to privileged communications. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

DEFAULT JUDGMENT, SETTING ASIDE

Where at time plaintiff obtained default judgment for purchase price of a fur coat, there was withheld from the court the information that purchaser's action in Small Claims Court against plaintiff to recover payments made on the coat had been continued that same day, setting aside the default judgment even after expiration of the term was proper. Marvin's Credit v. Kitching (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 866).

The determination of a motion to vacate a default judgment on basis of affidavits instead of taking testimony in open court is a matter resting largely in the discretion of the trial court. Marvin's Credit v. Kitching (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 866).

DISCRETION

In action in Small Claims Branch of Municipal Court, presiding judge abused his discretion in refusing to grant counsel for plaintiff a 30-minute continuance to obtain attendance of witness and dismissing action for want of prosecution upon refusal of counsel to take a nonsuit. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

DISMISSAL

Summary dismissals in the small claims branch of Municipal Court without a full hearing from both sides are not justified save in exceptional cases. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

Where each plaintiff sought recovery of $50 on theory that each had delivered $50 to defendant on his undertaking to acquire title to an apartment house, and that defendant's resale of apartment house obligated him to return the sums received from plaintiffs, dismissal of the action by small claims branch of Municipal Court without hearing defendant's testimony was not justified by record. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

DUTY OF JUDGE

The trial judge of small claims branch of Municipal Court is required, prior to trial, to make earnest effort to settle controversy by conciliation, and to elicit from defendant or his attorney a statement regarding nature of defense, but, if such effort fails judge must conduct trial in manner as to do substantial justice. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

Small Claims Court, by ordering action on a note for trial without ascertaining whether defendants claimed a defense, and without making any effort to settle controversy by conciliation, violated § 11–801 et seq. establishing and prescribing procedure in such court and Small Claims Rule 14c. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

Conciliation procedure in small claims cases is made mandatory by this section and court rules, and, before ordering any such case for trial, presiding judge is required to elicit from defendant the nature of his defense, and make a real, and not merely a perfunctory, effort to settle controversy by conciliation. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

EVIDENCE, ADMISSIBILITY

Where tenant was compelled to pay water bill which accrued during a prior tenancy, and thereafter sought reimbursement from prior tenant, water bill prepared by official charged with duty of keeping records and collecting charges for water services was admissible under this section providing for conduct of trial in small claims and conciliation branch of Municipal Court so as to do substantial justice, and made a prima facie case. Simmons v. Quick (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 656).

SUBSTANTIAL JUSTICE

Under this section providing that judge of small claims conciliation branch of Municipal Court should conduct trial so as to administer substantial justice between the parties, "substantial justice" is justice administered according to the rules of substantive law, notwithstanding errors of procedure which do not deprive litigants of substantive rights. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

Under this section providing for conduct of trial so as to do "substantial justice" in small claims and conciliation branch of Municipal Court, where payee on note given for horseback riding instructions failed to perform, in action on notes judge of small claims court could not limit recovery by holders in due course to unpaid balance less discount charged by holders for purchase of notes, by ignoring substantive law rule that holder in due course of negotiable instrument was entitled to payment of full amount. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

An order of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, Civil Division, dismissing plaintiff's second amended particulars of demand on ground that relief demanded was less than minimum jurisdiction of court, was improper, where amount claimed by plaintiff in good faith in bill of particulars exceeded jurisdictional amount. Goldberg v. Roumel (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 253).

Summary dismissal by Municipal Court of Class B debt actions, which are claims for more than $50 but not more than $500, and which may be brought by filing a bill of particulars, is not to be encouraged. Goldberg v. Roumel (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 40 A. 2d 253).

§ 11–809 [18: 241h]. Set-off or counterclaim—Pleading—Retention of jurisdiction.

If the defendant asserts a set-off or counterclaim, the judge may, in his discretion, require a formal plea of set-off to be filed, or may waive the same. If plaintiff requires time to prepare his defense against such counterclaim or set-off, the judge may, in his discretion, continue the case for such purpose. If the set-off or counterclaim be for more than the jurisdictional limit of said branch but within the jurisdictional limit of this court, the action shall nevertheless remain in said branch and be tried therein in its entirety. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 105, ch. 43, § 9.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MOTION TO STRIKE

Where plaintiff in action on wage claim in small claims branch of Municipal Court filed a counterclaim seeking damages of $3,000 for libel and slander, counterclaim became subject to motion to strike for want of jurisdiction, or court on its own motion should have noticed its lack of jurisdiction and should have stricken the counterclaim. 1425 F St. Corp. v. Jardin (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 278).

§ 11–810 [18: 241i]. Cases may be certified by any judge of the municipal court—Recertification.

Whenever the interests of justice shall seem to require it, and all parties consent thereto, any judge of the municipal court may certify any case to said branch for conciliation, or to endeavor to obtain a complete or partial agreed statement of facts or stipulation, which will simplify and expedite the ultimate trial of the case. The trial of any such case if all parties consent may be completed in said branch or in the absence of such consent shall be recertified to another judge of the court for trial. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 10.)

§ 11–811 [18: 241j]. Judgment—Stay of entry and execution—Instalment payment.

When judgment is to be rendered and the party against whom it is to be entered requests it, the judge shall inquire fully into the earnings and financial status of such party and shall have full discretionary power to stay the entry of judgment, and to stay execution, except in cases involving wage claims, and to order partial payments in such amounts, over such periods, and upon such terms, as shall seem just under the circumstances and as will assure a definite and steady reduction of the judgment until it is finally and completely satisfied. Upon a showing that such party has failed to meet any instalment payment without just excuse, the stay of execution shall be vacated. When no stay of execution has been ordered or when such stay of execution has been vacated as provided herein, the party in whose favor the judgment has been entered shall have the right to avail himself of all remedies otherwise available in said municipal court for the enforcement of such judgment. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 11.)

§ 11–812 [18: 241k]. Judgment for wages—Examination—Payment.

In all cases where the judgment is founded in whole or in part on a claim for wages or personal services the judge shall, upon motion of the party obtaining judgment, order the appearance of the party against whom such judgment has been entered, but not more often than once each four weeks for oral examination under oath as to his financial status and his ability to pay such judgment, and the judge shall make such supplementary orders as may seem just and proper to effectuate the payment of the judgment upon reasonable terms. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSONAL SERVICES

Under rule 19 of the small claims branch of Municipal Court that the judge shall, upon motion, order the appearance of judgment debtor for examination as to financial ability to pay judgment based on claim for wages or personal services, the expression "personal services" should not be given a wider meaning than the word "wages" and does not include professional services rendered by a dentist, a physician, or an attorney at law. Price v. Quill (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 46 A. 2d 311).

§ 11–813 [18: 241*l*]. Clerk to keep record and report.

The clerk of said branch shall maintain an accurate daily record of all transactions had therein and shall prepare and transmit to the Attorney-General of the United States a monthly report in detail showing the number and nature of all such transactions. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 13.)

§ 11–814 [18: 241m]. Practice—Rules of municipal court to apply.

All provisions of law relating to the municipal court and the rules of the municipal court shall apply to the practice herein so far as they may be made applicable and are not in conflict with the provisions of this chapter or with the rules hereunder promulgated. In case of conflict the provisions of this chapter and the rules hereunder promulgated shall control. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 14.)

§ 11–815 [18: 241n]. Rules of procedure.

The judges of the municipal court shall forthwith make rules to provide for a simple, inexpensive, and speedy procedure to effectuate the purposes of this chapter and shall have power to prescribe, modify, and improve the forms to be used therein, from time to time, to insure the proper administration of justice and to accomplish the purposes of this chapter. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 15.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

The procedure in Small Claims Branch of District of Columbia Municipal Court is of simplified nature and strict rules of pleading and practice do not apply. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 232).

CONCILIATION

Small Claims Rule 14c prescribing conciliation procedure in every case has the force and effect of law. Potomac Small Loan Co. v. Myles (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 34 A. 2d 609).

DISMISSAL

Where each plaintiff sought recovery of $50 on theory that each had delivered $50 to defendant on his undertaking to acquire title to an apartment house, and that defendant's resale of apartment house obligated him to return the sums received from plaintiffs, dismissal of the action by small claims branch of Municipal Court without hearing defendant's testimony was not justified by record. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

Summary dismissals in the small claims branch of Municipal Court without a full hearing from both sides are not justified save in exceptional cases. Hodgkins v. Beckner (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 113).

RULES—VALIDITY—DUE PROCESS

The requirements of due process can be satisfied by compliance with the provisions of the statute as construed in Rule 9 (Rules for the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia), the latter constituting a reasonable exercise of the rule-making power delegated by the statute to the court, and which, when properly construed, neither abridges nor extends the jurisdiction of the court beyond the limits of the act itself, and therefore, has the force and effect of law. Wise v. Herzog (72 App. D. C. 335, 114 Fed. (2d) 486).

§ 11-816 [18: 241o]. Sessions.

The small-claims branch with a judge in attendance shall be open for the transaction of business on every day of the year except Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and legal holidays, and shall also hold at least one night session during each week. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 16.)

§ 11-817 [18: 241p]. Review—Writ of error.

Nothing in this chapter contained shall deprive any party of the right now existing to petition the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for a writ of error to review any judgment rendered in said branch of said municipal court. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 106, ch. 43, § 17.)

§ 11-818 [18: 241q]. Jury trial—Assignment to regular branch.

In any case filed or pending in said branch in which any party is entitled to demand a trial by jury and files such demand, the case shall be assigned to and tried in one of the regular branches of the court under the procedure provided for such trials. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 107, ch. 43, § 18.)

§ 11-819 [18: 241r]. Judgment—Enforcement.

Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, or in the rules promulgated hereunder, a party obtaining a judgment in said branch shall be entitled to the same remedies, processes, costs, and benefits as are given or inure to other judgment creditors in said municipal court. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 107, ch. 43, § 19.)

REPEAL

Section 20, of act of March 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 107, ch. 43, read as follows: "All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this chapter are hereby repealed."

§ 11-820 [18: 241t]. Saving clause.

If any provision of this chapter, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the chapter, and the application of such provisions to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby. (Mar. 5, 1938, 52 Stat. 107, ch. 43, § 21.)

§ 11-901 [18: 251]. Establishment.

There is hereby created and established in and for the District of Columbia a court, to be known as "The juvenile court of the District of Columbia." (Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The numbers carried in brackets in the black-letter lines are, except in the case of the first section, from the Fifth Supplement to the 1929 Code. The act of June 1, 1938, was entitled an act to amend "An Act to create a juvenile court in and for the District of Columbia, and for other purposes." The subject-matter of the sections of the new act carries the same section numbers as the act of March 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, which it purports to amend. The act of 1938 was both superseding and amendatory in character. Similar or corresponding sections of the 1929 Code will be referred to in a note whenever the context of the sections warrant that this be done.

The act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 605, ch. 309, § 43, provided as follows: "This chapter may be cited as the 'Juvenile Court Act of the District of Columbia.'"

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

The social considerations underlying this chapter and the informality of procedure permitted under it are not incompatible with according to one accused of crime the rights guaranteed him by the Constitution. Evans v. Rives, 1942 (126 F. 2d 633, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 242).

§ 11–902 [18: 251a]. Purpose and basic aims.

The purpose of this chapter is to secure for each child under its jurisdiction such care and guidance, preferably in his own home, as will serve the child's welfare and the best interests of the state; to conserve and strengthen the child's family ties whenever possible, removing him from the custody of his parents only when his welfare or the safety and protection of the public cannot be adequately safeguarded without such removal; and, when such child is removed from his own family, to secure for him custody, care, and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given by his parents. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The words of this section were set out in the initial paragraph of the 1938 act.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADEQUATE PARENTAL CARE

A judgment of the juvenile court of the District of Columbia adjudging that a 15 year old girl was without adequate parental care and support and that she should be placed under guardianship of a person not related to her was inconsistent with constitutional principles concerning inherent right of parents to custody of their children and this chapter, where evidence established that the girl's mother had given the girl continuous and devoted care which had resulted in a well developed, well educated, healthy child. In re Stuart, 1940 (114 F. 2d 825, 72 App. D. C. 389).

"Adequate parental case," as used in this chapter means such care as is necessary to accomplish purpose thereof. In re Stuart, 1940 (114 F. 2d 825, 72 App. D. C. 389).

CONSTRUCTION

This chapter is not rendered ambiguous by use of the disjunctive and conjunctive in this section, and this chapter cannot be construed in the disjunctive throughout so as to authorize the court to remove a child from custody of its parents either when child's welfare requires such removal or when safety and protection of public demands it. In re Stuart, 1940 (114 F. 2d 825, 72 App. D. C. 389).

REHABILITATION

The objective of legislation dealing with juvenile offenders is rehabilitation, not punishment. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

§ 11–903 [18: 252]. Construction of this chapter.

This chapter shall be liberally construed to accomplish the purpose herein sought. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 2.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 11–901.

§ 11–904 [18: 253]. Court of record—Seal—Oaths.

Said court shall be a court of record. The court shall have a seal, and the judge or acting judge thereof shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section contains in substance the provisions of title 18, § 268 of the Code of 1929.

§ 11–905 [18: 254]. Terms.

The said court shall hold a term on the first Monday of every month and continue the same from day to day as long as it may be necessary for the transaction of its business. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 4.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section reads the same as title 18, § 269 of the Code of 1929.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER FORMER LAW

Court may extend term. Young v. Hesse (58 App. D. C. 362, 30 Fed. (2d) 986).

§ 11–906 [18: 255]. Application of chapter and definitions.

(a) This chapter shall apply to any person under the age of 18 years—

(1) Who has violated any law; or who has violated any ordinance or regulation of the District of Columbia; or

(2) Who is habitually beyond the control of his parent, custodian, or guardian; or

(3) Who is habitually truant from school or home; or

(4) Who habitually so deports himself as to injure or endanger himself or the morals or safety of himself or others; or

(5) Who is abandoned by his parent, guardian, or custodian; or

(6) Who is homeless or without adequate parental support or care, or whose parent, guardian, or custodian neglects or refuses to provide support and care necessary for his health or welfare; or

(7) Whose parent, guardian, or custodian neglects or refuses to provide or avail himself of the special care made necessary by his mental condition; or

(8) Who associates with vagrants, vicious, or immoral persons; or

(9) Who engages in an occupation or is in a situation dangerous to life or limb or injurious to the health or morals of himself or others; or

(b) When used in this chapter—

(1) The words "the court" means the juvenile court of the District of Columbia;

(2) The word "judge" means the judge of the juvenile court.

(3) The word "child" means a person under the age of 18 years;

(4) The word "adult" means a person 18 years of age or older. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 5.)

§ 11–907 [18: 256]. Jurisdiction—Original and exclusive.

1. Children.—Except as herein otherwise provided, the court shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction of all cases and in proceedings:

(a) Concerning any child coming within the terms and provisions of this chapter.

(b) Concerning any person under 21 years of age charged with having violated any law, or violated any ordinance or regulation of the District of Columbia, prior to having become 18 years of age, subject to appropriate statutes of limitation.

(c) To determine the paternity of any child alleged to have been born out of wedlock and to provide for his support in accordance with the provisions of sections 11–943 to 11–950; in which cases the respondent shall be entitled to jury trial unless he shall voluntarily waive such right and request trial by the court.

(d) To determine the custody or guardianship of the person of any child coming within the provisions of this chapter.

Nothing contained herein shall deprive other courts of the right to determine the custody of children upon writs of habeas corpus, or when such custody is incidental to the determination of causes pending in such courts.

When jurisdiction shall have been obtained by the court in the case of any child, such child shall continue under the jurisdiction of the court until he becomes 21 years of age unless discharged prior thereto: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall affect the jurisdiction of other courts over offenses committed by such child after he reaches the age of 18.

2. Adults.—The court shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction to determine cases of adults charged with wilfully contributing to, encouraging, or tending to cause by any act or omission any condition which would bring a child within the provisions of this chapter. The court shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in all cases arising under sections 22–902 to 22–905. Nothing herein shall be construed as having the effect of limiting the jurisdiction of said court in matters arising under sections 36–201 to 36–227. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 596, ch. 309, § 6; July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 735, ch. 525.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is somewhat similar to title 18, § 258 of the 1929 Code.

AMENDMENT

The act of 1940 added the last sentence to subsection "2. Adults."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BASTARDY

Juvenile court of District of Columbia has jurisdiction of bastardy proceedings. Fillipone v. United States (55 App. D. C. 126, 2 Fed. (2d) 928).

In bastardy proceedings in juvenile court, failure to pay for support of child is not punishable with commitment to jail. Peak v. Calhoun (63 App. D. C. 113, 69 Fed. (2d) 989).

The juvenile court, which has exclusive jurisdiction of action to determine parentage of illegitimate child and fix putative father's responsibility for child's support may not entertain complaint filed by mother over two years after child's birth. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

CONTRACT REGARDING ILLEGITIMATE CHILD

An action by illegitimate child's mother against putative father for amount due under his contract to pay mother weekly sum for child's support in consideration of her agreement not to assert her statutory right of action for child's maintenance is not a "bastardy proceeding" within juvenile court's exclusive jurisdiction, but an action for damages from breach of promise made on good and valid "consideration" and hence within Municipal Court's jurisdiction. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

HISTORICAL

This act was limited by the Compulsory Education Act of June 8, 1906, and the juvenile court's jurisdiction was limited to persons between the ages of 14 and 17 years. Brown v. Sellers (53 App. D. C. 378, 292 Fed. 655).

INFANTS

The terms of the statute are not limited in application to persons of any given class, but for the purpose of declaring that persons standing in loco parentis should be included within the provisions of the act. Frizzell v. United States (55 App. D. C. 103, 2 Fed. (2d) 398).

Marriage of a female child, in itself, does not automatically terminate the control of delinquent or dependent children. Richardson v. Browning (57 App. D. C. 186, 18 Fed. (2d) 1008).

The police court and the juvenile court have concurrent jurisdiction to examine, commit, or admit to bail, minors under 17 years, charged with felonies. Peak v. Reed (58 App. D. C. 44, 24 Fed. (2d) 619).

Courts do not look with favor on the construction of a law, if not unavoidable, which declares children illegitimate. Thomas v. Murphy (71 App. D. C. 69, 107 Fed. (2d) 268).

This section fully defines jurisdiction of the juvenile court for the District of Columbia, and such jurisdiction relates only to cases which involve children. In re Wilson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 816).

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS

The fundamental philosophy of juvenile court laws is that a delinquent child should be considered and treated not as a criminal but as a person requiring care, education, and protection, and the primary function of juvenile courts, properly considered, is not conviction or punishment for crime but crime prevention and delinquency rehabilitation, and hence procedures before such courts may not become the basis for criminal records. Thomas v. U. S., 1941 (121 F. 2d 905, 74 App. D. C. 167).

NONSUPPORT

Since the jurisdiction conferred upon the juvenile court for the District of Columbia relates only to cases involving children arising under this chapter, the juvenile court exceeded its jurisdiction in attempting to hold defendant for nonsupport of his wife only; the welfare of no children being involved. In re Wilson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 816).

POWERS

Juvenile court of the District has jurisdiction of an incorrigible girl, in proceedings to commit her to the National Training School. Richardson v. Browning (57 App. D. C. 186, 18 Fed. (2d) 1008).

The court has inherent power to pass on a motion for new trial. Young v. Hesse (58 App. D. C. 362, 30 Fed. (2d) 986).

SEPARATE PROCEEDING

Where commitment in truancy case had been set aside and the case dismissed, jurisdiction of infant could not be based thereon in a separate proceeding against infant. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

§ 11–908 [18: 257]. Information—Investigation — Petition—Contents.

Whenever any person shall give to the director of social work of the court, or other officer of the court duly designated as his representative, information in his possession that a child is within the provisions of this chapter, it shall be the duty of a duly designated officer of the court to make preliminary investigation to determine whether the interests of the public or of the child require that further action be taken and report his finding, together with a statement of the facts, to the director of social work. Whenever practicable such inquiry shall include a preliminary investigation of the home and environmental situation of the child, his previous history, and the circumstances which were the subject of the information. If the director of social work finds that jurisdiction should be acquired, he shall, after consultation with and approval by the corporation counsel or assistant corporation counsel assigned to the court, authorize a petition to be filed. In any case in which said director fails to so find, the person giving information to the director may present the facts to the corporation counsel or his assistant, who, after investigation by an officer of the court as herein provided, may authorize a petition to be filed. The proceedings shall be entitled, "In the matter of ———, a child under eighteen years of age."

The petition shall be verified by the officer making the investigation, or some other person having personal knowledge of the case, and shall allege briefly the facts which bring said child within the provisions of this chapter, and stating the name, age, and residence (1) of the child; (2) of his parents; (3) of his legal guardian, if there be one; (4) of the person or persons having custody or control of the child; and (5) of the nearest known relative, if no parent or guardian can be found. If any of the facts herein required are not known by the petitioner the petition shall so state. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 597, ch. 309, § 7.)

After a petition shall have been filed, unless the parties hereinafter named shall voluntarily appear, the court shall issue a summons reciting briefly the substance of the petition, and requiring the person or persons who have the custody or control of the child to appear personally and bring the child before the court at a time and place stated. If the person so summoned shall be other than the parent or guardian of the child, then the parent or guardian or both shall also be notified of the pendency of the case and of the time and place appointed, by personal service before the hearing, except as hereinafter provided: Provided, That if the child is married then the other spouse shall also be so notified. Summons may be issued requiring the appearance of any other person whose presence is necessary.

If it appears that the child is in such condition or surroundings that his welfare requires that his custody be immediately assumed by the court, the judge may cause to be endorsed upon the summons an order that the officer serving the same shall at once take the child into custody. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 8.)

§ 11–910 [18: 259]. Service of summons.

Service of summons shall be made personally by the delivery of a true and attested copy to the person summoned: Provided, That where reasonable but unsuccessful efforts have been made to make personal service of summons or notice and if it shall appear that it is impracticable to do so, the court may make an order providing for service of summons or notice by registered mail to the last-known address or by publication, or both, as may be deemed necessary. It shall be sufficient to confer jurisdiction if service is effected at any time before the date fixed in the summons for the return thereof: Provided, That on request of the parent or guardian or person having custody of the child, the hearing on the petition shall not take place until three days subsequent to service of said summons.

The United States marshal for the District of Columbia or his deputy shall execute the orders and processes of the court in the same manner as he executes those of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall designate at least one of his deputies to serve at the court, where he shall perform such services as are required by the judge. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 9.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Service of process, Rule 4.

§ 11–911 [18: 260]. Failure to obey summons—Contempt—Warrant.

If any person summoned as herein provided shall, without reasonable cause, fail to appear, he may be proceeded against for contempt of court. In case the summons can not be served, or the parties served fail to obey the same, or the welfare of the child requires that he shall be brought forthwith into the custody of the court, a warrant may be issued against the parent or guardian or against the child himself. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 10.)

§ 11–912 [18: 261]. Taking child into custody—Release to parent, guardian, custodian, or probation officer.

Whenever any officer takes a child into custody, he shall, unless it is impracticable or has been otherwise ordered by the court, accept the written promise of the parent, guardian, or custodian to bring the child to the court at the time fixed. Thereupon such child may be released in the custody of a parent, guardian, or custodian. If not so released, such child shall be placed in the custody of a probation officer or other person designated by the court, or taken immediately to the court or to a place of detention provided by the Board of Public Welfare, and the officer taking him shall immediately notify the court and shall file a petition when directed to do so by the court.

In the case of any child whose custody has been assumed by the court and pending the final disposition of the case, the child may be released in the custody of a parent, guardian, or custodian, or of a probation officer or other person appointed by the court, to be brought before the court at the time designated. When not released as herein provided, such child, pending the hearing of the case, shall be detained in such place of detention as shall be provided by the Board of Public Welfare, subject to further order of the court.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as forbidding any peace officer, police officer, or probation officer from immediately taking into custody any child who is found violating any law or ordinance, or who is reasonably believed to be a fugitive from his parents or from justice, or whose surroundings are such as to endanger his health, morals, or safety, unless immediate action is taken. In every such case the officer taking the child into custody shall immediately report the fact to the court and the case shall then be proceeded with as provided in this chapter. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 598, ch. 309, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DETENTION WITHOUT ARREST RECORD

The arrest of a juvenile by officers having reasonable grounds for belief that the juvenile had committed a felony, and the detention of the juvenile at police station for three hours without making any record of the arrest, was not a violation of this section. Harper v. Strange (App. D. C. 1946, 158 F. 2d 408).

§ 11–913 [18: 262]. Transfer from other courts.

If during the pendency of a criminal or quasi-criminal charge against any person under 21 years of age, in any other court, it shall be ascertained that said person was under the age of 18 years at the time of committing the alleged offense, it shall be the duty of such court to transfer such other case immediately, together with all the papers, documents, and testimony connected therewith, to the juvenile court. Such other court making such transfer shall order the child to be taken forthwith to the place of detention designated by the court or to that court itself, or release such child in the custody of some suitable person to appear before the juvenile court at a time designated. The court shall thereupon proceed to hear and dispose of such case in the same manner as if it had been instituted in that court in the first instance. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 12.)

§ 11–914 [18: 263]. Waiver of jurisdiction in case of felony—Transfer of case.

If a child sixteen years of age or older is charged with an offense which would amount to a felony in the case of an adult, or any child charged with an offense which if committed by an adult is punishable by death or life imprisonment, the judge may, after full investigation, waive jurisdiction and order such child held for trial under the regular procedure of the court which would have jurisdiction of such offense if committed by an adult; or such other court may exercise the powers conferred upon the juvenile court in this Act in conducting and disposing of such cases. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 13; May 15, 1947, 61 Stat. 92, ch. 57.)

AMENDMENTS

Act May 15, 1947, cited to text, inserted the clause "or any child charged with an offense which if committed by an adult is punishable by death or life imprisonment."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DELAY OF PROCEEDINGS

Proceedings against a child should not be delayed in order that it may become possible to try him as adults are tried. Williams v. Huff, 1944 (142 F. 2d 91, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 31).

§ 11–915 [18: 264]. Hearing—Informal, general public excluded, right to jury trial—Disposal of child—Parent—Right to be heard—Order of commitment—Protection of child—Effect of evidence.

The court may conduct the hearing in an informal manner, and may adjourn the hearing from time to time. In the hearing of any case the general public shall be excluded and only such persons as have a direct interest in the case and their representatives admitted. All cases involving children may be heard separately and apart from the trial of cases against adults. The court shall hear and determine all cases of children without a jury unless a jury be demanded by the child, his parent, or guardian or the court.

If the court shall find that the child comes within the provisions of this chapter, it may by order duly entered proceed as follows:

(1) Place the child on probation or under supervision in his own home or in the custody of a relative or other fit person, upon such terms as the court shall determine.

(2) Commit the child to the Board of Public Welfare; or to the National Training School for Girls or the National Training School for Boys if in need of such care as is given in such schools; or to a qualified suitable private institution or agency willing and able to assume the education, care, and maintenance of such child without expense to the public.

(3) Make such further disposition of the child as may be provided by law and as the court may deem to be best for the best interests of the child: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed as authorizing the removal of the child from the custody of his parents unless his welfare and the safety and protection of the public can not be adequately safeguarded without such removal.

Whenever a child is committed by the court to custody other than that of its parent, the court may, after giving the parent a reasonable opportunity to be heard, adjudge that such parent shall pay in such manner as the court may direct such sum as will cover in whole or in part the support of such child, and if such parent shall willfully fail or refuse to pay such sum, he may be proceeded against as provided by law for cases of desertion or failure to provide subsistence.

Whenever the court shall commit a child to any institution or agency, it shall transmit with the order of commitment a summary of its information concerning such child.

No adjudication upon the status of any child in the jurisdiction of the court shall operate to impose any of the civil disabilities ordinarily imposed by conviction, nor shall any child be deemed a criminal by reason of such adjudication, nor shall such adjudication be deemed a conviction of a crime, nor shall any child be charged with or convicted of a crime in any court, except as provided in section 11–914. The disposition of a child or any evidence given in the court shall not be admissible as evidence against the child in any case or proceeding in any other court, nor shall such disposition, or evidence or adjudication operate to disqualify a child in any future civil-service examination, appointment, or application for public service under either the Government of the United States or of the District of Columbia. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 599, ch. 309, § 14.)

Notice from National Training School when no accommodations are available, § 32–817.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ISSUE ON APPEAL

On appeal from order committing infant to National Training School for Boys until 21 years of age, the issue was whether there was sufficient evidence to support a finding that the boy's welfare or the safety and protection of the public required removal from the home of his parents. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

JURISDICTION

That evidence failed to support petition in proceeding before juvenile court of District of Columbia involving a question of adequate parental care of a 15 year old girl did not affect the court's "jurisdiction" to hear the proceeding and to make an order adjudging that the girl was without adequate parental care and support and that she should be placed under guardianship of a person not related to her, although evidence made the court's action erroneous and subject to reversal on appeal. In re Stuart, 1940 (114 F. 2d 825, 72 App. D. C. 389).

The juvenile court of the District of Columbia had "jurisdiction" to make an order adjudging that a 15 year old girl was without adequate parental care and support and that she should be placed under guardianship of a person not related to her where parties were before the court, and case described in petition was within class of cases which this chapter gave the court power to deal with, and petition on its face stated a cause of action. In re Stuart, 1940 (114 F. 2d 825, 72 App. D. C. 389).

SUFFICIENCY OF FINDINGS

A finding that infant's welfare and the safety and protection of the public could not be adequately safeguarded without removing infant from his home and parents was not sustained by the evidence. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

§ 11–916 [18: 265]. Modification of judgment—Return of child to parents—Petition of parent.

An order of commitment or probation made by the court in the case of a child shall be subject to modification or revocation from time to time.

A parent, guardian, or next friend of a child who has been committed by the court to the custody of an institution, agency, or person, may at any time file with the court a verified petition, making application for modification or revocation of an order of commitment or probation, stating that such institution, agency, or person has denied application for the release of the child or has failed to act upon such application within a reasonable time. If the court is of the opinion that an investigation should be had, it may, upon due notice to all concerned, proceed to hear and determine the question at issue. It may thereupon order that such child be restored to the custody of its parent or guardian or be retained in the custody of the institution, agency, or person; and may direct such institution, agency, or person to make such other arrangements for the child's care and welfare as the circumstances of the case may require; or the court may make a further order or commitment. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 600, ch. 309, § 15.)

§ 11–917 [18: 266]. Appointment of guardian.

Whenever in the course of a proceeding instituted under this chapter it shall appear to the court that the welfare of a child will be promoted by the appointment of a relative or other suitable individual as guardian of its person, when such child is not committed to an institution or to the custody of an incorporated society, the court shall have jurisdiction to make such appointment either upon the application of the child or some relative or next friend or upon the court's own motion, and in that event an order to show cause may be made by the court to be served upon the parent or parents or custodian of said child in such manner and for such time prior to the hearing as the court may deem reasonable. In a case arising under this chapter the court may also determine as between parents whether the father or the mother shall have the custody and control of said child. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 16.)

§ 11–918 [18: 267]. Selection of custodial agency—Religious faith.

In placing a child under any guardianship or custody other than that of its parent, the court shall, when practicable, select a person, or an institution or agency governed by persons of like religious faith as that of the parents of such child, or in case of a difference in the religious faith of the parents, then of the religious faith of the child, or if the religious faith of the child is not ascertained, then of either of the parents. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 17.)

All provisions of this chapter relative to procedure in cases of children so far as practicable shall be construed as applying also to cases against adults arising under section 11–907 with the consent of the defendant or when not inconsistent with other provisions of law relating to the conduct of adult cases. Proceedings may be instituted upon complaint of an interested party or upon the court's own motion, and a reasonable opportunity to appear shall be afforded the respondent. The court may issue a summons, a warrant of arrest, or other process in order to secure or to compel the attendance of any necessary person. Any person who by act or omission willfully causes, encourages, or contributes to any condition which would bring a child within the provisions of this chapter, or who by such act or omission tends to cause such a condition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding $200 or imprisoned not exceeding 12 months, or by both fine and imprisonment. Upon the trial of such cases the court shall have power to impose such sentence as the law provides, or may suspend sentence and place on probation, and by order impose upon such adult such duty as shall be deemed to be for the best interests of the child or other persons concerned. If an adult is charged with an offense for which he is entitled to a trial by jury, he shall be so tried unless he shall expressly waive his right to such a trial. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 18.)

§ 11–920 [18: 269]. Appointment, qualifications, oath, and salary of judge.

The judge of the court shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the consent of the Senate, for a term of 6 years, or until his successor is appointed and confirmed. To be eligible for appointment as judge a person must be a member of the bar, preferably of the District of Columbia, and have a knowledge of social problems and procedure and an understanding of child psychology. The judge shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take the oath prescribed for judges of courts of the United States. The salary of the judge shall be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, § 673). (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 19.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The section contains in substance the provisions of title 18, § 252 of the Code of 1929.

TEMPORARY ADDITIONAL JUDGE

The act of June 20, 1949 (63 Stat. 214, ch. 231), provided: "That the President is authorized to appoint, by and with the consent of the Senate, for a term of six years, or until his successor is appointed and confirmed, one additional judge for the juvenile court of the District of Columbia, who shall at the time of appointment be a resident of the District of Columbia. The position occupied by the present judge of said juvenile court shall be abolished when a vacancy shall occur in said position or at the expiration of the present six-year term of said judge, whichever shall first occur."

§ 11–921 [18: 270]. Filling vacancy in judgeship.

In cases of sickness, absence, disability, or death of the judge of the juvenile court, the chief justice or acting chief justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall designate one of the judges of the municipal court of said District to discharge the duties of said judge of the juvenile court until such disability be removed or vacancy filled. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 601, ch. 309, § 20.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section corresponds to title 18, § 253 of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–922 [18: 271]. Appointment of director of social work, supervisor of probation, probation officers and other employees.

The judge shall appoint from eligible lists of the Civil Service Commission a director of social work, a supervisor of probation, probation officers, a clerk, a deputy clerk, and such other employees as may be necessary, at such salaries as may be fixed in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, as amended (U. S. C., title 5, § 673), and with such qualifications as may be prescribed by the Civil Service Commission pursuant to said act or acts. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 21.)

§ 11–923 [18: 272]. Duties and powers of the director of social work.

Under the administrative direction of the judge, the director of social work shall have charge of all the social work of the court; and shall, in association with other social agencies of the District of Columbia, study sources and causes of delinquency and assist in developing and correlating community-wide plans for the prevention and treatment of delinquency. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 22.)

§ 11–924 [18: 273]. Duties and powers of the department of probation.

The supervisor of probation, under the direction of the director of social work, shall organize, direct, and develop the work of the probation department of the court.

The probation department of the court shall make such investigations as the court may direct, keep a written record of such investigations and submit the same to the judge or deal with them as he may direct. The probation department shall use all suitable methods to aid persons on probation and bring about improvement in their conduct and condition; keep informed concerning the conduct and condition of each person under its supervision and report thereon to the judge as he may direct and keep full records of its work. The probation officers shall have such duties as may be assigned to them in the course of performing the functions of the probation department. Probation officers for the purpose of this chapter shall have the power of police officers. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 23.)

COMPILER'S NOTE—RETURN OF ABSCONDING PROBATIONERS

The Appropriation Act of June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, § 1, provides: "The disbursing officer of the District of Columbia is authorized to advance to the chief probation officer of the juvenile court upon requisition previously approved by the judge of the juvenile court and the auditor of the District of Columbia, sums of money not to exceed $50 at any one time, to be expended for transportation and traveling expenses to secure the return of absconding probationers, and to be accounted for monthly on itemized vouchers to the accounting officer of the District of Columbia."

Act June 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 545, ch. 555, § 1, contained a similar provision to Act June 12, 1940, except that prior stipulation for accounting monthly on itemized vouchers to the accounting officer of the District of Columbia was not included. To the same effect: Act June 29, 1949, 63 Stat. 303, ch. 279, § 1; Act July 18, 1950, 64 Stat. 347, ch. 467, § 1.

§ 11–925 [18: 274]. Duties of the clerk.

The clerk shall give bond, with surety, and take the oath of office prescribed by law for clerks of District Courts of the United States. He shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations; shall keep accurate and complete accounts of money collected from persons under the supervision of the probation department, give receipts therefor, and make reports thereon as the judge may direct; and shall perform such duties and keep such records as may be prescribed by the judge of said court. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 24.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is similar, in substance, to title 18, § 256 of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–926 [18: 275]. Physical and mental examinations and treatment of child.

The court may cause any child coming under its jurisdiction to be examined by a physician, psychiatrist, or psychologist appointed by the court. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 25.)

§ 11–927 [18: 276]. Place of detention of child.

No child under 18 years of age shall be placed in or committed to any prison, jail, or lock-up, nor shall such child be taken into custody, detained, or transferred from place to place, where he may be brought in contact or communication with any adult convicted of crime or under arrest and charged with crime: Provided, That a child 16 years of age or older, whose habits or conduct are deemed such as to constitute a menace to other children, may, with the consent of the judge or director of social work, be placed in a jail or other place of detention for adults, but in a room or ward separate from adults.

The Board of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia shall make adequate provision for the temporary detention of children within its jurisdiction in a detention home or in boarding homes selected for purposes of such detention. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 602, ch. 309, § 26.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

TERM AND PLACE OF DETENTION

Under this chapter, the term of commitment, the nature of commitment, and place thereof, within statutory limitations, are all within exclusive jurisdiction of the juvenile court. Huff v. O'Bryant, 1941 (121 F. 2d 890, 74 App. D. C. 19).

§ 11–928 [18: 277]. Court quarters.

Suitable quarters shall be provided by the commissioners for the District of Columbia, for the hearing of cases and for the use of the judge and the probation department and employees of the court. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 27.)

§ 11–929 [18: 278]. Records—Inspection limited—Forms.

The court shall maintain records of all cases brought before it. Such records shall be open to inspection by respondents, their parents or guardians, or their duly-authorized attorneys, but otherwise only by order of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. The court shall devise and cause to be printed such forms for records and such other papers as may be required. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 28.)

§ 11–930 [18: 279]. Power to issue orders and writs—Rules—Procedure, conduct of officers.

The court shall have power to issue all necessary orders and writs in aid of the jurdisdiction hereby vested in it; and to frame and publish rules and regulate the procedure for cases arising within the provisions of this chapter and for the conduct of its officers and employees and such rules shall be enforced and construed beneficially for the remedial purposes embraced herein. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 29.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Rules and regulations governing professional bondsmen, § 23–608.

§ 11–931 [18: 280]. Cooperation—Duty of other officers and departments, societies, and organizations.

It is hereby made the duty of every official of the District of Columbia or department thereof to render all assistance and cooperation within his or its jurisdictional power which may further the objects of this chapter. All institutions or agencies to which the court sends any child are hereby required to give to the court or to any officer appointed by it such information or reports concerning such child as said court or officer may require. The court is authorized to seek the co-operation of all societies or organizations having for their object the protection or aid of children. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 30.)

§ 11–932 [18: 281]. Corporation counsel—Duties.

The corporation counsel of the District of Columbia or his assistant shall assist the court upon request in hearings to determine delinquency, dependency, or neglect, and shall prosecute all cases within the jurisdiction of the court in which an adult is charged with crime. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 31.)

§ 11–933 [18: 282]. Contempt—Penalty.

Any person who wilfully violates, neglects, or refuses to obey or perform any order of the court may be declared in contempt and be punished by a fine not exceeding $200 or imprisonment for not more than 6 months, or both. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 32.)

Section relating to appeals from the Juvenile Court was based on Act June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 603, ch. 309, § 33 and is now covered by D. C. Code, sections 11–771, 11–772.

§ 11–935 [18: 284]. Fees prohibited.

No fee shall be charged for any service rendered by the clerk or by any officers of the court. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 604, ch. 309, § 34.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is similar to title 18, § 261, of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–936 [18: 285]. Jury—Term of service.

The jury for service in said court shall consist of twelve persons, who shall have the legal qualifications necessary for jurors in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall receive a like compensation for their services, and such jurors shall be drawn and selected under and in pursuance of the laws concerning the drawing and selection of jurors for service in said court. The term of service of jurors drawn for service in said juvenile court shall be for three successive monthly terms of said court, and in any case on trial at the expiration of such time until a verdict shall have been rendered or the jury shall be discharged. The said jury terms shall begin on the first Monday in January, the first Monday in April, the first Monday in July, and the first Monday in October of each year, and shall terminate, subject to the foregoing provisions, on the Saturday prior to the beginning of the following term. When at any term of said court it shall happen that in a pending trial no verdict shall be found, nor the jury otherwise discharged before the next succeeding term of the court, the court shall proceed with the trial by the same jury as if said term had not commenced. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 604, ch. 309, § 35.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section corresponds to title 18, § 264 of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–937 [18: 286]. Impaneling the jury.

At least ten days before the term of service of said jurors shall begin, as herein provided for, such jurors shall be drawn as hereinbefore directed, and at least twenty-six names so drawn shall be certified by the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to the said juvenile court for service as jurors for the then ensuing term. Deficiencies in any panel of any such jury may be filled according to the law applicable to jurors in said Supreme Court, and for this purpose the judge of said juvenile court shall possess all the powers of a judge of said Supreme Court and of said court sitting as a special term. No person shall be eligible for service on a jury in said juvenile court for more than one jury term in any period of twelve consecutive months, but no verdict shall be set aside on such ground unless objection shall be made before the trial begins. The marshal of said District, by himself or deputy, shall have charge of said jury, and may appoint a deputy for that purpose. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 604, ch. 309, § 36.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

This section corresponds to title 18, § 265, of the 1929 Code.

The words "Supreme Court" probably were intended to mean the "District Court."

§ 11–938 [18: 287]. Judgments to be final.

In all cases tried before said court the judgment of the court shall be final, except as provided in section 11–934. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 604, ch. 309, § 37.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is similar to title 18, § 266, of the 1929 Code.

The act of June 1, 1938, did not contain a section numbered 38.

§ 11–939 [18: 288]. Fines to be paid to clerk—Deposit of receipts—Statements.

All fines, penalties, costs, and forfeitures imposed or taxed by the said juvenile court shall be paid to the clerk of said court, either with or without process, or on process ordered by said court. The clerk of said court shall, on the first secular day of each week, deposit with the collector of taxes the total amount of all fines, penalties, costs, and forfeitures collected by him during the week next preceding the date of such deposit, to be covered into the treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. The said clerk shall render an itemized statement of each deposit aforesaid to the auditor of the District of Columbia. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 604, ch. 309, § 39.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section corresponds to title 18, § 270, of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–940 [18: 289]. Audit of accounts.

It shall be the duty of the auditor of the District of Columbia, and he is hereby required, to audit the accounts of the clerk of the juvenile court at the end of every quarter and to make prompt report thereof in writing to the commissioners of the District of Columbia. The auditor of the District shall have free access to all books, papers, and records of the said court. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 605, ch. 309, § 40.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section corresponds to title 18, § 271 of the 1929 Code.

§ 11–941 [18: 290]. Separability of provisions.

If any provision of this chapter, or the application thereof to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the chapter, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 605, ch. 309, § 41.)

§ 11–942 [18: 291]. Continuance in office.

The judge and other officers holding office on June 1, 1938, shall continue in office until the terms for which they were appointed shall expire and until their successors are duly appointed and qualified. (June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 605, ch. 309, § 42.)

§ 11–943. Maintenance of bastards—Bastard defined.

Every child shall be deemed a bastard who shall be begotten and born out of lawful wedlock, but this shall not be deemed to repeal or modify section 18–106. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 134, ch. 171, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSIDERATION FOR CONTRACT

A mother's agreement not to assert her statutory right of action against her illegitimate child's putative father for child's maintenance constituted sufficient "consideration" for putative father's contract to pay mother weekly sum for child's support. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943. 33 A. 2d 633).

CONTRACT TO SUPPORT

An illegitimate child's putative father's contract to pay mother weekly sum for child's support in consideration of mother's agreement not to assert her statutory right of action for child's maintenance is not void under rule of "public policy" condemning contracts grounded on promises to withhold commencement or prosecution of proceedings for criminal offenses. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

EVIDENCE

When affidavits are submitted which tend to prove that one or more persons other than appellant may have been the father of the child, they are inadmissible when they do not state when the alleged act occurred. Evidence of intercourse by the mother with men other than appellant would not affect the issue of paternity unless such acts occurred at a time when, in a course of nature, they could have resulted in conception of the child. Dicks v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 34).

JURISDICTION

Under the statute, jurisdiction is conferred on the Juvenile Court if the child was born in the District, or was born outside and the mother is a legal resident of the District. Dicks v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 34).

PURPOSE

The object of the statute is not to punish the father for fornication but rather to provide support for the child and the moral obligation of the father to support his illegitimate child is thus converted by the statute into a legal obligation. There is no legal obstacle against enforcing that obligation against the father in the jurisdiction where he is found, if the statute so provides. Dicks v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 34).

RATIFICATION OF CONTRACT

An illegitimate child's putative father's continuance of payments under contract with mother for child's support until after expiration of statutory time for mother's institution of action to determine child's parentage and fix father's responsibility for child's support constituted "ratification" of contract by putative father, so as to preclude him from maintaining defense of duress in mother's subsequent action for amount of overdue payments. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

VOIDABLE CONTRACTS

An illegitimate child's putative father's contract to pay mother weekly sum for child's support was not "void," but only "voidable," for duress, though signed by him in order to continue as student at university and obtain degree, as duress, if any, was mental only and when it ceased to exist, it was incumbent on him to repudiate contract or let it stand as valid subsisting agreement. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

§ 11–944. Same—Accusation by mother—Statement to clerk—Application by another than mother.

Any unmarried woman who is quick with child may go before the clerk of the juvenile court of the District of Columbia, or if therein she has been delivered of a bastard child, or (if that be her place of legal residence) if she was delivered thereof outside of the said District, at any time after becoming quick with child or within two years after the birth of the bastard, and accuse any person of being the father of the child. Before issuing a warrant, the clerk shall examine the mother of such bastard child, under oath, concerning her residence and her marriage or single condition when the child was begotten; where and when she was delivered of such child; and if she was delivered of the child outside of the District, the reason thereof, and reduce her statement to writing, and sign same as clerk. If, however, the clerk shall fail to reduce the statement to writing, or if it should be lost, such failure or loss shall be no cause for dismissing the warrant. Or such warrant may be applied for by the Board of Public Welfare of the District or any person as next friend of the said bastard under two years of age. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 134, ch. 171, § 2; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 208, ch. 58.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Mar. 16, 1926, cited to text, changed name of Board of Charities to "Board of Public Welfare".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMPLAINANT'S AFFIDAVITT

The defendant is not entitled to examine the unsigned and unsworn statement made by the complainant to the Juvenile Court Clerk, since these affidavits are confidential and defendant has no absolute right to examine statements made in confidence to a prosecuting officer. Fuller v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 589).

JURISDICTION

Bastardy proceedings are purely statutory and statute is plain and unambiguous on its face. The statute clearly provides for jurisdiction under the circumstances outlined in this case, bestowing jurisdiction on the trial court where the complainant was delivered of her child in the district. Fuller v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 589).

§ 11–945. Same—Warrant—Bond for appearance—Commitment on failure to give bond—Jury trials.

On such examination, if the woman be quick with child, or the child having been born and still under two years of age, a warrant shall be issued by the clerk, directed to the United States marshal, or to the major and superintendent or any member of the Metropolitan police force of the District of Columbia, requiring the person accused to be arrested and brought for preliminary examination before the judge of the juvenile court, District of Columbia, who, upon such preliminary examination, may require the accused to enter into bond, with good surety to the United States of America, in a sum to be fixed by such judge, not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars, for his appearance and trial in the juvenile court, District of Columbia, on the first day of the next or any succeeding term thereof, and to perform the judgment of said court, but in the event that the woman be quick with child at the time of the arrest, final trial shall not take place until after the birth of the child. If the person accused shall fail to give bond required of him, the judge shall forthwith commit him to the Washington Asylum and Jail, there to remain until he enter into the required bond or otherwise be discharged by due process of law. In all prosecutions under sections 11–943 to 11–950 the accused shall, upon his demand therefor, be entitled to a trial by jury; otherwise the trial shall be by the judge. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 134, ch. 171, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

It was not prejudicial error to allow the prosecution to introduce evidence tending to show that defendant was guilty of the crime of seduction. In such a proceedng it should be expected that the government would have to prove its allegation by evidence of a general nature and these circumstances are admitted for their probative value. The limit and range of such evidence is largely within the discretion of the trial court. Fuller v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 589).

Where sister of the complaining witness was permitted to testify that complaining witness never mentioned going with any other men, it was hearsay, but the value of such testimony from defendant's viewpoint was merely negative in nature. In view of other stronger evidence in the case, its probative value was so slight that it could not have affected the verdict of the jury. Monday v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 68).

It was not error for the trial court to permit the complaining witness to testify that in February she contracted gonorrhea from the defendant since the witness had said that she had had no relations with any other man during the period involved, and moreover, the record does not show any objection to this testimony. Monday v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 68).

Where on appeal in bastardy proceedings, testimony of complaining witness was that she learned of her pregnancy in the latter part of March, 1949 and had missed her menstrual period which was due March 14, 1949, and it was not disputed that the child was born on November 17, 1949—less than nine months thereafter—such testimony that she was pregnant in the latter part of March was admissible, since the witness was not venturing a medical opinion but was reporting an actuality. Courts may take judicial notice that the period of human gestation is about two hundred eighty days or nine calendar months. Monday v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 68).

Documents which purported to show that defendant was free of gonorrhea in February, or specifically on February 28, when the complaining witness said defendant infected her, were properly excluded, since in view of the rapidity of modern methods of treatment it cannot be said that the absence of infection on the later dates established that there was no infection on the earlier date. Monday v. Unied States (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 68).

RECORD

Where the record does not reveal what the judge told the jury, or what objections were made to the charge, appellate court cannot consider the objection, for it was given no basis on which to rule that the charge was erroneous or otherwise. Fuller v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 589).

§ 11-946. Same—Proceedings at trial—Order for support of child—Disposition of forfeited bonds.

If the accused shall fail to appear, the bond for his appearance as aforesaid shall be forfeited and execution issued thereon; and the trial of, or other proceedings in, the cause shall, nevertheless, proceed as though he were present; and the court shall, upon the verdict of the jury, make all such orders as it shall deem proper as though the accused were in court. In any event, if the accused acknowledge in open court the paternity of such child, or if at the trial the finding of the jury be against the accused, the court, in rendering judgment thereon, shall make an order for the annual payment, until the child be fourteen years of age, of such sum of money, in such installments, monthly or otherwise, and in such manner, as shall to the court seem best, and shall also make such order for the keeping, maintenance, and education of the child as may be proper; and in case of forfeiture of the appearance bond, the money collected upon the forfeiture shall be applied in payment of the judgment against the accused; and if any balance remains after the payment of the said judgment, it shall be paid for each fiscal year through the collector of taxes into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the Treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 135, ch. 171, § 4; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of 1921, cited to text, amended provision of section which read "it shall be covered into the Treasury through the collector of taxes, to the credit, half and half, of the District of Columbia and the United States" to read as now set out.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MOTHER AS PLAINTIFF

An illegitimate child's mother is "proper plaintiff" in suit on putative father's contract to pay mother weekly sum for child's support. Williams v. Amann (D. C. 1943, 33 A. 2d 633).

§ 11-947. Same—Bond after conviction—Death of child.

The accused who has failed to execute bond before judgment, if he shall be adjudged to be the father of the child, shall thereupon enter into bond, with or without sureties, in the discretion of the court, conditioned for the payment of the sums adjudged, in such installments and in such manner as the court shall direct. In case of his failure to enter into such bond, the court shall commit him to the Washington Asylum and Jail, there to remain until he shall give such bond or pay the total amount of the sums adjudged. If the child shall die before the expiration of the aforesaid bond, upon payment of the amount or amounts due to the death of the said child, or if all dues be paid under such bond, the person adjudged to be the father of the child and his sureties shall be discharged therefrom. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 135, ch. 171, § 5.)

§ 11-948. Same—Application for release after six months' confinement—Oath—Effect of discharge.

When the defendant shall have been confined for six months, solely for failure to make the payments required or to enter into the bond as ordered, such defendant may make application in writing to the judge of the juvenile court, District of Columbia, setting forth his inability to make such payments, notwithstanding his desire to do so, or enter into such required bond, upon which application the judge of the juvenile court, District of Columbia, shall proceed to hear and determine the matter. If, on examination, it shall appear to the court that such defendant is unable to make such payments or to execute the required bond, and that he has no property exceeding twenty dollars in value, except such as is by law exempt from being taken on execution for debt, the judge shall administer the following oath: "I do solemnly swear that I have not any property, real or personal, to the amount of twenty dollars, except such as is by law exempt from being taken on civil process for debt by the laws of the District of Columbia, and that I have no property in any way conveyed or concealed, or in any way disposed of for my future use or benefit. So help me, God." Upon taking such oath such prisoner shall be discharged from imprisonment only but not from his obligation as such putative father to support his child; and the judge of the juvenile court, District of Columbia, shall give to the superintendent of the Washington Asylum and Jail a certificate setting forth the facts. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 135, ch. 171, § 6.)

§ 11–949. Same—Application of proceeds of forfeited bond for support.

Should the accused fail to comply with any order of the court entered as aforesaid, the bond shall be forfeited, and the money collected upon the forfeiture shall be applied in payment in full of the judgment against the accused, and if any balance remains after the payment of the said judgment, it shall be paid for each fiscal year through the collector of taxes into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the Treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 136, ch. 171, § 7; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of 1921, cited to text, amended provision of section which read "it shall be covered into the Treasury, through the collector of taxes, to the credit, half and half, of the District of Columbia and the United States" to read as now set out.

§ 11–950. Concurrent jurisdiction with district court in bastardy and nonsupport cases.

The juvenile court of the District of Columbia is hereby given jurisdiction in all cases arising under sections 11–943 to 11–950 as well as concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in all cases arising under sections 22–903 to 22–906 making it a misdemeanor in the District of Columbia to abandon or willfully neglect to provide for the support and maintenance by any person of his wife or of his or her minor children in destitute and necessitous circumstances. And the court, in its discretion, may order payments to be made by delinquent fathers, at the precinct wherein they reside, through the Metropolitan Police of the District of Columbia. (June 18, 1912, 37 Stat. 136, ch. 171, § 8, June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of 1936, cited to text, changed name of Supreme Court to "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPOINTMENT OF DEPUTIES

Deputy marshals are appointed by the marshal and not the District Court. Doherty v. Kalmbach (66 App. D. C. 322, 87 Fed. (2d) 539).

HISTORICAL

It is declared, that the marshal shall be entitled to receive, for his services, the same fees, perquisites, and emoluments, which are by law allowed to the marshal of the United States for the district of Maryland. United States v. Ringgold (8 Pet. (33 U. S.) 150, 8 L. Ed. 899).

The act of February 27, 1801, ch. 15, § 7, p. 103, established the office of marshal which superseded that of sheriff under the laws of Maryland. Levy Court v. Woodward, Coroner (2 Wall. (69 U. S.) 501, 17 L. Ed. 851).

By 2 Stat. 103, ch. 15, § 7, the custody of the jails was entrusted to the marshal of the District, and he was made accountable for the safe-keeping of the prisoners. United States v. Fitzpatrick (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 568, 20 L. Ed. 707).

MEASURE OF DAMAGES

Damages for wrongful levy are measured not by value of goods but by injuries occasioned from detention by officer from date of levy until the goods were taken from him. Palmer v. United States ex rel. Lane (41 App. D. C. 341).

REASONABLE CARE

After marshal takes possession of property, "the law makes it his duty to exercise reasonable care and diligence in protecting" it; "and it was not the duty of the plaintiff to direct the marshal as to the proper steps to be taken to that end." Palmer v. Costello (41 App. D. C. 165).

§ 11–1102 [18: 312]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section, based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1220, ch. 854, § 187, relating to fees to be collected and covered into Treasury now covered by sections 551 and 1921 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1103 [18: 313]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section, based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1220, ch. 854, § 189, relating to vacancies in the office of United States attorney or marshal is covered by sections 506 and 545 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1104 [18: 314]. Marshal to restore possession of United States property upon request of Director of National Park Service.

The marshal, upon notice in writing from the Director of the National Park Service or the officer under his direction having immediate charge of the public buildings and grounds that any person is in unlawful occupation of any portion of the public lands in the District of Columbia, shall thereupon cause the said trespasser or trespassers to be ejected from said lands, and shall restore possession of the same to the officer charged by law with the custody thereof. (R. S. § 1797; Apr. 28, 1902, 32 Stat. 152, ch. 594; Feb. 26, 1925, 43 Stat. 983, ch. 339, § 3.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of National Capital was abolished and all functions and duties transferred to the office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations of the Department of the Interior by Executive Order No. 6166, June 10, 1933, the name of which was later changed to National Park Service by the act of Mar. 2, 1934, 48 Stat. 389, ch. 38, § 1. See compiler's note to § 8–101.

Chapter 12.—CORONER

Sec.
11–1201. Appointment.
11–1202. Bond—Provisions.
11–1203. Duties.
11–1204. Inquests dispensed with in certain cases.
11–1205. Witnesses—Testimony reduced to writing—Murder or manslaughter.
11–1206. Coroner's jury.
11–1207. Deputy coroners—Compensation, bond.
11–1208. To serve and execute process when marshal may not—Liability.

§ 11–1201 [18: 321]. Appointment.

There shall be a coroner of said District, who shall be appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. (Leg. Assem., Aug. 23, 1871, ch. 108, § 13; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 190; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The code of 1901, which appears in 31 Stat. 1189–1436, ch. 854, §§ 1 to 1642, was the last code actually enacted by Congress, and it was original and independent legislation. Consequently, where a section of this code is set out and antecedent statutes are referred to in this history line, they have to do only with origins, and the 1901 code is not in fact amendatory of them, and no comment concerning them will ordinarily be found in the notes concerning amendments.

AMENDMENTS

The act of 1902 provided a salary of $1,800 per annum.

The salary paid is now governed by the Classification Act of 1923 (42 Stat. 1488), U. S. C., title 5, § 673.

§ 11–1202 [18: 322]. Bond—Provisions.

The coroner before he acts as such shall, within thirty days after his appointment, give bond to the United States, with security to be approved by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and deposited with the clerk thereof, in the penalty of three thousand dollars, with a condition that he will well and truly execute the duties of his office, and well and faithfully execute and return all writs or other process to him directed, and will also pay and deliver to the person or persons entitled to receive the same all sums of money and all goods and chattels by him levied upon, seized, or taken, agreeably to the directions of the writ or process under which the same shall have been levied upon, seized, or taken, and shall also satisfy and pay all judgments which may be rendered against him as coroner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 191.)

§ 11–1203 [18: 323]. Duties.

Except as provided in section 11–1204, it shall be the duty of the coroner to hold an inquest over any person found dead in the District when the manner and cause of death shall not already be known as accidental or in the course of nature. He shall make a monthly report to the commissioners of the District of all inquests held by him during the month last past before said report, with a description as far as may be of the age, sex, color, and nationality of persons and the causes of their death, with such particulars as may be necessary to their identification; and as soon as possible after holding such inquest he shall deliver to the property clerk of the police department all moneys and other property and effects found upon the person of anyone on whom he shall hold an inquest. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 192.)

The coroner shall not summon or hold any jury of inquest over the body of any deceased person where it is known that the deceased came to his death by suicide, accident, mischance, or natural causes: Provided, That in cases where it is not known that the deceased came to his death by suicide the coroner may, in his discretion, summon such jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 193; Mar. 2, 1911, 36 Stat. 974, ch. 192; June 26, 1912, 37 Stat. 147, ch. 182, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

The acts of March 2, 1911, and June 26, 1912, added the proviso clause.

§ 11–1205 [18: 325]. Witnesses—Testimony reduced to writing—Murder or manslaughter.

Witnesses may be summoned and compelled by the coroner to attend before him and give evidence, and shall be liable in like manner as if the summons had been issued by the municipal court. And it shall be his duty, upon every inquisition taken before him, where any person is charged with having unlawfully caused the death of the person on whom the inquest is held, to reduce the testimony of the witnesses to writing, and if the jury find that murder or manslaughter has been committed on the deceased, he shall require such witnesses as he thinks proper to give a recognizance to appear and testify in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and shall return to said court the said inquisition and testimony and recognizance by him taken. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 194; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

AMENDMENT

Act of 1909 changed the name of the inferior court known as "justice of peace" to the "municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE ADMISSIBILITY

Statements, made by defendant at coroner's inquest after warning that any statements made could be used against him in any subsequent proceeding, were properly used at subsequent trial for impeachment purposes. Neely v. U. S., 1944 (144 F. 2d 519, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 177, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 83, 323 U. S. 754, 89 L. Ed. 604).

FEES OF WITNESSES AND JURORS

When witnesses and jurors are summoned by a lawful officer they are compelled to obey the writ and are entitled to their fees, advanced by the coroner, even though the inquest was unlawful. Levy Court v. Woodward (2 Wall. (69 U. S.) 501, 17 L. Ed. 851).

POWER TO TAKE TESTIMONY

A coroner may take testimony of probable defendants if it is given voluntarily after advice as to their rights and, in so doing, coroner does not act as a prosecuting officer, but sits in a quasi-judicial capacity. Neely v. U. S., 1944 (144 F. 2d 519, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 177, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 83, 323 U. S. 754, 89 L. Ed. 604).

§ 11–1206 [18: 326]. Coroner's jury.

A coroner's jury shall consist of six persons. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 195.)

§ 11–1207 [18: 327]. Deputy coroners — Compensation, bond.

The commissioners of said District shall have authority to appoint two deputy coroners, who shall assist the coroner in the performance of his duties aforesaid, and shall perform the same duties in case of the absence or disability of the coroner. The deputy coroners shall serve and receive pay only in case of the absence or disability of the coroner, and when serving, their duties shall be the same as the aforesaid duties of the coroner. The deputy coroners shall, while acting, receive compensation at a rate not exceeding $5 per day, to be paid as other expenses of said District, and each shall give bond in the penalty of $2,500, with security to be approved by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, conditioned for the due performance of his duties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 196; Dec. 13, 1924, 43 Stat. 713, ch. 8.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1924 provided for the appointment of two deputy coroners instead of one, and added the second sentence.

§ 11–1208 [18: 328]. To serve and execute process when marshal may not—Liability.

Whenever the marshal is a party to any cause or interested therein, or it is unfit on other grounds that he should serve and execute the process to be issued therein, such process shall be issued to the coroner, and he shall be paid the same fees and compensation for serving and executing the same which would be payable to the marshal in similar cases, and shall account therefor to the treasury of the United States. And if he shall fail in the proper performance of his duties in the premises, like redress may be had against him, his sureties, and his and their heirs, devisees, and personal representatives, as could have been had against the marshal, his sureties, and his and their heirs, devisees, and personal representatives, for a like failure on the part of said marshal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 197.)

11–1302. Power to censure, suspend, or disbar for cause.
11–1303. Disbarment upon conviction of crime.
11–1304. Procedure for disbarment.

§ 11–1301 [18: 52]. Admission to bar—Authority to make regulations—Oath.

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in general term shall have full power and authority from time to time to make such rules as it may deem proper respecting the examination, qualification, and admission of persons to membership in its bar and their censure, suspension, and expulsion; and every person so admitted, before he shall be at liberty to practice therein, shall take and subscribe the following oath: "I, ———, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will demean myself as a member of the bar of this court uprightly and according to law; and that I will support the Constitution of the United States." (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 218; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The act of April 19, 1920, struck out this section as originally enacted and substituted the above in lieu thereof.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BAR EXAMINATION PAPERS

Bar examination papers are not part of records of court but belong exclusively to Committee on Admissions and Grievances, which may destroy memoranda after lapse of time subject only to appeal to judges' discretion. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

COMMITTEE ON ADMISSIONS AND GRIEVANCES

In exercising right under this section and inherent right to promulgate rules with respect to admissions of attorneys, District Court had right to call to its assistance a committee of lawyers on admissions and grievances, and to compensate members of such committee for their services. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

COMMON LAW

Summary proceeding provided by this section is "at least as broad as the rule of the common law." Diggs v. Thurston (39 App. D. C. 267).

DUTY OF COURT

Court has duty to exercise and regulate admission of applicants to the bar by sound and just judicial discretion. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

FUNDS

A fund controlled by Committee on Admissions and Grievances was rightfully accumulated to make effective the rules promulgated by District Court, and such fund did not belong to United States but to the court and was to be administered as outlined by court. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

Fund resulting from fees paid by applicants for admission to bar, to be distributed by Committee on Admissions and Grievances as it should decide, is not a "tax." Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

HISTORICAL

An order by the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia, made in 1867, disbarring an attorney from practice in that court, did not remove the attorney from the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia (District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia), the criminal court at that time being an independent court. The act of June 21, 1870 (16 Stat. 160, ch. 141), making the criminal court a part of the Supreme Court did not affect that order. Bradley v. Fisher (13 Wall. (80 U. S.) 335, 20 L. Ed. 646).

JURISDICTION

District Court had no jurisdiction of action under informer's statutes, 31 U. S. C. §§ 231, 232, against Committee on Admissions and Grievances, based on their alleged misconduct in distributing among themselves fees collected from applicants for admission to bar, and in destroying bar examination papers and excluding Negroes from membership on the committee. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

POWER OF COURT

Within very wide limits, standards of fitness for membership in the bar of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia are for the District Court itself to establish and maintain. Carver v. Clephane, 1943 (137 F. 2d 685, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 91).

To admit applicants to practice law is judicial, not legislative, and vested in courts only. Laughlin v. Clephane (D. C., D. C. 1948, 77 F. Supp. 103).

UNAUTHORIZED LAW PRACTICE

Attempt of association to settle by arbitration automobile damage claims of less than $100 for and against its members constitutes the unauthorized practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.–D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Attempt of association to adjust without court action claims for property damage to automobiles of less than $100 constitutes the unauthorized practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Filling out of blank complaints to be filed in the small claims court constitutes the practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

Conducting of a department of claims and adjustment by an automobile association constitutes the practice of law. Merrick v. American Automobile Assn. ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 876).

§ 11–1302 [18: 53]. Power to censure, suspend, or disbar for cause.

Said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, in general term, shall have full power and authority to censure, suspend from practice, or expel any member of its bar for any crime, misdemeanor, fraud, deceit, malpractice, professional misconduct, or any conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice. Any fraudulent act or misrepresentation by an applicant in connection with his application or admission shall be sufficient cause for the revocation by said court of such admission. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 219; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LIABILITY OF JUSTICES

Chief Justice and Associate Justice when affixing their signature to an order for disbarment act within scope of their official authority and within jurisdiction of the court, and they are not liable for damages therefrom. Fletcher v. Wheat (69 App. D. C. 259, 100 Fed. (2d) 432).

MANDAMUS PROPER REMEDY

The petition for mandamus is the proper remedy to test the question of the right of the District Court without notice to suspend an attorney from practice during the period prior to the hearing on a motion for disbarment. Laughlin v. Wheat (68 App. D. C. 190, 95 Fed. (2d) 101).

MISCONDUCT

Court may order attorney to pay to client money collected for the latter, and retained or paid out without lawful authority, and this authority is not affected by the common-law action available to the client. Diggs v. Thurston (39 App. D. C. 267).

When attorney entered in transaction with clients with no deliberate intention of fraudulently profiting at their expense, such misconduct warranted suspension but not disbarment. Costigan v. Adkins (57 App. D. C. 153, 18 Fed. (2d) 803).

On the evidence defendant's failure to disclose loss of money to client held to be unprofessional conduct, which could be adequately punished by his suspension rather than disbarment. Costigan v. Adkins (57 App. D. C. 153, 18 Fed. (2d) 803, cert. den. 274 U. S. 760, 71 L. Ed. 1338, 47 Sup. Ct. 769).

Conduct by an attorney in his professional capacity prejudicial to the administration of justice would necessarily constitute professional misconduct in preparation of pleadings and affidavit. Curtis v. Whiteford (59 App. D. C. 330, 41 Fed. (2d) 302).

Order disbarring defendant affirmed on evidence that he filed a false affidavit of merit in suit to recover fees for legal services, stating that he had received no compensation, whereas, in fact he had received two separate payments on account. Curtis v. Whiteford (59 App. D. C. 330, 41 Fed. (2d) 302).

An attorney is properly disbarred who deceives the court by false statements and misappropriates client's money. Thomas v. Ogilby (59 App. D. C. 382, 44 Fed. (2d) 890).

Evidence establishing professional misconduct of attorney and character of the misconduct justified order censuring attorney and suspending him from practice of law for six months. Halpern v. Committee on Admissions and Grievances of the District Court, 1944 (139 F. 2d 361, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 220).

REPRESENTING CONFLICTING INTERESTS

In negotiating the sale, the interests of the prospective seller and buyer were adverse, but once the terms of sale were agreed upon, the parties were jointly interested in having steps taken to complete the sale promptly and we see no reason why the purchaser could not agree to pay the attorney for his services in accomplishing the results desired. Kreis v. Block (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 523).

§ 11–1303 [18: 54]. Disbarment upon conviction of crime.

Whenever any member of the bar of said court shall be convicted of any offense involving moral turpitude, and a duly certified copy of the final judgment of such conviction shall be presented to said court, the name of the member so convicted may thereupon, by order of said court, be stricken from the roll of the members of said bar, and he shall thereafter cease to be a member thereof. In the event of appeal from any such judgment of conviction as aforesaid, and pending the final determination of such appeal, the said court may order the suspension from practice of such convicted member of the bar; and upon a reversal of such conviction, or the granting of a pardon, said court shall have power to vacate or modify such order of disbarment or suspension. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

§ 11–1304 [18: 55]. Procedure for disbarment.

Before any such member of the bar is censured, suspended, or expelled as provided by section 11–1302, written charges, under oath, against him must be presented to said court, stating distinctly the grounds of complaint. Said court in general term may order said charges to be filed in the office of the clerk of said court and shall fix a time for hearing thereon. Thereupon a certified copy of said charges and order shall be served upon such member personally by the marshal or such other person as the court may designate, or in case it is established to the satisfaction of the court that personal service can not be had, a certified copy of such charges and order shall be served upon him by mail, publication, or otherwise as the court may direct. At any time after the filing of said written charges the court shall have power, pending the trial thereof, to suspend from practice the person charged. (Mar. 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 762, ch. 91; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 220; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 561, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The act of April 19, 1920, amended the above section by striking it out and inserting in lieu thereof the above.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONDUCT OF TRIAL

Record in disbarment proceeding did not sustain assignment that court erred in refusing to direct a continuance to enable attorney to procure counsel and character witnesses, where record disclosed that attorney prepared and filed his answer pro se and at trial refused offer of court to appoint counsel, and that, although attorney sought continuance because of absence of character witnesses, trial counsel for grievance committee conceded that each witness would, if present, testify to attorney's good character, and on that understanding case proceeded. Tulman v. Committee on Admissions and Grievances, 1943 (135 F. 2d 268, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

REVIEW

In disbarment proceeding, attorney's explanation in palliation was for trial court's consideration, and the trial court, in denying effect thereto, exercised its judicial discretion, which was not subject to review on appeal. Tulman v. Committee on Admissions and Grievances, 1943 (135 F. 2d 268, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

§ 11–1401 [18: 341]. Jury commission — Qualifications and appointment — Duties — Compensation — Removal.

There shall be, and there is hereby, constituted a jury commission for the District of Columbia, which shall be composed of three commissioners, who shall be citizens of the United States and actual residents of the District of Columbia, who have been domiciled therein for at least three years prior to their appointment, and shall be freeholders in the District of Columbia and not engaged in the practice of law, nor at the time of their appointment be a party to any cause then pending in the courts of the District of Columbia. Such commissioners shall be appointed by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, in general term, and shall serve for a term of three years and until their successors are appointed and qualified; except that the members first appointed shall serve for one, two, and three years, respectively, as may be designated by said court. Before entering upon the discharge of their duties they shall each take an oath of office to be prescribed by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. It shall be the duty of said jury commission to make and preserve a record of the list of names of jurors, both grand and petit, and of commissioners and jurors in condemnation proceedings for service in all the courts of the District of Columbia having cognizance of jury trials and of condemnation proceedings, to place the names in the jury box, and to have custody and control of said jury box, and to draw the names of said jurors and condemnation commissioners from time to time, as hereinafter provided. The compensation of said jury commissioners shall be $10 each per day for each day or fraction of a day when they are actually engaged in the performance of their duties, not to exceed five days in any one month (nor two hundred fifty dollars per annum), which shall be paid by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia out of the appropriation for pay of bailiffs, upon the certificate of said commissioners. The said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, in general term, shall have power summarily to remove any of said commissioners for absence, inability, or failure to perform his duties as such commissioner, or for any misfeasance or malfeasance, and to appoint another person for the unexpired term. In the event of the illness or other inability or absence from the District of Columbia of any one of said commissioners, the two other commissioners may perform the duties of said jury commission. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 198; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 558, ch. 153; Aug. 8, 1946, 60 Stat. 931, ch. 881.)

Amendment

The 1920 amendment struck out the entire section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The 1901 act read as follows: "The clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the United States marshal, and the collector of taxes for said District are hereby constituted a commission to from time to time make the list of jurors for service in said court and fix the number of jurors to be listed therefor."

Amendments

Act of Aug. 8, 1946, cited to text, deleted sentence reading "No person who has served as such Commissioner shall be eligible for reappointment within three years of the date of the expiration of his term of service."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Application

This section applies alike to grand and petit jurors. United States v. Griffith (55 App. D. C. 123, 2 Fed. (2d) 925).

Construction of Prior Law

A grand jury summoned prior to Jan. 1, 1902, could not be impaneled subsequent thereto when the new regulations went into effect and indictment found by such a grand jury is of no effect and void. Clark v. United States (19 App. D. C. 295).

If the code is silent as to the manner of procuring talesmen in capital cases when the regular panel is exhausted, one should then look to the common law or the law of Maryland prior to 1801. Sec. 1, D. C. Code 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854). Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

NEGROES, EXCLUSION OF

The Court could take judicial notice of the presence in the District of Columbia of members of the Negro race possessing the qualifications of jurors, but could not take judicial notice of their exclusion, systematic or otherwise, from grand jury returning indictment without proof or offer of proof to that effect. McKenzie v. U. S., 1942 (126 F. 2d 533, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 270).

Fact that 19 members of jury panel selected in prosecution of three Negroes jointly indicted on charge of murder in perpetration of robbery were members of Negro race indicated that Negroes had not been systematically excluded from panel in violation of Fifth Amendment, and defendants could not complain that thereafter Government peremptorily challenged every Negro juror who had been called to sit in the panel. Hall v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 161, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1508, 334 U. S. 853, 92 L. Ed. 1775, rehearing denied 69 S. Ct. 9, 335 U. S. 839, 93 L. Ed. 391).

§ 11–1402 [18: 342]. Selection of jurors.

The said jurors shall be selected, as nearly as may be, from the different parts of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 199; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 558, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the words "the citizens in" following the word "from."

§ 11–1403 [18: 343]. Jury box.

The jury commission shall write the names on separate and similar pieces of paper, which they shall so fold or roll that the names can not be seen, and shall place the same in a box to be provided for the purpose. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 200; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 558, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The former section read: "The names shall be written on separate and similar pieces of paper, which shall be so folded or rolled up that the names can not be seen and placed in a box to be provided for the purpose."

CROSS REFERENCE

Fraudulently tampering with jury box, penalty, § 22–1414.

§ 11–1404 [18: 344]. Sealing and custody of jury box.

The jury commission shall thereupon seal said box and, after thoroughly shaking the same, shall deliver it to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for safe-keeping; and the same shall not be unsealed or opened except by said commission. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 201; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 558, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The former section read: "The box shall be sealed and, after being thoroughly shaken, shall be delivered to the clerk of the Supreme Court for safekeeping."

§ 11–1405 [18: 345]. Term of service of petit jurors.

The respective terms of service of petit jurors drawn for service in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall begin on the first Tuesday of October, November, December, January, February, March, April, May and June of each year and shall terminate on the Monday preceding the first Tuesday of the next month thereafter, except when the jury shall be discharged by the court at an earlier day, or when a jury shall be empaneled and it shall happen that no verdict shall have been found before the day appointed by law for the commencement of the next succeeding term, in which case the court shall proceed with the trial by the same jury in every respect as if its term of service had not ended; and all proceedings to final judgment, if such judgment shall be rendered, shall be entered and have legal effect and operation as of the term at which the jury shall have been empaneled: Provided, That the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in general term may direct petit jurors to be drawn for monthly service in said court during the months of July, August, and September, such service to begin and terminate as aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 202; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 559, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The former section did not provide for the November, January, March, or May terms, but provided the terms should run two months, and did not contain the proviso.

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 11–1406 [18: 346]. Term of service of grand jury.

The term of service of the grand jury in the criminal court shall begin with each term of that court and shall end with such term, unless the jury shall be sooner discharged by the court. The foreman of the grand jury shall be selected by the justice presiding over the special term known as criminal division number one from among the jurors, grand and petit, in attendance upon the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia; and, in the event that said foreman is not selected from among the twenty-three grand jurors in attendance, but is selected from among the petit jurors, one of said grand jurors shall be excused as such and transferred to the roll of petit jurors, and the term of service of the foreman so selected of the grand jury shall be concurrent with the term of service of the grand jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 203; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 559, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment added all but the first sentence, which was contained in the 1901 Act.

CROSS REFERENCE

Jury fees, §§ 11–1512, 11–1513, 11–1515.

§ 11–1407 [18: 347]. Impaneling jury—Procedure.

At least ten days before the first Tuesday of each month specified in section 18–1405 when jury trials are to be had, said jury commission shall publicly break the seal of the jury box and proceed to draw therefrom, by lot and without previous examination, the names of such number of persons as the general term of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may from time to time direct to serve as grand and petit jurors in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia; and shall forthwith certify to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia the names of the persons so drawn as jurors.

The distribution, assignment, reassignment, and attendance of said petit jurors among the special terms of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall be in accordance with rules to be prescribed by said court.

At least ten days before the first Monday in January, the first Monday in April, the first Monday in July, and the first Monday in October of each year the said jury commission shall likewise draw from the jury box the names of persons to serve as jurors in the police court and in the juvenile court of the District of Columbia in accordance with sections 11–617, 11–618, relating to the police court, and sections 11–915, 11–916, creating said juvenile court, and shall also draw from the jury box the names of persons to serve as jurors in any other court in the District of Columbia which hereafter may have cognizance of jury trials, and shall certify the respective list of jurors to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 204; Jan. 31, 1902, 32 Stat. 2, ch. 5, § 1; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 559, ch. 153; Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1120, ch. 443, § 5b; June 14, 1926, 44 Stat. 741, ch. 577; July 3, 1926, 44 Stat. 892, ch. 784.)

Amendments

The 1920 amendment amended the 1901 act by deleting the word "clerk" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "jury commission," and by deleting all the remainder of the 1901 section after the present word "therefrom" in the first sentence of the first paragraph, and inserting in lieu thereof the present remainder of the section except as it has been amended as hereafter shown.

The 1925 amendment recomposed the last paragraph to provide for a monthly drawing of jurors for criminal court.

The June 14, 1926 amendment, in effect, added the words "grand and" in the first paragraph.

The July 3, 1926 amendment restored the last paragraph to the 1920 form, and reenacted the entire section as it now reads, probably because of the wording of the June 14, 1926 amendment, which purported to delete the entire section except the first paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Irregularities

Where pleas in abatement filed four years after indictment which shows that clerk of jury commission, charged with duty of selecting persons, unlawfully abstracted names of prospective jurors so that other prospective jurors were not drawn, this constitutes a serious irregularity in organization of grand jury but is not sufficient to show that it is an illegal body; such pleas in abatement were also filed too late. Hyde v. United States (35 App. D. C. 451, aff'd 225 U. S. 347, 56 L. Ed. 1114, 32 Sup. Ct. 793).

Panel Exhausted

Where the list of jurors given to accused before trial contained the names of all jurors assigned to serve in the criminal division of the court, but after the panel was exhausted other jurors were called from the civil court, the statutory requirement was satisfied, there being no charge that the selected jury was disqualified. Eagles v. United States (58 App. D. C. 122, 25 Fed. (2d) 546, cert. den. 277 U. S. 609, 72 L. Ed. 1013, 48 Sup. Ct. 603)

Peremptory Challenge

The right of peremptory challenge is given to be exercised on the party's sole discretion, and the right is given to secure a fair and impartial jury, not for creating ground to claim partiality which but for its exercise would not exist. Frazier v. United States, 1948 (69 S. Ct. 201, 335 U. S. 497, 93 L. Ed. 187; reh. den. 336 U. S. 907, 69 S. Ct. 488, 93 L. Ed. 1072).

Publicly Break the Seal

Act of assistant clerk in breaking seal of jury box and drawing jury when in the presence of the clerk and witnesses is a sufficient compliance with D. C. Code 1901 Edit., § 204 (31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854). Fletcher v. United States (42 App. D. C. 53); Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239).

Selecting the Panel

The well settled rule is that, given a lawfully selected panel, free from any taint of invalid exclusion or procedures in selection and from which all disqualified for cause have been excused, no cause for a complaint arises merely from the fact that the jury finally shows itself not to be representative of the panel or indeed of the community. Frazier v. United States, 1948 (69 S. Ct. 201, 335 U. S. 497, 93 L. Ed. 187; reh. den. 336 U. S. 907, 69 S. Ct. 488, 93 L. Ed. 1072).

No prejudicial error was shown where counsel stated to the jury, "Now, I have exhausted my ten challenges, and here I have twelve government jurors who are to decide this defendant's case, which is a violation of the Federal statute, being brought in a Federal Court, prosecuted by a Federal prosecutor, and the case is presented by Federal agents." Given ten arbitrary choices among twenty-two prospective jurors, not disqualified for cause, of whom thirteen were government employees and nine privately engaged, he knowingly rejected nine of the latter and accepted without challenge but one of the former. Frazier v. United States, 1948 (69 S. Ct. 201, 335 U. S. 497, 93 L. Ed. 187; reh. den. 336 U. S. 907, 69 S. Ct. 488, 93 L. Ed. 1072).

Venire

Issuance of a venire is unnecessary when after the names of the grand jurors had been drawn the clerk certified those names to the marshal, who notified them of their selection and when to appear in court. Patten v. United States (42 App. D. C. 239).

§ 11–1408 [18: 348]. Additional grand jury — Procedure—Term.

Whenever the United States attorney for the District of Columbia shall certify in writing to the chief justice of the District Court of the United States for said District, or, in his absence, to the senior associate justice of said court, that the exigencies of the public service require it, said chief justice or senior associate justice may, in his discretion, order an additional grand jury summoned, which additional grand jury shall be drawn at such time as he may designate in the manner provided by law for the drawing of grand jurors in the District of Columbia, and unless sooner discharged by order of said chief justice, or, in his absence, senior associate justice, said additional grand jury shall serve during and until the end of the term in and for which it shall have been drawn. (May 19, 1922, 42 Stat. 543, ch. 194.)

§ 11–1409 [18: 349]. Substitution in case of vacancies—Procedure.

If any person whose name is drawn from the box shall have died or removed from the District before or after being selected, or become otherwise disqualified or disabled, the jury commission shall destroy the slip containing the name of such person, and in such case the jury commission shall draw from the box the name of another person to serve in his stead. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 205; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment rewrote this section to include the words "before or after being selected," to substitute "jury commission" for "clerk," and to rephrase the wording.

§ 11–1410 [18: 350]. Disposition of box after drawings — Jurors drawn excused from further service.

After the requisite number of jurors shall have been drawn the jury box shall be sealed and delivered to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for safekeeping, and the names of the persons drawn shall not be placed again in the box for one year, unless said jurors shall be excused or for other reasons shall fail to serve. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 206; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "and delivered to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for safe keeping" in lieu of the words "and remain in the custody of the clerk."

§ 11–1411 [18: 351]. Number of names required in box—Record of remaining names.

At the time of each drawing of jurors by said commission there shall be in the jury box the names of not less than six hundred persons possessing the qualifications hereinafter prescribed, which names shall have been placed therein by said jury commission. Said jury commission shall keep an accurate record, in alphabetical form, of all names remaining in the jury box from time to time, which record shall be kept sealed and deposited for safe-keeping in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia when the commission is not in session, and no person shall have access to said record except said commission. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1222, ch. 854, § 207; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the section of the 1901 act and substituted therefor the above. The former section read: "Any person who shall have been regularly drawn as a juror and shall thereupon have served as such for the period of twenty days or more shall be exempt from further service as a juror in said court for the period of one year from the beginning of his said term of service; but nothing herein contained shall render said juror ineligible to serve during said year, except that no person shall serve as a juror for two consecutive terms."

§ 11–1412 [18: 352]. Filling vacancies.

If any persons drawn as grand or petit jurors can not be found, or shall prove to be incompetent, or shall be excused from service by the court, the jury commission, under the direction of the court, shall draw from the box the name of other persons to take their places, and if, after the organization of the jury, any vacancies occur therein, they shall be filled in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 208; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "grand or petit" before the word "jurors," deleted the word "clerk" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "jury commission," and composed the paragraph into one sentence.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Alternate jurors, see Rule 47.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PANEL EXHAUSTED

If any persons are incompetent, the clerk under court's direction shall draw from the box the names of others to take their places, and since this is the only method for procuring a jury in a capital case owing to the exception in § 353 (§ 11–1413), which provides that if during the impaneling, the court may in its discretion draw further names when the panel becomes exhausted, such jury is properly drawn consonant with intent of framers of the statute. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

§ 11–1413 [18: 353]. Special venire in criminal cases.

Whenever in any criminal case in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia it shall become impossible, on account of challenges or excuses, to impanel a trial jury from among the available petit jurors already in attendance on said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and distributed or assigned among the several special terms thereof, the justice presiding at such criminal trial shall order the marshal to summon as many talesmen as may be necessary to complete said jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 209; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 560, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the section of the 1901 act and substituted therefor the above. The former section read: "If at any time during the impaneling of a jury, in any other than a capital case, the regular panel, by reason of challenge or otherwise, shall become exhausted before the jury is complete the court may in its discretion, direct the clerk to draw from the box the names of other persons to serve as jurors and cause them to be summoned, or order the marshal to summon as many talesmen as may be necessary to complete the jury."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION OF PRIOR LAW

This section leaves it in the discretion of the trial judge, except in capital cases, to issue an open venire. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

It is proper to draw a number of grand jurors in excess of the number of vacancies. Milano v. United States (40 App. D. C. 379).

§ 11–1414 [18: 354]. Repealed. May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 110, ch. 139, § 142.

Section, relating to notification of prospective jurors by the marshal was based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 210 and is now covered by sections 547 (b) and 1867 of title 28, U. S. C.

Section, relating to return by marshal of notice to prospective jurors was based on act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 211 and is now covered by sections 547 (b) and 1867 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1416 [18: 356]. Penalty for failure to attend after notice.

If any person selected as a juror and duly notified to attend shall, without sufficient cause, neglect to attend agreeably to notice he shall be fined by the court in a sum not exceeding twenty dollars for every day that he shall be absent during the sitting of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 212.)

§ 11–1417 [18: 357]. Qualifications of jurors.

No person shall be competent to act as a juror unless he be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the District of Columbia, over twenty-one and under sixty-five years of age, able to read and write and to understand the English language, and a good and lawful person, who has never been convicted of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. NOTES TO DECISIONS

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Qualifications here prescribed do not furnish only test of juror's competency. Common-law provision is still in force making a government employee ineligible in a criminal case. Crawford v. United States (212 U. S. 183, 53 L. Ed. 465, 29 Sup. Ct. 260, rev'g 30 App. D. C. 1).

§ 11–1418 [18: 358]. Women as jurors.

No person shall be disqualified for service as a juror or jury commissioner by reason of sex but the provisions of law relating to the qualifications of jurors and exemptions from jury duty shall in all cases apply to women as well as to men: Provided, That such service shall not be compulsory on any woman. (Feb. 26, 1927, 44 Stat. 1249, ch. 220.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EXCUSING AS JUROR

Where defendant had four peremptory challenges left, he can not claim prejudice because a woman juror was excused at her own request, after jury was accepted but not sworn. Fall v. United States (60 App. D. C. 124, 49 Fed. (2d) 506, cert. den. 283 U. S. 867, 75 L. Ed. 1471, 51 Sup. Ct. 657).

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Government employees and women are legally qualified for jury service, and bias is not to be implied to either class. Smith v. U. S. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 775).

QUESTIONS NOT RAISED IN LOWER COURT

Objection to validity of this section made for first time on appeal, held too late. Howard v. United States (58 App. D. C. 179, 26 Fed. (2d) 551).

§ 11–1419 [18: 359]. Repealed. May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 110, ch. 139, § 142.

Section relating to excusing jurors from service was based on act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1223, ch. 854, § 216 and is now covered by section 1863 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1420 [18: 360]. Exemption from jury service—Government employees qualified—Salary not diminished.

All executive and judicial officers of the Government of the United States and of the District of Columbia, all officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard of the United States in active service, those connected with the police and fire departments of the United States and of the District of Columbia, counselors and attorneys-at-law in actual practice, ministers of the gospel and clergymen of every denomination, practicing physicians and surgeons, keepers of hospitals, asylums, almshouses, or other charitable institutions created by or under the laws relating to the District of Columbia, captains and masters and other persons employed on vessels navigating the waters of the District of Columbia shall be exempt from jury duty, and their names shall not be placed on the jury lists.

All other persons, otherwise qualified according to law whether employed in the service of the government of the United States or of the District of Columbia, all officers and enlisted men of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, both active and retired, all officers and enlisted men of the Military, Naval, Marine, and Coast Guard Reserve Corps of the United States, all notaries public, all postmasters and those who are the recipients or beneficiaries of a pension or other gratuity from the Federal or District Government or who have contracts with the United States or the District of Columbia, shall be qualified to serve as jurors in the District of Columbia and shall not be exempt from such service: Provided, That employees of Government of the United States or of the District of Columbia in active service who are called upon to sit on juries shall not be paid for such jury service but their salary shall not be diminished during their term of service by virtue of such service, nor shall such period of service be deducted from any leave of absence authorized by law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1224, ch. 854, § 217; Feb. 18, 1909, 35 Stat. 636, ch. 146, § 73; Aug. 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 682, ch. 605.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The last proviso of this section may be superseded by §§ 11–1421 to 11–1423.

AMENDMENTS

The 1909 amendment added the word "all officers and enlisted men of National Guard for the District of Columbia, both active and retired" after the words "District of Columbia" where they appear the first time.

The 1935 amendment transferred the provision concerning the National Guard to the second paragraph and inserted in the first paragraph in lieu thereof the exemption concerning the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard and added the second paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BIAS

Bias of a prospective juror may be actual or implied. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section as amended in 1935, qualifying government employees and pensioners for jury service in criminal cases, does not violate the sixth amendment to the United States Constitution providing for a trial by an "impartial jury." United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587).

The 1935 amendment did not render this section either arbitrary or capricious so as to render it violative of the due process clause of the fifth amendment. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587).

The argument that the Code authorizing jury service by government employees is unconstitutional is without merit. Government employees are entitled to serve on juries. Wright v. United States (C. A. D. C. 1950, 183 F. 2d 821).

DUTY OF THE COURT

The trial court must be zealous to protect the right of an accused, and the court must do so without reference to an accused's political or religious beliefs however such beliefs may be received by a predominate segment of our population. Ideological status is not an appropriate gauge of the high standard of justice toward which our courts may not be content only to strive. Dennis v. United States, 1950 (70 S. Ct. 519, 339 U. S. 162, 94 L. Ed. 461).

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Even though at common law a disqualification as to government employees existed, Congress has power to remove it. United States v. Wood (299 U. S. 123, 81 L. Ed. 78, 57 Sup. Ct. 177, rev'g 65 App. D. C. 330, 83 Fed. (2d) 587).

Four jurors, employed in Government service, but eligible by statute for jury service, were not subject to challenge for implied bias. Great A. & P. Tea. Co. v. District of Columbia (67 App. D. C. 30, 89 Fed. (2d) 502, cert. den. 301 U. S. 691, 81 L. Ed. 1347, 57 Sup. Ct. 794).

Government employees are eligible for jury service, and fact that grand jury as finally constituted contained 13 government employees did not render indictment invalid. Romney v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1948, 167 F. 2d 521, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1512, 334 U. S. 849, 92 L. Ed. 1771).

In the absence of any basis for challenge, we do not see how a right to challenge a panel as a whole can arise from the mere fact that the jury chosen by proper procedure from a proper elected panel turns out to be composed wholly of government employees. Frazier v. United States, 1948 (69 S. Ct. 201, 335 U. S. 497, 93 L. Ed. 187; reh. den. 336 U. S. 907, 69 S. Ct. 488, 93 L. Ed. 1072).

A holding of implied bias to disqualify jurors because of their relationship with the government is no longer permissible. Employees of the federal government are not challengeable solely by reason of their employment. Dennis v. United States, 1950 (70 S. Ct. 519, 339 U. S. 162, 94 L. Ed. 461).

Government employees and women are legally qualified for jury service and bias is not to be implied to either class. Smith v. U. S. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 180 F. 2d 775).

IMPARTIALITY OF JURORS

Impartiality of a jury is not a technical conception. It is a state of mind, and for the ascertainment of this mental attitude of appropriate indifference, the Constitution lays down no particular test and procedure is not chained to any ancient and artificial formula. Dennis v. United States, 1950 (70 S. Ct. 519, 339 U. S. 162, 94 L. Ed. 461).

§ 11–1421. District of Columbia employees—Service as jurors in state or United States courts—No deductions from salary or leave allowance.

The compensation of any employee of the United States or of the District of Columbia who may be called upon for jury service in any state court or court of the United States shall not be diminished during the term of such jury service by reason of such absence, except as provided in section 11–1423 nor shall such period of service be deducted from the time allowed for any leave of absence authorized by law. (June 29, 1940, 54 Stat. 689, ch. 446, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section and §§ 11–1422, 11–1423 may supersede the last proviso of § 11–1420.

Chapter 15.—FEES AND COSTS

Sec.
11–1501. Compensation taxed as costs—Attorneys' agreements with clients not prohibited.
11–1502. Attorneys, solicitors, and proctors—Docket fees.
11–1503. Fees appertaining to the probate court.
11–1504. Fees and emoluments of register of wills deposited with collector of taxes.
11–1505. Fees in probate court payable in advance—Deposit.
11–1506. Deposit for costs in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia—Refunds—Security for costs by nonresidents.
11–1507. Costs in clerk's office and register of wills payable immediately—Exception—United States and District of Columbia.
11–1508. Poor persons allowed to plead and proceed without prepayment of fees and costs.
11–1509. Clerk's fees in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.
11–1510. Marshal's fees.
11–1511—11–1514. Repealed.
11–1515. Fees of jurors and witnesses at inquests.
11–1516. Attorneys for District—Fees.
11–1517. Costs allowed defendant if verdict is in his favor or plaintiff is nonsuited.
11–1518. Costs when verdict is in favor of one of several defendants.
11–1519. Neither District of Columbia nor officer thereof required to pay costs.
11–1520. Witness fees.
11–1521. Advancement of money to clerk of court for payment of witness fees.

§ 11–1501 [10: 1]. Compensation taxed as costs—Attorneys' agreements with clients not prohibited.

The following, and no other, compensation shall be taxed and allowed to attorneys, solicitors, proctors, district attorney, clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, marshal, witnesses, and jurors, except in cases otherwise provided for by law; but nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit attorneys, solicitors, and proctors from charging or receiving from their clients other than the government such reasonable compensation for their services, in addition to the taxable costs, as may be in accordance with general usage or may be agreed upon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1363, ch. 854, § 1108; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 989, ch. 646, § 16.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 25, 1948, cited to text, deleted the word "commissioners" which followed the word "marshal" and preceded the word "witnesses."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BREACH OF CONTRACT

An attorney was not entitled to recover on a contract to render professional services to clients for balance of their lives without receiving any compensation therefor until the death of the survivor, where attorney breached the contract by accepting payments for his services during the lifetime of the client. Hoover v. Lacey (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 691).

COLLECTION OF FEES

Where attorney wrote client threatening to sue for fee, it was not wrongful and hence not duress. What constitutes duress is a matter of law though whether it existed is a question of fact. Rizzi v. Fanelli (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 872).

DIVORCE

As statute does not expressly make provision therefor, a husband can not collect attorney fees from wife when he is plaintiff in a divorce action against her. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

EQUITY ACTIONS

In equitable actions, costs may be charged to either party in the discretion of the court, but the District Code specifies the compensation which may be taxed as costs and provides that no other costs may be so taxed unless provided by law. Since no fraud was found, attorneys' fees are not allowable as damages. Cahill v. Bryan (C. A. D. C. 1950, 184 F. 2d 277).

EVIDENCE

Member of the Bar of the District of Columbia was qualified to testify as an expert with respect to legal services rendered in neighboring jurisdiction of Virginia though he was not a member of the Virginia Bar, and had only a limited experience there, and had only slight knowledge of the fees customarily charged there, such facts going only to the weight of his testimony. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 54).

PARTITION SUIT

Attorney's fees in partition suit can not be taxed as costs. Fletcher v. Coomes (52 App. D. C. 159, 285 Fed. 893).

PLEADING

An attorney seeking cancellation of release of claims against clients based on a payment of $1,200 failed to plead fraud with sufficient particularity as required by Federal Rule 9b, 28 U. S. C., based on the statement that at time he executed the release he was in financial straits and that such was known to the client. Hoover v. Lacey (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 691).

PRESUMPTION

There is a presumption of over-reaching or duress in a contract regarding compensation between attorney and client, once the fiduciary relationship has been established, Rizzi v. Fanelli (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 872).

RELEASE

A release executed by attorney to clients under contract for the performance of professional services for clients during balance of their lives in the consideration of $1,200 would not be set aside on the ground of gross inadequacy of consideration, where if any disparity existed between the parties, it was in favor of the attorney, and he was familiar with the size of the estate of the clients. Hoover v. Lacey (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 691).

RENT ACTIONS

Where landlord in his suit for possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent made no claim in his complaint for a money judgment, trial court was justified in denying landlord's claim for attorney's fee pursuant to provision in lease. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

Attorney's fees were not taxable as costs in landlord's action to recover possession of leased premises on ground of nonpayment of rent. Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

REPRESENTING CONFLICTING INTERESTS

Good faith and honesty of motive and intention will not justify a lawyer in representing conflicting interests, and in that connection knowledge on part of attorney is material only on question of his good faith. Fraser v. Crounse (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 54).

STATUTORY AUTHORIZATION REQUIRED

In absence of express statutory authority, attorney's fees are not taxable as "costs". Shipley v. Major (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 540).

VACATING JUDGMENT

Counsel fees may be awarded as a condition of the vacating of the judgment on payment of the garnishee. The rule that, in the absence of statutory authority, attorneys' fees are not taxable as costs has no application since the payment for counsel fees is not imposed as costs but as a condition to obtaining relief to which the party is not entitled as a matter of right. Bridgett v. Perpetual Building Association (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 780).

§ 11–1502 [10: 2]. Attorneys, solicitors, and proctors—Docket fees.

Attorney's, solicitor's and proctor's docket fees may be taxed in the amounts fixed by title 28, United States Code, section 1923. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1363, ch. 854, § 1109; May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 109, ch. 139, § 140.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1949 act amended the section generally.

NOTES PRIOR TO 1949 AMENDMENT

PARTITION SUIT

As taxation and allowance for attorney's fees must be limited to the matters enumerated in the Code, there can be no allowance made when it is in a partition suit. Fletcher v. Coomes (52 App. D. C. 159, 285 Fed. 893).

§ 11–1503 [10: 3]. Fees appertaining to the probate court.

The register of wills, clerk of the probate court, shall be entitled to demand and to receive for services performed by him, in advance of such services, the following fees: For filing petition or caveat, fifty cents; for filing other papers, each, five cents; for making docket and indexes and taxing costs in each case, two dollars and fifty cents; for additional docket entries, each, twenty-five cents; for issuing subpœna to witness and copies, each, twenty-five cents; for issuing subpœna duces tecum, fifty cents; for issuing summons, citation, commission, rule, warrant, notice of trial, process, execution, attachment, or writ, each, one dollar; for issuing notices to creditors, distributees, and legatees, each, fifty cents; for copies of summons, citation, rule, warrant, or other process, order of publication, notices to creditors, legatees, and distributees, attested under seal and delivered for service or publication, each, fifty cents; for taking and recording every bond, one dollar and fifty cents; for every probate of will, inventory, or account, one dollar; for issuing letters testamentary or of administration, collection, or guardianship, one dollar; for issuing certificate of appointment of executor, administrator, collector, or guardian, one dollar; for entering panel of jury and swearing them, fifty cents; for administering an oath or affirmation, fifteen cents; for passing a claim against an estate and entering in docket of claims, thirty cents; for drawing depositions of witnesses, per folio, fifteen cents; for every search of the files or records outside of a regular proceeding, where no other service is performed for which a fee is allowed, one dollar; for examining or stating any account of executor, administrator, collector, guardian, receiver, or trustee, not exceeding one hundred items, five dollars; for each additional item, two cents; for stating the distribution of an estate, for each distributee, one dollar; for copy of an account, not exceeding one hundred items, one dollar and fifty cents; for each additional item, two cents; for recording all papers, per folio, fifteen cents; for copies of all papers not otherwise specified, per folio, twelve cents; for every certificate under seal, not otherwise specified, fifty cents: Provided, That in all cases where the estate does not exceed two hundred dollars in value the register of wills shall receive no fees, and where the estate does not exceed five hundred dollars in value the fees shall not exceed ten dollars: Provided further, That the court may allow to the register reasonable fees for any service he may render not specified in section 11–1509. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1364, ch. 854, § 1111; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment substantially rewrote the entire section to provide specifically for the amount of the various fees. One sentence of the 1901 Act is retained as the first proviso clause.

§ 11–1504 [10: 4]. Fees and emoluments of register of wills deposited with collector of taxes.

All of the fees and emoluments of the office of register of wills of the District of Columbia shall be paid at least weekly to the collector of taxes for the District of Columbia for deposit in the treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia. (Apr. 24, 1926. 44 Stat. 322, ch. 176, § 1.)

§ 11–1505 [10: 5]. Fees in probate court payable in advance—Deposit.

For proceedings in the probate court deposits and fees shall be paid to the register of wills, who shall be entitled to demand and may require, upon the presentation for filing of a petition or a caveat to a will, a deposit for his fees to be charged for the proceedings under such petition or such caveat; and upon such deposit becoming exhausted in the liquidation of his fees so charged, he may demand and require a further deposit from the original petitioner or caveator; but such deposits shall not be required in excess of fifteen dollars at any one time. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 175; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 30, 1902, struck out the original proviso clause in § 175 of the 1901 Code and inserted in lieu thereof the above. As enacted it was a proviso to § 11–1506. The original proviso, provided that § 175 of the 1901 Code, § 11–1506 herein, should not apply to the probate court.

§ 11–1506 [10: 6]. Deposit for costs in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia—Refunds—Security for costs by nonresidents.

At the commencement of every suit in said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia the plaintiff shall deposit at least ten dollars with the clerk, to be appropriated toward the costs of the suit; and the court is hereby authorized to prescribe rules as to any further costs to be paid by either the plaintiff or defendant during the progress of the case, and as to the collection thereof. Upon the termination of the case any surplus of costs shall be refunded by the clerk.

The defendant in any suit instituted by a nonresident of the District of Columbia, or by one who becomes such after the suit is commenced, may, upon notice served on the plaintiff or his attorney, at any time after service of process on the defendant, require the plaintiff to give security for all costs and charges that may be adjudged against him on the final disposition of the cause. But such right of the defendant shall not entitle him to delay in pleading, and his pleading before the giving of such security shall not be deemed a waiver of his right to require such security for costs. In case of noncompliance with the foregoing requirements, within a time to be fixed by the court, judgment of nonsuit or dismissal shall be entered. The security required may be by an undertaking, with security, to be approved by the court, or by a deposit of money in amount to be fixed by the court.

A nonresident may, at the commencement of his suit, deposit with the clerk such sum in money as the court shall deem sufficient as security for all costs that may accrue in the cause, which deposit may afterwards be increased on application, in the discretion of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 175.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY OF CLERK

Where jurisdiction did not depend upon diversity of citizenship, defendant was entitled to security for costs from nonresident plaintiff in the form of an undertaking in the amount of $100 with surety approved by court, or a cash deposit of $50. Moyers v. Leoffler (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 221).

SECURITY FOR COSTS

Where more than four months had elapsed between filing of defendants' motion for security for costs and final denial of plaintiff's motion for reconsideration of order dismissing the action during which no bonds for security were tendered by plaintiff, dismissal of the action was not an abuse of discretion. Carpenter v. Carpenter (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 857).

§ 11–1507 [10: 7]. Costs in clerk's office and register of wills payable immediately—Exception—United States and District of Columbia.

All costs and fees for services rendered by the clerk and the register of wills and chargeable to others than the United States shall be payable in advance and shall be collected by such rules and regulations, not incompatible with law, as may be prescribed by the court, but shall in no case be paid by the United States. The District of Columbia shall not be required to pay fees to the clerk of the United States Court of Appeals for the District, or to the marshal of the District, and shall be entitled to the services of said marshal in the service of all civil process.

Provided, That neither the United States nor the District of Columbia, nor any officer of either, acting in his official capacity, shall be required to give bond or enter into undertaking to perfect any appeal or to obtain any injunction or other writ, process, or order in or of any court in the District of Columbia for which a bond or undertaking was, on June 9, 1910, or may thereafter be required by law or rule of court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1219, ch. 854, § 177; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 527, ch. 1329; June 9, 1910, 36 Stat. 464, ch. 277.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "immediately after the services are performed" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "in advance."

The 1910 amendment added the proviso.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY OF CLERK

Fees and emoluments of the office belong to the government, subject only to the payment of the annual salary of the clerk, necessary clerk hire, and incidental expenses, and the clerk is the collecting agent of the government. Bean v. Patterson (110 U. S. 401, 28 L. Ed. 190, 4 Sup. Ct. 23).

Clerk should account to United States for fees received in civil actions and from the territory on account of territorial business, but not for services in naturalization proceedings. United States v. McMillan (165 U. S. 504, 41 L. Ed. 805, 17 Sup. Ct. 395).

FORMER RULE

As to liability of District of Columbia Commissioners for costs prior to act of June 9, 1910, see Brown v. Macfarland (22 App. D. C. 412).

PRINTING RECORD

Practice under this section has been for parties to deposit the sum of $25 in lieu of a fee bond, and the rule provides for the subsequent advance of the cost of printing the record and the fee for its preparation. Green v. Elbert (137 U. S. 615, 34 L. Ed. 792, 11 Sup. Ct. 188).

REASON FOR THE RULE

Clerk is required to pay into the treasury the fees and emoluments of his office over and above his own compensation as fixed by law, and his necessary clerk hire and incidental expenses. It is proper, therefore, that for his protection his fees should be paid in advance, if demanded. Steever v. Rickman (109 U. S. 74, 27 L. Ed. 861, 3 Sup. Ct. 67, 343).

§ 11–1508 [10: 8]. Poor persons allowed to plead and proceed without prepayment of fees and costs.

Any citizen of the United States entitled to commence any suit or action, civil or criminal, in any court of the United States, may, upon the order of the court, commence and prosecute or defend to conclusion any suit or action, or a writ of error or an appeal to the circuit court of appeals, or to the Supreme Court in such suit or action, including all appellate proceedings, unless the trial court shall certify in writing that in the opinion of the court such appeal or writ of error is not taken in good faith, without being required to prepay fees or costs or for the printing of the record in the appellate court or give security therefor, before or after bringing suit or action, or upon suing out a writ of error or appealing, upon filing in said court a statement under oath in writing, that because of his poverty he is unable to pay the costs of said suit or action or of such writ of error or appeal, or to give security for the same, and that he believes that he is entitled to the redress he seeks in such suit or action or writ of error or appeal, and setting forth briefly the nature of his alleged cause of action, or appeal: Provided, That in any criminal case the court may, upon the filing in said court of the affidavit hereinbefore mentioned, direct that the expense of printing the record on appeal or writ of error be paid by the United States, and the same shall be paid when authorized by the Attorney-General. (June 25, 1910, 36 Stat. 866, ch. 435; June 27, 1922, 42 Stat. 666, ch. 246.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

The act of Congress of Jan. 31, 1928, 45 Stat. 54, ch. 14, § 1 (U. S. C., title 28, §§ 861a, 861b), abolished the writ of error in cases, civil and criminal, and provided that "all relief which heretofore could be obtained by writ of error shall hereafter be obtainable by appeal." This law applies to courts of the United States and consequently would apply to the review of decisions of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, but would not of necessity apply to the police court, municipal court, and other District courts not considered as courts of the United States.

AMENDMENT

The 1922 amendment added the proviso.

CLERK TO PAY COSTS

In forma pauperis action which is denied the clerk shall pay the costs. Aldridge v. United States (282 U. S. 836, 75 L. Ed. 743, 51 Sup. Ct. 333); Drazich v. Archer (282 U. S. 893, 75 L. Ed. 787, 51 Sup. Ct. 180).

COURTS INCLUDED

Right to prosecute in forma pauperis suits without paying fees or costs does not extend to appellate courts. In re Abdu (247 U. S. 27, 62 L. Ed. 966, 38 Sup. Ct. 447).

JURISDICTION OF COURT

To prosecute an appeal or writ of error to the Supreme Court in forma pauperis, it must appear from the record that the court has jurisdiction. Kinney v. Plymouth Rock Squab Co. (236 U. S. 43, 59 L. Ed. 457, 35 Sup. Ct. 236); Pothier v. Rodman (261 U. S. 307, 67 L. Ed. 670, 43 Sup. Ct. 374).

PROCEEDINGS IN ADMIRALTY

Congress did not intend to deny to poor persons of the United States the right to proceed in admiralty. Washington-Southern Nav. Co. v. Baltimore & P. Steamboat Co. (263 U. S. 629, 68 L. Ed. 480, 44 Sup. Ct. 220).

TRANSCRIPTS

As Congress did not grant to the court the power to authorize payment for transcripts of testimony for poor persons, the court has no such authority. United States ex rel. Estabrook v. Otis ((C. C. A. 8), 18 Fed. (2d) 689).

UNITED STATES NOT LIABLE

Congress did not intend that the United States should be liable for any of the costs incurred under the provisions of this act. United States v. Fair ((D. C.-Cal.), 235 Fed. 1015).

§ 11–1509 [10: 9]. Clerk's fees in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

For filing the following-named cases and for all services to be performed therein, except as otherwise provided herein, the clerk shall charge and collect the following fees:

Actions at law, $10; suits in equity, $10; lunacy cases, $10; deportation cases, $10; requisition cases, $10; habeas corpus cases, $10; plea of title cases, $10; District Court cases, $15; condemnation cases, $15; libel cases, $15; feeble-minded cases, $7.50; adoption cases, $5; change of name cases, $5; intervening petitions in any case, $5; cases substituting trustees, $4; docketing judgments of the municipal court, $2.50; and limited partnership cases, $3.

Upon the perfecting of any appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia there shall be charged and collected by the clerk from the party or parties prosecuting such appeal an additional fee in said suit or proceeding of $5.

For each additional trial or final hearing, upon a reversal by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, or following a disagreement by a jury or the granting of a new trial or rehearing by the court, there shall be charged and collected by the clerk from the party or parties securing such reversal, new trial, or rehearing the further sum of $5: Provided, however, That the clerk shall not be required to account for any such fee not collected by him in criminal cases: Provided further, That nothing herein contained shall prohibit the court from directing by rule or standing order the collection, at the time the services are rendered, of the fees herein enumerated from either party, but all such fees shall be taxed as costs in the respective cases.

In any case where attachments, executions, scire facias proceedings, or rules are issued the following fees shall be charged and collected by the clerk in addition to the fees hereinbefore provided: For each writ of attachment, $1, and each copy, $1; for each writ of execution, $1.50; for each writ of scire facias, $1, and each copy, $1; for each rule, 50 cents, and each copy certified, 50 cents; for each writ of ne exeat, $1; for each bench warrant, $1; for each warrant of arrest, $1.

That in addition to the fees for services rendered in cases hereinbefore enumerated the clerk shall charge and collect, for miscellaneous services performed by him and his assistants, except when on behalf of the United States, the following fees:

For issuing any writ or subpoena for a witness not in a case instituted or pending in the court from which it is issued, 50 cents for each writ and copy or subpœna and copy.

For filing and indexing any paper not in a case or proceeding, 25 cents.

For administering an oath or affirmation, not in a case or proceeding pending in the court where the oath is administered, 50 cents.

For an acknowledgment, certificate, affidavit, or countersignature, with seal, 50 cents.

For taking and certifying depositions to file, 20 cents for each folio of one hundred words, and if taken stenographically, 15 cents per folio additional for the stenographer.

For copy of any record, entry, or other paper and the comparison thereof, 15 cents for each folio of one hundred words.

For searching the records of the court for judgments, decrees, or other instruments, or marriage records, 50 cents for each year covered by the search and for certifying the result, 50 cents.

For receiving, keeping, and disbursing money in pursuance of any statute or order of court, including cash bail or bond or securities authorized by law or order of court to be deposited in lieu of other security, 1 per centum of the amount so received, kept, and disbursed, or of the face value of such bonds or securities.

For making and comparing a transcript of record on appeal, 15 cents for each folio of one hundred words.

For comparing any transcript, copy of record, or other paper not made by the clerk with the original thereof, 5 cents for each folio of one hundred words.

For administering oath of admission of attorneys to practice, $2 each; for certificate of admission to be furnished upon request, $2 additional.

For each marriage license, $2.

For each certified copy of marriage license and return, $1.

For each certified copy of application for marriage license, $1.

For registering clergymen's authorizations to perform marriages and issuing certificate, $1.

For each certificate of official character, including the seal, 50 cents.

For filing and recording each notice of mechanic's lien, $1.

For entering release of mechanic's lien, 50 cents for each order of lienor; 75 cents for each undertaking of lienee.

For recording physicians', optometrists', and midwives' licenses, 50 cents each.

For the clerk's attendance on the court while actually in session, $5 per day; and for all services rendered to the United States in cases in which the United States is a party of record, $5.

The surplus fees collected by the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall be deposited in the treasury, to the credit of the District of Columbia and the United States in the proportions required by law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1363, ch. 854, § 1110; Aug. 23, 1912, 37 Stat. 412, ch. 350; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7; Apr. 6, 1928, 45 Stat. 410, ch. 325.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1901 act provided a schedule of fees for various services performed by the clerk which have been changed to the present form by the 1928 amendment. The 1912 act provided for the payment of surplus fees into the treasury. The 1921 act provides for the apportionment of surplus fees paid into the treasury, and reads as follows: "SEC. 7. That on and after July 1, 1921, all fees, fines, and other miscellaneous items of revenue theretofore required by law to be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in equal parts shall be paid for each fiscal year into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for such fiscal year are paid from the Treasury of the United States and the revenues of the District of Columbia; and all collections on account of special assessments for public improvements for which assessments are levied according to the law shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the same proportions as the appropriations used in paying for such assessment work are charged, respectively, against the revenues of the District of Columbia and the Treasury of the United States."

CROSS REFERENCE

No payment of fees by District of Columbia or officers, § 11–1519.

NOTE TO DECISIONS

NECESSITY FOR CLERK'S CERTIFICATE

In order that the printed transcript should become the record upon appeal, it was necessary that it should be made so by the certificate of the clerk as to its correctness in form and substance in accordance with his examination and comparison of the printed transcript with that which remained in the lower court. Sarfert Co. v. Chipman ((D. C.-Pa.), 205 Fed. 937).

TAXING COSTS

Questions of costs ordinarily do not properly arise before the taxation, and are not determined by a court in advance, without allowing parties an opportunity to be heard. Ferguson v. Dent ((C. C.-Tenn.), 46 Fed. 88).

§ 11–1510 [10: 10]. Marshal's fees.

The following, and no other, compensation shall be taxed and allowed the marshal, except in cases otherwise provided by law: For each return on any warrant, attachment, summons, capias, or other writ (except execution, venire, or a summons or subpœna for a witness), whether or not service has been made, $1 for each person: Provided, however, That for the return on any citation, summons, notice, or rule issued by the probate court the fee shall be 50 cents for each person.

For the keeping of personal property attached on mesne process, such compensation as the court, on petition setting forth the facts under oath, may allow.

For serving venires and summoning every twelve persons as grand or petit jurors, four dollars, or thirty-three and one-third cents each.

For holding an inquisition or other proceeding before a jury, including the summoning of a jury, five dollars.

For serving a writ of subpœna on a witness, fifty cents; and no further compensation for a copy, summons, or notice for a witness.

For summoning appraisers, fifty cents.

For executing a deed prepared by a party or his attorney, one dollar.

For drawing and executing a deed, five dollars.

For copies of writs or papers furnished at request of any party, ten cents a folio.

For every proclamation in admiralty, thirty cents.

For serving an attachment in rem or libel in admiralty, two dollars.

For the necessary expenses of keeping boats, vessels, or other property attached or libeled in admiralty, not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents a day.

When the debt or claim in admiralty is settled by the parties without a sale of the property, a commission of one per centum on the first five hundred dollars of the claim or decree, and one-half of one per centum on the excess of any sum thereof over five hundred dollars: Provided, That when the value of the property is less than the claim such commission shall be allowed only on the appraised value thereof.

For sale of vessels or other property under process in admiralty and for receiving and paying over the money, two and one-half per centum on any sum under five hundred dollars, and one and one-half per centum on the excess of any sum over five hundred dollars.

For disbursing money to jurors and witnesses and for other expenses, two per centum.

For expenses while employed in endeavoring to arrest under process any person charged with or convicted of crime, the sum actually expended, not to exceed two dollars a day.

For every commitment or discharge of a prisoner, fifty cents.

For transporting criminals convicted of a crime in the District to a prison in a state or territory designated by the Attorney-General, the reasonable actual expense of transportation of the criminals, the marshal, and the guards, and the necessary subsistence and hire.

For attending court and bringing in and committing prisoners and witnesses during the term, five dollars a day.

For attending examinations before a commissioner and bringing in, guarding, and returning prisoners charged with crime, and witnesses, two dollars a day, and for each deputy, not exceeding two, necessarily attending, two dollars a day.

For fuel, lights, and other contingencies that may accrue in holding the courts, the amount of his expenses necessarily incurred.

For levying upon leasehold or freehold property in land and selling the same, a commission of one and one-half per centum on the proceeds to the amount of the debt.

For levying upon leasehold or freehold property in land where no sale thereof is made, one dollar.

For levying upon personal property and selling the same, a commission of three per centum on the proceeds to the amount of the debt and the reasonable cost for storage, keeper, insurance, advertising, and auctioneer.

For levying upon personal property where no sale thereof is made, two dollars and fifty cents and the reasonable cost for storage, keeper, and insurance incurred for the preservation of the same: Provided, That the court, on notice to all parties in interest, may allow additional compensation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1365, ch. 854, § 1112; May 29, 1930, 46 Stat. 486, ch. 358.)

AMENDMENT

The act of 1930 amended the first paragraph of this section by changing the words "For service on" following the colon to read "For each return on," and the words "one dollar for each person on whom service may be made," following the parenthesis, to read, "whether or not service has been made, one dollar for each person."

§ 11–1511 [10: 11]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section, based on Act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1366, ch. 854, § 1113, relating to Commissioners' fees is now covered by section 663 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1512 [10: 16]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section, based on Act Apr. 26, 1926, 44 Stat. 323, ch. 183, § 1, relating to fees of jurors and witnesses—per diem and mileage is now covered by sections 1871 and 1821 of title 28, U. S. C.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEPOSITIONS

Fees and mileage of witnesses whose depositions are taken are a necessary expense, and although federal statutes do not forbid recovery by express terms, their effect, by necessary implication, is to limit the allowable mileage of witnesses from without the District to one hundred miles. Vincennes Steel Corp. v. Miller ((C. C. A. 5), 94 Fed. (2d) 347).

EVIDENCE MUST BE MATERIAL

In order to entitle a party to tax the costs of witnesses, the evidence of such witnesses must be material. Federal Intermediate Credit Bank v. Mitchell ((D. C.-S. Car.), 38 Fed. (2d) 824).

WITNESSES WHO ATTEND

Congress has prescribed that witnesses who attend shall be paid, and has not seen fit to limit the payment of fees to those who also testify. Federal Intermediate Credit Bank v. Mitchell ((D. C.-S. Car.), 38 Fed. (2d) 824).

Section, Apr. 26, 1926, 44 Stat. 323, ch. 183, § 2, relating to amount of per diem and milage for jurors is now covered by section 1871 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1514 [10: 18]. Repealed. June 25, 1948, effective September 1, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39.

Section, based on Act Apr. 26, 1926, 44 Stat. 324, ch. 183, § 3, relating to amount of per diem, mileage and subsistence to witnesses is now covered by section 1821 of title 28, U. S. C.

§ 11–1515 [10: 20]. Fees of jurors and witnesses at inquests.

There shall be paid to the jurors and witnesses who may be lawfully summoned in any inquest the same fees and compensation as are allowed to the jurors and witnesses attending the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1221, ch. 854, § 195.)

§ 11–1516 [10: 25]. Attorneys for District—Fees.

No attorney for the District of Columbia shall retain any attorney fees taxed as costs in any litigation in which the District of Columbia is a party. (Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 678, ch. 433.)

§ 11–1517 [10: 26]. Costs allowed defendant if verdict is in his favor or plaintiff is nonsuited.

If any person or persons shall commence or sue in any court of record, or in any other court, any action whatsoever, wherein the plaintiff or defendant might have costs (if in case judgment should be given for him) and the plaintiff or plaintiffs, demandant or demandants, in any such action, bill, or plaint, after appearance of the defendant or defendants, be nonsuited, or that any verdict happen to pass by any lawful trial against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, demandant or demandants, in any such action, bill, or plaint, then the defendant and defendants, in every such action, bill, or plaint, shall have judgment to recover his costs against every such plaintiff and plaintiffs, demandant and demandants, and that to be assessed and taxed by the discretion of the judge or judges of the court where any such action, bill, or plaint shall be commenced, sued, or taken; and also that every defendant in such action, bill, or plaint shall have such process and execution for the recovery and having of his costs against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, as the same plaintiff or plaintiffs should or might have had against the defendant or defendants, in case that judgment had been given for the part of the said plaintiff or plaintiffs, in any such action, bill, or plaint. (4 Jac. 1, ch. 3, § 2; Kilty's Rept. p. 236; Alex. Brit. Stat. p. 432; Comp. Stat. D. C. p. 418, § 106; 23 Hen. 8, ch. 15, § 1, 1531; Kilty's Rept. p. 231; Alex. Brit. Stat. 287; Comp. Stat. D. C. p. 418, § 105.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section sets forth a British Statute continued in force by virtue of the act of Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1. It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

General provisions concerning costs, see Rule 54 (a).

§ 11–1518 [10: 27]. Costs when verdict is in favor of one of several defendants.

Where several persons shall be made defendants to any action or plaint of trespass, assault, false imprisonment, or ejectione firmae, and any one or more of them shall be upon the trial thereof acquitted by verdict, every person or persons so acquitted shall have and recover his costs of suit in like manner as if a verdict had been given against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, and acquitted all the defendants, unless the judge, before whom such cause shall be tried, shall, immediately after the trial thereof, in open court, certify upon the record, under his hand, that there was a reasonable cause for the making such person or persons a defendant or defendants to such action or plaint. (8 and 9 Wm. 3, ch. 11, § 1; Kilty's Rept. p. 243; Alex. Brit. Stat. p. 602; Comp. Stat. D. C. p. 417, § 101.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 11–1517.

§ 11–1519 [10: 28]. Neither District of Columbia nor officer thereof required to pay costs.

Neither the District of Columbia nor any officer thereof acting therefor shall be required to pay court costs in any court in and for the District of Columbia. (July 15, 1939, 53 Stat. 1009, ch. 281, § 1; June 12, 1940, 54 Stat. 307, ch. 333, § 1; June 28, 1944, 58 Stat. 533, ch. 300, § 16.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 28, 1944, cited to text, amended section by omitting "to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia", and inserting in lieu thereof "in any court in and for the District of Columbia.".

§ 11–1520. Witness fees.

For each day's attendance in court or before any officer pursuant to law, one dollar and twenty-five cents; and when a witness is subpœnaed in more than one cause between the same parties at the same term only one per diem compensation shall be allowed for attendance; and for traveling, at the rate of five cents per mile, coming and returning to and from the witness's place of abode, when summoned from without the District to testify in the courts of the District.

No officer of the United States courts shall be entitled to witness fees for attending before a court or commissioner where he is officiating. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1114.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section appears to be in force except insofar as it has been modified by and is inconsistent with §§ 11–1512 to 11–1515. It appears to be in force as far as the municipal and juvenile courts are concerned.

§ 11–1521. Advancement of money to clerk of court for payment of witness fees.

The disbursing officer of the District of Columbia is authorized to advance to the clerk of the court, upon requisition previously approved by the Auditor of the District of Columbia, sums of money not exceeding $500 at any one time, to be used for the payment of witness fees. (June 30, 1945, 59 Stat. 281, ch. 209, § 1; July 9, 1946, 60 Stat. 511, ch. 544, §1.)

TITLE 12.—RIGHT TO REMEDY—CONDITIONS AFFECTING

Chap. Sec.
1. Abatement and revivor ---------- 12–101
2. Limitation of actions ---------- 12–201
3. Statute of frauds ---------- 12–301
4. Fraudulent conveyances ---------- 12–401

Chapter 1.—ABATEMENT AND REVIVOR

Sec.
12–101. Actions survive in favor of or against representatives of deceased party—Injury to person or reputation—Exception.
12–102. Deceased defendant—Common law actions—Substituted party defendant—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Limitation.
12–103. Deceased plaintiff—Actions at law before judgment—Substituted party plaintiff—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Failure to appear and prosecute—Limitation—Abatement or judgment.
12–104. Upon death or removal of new party, his representative may be made party in same manner as if original party.
12–105. New party may use pleadings and amend, same as original party.
12–106. New party entitled to and liable for costs and damages same as original, except defendant not liable beyond assets received.
12–107. Representative of deceased joint defendant brought in, if action survives.
12–108. Equity suit not abated by death of party if rights survive.
12–109. Bill of revivor not necessary in case of death—Suggestion of death.
12–110. Upon suggestion of death, subpoena may issue to representative, or publication if nonresident.
12–111. Death of defendant after interlocutory decree—Effect—Court may order appropriate proceedings—Defenses by representative.
12–112. Marriage—Effect—Amendments.
12–113. Execution on final decree after death—Other appropriate proceedings.
12–114. Appearance ordered on failure of representative to appear after notice.
12–115. Representative proceeded against as nonresident.
12–116. Bill of revivor or supplemental bill—Notice—Service by publication.

§ 12–101 [24: 31]. Actions survive in favor of or against representatives of deceased party—Injury to person or reputation—Exception.

On the death of any person in whose favor or against whom a right of action may have accrued for any cause prior to his death, said right of action shall survive in favor of or against the legal representative of the deceased: Provided, however, That in tort actions, the said right of action shall be limited to damages for physical injury except for pain and suffering resulting therefrom. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, §235; June 19, 1948, 62 Stat. 487, ch. 508, § 1.)

Amendments

Sec. 1 of act June 19, 1948, cited to text, amended section by inserting after the word "cause" the words "prior to his death"; striking the words "except an injury to the person or to the reputation"; substituting the words "legal representative" for the words "legal representatives"; striking all after "deceased" and inserting in lieu thereof the proviso.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Application of Statute

In an action to enforce a contract to convey property, statute is without application where right of action did not accrue prior to the death of defendant's wife but arose after her death. Bennett v. Bennett (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 19).

Construction

While perhaps proviso excepting damages for pain and suffering is somewhat inartistically drawn, nevertheless it is not ambiguous and the legislative history supports this conclusion. Phillips v. Lust (D. C. D. C. 1949, 82 F. Supp. 63).

Disbarment Proceedings

Disbarment proceedings against attorney do not survive, although appeal was pending at his death. Metzger v. O'Donoghue (53 App. D. C. 107, 288 Fed. 461).

Emergency Rent Act

An action to recover double amount of rent paid in excess of maximum rent ceiling prescribed by District of Columbia Emergency Rent Act, § 45–1610, was not for an injury to person or to reputation, and therefore survived death of landlord. Tyler v. Dixson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 648).

An action to recover double amount of rent paid in excess of maximum rent ceiling prescribed by District of Columbia Emergency Rent Act, § 45–1610, was an action to recover for a "private wrong" and not for a statutory "penalty," and hence, upon death of landlord, action survived as to double the excess rent and was not limited to amount of excess rent actually paid, even if this section did not provide for survival of action for statutory penalty. Tyler v. Dixson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 648).

Partnerships

This section is not applicable to partnerships, since surviving partner is vested with legal title to the assets of the partnership, and after reducing them to possession will be accountable to representative of deceased partner. Dingman v. Henry (51 App. D. C. 339, 279 Fed. 795).

Personal Injury

The cause of action for personal injury does not survive the death of the wrongdoer or the injured person. Woolen v. Lorenz (68 App. D. C. 389, 98 Fed. (2d) 261).

Where United States marshal was liable to plaintiff for forcible entry late at night of plaintiff's dwelling by his deputies in serving a warrant in a civil proceeding, marshal's subsequent death did not preclude plaintiff from recovering for personal injuries inflicted on him by deputies and his wrongful arrest as elements of his damages by virtue of this section providing that actions for personal injuries should not survive in favor of or against legal representatives of deceased. Colpoys v. Foreman (App. D. C. 1947, 163 F. 2d 908, 82 U. S. App. D. C. 349).

Res Judicata

In an earlier case, appellant sued one Rich for injuries and before trial Rich died. Appellant moved for substitution of administratrix and Court ordered complaint dismissed. The order of dismissal operated as an adjudication on the merits of the right of action and barred present suit. Slack v. Rich (C. A. D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 706).

§ 12–102 [24: 32]. Deceased defendant—Common law actions—Substituted party defendant—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Limitation.

No action at common law shall abate by the death of either or any of the parties thereto if the right of action would survive as aforesaid; but upon the death of any defendant the action shall continue pending, and the heir, devisee, executor, administrator, or other person interested in the place of the deceased defendant, as the case may require, may appear to such action. And in case the proper person to defend such action shall not appear to the same during the term of the court in which such death may be suggested, the plaintiff may cause a summons to be issued, directed to the proper person to defend such action, to be served on such person, if found in the District of Columbia and legally suable therein, requiring him to appear thereto on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the service thereof, and show cause why such action should not be prosecuted to judgment; and if it shall appear to the court that such summons has been duly served, and the person so summoned shall not appear as thereby required, then the court may cause the appearance of such person to be entered, and there shall be the same proceedings in said action as if said person had voluntarily appeared; and all the proceedings had before the death of the defendant shall be considered as proceedings in the action, and such further proceedings shall be had to bring the cause fairly to trial as the court may deem proper. If the proper representative of a deceased defendant be not made a party to the action within one year from the death of said defendant, the action shall abate as to such defendant: Provided, however, That where the representative of the deceased is an executor or administrator the plaintiff shall have six months after the issuance of letters testamentary or of administration within which to make such representative a party: And provided further, That in case the summons above provided for shall be returned "Not to be found," publication may be substituted therefor in all cases in which proceeding by publication is authorized by this code. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1227, ch. 854, § 236.)

Substitution of parties, death or separation from office of public official, see Rule 25 (d).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EJECTMENT

Upon the death of a married woman (plaintiff in an ejectment action), her husband, who thereby becomes entitled to the estate by curtesy, cannot be substituted in her place, and "a new action and summons on the part of the new plaintiff was essential." Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122).

PRIOR LAW

The failure to bring in the representative of a deceased plaintiff by the tenth day of the second term of the court after the suggestion of death in pursuance of provisions of act of Maryland of 1785, ch. 80, § 1, can not apply to the case where there are two or more parties plaintiff, against the survivor or survivors of whom the action may be continued. Corbett v. Pond (10 App. D. C. 17) distinguishing Danenhower v. Ball (8 App. D. C. 137).

REPLEVIN

It is not competent for plaintiff in replevin to discontinue or dismiss his suit or voluntarily withdraw from it, without the consent of defendant, after the property has been delivered to him under the writ, unless he returns the property taken or makes good his loss. Hence plaintiff's death does not bar action, and defendant has the right to compel the executor or administrator to become a party to the suit. Corbett v. Pond (10 App. D. C. 17).

"WITHIN YEAR"

The year within which proper representative must be made a party is measured from the death of defendants, and not from the time that plaintiff learned thereof. Whelan v. Welch (50 App. D. C. 173, 269 Fed. 689).

§ 12–103 [24: 33]. Deceased plaintiff—Actions at law before judgment—Substituted party plaintiff—Appearance at same term—Summons—Notice—Failure to appear and prosecute—Limitation—Abatement or judgment.

If any plaintiff in any such action shall die before judgment is given, the heir, devisee, executor, administrator, or other proper person to prosecute such action may appear and prosecute the same; and if such person does not appear to prosecute such action during the term of said court in which the death may be suggested, the defendant may cause a summons to be issued, directed to the proper person to prosecute such action, requiring him to appear and prosecute the same on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after service of the same; and if it shall appear to the court that such summons has been duly served, and the party summoned shall fail to appear in obedience thereto to prosecute the action, or if said party be not found in the District of Columbia and shall not appear to prosecute such action by the fourth day of the second term of the court after the term at which the death is suggested, the action shall abate or the cause may proceed to judgment notwithstanding such failure to appear, as the defendant may elect; but if the proper person to prosecute such action shall appear therein, either voluntarily or after being summoned as aforesaid, before said suit shall so abate, all proceedings in the action had before the death of the plaintiff shall be considered as proceedings in the cause, and such other proceedings shall be had to bring the cause fairly to trial as the court may deem proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1228, ch. 854, § 237; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 528, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "the" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "any" as the second word of the section, and inserted after the word "abate," the first time it appears, the words "or the cause may proceed to judgment notwithstanding such failure to appear, as the defendant may elect."

§ 12–104 [24: 34]. Upon death or removal of new party, his representative may be made party in same manner as if original party.

In all cases where a new party has been made to any action under the provisions aforesaid, and the new party so made shall die before judgment, or if an executor or administrator shall be removed from his office, the proper person to prosecute or defend such action in the place of the party so dying or removed may be made a party thereto by the same proceeding herein authorized on the death of the original plaintiff or defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1228, ch. 854, § 238.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 12–105 [24: 35]. New party may use pleadings and amend, same as original party.

Any new party to any action may use and rely upon any pleadings put in by his predecessor in such action, or shall have the same right to amend the pleadings or proceedings in such action as if he had been an original party thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1228, ch. 854, § 239.)

§ 12–106 [24: 36]. New party entitled to and liable for costs and damages same as original, except defendant not liable beyond assets received.

In all cases where a new party is made to an action the costs which accrued before such new party was made shall be taxed as part of the costs in such action, and the judgment rendered shall be the same as if the action had been originally commenced between the persons who are parties to such action: Provided, That no defendant who is made a new party to such action shall be burdened with debts, damages, or costs beyond the amount of property or assets descended or come to his hands from the deceased. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 240.)

§ 12–107 [24: 37]. Representative of deceased joint defendant brought in, if action survives.

In case of the death of one of several joint defendants to an action, where the right of action will survive as aforesaid, the same proceedings shall be had to make the proper representative of the deceased a party to the action as in the case of a sole defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 241.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 12–108 [24: 38]. Equity suit not abated by death of party if rights survive.

No suit in equity shall abate by the death of any of the parties in cases where the rights involved in the suit survive. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 243.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DIVORCE

The jurisdiction of the court over a divorce decree was not lost by reason of the death of the plaintiff. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

§ 12–109 [24: 39]. Bill of revivor not necessary in case of death—Suggestion of death.

If any of the parties to a suit in equity, whether complainant or defendant, shall die after the filing of the bill or petition, it shall not be necessary to file a bill of revivor; but any of the surviving parties may file a suggestion of such death, setting forth when the death occurred, and who is the legal representative of such deceased party, and how he is the representative, whether by devise, descent, or otherwise. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 244.)

§ 12–110 [24: 40]. Upon suggestion of death, subpœna may issue to representative, or publication if nonresident.

Upon such a suggestion a subpœna shall issue for the legal representative of the deceased party, commanding him to appear and be made a party to such suit, if such representative reside within the District of Columbia; and if such representative is a nonresident, then such notice shall be given instead of the subpœna as is herein elsewhere provided for nonresident defendants. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 245.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 12–102.

§ 12–111 [24: 41]. Death of defendant after interlocutory decree—Effect—Court may order appropriate proceedings—Defenses by representative.

If any defendant shall die after a decree for an account, sale, or partition, or after such other proceedings shall have been had after appearance as would have warranted the passing of such a decree, or if such deceased defendant shall have answered, confessing the facts stated in the bill, or shall have set up no defense to the relief therein prayed, the court may, in its discretion, order the cause to be proceeded in as if no death had occurred, or may order a bill of revivor or a supplemental bill to be filed, and the proper representative of such deceased defendant to be made a party, as may seem best calculated to advance the purposes of justice: Provided, That the heir or other proper representative of such deceased defendant, at any time before final decree, may appear and be made a party on such reasonable terms as the court may direct; and such new party may file an answer to the original bill, subject to such terms as the court may impose, in which he may insist on such defenses, and none other, as might have been made to a bill of revivor or supplemental bill in the nature of a bill of revivor filed against him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 246.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 12–102.

§ 12–112 [24: 42]. Marriage—Effect—Amendments.

No suit at law or in equity shall abate by the marriage of any of the parties; but on application of any of the parties the court may, on such terms and notice as it shall deem proper, allow and order any amendment in the pleadings and the making of any new or additional parties that such marriage may render necessary or proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 247.)

§ 12–113 [24: 43]. Execution on final decree after death—Other appropriate proceedings.

If any of the parties to a suit die after final decree, the court may order execution of such decree as if no death had occurred, or the court may order a subpœna scire facias to be issued, or a bill of revivor to be filed against the proper representatives of such deceased party, or pass such other order or direct such other proceedings as may seem best calculated to advance the purposes of justice: Provided, That the heir or other proper representative may appear at any time before execution of said decree and be admitted as a party to the suit, on such terms as the court may prescribe, and such further proceeding may be had as may be appropriate to the merits of the cause. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1229, ch. 854, § 248.)

§ 12–114 [24: 44]. Appearance ordered on failure of representative to appear after notice.

If any representative of a deceased party shall fail to appear, after being summoned, within the time therein limited, or shall fail to appear after notice by publication, the court may order the appearance of such representative to be entered, to have the same effect as if such representative had appeared in person and been made a party. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 249.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 12–102.

§ 12–115 [24: 45]. Representative proceeded against as nonresident.

In all cases where any representative of a deceased party to a suit shall evade any process issued against him, or shall leave the District before any such process can be served on him, he may be proceeded against as a nonresident defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 250.)

§ 12–116 [24: 46]. Bill of revivor or supplemental bill—Notice—Service by publication.

A bill of revivor or supplemental bill in the nature of a bill of revivor may be filed, instead of a suggestion of the death of a party, and notice thereof shall be given to the defendant by subpœna or the service of a copy of such bill, if he be found within the District, as the court may direct; or, if the party be a nonresident or secrete himself or evade the service of the summons, or if his residence be unknown, then notice by publication may be given as against nonresident defendants. Contesting will after majority, § 19–309.

Limitation of actions to collect income taxes, § 47–1533.

Limitation of actions to enforce mechanics' liens, § 38–115.

Limitation of action to enforce hospital lien on moneys paid for personal injuries, § 38–303.

Limitations on collection of personal property taxes, § 47–1408.

New promise tolling statute, § 12–305.

No limitation on actions to recover part of cost of constructing viaducts and subways, § 7–1215.

No limitation or action to recover part of cost of Fern and Varnum and Eastern Avenue viaduct, § 7–515.

Provision in will tolling statute of limitations, § 12–207.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Decisions Under Prior Law

Statutory period of limitation applicable to simple contract action in District of Columbia, applies to actions brought upon a contract which has the effect of a specialty in the place where made. Willard v. Wood (1 App. D. C. 44, affd. 164 U. S. 502, 41 L. Ed. 531, 17 Sup. Ct. 176).

Part payment of judgment debt within statutory period of limitations will not avoid the operation of the statute when it is pleaded to a scire facias to revive the judgment, or in action of debt on the judgment. Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226).

Bar of the statute of limitations will not commence to run in equity until the fraud has been discovered, or until such time as by the use of ordinary care it might reasonably have been discovered. Lewis v. Denison (2 App. D. C. 387).

Statute of limitations against claim of set-off is not stopped by action in which set-off is pleaded, unless set-off has some connection to the principal claim, but it continues to run until filing of such plea. Durant v. Murdock (3 App. D. C. 114).

In action by assignee to recover a call under direction of the court upon stockholder, the statute of limitations runs from the date of the order of court. Glenn v. Sothoron (4 App. D. C. 125).

On petition of holder of one note to participate in proceeds of sale of mortgaged property by foreclosure at the instance of the holder of the other note, the bar of limitations is not that applicable to an action on the note, but that which applies to the remedy for the enforcement of an equitable right under the mortgage; and the same period that would bar an ejectment is required. Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373).

There is nothing in the language of acts of incorporation to prevent the running of the statute of limitations in favor of claimant against the company, to a portion of a public highway. Columbia v. Krause (11 App. D. C. 398).

When there is a mutual account and the last item is barred by statute of limitations, it is not proper for one of the parties to remove the bar of the statute by entering later items on his own side of the account. Ross v. Fickling (11 App. D. C. 442).

When a declaration is filed, with directions, either express or implied, given by the person on whose behalf it is filed, or by his attorney, to the clerk to issue the proper process thereon, and nothing then remains to be done but that the clerk should proceed, and the party has otherwise complied with the requirements of law, if other requirements there be, such as payment of necessary fees, the suit must be deemed to be then commenced so far as to arrest the application of the statute of limitations. Huysman v. Evening Star (12 App. D. C. 586).

When parent agrees to compensate in his will for daughter's services, but no provision is made, she has an action against the administrator and the claim will not be barred by limitations until after the lapse of statutory period after administration is granted. Tuohy v. Trail (19 App. D. C. 79).

In General

There is an apparent conflict between this section and § 16–1501, as to the extent of the principal limitation of actions and also as to the extent of the saving to parties under disability; but in order to give effect to both sections, the last-mentioned section, being the act of Congress of March 3, 1899, must be read as an exception to this section. Gwin v. Brown (21 App. D. C. 295).

"A defendant can not avail himself of the bar of the statute of limitations, if it appears that he has done anything that would tend to lull the plaintiff into inaction, and thereby permit the limitation prescribed by the statute to run against him." Hornblower v. George Washington University (31 App. D. C. 64).

Adverse Possession

If testator's right of entry is barred by adverse possession and statute of limitations, a devisee takes nothing under the devise. Dangerfield v. Williams (26 App. D. C. 508).

Adverse possession for 15 years confers title, and § 16–1501 has no application in an action of ejectment based upon adverse possession. McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

Possession for statutory period by cultivation, pasturage, or other means is sufficient under law of District of Columbia to produce title by "adverse possession", provided it is open, notorious, continuous, and adverse. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

Amendments to Pleadings

Where the cause of action remains the same, an amendment changing it in a different form is not open to the defense of the statute of limitations. Beasley v. Baltimore & P. R. R. Co. (27 App. D. C. 595). See also District of Columbia v. Frazer (21 App. D. C. 154).

An amendment made for the purpose of curing a defective cause of action will relate back to time of filing the original petition; and if made after the time limit of the statute, will not be barred itself or cause original petition, which was filed in time, to be barred. Goodacre v. Shulmier (64 App. D. C. 10, 73 Fed. (2d) 519).

Application to Equitable Actions

Enforcement in equity of mortgages and deeds of trust of real estate is governed by twenty-year period of statute of limitations. Sis v. Boarman (11 App. D. C. 116).

In cases of concurrent jurisdiction courts of equity will hold themselves bound by the statute of limitations that would govern an action at law upon the same demand; and where the subject-matter of the demand is one ordinarily cognizable at law, but, by reason of special conditions, the remedy for its enforcement in the particular case is obtainable solely in equity, the bar of limitation will be applied, either in obedience to the statute, or by analogy, in the same way as at law. Washington L. & T. Co. v. Darling (21 App. D. C. 132).

When in equity an attempt was made to avoid a devise as invalid on its face, the statute of limitations will be applied by analogy, and relief will be denied where there has been delay of more than statutory period. Columbia University v. Taylor (25 App. D. C. 124).

Where an action at law was barred by the statute, appellant can not avoid this conclusion by describing the misappropriated money as a trust fund, for equity follows the law in such cases and the limitation would be enforced. Moran v. Schlosberg (67 App. D. C. 163, 90 Fed. (2d) 408).

Assault

Limitation of three years applies to a suit against the Director General of Railroads for damages for assault by special officer of railroad acting within the scope of his employment. Mellon v. Seymoure (56 App. D. C. 301, 12 Fed. (2d) 836).

Bailments

A bailor's right of action accrues only after bailee's breach of duty under contract, and hence this section begins to run only from time of refusal to perform the contract, so that this section does not begin to run against bailor until there has been a denial of bailment and conversion of property by bailee, or some other act of bailee inconsistent with bailment. Schupp v. Taendler (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 849).

An action to recover personalty which plaintiffs had turned over to defendant, who agreed to keep it until plaintiffs should ask for it, which action was commenced within three years after demand and refusal to deliver the personalty, was not barred by three-year limitation of this section, since limitation does not begin to run against bailor until there has been a denial of bailment and conversion of property by bailee. Schupp v. Taendler (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 849).

Cancellation for Usury

A suit for cancellation of note and deed of trust on ground of usury, regarded as suit for declaratory judgment that complete defense existed to the obligation on the note, was not barred by usury statute of limitations, § 28–2704, or this section. Hill v. Hawes, 1944 (144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

Commencement of Action

The filing of complaint "commenced" action within rule 3 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., for purpose of determining whether action to recover land was barred by 15-year limitation of this section. Reynolds v. Needle, 1942 (132 F. 2d 161, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 53).

Conflict of Laws

Where a Florida contract was sued upon in the District, the court applied the D. C. Code as the law of the forum. Wells v. Alropa Corp. (65 App. D. C. 281, 82 Fed. (2d) 887).

If by the law of the state which has created a right of action, it is made a condition of the right that it shall expire after a certain period of limitation has elapsed, no action begun after the period has elapsed can be maintained in any jurisdiction. Moran v. Harrison (67 App. D. C. 237, 91 Fed. (2d) 310, 113 A. L. R. 505).

Suit on a policy of life insurance brought within the six-year statute of limitations of New York, where the policy was to be paid, was barred by the three-year statute of the District of Columbia where the suit was brought. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

A limitation on the time of suit is procedural and is governed by the law of the forum. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

Conspiracy Action

Complaint, in action for conspiracy, not alleging any other tortious acts, except of certain slanderous statements allegedly made by defendants, but which were both privileged and barred by statute of limitations, did not state cause of action. Burns v. Spiller (D. C., D. C. 1945, 4 F. R. D. 299, affirmed 161 F. 2d 377, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 101, 332 U. S. 792, 92 L. Ed.).

Contracts

When debt is payable in independent instalments, the action accrues as it matures upon each, and if the obligee fails to act until statute of limitations has barred some of the instalments, he can recover only for those not barred when his action was commenced. Washington L. & Trust Co. v. Darling (21 App. D. C. 132).

When plaintiff claimed she rendered services under an express contract for a specified monthly compensation but more than three years elapsed between date payment became due and bringing of the action, the claim is barred by § 1265 of 1901 Code (this section), which provides a three-year period on express or implied contracts. McCurley v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 10, 258 Fed. 154); Booger v. Roach (25 App. D. C. 324).

An action against executrix, if regarded as one upon account, accrued on the date of the last item, and is barred in three years. Anglo-Colombian Dev. Co. v. Stapleton (57 App. D. C. 209, 19 Fed. (2d) 683).

Limitation of three years applies to a suit against estate of testate for recovery upon a quantum meruit for services performed, or for specific performance of contract to compensate for services in will, and cause of action accrues at death of promisor. Hurdle v. American Sec. & Trust Co. (59 App. D. C. 58, 32 Fed. (2d) 954).

Applicable to action on contract brought in United States Court for China. Chalaire v. Franklin ((C. C. A. 9), 81 Fed. (2d) 105, cert. den. 298 U. S. 678, 80 L. Ed. 1399, 56 Sup. Ct. 942).

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee, even if activities of the agent after completion of his connection with the extension project was an authorized service to university so as to entitle the agent to compensation therefor, such additional activities were under a new appointment and the running of this section on the services rendered in connection with the extension project would not be affected; there being a lack of continuity between the two employments. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where attorney was employed to prosecute client's claim for damages because of alleged illegal confinement in hospital and case was tried in April, 1939, action instituted by client in April, 1944, against attorney for alleged breach of contract and breach of professional duty was barred by three-year statute of limitations. Case v. Ricketts (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 304).

Estoppel

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee, but university never acknowledged the correctness of the architect's claim for additional compensation as agent, or that it owed anything or that it would pay anything, there were negotiations looking toward an amicable settlement, but there was strong opposition in the board of trustees to the payment of the claim, and the only assurances were to the effect that the architect would be fairly dealt with, the doctrine of equitable "estoppel" did not preclude the university from asserting this section. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

If, by agreement to arbitrate, plaintiffs by action of defendant were induced not to bring their suit, defendant would be "estopped" from pleading the bar of this section, but if, after the agreement was made to submit to arbitration, plaintiffs took no steps toward having the matter submitted and did not insist on defendant's submission of the matter, the agreement could not be held to stop the running of this section. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee, and, practically from the time of submission of the architect's claim for additional compensation for services rendered as agent to time when suit was brought, attitude of board of trustees was one of question, if not of active opposition to payment, and, after it became evident that the claim would probably not be recognized, the architect had ample time to bring suit before bar of this section fell, but he even delayed in presenting his claim to the university, the conduct of the university did not work an "estoppel", since it did not lull the architect into inaction until after the limitation period. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where employer repeatedly assured employee that overtime claims had not been settled and promised to advise employee of action taken by Wage and Hour Division and by Maritime Commission, but failed to do so and employee brought action for overtime, etc., about four months after he learned that claims had been denied, trial judge properly held that employer was estopped to plead limitations. McCloskey & Co. v. Dickinson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 56 A. 2d 442).

Foreign Judgments

"The section (this section) is lengthy and prescribes periods of limitation for many actions, civil and criminal, specially enumerated therein. The clause aforesaid (not otherwise provided for) was apparently intended to remedy a possible omission of some action that might have been properly embraced in that enumeration. Foreign judgments were provided for specially in section 1267 (§ 12–203)," and therefore, are not embraced in this section. McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

FRAUD

Action for fraud in inducing plaintiff to purchase realty, barred in three years. District-Florida Corp. v. Penny (62 App. D. C. 268, 66 Fed. (2d) 794).

Partners asking for an accounting of a partnership dissolution agreement, on the ground of fraud, four years later, are barred by laches. Singer v. Friedman (66 App. D. C. 191, 85 Fed. (2d) 690, cert. den. 299 U. S. 590, 81 L. Ed. 435, 57 Sup. Ct. 116).

A complaint for mismanagement and depletion of capital by receiver of building and loan association against former directors who resigned more than three years before commencement of action was barred by limitations, where complaint contained no allegation of concealment and admitted that directors neither obtained any advantage from wrongdoing of incorporators nor intentionally did any affirmative act to cause loss of funds paid in by certificate holders. Peyser v. Owen (D. C., D. C. 1940, 73 App. D. C. 64).

In action based on fraud, this section begins to run, not when cause of action accrued, but from discovery of facts out of which the claim arose, or from time when facts should have reasonably been found out in exercise of due diligence. Johnson v. Taylor (D. C., D. C. 1947, 73 F. Supp. 537).

This section would not commence to run against an action to recover damages of notary public and surety on his bond caused by alleged wrongful acknowledgment of signature of forged deed by notary, either against notary or surety, until notary's alleged fraud was discovered or should reasonably have been discovered by plaintiff, notwithstanding that it was not charged that surety participated in the alleged fraud. Johnson v. Taylor (D. C., D. C. 1947, 73 F. Supp. 537).

HISTORICAL

By the enactment of this section, §§ 1 and 2 of the statute of James (21 James I, ch. 16), were repealed, and new periods of limitations substituted therefor. Gwin v. Brown (21 App. D. C. 295).

The Maryland statute of limitations of 1715 "was repealed or superseded by the District Code." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

IMPRISONMENT

The fact that plaintiff was held to bail and remained under bond did not stop the running of the statute of limitations against his civil action for libel. Rose v. Washington Times Co. (57 App. D. C. 385, 23 Fed. 993, cert. den. 277 U. S. 597, 72 L. Ed. 1006, 48 Sup. Ct. 559).

JUDGMENT ON PLEADINGS

Where action on notes pleaded agreement by maker waiving defense of limitations in consideration of withholding action on notes until date when action on notes would otherwise have been barred by limitations and action was not brought within three years after date agreed upon, and maker answered setting up defense that action had not been brought within three years after date agreed upon, the matter was properly disposed of on motion for judgment on the pleadings. Noel v. Baskin, 1942 (131 F. 2d 231, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 332).

LIBEL COUNTERCLAIM

Where defendant filed counterclaim for libel, which occurred more than one year prior thereto, statute was not tolled by the principal claim since the statute of limitations continues to run in respect of a setoff which has no relation to the principal claim. Walker v. Pilkerton (D. C. D. C. 1949, 82 F. Supp. 321).

LOANS

An action for money which had been delivered by plaintiffs to defendant as a loan payable on demand, which action was commenced more than three years after loan was made but within three years of demand, was barred by three-year limitation of this section, since the money became due at once and limitation ran from date of the loan. Schupp v. Taendler (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 849).

MANDAMUS

This section is not applicable to mandamus proceedings. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane (249 U. S. 367, 63 L. Ed. 650, 39 Sup. Ct. 293).

MINORS

In an action for negligence "the minor * * * has the entire period of his minority and three years thereafter within which to institute the action," and, if the action is brought within his minority, he is not confined to three years after the accrual of the right. Carson v. Jackson (52 App. D. C. 51, 281 Fed. 411).

The interest of adult beneficiary barred by statute and insurance company was liable to minor beneficiaries only to the extent of their separate interests in the policy. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

NEW PROMISE OR ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Suit for services is barred after three years from the time the action accrued, in the absence of a new promise or an acknowledgment within statutory period. Booger v. Roach (25 App. D. C. 324).

Where property covered by a mortgage barred by limitations, was devised by will, with a provision that the mortgage should be first satisfied, payee was entitled to interest not only to time of maturity of note but to time of payment. Taylor v. Drury (56 App. D. C. 266, 12 Fed. (2d) 489).

Commissioner's direction to assessor to cancel the record of paving assessments did not constitute an acknowledgment of indebtedness which would take case out of the operation of the statute of limitations. Lake for Use of Peyser v. District of Columbia (63 App. D. C. 306, 72 Fed. (2d) 174).

To take any case out of the operation of the statute, the acknowledgment must not be accompanied by circumstances which negative any intention or promise to pay. Moore v. Snyder (71 App. D. C. 293, 109 Fed. (2d) 840).

Letter by Maryland corporation, whose charter has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, to debtor extending, at the debtor's request, the time for action for deficiency judgment, was not sufficient to toll the statute of limitations, and the debtor was not estopped to plead such statute. Glennan v. Lincoln Inv. Corp. (71 App. D. C. 365, 110 Fed. (2d) 130).

PERSONAL INJURIES

In a suit for personal injuries sustained as a result of three separate acts, two of which are barred by limitations, evidence of injuries sustained by any but the one act not barred is inadmissible. Jackson v. Emmons (25 App. D. C. 146, affd. 203 U. S. 578, 51 L. Ed. 325, 27 Sup. Ct. 778).

PLEADING

On appeal from judgment dismissing complaint as barred by statute of limitations, appellant's contention, made in the brief, that defense of statute of limitations should have been raised by answer rather than by motion to dismiss, would not be considered, where question was not raised in District Court and was abandoned in the oral argument. Peyser v. Owen, 1940 (116 F. 2d 298, 73 App. D. C. 64).

In action to recover land and mesne profits where defendant pleaded res judicata and limitation of this section to complaint which showed on its face that cause of action arose more than 15 years before action was instituted, if plaintiff had facts which would toll this section, he might have amended his complaint, served affidavits, or asked permission to reply. Reynolds v. Needle, 1942 (132 F. 2d 161, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 53).

Where principal of note sued on in Municipal Court for District of Columbia was less than $500, formal pleadings were not required but defendant properly raised defense of statute of limitations by written answer. Whitman v. Noel (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 280).

The defense that plaintiff's claim was barred by limitations made for the first time in a brief submitted to the trial judge in support of motion for new trial was too late to save the point for review. Atchison & Keller v. Taylor (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 297).

RECOVERY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Limitations do not apply to attachment for recovery of property seized by alien property custodian. Sprunt v. Direction Der Disconto Gesellschaft (61 App. D. C. 350, 63 Fed. (2d) 127, cert. den. 289 U. S. 730, 77 L. Ed. 1479, 53 Sup. Ct. 526).

RECOVERY OF THE POSSESSION OF LAND

"An action against the commissioners to compel the execution and delivery of a tax deed is not one for the recovery of the possession of land" and does not come within the 15-year limitation, but within the omnibus clause of the section. Luchs v. Christman (42 App. D. C. 326).

RELEASE OF SURETY

Whether an indemnitor is discharged by the mere failure of his obligee to sue the principal debtor until suit is barred by the statute of limitations remains an open question in this court. Chapman v. Hoage (296 U. S. 526, 80 L. Ed. 370, 56 Sup. Ct. 333).

STATUTE A DEFENSE ONLY

Statute of limitations is "one of repose, and not one of payment or cancelation. It is a bar to the remedy only and does not extinguish or even impair the obligation of the debtor." Hall v. District of Columbia (47 App. D. C. 552); Talbott v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 96, 261 Fed. 244); Miles v. McGrath ((D. C.-Md.) 4 Fed. Supp. 604).

Statute of limitations is available as defense and not as a cause of action, and a suit to cancel lien of deed of trust can not be upon the ground that the power of sale under the trust deed was barred by statute. Talbott v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 96, 261 Fed. 244).

STATUTORY PENALTY OR FORFEITURE

Liability of principal and sureties on bond given by a contractor with District of Columbia, providing that such bond shall be the "usual penal bond" conditioned upon contractor paying expenses for materials and labor, is not a statutory penalty in the proper legal sense as to come within one-year statute of limitations within meaning of section 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section). Pavarini v. Title Guar. & S. Co. (36 App. D. C. 348).

Revocation of license to practice medicine is in the nature of a remedial measure for the protection of the public, and not a penalty or forfeiture, but as less than three years intervened between final judgment of conviction and institution of this proceeding, it is unnecessary to consider the application of the general three-year statute of limitations. Kemp v. Medical Supervisors (46 App. D. C. 173).

A proceeding to revoke physician's license who had been convicted of crime involving moral turpitude is not barred by act of Congress of June 3, 1896 (29 Stat. 198, ch. 313) when proceeding is instituted more than two years after affirmance of conviction; and it is not barred by § 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section) which provides for one-year period after cause of action accrues; nor is it barred by the fact that more than three years elapsed between conviction in trial court and proceeding by supervisors. Kemp v. Medical Supervisors (46 App. D. C. 173).

SUMMARY JUDGMENT

In action to recover land and mesne profits where complaint showed on its face that it arose more than 15 years before institution of the action, "issues of material fact" were not presented, within rule 56 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., authorizing summary judgment in absence of issues of material fact, because there might possibly be facts which would toll this section and avoid defendants' plea of res judicata, where plaintiff alleged no such facts and raised no such issues. Reynolds v. Needle, 1942 (132 F. 2d 161, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 53).

SUSPENSION OF LIMITATIONS

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee, university trustees adopted resolution requiring land acquired by committee to be assigned to university treasurer on January 1, 1933, and requiring committee to submit report, agent submitted report on April 21, 1933, stated that connection with extension project was completed with submission of report, and requested recommendation that agent be compensated adequately, the fact that the agent was later requested by auditors to verify several items did not prolong period of limitations under this section on claim of architect who was under no obligation to assist auditors checking his report. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 7149, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee, university trustees adopted resolution requiring land acquired by committee to be assigned to university treasurer on January 1, 1933, and requiring committee to submit report, agent submitted report on April 21, 1933, stated that connection with extension project was completed with submission of report, and requested recommendation that agent be compensated adequately, activities of the agent subsequent to the submission of his report did not prolong the three-year period of limitations on his claim against university for services, and action instituted on June 4, 1936, was barred, where agent did not seek compensation for, and did not ask for reimbursement for expenses. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

TORT ACTIONS

Where plaintiff sued a Maryland Corporation, solely owned by the U. S. and having the power to be sued in the District in tort actions for negligence, the action was not barred by the general statute of limitations. Hood v. Defense Homes Corp. (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 365).

USURY AS DEFENSE

There are no limitations on claim of usury as a defense in a suit based on usurious obligations. Hill v. Hawes, 1944 (144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

WHEN STATUTE BEGINS TO RUN

Upon the abandonment of a public improvement, cause of action for the return of assessment for benefits accrues at the time of abandonment. District of Columbia v. Thompson (281 U. S. 25, 74 L. Ed. 677, 50 Sup. Ct. 172, affg. 58 App. D. C. 313, 30 Fed. (2d) 476).

This jurisdiction prefers the rule followed in New York and Pennsylvania, which excludes the day on which the cause of action accrues, as a point of time after which the limitation ensues. Ambrose v. Brown (42 App. D. C. 25).

Payments made after life tenant's death tolled the three-year statute under § 1265 of the 1901 Code (this section) as to bringing suit against trustee's executor. National Sav. & Trust Co. v. Ryan (49 App. D. C. 159, 262 Fed. 613).

The time between the death of the deceased and the granting of letters testamentary is not to be counted in determining whether or not the statute of limitations has run. National Sav. & Trust Co. v. Ryan (49 App. D. C. 159, 262 Fed. 613).

Where a broker is engaged to procure a loan on real estate, the statute of limitations, as far as it affects his right to recover commissions, runs from the time that he furnishes a person ready, able, and willing to make the loan, and not from the time of the contract of employment. Daniel v. Drury (50 App. D. C. 107, 267 Fed. 751).

In computing limitation for action for malicious prosecution, the day on which cause of action accrued should be excluded. Freeman v. Pew (61 App. D. C. 223, 59 Fed. (2d) 1037).

Since no liability accrued until the date set by the comptroller, and since suit was brought within three years of that date, the action is not barred. Strasburger v. Schram (68 App. D. C. 87, 93 Fed. (2d) 246).

A promissory note payable on demand is a present debt and the statute begins to run from its date. Feucht v. Keller (70 App. D. C. 117, 104 Fed. (2d) 250), citing Kenyon v. Youngman (59 App. D. C. 300, 40 Fed. (2d) 812).

In action for deficiency on deed of trust notes, this section begins to run from date of their maturity. Hoffman v. Sheahin, 1941 (121 F. 2d 861, 73 App. D. C. 374).

In action to recover land and mesne profits, where complaint was filed more than 15 years after date on which it was alleged that defendants entered and unlawfully ejected the plaintiff, complaint showed on its face that it was barred by this section and hence, summary judgment for defendant was properly granted, since the cause of action "accrued" within meaning of this section at the time of the ejectment. Reynolds v. Needle, 1942 (132 F. 2d 161, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 53).

Where maker agreed to waive defense of limitation in consideration of withholding action on notes until the date when action on notes would otherwise have been barred by limitations but reserved all other defenses, holders of notes had power to maintain action on notes after date agreed on, and this section began to run anew after such date and action not brought within three years thereafter was barred, although agreement was under seal. Noel v. Baskin (App. D. C. 1942, 131 F. 2d 231).

This section begins to run on conclusion of services, where it is not required by agreement or statute that an audit must be made before payment shall be due. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1274, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where university architect was appointed agent of university land extension committee university trustees adopted resolution requiring land acquired by committee to be assigned to university treasurer on January 1, 1933, and requiring committee to submit report, agent submitted report on April 21, 1933, stated that connection with extension project was completed with submission of report, and requested recommendation that agent be compensated adequately, the agent's cause of action against university for services "accrued" on April 21, 1933, and he could have brought his suit then or any time thereafter within the three-year period, since his rights did not await a check by the university auditors. Howard University v. Cassell, 1942 (126 F. 2d 6, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 75, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 1046, 316 U. S. 675, 86 L. Ed. 1749, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 1278, 316 U. S. 711, 86 L. Ed. 1777).

Where contract for building a house contained a provision that the basement shall be dry and remain so for three years, statute of limitations in action for breach of contract began to run when the contractor abandoned his efforts to remedy condition, and not when the basement first became wet. Zellan v. Cole (C. A. D. C. 1950, 183 F. 2d 139).

Whatever right of action appellant might have had against the District occurred when the consideration passed (the date of the deed). Action held to be barred by the twelve-year period of the statute and by the three-year statute also. Cobb v. Shore (C. A. D. C. 1950, 183 F. 2d 980).

Claims arise when contracts are broken, not when the resulting damage is precisely ascertained. When appellee failed to make due payments for materials and subjected appellant to claims of persons who had supplied them, he broke his contract and the suit was barred when filed more than three years later. H. Herfurth, Jr., Inc. v. Acker (C. A. D. C. 1949, 177 F. 2d 38, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 158).

§ 12–202 [24: 342]. Suits against decedents' estates.

In suits against the estate of a deceased person, in computing the time of limitation, the interval, not exceeding two years, between the death of the deceased and the granting of letters testamentary or of administration shall not be counted as part of said time of limitation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1266; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

Amendment

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "not exceeding two years" after the word "interval."

Cross Reference

Claims against estate, § 18–518.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Domestic Judgments

This section does not cut down the periods specifically prescribed for actions on domestic judgments. Miller v. Miller, 1941 (122 F. 2d 209, 74 App. D. C. 216).

Maintenance of Insane Person

The estate of a patient committed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital while a resident of the District of Columbia is liable to the District for his maintenance, and statute of limitations does not run against the District in its claim for such maintenance. Hart v. Commissioners of District of Columbia (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 877).

Proving Claim Against Estate

Proving claim against decedent's estate under section 336 of the 1901 Code (§ 18–509), as suspending running of limitations. Berry & Whitmore Co. v. Dante (43 App. D. C. 110).

§ 12–203 [24: 343]. Foreign judgments.

Every action upon a judgment or decree rendered in any state or territory of the United States or in any foreign country shall be barred if by the laws of such state, territory, or foreign country such action would there be barred and the judgment or decree be incapable of being otherwise enforced there. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1267; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

Amendment

The 1902 amendment struck out the following words from the end of the section: "and whether so barred or not, no action shall be brought in the District on any such judgment or decree rendered more than ten years before the commencement of such action."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Historical

"This section prescribes two rules of limitation. By the first, all judgments barred by the law of the place of recovery are barred in the District. By the second, if not barred by the law of the place of recovery, still no action can be brought on any such judgment rendered more than ten years before the commencement of the action. On June 30, 1902, section 1267 (this section) was amended by striking therefrom the last part * * * in which the second rule aforesaid is embodied." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

Bankruptcy

That judgment debtor who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy during pendency of suit to have lien for payment of barred California judgment charged on debtor's interest in an estate listed judgment among his scheduled liabilities without indicating its disputed character did not constitute a voluntary "acknowledgment" sufficient to remove the bar of this section against enforcement of the judgment debt. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

Dormant Judgment

Possibility of enforcing or satisfying a judgment after a dormant judgment is revived by suit for that purpose is not contemplated by the words "otherwise enforced" or by the general purpose of this section. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

Under California Code Civ. Proc. § 685, providing that a barred judgment may be enforced or carried into execution by leave of court on motion and after due notice to judgment debtor and providing for general revival founded on supplemental proceedings, a barred judgment is "dormant" until one of those procedures is made effective, and hence a California judgment barred by California Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335, 336, when creditor's bill was filed in the District of Columbia to have lien for payment charged on debtor's interest in an estate could not be "otherwise enforced" within this section. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

Effect Limited

"Section 1267, as amended (this section), has no other effect than to bar an action upon a judgment of another state that is barred, at the time of the commencement of the action, by the laws of that state." McKay v. Bradley (26 App. D. C. 449).

ENFORCEABILITY

"Enforceability", within this section, means a right of enforcement which exists at the time suit is begun in the District of Columbia, and not a mere possibility of enforcement in the future which depends on a further showing of facts and a further exercise of judicial discretion. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

EQUITY, SUITS IN

This section bars suits in equity as well as actions at law. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

FORM OF ACTION

Under this section the words "otherwise enforced" are used alternatively to "such action" and comprehend that the judgment need not be enforceable in its original jurisdiction in the identical manner or form of proceeding by which enforcement is sought in the District of Columbia. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

FULL FAITH AND CREDIT

In this jurisdiction, an action upon a judgment of any state is barred if, by the laws of such state, the action would be barred, and the judgment would be incapable of being otherwise enforced there. Rosenberg v. Ichcovitz (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 466).

JUDGMENT OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

Valid judgments of justices of the peace of other states are enforcible in the District of Columbia, provided they are properly proved. Koehne v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 806).

LIMITATIONS OF ACTIONS

California Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335, 336, prescribing periods for commencement of actions other than for the recovery of realty and requiring an action on a judgment or decree of any federal or state court to be commenced within five years after entry bar suits in equity as well as actions at law, and hence a creditor's bill filed in 1937, whereby assignee of California judgment rendered against defendant in 1930 sought to have a lien for payment of amount of judgment charged on defendant's interest in an estate, could not have been maintained in California had it been brought there when it was begun in the District of Columbia. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

Where a judgment of a Maryland court was governed by the twelve-year statute of limitations of Maryland, an action brought thereon in the Municipal Court of the District within the twelve years was not barred by Maryland law and therefore not barred by the District of Columbia. Koehne v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 806).

PROOF OF JUDGMENT

Where no issue is raised regarding the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace rendering the judgment, a properly certified transcript of the docket entries showing service of process upon the defendant and jurisdiction of the subject matter is sufficient to support a judgment in another state. Koehne v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 806).

PURPOSE

This section was intended to bring about uniformity between the two jurisdictions in the time allowed for enforcing the judgment by suit and to achieve uniformity in the scope and kinds of substantive relief available. Fowler v. Pilson, 1942 (123 F. 2d 918, 74 App. D. C. 340, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 944, 316 U. S. 664, 86 L. Ed. 1740).

§ 12–204 [24: 344]. Action by the United States.

None of the provisions of sections 12–201 to 12–203 shall apply to any action in which the United States is the real and not merely the nominal plaintiff. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1268; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the word "foregoing," translated herein as "sections 12–201 to 12–203," and struck out the word "aforesaid," inserting in lieu thereof the words "of this chapter," which refer to chapter 41 of the D. C. Code, 1901 edition.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

Neither this chapter nor laches applies to any action in which the United States is the real and not merely the nominal plaintiff. U. S. v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (D. C., D. C. 1942, 47 F. Supp. 25, affirmed 134 F. 2d 59, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 284).

UNREASONABLE DELAY

Unreasonable delay by Government in giving notice to banks as to discovery of forgery of indorsement of payees of Government checks to prejudice of banks would be a defense to action by Government against banks to extent of the loss shown by banks. U. S. v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (D. C., D. C. 1942, 47 F. Supp. 25, affirmed 134 F. 2d 59, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 284).

§ 12–205 [24: 345]. Statute does not run when defendant absent or concealed.

If, when a cause of action accrues against a person who is a resident of the District of Columbia, he is out of the District or has absconded or concealed himself, the period limited for the bringing of the action shall not begin to run until he comes into the District or while he is so absconded or concealed; and if after the cause of action accrues he abscond or conceal himself, the time of such absence or concealment shall not be computed as any part of the period within which the action must be brought. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1269.)

§ 12–206 [24: 346]. Statute does not run during time action stayed.

Where the bringing of an action has been stayed by an injunction or other order of a court of justice, or by statutory prohibition, the time of such stay shall not be part of the time limited for the commencement of the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1389, ch. 854, § 1270.)

§ 12–207 [24: 347]. Directions as to debts in a will.

No provision in the will of a testator devising his real estate, or any part thereof, subject to the payment of his debts, or charging the same therewith, shall prevent the statute of limitations from operating against such debts, unless it plainly appears to be the testator's intention that it shall not so operate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1272.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See §§ 18–514, 18–515, 18–604.

§ 12–208 [24: 348]. Actions against District of Columbia for unliquidated damages—Notice within 6 months—Police report.

No action shall be maintained against the District of Columbia for unliquidated damages to person or property unless the claimant within six months after the injury or damage was sustained, he, his agent, or attorney gave notice in writing to the commissioners of the District of Columbia of the approximate time, place, cause, and circumstances of such injury or damage: Provided, however, That a report in writing by the Metropolitan police department, in regular course of duty, shall be regarded as a sufficient notice under the above provision. (Feb. 28, 1933, 47 Stat. 1370, ch. 138.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Claims against District, §§ 1–901 to 1–905.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION

The statute, being in derogation of common law rights, is to be strictly construed, and oral notice is not sufficient to waive the requirement of the statute. Actual notice is without effect to dispense with a written notice when a statute requires notice in writing. District of Columbia v. World Fire and Marine Insurance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 222).

NOTICE REQUIREMENT

The notice requirement governs only where the District is sought to be held on a claim for unliquidated damages and is inapplicable to liquidated claims. District of Columbia v. Hamilton National Bank (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 60).

WRITTEN NOTICE

The requirements of the statute as to written notice are mandatory. For failure to give such written notice, an action could not be maintained. District of Columbia v. World Fire and Marine Insurance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 222).

Chapter 3.—STATUTE OF FRAUDS

Sec.

12–301. Estates created by parol—Estate by sufferance.
12–302. Actions to charge executors or others to answer for debt or default of another.
12–303. Declarations, grants, and assignments of trust—Implied trusts.
12–304. Contracts for sale of goods.
12–305. New promise to be in writing—Effect of payment on account—Recovery against joint contractors, coexecutors, coadministrators when statute waived.
12–306. New promise by quondam infant to be in writing—Ratification by conduct.

§ 12–301 [11: 1]. Estates created by parol—Estate by sufferance.

Every estate in lands, tenements, or hereditaments for a greater term than one year attempted to be created by parol, or otherwise than by deed, shall be an estate by sufferance. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1116.)

STATUTORY REFERENCE—BRITISH STATUTE

It has been suggested that portions of the third section of Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2d, c. 3) remain in force. That section provides that: "No leases, estates, or interests, either of freehold, or terms of years, or any uncertain interests, not being copyhold, or customary interest, of, in, to, or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be assigned, granted, or surrendered, unless it be by deed or note in writing, signed by the party so assigning, granting, or surrendering the same, or their agents thereunto lawfully authorized by writing, or by act and operation of law."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ASSIGNMENT OF LEASE

An assignment of a lease conveys an interest in realty and comes within the statute of frauds if for a greater term than one year. However, it is well established that an oral agreement creating an interest in land which has been carried into effect is valid and enforcible and where the lessee turns the premises over to the assignee and the assignee enters into possession with the consent of the lessor and pays rent, the assignment is complete and the rights and liabilities of the parties are not affected by the statute. Diatz v. Washington Technical School (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 227. Rehearing denied by 73 A. 2d 718).

EXECUTED ORAL ASSIGNMENT

Where retiring partner received back his contributions to partnership and orally assigned to copartner rights in five-year lease of store, lease became property of general partnership under oral agreement between assignee and third person, and general partnership immediately took possession of leased premises with implied consent of landlord and discharged obligations under lease until dissolved by order of court, as respects rights of assignors and assignees, both assignments were completely executed and hence not avoidable for violation of this section. Mars v. Spanos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 369, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

An oral agreement creating an interest in land which has been carried into effect is valid. Mars v. Spanos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 369, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 230).

OUSTER OF TENANTS

Plaintiff-grantee could not ignore the legal procedure provided for ousting tenants, and compromise with them for a sum which it might elect to pay, and then recover that sum from defendant-grantors upon any basis of breach of warranty. Standard Sav. Bank v. Stone (52 App. D. C. 42, 280 Fed. 1016).

PAROL AGREEMENT

In suit for specific performance of deceased's alleged parol agreement to leave house and premises to plaintiff in consideration for his caring for deceased, where plaintiff and wife moved into house after it was purchased by deceased, plaintiff paid no rent during lifetime of deceased who occupied room of house and occasionally ate meals with plaintiff, evidence supported judgment dismissing action on ground that performance was not sufficient to take case out of operation of statute of frauds. Slaughter v. Madison, 1943 (135 F. 2d 650, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 226, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1331, 319 U. S. 768, 87 L. Ed. 1717).

§ 12–302 [11: 2]. Actions to charge executors or others to answer for debt or default of another.

No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them, or upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, which need not state the consideration, and signed by the party to be charged therewith or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1117.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION GENERALLY

This section applies to an agreement which appears from its terms to be incapable of performance within a year. Street v. Maddux (58 App. D. C. 42, 24 Fed. (2d) 617).

Under this section, an agreement for sale of real estate is enforceable only when it is in writing and there is a sufficient description of the thing sold, the price to be paid, and the names of the party selling and the party buying, and none of such elements can be supplied by parol testimony. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84); Fitzgan v. Burke (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 721).

The statute of frauds requiring written evidence of an agreement to answer for the death, default or miscarriage of another is not applicable where the settlement agreement in compromise rested on the theory of direct liability by reason of ownership of the striking car. Saunders System Washington Co., v. Kuffner (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 136).

Approval

The fact that printed form used in making agreement for purchase of realty provided that the deposit was subject to the owner's approval did not render agreement signed by purchasers and broker but not by owner unenforceable under this section where such approval had previously been given in exchange of telegrams between owner and broker. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

Description of Property

If contract contains in itself no description of the property to be sold, standing alone, no court of equity could specifically enforce it, but, if the description is found in other writings, forming part and parcel of the transaction, the omission is not fatal. Shell Eastern Petroleum Products v. White (62 App. D. C. 332, 68 Fed. (2d) 379).

Improvements

One who has been induced to alter his position and make improvements on property based on a parol contract may enforce such contract in the courts notwithstanding this section. De Grazia v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 194).

Memorandum to Disclose Vendor

A contract for the sale of land, where the memorandum fails to disclose the name of the vendor, can not be enforced. Storrow v. Concord Club (63 App. D. C. 190, 70 Fed. (2d) 852).

Where owner employed broker to sell realty and in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted," owner telegraphed broker to accept offer and asked for $1,000 deposit and thereafter broker and purchasers signed agreement which identified purchasers and property and fully set out purchase price and manner of payment, the contract was binding under this section, notwithstanding the owner's name did not appear in the agreement and it was never signed by him. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

Where owner employed broker to sell realty and in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted", owner telegraphed broker to accept offer, the fact that agreement, which was signed by broker and purchasers, did not name owner and was sent to owner who refused to sign it did not establish that broker did not have authority to make agreement binding on owner under this section. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

Where contract for sale of real estate described the seller as the "seller" and there was no description of the premises allegedly involved except that the contract stated that the premises were "owner occupied", there was no reasonably sufficient description of the premises involved and parol testimony was inadmissible to supply the description. Fitzgan v. Burke (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 721).

Option Within Year

While plaintiff's contract with defendant was in parol, the option might have been exercised within a year, and the statute therefore did not apply. Campbell v. Rawlings (52 App. D. C. 37, 280 Fed. 1011, 23 A. L. R. 854).

Parol Evidence

The existence of a separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a written contract is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved by parol, if under the circumstances it may be properly inferred that the party did not intend the writing to be a complete and final statement of the whole transaction. Jay's Restaurant v. Jack Stone Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 799).

Partial Performance

Remaining in employ of one orally agreeing to devise real estate when husband wished to move to another city held not to amount to such a change in the course of service in life of promisee as would justify invocation of exceptional rule of equity permitting specific performance. Faunce v. Woods (55 App. D. C. 330, 5 Fed. (2d) 753, 40 A. L. R. 208).

Personal Obligation

Where principal contract did not cover additional work which owner, through general contractor requested plumbing subcontractor to perform for owner, subcontractor's claim against owner was based on owner's personal promise to pay owner's own debt and not debt of another, and § 38–121 authorizing subcontractor to recover amount owed by original contractor from owner who specially promises in writing for consideration to be answerable for such amount was inapplicable to subcontractor's claim against owner, and such claim was not within this section requiring special promise to answer for debt of another person to be in writing. Jones v. Guice (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 57 A. 2d 190).

Pleading

Complaint, alleging in effect that owner employed broker to sell realty, that in response to broker's telegram regarding cash offer and query "Advise immediately if accepted," owner telegraphed broker to accept offer and that broker and purchasers signed agreement which carried out authority granted to broker and which identified purchasers and property and set out purchase price and manner of payment, stated a claim on which relief could be granted, although agreement did not name, and was not signed by owner. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

Constructive Trusts

Where complaint charged facts indicating that defendant held all but her own share of land in question charged with a constructive trust for plaintiff and certain other designated persons, plaintiff was not foreclosed from recovery of her share by this section. Major v. Shaver (D. C., D. C. 1946, 6 F. R. D. 207).

Related Writings

A complete contract regarding realty binding under this section may be gathered from letters, writings and telegrams between the parties relating to the subject matter of the contract when so connected with each other that they may be fairly said to constitute one paper relating to the contract. Ochs v. Weil, 1944 (142 F. 2d 758, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

§ 12–303 [11: 3]. Declarations, grants, and assignments of trust—Implied trusts.

All declarations or creations of trust or confidence of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments shall be manifested and proved by some writing signed by the party who is by law enabled to declare such trust or by his last will in writing, or else they shall be utterly void and of none effect.

All grants and assignments of any trust or confidence shall likewise be in writing, signed by the party granting or assigning the same or by such last will or devise, or else shall likewise be utterly void and of none effect.

Where any conveyance shall be made of any lands or tenements by which a trust or confidence shall or may arise or result by the implication or construction of law, or be transferred or extinguished by an act or operation of law, then and in every such case such trust or confidence shall be of the like force and effect as the same would have been if this statute had not been made. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1367, ch. 854, § 1118.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FRAUDULENT VERBAL PROMISE

Facts presented bring case within the second provision of the Statute of Frauds and a trust would result by implication or construction of law. Bennett v. Bennett (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 19).

GENERALLY

This section requires, not only that writing be sufficient to establish trust, but that it show precisely what the trust covers. Moore v. Guy, 1943 (135 F. 2d 476, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 379).

The requisite of certainty in instrument creating trust in realty includes subject matter embraced within trust, beneficiaries, the nature and quantity of interests which they are to have and manner in which trust is to be performed. Moore v. Guy, 1943 (135 F. 2d 476, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 379).

WRITING, SUFFICIENCY OF

Where wife first executed deed conveying to husband one-third interest in property and then, having kept possession of deed, destroyed it, simultaneously making will devising property to her brother and sister, and still later wife wrote explanatory letter to husband stating that her brother and sister would deal fairly with him and "Do the best you can, and sell, and enjoy the little I have been able to accumulate and which I now gladly and lovingly pass on to the three of you", the letter was not a "declaration of trust" in favor of husband. Moore v. Guy, 1943 (135 F. 2d 476, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 379).

IMPLIED TRUSTS

Implied or resulting trusts are recognized by the law in force in the District of Columbia. Haliday v. Haliday (56 App. D. C. 179, 11 Fed. (2d) 565).

INFORMAL WRITING SUFFICIENT

The writing required to prove the trust may be informal provided it establishes the fact and the terms of the trust. Tschiffely v. Tschiffely (70 App. D. C. 386, 107 Fed. (2d) 191).

PAROL TRUST UNENFORCEABLE

Parol trust agreement unenforceable under statute of frauds. Baldi v. Ambrogi (67 App. D. C. 101, 89 Fed. (2d) 845); Chiswell v. Johnston (55 App. D. C. 3, 299 Fed. 681); Dahlgren v. Dahlgren (55 App. D. C. 52, 1 Fed. (2d) 755).

§ 12–304 [11: 4]. Contracts for sale of goods.

No contract for the sale of any goods, wares, and merchandise for the price of $50 or upward shall be allowed to be good except the buyer shall accept part of the goods so sold and actually receive the same or give something in earnest to bind the bargain or in part payment, or that some note or memorandum in writing of the said bargain be made and signed by the parties to be charged by such a contract or their agent thereunto lawfully authorized. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1119.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section may be superseded by a similar provision of the Uniform Sales Act (§ 28–1104). See also 30 A. L. R. 1169.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LETTERS WRITTEN AFTER CONTRACT

It is immaterial that letters were written after instead of before or at the time of the contract. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (64 App. D. C. 156, 75 Fed. (2d) 675).

ORIGINAL PROMISE OF GENERAL CONTRACTOR

Alleged original promises of the general contractor to pay a materialman for materials furnished a subcontractor by the application of any retainable percentages accruing to the subcontractor were insufficient to warrant judgment against the general contractor when the subcontractor defaulted and the general contractor was compelled to take over the work and finish it at a loss. Watkins-Whitney v. Thyson (65 App. D. C. 404, 78 Fed. (2d) 1022).

§ 12–305 [11: 5]. New promise to be in writing—Effect of payment on account—Recovery against joint contractors, coexecutors, coadministrators when statute waived.

In actions of debt or upon the case grounded upon any simple contract, no acknowledgment or promise by words only shall be deemed sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take any case out of the operation of the statute of limitations or to deprive any party of the benefit thereof unless such acknowledgment or promise shall be made or contained by or in some writing to be signed by the party chargeable thereby: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall alter or take away, or lessen the effect of any payment of any principal or interest made by any person whatsoever: Provided, also, That in actions to be commenced against two or more joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, if it shall appear at the trial, or otherwise, that the plaintiff, though barred by the statute of limitations as to one or more of such joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, shall nevertheless be entitled to recover against any other or others of the defendants by virtue of a new acknowledgment or promise or otherwise, judgment may be given for the plaintiff as to such defendant or defendants against whom he shall recover. No indorsement or memorandum of any payment written or made upon any promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing, by or on behalf of the party to whom such payment shall purport to be made, shall be deemed sufficient proof of such payment so as to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

A promise to pay to the creditor an indebtedness at such time as creditor should need it is not a conditional promise to pay but an acknowledgment and new promise, and sufficient to avoid bar of statute of limitations. Cooper v. Olcott (1 App. D. C. 123).

NEW CONTRACTS

This section respecting form of acknowledgment in actions of debt, or upon the case, grounded upon any simple contract, in order to take case out of operation of statute of limitations, has reference only to a unilateral act or statement, and does not render ineffective a new promise supported by contemporaneous consideration. Cafritz v. Koslow (App. D. C. 1948, 167 F. 2d 749).

Where plaintiff, in sister's action to recover money allegedly loaned to brother, was seeking recovery on basis of new relationship founded upon oral contract whereby old indebtedness barred by limitations was incorporated as an element of consideration, old indebtedness, if it ever existed and remained unsatisfied, would afford consideration for new oral contract, since statute of limitations operated merely to extinguish the remedy and not the right. Cafritz v. Koslow (App. D. C. 1948, 167 F. 2d 749).

PRIOR TO CODE

Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226); Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (3 App. D. C. 395); Pumphrey v. Boggan (8 App. D. C. 449); Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373); Reed v. Tierney (12 App. D. C. 165).

Evidence of a new promise may be given under the general issue joined on the plea of limitations. Pumphrey v. Boggan (8 App. D. C. 449).

Defendant can not be permitted, after he has made an acknowledgment, the effect of which may be to remove the bar, or to prevent the running of the statute, as to a particular account, upon a different occasion, by his declaration or claim, to overcome, qualify, or defeat the effect of his previous acknowledgment. Bean v. Wheatley (13 App. D. C. 473).

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF PARTNER

When debt is legally subsisting and not affected by the statute of limitations, an acknowledgment or promise of one partner will avoid the operation of the statute as to the rest. Flannery v. Maine Red Granite Co. (3 App. D. C. 395).

EVIDENCE

Testimony of oral acknowledgment and promise to pay debt within statute of limitations is admissible in action against one upon the debt when there is other and written evidence consisting of letters relating to the debt, as § 1271 does not make testimony of oral acknowledgment wholly inadmissible, but provides only that it shall not be sufficient evidence. Shelley v. Westcott (23 App. D. C. 135).

Parol evidence, if competent, is admissible as to indorsement of payment on note. Madison v. White (60 App. D. C. 329, 54 Fed. (2d) 440).

EXTENSION OF TIME

Agreement for the extension of the time for payment was good and binding upon the parties thereto; and consequently the right of action upon the note, by reason of such extension of time for payment, did not accrue until the 16th of March 1894; and as this action was commenced on the 19th of February 1897, therefore the statute of limitations forms no bar to the right of recovery. Reed v. Tierney (12 App. D. C. 165).

JUDGMENT FOR EXECUTION

Judgment for execution is a new judgment, and statute of limitations begins to run from the new date. Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226).

NOTES SECURED BY MORTGAGE

On petition by holder of one of two notes secured by mortgage for leave to participate in sale of mortgaged property in foreclosure proceedings by the holder of the other note, in this proceeding the bar of limitation, or lapse of time, does not apply, as in case of an action on the note, but to the remedy for the enforcement of an equitable right in land under the mortgage; hence the same period that would bar an ejectment is required. Cropley v. Eyster (9 App. D. C. 373).

SUFFICIENCY OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

"To effect a confirmation of a contract entered into during infancy, the act must have been done with knowledge that the contract was voidable." Manning v. Gannon (44 App. D. C. 98). See also Gannon v. Manning (42 App. D. C. 206).

"A distinct and unequivocal acknowledgment by the debtor of the debt as a still subsisting personal obligation constitutes an implied promise to pay it, and this, 'according to all the authorities, is all that is required to remove the statute in the case of a simple contract'" (referring to such a promise in writing). Green v. Reeves (47 App. D. C. 83), citing Ruppert v. Beavans (2 App. D. C. 298) and Catholic University v. Waggaman (32 App. D. C. 307). See also Hornblower v. George Washington University (31 App. D. C. 64); Strong v. Andros (34 App. D. C. 278).

Correspondence between parties, to be sufficient acknowledgment of indebtedness to toll the statute, must recognize subsisting personal obligation. Hayden v. International Banking Corp. (59 App. D. C. 313, 41 Fed. (2d) 107).

The acknowledgment must not be accompanied by circumstances which negative any intention or promise to pay. Moore v. Snyder (71 App. D. C. 293, 109 Fed. (2d) 840).

Letter by Maryland corporation, whose charter has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, to debtor extending, at the debtor's request, the time for action for deficiency judgment, was not sufficient to toll the statute of limitations, and the debtor was not estopped to plead such statute. Glennan v. Lincoln Inv. Corp. (71 App. D. C. 365), 110 Fed. (2d) 130).

§ 12–306 [11: 6]. New promise by quondam infant to be in writing—Ratification by conduct.

No action shall be maintained whereby to charge any person upon any acknowledgment of, or promise to pay, any debt contracted during infancy made after full age, except for necessaries, unless such acknowledgment or promise shall be made by some writing signed by the party to be charged therewith: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall affect ratification by conduct. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added this section as a last paragraph to § 1271 of the 1901 act. The rest of § 1271 is contained in this Code as § 12–305.

Sec.
12–401. Intent to defraud creditors.
12–402. Intent to defraud purchasers.
12–403. Executors may sue to vacate fraudulent transaction.

§ 12–401 [11: 11]. Intent to defraud creditors.

Every conveyance or assignment, in writing or otherwise, of any estate or interest in lands or rents and profits issuing from the same, or in goods or things in action, and every charge upon the same, and every bond or other evidence of debt given, or judgment or decree suffered, with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or other persons having just claims or demands of their lawful suits, damages, or demands, shall be void as against the persons so hindered, delayed, or defrauded: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to affect or impair the title of a purchaser for a valuable consideration, unless it shall appear that such purchaser had previous notice of the fraudulent intent of his immediate grantor, or of the fraud rendering void the title of such grantor: Provided further, That the question of fraudulent intent shall be deemed a question of fact and not of law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1120.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

By the terms of the statute a final judgment at common law is made a lien, not only upon the legal, but as well upon the equitable, interests in real estate of the judgment debtor from the date when the same is rendered, and this section likewise makes every conveyance of lands with intent to defraud creditors not merely voidable, but void. Reilly v. Sabin (65 App. D. C. 125, 81 Fed. (2d) 259).

Where it did not appear that anyone but plaintiff was hindered, delayed, or defrauded by transfer of property sought to be set aside as fraudulent, judgment to the extent that it avoided transfer as against other persons should be modified. Brady v. Games, 1942 (128 F. 2d 754, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 47).

A court should not enrich a fraudulent grantee at expense of parties not responsible for original grantor's attempt to avoid creditors. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz, 1943 (136 F. 2d 796, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 66, 148 A. L. R. 226).

Every case involving question whether debtor made fraudulent conveyances depends on its own circumstances. J. R. Beaton Co. v. Berberich, 1943 (135 F. 2d 831, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 377).

Even if a conveyance is, on its face, presumptively fraudulent, it is susceptible of explanation. Snider v. Kelly, 1943 (135 F. 2d 817, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

DUTY OF COURT

Where issue regarding whether conveyance is fraudulent is presented to trial court, its duty is to determine from circumstances surrounding transaction of parties whether the intent proscribed by this section was present and in doing so, it should apply the rule that the parties intend the natural and probable consequences of their acts, and if the inevitable consequences of a conveyance are to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, the court must so hold notwithstanding denial of such intent by the parties. Snider v. Kelly, 1943 (135 F. 2d 817, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

GOOD FAITH

In determining whether debtor's conveyances are fraudulent, the vital question is the good faith of the transactions. J. R. Beaton Co. v. Berberich, 1943 (135 F. 2d 831, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 377).

INTENT OF PARTIES

In creditor's suit to declare void certain transfers of title and of interests by debtor to others, record sustained determination that the transactions were consistent with an honest purpose and were free from fraud and wrongdoing. J. R. Beaton Co. v. Berberich, 1943 (135 F. 2d 831, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 377).

Where it appears from all surrounding circumstances that acts of parties are consistent with an honest purpose, it is not an inevitable consequence that conveyance will hinder, delay or defraud creditors, and the court should find accordingly. Snider v. Kelly, 1943 (135 F. 2d 817, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

MORTGAGES

A mortgage made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud the bankrupt's creditors may be declared void. Universal Dealers Co. v. Cromelin (71 App. D. C. 234, 109 Fed. (2d) 828).

The giving of the mortgage followed by withholding it from record pursuant to an agreement or understanding, operated to hinder, delay, and defraud the bankrupt's creditors as the parties are presumed to intend the natural and probable consequences of their own acts and whatever may have been the intention of the petitioner is immaterial. In re Nolan Motor Co., Inc. ((D. C.-D. C.), 25 Fed. Supp. 186).

PRESUMPTIONS

In determining whether debtor made fraudulent transfer, certain rebuttable presumptions go into balance, in creditor's favor, but if it appears from circumstances that challenged acts of parties to transfer are consistent with an honest purpose, the presumptions are overcome. J. R. Beaton Co. v. Berberich, 1943 (135 F. 2d 831, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 377).

QUESTION OF FACT

Under this section, the question of fraudulent intent is a "question of fact" and not a "question of law". Snider v. Kelly, 1943 (135 F. 2d 817, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

QUITCLAIM DEEDS

Where circumstances indicated that debtor was not owner of property or any part of it but at best had a claim which, in hands of creditor, might have had some nuisance value as a cloud on title, that real owner was debtor's brother and that deed from debtor to brother was in nature of a quitclaim to clear brother's title, evidence sustained findings and conclusion that conveyance did not violate this section regarding fraudulent conveyances. Snider v. Kelly, 1943 (135 F. 2d 817, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 363, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 62, 320 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 456).

TRANSFER TO WIFE OF BANKRUPT

Fraudulent transfer of bankrupt's property to wife; conveyance set aside in equity. Harding v. Aaronson (63 App. D. C. 107, 69 Fed. (2d) 845).

§ 12–402 [11: 12]. Intent to defraud purchasers.

Every conveyance of any estate or interest in land or the rents and profits thereof, and every charge upon the same, made or created with the intent to defraud prior or subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration of the same lands, rents, or profits, shall, as against such purchasers, be void; but no such conveyance or charge shall be deemed fraudulent in favor of a subsequent purchaser who shall have actual or legal notice thereof at the time of his purchase, unless it appear that the grantee in such conveyance, or the person to be benefited by such charge, was privy to the fraud intended. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1121.)

NOTE TO DECISIONS

QUESTION OF FACT

In action for breach of contract for conveyance of realty, questions of good faith and collusive intent are questions of fact requiring submission to the jury. Buchanan v. Farmer and Light v. Farmer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

§ 12–403 [11: 13]. Executors may sue to vacate fraudulent transaction.

Any executor, administrator, receiver, assignee, or other trustee of an estate, or of the property and effects of an insolvent estate, corporation, association, partnership, or individual, may, for the benefit of creditors and others interested in the estate or property so held in trust, disaffirm, treat as void, and resist all acts done, transfers, and agreements made in fraud of the rights of any creditor, including themselves and others interested in any estate or property held by or of right belonging to any such trustee or estate; and every person who in fraud of the rights of creditors and others shall have received, taken, or in any manner interfered with the estate, property, or effects of any deceased person or insolvent corporation, association, partnership, or individual shall be liable, in the proper action, to the executors, administrators, receivers, or other trustees of such estate or property for the same, or the value of any property or effects so received or taken, and for all damages caused by such acts to any such trust estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1368, ch. 854, § 1122.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACTION TO AVOID DEED

Section authorizes executors to file suit setting aside or canceling a deed executed by testator and to collect the expenses incident thereto. Ramsey v. Curtis (C. A., D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 687, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

INCREASE OF RIGHTS

This section is "procedural", and the person for whose benefit transfer is sought to be set aside can get no increased substantive rights because administrator is bringing the suit. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz, 1943 (136 F. 2d 796, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 66, 148 A. L. R. 226).

Where administratrix of deceased grantor sought to set aside transfers that allegedly had illegal purpose of defeating creditors and administratrix did not seek to benefit creditors, but to set aside the transfers for benefit of grantor's heirs, the heirs obtained no additional rights because their interests were represented by administratrix. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz, 1943 (136 F. 2d 796, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 66, 148 A. L. R. 226).

TRUST, ENFORCEMENT OF

Administratrix of deceased grantor could enforce "resulting trust" and recover proceeds of realty on behalf of heirs of grantor, notwithstanding evidence that transfers which administratix sought to set aside had illegal purpose of defeating grantor's creditors. Hurwitz v. Hurwitz, 1943 (136 F. 2d 796, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 66, 148 A. L. R. 226).

13–104. Corporations—Process by publication.
13–105. Process against infants—Guardian ad litem—Attorney—Compensation.
13–106. Secreting infant to evade process—Penalty—Infant secreting himself treated as nonresident.
13–107. Persons non compos mentis—On committee—Guardian ad litem.
13–108. Publication as to nonresident, those absent for six months, unknown heirs or devisees, for divorce or proceeding in rem—Actual service beyond District.
13–109. Service by publication—Return of summons—Proof of absence by affidavit.
13–110. Form of order of publication.
13–111. Publication of notice—Affidavit showing copy mailed—Guardian ad litem.
13–112. Notice by publication upon non compos mentis, nonresident defendant—Assignment of attorney.
13–113. Notice by publication upon proper parties unknown to be alive or dead—Heirs—Devisees—Diligence to ascertain.

§ 13–101 [24: 371]. Form of summons.

In all common-law civil suits and actions in the District of Columbia the process for compelling the defendant's appearance shall be a summons in the following form:

SUMMONS

In the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia

A B, plaintiff, versus
C D, defendant.
} At law. Number ——

The President of the United States to the defendant, ———, greeting:

You are hereby summoned to appear in this court on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the day of service of this writ upon you, to answer the plaintiff's suit and show why he should not have judgment against you for the cause of action stated in his declaration; and in case of your failure so to appear and answer, judgment will be given against you by default.

Witness the honorable ———, Chief Justice of said court, the —— day of ——, anno Domini ———

——— ———, Clerk.

By ——— ———, Assistant Clerk.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NECESSITY FOR SUMMONS

Where wife obtained a limited divorce from husband, and thereafter she filed a petition for enlargement of the decree into a decree for absolute divorce, and rule to show cause was issued, but husband refused to appear, rule to show cause would be discharged, and wife was required to proceed by summons. Stern v. Stern (D. C. Sup. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 266).

SERVICE OF PROCESS

Where trial court found that the place of service at time of service was neither defendant's dwelling house nor her usual place of abode, an order quashing service supported by more than substantial evidence must be affirmed. Halpern v. Gunn (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 207).

§ 13–102 [24: 372]. Service or execution on Sunday—Void—Right of action for damages given.

No person or persons, upon the Lord's day, shall serve or execute, or cause to be served or executed, any writ, process, warrant, order, judgment or decree (except in cases of treason, felony, or breach of the peace) but the service of every such writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree, shall be void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and the person or persons so serving or executing the same, shall be as liable to the suit of the party grieved, and to answer damages to him for doing thereof, as if he or they had done the same without any writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree at all. (29 Car. 2, ch. 7, § 6, 1676; Kilty's Rept., p. 242; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 562; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 451, § 54.)

NOTE TO DECISION

SEARCH WARRANT

Where defendants were charged with violating statute in the sale of alcoholic beverages, the intervention of Sunday did not prevent a valid execution of the search warrant. The relevancy of the validity of the search warrant is not apparent where, under the ruling of the trial court, no evidence seized under the warrant was used in evidence against defendant. Edwards v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 286).

§ 13–103 [24: 373]. Service on foreign corporations.

In actions against foreign corporations doing business in the District all process may be served on the agent of such corporation or person conducting its business, or, in case he is absent and can not be found, by leaving a copy at the principal place of business in the District, or, if there be no such place of business, by leaving the same at the place of business or residence of such agent in said District, and such service shall be effectual to bring the corporation before the court.

When a foreign corporation shall transact business in the District without having any place of business or resident agent therein, service upon any officer or agent or employee of such corporation in the District shall be effectual as to suits growing out of contracts entered into or to be performed, in whole or in part, in the District of Columbia or growing out of any tort committed in the said District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1419, ch. 854, § 1537; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329; Feb. 1, 1907, 34 Stat. 874, ch. 445.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment added the second paragraph.

The 1907 amendment struck out the words "heretofore or hereafter" after the word "tort" in the last phrase of the last sentence.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

It was intended merely to remedy an existing mischief by providing a simple and effectual way through which a foreign corporation doing business in the District of Columbia might be brought before the court. It does not attempt to limit the general jurisdiction of the courts of the District and cannot prevent their jurisdiction from attaching in any case where a foreign corporation might, like a natural person resident elsewhere, appear by competent authority and answer the cause of action. Howard v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (11 App. D. C. 300).

CONCEALMENT BY AGENT

Where writ of garnishment was served on secretary of garnishee, a foreign corporation, and secretary filed answers to interrogatories in garnishee's name, but the secretary was the judgment debtor and concealed fact of service for her own interest and prevented notice from reaching the garnishee, the service was not in compliance with spirit of this section providing that process against a foreign corporation may be served on agent of corporation, or on person conducting its business and the service would not support judgment against the garnishee. Encyclopaedia Britannica v. Shannon, 1943 (133 F. 2d 397, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 125).

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section is constitutional. Hoffman v. Washington-Virginia R. Co. (44 App. D. C. 418).

CONTRACTS ENTERED INTO OR TO BE PERFORMED

"It will be observed that the statute is not confined to general agency or an established custom of doing business, but it applies to a suit growing out of a contract 'entered into or to be performed, in whole or in part, in the District of Columbia.'" Berkeley v. Culley (42 App. D. C. 140).

The utilization of procedure outlined in this section for service in line of publication on nonresidents in action in rem, in causing service of written motion to have defendant adjudged in contempt for failure to pay permanent alimony to be made by deputy marshal upon defendant, resulting in service of notice in accordance with method provided in federal rule 5 (b) following section 723 of 28 U. S. C. did not convert motion into a new action in personam wherein such procedure was unavailable. Tilghman v. Tilghman (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 417).

DEFINITIONS

This section providing that, when a corporation shall "transact business" in District of Columbia without having any place of business or resident agent therein, service upon any officer or agent or employee of such corporation in District shall be effectual, etc., uses quoted words as meaning "doing business". Bilbrey v. Chicago Daily News (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 579).

DOING BUSINESS

An action by a foreign corporation against another foreign corporation may be brought in District of Columbia when the defendant has business there. Guilford Granite Co. v. Harrison Granite Co. (23 App. D. C. 1).

A newspaper corporation which, in addition to its chief business of publishing a newspaper in New York, also maintains a permanent office in the District of Columbia, is doing business in the District within terms of statute so that service of process may be had. Rickets v. Sun Printing & Pub. Co. (27 App. D. C. 222).

Maintenance of an office in the District for the performance by the general officers of their duties of management and supervision of the affairs of the corporation amounts to doing business therein, especially when its president, secretary, and treasurer transacted business incidentally relating to corporate purposes. Ferguson Contracting Co. v. Coal & Coke R. Co. (33 App. D. C. 159).

Service on corporation was not proper when their room in the building had been abandoned and used as a storage place, and the officers had left the District. Mitchell Min. Co. v. Emig (35 App. D. C. 527).

When scales corporation not only negotiated sales, but looked after deliveries, collections, and complaints, service upon agent was proper under part of § 1537 of the 1901 Code (this section). Toledo Computing Scales Co. v. Miller (38 App. D. C. 237).

Service was not proper on corporation that had no office in the District of Columbia, at the time of service, for the transaction of business, and was not doing business therein. In fact it was not doing business anywhere, in the ordinary sense of the term, its purpose having been accomplished by issue of stock for purchase of patent, which formed the sole basis of its capitalization. Doremus v. National Cotton Impr. Co. (39 App. D. C. 295).

Service was proper upon agent of foreign corporation that was engaged in selling tickets for transportation between New York and Europe when such corporation had office in District of Columbia. Windell v. Holland American Line (40 App. D. C. 1).

"In this section Congress clearly has recognized the distinction made by the Supreme Court of the United States between the doing of business within a state at a place regularly established therefor, and the intermittent transaction of business through agents who come and go. Notwithstanding that a corporation is deemed to be a resident of the state of its creation, if it goes within another State or jurisdiction, and there establishes a place of business from which, through its authorized agents, its business is transacted, it must be regarded as also within that jurisdiction." Hoffman v. Washington-Virginia R. Co. (44 App. D. C. 418).

The agent or person contemplated by the Code must be possessed of such authority as will justify the conclusion that his principal, by him, is in the District. Chase Bag Co. v. Munson S. S. Line (54 App. D. C. 169, 295 Fed. 990).

Solicitation of business by railroad having no line in District held not "doing business." Cancelmo v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. (56 App. D. C. 225, 12 Fed. (2d) 166); Knobel v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. (56 App. D. C. 228, 12 Fed. (2d) 169).

An express company, doing business in the District, may be sued there for damages to a shipment, although shipment began and ended in other states; nor does this cause an unlawful burden on interstate commerce. Harris v. American R. Exp. Co. (56 App. D. C. 264, 12 Fed. (2d) 487).

Having selling agency contract constitutes "doing business." Carroll Elec. Co. v. Freed-Eisemann Radio Corp. (60 App. D. C. 228, 50 Fed. (2d) 993).

A foreign newspaper maintaining correspondent in District constitutes "doing business." Neely v. Philadelphia Inquirer Co. (61 App. D. C. 334, 62 Fed. (2d) 873).

The mere collection of news in Washington and its transmission to a paper published outside the District of Columbia is not "doing business" within meaning of statute. Layne v. Tribune Co. (63 App. D. C. 213, 71 Fed. (2d) 223).

A foreign corporation is amendable to process to enforce a personal liability, in the absence of consent only if it is doing business within the state in such manner as to warrant the inference that it is present there, citing Philadelphia & Reading R. Co. v. McKibben (243 U. S. 264, 61 L. Ed. 710, 37 Sup. Ct. 280). Whitaker v. Macfadden Publications (70 App. D. C. 165, 105 Fed. (2d) 44).

The trial court was without jurisdiction and the original judgment was void where foreign corporation was never engaged in business in the District of Columbia, and has no officer or agent in the District upon whom process could be served. Consolidated Radio Artists v. Washington Section (70 App. D. C. 262, 105 Fed. (2d) 785).

The mere insuring of residents of a foreign state, the contract of insurance being made and carried out in the home state, does not constitute "doing business" in the state of the insured. Sasnett v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Assn. ((C. C. A. 8), 90 Fed. (2d) 514).

The fundamental principle underlying the "doing business" concept, rendering foreign corporation amenable to process is the maintenance within jurisdiction of a regular, continuous course of business activities, whether or not it includes the final stage of contracting and if, in addition to regular course of solicitation, other business activities are carried on, the corporation is "present" for jurisdictional purposes. Frene v. Louisville Cement Co., 1943 (134 F. 2d 511, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 129).

In determining whether acts of foreign corporation's agents constitute "doing business" in jurisdictional sense, the test of agent's authority is not found in inquiry whether he is required to do questioned act by formal instructions of corporation or his failure to do it would be breach of duty to corporation, but rather in nature of the act, in relation to corporation's business, and whether the corporation has assented to it either by explicit modification of original instructions or impliedly by a course of conduct inconsistent with the limitations they impose. Frene v. Louisville Cement Co., 1943 (134 F. 2d 511, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 129).

Where foreign corporation's employee was not required by original authorization to do more than solicit orders in court's territorial jurisdiction but to create good will and with corporation's consent employee visited jobs where corporation's product was being used, made suggestions for solving difficulties, received complaints, forwarded them to corporation's home office and aided generally in preventing and clearing up difficulties and the corporation accepted benefits derived from such activities, the employee's activities constituted "doing business" or "transacting business" so as to make the corporation amenable to process. Frene v. Louisville Cement Co., 1943 (134 F. 2d 511, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 129).

An Illinois newspaper publishing corporation maintaining an office in Washington and a "Washington correspondent" in charge was not "doing business" within the District so as to give court of District jurisdiction by service of process on such correspondent. Bilbrey v. Chicago Daily News (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 579).

A foreign corporation is amenable to process to enforce a personal liability only if it is doing business within state to such extent as to warrant inference that it is present there. Bilbrey v. Chicago Daily News (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 579).

The mere maintenance of an office for solicitation of business within District does not subject foreign corporation to process of course of District as "doing business" therein. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 563).

Where railroad, which had no tracks in District but whose cars continued into District over tracks of another railroad which controlled and operated them, maintained offices in District for solicitation of business and for conduct of its dining car service, it was "doing business" in District, and service of process on its agent within District was valid. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 563).

Where foreign corporation engaged almost entirely in manufacture of war materials for the United States maintained representative in Washington, D. C., with primary duty of maintaining contact with various government agencies in respect to reports, allocations, and directives relating to the corporation's requirements for materials and incidentally with duty of soliciting orders but without authority to make any binding commitment, corporation maintained office for the representative in Washington and its name was carried in telephone directory, city directory, and in a trade catalog, the corporation was not "doing business" within this section governing service of process. Mueller Brass Co. v. Alexander Milburn Co. (App. D. C. 1945, 154 F. 2d 142).

Mere solicitation of orders by foreign corporation's agent does not constitute "doing business" within this section governing service of process. Mueller Brass Co. v. Alexander Milburn (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 142).

Under this section, District Court of United States for District of Columbia has jurisdiction over corporations which are domestic in a local sense and over those which, by doing business, are present in the District of Columbia. Fehlhaber Pile Co. v. Tennessee Val. Authority (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 864, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 124).

Where Tennessee Valley Authority was organized as government agency under 16 U. S. C. § 831g providing that it should be resident of northern judicial district of Alabama within 28 U. S. C. § 112, but Authority maintained office in District of Columbia, the Authority was not "doing business" in the district in jurisdictional sense and did not waive venue. Fehlhaber Pile Co. v. Tennessee Val. Authority (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 864, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 124).

"Doing business" is equivalent to "transacting business" and generally statutes prohibiting a foreign corporation from doing business until it has filed a certificate, etc., have reference to a continuation in some form of business and do not apply where a foreign corporation does a single act of business within the state. Frye v. Batavia (N. Y.) Veterans Administration Emp. Federal Credit Union No. 189, Inc. (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 334).

It can well be that many corporations have representatives in the City of Washington solely for the purposes of transacting business with the government and this would not constitute the doing of business within the District under the statute. However, when a corporation maintains an office and otherwise holds itself out to the public generally as being present in the city for the purpose of doing business, it submits itself to the jurisdiction of the courts of the District. State of Maryland v. Eastern Airlines (D. C. D. C. 1948, 81 F. Supp. 345).

A Maryland corporation operating as a private school, with all its educational activities conducted in Maryland, is not amenable to service under statute despite the fact that it maintained bank accounts in the District, made purchases or advertised in local papers and was listed in the local telephone directory. Lichtenberg v. Bullis Schools, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 586).

Maryland corporation, solely owned by the U. S. and doing business in the District of Columbia, may be sued in the District in the manner provided by law. Hood v. Defense Homes Corp. (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 365).

The term "doing business" is not one possessed of but a single meaning in the law but is used in conection with many different situations and must be characterized and defined according to the context. What constitutes doing business for purpose of taxation may be very different from doing business for purpose of process and subjection by foreign corporation to the jurisdiction of local courts. Goldberg v. Southern Builders, Inc. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 184 F. 2d 345).

It is clear that the foreign corporation's contacts with the District have been regular and systematic, since its books, records, and offices all are in the District. Under such circumstances, a foreign corporation was doing business in the District and upon service of process, was subject to the jurisdiction of the district court. Goldberg v. Southern Builders, Inc. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 184 F. 2d 345).

GENERAL APPEARANCE

Coupling of a motion to dismiss with a motion to quash service of process did not constitute a "general appearance" by foreign corporation and thus give court jurisdiction. Frye v. Batavia (N. Y.) Veterans Administration Emp. Federal Credit Union No. 189 (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 334).

The fact that affidavits filed by counsel for nonresident corporation in connection with motion to quash service of process also went to merits did not amount to a "general appearance" so as to give the court jurisdiction. Frye v. Batavia (N. Y.) Veterans Administration Emp. Federal Credit Union 189 (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 334).

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR

Evidence showed that foreign corporation was not doing business in the District of Columbia, and service upon independent contractor of the corporation did not bring such corporation before the court. Read v. LaSalle Extension University (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 575).

PARTNERSHIPS

Statute relating to foreign corporations does not apply to partnerships. Matson v. Mackubin (61 App. D. C. 102, 57 Fed. (2d) 941).

PENDING BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDING

No effective service in a creditor's suit for appointment of receiver of company whose only asset is a claim against the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation can be made owing to a bankruptcy proceeding begun in another court having full jurisdiction. Zibell v. Meacham & Babcock Shipbldg. Co. (56 App. D. C. 385, 16 Fed. (2d) 330).

PLEADING

To raise the question whether summons was served on proper representative, motion to quash service is proper. Bloedorn v. Washington Times Co. (67 App. D. C. 91, 89 Fed. (2d) 835).

To same effect as original annotation, see Read v. LaSalle Extension University (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 575).

PURPOSE

The statute is remedial in purpose and its object is quite clear—to enable the District of Columbia courts to exercise jurisdiction over foreign corporations which engage in business activities in the District. Goldberg v. Southern Builders, Inc. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 184 F. 2d 345).

SERVICE UPON OFFICER

When officers of corporation are not in the District in their official or representative capacity and it is not shown that they are clothed with authority, the corporation is not liable to suit in a jurisdiction foreign to its creation. Ambler v. Archer (1 App. D. C. 94).

STATUTE MUST BE STRICTLY FOLLOWED

When appellant had closed its office and removed its property from the District and there were no agents in the District, service of summons could not be secured, and statutes pertaining to such service must be strictly followed. New York Continental Filtration Co. v. Karr (31 App. D. C. 459).

§ 13–104 [24: 374]. Corporations—Process by publication.

In a suit against a corporation, whether foreign or domestic, if process can not be served, such corporation may be proceeded against as a nonresident defendant, by notice by publication. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1207, ch. 854, § 112.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

§ 13–105 [24: 375]. Process against infants—Guardian ad litem—Attorney—Compensation.

Whenever an infant is a party defendant in any suit, in equity or at law, the subpœna or summons issued in such suit shall be served upon him personally, and also the person with whom he resides if under sixteen years of age, if within the District, and said infant shall in such case be produced in court, unless, for cause shown, the court shall dispense with his appearance; and it shall be the duty of the court to appoint a suitable and competent person guardian ad litem for such infant, to appear for and defend such suit on his behalf, and whenever in the judgment of the court the interests of such infant shall require it the court shall assign a solicitor or attorney to represent such infant, whose compensation shall be paid by the plaintiff, or out of the estate of such infant, at the discretion of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1205, ch. 854, § 102; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 Act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The 1901 section read: "Whenever an infant is a party defendant in any equity suit, the subpœna issued in said suit shall be served upon him personally, if within the District, and the said infant shall be produced in court unless, for cause shown, the court shall dispense with his appearance, and a guardian ad litem shall be appointed to answer the bill and defend the suit for him, the said infant having the right to select his guardian ad litem if of the age of fourteen years or older."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADOPTION

General statutes prescribing appointment of guardian ad litem to protect infants, and the rules for civil procedure in the District Courts authorizing appointment of guardian ad litem for infant or incompetent person not otherwise represented in an action do not govern procedure in adoption proceedings. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

ANSWER FILED BY GUARDIAN

Decree of court is valid against infant although there was no service upon him, where a guardian ad litem had been appointed for him and an answer had been filed by such guardian. Manson v. Duncanson (166 U. S. 533, 41 L. Ed. 1105, 17 Sup. Ct. 647, affg. 3 App. D. C. 260).

APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN AD LITEM

Where defense of infancy was asserted, trial court should satisfy itself as to defendant's age and appoint guardian ad litem before proceeding with trial, if infancy were established, even though defendant's attorney did not make formal request for guardian ad litem and did not insist on offering testimony as to defendant's age. Gray v. Droze (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 340).

Trial courts have mandatory duty under this section to provide guardian ad litem for every underage defendant, and to make inquiry as to defendant's actual age whenever the defense of infancy is advanced. Gray v. Droze (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 55 A. 2d 340).

CIVIL PROCEEDINGS ONLY

Applies only to civil and not criminal proceedings. Ledrick v. United States (42 App. D. C. 384).

§ 13–106 [24: 376]. Secreting infant to evade process—Penalty—Infant secreting himself treated as nonresident.

If any person shall secrete an infant against whom process has issued, so as to prevent the service of such process, or shall prevent his appearance in court as aforesaid, such person shall be liable to attachment and punishment as for contempt; or if any infant shall secrete himself or evade the service of process, he may be proceeded against as if he were a nonresident. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 103.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

§ 13–107 [24: 377]. Persons non compos mentis—On committee—Guardian ad litem.

If a person non compos mentis be a party defendant in any suit at law, or in equity, process shall be served upon him, if within the District, and upon his committee, if there be one within the District, and if there be no such committee and the court shall be satisfied as to the condition of said party, it may appoint a guardian ad litem to answer and defend for him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 104; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "equity suit, the subpœna" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "suit at law, or in equity, process" in the first phrase.

§ 13–108 [24: 378]. Publication as to nonresident, those absent for six months, unknown heirs or devisees, for divorce or proceeding in rem—Actual service beyond District.

Publication may be substituted for personal service of process upon any defendant who cannot be found and who is shown by affidavit to be a nonresident, or to have been absent from the District for at least six months, or against the unknown heirs or devisees of deceased persons, in suits for partition, divorce, annulment, by attachment, foreclosure or mortgages and deeds of trust, the establishment of title to real estate by possession, the enforcement of mechanics' liens, and all other liens against real or personal property within the District, and in all actions at law and in equity which have for their immediate object the enforcement or establishment of any lawful right, claim, or demand to or against any real or personal property within the jurisdiction of the court.

Personal service of process may be made by any person not a party to or otherwise interested in the subject-matter in controversy on a nonresident defendant out of the District of Columbia, which service shall have the same effect and no other as an order of publication duly executed. In such case the return must be made under oath in the District of Columbia, unless the person making the service be a sheriff or deputy sheriff, a marshal or deputy marshal, authorized to serve process where service is made, and such return must show the time and place of such service and that the defendant so served is a nonresident of the District of Columbia. The cost and expense of such service of process out of the District of Columbia shall be borne by the party at whose instance the same is made and shall not be taxed as a part of the costs in the case; but where such service of process is made by same authorized officer of the law in this section mentioned, the actual and usual cost of such service of process shall be taxed as a part of the costs in the case. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 105; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 556, ch. 153; June 20, 1949, 63 Stat. 214, ch. 230.)

AMENDMENT

The act of June 20, 1949, amended the first paragraph by inserting the word "annulment" following "divorce". The 1920 amendment added the second paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

"Constructive service is a statutory proceeding, and each step required to be taken is essential to the validity of the service." Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980).

Generally, mere casual and occasional acts do not furnish a sufficient basis for assertion of jurisdiction of person in cases of nonresidents. Frene v. Louisville Cement Co., 1943 (134 F. 2d 511, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 129).

CONSTRUCTION WITH OTHER LAWS

Personal service of process on non-resident defendant in the state where he resided was not invalid because prior thereto a summons had not been issued and returned "Not to be found" in the District of Columbia and because his non-residence had not been proved by affidavit according to § 13–109 dealing with service on a non-resident by publication, since that section has no application to provision of this section relating to personal service on a non-resident. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

ADOPTION PROCEEDING

Where summons in adoption proceeding was delivered to child's legal custodian in another jurisdiction, his letter to clerk of court stating that he was not interested in outcome of suit and that letter was to be treated as his answer to the summons was not an "appearance," but a mere acknowledgment of summons. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

In proceeding for adoption of child who was in custody of legal custodian in another jurisdiction, service of process upon custodian in that jurisdiction, not being authorized by statute, was invalid. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

Jurisdiction of Supreme Court of District over suit against Secretary of Treasury to determine right to fund created by Alien Property Custodian. Doerschuck v. Mellon (60 App. D. C. 383, 55 Fed. (2d) 741).

Parties in suit against Alien Property Custodian. Pilger v. Sutherland (61 App. D. C. 84, 57 Fed. (2d) 604).

ALIMONY

Any attempt to enforce the payment of an order for alimony and suit money pendente lite in a foreign jurisdiction is in the nature of an action in personam, and can be maintained only through personal service upon the defendant. Johnston v. Johnston (64 App. D. C. 87, 74 Fed. (2d) 774).

Fact that written motion to have defendant adjudged in contempt for failure to pay permanent alimony awarded in judgment for absolute divorce was served upon defendant personally instead of attorney, without obtaining in advance an order of court authorizing such service, did not invalidate the service. Tilghman v. Tilghman (D. C., D. C. 1944, 57 F. Supp. 417).

A decree for payment of alimony against a non-resident brought before the court by constructive or extra-territorial service is void except as to property which is within the court's jurisdiction, and which has been specifically proceeded against in the divorce action. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Order of District Court of District of Columbia directing resident of Virginia who was personally served in Virginia, to pay alimony pendente lite, was "in personam" and void for lack of jurisdiction, in absence of any acts by non-resident to subject himself to court's authority, and in absence of a claim of, right to, or lien on any personalty in District of Columbia. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Although this section authorizes publication in cases of attachment, an attachment can not issue under § 445 (§ 16–301) against the property of a decedent for a debt due by him, when the estate is being administered in another jurisdiction. Jordon v. Landram (35 App. D. C. 89), citing Graham v. Fitch (13 App. D. C. 569).

Service by publication is not good in actions in personam on nonresidents not found within jurisdiction unless property of party within jurisdiction is the subject of attachment. Indemnity Ins. Co. of North America v. Smoot (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 667, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 287, 163 A. L. R. 498, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 981, 328 U. S. 835, 90 L. Ed.).

DISMISSAL

Where complaint was not predicated solely on establishment of a lien upon fund held by Secretary of Treasury for benefit of non-resident defendant but also sought injunction and specific performance against non-resident personally, fact that order of publication against non-resident defendant was required to be vacated as not within purview of this section did not entitle non-resident defendant to dismissal of the action as to him, since if non-resident defendant should be personally served court would have jurisdiction to give appropriate relief. Dunn v. Parker (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 373).

DIVORCE

This section which authorizes substituted service in suits for divorce does not apply in suits for maintenance. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

MAINTENANCE

A suit for maintenance is a proceeding in personam, and this section, authorizing substituted service, does not apply. Vertner v. Vertner (63 App. D. C. 179, 70 Fed. (2d) 783).

PERSONAL PROPERTY

Quaere: Whether a defendant in a contract action, by complying with the conditions of § 1531 (§13–217), can convert the same into one having for its "immediate object the enforcement * * * of any lawful right * * * to * * * any personal property within the jurisdiction," so as to authorize service by publication under this section. Dexter v. Lichliter (24 App. D. C. 222).

A check or draft in the hands of the treasurer of the United States, in which the United States has no longer any interest is "personal property" within the meaning of this section. Jones v. Rutherford (26 App. D. C. 114).

A treasury check held by the Government was "personal property" within meaning of statute. Morgenthau v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (68 App. D. C. 163, 94 Fed. (2d) 632).

A trust res in the form of a deposit in a local bank is personal property within the meaning of this section. Green v. Brophy (71 App. D. C. 299, 110 Fed. (2d) 539).

Money paid into United States Treasury by the Mexican Government is "personal property" within meaning of statute. American-Mexican Claims Bureau, Inc. v. Morgenthau ((D. C.-D. C.), 26 Fed. Supp. 904).

Suit against trustee and beneficiary of trusts by beneficiary's divorced wife to establish on behalf of herself and minor child interest in trust funds, located within District of Columbia, and proceeds thereof, was for purpose of enforcing or establishing a lawful right against "property" within this section, so that process was properly served by publication on beneficiary who was absent from district. Buchanan v. National Sav. & Trust Co., 1944 (146 F. 2d 13, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 278).

QUASHING SERVICE

In suit for an accounting and discovery and for appointment of receiver, where verified complaint alleged that defendant was resident of District of Columbia, but summons was served on defendant in Virginia and the return, verified by a Virginia sheriff, alleged that defendant "is a nonresident of the District of Columbia," denied of defendant's motion, made on special appearance, to quash service of process was error. Contella v. Clayton, 1944 (140 F. 2d 469, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 291).

REVIVAL OF JUDGMENT

The service of notice of motion to revive a judgment obtained in Municipal Court of District of Columbia could be made upon a judgment debtor in Maryland upon showing that he was a non-resident, without first having a summons issued in the District of Columbia and returned "not to be found" and the debtor's non-residence established by affidavit. White v. O. R. Evans & Bro. (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 857).

RIGHT AS STATUTORY

Notice by publication is in derogation of the common law, and it can be availed of only when a statute permits. Cooper v. Burton, 1942 (127 F. 2d 741, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 298).

SITUS OF THE "CLAIM"

The situs of the claim alone does not authorize notice to a nonresident defendant by publication under the code. Lindberg v. Humphrey (53 App. D. C. 243, 289 Fed. 901).

VACATING ORDER

Plaintiff's action so far as it related to establishment of a lien upon a fund held by Secretary of Treasury for benefit of non-resident defendant under Settlement of Mexican Claims Act, 22 U. S. C. § 668 (b), did not come within purview of this section providing for publication as to non-residents, and, hence, non-resident defendant's motion to vacate order of publication would be granted. Dunn v. Parker (D. C., D. C. 1948, 8 F. R. D. 373).

WAIVER BY APPEARANCE

When the jurisdiction over the defendant rests upon her having voluntarily appeared and answered the bill without objection, the decree binds her. Houston v. Ormes (252 U. S. 469, 64 L. Ed. 667; 40 Sup. Ct. 369).

A general appearance waives irregularities in obtaining the order of publication. Landram v. Jordan (25 App. D. C. 291, affd. 203 U. S. 56, 51 L. Ed. 88, 27 Sup. Ct. 17).

§ 13–109 [24: 379]. Service by publication—Return of summons—Proof of absence by affidavit.

No order for the substitution of publication for personal service shall be made until a summons for the defendant shall have been issued and returned "Not to be found," and the nonresidence of the defendant or his absence for at least six months shall be proved by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 106.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION WITH OTHER LAWS

Personal service of process on non-resident defendant in the state where he resided was not invalid because prior thereto a summons had not been issued and returned "Not to be found" in the District of Columbia and because his non-residence had not been proved by affidavit according to this section dealing with service on a non-resident by publication, since this section has no application to provision of § 13–108 relating to personal service on a non-resident. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

PLURIES SUMMONS

Order of publication cannot be had before return day named in summons, and this rule applies as well to pluries summons. Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980), citing Plumb v. Bateman (2 App. D. C. 156).

§ 13–110 [24: 380]. Form of order of publication.

The order of publication shall be in the following or an equivalent form:

In the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

A B, complainant,
versus
C D, defendant.
} In ———. No. ——.

The object of this suit is to (state it briefly).

On motion of the complainant, it is this —— day of ——, A. D. ——, ordered that the defendant cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in cause of default.

E F, Justice.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rule 4.

§ 13–111 [24: 381]. Publication of notice — Affidavit showing copy mailed—Guardian ad litem.

Every such order shall be published at least once a week for three successive weeks, or oftener, or for such further time as may be specially ordered; and no order or decree shall be passed against said absent or nonresident defendant upon proof of notice by such publication unless the complainant, plaintiff, his agent, or solicitor, or attorney shall file in the cause an affidavit showing that at least twenty days before applying for such order or decree he mailed, postpaid, a copy of said advertisement, directed to the party therein ordered to appear, at his last known place of residence, or that he has been unable to ascertain the last place of residence of said party after diligent effort to ascertain the same. On failure of the defendant to appear in obedience to said notice within the time named therein, a decree or judgment by default may be entered: Provided, That if the said absent or nonresident defendant be an infant, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem to answer and defend for him, and may assign counsel to represent him as provided in section 13–105. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1206, ch. 854, § 108; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 523, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the last phrase.

(36 Edw. 3, ch. 15, § 1, 1362; Kilty Rep., p. 221; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 177; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 445, § 27.)

COMPILER'S NOTES

Many sections of this and other titles are affected by the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of the United States, adopted by the Supreme Court of the United States pursuant to the act of June 19, 1934, 48 Stat. 1064, ch. 651, §§ 1, 2 (U. S. C., title 28, §§ 723b, 723c).

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 2, 7–16, 18, 54 (b), 55 (a), (d), and 56.

§ 13–202 [24: 2]. All proceedings which concern the law and administration of justice shall be in the English tongue—Penalty for violation.

All writs, process, and returns thereof, and proceedings thereon, and all pleadings, rules, orders, indictments, informations, inquisitions, presentments, verdicts, prohibitions, certificates, and all patents, charters, pardons, commissions, records, judgments, statutes, recognizances, bonds, rolls, entries, fines, and recoveries, and all proceedings relating thereunto, and all copies thereof, and all proceedings whatsoever in any courts of justice which concern the law, and administration of justice, shall be in the English tongue and language only, and not in Latin or French, or any other tongue or language whatsoever, and in words at length, and not abbreviated; and all and every person or persons offending against this section shall for every such offence forfeit and pay $133.33 to any person, who shall sue for the same, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any courts of record. (4 Geo. 2, ch. 26, § 1, 1731; Kilty Rep., p. 249; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 702; Md. Act 1781, ch. 16; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 445, § 28; Apr. 2, 1792, 1 Stat. 248, ch. 16, § 9.)

§ 13–203 [24: 3]. All proceedings written—Figures and abbreviations commonly used, permissible—Writs, other process, and technical words, how expressed.

All writs, process, and returns thereof, and proceedings thereon, and all pleadings, rules, orders, indictments, informations, inquisitions, presentments, verdicts, prohibitions, certificates, patents, charters, pardons, commissions, records, judgments, statutes, recognizances, bonds, rolls, entries, fines and recoveries, and all proceedings relating thereunto, and all copies thereof, and all proceedings whatsoever, in any courts of justice, and which concern the law and administration of justice, may be written or printed in a common legible hand and character, and with the like way of writing or printing, and with the like manner of expressing numbers by figures, as have been heretofore or are now commonly used in the said courts respectively, and with such abbreviations as are now commonly used in the English language, and no penalty or punishment shall be incurred, by virtue of section 13–202, for any other offence than for writing or printing any of the proceedings, or other the matters and things above mentioned, in any hand commonly called Court Hand, or in any language except the English language, nor shall any such penalty or punishment be extended to the expressing the proper or known names of writs or other process or technical words in the same language, as hath been commonly used, so as the same be written or printed in a common legible hand and character, and not in any hand, commonly called Court Hand; and that all prosecutions for offences against the said section shall be commenced within three months after the same shall be committed. (6 Geo. 2, ch. 14, § 5, 1733;

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BILL OF PARTICULARS PART OF DECLARATION

Although a declaration may be defective and not a model of good pleading, a bill of particulars is part thereof and may serve to remove any uncertainty inherent in the latter. Finney v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. (22 App. D. C. 476).

FILING INSTRUMENT SUED ON

It is not the practice, and it would be unreasonable to require, that a promissory note which is the subject of suit should be filed with the declaration. It is sufficient if it is produced at the trial or at the hearing on motion for judgment; and it will be presumed that this was done when there is nothing in the record to show the contrary. Finney v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. (22 App. D. C. 476).

§ 13–204 [24: 4]. Suits at law on lost instruments—Bond.

No suit at law founded upon a lost instrument shall be dismissed on the ground that the suit should have been brought in equity, but a similar bond or undertaking to that required in equity shall be given as a condition precedent to judgment. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1335d.)

§ 13–205 [24: 5]. Plural breaches may be assigned in suits on bonds or on penal sums—Judgment given on demurrer, confession, or nihil dicit—Damages—Determination by jury.

In all actions, which shall be commenced or prosecuted in any courts of record, upon any bond or bonds, or on any penal sum for nonperformance of any covenants or agreements in any indenture, deed, or writing contained, the plaintiff or plaintiffs may assign as many breaches as he or they shall think fit, and the jury, upon trial of such action or actions, shall and may assess, not only such damages and costs of suit as have heretofore been usually done in such cases, but also damages for such of the said breaches so to be assigned, as the plaintiff upon the trial of the issues shall prove to have been broken, and that the like judgment shall be entered on such verdict as heretofore hath been usually done in such like actions; and if judgment shall be given for the plaintiff on a demurrer, or by confession, or nihil dicit, the plaintiff upon the roll may suggest as many breaches of the covenants and agreements as he shall think fit, upon which a jury shall inquire of the truth of every one of those breaches, and assess the damages that the plaintiff shall have sustained thereby. (8 and 9 Wm. 3, ch. 11, § 8, 1697; Kilty Rep., p. 244; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 604; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 69, § 14.)

§ 13–206 [24: 6]. On demurrer, judgment shall be given according to right, disregarding form, immaterial traverses or lack of profert, except as specifically set down as cause for demurrer.

Where any demurrer shall be joyned, and entered in any action or suit in any court of record, the judges shall proceed and give judgment, according as the very right of the cause and matter in law shall appear unto them, without regarding any imperfection, omission or defect or want of form in any writ, retort, plaint, declaration, or other pleading, process or course of proceeding whatsoever, except those only which the party demurring shall specially and particularly set down and express, together with his demurrer, as causes of the same, so as sufficient matter appear in the said pleadings, upon which the court may give judgment according to the very right of the cause; and therefore no advantage or exception shall be taken of or for an immeterial travers; or of or for the default of alledging the bringing into court any bond, bill, indenture or other deed whatsoever mentioned in the declaration or other pleading; or of or for the default of alledging of the bringing into court letters testamentary, or letters of administration; or of or for the omission of vi et armis et contra pacem, or either of them; or of or for the want of averment of hoc paratus est verificare, or hoc paratus est verificare per recordum; or of or for not alledging prout patet per recordum; but the court shall give judgment according to the very right of the cause, as aforesaid, without regarding any such imperfections, omissions and defects, or any other matter of like nature, except the same shall be specially and particularly set down and shewn for cause of demurrer, and that no judgment to be given shall be reversed, for any such imperfection, defect, or want of form, as is aforesaid, except such only as is before excepted. Provided always, that this section, or anything herein contained, shall not extend to any writ, declaration, or suit of appeal of felony or murder, or to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, or to any process upon any of them, or to any writ, bill, action, or information upon any popular or penal statute. (27 Eliz., ch. 5, § 1, 1585; Kilty Rep., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 420; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 96; 4 Ann., ch. 16, § 1, 1705; Kilty Rep., p, 245; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 659; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 447, § 36.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DUTY OF COURT

Errors in prayer of complaint do not affect cause of action disclosed by facts alleged, but court must give any relief which those facts will support. Smith v. Schlein, 1944 (144 F. 2d 257, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 166).

§ 13–207 [24: 7]. After demurrer joined court may amend imperfections, defects, and wants of form, except those expressly set down with demurrer.

After demurrers joined and entered, the court shall and may from time to time amend all and every such imperfections, defects, and wants of form, as set out in section 13–206, other than those only which the party demurring shall specially and particularly express and set down together with his demurrer, as is aforesaid. (27 Eliz., ch. 5, § 2, 1585; Kilty Rept., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 421; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 96.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Demurrers not used in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see Rule 7 (c).

§ 13–208 [24: 252]. Joinder of counts.

The plaintiff may join in his declaration in debt, in separate counts, different claims for liquidated amounts due him, whether founded on judgment, specialty, or simple contract, and also claims for unliquidated damages for breach of contract, whether growing out of specialties or simple contract. He may also join in his declaration in trespass, in separate counts, different claims for damages for torts, whether committed with force or not. He shall also be allowed to join in the same declaration counts sounding in tort and counts sounding in contract when they relate to the same transaction, but not otherwise. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1418, ch. 854, § 1532; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the word "not" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "also" in the last sentence, and added the last words of the section which read, "when they relate to the same transaction, but not otherwise."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JOINDER OF TORT AND CONTRACT

A count sounding in tort may be joined with a count on contract. Minton v. F. G. Smith Piano Co. (36 App. D. C. 137).

Quaere: Whether, under this section, a count for libel may be joined with one of assault and battery. Friedlander v. Rapley (38 App. D. C. 208).

Causes of action for commission for realty sold, and for fraudulent misrepresentation as to the agency to sell property, by which plaintiff had been damaged, not an improper joining. Amended, June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 520, ch. 1329. Minar v. Sheehy (56 App. D. C. 318, 13 Fed. (2d) 290).

§ 13–209 [24: 8]. Demurrer not waived by pleading over.

In all cases, civil or criminal, in which any or either party shall demur to any indictment, declaration, or other pleading of the adverse party, and said demurrer shall be overruled, the party demurring shall have the right to plead over, by traverse or otherwise, without waiving his said demurrer; and upon appeal shall have the right to insist upon his demurrer and have the benefit thereof as fully as if he had not pleaded over. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1418, ch. 854, § 1533.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Demurrers not used in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see Rule 7 (c).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FRIVOLOUS DEMURRER

If a demurrer has been stricken off on the ground that it is frivolous, the provision of this section relative to the right to plead over does not apply. Miller v. Ambrose (35 App. D. C. 75).

§ 13–210 [24: 9]. Dilatory pleas—Verification.

No dilatory plea shall be received in any court of record, unless the party offering such plea, do, by affidavit, prove the truth thereof, or shew some probable matter to the court to induce them to believe that the fact of such dilatory plea is true. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 11, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 246; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 661; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 450, § 45.)

§ 13–211 [24: 10]. Plea of non est factum—Verification.

No plea of non est factum shall be received unless it be verified by the oath of the party tendering the same, or unless the defendant, being heir, executor, or administrator of the person alleged to have made the deed, obtain leave of the court, upon just cause shown, to put in such plea without verification. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1419, ch. 854, § 1534.)

§ 13–212 [24: 11]. Plural pleas permitted.

It shall and may be lawful for any defendant or tenant in any action or suit, or for any plaintiff in replevin in any court of record, with the leave of the same court, to plead as many several matters thereto as he shall think necessary for his defence. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 4, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 246; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 660; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 447, § 35.)

§ 13–213 [24: 12]. Official character of party may be denied only under oath, except with leave of court.

If either party wishes to deny the right of any other party to claim as executor, or as trustee, or in other representative capacity, or as a corporation, he shall deny the same specially under oath, unless for cause shown he obtain leave of the court to make such denial without oath. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1419, ch. 854, § 1535; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 544, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the words, "unless for cause shown he obtain leave of the court to make such denial without oath."

§ 13–214 [24: 13]. Equitable defenses in actions at law.

In all actions at law equitable defenses may be interposed by plea or replication. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1535c; Mar. 4, 1923, 42 Stat. 1506, ch. 278.)

AMENDMENT

This section is made applicable to the municipal court by the 1923 act, which reads as follows: "That hereafter section 1535c (this section) of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, permitting equitable defenses to be interposed in actions at law, shall be applicable to proceedings now pending in the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia as well as to actions hereafter brought in said court."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Forms of actions have been abolished in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, see rule 2.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COUNTERCLAIMS

Court should not have entertained the counterclaims of defendants in suit in which possesion was sought on the grounds of unlawful entry and detainer. Though we have held that where a tenant is sued for possession for nonpayment of rent, he may defend by an equitable defense sufficient to defeat the claim for rent or may defend by way of recoupment for a total or partial failure of consideration in order to avoid circuity of action. Where the suit was not for nonpayment and the counterclaim sounded in tort, this rule does not apply. Bellmore v. Baum (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 588).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

The true legislative intent was to simplify the practice as between legal and equitable procedure in those courts which already possessed jurisdiction over equitable causes, and was not to give the municipal court general equitable jurisdiction when dealing with defenses to actions. International Exch. Bank v. Pullo (52 App. D. C. 199, 285 Fed. 933) (decided prior to enactment of 42 Stat. 1506).

No Extension of Equity Jurisdiction

This section does not authorize an equity court, having jurisdiction, to stay proceedings to await the bringing of another action in an inferior court. Sambataro v. Caffo (57 App. D. C. 260, 20 Fed. (2d) 276).

Raising Question on Appeal

An equitable defense not interposed below could not be insisted upon on appeal. Saks v. B. H. Stinemetz & Son Co. (54 App. D. C. 38, 293 Fed. 1005).

Reformation, Rescission or Performance

The Municipal Court for the District of Columbia would be without jurisdiction to try issues appropriate to suit for reformation or rescission of instrument or for specific performance, unless such issues were presented by way of defense to action within the court's jurisdiction. Howenstein Realty Corporation v. Richardson, 1943 (135 F. 2d 803, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 299).

Specific Defenses

A lessee's plea denying default in rent sued for is a good equitable defense, Smith v. O'Connor (66 App. D. C. 367, 88 Fed. (2d) 749).

A tenant who is sued for possession of real property for non-payment of rent may defend by an equitable defense sufficient to defeat landlord's claim for rent in whole or in part, or may defend by way of recoupment for a total or partial failure of consideration in order to avoid circuity of action. Lalekos v. Manset (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 617).

In landlord's action for possession of leased premises and for money judgment for rent, exclusion of testimony of oral agreement to repair, made before signing of lease, was error, since violation of such agreement would have constituted an equitable defense. Mitchell v. David (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 51 A. 2d 375).

§ 13–215 [24: 14]. Transfer of causes from law to equity or vice versa—Amendments—Previous testimony preserved to stand in cause.

In any case where it shall appear that an action at law should have been brought in equity, or a suit in equity should have been brought at law, the judge presiding in the special term, circuit or equity, as the case may be, shall order such case to be transferred to such other special term accordingly, whereupon such amendments shall be made in the pleadings as may be necessary to make them conform to the proper practice. All testimony taken before such transfer, if preserved, shall stand as testimony in the cause. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1535b.)

Cross Reference

Other provisions concerning transfer of actions, § 11–314.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Probate Court

Probate court's jurisdiction over proof of wills is exclusive. Gracie v. American Sec. & Trust Co. (51 App. D. C. 141, 277 Fed. 543).

On Appeal

Equitable defense not urged in the trial court by bill or motion cannot be availed of on appeal. Saks v. B. H. Stinemetz & Son Co. (54 App. D. C. 38, 293 Fed. 1005).

§ 13–216 [24: 15]. Judgment or decree may be entered for part of cause admitted, and remainder of claim prosecuted.

Whenever in any action at law or in equity the defendant admits a part of the cause of action, a final judgment or decree may be entered for such part, and the plaintiff may prosecute the remainder of his claim in the same suit and (if he sustains his claim for such remainder) may have a further final judgment or decree therefor. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153, § 1535a.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

This section must be considered when construing § 1535c of the 1901 Code (§ 13–214). International Exch. Bank v. Pullo (52 App. D. C. 199, 285 Fed. 933).

§ 13–217 [24: 16]. Interpleader—Affidavit by defendant—Contents—Order of court—Appearance of third party—Failure to appear.

Upon affidavit by the defendant, in an action upon contract or for the recovery of personal property, that a third party, without collusion with him, has or makes claim to the subject of the action, and that he, the defendant, is ready to pay or dispose of the same as the court may direct, the court may make an order for the safe-keeping or for the payment or deposit in court of the subject of the action, or the delivery thereof to such person as it may direct, and also an order requiring such third party to appear in a reasonable time and maintain or relinquish his claim against the defendant; and if said third party, having been served with a copy of the order by the marshal, fail to appear the court may declare him barred of all claim in respect to the subject of the action against the defendant therein; but if he appear he shall be allowed to make himself defendant in the action in lieu of the original defendant, who shall be discharged from all liability to either of the other parties in respect to the subject of the action on his compliance with the order of the court for the payment, deposit, or delivery thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1418, ch. 854, § 1531; Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

Amendment

The 1921 act makes this section applicable to the municipal court.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Counsel Fees

Defendant, who was successful in having bill of interpleader dismissed, was not entitled to allowance of counsel fees, where ground on which such defendant claimed to be entitled to allowance of counsel fees was not apparent. Continental Trust Co. v. Corbin (D. C. Sup. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 394).

Requisites of Interpleader

The four conditions prerequisite to an order for interpleader are: (1) The same thing, debt, or duty must be claimed by both or all the parties against whom relief is demanded; (2) all their adverse titles or claims must be dependent, or be derived from a common source; (3) the person asking the relief—the plaintiff—must not have or claim any interest in the subject-matter; and, (4) he must have incurred no independent liability to either of the claimants—that is, he must stand perfectly indifferent between them in the position merely of a stakeholder. Morgan v. Kraft (52 App. D. C. 172, 285 Fed. 906).

SERVICE ON THIRD PERSON

Personal service upon such third person within the jurisdiction is necessary to bring him into court. Personal service out of the jurisdiction or service by publication is insufficient. Dexter v. Lichliter (24 App. D. C. 222).

§ 13–218 [24: 17]. Payment—When pleaded—Debt on single bill or scire facias on judgment—On bond—Or a lesser sum at different date from defeasance.

When any action of debt shall be brought upon any single bill, or where action of debt or scire facias, shall be brought upon any judgment, if the defendant hath paid the money due upon such bill or judgment, such payment shall and may be pleaded in bar of such action or suit, and where an action of debt is brought upon any bond which hath a condition or defeazance to make void the same upon payment of a lesser sum at a day or place certain, if the obligor, his heirs, executors, or administrators have, before the action brought, paid to the obligee, his executors or administrators, the principal and interest due by the defeazance or condition of such bond, though such payment was not made strictly according to the condition or defeazance; yet it shall and may nevertheless be pleaded in bar of such action, and shall be as effectual a bar thereof, as if the money had been paid at the day and place, according to the condition or defeazance, and had been so pleaded. (4 Ann. ch. 16, § 12, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 246; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 661; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 449, § 43.)

Forasmuch as people be compelled to come into chancery, by writs grounded upon untrue suggestions, that the chancellor for the time being, presently after that such suggestions be duly found and proved untrue, shall have power to ordain and award damages according to his discretion, to him which is so troubled unduly, as afore is said. (17 Rich. 2, ch. 6, § 1, 1393; Kilty Rep., p. 224; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 199; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 104, § 97; see Md. Act 1785, ch. 72, § 25.)

§ 13–220 [24: 19]. Covin may be pleaded in bar of res judicata in actions popular.

If any person or persons sue with good faith any action popular, and the defendant or defendants in the same action plead any manner of recovery of action popular in bar of the said action, or else that the same defendant or defendants plead, that he or they before that time barred any such plaintiff or plaintiffs in any such action popular, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in the action taken with good faith may aver, that the said recovery in the said action popular was had by covin, or else to aver that the said plaintiff or plaintiffs was or were barred in the said action popular by covin, that then if after the said collusion or covin so averred be lawfully found, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in that action sued with good faith, shall have recovery according to the nature of the action, and execution upon the same in like wise and effect, as though no such afore had been had. § 13–222 [24: 21]. Fines, penalties, and forfeitures accruing under Maryland laws to be recovered in name of United States—Disposition of amount recovered.

All fines, penalties, and forfeitures accruing under the laws of the State of Maryland, which, by adoption, have become the laws of the District, shall be recovered with costs, by indictment or information, in the name of the United States, or by action of debt, in the name of the United States and of the informer; one-half of which fine shall accrue to the United States, and the other half to the informer; and such fines shall be collected by or paid to the marshal, and one-half thereof shall be by him paid over to the District of Columbia, and the other half to the informer. (Md. Act 1777, ch. 6, § 1; R. S., D. C., § 837.)

Chapter 3.—AMENDMENT OF AND MISTAKES IN PLEADINGS AND PROCEEDINGS

Sec.

13–301. Writs, pleadings, and other papers amendable at any stage, on terms—Supplemental or substituted affidavits permitted.
13–302. Continuances after amendment—Discharge of jury.
13–303. Costs on amendment at discretion of court.
13–304. Process not annulled or discontinued by clerk writing one syllable or one letter too much or too little—Such errors amendable.
13–305. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment as long as the record is before them.
13–306. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment on verdict as well as upon matter in law pleaded.

Sec.
13–307. Record and proceedings not amendable after term at which judgment given and enrolled.
13–308. Judges may reform and amend misprisions of clerk in record, process, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, and return, except appeals, indictments of treason and felonies, so that by such misprision no judgment shall be reversed or annulled.
13–309. Judges may order amended or reformed erroneous or defective certification of record, process, writs, warrants of attorney, and return—Party may show certification varies from first writing.
13–310. No judgment of records and process reversed nor annulled after exemplification under great seal enrolled.
13–311. Justices have power to amend defaults, errors and misprisions in the record, process or returns by the marshal, coroner, or clerk, in writing one letter or syllable too much or too little.
13–312. Writs of error variant from the original record, or otherwise defective, amendable by the court where returnable—Judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for defect or fault, in form or substance, in bill, writ, original, or judicial, or variance in said writs from other proceedings, except process upon indictment, presentment, or information, of or for any offense or misdemeanor.
13–313. After verdict, judgment shall be given, notwithstanding lack of color, insufficient pleading, jeofail, miscontinuance, discontinuance, misconveyance of process, misjoining of issue, lack of warrant of attorney, or other default or neglect of parties, counsel, or attorneys—Such judgment shall stand in full force according to the verdict, without reversal as though such default or negligence had not been.
13–314. After verdict, judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for default in form, lack of form, false Latin, variance from register—Default in form of writ, count, declaration, plaint, bill, suit or demand, want of writ, imperfect return or default in process—Except indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or process upon them, actions popular and upon penal statutes.
13–315. After verdict, judgment shall not be stayed nor reversed for issuance of process to the wrong officer, that any juror is misnamed, no return to writs, that the marshal's name does not appear, that infant plaintiff appeared by attorney, if he won—Except as to indictment or presentment of felony, murder, or treason, or process upon them, and popular and penal statutes.
13–316. After verdict, judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for default in or lack of form, want of profert, allegation of vi et armis or contra pacem, mistake in name of party, sum of money, time, or for other named formal defects, all of which may be amended.
13–317. Section 13–316 shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or to process upon them, penal statutes, other than subsidies of tonnage, writs of error by executors or administrators, actions popular, penal law or statute, information or appeal.
13–318. Statutes of jeofails extend to judgments by confession nihil dicit and non sum informatus.
13–319. Criminal and penal matters.
13–320. Mandamus, quo warranto, and proceedings thereon.

§ 13–301 [24: 61]. Writs, pleadings, and other papers amendable at any stage, on terms—Supplemental or substituted affidavits permitted.

In all judicial proceedings the court, justice or judge, in which, or before whom, the cause shall be pending shall have power upon such terms as shall seem best, at any stage of the case, to allow amendments of writs, pleadings, or other papers in the cause and to allow supplemental or substituted affidavits to be filed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1252, ch. 854, § 399; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted the above in lieu thereof. The former section read: "In all actions at law the court shall have power to order and allow amendments to be made in all proceedings whatsoever, so as to have the merits of the controversy fairly tried, before the jury retire to make up their verdict, in cases of jury trial, and at any time before judgment is entered in cases of issues of law or fact tried by the court."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 15, 60, and 61.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMINISTRATOR AS SUBSTITUTED PARTY

Although this section should be liberally construed, a suit begun in the name of a deceased plaintiff is a nullity (and this is true, although the plaintiff is merely a formal, nominal, use plaintiff); hence there can be no amendment substituting the administrator of the deceased plaintiff as party plaintiff. Karrick v. Wetmore (22 App. D. C. 487). For the further history of this litigation, see 205 U. S. 141, 51 L. Ed. 745, 27 Sup. Ct. 434, affg. 25 App. D. C. 415 and 26 App. D. C. 124.

AMENDMENT DURING TRIAL

To warrant obtaining leave to amend a pleading at trial there must be some showing of surprise or some reasonable explanation of the delay in seeking to amend. Plummer v. Johnson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 647).

APPEALS—REMAND FOR AMENDMENT

"In the case of Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Ohio & M. R. Co. (142 U. S. 396, 35 L. Ed. 1055, 12 Sup. Ct. 188), it was held by the Supreme Court that where the facts showed that the plaintiff had an equitable title to relief, but that court, on the state of pleadings before it, was unable to afford relief it could and would remand the case to the court below for amendment of pleadings and further proceedings, in order that the right might be availed of." Wagenhurst v. Wineland (22 App. D. C. 356). See also Alfred Richards Brick Co. v. Atkinson (16 App. D. C. 462).

APPLICATION TO AMEND

Appellant was without right to complain that order sustaining motion to dismiss complaint did not allow him opportunity to amend where he made no application for leave to amend, since reviewing court cannot assume that he would have been denied the right of amendment had he sought it. Johnson v. M. J. Uline Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 40 A. 2d 260).

COMPARING COMMON-LAW RULE

Quaere: Whether this section modifies common-law rule that "the finding in favor of the plaintiff of an issue of fact raised by a plea in abatement, entitles the plaintiff to a judgment on the merits." Brown v. Savings Bank (28 App. D. C. 351).

COMPLAINT

Where complaint sought recovery of possession under § 5 of District Rent Act by reason of "substantial altering and remodeling and replacement with new construction of commercial property," no reversible error was committed in allowing an amendment to change body of complaint under a permissive statute where the original complaint stated that the property was "commercial property", since statement that possession was sought under § 5 which applies only to housing accommodations was mere surplusage. Alpert v. Wolf (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 525).

Where original complaint described the plaintiff as executrix, it was not reversible error to permit amendment describing her as suing individually and as executrix, where the record was clear that it was the intention to sue in her individual capacity. The descriptive word "executrix" in the amended complaint was surplusage. Alpert v. Wolf (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 525).

DISCRETION OF COURT

"There is nothing in section 399 of the Code (this section) to make it mandatory on the courts to allow amendments." Schrot v. Schoenfeld (23 App. D. C. 421).

"The grant or refusal of leave to amend is a power entrusted to the trial court that injustice and hardship may be prevented and the merits of the case fairly tried. Whether in the particular instance the leave should be granted or refused is a matter within the discretion of the trial court, and is not reviewable in the appellate court." Chunn v. City & S. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 551, revd. on other grounds 207 U. S. 302, 52 L. Ed. 219, 28 Sup. Ct. 63), citing German Soc. v. Prospect Hill Cemetery (2 App. D. C. 310); Brown v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (6 App. D. C. 237).

"After the appearance of defendant, the granting of additional time to plead and leave to amend affidavits was within the discretion of the court." Armour v. Flook (44 App. D. C. 415).

Where defendant filed an additional plea of equitable estoppel to which plaintiff demurred, the granting of leave to file a substituted amended plea within a few days thereafter was within the court's discretion. Daly v. Sacks (59 App. D. C. 216, 38 Fed. (2d) 388).

Under this section an amendment of a plea, after the jury was sworn, but before the statement of the case or the admission of evidence, is in the discretion of the court. Kinchlow v. Peoples Rapid Transit Co. (66 App. D. C. 382, 88 Fed. (2d) 764, cert. den. 301 U. S. 693, 81 L. Ed. 1349, 57 Sup. Ct. 926).

To same effect as second paragraph of original annotation, see Plummer v. Johnson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 647).

Where action on renewal note more than eight months before trial had been at issue under answer containing a general denial and affidavit of defense alleging absence of consideration, and defendant during his testimony asked leave to amend answer to show fraud and undue influence in making the original note, but offered no excuse for not seeking the desired amendment prior to trial, trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing amendment. Plummer v. Johnson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 647).

A reasonable discretion is reposed in trial courts in the allowance or refusal of amendments to pleadings. Plummer v. Johnson (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 647).

The trial court has wide discretion in the allowance of amendments to pleadings both before and during trial. Peake v. Ramsey (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 763).

It was not an abuse of discretion for trial court to refuse moving party leave to amend after verdict where she knew or should have known what the pending litigation would probably develop. Having lost on one defense, she had no right to have case reopened to assert a new one. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

Court rules were designed to allow amendments and changes in pleadings liberally; pleadings are to be liberally construed to do substantial justice and the trial court is allowed wide discretion in determining such matters. Pyramid National Van Lines, Inc. v. Goetze (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 693).

Where a motion was made to strike out counterclaims on grounds of omission from the original answer and allegedly filed too late, it was held that since the counterclaims were compulsory, they should not be stricken and the amendments should be allowed with great liberality at any stage unless they prejudiced the rights of the opposing party. Pyramid National Van Lines, Inc. v. Goetze (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 693).

It was entirely proper for trial court to permit amendments to conform to the evidence is in accordance with modern practice and is specifically authorized by the court rules. Hillyard v. Smither & Mayton, Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 166).

While the rules of the court contemplate that leave to amend shall be freely given, it is not their purpose to allow amendments under any and all circumstances. Buchanan v. Farmer and Light v. Farmer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

Where, in action for breach of contract, case was tried on issues presented by the original complaint, amendment advancing a new theory for recovery after evidence was closed would not be permitted where it would prejudice defendant. Buchanan v. Farmer and Light v. Farmer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 367).

PLEA IN ABATEMENT

"That the amendment may relate to the withdrawal of a plea in bar and its substitution by one in abatement, or the reverse, does not alter the rule." Chunn v. City & S. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 551, revd. on other grounds 207 U. S. 302, 52 L. Ed. 219, 28 Sup. Ct. 63).

PRIOR LAW

Under R. S., § 954 (U. S. C., title 28, § 777), and the Maryland Act of 1785, ch. 80, § 4, the lower court may allow a change, by amendment, of one form of action to another, provided the claim or cause of action sued for be the same in both. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

SCIRE FACIAS

"The power of amendment is equally applicable and to the same extent in the case of a scire facias as in the case of an ordinary execution." Otterbach v. Patch (5 App. D. C. 69).

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Where a declaration is filed within the period of the statute of limitations, an amendment made after the statute has run which charges the same cause of action in a different form is not open to the defense of the statute. Beasley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (27 App. D. C. 595). See also District of Columbia v. Frazer (21 App. D. C. 154).

In an action in ejectment, where the defense was the general issue, it is not error to permit defendant to amend by pleading the statute of limitations (after the evidence has been introduced and a motion by plaintiff for a directed verdict has been overruled). "Plaintiff was not taken by surprise; no additional evidence was introduced; plaintiff sustained no possible legal injury." McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

§ 13–302 [24: 62]. Continuances after amendment—Discharge of jury.

No such amendment shall entitle either party, as of course, to a postponement of the trial or to a continuance of the case to the next term of the court; but the court shall allow a postponement or continuance in case the ends of justice require it, and upon such terms as the court shall deem proper. If such amendment is ordered and a postponement or continuance is allowed after the jury have been sworn the jury shall be discharged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1253, ch. 854, § 400.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCONTINUANCE OF COUNT

A discontinuance of a count in a declaration setting up a distinct cause of action is not an amendment, but treating it as such, it creates no necessity for a continuance. Crandall v. Lynch (20 App. D. C. 73).

§ 13–303 [24: 63]. Costs on amendment at discretion of court.

In all cases of amendment such costs shall be allowed the party against whom the amendment is made as the court may determine. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1253, ch. 854, § 401.)

§ 13–304 [24: 64]. Process not annulled or discontinued by clerk writing one syllable or one letter too much or too little—Such errors amendable.

By the misprision of a clerk in any place whereso-ever it be, no process shall be adnulled, or discontinued, by mistaking in writing one syllable, or one letter too much or too little; but as soon as the thing is perceived, by challenge of the party, or in other manner, it shall be hastily amended in due form, without giving advantage to the party that challengeth the same because of such misprision. (14 Edw. 3, ch. 6, § 1, 1340; Kilty Rep., p. 216; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 167; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 460, § 88.)

§ 13–305 [24: 65]. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment as long as the record is before them.

The justices before whom plea or record is made, or shall be depending, as well by adjournment, as by way of error, or otherwise, shall have power and authority to amend such record and process, as well after judgment in any such plea, record, or process given, as before judgment given in any such plea, record, or process, as long as the same record and process is before them, in the same manner as the justices had power to amend such record and process before judgment given by force of section 13–304. (9 Hen. 5, ch. 4, § 1, 1421; Kilty Rep., p. 226; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 221, 222; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 90.)

§ 13–306 [24: 66]. Justices may authorize amendments of record and process after judgment on verdict as well as upon matter in law pleaded.

The effect of section 13–305 shall hold strength, force, and effect, in every record and process of the same, as well after judgment given upon a verdict passed, as upon a matter in law pleaded. (4 Hen. 6, ch. 3, § 1, 1425; Kilty Rep., p. 226; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 224; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 91.)

§ 13–307 [24: 67]. Record and proceedings not amendable after term at which judgment given and enrolled.

The records and process of pleas real and personal, and of assises of novel disseisin, or mortdancester, and certifications, and of others, whereof judgment is given and inrolled, or things touching such plea, shall in no wise be amended nor impaired by new entring of the clerks, or by the record or thing certified in witness or commandment of any justice, in no term after that such judgment in such pleas is given and inrolled. (11 Hen. 4, ch. 3, § 1, 1409; Kilty Rep., p. 225; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 211, 212; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 461, § 89.)

§ 13–308 [24: 68]. Judges may reform and amend misprisions of clerk in record, process, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, and return, except appeals, indictments of treason and felonies, so that by such misprision no judgment shall be reversed or annulled.

The judges of the courts and places in which any record, process, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, or return, which for the time shall be, shall have power to examine such records, process, words, pleas, warrants of attorney, writs, panels, or return, by them and their clerks, and to reform and amend (in affirmance of the judgments of such records and processes) all that which to them in their discretion seemeth to be misprision of the clerks in such record, processes, word, plea, warrant of attorney, writ, panel, and return; except appeals, indictments of treason and of felonies, so that by such misprision of the clerk no judgment shall be reversed nor adnulled. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 2, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 233; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 93.)

§ 13–309 [24: 69]. Judges may order amended or reformed erroneous or defective certification of record, process, writs, warrants of attorney, and return—Party may show certification varies from first writing.

If any record, process, writ, warrant of attorney, return, or panel be certified defective, otherwise than according to the writing which thereof remaineth in the courts or places from whence they be certified, the parties in affirmance of the judgments of such record and process shall have advantage to alledge, that the same writing is variant from the said certificate, and that found and certified, the same variance shall be by the said judges reformed and amended according to the first writing. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 2, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 234; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 93.)

§ 13–310 [24: 70]. No judgment of records and process reversed nor annulled after exemplification under great seal enrolled.

If any record, process, writ, or warrant of attorney, panel, or return, or parcel of the same, referred to in sections 13–308 and 13–309, be now, or hereafter shall be exemplified under the great seal, and such exemplification there of record inrolled without any raising of the same place in the exemplification and the inrollment of the same, that another time for any error assigned, or to be assigned in the said record, process, writ, warrant of attorney, panel, or return, in any letter, word, clause, or matter of the same varying, or contrary to the said exemplification and the inrollment, there shall be no judgment of the said records and process reversed nor adnulled. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 12, § 4, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 234; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 94.)

§ 13–311 [24: 71]. Justices have power to amend defaults, errors, and misprisions in the record, process, or returns by the marshal, coroner, or clerk, in writing one letter or syllable too much or too little.

The justices, before whom any misprision or default is or shall be found, be it in any records and processes which now be, or shall be depending before them, as well by way of error as otherwise, or in the returns of the same, made or to be made by the marshal, coroner, or any other, by misprision of the clerks of courts, or by misprision of the marshal, coroner, their clerks, or other officers, clerks, or other ministers whatsoever, in writing one letter or one syllable too much or too little, shall have power to amend such defaults and misprisions according to their discretion, and by examination thereof by the said justices to be taken where they shall think needful. (8 Hen. 6, ch. 15, § 1, 1429; Kilty Rep., p. 227; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 242; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 462, § 95.)

§ 13–312 [24: 72]. Writs of error variant from the original record, or otherwise defective, amendable by the court where returnable—Judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for defect or fault, in form or substance, in bill, writ, original, or judicial, or variance in said writs from other proceedings, except process upon indictment, presentment, or information, of or for any offense or misdemeanor.

All writs of error, wherein there shall be any variance from the original record, or other defect, may and shall be amended and made agreeable to such record, by the respective courts where such writ or writs of error shall be made returnable; and where any verdict hath been or shall be given in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand, in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed for any defect or fault, either in form or substance, in any bill, writ, original or judicial, or for any variance in such writs from the declaration or other proceedings.

Provided nevertheless, that nothing in this section contained shall extend, or be construed to extend to any process upon any indictment, presentment, or information, of or for any offence or misdemeanor whatsoever. (5 Geo. 1, ch. 13, § 1, 1718; Kilty Rep., p. 248; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 697; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 463, § 99.)

§ 13–313 [24: 73]. After verdict, judgment shall be given, notwithstanding lack of color, insufficient pleading, jeofail, miscontinuance, discontinuance, misconveyance of process, misjoining of issue, lack of warrant of attorney, or other default or neglect of parties, counsel, or attorneys—Such judgment shall stand in full force according to the verdict, without reversal as though such default or negligence had not been.

If any issue be tried by the oath of twelve indifferent men, for the party plaintiff or demandant, or for the party tenant or defendant, in any manner of action or suit at common law, in any of the courts of record, that then the justice or justices by whom judgment thereof ought to be given, shall proceed and give judgment in the same; any mispleading, lack of colour, insufficient pleading, or jeofail, any miscontinuance or discontinuance, or misconveying of process, misjoining of the issue, lack of warrant of attorney for the party against whom the same issue shall happen to be tried, or any other default or negligence of any of the parties, their counsellors, or attorneys, had or made to the contrary notwithstanding; and the said judgments thereof, so to be had and given, shall stand in full strength and force to all intents and purposes, according to the said verdict, without any reversal or undoing of the same by writ of error, or of false judgment, in like form as though no such default or negligence had never been had or committed. (32 Hen. 8, ch. 30, § 2, 1540; Kilty Rep., p. 232; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 327; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 448, § 37.)

§ 13–314 [24: 74]. After verdict judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for default in form, lack of form, false Latin, variance from register—Default in form of writ, count, declaration, plaint, bill, suit or demand, want of writ, imperfect return or default in process, except indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or process upon them, actions popular and upon penal statutes.

If any verdict of twelve men shall be given in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand, in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed by reason of any default in form, or lack of form, touching false Latin, or variance from the register, or other defaults in form, in any writ original or judicial, count, declaration, plaint, bill, suit, or demand, or for want of any writ original or judicial, or by reason of any imperfect or insufficient return of any marshal or other officer, or for want of any warrant of attorney, or by reason of any manner of default in process, upon or after any aid prier or voucher, nor any such record or judgment after verdict to be given hereafter, shall be reversed for any of the defects or causes aforesaid.

Provided always, That this section or any thing herein contained, shall not extend to any indictment, or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, nor to any process upon any of them, nor to any writ, bill, action or information upon any popular or penal statute. (18 Eliz. ch. 14, §§ 1 and 2, 1576; Kilty Rep., p. 235; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 411; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 287, §§ 3 and 4.)

§ 13–315 [24: 75]. After verdict judgment shall not be stayed nor reversed for issuance of process to the wrong officer, that any juror is misnamed, no return to writs, that the marshal's name does not appear, that infant plaintiff appeared by attorney, if he won—Except as to indictment or presentment of felony, murder, or treason, or process upon them, and popular and penal statutes.

If any verdict of twelve men, shall be given for the plaintiff or defendant, in any action, suit, bill, plaint, or demand in any court of record, the judgment thereupon shall not be stayed nor reversed by reason of any lack of an averment of any life or lives of any person or persons, so as upon examination, the said person be proved to be in life; or by reason that the venire facias, or habeas corpora is awarded to a wrong officer, upon any insufficient suggestion; or by reason that any of the jury which tried the said issue is misnamed, either in the sirname or addition in any of said writs, or in any return upon any of the said writs, so as upon examination it be proved to be the same man that was meant to be returned; or by reason that there is no return upon any of the said writs, so as a pannel of the names of jurors be returned and annexed to the said writ; or for that the marshal's name or other officer's name having the return thereof, is not set to the return of any such writ, so as upon examination it be proved that the said writ was returned by the marshal or deputy marshal, or any such other officer; or by reason that the plaintiff in an ejection firmæ, or in any personal action or suit (being an infant under the age of one and twenty years) did appear by attorney therein, and the verdict pass for him.

Provided always, that this section, or any thing herein contained, shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murther or treason, nor to any process upon any of them; nor to any writ, bill, action or information upon any popular or penal statute. (21 Jac. 1, ch. 13, §§ 2 and 3, 1623; Kilty Rep., p. 237; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 442, 443; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 448, §§ 38 and 39.)

§ 13–316 [24: 76]. After verdict, judgment shall not be stayed or reversed for default in or lack of form, want of profert, allegation of vi et armis or contra pacem, mistake in name of party, sum of money, time, or for other named formal defects, all of which may be amended.

If any verdict of twelve men shall be given in any action, suit, bill or demand, judgment thereupon shall not be stayed or reversed, for default in form, or lack of form; or for default of alledging the bringing into court of any bond, bill, indenture, or other deed whatsoever mentioned in the declaration, or other pleading; or for default of allegation of bringing into court of letters testamentary, or letters of administration; or by reason of the omission of vi et armis, or contra pacem; or for or by reason of the mistaking of the christian name or surname of the plaintiff or defendant, demandant or tenant, sum or sums of money, day, month or year, by the clerk in any bill, declaration or pleading, where the right name, surname, sum, day, month or year, in any writ, plaint, roll, or record preceding, or in the same roll or record where the mistake is committed, is or are once truly and rightly alledged, whereunto the plaintiff might have demurred and shewn the same for cause; nor for want of the averment of hoc paratus est verificare; or for hoc paratus est verificare per recordum; or for not alledging prout patet per recordum; nor any judgment after verdict, confession by cognovit actionem, or relicta verificatione, shall be reversed for want of misericordia, or capiatur; or by reason that a capiatur is entred for a misericordia, or a misericordia is entred where a capiatur ought to have been entred; nor for that ideo concessum est per curiam is entred for ideo consideratum est per curiam; nor for that the increase of costs after a verdict in an action, or upon a nonsuit in replevin are not entred to be at the request of the party for whom the judgment is given; nor by reason that the costs in any judgment whatsoever are not entred to be by consent of the plaintiff; but that all such omissions, variances, defects, and all other matters of like nature, not being against the right of the matter of the suit, nor whereby the issue or trial are altered, shall be amended by the justices or other judges of the courts where such judgments are or shall be given, or whereunto the record is or shall be removed by writ of error. (16 and 17 Car. 2, ch. 8, § 1 (1664); Kilty Rep., p. 239; Alex. Br. Stat., pp. 484 and 485; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 287, § 5.)

§ 13–317 [24: 77]. Section 13–316 shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or to process upon them, penal statutes, other than subsidies of tonnage, writs of error by executors or administrators, actions popular, penal law or statute, information or appeal.

Provided always that section 13–316 or anything therein contained, shall not extend to any indictment or presentment of felony, murder, treason, or other matter, nor to any process upon any of them; nor to any writ, bill, action, or information upon any penal statute, other than concerning customs and subsidies of tonnage and poundage, nor to any writ of error to be brought by any executor or administrator; nor unto any action popular, nor unto any other action which is, or hereafter shall be brought upon any penal law or statutes. (16 and 17 Car. 2, ch. 8, §§ 2 and 5 (1664); Kilty Rep., p. 239; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 485; Comp. Stat., D. C., pp. 288 and 289, §§ 6 and 10.)

§ 13–318 [24: 78]. Statutes of jeofails extend to judgments by confession, nihil dicit and non sum informatus.

All statutes of jeofails in this chapter shall extend to judgments entred upon confession, nihil dicit, or non sum informatus, in any court of record; and no such judgment shall be reversed, nor any judgment upon any writ of enquiry of damages executed thereon be staid or reversed for or by reason of any imperfection, omission, defect, matter or thing whatsoever, which would have been aided and cured by any of the said statutes of jeofails in case a verdict of twelve men had been given in the said action or suit. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 2 (1705); Kilty Rep., p. 245; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 660; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 449, § 42.)

§ 13–319 [24: 79]. Criminal and penal matters.

Nothing contained in section 13–212 and section 13–318 shall extend to any writ, declaration or suit of appeal of felony or murder, or to any indictment or presentment of treason, felony or murder, or other matter, or to any process upon any of them, or to any writ, bill, action, or information upon any penal statute. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 7, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 246; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 660.)

§ 13–320 [24: 80]. Mandamus, quo warranto, and proceedings thereon.

All the statutes of jeofayles contained in this chapter, shall extend to all writs of mandamus and informations, in nature of quo warranto, and proceedings thereon, for any the matters in said statutes mentioned. (9 Ann, ch. 20, § 7, 1710; Kilty Rep., p. 248; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 695; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 366, § 5.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Writs of mandamus are abolished; same relief to be obtained by appropriate action or motion, see Rule 81 (b).

Chapter 4.—PARTIES

Sec.

13–401. One action and judgment against all or any defendants jointly or severally or jointly and severally obligated—Unnecessary separate actions—Motion to consolidate.

§ 13–401 [24: 251]. One action and judgment against all or any defendants jointly or severally or jointly and severally obligated—Unnecessary separate actions—Motion to consolidate.

Where money is payable by two or more persons jointly or severally or jointly and severally upon the same obligation or instrument, one action may be sustained and judgment recovered against all or any of the parties by whom the money is payable, at the option of the plaintiff; but if separate actions be brought unnecessarily against the several parties to such contract, the said actions may on motion be consolidated, and the plaintiff shall be allowed the costs of one (1) action only. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1211.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

When two persons are joined as defendants upon contract, but the proof shows liability of one only, a judgment may be taken against the one liable. Presbrey v. Thomas (1 App. D. C. 171).

When two joint contractors were joined in the same action, the entry of judgment against one does not bar the action against the other. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

Maker and endorsers of a promissory note may properly be joined, by the holder, as defendants, and under R. S., D. C., § 827 relating to suits against joint obligors, separate judgments may be rendered against them. Young v. Warner (6 App. D. C. 433).

When contract is made with several persons, whether it is under seal or not, if their legal interest is joint, they must, if living, all join in an action on the contract, and if all have not joined the judgment will be arrested. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

In a suit against all the joint obligors on a joint and several bond, after judgment has been taken against one by confession, the suit may be continued against the others and there can be no difference between taking judgment by confession and taking judgment by default. Bladgen v. United States ex rel. Preinkert (18 App. D. C. 370).

CONSOLIDATION

Consolidation of two actions for trial does not combine them into one cause of action or effect a true consolidation where one judgment would be decisive against all parties to both actions. Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

JUDGMENT AGAINST LESS THAN ALL PARTIES

In a suit against the principal and two sureties on a bond the action was discontinued as to one of the sureties. On appeal from an order overruling a motion in arrest of judgment "because the action is against but two of three joint and several obligors," and "because the action has been discontinued against one of the three joint and several obligors," and "because though one of the three joint and several obligors has died since the institution of this suit plaintiffs have failed to make his personal representative a party defendant," the court ruled: "That the action was discontinued as to Horton, who it seems had become insolvent, presents no ground for arresting the judgment. Section 1211 of the code (this section) simply provides that one action may be sustained and judgment recovered against all or any joint and several obligors. It does not require that this shall be done." Wilkinson v. McKimmie (36 App. D. C. 336, affd. 229 U. S. 590, 57 L. Ed. 1342, 33 Sup. Ct. 879).

PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

In an action in Municipal Court of District of Columbia, joinder of principal and agent where the principal's liability is predicated solely upon agency is proper. Bailey v. Zlotnick, 1942 (133 F. 2d 35, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 84).

USE PLAINTIFF

Where suit was commenced by plaintiff in his individual name and thereafter plaintiff added name of insurance company as a use plaintiff on suggestion of trial judge and without objection by defendant, and it appeared on appeal that insurance company was not a necessary party to the action but that defendant had not been harmed by addition of such party, judgment would be modified by striking name of insurance company. Quinn v. Milner, to Use of Hartford Fire Ins. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 259).

TITLE 14.—PROOF

Chap.		Sec.
1.	Evidence in general	14–101
2.	Depositions	14–201
3.	Competency of witnesses	14–301
4.	Documentary evidence	14–401
5.	Absence for seven years	14–501

Chapter 1.—EVIDENCE IN GENERAL

Sec.
14–101. All evidence to be under oath or affirmation—Affirmation the equivalent of an oath.
14–102. Perjury—Defined.
14–103. Testimony in equity causes—Commissioners, examiners—Notice—Depositions—Perpetuam rei memoriam.
14–104. Impeachment of own witness—Surprise.

§ 14–101 [9: 1]. All evidence to be under oath or affirmation—Affirmation the equivalent of an oath.

All evidence shall be given under oath according to the forms of the common law, except that where a witness has conscientious scruples against taking an oath, he may, in lieu thereof, solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm; and wherever herein any application, statement, or declaration is required to be supported or verified by an oath it is to be understood that such affirmation is the equivalent of an oath. NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIBILITY

As a general rule any evidence which is logically probative of some fact in issue is relevant and prima facie admissible unless it conflicts with the same settled exclusionary rule. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

CUSTOM AND USAGE

A custom, to be binding, must be shown to be the general usage of the trade and must be definite, uniform, well-known and established by clear and satisfactory evidence. Lucas v. Auto City Parking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 557).

A custom to be binding must be shown to be the general usage of the trade and must be definite, uniform, well-known and established by clear and satisfactory evidence. Goldberg v. Stouck (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 785).

EVIDENCE

To be entitled to recover commisson, broker must have produced a purchaser who was ready, able and willing to buy on the terms authorized by the principal. Purchaser's signature on contract is some evidence of willingness to proceed but not that he was financially able or ready to do so. Long v. Murchison (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 370).

No error was committed by excluding a letter which contained no recitals of fact but merely claimed that defendant had sold the shop without his knowledge and demanded his half of the proceeds. Boyle v. Smith (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 428).

EXAMINATION OF WITNESS

It was not prejudicial error for a police officer, in testifying, to state "It looks like he had been caught again," on the ground that this testimony referred to his prior record, since it did not refer to a prior conviction. Davenport v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 67 A. 2d 522).

EXPERT TESTIMONY

Rarely is expert testimony as to value binding on the trier of the facts and it is never binding when inconsistent with other evidence. Urciolo v. Sachs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 308).

It was error to exclude testimony of police officers who observed defendant that, in their opinion, defendant was under influence of intoxicating liquor, on ground that an expert may not testify to his conclusion regarding facts from which the jury are capable of drawing their own conclusions. Even though one is not an expert, he may give his opinion based on personal observation as to whether a person is intoxicated. Woolard v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 640).

HEARSAY

Statements made by the operator of house of ill fame in appellant's presence while they were both under arrest to the effect that appellant was visiting her and that she was operating a house of ill fame, were hearsay. But since such statements were received without objection, the trial judge had a right to consider them along with defendant's silence. Wilson v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 214).

HYPOTHETICAL QUESTIONS

Permitting witness to answer hypothetical question which had no basis in the evidence which preceded it was improper. Henkel v. Varner, 1944 (138 F. 2d 934, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 197).

Practice of eliciting expert testimony by having experts listen to other witnesses and give an opinion based upon such evidence is not generally approved though it is harmless when basic testimony is not voluminous nor complicated; and hypothetical questions containing salient points of previous witnesses' testimony are generally preferred to avoid confusion. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

INSTRUCTIONS

It was error for Trial Court in its charge to the jury to state "that the jury had a duty to probe the minds of the parties as to the meaning of a supplemental written contract" where the court made no amplification or explanation of this instruction. Syndicated Constr. Corporation v. Ross (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 368). Appeal dismissed (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 899).

IRRELEVANCY

Inclusion of an "incidental book" maintained at police precinct to prove District had notice of a depression in District road was harmless error where there was considerable other evidence covering the same subject and report would have no relevancy without testimony connecting the depression with the accident. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 551).

MARKET VALUE

In an action for breach of contract to convey real property, evidence of market value is what a willing buyer would pay in cash to a willing seller and speculative value is not market value. Urciolo v. Sachs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 308).

In an action for breach of contract to convey real property, trial court is not compelled to accept speculative transactions as evidencing true market value. Urciolo v. Sachs (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 308).

OATHS

Where witness testified that "he did not believe in the God of the Bible, nor in rewards or punishments after death, but that he did recognize a right and duty of society to force member to speak the truth," his evidence was not inadmissible where he was permitted to testify on affirmation. Gillars v. U. S. (C. A. D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 962, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

PAROL EVIDENCE

Where an owner signed a listing agreement with broker authorizing sale on specified terms, if and when a purchaser was found, it was not error for trial court to permit the owner to testify that she had signed on the assurance that time would be extended if she had no place to go. Such testimony does not vary a written contract by parol testimony and was not offered to contradict any written instrument, but only to show misrepresentation. Ellis v. Morgan (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 65 A. 2d 797).

The existence of a separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a written contract is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved by parol, if under the circumstances it may properly be inferred that the party did not intend the writing to be a complete and final statement of the whole transaction. Jay's Restaurant v. Jack Stone Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 799).

PAROL EVIDENCE RULE

In an action for breach of contract, it was error for Trial Court to permit appellee to testify that he signed a supplemental contract with the understanding that it related only to house and lot and did not include the wall or fence, where there was no explanation as to how this "understanding" was arrived at and it represented merely the mental process of the witness. Syndicated Const. Corporation v. Ross (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 368). Appeal dismissed (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 73 A. 2d 899).

RES GESTAE

Declaration made anywhere from a few moments to five or ten minutes after an accident neither met test of spontaneity nor closeness of time so as to be considered part of the res gestae. Bale v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 551).

REVERSIBLE ERROR, EXCLUSION

Exclusion of testimony of a witness who did not hear the entire conversation was reversible error where it appeared that the testimony, according to the proffer of proof, went to the heart of the controversy. Hence, the witness should have been permitted to testify as to how much of the conversation he heard when subjected to cross-examination. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

SHOP BOOK RULE

It was reversible error to exclude entries made in the accounts receivable ledger regarding credit transactions of a client to prove that such client was operating as a partnership. Such ledger sheet was admissible under the Federal Shop Book Rule as a record made in the regular course of business. Orndorff v. Cohen (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 794).

WEIGHT OF EVIDENCE

The weight of evidence is a question for the trier of the facts and a finding of fact supported by substantial evidence cannot be set aside on appeal. The weight of such evidence is not necessarily determined by the number of witnesses. Cohen v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 854).

§ 14–102 [9: 2]. Perjury—Defined.

A person swearing, affirming, or declaring, or giving testimony in any form where an oath is authorized by law, is lawfully sworn, and will be guilty of perjury in a case where he would be guilty of said crime if sworn according to the forms of the common law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1354, ch. 854, § 1057.)

§ 14–103 [9: 6]. Testimony in equity causes—Commissions, examiners—Notice—Depositions—Perpetuam rei memoriam.

In equity causes in the District the testimony of the witnesses may be taken in the manner provided by the rules of the Supreme Court of the United States for practice in equity, and of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia not inconsistent therewith: Provided, The court may, in its discretion, for proper cause shown, order the testimony to be taken orally in its presence or under a commission, according to the usages of chancery, or before examiners, upon any reasonable notice as directed in section 14–203, as the court may order and direct; and according to the same usages the court may, upon application by any party interested, direct depositions to be taken in perpetuam rei memoriam, in relation to matters that may be cognizable in the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1356, ch. 854, § 1061.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Forms of actions abolished, see Rule 2.

NOTE TO DECISION

REVIEW OF BOARD OF TAX APPEALS DECISION

Reviewing a decision of the Board of Tax Appeals, whose rules of practice and procedure are in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in courts of equity of the District of Columbia, court applied Supreme Court Equity Rule 46 (U. S. C., title 28, § 723). Garden City Feeder Co. v. Com. Int. Rev. ((C. C. A. 8), 75 Fed. (2d) 804).

§ 14–104 [9: 21]. Impeachment of own witness—Surprise.

Whenever the court shall be satisfied that the party producing a witness has been taken by surprise by the testimony of such witness, such party may, in the discretion of the court, be allowed to prove, for the purpose only of affecting the credibility of the witness, that the witness has made to such party or to his attorney statements substantially variant from his sworn testimony about material facts in the cause; but before such proof can be given the circumstances of the supposed statement sufficient to designate the particular occasion must be mentioned to the witness, and he must be asked whether or not he made such statements and if so allowed to explain them. (June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329, § 1073a.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION OF COURT

Granting Government permission to cross-examine witnesses as hostile was not an abuse of discretion, where witness was at time of transactions giving rise to prosecution a business associate of defendant. Fields v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1947, 164 F. 2d 97, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 355, 332 U. S. 851, 92 L. Ed. 421, rehearing denied 68 S. Ct. 607, 333 U. S. 893, 92 L. Ed. 1123).

HARMLESS OR PREJUDICIAL ERROR

In prosecution for conducting rooming house without a license where prosecution expected witness to testify that he paid rent and was surprised by witness' testimony that he paid no rent, but there was no other testimony by anyone that such witness paid rent, permitting proof of prior inconsistent statement of witness was prejudicial error. Byrd v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 46).

IMPEACHMENT OF GOVERNMENT WITNESS

Government may impeach accomplice of accused, upon surprise, by questioning him concerning a statement made and now repudiated. Smith v. United States (57 App. D. C. 71, 17 Fed. (2d) 223); Johnson v. Newton (58 App. D. C. 118, 25 Fed. (2d) 542).

Impeaching Government's own witness by prior written statements, within discretion of court. Bedell v. United States (63 App. D. C. 31, 68 Fed. (2d) 776).

INSTRUCTIONS

Prior inconsistent statements of witness admitted for impeachment purposes are not received as affirmative proof of fact for any other purpose, and in jury cases the jury should be so instructed. Byrd v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 43 A. 2d 46).

PREJUDICE AS NECESSARY

Prior inconsistent statements by witness are received only for impeachment purposes and are allowed for the purpose of counteracting actual hostile testimony with which the party has been surprised, and may not be received when the witness' testimony is not prejudicial to the party's case. Byrd v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 46).

To justify impeachment by proof of prior inconsistent statements, it must appear that the witness testified to facts which tended to destroy or injure the party's case or contradicted evidence which he was reasonably relied on to corroborate. Byrd v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 46).

Chapter 2.—DEPOSITIONS

Sec.
14–201. Depositions de bene esse—Taking—Conditions—Procedure—Resident and nonresident witnesses.
14–202. Attendance of witness—Tender of fee.
14–203. Commission to take depositions—Admissibility.
14–204. Commissions from courts out of the District.

§ 14–201 [9: 3]. Depositions de bene esse—Taking—Conditions—Procedure—Resident and nonresident witnesses.

The testimony of any witness may be taken in any civil cause depending in any court of the District of Columbia, whether the cause be at issue or not, by deposition de bene esse, under any of the following conditions:

First. Where the witness lives beyond the District of Columbia.

Second. Where the witness is likely to go out of the United States or beyond the District and not return in time for the trial.

Third. Where the witness is infirm or aged, or for any other reason the party desiring his testimony fear he may not be able to secure the same at the time of trial, whether said witness resides within the District or not.

Fourth. If during the trial any witness is unable, by reason of sickness or other cause, to attend the trial, the deposition of such witness may, in the discretion of the court, be taken and read at the trial.

Any such deposition may be taken before any judge of any court of the United States; before any commissioner or clerk of any court of the United States, or any examiner in chancery of any court of the United States; before any chancellor, justice, or judge or clerk of any court of any state or territory or other place under the sovereignty of the United States, or any notary public or justice of the peace within any place under the sovereignty of the United States: Provided, That no such person shall be eligible to take such deposition who is counsel or attorney for any party to the cause or who is in any wise interested in the event of the cause.

Before proceeding to take the deposition reasonable written notice of the time, place, names, and addresses of the witnesses shall be given by the party or his attorney proposing to take the deposition to the attorney of record, if there be one, of the adverse party, and if not, to the party himself, which notice shall specify the name or names of the witnesses, the time and place of taking the same, and the name and official character of the person before whom the same is to be taken; but it shall not be lawful to require the adverse party to attend the taking of a deposition at more than one place on the same day.

In all cases in rem the person having the agency or possession of the property at the time of seizure shall be deemed the adverse party until a claim shall have been put in, when the claimant and the person having the agency or possession as aforesaid shall both be entitled to the notice.

Summons to any witness to appear and testify shall be issued by the person or officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, and served by the marshal of the United States or his deputy within the place where the witness resides; and the witness may be compelled to appear and testify by the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken in the same manner as witnesses may be compelled to appear and testify in court; and for the purpose of executing the provisions of this section any of the persons authorized to take such depositions are hereby vested with all the power and authority for compelling the attendance of the witness and the giving of his testimony which by law or usage are vested in any of the judges of the courts of the United States, and shall be entitled, upon summary application, to the aid of the courts of the United States to compel such attendance and giving of testimony.

Every person deposing as herein provided shall first swear or solemnly and truly affirm to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth in answer to such questions as are propounded to him by the parties or their counsel; and the adverse party or his counsel shall have the right to cross-examine such witness.

The questions propounded to the witness and the answers of the witness thereto shall be taken down in writing; and the same may be taken down stenographically by the officer taking the deposition or a competent and disinterested stenographer engaged by him, and afterwards transcribed into writing or typewriting, and, in the presence of the officer taking the deposition, read over to the witness, and signed by him. If the witness be unable to write or refuse to sign the deposition, the officer taking the same shall certify the fact and the reason, if any, assigned by the witness.

The deposition of the witness or witnesses, together with the certificate of the officer taking the same, shall be by said officer sealed up and indorsed with the title of the cause in which the deposition is taken, and the cost of taking the same and by whom paid, and by him transmitted to the court in the District of Columbia in which the cause is pending, and by him deposited, postage prepaid, in the United States mail.

If, at the time of trial, the witness can be produced to testify in open court the deposition shall not be read in evidence; but if the attendance of the witness can not be produced then the said deposition shall be admissible in evidence, subject to such objections to the questions and answers as were noted at the time of taking the deposition, or within ten days after the return thereof, and would be valid were the witness personally present in court.

In any case where the interests of justice may require the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may grant a dedimus potestatem to take depositions according to common usage, and may, according to the usages of chancery, direct depositions to be taken in perpetuam rei memoriam if they relate to any matters that might be cognizable in any court of the United States.

When the testimony of any witness residing in any place not within the sovereignty of the United States is desired in any cause pending in any court of the District of Columbia, the same may be taken upon interrogatories and cross-interrogatories filed in said court, and transmitted by said court under letters rogatory, addressed to some court of record in the foreign state in which said witness is then to be found. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1354, ch. 854, § 1058; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. In the 1901 act the second and third paragraphs provided as follows:

"First. Where the witness lives at a greater distance than 100 miles from the place of trial.

"Second. Where the witness is likely to go out of the United States or out of the District to a place more than 100 miles from the place of trial and not return in time for the trial."

In the seventh paragraph the provision as to notice was as follows: "Which notice shall be at least twenty days more than the time necessary to reach the place of taking such deposition, and shall specify the name or names of the witnesses, the time and place of taking the same, and the name and official character of the person before whom the same is to be taken; but it shall not be lawful to require the adverse party to attend the taking of a deposition at more than one place on the same day."

The following ninth paragraph of the 1901 act was omitted by the 1902 amendment: "When by reason of absence of the party or his attorney of record, or other cause, the giving of the notice herein required shall be impossible or impracticable, and there shall be urgent necessity for taking such deposition, the notice shall be given in such manner as a justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia shall direct."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

It would seem that this section is largely superseded since Rule 26 provides that "Depositions shall be taken only in accordance with these rules."

See Rules 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, and 45.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The code provisions relative to depositions, etc., supersede all former legislation on the subject. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

DEPOSITIONS

Deposition may be offered in evidence by adverse party. New Arcade Co. v. Owens (49 App. D. C. 65, 258 Fed. 965).

Counsel had the right to read as a part of his own case so much of the deposition as he desired, which was not clearly fragmentary and misleading. Bernhardt v. City & S. R. Co. (49 App. D. C. 265, 263 Fed. 1009).

Deposition taken in New York City, pursuant to notice, wherein, witness testified that he lived in that city, is admissible without proof that witness was unavailable at time of trial. "In such a case the law presumes that the witnesses continued to live in that city and were there at the time of the trial." Campbell v. Willis (53 App. D. C. 296, 290 Fed. 271).

GENERAL INTERROGATORIES

General interrogatories which do not inform the opposing party of the answer that might be expected are improper, and "should be called attention to by motion to exclude or suppress the answer, in advance of the trial." Walker v. Warner (31 App. D. C. 76). See also Anacostia & P. R. R. Co. v. Klein (8 App. D. C. 75); Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Assn. v. Dudley (15 App. D. C. 472).

OBJECTIONS

Objections to questions and answers must be noted at the time of taking of deposition or within 10 days after the return thereof, and an objection first made when the deposition is read to the jury comes too late. Macafee v. Higgins (31 App. D. C. 355). See also Welch v. Lynch (30 App. D. C. 122).

WITNESSES IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Testimony of witness in foreign country must be taken on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, under letters rogatory. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

WHO ARE WITNESSES

Word "witnesses" is used in its ordinary sense, and includes all persons whose declarations under oath are received for any legal purpose, and embraces deponents in affidavits. The recorder is a representative of the Civil Service Commission, duly authorized by it to administer oaths of witnesses, and is therefore a person authorized by the laws of the United States to administer oaths. United States v. Crandol ((D. C.-Va.), 233 Fed. 331).

§ 14–202 [9: 4]. Attendance of witness—Tender of fee.

No witness shall be required, under the provisions of section 14–201, to attend at any place out of the county where he resides, nor more than forty miles from the place of his residence, to give his deposition; nor shall any witness be deemed guilty of contempt for disobeying any subpœna directed to him by virtue of the said section, unless his fee for going to, returning from, and one day's attendance at the place of examination are paid or tendered to him at the time of the service of the subpœna. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1356, ch. 854, § 1059.)

§ 14–203 [9: 5]. Commission to take depositions—Admissibility.

On motion made in any common-law action in the District, by a party thereto, the court may order a commission to issue to such person or persons as the court may name to take the deposition of any witness residing or being out of the District orally or on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, to be filed and accompany such commission, as may be provided by the rules of the court, and said commission shall be executed, returned, and published according to the practice in courts of equity: Provided, That such depositions shall not be admitted at the trial of the action if, at the time, the witness be present in the District and his attendance can be obtained by the process of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1356, ch. 854, § 1060; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 act inserted the provision that depositions could be taken orally as well as on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories.

CROSS REFERENCE

See note under § 14–201. Hutchins v. Hutchins (41 App. D. C. 367).

§ 14–204 [9:7]. Commissions from courts out of the District.

When a commission is issued or notice given to take the testimony of any witness found within the District of Columbia, to be used in an action pending in any court of a State, Territory or Possession or place under the jurisdiction of the United States, such testimony may be taken by leave of a judge of the United States District Court in like manner and with like effect as other depositions are taken in United States District Courts. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1062; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 992, ch. 646, § 39; May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 109, ch. 139, § 139.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of May 24, 1949, reenacted and amended the section to its present form. Said section had formerly read: "When a commission is issued by any court of the United States or of any state or territory or of any place under the jurisdiction of the United States, for taking the testimony of witnesses within the District of Columbia, the same proceedings shall be had in relation thereto as are directed by sections 646 and 647 of title 28 of the Code of the Laws of the United States."

Chapter 3.—COMPETENCY OF WITNESSES

Sec.

14–301. Party to cause and interested party may testify.
14–302. Testimony of surviving party.
14–303. Testimony of deceased or insane party.
14–304. Partners as witnesses.
14–305. Conviction of crime not to disqualify witness—Conviction may be shown—How proved.
14–306. Husband and wife competent but not compellable witnesses.
14–307. Confidential communications between husband and wife.
14–308. Testimony of physicians—Inapplicable in criminal cases.
14–309. Testimony of assessor as expert witness in condemnation proceedings.

§ 14–301 [9:8]. Party to cause and interested party may testify.

Except as herein elsewhere provided, no person shall be incompetent to testify in any civil action or proceeding by reason of his being a party thereto or interested in the result thereof; but, if otherwise competent to testify, he shall be competent to give evidence on his own behalf and competent and compellable to give evidence on behalf of any other party to such action or proceeding. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1063.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Subpoena to compel attendance, see Rule 45.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Acts of Congress relating to the admission of parties to testify in the courts of the United States apply to the courts of the District of Columbia. Page v. Burnstine (102 U. S. 664, 26 L. Ed. 268).

CHILDREN, COMPETENCY OF

The competency of a child as a witness depends upon capacity and intelligence of the child, his appreciation of difference between truth and falsehood, as well as of his duty to tell the truth. Posey v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 300).

In order to be competent as a witness, a child should have a just appreciation of difference between right and wrong. Posey v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 41 A. 2d 300).

The testimony of an infant may be excluded in toto on grounds of incompetency, but once the child is allowed to testify, the uncertainty of his evidence goes only to its weight and does not disqualify it. Fowel v. Wood (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 636).

CONFIDENTIAL COMMUNICATIONS OF THIRD PERSONS

Where widow was neither a party nor interested in the suit, she was incompetent to testify to private conversations between her and her husband in his lifetime. Hopkins v. Grimshaw (165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739, 17 Sup. Ct. 401).

In suit for custody of child, letters of the child's father's second wife, written to him before marriage, were held material, relevant, and competent, and the father was a competent witness to testify concerning them. Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

Whether streetcar motorman's report of accident was a privileged communication which streetcar company could not be compelled to produce in passenger's action against it for injuries could not be determined by court without knowledge of circumstances under which report was made, reason and purpose for which it was made, and to whom it was made. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

That motorman's report to streetcar company of accident was in possession of streetcar company's counsel did not automatically make report a "privileged communication" which company could not be required to produce in passenger's action against it for injuries. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

QUALIFYING AS AN EXPERT

Owner of household goods who had previously operated rooming house and obviously was an experienced housewife was competent without qualifying as an expert to testify as to value of such items, and weight of testimony was for trial court. Walsh v. Schafer (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 716).

§ 14–302 [9:9]. Testimony of surviving party.

In any civil action against a person who, from any cause, is legally incapable of testifying, or against the committee, trustee, executor, administrator, heir, legatee, devisee, assignee, or other representative of a deceased person or of the person so incapable of testifying, no judgment or decree shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff founded on the uncorroborated testimony of the plaintiff or of the agent, servant, or employee of the plaintiff as to any transaction with or action, declaration or admission of the deceased or incapable person; and in any such action, if the plaintiff or any agent, servant, or employee of the plaintiff testifies as to any transaction with or action, declaration, or admission of the deceased or incapable person, no entry, memorandum, or declaration, oral or written, by the deceased or incapable person, made while he was capable and upon his personal knowledge, shall be excluded as hearsay. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1064; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153; June 24, 1948, 62 Stat. 579, ch. 609.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 amendment deleted the words "or unless called to testify thereto by the court" from the end of the section.

This section was entirely rewritten by Act June 24, 1948.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

"We think the statute should not be extended to prevent the living party from testifying to the truth or falsity of mere extraneous facts, which have been testified to by other witnesses, not involving declarations or admissions by the deceased party." Lockwood v. Rucker (34 App. D. C. 376).

In action by administrator against decedent's debtor, debtor having been called as a witness by administrator may testify as to transaction, for herself, or as to declarations by the intestate. Lemon v. Martin (55 App. D. C. 186, 3 Fed. (2d) 710).

To some effect as first paragraph of original annotation, see Cafritz v. Corporation Audit Co. (D. C., D. C. 1945, 60 F. Supp. 627).

This section seeks to protect only persons legally representing deceased against claims which may be fraudulent and does not seek to prevent anyone from showing who does or does not legally represent deceased. Duckett v. Duckett, 1943 (134 F. 2d 527, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 303).

Admissions of Decedents

Plaintiff can not testify as to statements made by defendant's testator to a third person, in the presence of the witness. The statute "clearly forbids the surviving party to testify to any admission of the deceased made with respect to a transaction had with him." McCurley v. National Sav. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 10, 258 Fed. 154), citing Dawson v. Waggaman (23 App. D. C. 428); Patten v. Glover (1 App. D. C. 466, affd. 165 U. S. 394, 41 L. Ed. 760, 17 Sup. Ct. 411); Manogue v. Herrell (13 App. D. C. 455). See also Parish v. McGowan (39 App. D. C. 184, revd. on other grounds 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. Ed. 955, 35 Sup. Ct. 543).

Corporation Controlled by Deceased

Testimony allegedly violating "surviving party" rule was not subject to objection by corporations controlled by deceased participant. Cafritz v. Corporation Audit Co. (D. C., D. C. 1945, 60 F. Supp. 627).

Corporate Transactions

The surviving witness rule under this section does not apply where transactions are between an individual and a corporation. Corporation Audit Co. v. Cafritz (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 839).

Where plaintiff, preparing for an extended vacation, signed and left with general manager of an audit company checks payable to plaintiff's corporations, in action against audit company and estate of general manager for proceeds of checks, this section did not exclude plaintiff's testimony against audit company on account of general manager's death, but it did not permit plaintiff's testimony against manager's estate by reason of survivorship of corporation. Corporation Audit Co. v. Cafritz (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 839).

Corroboration

Section 14–302 now enables the surviving party to testify but limits the effect of his testimony. Upon the evidence presented, appellee's testimony was sufficiently corroborated. Rosinski v. Whiteford (C. A. D. C. 1950, 184 F. 2d 700).

Cross Examination

Testimony brought out on cross-examination after calling of witness by adversary held competent. Payne v. Payne (56 App. D. C. 167, 11 Fed. (2d) 464).

Evidence

Where, in action arising from a collision between a truck of the plaintiff and defendant's taxicab, testimony of the appellant that relationship between the defendant and the driver of her taxicab was one of bailment and not one of master and servant should have been admitted because the issue was fundamental to the case. Section 14–302, which seeks to protect only persons who legally represent the deceased against claims which may be fraudulent under which the evidence was excluded is clearly inapplicable here since it is clear that defendant was not such a person. Nash v. Holzbeierlein (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 403).

Insurance, Issues Regarding

This section providing that, if one of original parties to transaction or contract has died, the other party thereto shall not be allowed to testify to any declaration of deceased in suit against personal representative of deceased, did not require exclusion of beneficiary's account of her husband's conversation with finance office clerk, to show intent to change beneficiary of National Service Life policy, particularly because change of beneficiary was not a "transaction" between insured and beneficiary but between him and his insurer. Rosenschein v. Citron (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 885).

Joint Maker of Note

Quaere: Whether a joint maker of a note can testify as a witness for plaintiff as to an agreement with the deceased comaker, stopping the statute of limitations, where the suit was originally brought against the witness and the representatives of the decedent, and prosecuted only against decedent. White v. Connecticut Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460).

Objection Not Raised at Trial

Although the testimony was not objected to, Court of Appeals did not consider objection waived and disregarded testimony on appeal; dissenting opinion states this rule to be different from that in all other jurisdictions. Faunce v. Woods (55 App. D. C. 330, 5 Fed. (2d) 753, 40 A. L. R. 208).

Offer of Proof

In action for rent, refusal to permit tenant's wife to testify as to an agreement with landlord's agent respecting acceptance of repairs in lieu of rent, on ground that agent was deceased, did not reveal error where tenant made no offer of proof as to conversation with agent, and was permitted to show all repairs that had been made and landlord's acquiescence in payment of repairs by agent. Shlopak v. Davison (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 126).

Protection Against Fraudulent Claims

This section providing that, if one of original parties to transaction or contract has died, other party thereto shall not be allowed to testify to any declaration of deceased in suit against personal representative of deceased, seeks to protect only persons legally representing deceased against claims which may be fraudulent. Rosenschein v. Citron (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 885).

Stockholders or Officers of Corporation

A stockholder, officer and director of a corporation is not a "party" with reference to a contract between the corporation and decedent, and his testimony is not excluded. Cush v. Allen (56 App. D. C. 327, 13 Fed. (2d) 299, 54 A. L. R. 261).

In suit against corporation, seeking to show liability of corporation on contract of sale negotiated by deceased promoter, "Section 1064 (this section) affords no proper basis for exclusion of the evidence." Lucas v. Hamilton Realty Corp. (70 App. D. C. 277, 105 Fed. (2d) 800).

Surviving Party

Neither a corporation nor its agent can be a surviving "party" to a transaction within meaning of this section. Corporation Audit Co. v. Cafritz (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 839).

Widows

Testimony of widow as to work done in connection with business owned jointly with her husband is not testimony

"to a transaction or contract" with the deceased. Ellis v. Ellis (51 App. D. C. 383, 280 Fed. 457), citing Tuohy v. Trail (19 App. D. C. 79).

WILLS, ISSUES REGARDING

The persons named as executors and legatees in an alleged will cannot, in order to probate the will, be permitted to utilize this section. Duckett v. Duckett, 1943 (134 F. 2d 527, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 303).

Where probate of will naming testatrix' sister sole beneficiary was opposed on ground of undue influence and want of testamentary capacity, this section did not require exclusion of testimony of testatrix' brother that testatrix had repeatedly agreed or promised in presence of others to leave him her real estate if he remained single and continued to live with her. Duckett v. Duckett, 1943 (134 F. 2d 527, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 303).

WITNESS CALLED BY COURT

It is not the duty of the court to call a party to testify whenever the party requests that it be done, but it should be done only when there is something extreme or special. Ockstadt v. Bowles (34 App. D. C. 58); Janes v. Janes (51 App. D. C. 267, 278 Fed. 576).

When appellant's deposition was regularly taken and he was fully and carefully cross-examined by counsel for appellees, the result was exactly the same as though he had been called to testify by the court. Conkling v. New York Life Ins. & Trust Co. (49 App. D. C. 166, 262 Fed. 620).

§ 14–303 [9: 10]. Testimony of deceased or insane party.

If a party, after having testified at a time when he was competent to do so, shall die or become insane or otherwise incapable of testifying, his testimony may be given in evidence in any trial or hearing in relation to the same subject-matter between the same parties or their legal representatives, as the case may be; and in such case the opposite party may testify in opposition thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1065; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "a subsequent trial" and inserted in lieu thereof the words "any trial or hearing."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CORONER'S INQUEST

A coroner's inquest is not an action or judicial proceeding between the same parties or their legal representatives within the meaning of this section. Capital Trac. Co. v. King (44 App. D. C. 315).

§ 14–304 [9: 11]. Partners as witnesses.

Where any of the original parties to a contract or transaction which is the subject of investigation are partners or other joint contractors, or jointly entitled or liable, and some of them have died or otherwise become incapable of testifying, any others with whom the contract or transaction was personally made or had, or in whose presence or with whose privity it was made or had, or admissions in relation to the same were made, shall not, nor shall the adverse party, be incompetent to testify because some of the parties or joint contractors, or those jointly entitled or liable, have died or otherwise become incapable of testifying. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1066.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CORPORATIONS CONTROLLED BY DECEASED

Testimony allegedly violating "surviving party" rule was not subject to objection by corporations controlled by deceased participant. Cafritz v. Corporation Audit Co. (D. C., D. C. 1945, 60 F. Supp. 627).

In action for accounting against corporations and administratrix of individual who controlled them, testimony concerning transaction between plaintiff and individual was admissible under this section applicable where original parties to transaction are jointly liable and some of them have died, especially where such testimony related to extraneous facts not involving declarations or admissions, and evidence established that individual actively participated in corporation's wrong. Cafritz v. Corporation Audit Co. (D. C., D. C. 1945, 60 F. Supp. 627).

SURVIVING PARTY

Neither a corporation nor its agent can be a surviving "party" to a transaction within meaning of this section. Corporation Audit Co. v. Cafritz (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 839).

§ 14–305 [9: 12]. Conviction of crime not to disqualify witness—Conviction may be shown—How proved.

No person shall be incompetent to testify, in either civil or criminal proceedings, by reason of his having been convicted of crime, but such fact may be given in evidence to affect his credit as a witness, either upon the cross-examination of the witness or by evidence aliunde; and the party cross-examining him shall not be concluded by his answers as to such matters. In order to prove such conviction of crime it shall not be necessary to produce the whole record of the proceedings containing such conviction, but the certificate, under seal, of the clerk of the court wherein such proceedings were had, stating the fact of the conviction and for what cause, shall be sufficient. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1357, ch. 854, § 1067; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "other than perjury" following the word "crime" in the first sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONVICTION

The remoteness of the conviction does not affect its admissibility. Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008).

According to this section, "the certificate is necessary only in order to prove previous convictions where the defendant being examined denies the convictions." Gordon v. United States (53 App. D. C. 154, 289 Fed. 552).

To constitute "conviction" under this section there must be plea or verdict of guilty, as well as judgment and sentence. Crawford v. United States (59 App. D. C. 356, 41 Fed. (2d) 979).

Instructions with reference to the effect of evidence of prior convictions on credibility. Mostyn v. United States (62 App. D. C. 22, 64 Fed. (2d) 145).

To same effect as third paragraph of original annotation, see Thomas v. U. S., 1941 (121 F. 2d 905, 74 App. D. C. 167).

Charge that government asked defendant concerning his conviction of attempted murder without disclosing that he had been "pardoned" revealed no impropriety on part of prosecutor, in absence of showing that prosecution was aware of the "pardon" or indication of its existence until after sentence, particularly where paper produced was not a pardon but a document purporting to remove political disabilities arising out of the conviction. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 700).

CRIMES, FELONIES, AND MISDEMEANORS

The word "crime" includes both felonies and misdemeanors. Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008).

The word "crime," as used in statute, includes both felonies and misdemeanors, this case involving a simple assault. Bostic v. United States (68 App. D. C. 167, 94 Fed. (2d) 636).

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Accused may be cross-examined respecting previous arrest and peace bond to refresh his memory concerning threats to deceased. Hawkins v. United States (59 App. D. C. 249, 39 Fed. (2d) 294).

In prosecution for purchase of morphine sulphate not in nor from original stamped packages, permitting district attorney to draw from accused on cross-examination admissions of his prior convictions on two occasions of grand larceny was not error. Goode v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 377, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 67).

It is wholly illogical and unfair to permit a defendant to be interrogated upon a previous conviction from which an appeal is pending. The pendency of an appeal prevents the prosecution from proving a previous conviction for impeachment purposes, but though error was committed, it was not so prejudicial as to require reversal. Campbell v. United States (C. A. D. C. 1949, 176 F. 2d 45).

DENIAL BY WITNESS

Since defendant denied that he had been formerly convicted and counsel abandoned the matter, defendant was not prejudiced. Clifton v. United States (54 App. D. C. 104, 295 Fed. 925).

If denial of witness was false, counsel for prosecution could have pursued the matter and established the conviction by evidence aliunde, or by production of a certificate by the clerk of the court wherein the conviction was had. Clifton v. United States (54 App. D. C. 104, 295 Fed. 925).

EXAMINATION OF WITNESS

In discussing question of competency of witness previously convicted of crime, court cites Murray v. United States (53 App. D. C. 119, 288 Fed. 1008), and says it held no error to ask defendant, a witness for himself, if he had not been convicted of five misdemeanors. Scaffidi v. United States ((C. C. A. 1), 37 Fed. (2d) 203).

IMPEACHMENT

Impeachment in civil assault case by showing indictment for forgery is prejudicial. Chebithes v. Price (59 App. D. C. 212, 37 Fed. (2d) 1008).

Violation of ordinance against the sale of half of round trip railroad ticket not crime, to impeach credibility. Clawans v. District of Columbia (61 App. D. C. 298, 62 Fed. (2d) 383).

It is improper for impeachment purposes, to show accusation, arrest or indictment. Sanford v. United States (69 App. D. C. 44, 98 Fed. (2d) 325).

When an accused offers himself as a witness, his credibility may be impeached as in the case of any other witness, and previous convictions may be shown to that end. Goode v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 377, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 67).

Defendant's admission of three prior convictions was admissible for purpose of affecting his credibility as a witness. Slaughter v. U. S. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 700).

SCOPE OF INQUIRY

Whether the witness is or is not a defendant, if the opposing party introduces his previous conviction the witness should be allowed either to extenuate his guilt or to assert his innocence of the previous charges. U. S. v. Boyer (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202).

In prosecution for obtaining money by false pretenses, where government brought out on cross-examination that defendant had been previously convicted of bad check charges and of embezzlement, and defendant was permitted to explain all bad check convictions, refusal to permit defendant to explain the conviction of embezzlement, although technically wrong, did not justify a reversal. U. S. v. Boyer (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202).

Where evidence of previous conviction of a defendant or other witness is offered for impeachment, inquiry into the previous crime should stop with any reasonably brief protestations on behalf of a defendant or witness which he may wish to make, and how far the inquiry should go is a matter in which the trial judge should be given a wide discretion. U. S. v. Boyer (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 595, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 202).

§ 14–306 [9: 13]. Husband and wife competent but not compellable witnesses.

In both civil and criminal proceedings, husband and wife shall be competent but not compellable to testify for or against each other. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1068.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section is affected by § 22–904, making competent testimony as to confidential communications between husbands and wives in criminal prosecutions for non-support.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section must be taken "as qualified by § 964 of the 1901 Code (§ 16–420), which provides a special rule of evidence for divorce cases." Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160). See also Hopkins v. Grumshaw (165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739, 17 Sup. Ct. 401); Chase v. United States (7 App. D. C. 149); McCartney v. Fletcher (10 App. D. C. 572); Capital Trac. Co. v. Lusby (12 App. D. C. 295); Bergheimer v. Bergheimer (17 App. D. C. 381); Mallery v. Frye (21 App. D. C. 105).

"The Code specifically provides that 'husband and wife shall be competent * * * to testify for or against each other.' Section 964 of the 1901 Code (§ 16–420) * * * has no relation to the competency of the witnesses * * *. The section (§ 16–420) deals only with the weight of the evidence." Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

"The purpose of section 1068 (this section) * * * was to remove grounds of incompetency and not increase them * * *. Therefore a husband or wife, under this statute, can claim no greater privilege than existed at common law." Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

The provisions of this section apply to all proceedings wherein it is sought to compel the testimony of the husband or wife for or against one another, including bills of discovery, interrogatories in garnishment, and like proceedings. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

ACTION FOR INJURIES TO WIFE

In action by husband and wife for injuries to the wife, the wife is a competent witness. Capital Trac. Co. v. Lusby (12 App. D. C. 295).

DIVORCE

No decree for divorce or the annulment of a marriage can be given upon the mere unsupported petition of either husband or wife, even though the petition should be sworn to; and it is not apparent that the conditions are altered by the substitution of a deposition for the petition. Plain purpose of this to prohibit divorce or annulment of marriage upon statement of one without corroborative evidence. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

Where defendant's witness testified that he was present and saw transaction regarding which defendant had testified but on cross-examination prosecution established that witness could not possibly have witnessed the transaction, the jury might properly have disregarded the whole of defendant's testimony as unworthy of belief. Arbuckle v. U. S., 1944 (146 F. 2d 657; 79 U. S. App. D. C. 282).

The parties to a divorce suit are competent witnesses. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

EXAMINATION OF WITNESS

Cross-examination of witness regarding conviction of crime was proper. Hall v. Gordon, 1942 (128 F. 2d 461, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 33).

HISTORICAL

At common law "in collateral proceedings not immediately affecting their mutual interests, either husband or wife might be a witness, although the evidence of one tended to criminate the other, or to contradict the other, or to subject the other to a legal demand." Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

INTERROGATORIES

One spouse can not be compelled to answer interrogatories, for such disclosures would amount pro tanto to testimony of witness in the case. McGrew v. McGrew (54 App. D. C. 331, 298 Fed. 204).

Interrogatories in garnishment proceedings are within the provisions of this section. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE

Decedent's niece who was named as beneficiary in a prior will and who joined in caveat filed by her mother was not a "legal representative" within this section. In re Cottrill's Estate (D. C., D. C. 1941, 39 F. Supp. 689).

TESTIMONY AGAINST INTEREST

Wife being a competent witness may testify against her own interest, that she had nothing more than a naked legal title while the sole beneficial ownership was in the husband. Mallery v. Frye (21 App. D. C. 105).

TESTIMONY AS TO FACT OF MARRIAGE

Testimony of the husband as to the fact of marriage is admissible. Chase v. United States (7 App. D. C. 149).

WAIVER OF PRIVILEGE

Until a legal representative of a deceased person has been appointed, no authority exists to waive a physician's privilege under this section. In re Cottrill's Estate (D. C., D. C. 1941, 39 F. Supp. 689).

WIDOW

A wife shall not be compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage and it applies as well after the death as during the lifetime of the husband, and it is immaterial whether the objection be taken by demurrer or answer. McCartney v. Fletcher (10 App. D. C. 572).

§ 14–307 [9: 14]. Confidential communications between husband and wife.

In neither civil nor criminal proceedings shall a husband or his wife be competent to testify as to any confidential communications made by one to the other during the marriage. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1069.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 14–306.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUMSTANCES OF CONVERSATION

In plaintiff's action against his sister-in-law based on a debt for money loaned, it was error not to allow sister-in-law, when her husband was on the witness stand, to show on preliminary examination facts and circumstances surrounding an alleged conversation between sister-in-law and her husband in an attempt to bring out its confidential nature, since if confidential the communication was inadmissible. Sacks v. Sacks, 1942 (124 F. 2d 527, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 165).

COMMUNICATIONS PRIOR TO MARRIAGE

Communications prior to marriage are not confidential. Halback v. Hill (49 App. D. C. 127, 261 Fed. 1007).

CONFIDENTIAL NATURE

Communication of husband to wife must have been one of a confidential nature to come within this section. Dobbins v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 257).

Where some of testimony of defendant's former wife concerned defendant's financial affairs before they were married, and other portions of testimony related to transactions or prospective transactions which by their nature required communications to third persons, the testimony did not relate to confidential communications, and admission of testimony was not error. Dobbins v. U. S. (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 257, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 99, 329 U. S. 734, 91 L. Ed. 634).

GARNISHMENT PROCEEDINGS

Testimony of husband or wife for or against one another including interrogatories in garnishment can not be compelled. Commercial Credit Co. v. McReynolds (63 App. D. C. 42, 68 Fed. (2d) 990).

HUSBAND'S INSTRUCTIONS TO WIFE

Quaere, whether, in the prosecution of the husband for selling liquor on Sunday, the wife of the accused, who made the sale, will be permitted to testify as to instructions or prohibitions she had from her husband as to selling on Sunday. Trometer v. District of Columbia (24 App. D. C. 242).

§ 14–308 [9: 20]. Testimony of physicians—Inapplicable in criminal cases.

In the courts of the District of Columbia no physician or surgeon shall be permitted, without the consent of the person afflicted, or of his legal representative, to disclose any information, confidential in its nature, which he shall have acquired in attending a patient in a professional capacity and which was necessary to enable him to act in that capacity, whether such information shall have been obtained from the patient or from his family or from the person or persons in charge of him: Provided, That this section shall not apply to evidence in criminal cases where the accused is charged with causing the death of, or inflicting injuries upon a human being, and the disclosure shall be required in the interests of public justice. (May 25, 1896, 29 Stat. 138, ch. 245; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1073; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1434, ch. 854, § 1636.)

AMENDMENTS

The words of the above section are as they appear in the 1896 act. The 1901 act contained, as § 1073, a section similar to this one except that the word "representative" was plural and the phrase before the proviso clause which begins "whether such information" was omitted. However, § 1636 of the same 1901 act, being the repealing section thereof, expressly excepted from its application the 1896 act aforesaid.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Party may be forced to submit to physical or mental examination, penalty for refusal, see Rules 35, 37 (b).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIBILITY IN GENERAL

"It is for the court, and not the witness, to determine whether or not the facts upon which the conclusion or opinion is founded are within or without the limitations of the statute," and it is error to permit the "witness to discriminate as to matters of fact in his own mind, and merely state his conclusion to the jury." Hutchins v. Hutchins (48 App. D. C. 495).

Testimony of physician attending testatrix inadmissible; confidential relationship presumed; tender of proof out of presence of jury. Stafford v. American Secur. & Trust Co. (60 App. D. C. 380, 55 Fed. (2d) 542).

Evidence that physicians had attended insured, to contradict application denying medical attendance, is admissible. Kavakos v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. (66 App. D. C. 380, 88 Fed. (2d) 762).

To same effect as third paragraph of original annotation, see Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v. Gray, 1941 (121 F. 2d 104, 74 App. D. C. 191, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 114, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

Where four physicians, two representing each side, examined defendant in connection with a probable prosecution, defendant took no ailment or complaint to them as his physicians, and defendant was told the circumstances of the mental examination and was warned against making statements that might be to his detriment, permitting the physicians who represented the government at the examination to testify in prosecution for murder and rape was not error. Catoe v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 16, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

Under this section, the type of evidence that is not admissible is that which is given in confidence by a patient to a physician, and it protects the personal nature of an ordinary patient-physician relationship. Catoe v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 16, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

Where wife sought annulment of marriage, contracted in Virginia, on ground of husband's fraudulent concealment of fact that he was suffering with a venereal disease, and wife acted promptly, as soon as she ascertained truth, and refused thereafter to continue marital status, the wife who failed to produce Virginia examining physician, counsel having been appointed by court to represent husband, did not come under rule that a party who has it peculiarly within his power to produce a witness, by failing to do so, creates an inference that if the testimony were produced it would be unfavorable. Stone v. Stone, 1943 (136 F. 2d 761, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 5).

ANNULMENT OR DIVORCE

CONSTRUCTION

The full spirit of the act regarding admissibility of testimony of physician is to be made effectual. Catoe v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 16, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

DEATH CERTIFICATE

Death certificate properly admitted in evidence. Labofish v. Berman (60 App. D. C. 397, 55 Fed. (2d) 1022).

EXECUTORS

The term "legal representative" includes "executor." Thompson v. Smith (70 App. D. C. 65, 103 Fed. (2d) 936).

Physician was not competent to testify when called by the caveatees, one of whom was the nominated executor, as the latter could not waive the privilege. McCartney v. Holmquist (70 App. D. C. 334, 106 Fed. (2d) 855).

FACTS DISCLOSED BY AUTOPSY

"It is well settled that physicians and surgeons may be compelled to testify to the facts disclosed by an autopsy, where the relation of physician and patient did not exist under the lifetime of the deceased." Carmody v. Capital Trac. Co. (43 App. D. C. 245).

To same effect as original annotation, see Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v. Gray, 1941 (121 F. 2d 104, 74 App. D. C. 191, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 114, 314 U. S. 613, 86 L. Ed. 494).

HOSPITAL RECORD

A properly authenticated hospital record of patient's name, address, age, and the like, is admissible, provided there is no disclosure of diagnosis or treatment. Kaplan v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. (71 App. D. C. 250, 109 Fed. (2d) 463).

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE

As used in this section disqualifying physician from giving testimony disclosing confidential information without consent of patient or his "legal representative", the quoted term refers to persons who are entitled to enforce the particular substantive right of the patient which is involved in a particular case. Calhoun v. Jacobs, 1944 (141 F. 2d 729, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 29).

PUBLIC JUSTICE

Under this section the application of the criterion "public justice" is a matter of discretion with the trial judge, Catoe v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 16, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

PURPOSE

This section is intended to protect interests of the patient, and person with whom patient deals cannot insist upon the disqualification of physician to prejudice and over objections of persons who stand in the patient's shoes. Calhoun v. Jacobs, 1944 (141 F. 2d 729, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 29).

SUBSEQUENT EXAMINATION BY PHYSICIAN

Plaintiff calling a physician to testify as to his physical condition at a certain time does not waive the right to object to the testimony of a physician who made an examination at a different time. Mays v. New Amsterdam Cas. Co. (40 App. D. C. 249, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1108, cert. den. 238 U. S. 624, 59 L. Ed. 1494, 35 Sup. Ct. 662), citing Prudential Ins. Co. v. Lear (31 App. D. C. 184); Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Morgan (35 App. D. C. 195).

WAIVER, SUFFICIENCY OF

Life policy provision waiving privilege against disclosure of information acquired through confidential treatment by physician was sufficient waiver of statutory privilege regarding testimony of physician. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Taylor, 1944 (147 F. 2d 297, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 66).

Statute does not apply where there was an application for the policy, signed by insured, and a purported waiver of the privilege. Moreover, it is not important whether the hospital records were privileged before trial because it is clear that any privilege which might have existed was fully waived when they were put in evidence by plaintiff at the trial. Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association v. McGinn (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 75 A. 2d 643).

WAIVER, WHO MAY EXERCISE

Under this section, in suit by grantor's heirs to set aside, on ground of grantor's mental incapacity, a conveyance of realty to a stranger, the heirs were entitled to exercise, as against the grantee, the patient-grantor's privilege of waiver so that medical testimony and hospital records that grantor was insane were properly admitted. Calhoun v. Jacobs, 1944 (141 F. 2d 729, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 29).

WAR RISK INSURANCE

In action on war risk insurance policy by the mother of insured, who claimed that insured had become permanently and totally disabled, by failure of his mind, at and before the time the policy lapsed, the report of the examination of insured by a physician was admissible in evidence, the insured himself having sent it to the Veterans' Bureau, but so far as the physician's opinions were based on information received in professional confidence, they should be excluded. United States v. Witbeck (72 App. D. C. 231, 113 Fed. (2d) 185).

§ 14–309 [9: 23]. Testimony of assessor as expert witness in condemnation proceedings.

In any action for the condemnation of lands in the District of Columbia the assessor of the District shall not be disqualified, by reason of the fact that he holds the office of assessor, from testifying as an expert witness to the market value of such lands, and as to benefits. (Feb. 11, 1932, 47 Stat. 48, ch. 39.)

§ 14–401 [9: 15]. Proof of record.

An exemplification of the record under the hand of the keeper of the same, and the seal of the court or office where such record may be made, shall be good and sufficient evidence to prove any record made or entered in any of the states or territories of the United States; and the certificate of the party purporting to be the keeper of such record, accompanied by such seal, shall be prima facie evidence of that fact. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1070.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROOF OF JUDGMENT

Where no issue is raised regarding the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace rendering the judgment, a properly certified transcript of the docket entries showing service of process upon the defendant and jurisdiction of the subject matter is sufficient to support a judgment in another state. Koehne v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 806).

§ 14–402 [9: 16]. Record of deeds and wills.

The copy of the record of any deed or other instrument of writing, not of a testamentary character, where the laws of the state, territory, or country where the same may be recorded require such record, and which has been recorded agreeably to such laws, and the copy of any will which such laws require to be admitted to probate and record, by judicial decree, and of the decree of the court admitting the same to probate and record, under the hand of the clerk or other keeper of such record and the seal of the court or office in which such record has been made, shall be good and sufficient prima facie evidence to prove the existence and contents of such deed, or will, or other instrument of writing, and that it was executed as it purports to have been. BURDEN OF PROOF

When will is contested for want of mental capacity, proponent who introduces it in support of her title, has burden of proof. Prall v. Prall (56 App. D. C. 333, 13 Fed. (2d) 305).

MARYLAND PROBATE

§ 14–403 [9: 17]. Record of will to be prima facie evidence of contents and execution.

The record of any will or codicil recorded in the office of the register of wills of the District of Columbia, which shall have been admitted to probate by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or by the late orphans' court of said District, or the record of the transcript of the record and probate of any will or codicil elsewhere, or of any certified copy thereof filed in the office of said register of wills shall be prima facie evidence of the contents and due execution of such wills and codicils. (July 9, 1888, 25 Stat. 246, ch. 597.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

The statute assumes the probates to have been lawfully made; and it no more undertakes to define or to regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of probate of the District for the future, than it does the jurisdiction of those courts in the past, or the jurisdiction of the courts elsewhere whose proceedings filed in the District are equally made evidence. Campbell v. Porter (162 U. S. 478, 40 L. Ed. 1044, 16 Sup. Ct. 871).

§ 14–404 [9: 18]. Force in District of Columbia of wills probated elsewhere.

The record in the office of the register of wills for the District of Columbia of a duly certified copy, or transcript of the record of proceedings, admitting any will or codicil to probate outside of the District of Columbia; and the record in said office of any will or codicil admitted to probate in said District before June 8, 1898, and which shall not have been annulled or declared void according to law prior to June 8, 1898, shall be deemed and held, at law and in equity, as of the same and like force and effect as if such will or codicil had been duly proved and admitted to probate and record under and in accordance with the provisions of sections 19–301 to 19–303. (June 8, 1898, 30 Stat. 437, ch. 394, § 10.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The 1898 act contained a proviso which read: "Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any proceedings at law or in equity pending at the date of passage of this act, or commenced within one year after the passage of this act, wherein or whereby the validity of such will or codicil is or shall be called in question."

§ 14–405 [9: 19]. Production of books and papers.

In an action at common law the court may, on motion, and on reasonable notice thereof, require the parties to produce books and writings in their possession or power, which contain evidence pertinent to the issue, in cases and under circumstances where they might heretofore have been compelled to produce the same by the ordinary rules of proceeding in chancery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1072.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 34, 37 (b), 45 (b), 45 (f).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BILL OF DISCOVERY

Bill in equity for discovery is not proper, merely because books, papers, and documents are in possession of defendant, as such evidence can be obtained by legal process. Curriden v. Middleton (37 App. D. C. 568).

Where joint tenant applied for equitable relief, the proper procedure was to file bill of discovery rather than motion to produce books and records. Arms v. Burg (67 App. D. C. 155, 90 Fed. (2d) 400).

POWER OF COURT

Where no notice to produce is served and the paper is not present at trial, court may decline to order its production where such order would unreasonably delay progress of trial or work legal prejudice to adverse party. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

A subpoena for attendance as witness or for production of documentary evidence is for the purpose of having witness or document present at trial and if witness or document is present in court, though no subpoena is served, court can order witness to take the stand or order production of the document. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

Trial court erred in ruling that it could not compel production of documentary evidence admittedly in the possession of defense counsel merely because notice to produce or subpoena duces tecum had not been served. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS

Whether streetcar motorman's report of accident was a privileged communication which streetcar company could not be compelled to produce in passenger's action against it for injuries could not be determined by court without knowledge of circumstances under which report was made, reason and purpose for which it was made, and to whom it was made. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

That motorman's report to streetcar company of accident was in possession of streetcar company's counsel did not automatically make report a "privileged communication" which company could not be required to produce in passenger's action against it for injuries. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

REASONABLE NOTICE

The reasonable notice of motion to require party to produce documentary evidence in his possession or control provided for by this section contemplates that party shall not be required to produce papers at trial unless he has had notice and a reasonable time in which to produce them, what constitutes a reasonable time depending on the circumstances of each case. Wolff v. Capital Transit Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 454).

§ 14–406 [9: 22]. Proof of municipal ordinances and regulations.

Municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District of Columbia may be proved by producing in evidence a copy thereof certified by the secretary or an assistant secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and such certified copy shall be prima facie evidence of the due adoption and promulgation of such ordinances and regulations. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 1073b.)

ADMISSIBILITY

In action for injuries sustained in automobile collision, court properly refused to receive traffic regulations defining intersection in evidence, where both parties conceded that collision occurred out of intersection. Coleman v. Chudnow (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 925).

JUDICIAL NOTICE

In prosecution for violating ordinance regulating blackouts, the ordinance was not required to be introduced in evidence, since the municipal court would take notice of the ordinance. Dibble v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 825).

Chapter 5.—ABSENCE FOR SEVEN YEARS

Sec.
14–501. Presumption of death.
14–502. Person presumed dead found living.

§ 14–501 [9: 31]. Presumption of death.

If any person shall leave his domicile without any known intention of changing the same, and shall not return or be heard from for seven years from the time of his so leaving, he shall be presumed to be dead, in any case where his death shall come in question, unless proof be made that he was alive within that time. NOTES TO DECISIONS

GENERALLY

Under this section enacting common-law presumption of death arising from absence for seven years, in order to raise presumption of death the absentee must leave his domicile, without any known intention of changing it, and not return or be heard from for seven years. Jemison v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 704).

COMMON LAW

The statutory presumption of death arising from absence of seven years is but a declaration of the common-law rule. Jemison v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 704).

EVIDENCE

Evidence was insufficient to support statutory presumption of insured's death arising from absence for seven years, so as to authorize recovery on life policy, where insured was not living with his family at time of his disappearance but had a fixed abode in another State, and it did not appear that any inquiry concerning insured's whereabouts had been made in city in which he had his abode at the time of his disappearance. Jemison v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 704).

FAILURE TO HEAR

Mere failure of insured's family to hear from insured for more than seven years was not sufficient to raise presumption of death, so as to authorize recovery on life policy, where insured was not living with his family but had a fixed abode in another State. Jemison v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (D. C. 1943, 32 A. 2d 704).

FOREIGN INSURANCE COMPANY

Insurance company, although incorporated elsewhere, can not effectively adopt by-law seeking to overcome presumption of death from long-continued absence. National Union v. Sawyer (42 App. D. C. 475).

HISTORICAL

There is no presumption of death from an absence of less than seven years, unless it appears that during that time the absent person "encountered some specific peril, or within that period came within the range of some impending or immediate danger, which might reasonably be expected to destroy life," or that he disappeared under circumstances inconsistent with a continuation of life. Groff v. Groff (36 App. D. C. 560). See also Angell v. Groff (42 App. D. C. 198). See also Hamilton v. Rathbone (9 App. D. C. 48, revd. on other grounds 175 U. S. 414, 44 L. Ed. 219, 20 Sup. Ct. 155) (holding that there is no presumption as to the time of death).

"The common-law presumption of death was made statutory, and the statute declares the public policy of the District in that respect." National Union v. Sawyer (42 App. D. C. 475).

PRESUMPTION REBUTTED

Presumption of death after seven years under § 252 of 1901 Code (this section) is rebutted by the appearance of insured at the trial. La Raw v. Prudential Ins. Co. (57 App. D. C. 289, 22 Fed. (2d) 717).

TIME OF DEATH

Under this section, there is no presumption concerning the time when the person died. Jones v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 1940 (116 F. 2d 555, 73 App. D. C. 92).

§ 14–502 [9: 32]. Person presumed dead found living.

If the person so presumed to be dead be found to have been living, any person injured by such presumption shall be restored to the rights of which he shall have been deprived by reason of such presumption. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 253.)

TITLE 15.—JUDGMENTS AND EXECUTION OF JUDICIAL POWERS

Chap.		Sec.
1.	Judgments and decrees	15–101
2.	Executions	15–201
3.	Proceedings in aid of execution	15–301

Sec.
15–101. Limitations.
15–102. Expiration of judgment or decree.
15–103. Lien of judgment or decree—Recognizance.
15–104. Judgment to be dated—Shall not relate back to beginning of term.
15–105. Judgment docket.
15–106. Judgments not docketed, shall not affect purchasers or mortgagees, or have preference.
15–107. Scire facias.
15–108. Purchase-money mortgage superior to prior judgment.
15–109. Decree confirming sale vests title in purchaser and is notice when registered in land records—Court may order conveyance.
15–110. Decree to have effect of conveyance when defendant refuses to convey.
15–111. Payment of amount of judgment and costs into court stays execution, and property discharged—Judgment remains for further breaches.

§ 15–101 [24: 321]. Limitations.

Every final judgment at common law and every final decree in equity for the payment of money rendered in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and every judgment of the municipal court certified to and docketed in the clerk's office of the said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, as herein elsewhere directed, shall be good and enforceable, by an execution issued thereon, for the period of twelve years only from the date when an execution might first be issued thereon, or from the date of the last revival thereof under scire facias, except as provided in section 15–102; but the time during which the judgment creditor is stayed by agreement in writing filed in the cause or injunction, or other order, or by the operation of an appeal from enforcing the judgment is not to be computed as part of said period of twelve years. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1212; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

Amendments

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "in writing filed in the cause" after the word "agreement."

The 1909 act changed the name of the "justice of the peace court" to "municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Decisions Under Prior Laws

See Mann v. Cooper (2 App. D. C. 226); Galt v. Todd (5 App. D. C. 350); Mann v. McDonald (6 App. D. C. 548).

Abrogation of Common Law

Sections 1212 to 1215, inclusive (§§ 15–101 to 15–103, 15–107), and § 1078 of the code (§ 15–205) completely abrogate the rule of the common law on the subject of the limitation and revival of judgments in the District of Columbia. "Twelve years is fixed by statute as the life of a judgment under our code, and at any time during that period the writ of scire facias may be issued by the creditor for the revival of the judgment by merely filing a praecipe with the clerk." Simpson v. Minnix (30 App. D. C. 582).

Municipal Court Judgment

A judgment of the municipal court docketed in the Supreme Court is enforceable for 12 years from the date it was so docketed. Brown v. Allen E. Walker & Co. (58 App. D. C. 173, 26 Fed. (2d) 545).

Revival

Judgment becomes extinct at expiration of 12 years unless revived by scire facias within that time. Dutton v. Parish (34 App. D. C. 393).

Tolling of Statute of Limitations

Where judgment was entered in favor of appellant in 1934 against one who, though a citizen, was in enemy country, the statute of limitations was suspended during World War II, and an order denying motion to revive and extend the judgment should be reversed. Salvoni v. Pilson (C. A. D. C. 1950, 181 F. 2d 615, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 227, certiorari denied, 70 S. Ct. 1030, 339 U. S. 981, 94 L. Ed. 922).

§ 15–102 [24: 322]. Expiration of judgment or decree.

At the expiration of said period of twelve years the said judgment or decree shall cease to have any operation or effect, and no action shall be brought on the same nor any scire facias or execution issued on the same thereafter; but this provision shall in no wise affect any proceeding that may be then pending for the enforcement of the said judgment or decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1213.)

§ 15–103 [24: 323]. Lien of judgment or decree—Recognizance.

Every final judgment at common law and every unconditional final decree in equity for the payment of money from the date when the same shall be rendered, every judgment of the municipal court when docketed in the clerk's office of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, and every recognizance taken by said District Court, or a justice thereof, from the time when it shall be declared forfeited, shall be a lien on all the freehold and leasehold estates, legal and equitable, of the defendants bound by such judgment, decree, or recognizance, in any lands, tenements, or hereditaments in the District, whether such estates be in possession or be reversions or remainders, vested or contingent, but such liens or equitable interest shall be enforced by bill in equity. And any recognizance taken in the police court, after being forfeited, may be transmitted to the clerk's office of said District Court and therein docketed in the same manner as the judgment of the municipal court as aforesaid, and thereupon shall have the same effect as if taken in the said District Court; and said lien shall continue as long as such judgment, decree, or recognizance shall be in force or until the same shall be satisfied or discharged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1214; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "contingent" the words "but such liens on equitable interests shall be enforced by bill in equity."

The 1909 act changed the name of the "justice of the peace court" to "municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EQUITABLE ESTATE

A final judgment at common law is made a lien, not only upon the legal, but as well upon the equitable, interests in real estate of the judgment debtor from the date when the same is rendered. Reilly v. Sabin (65 App. D. C. 125, 81 Fed. (2d) 259).

LIEN ON REALTY

Where judgment was obtained for nonpayment of cost of an oil burner and a copy of the judgment was filed in the District Court as permitted by law, it became a lien upon appellant's real property. Clark v. General Electric Credit Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 72 A. 2d 43).

PRIORITY IN TIME

A judgment prior in time will take priority over a subsequent judgment, as a lien against defendant's property, although the subsequent judgment debtor has been to considerable trouble and expense in uncovering debtor's equitable interests. Ginder v. Giuffrida (61 App. D. C. 338, 62 Fed. (2d) 877).

REAL ESTATE ACQUIRED AFTER JUDGMENT

Judgment lien attaches to after-acquired real estate by the judgment debtor, but only to the extent of actual title which the debtor has therein. Atlas Portland Cement Co. v. Fox (49 App. D. C. 292, 265 Fed. 444). See also 49 App. D. C. 292, 266 Fed. 1021.

REAL ESTATE CONVEYED BEFORE JUDGMENT

A judgment at law is not a lien upon real estate in the City of Washington, which, before the judgment was rendered, had been conveyed to trustees with a power of sale to secure the payment of the debts of the grantor described in the deed of trust. Morsell v. First Nat. Bank (1 Otto (91 U. S.) 357, 23 L. Ed. 436).

REAL ESTATE ENCUMBERED BY TRUST

Where the real estate involved was encumbered by two trusts, the provisions of this section are directly applicable, citing Biggs v. Campbell and Redman v. Campbell (46 App. D. C. 288). Carroll v. Elkins (58 App. D. C. 265, 29 Fed. (2d) 638).

§ 15–104 [24: 324]. Judgment to be dated—Shall not relate back to beginning of term.

Any judge or officer of any court, that shall sign any judgments, shall at the signing of the same, without fee for doing the same, set down the day of the month and year of his so doing, upon the paper, book, docket, or record which he shall sign; which day of the month and year shall be also entered upon the margent of the roll of the record where the said judgment shall be entered; and such judgments as against purchasers bona fide for valuable consideration of lands, tenements, or hereditaments to be charged thereby, shall in consideration of law, be judgments only from such time as they shall be so signed, and shall not relate to the first day of the term whereof they are entered. (29 Car. 2, ch. 3, §§ 14 and 15, 1676; Kilty's Rep., p. 241; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 511; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 290, §§ 16 and 17.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PROBATE COURT

This section does not apply to judgments or decrees of the Probate Court. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. McQuade, 1941 (123 F. 2d 337, 74 App. D. C. 383).

§ 15–105 [24: 325]. Judgment docket.

The clerk of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia shall keep and maintain a docket, to be known as the judgment docket, in which shall be entered the titling of every cause and proceeding in which any judgment or decree may be entered or any recognizance taken, as aforesaid, including recognizances transmitted from the police court, as aforesaid, with a minute of the dates and amounts thereof, and said judgments, decrees, and recognizances shall be indexed in the names of all the principals and sureties bound thereby. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1217.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 15–106 [24: 326]. Judgments not docketed, shall not affect purchasers or mortgagees, or have preference.

No judgment not docketed, and entered in the books, shall affect any lands or tenements as to purchasers or mortgagees, or have any preference against heirs, executors, or administrators, in their administration of their ancestors, testators, or intestates estates. (4 and 5 W. and M. ch. 20, § 3, 1692;

Kilty's Rep., p. 243; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 581; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 291, § 19.)

§ 15–107 [24: 327]. Scire facias.

If during the period of twelve years from the rendition of the judgment or decree, or from judgment upon a scire facias thereon, the creditor shall cause a scire facias to be issued upon the judgment or decree and a fiat shall be issued thereupon, the effect of such fiat shall be to extend the effect and operation of said judgment or decree with the lien thereby created and all the remedies for the enforcement of the same for the period of twelve years from the date of such fiat. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1215.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Execution against specific property, § 15–311.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Writ of scire facias has been abolished, same relief to be obtained by appropriate action or motion as prescribed by rules, Rule 81 (b).

See Rule 69.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

To support the scire facias, it is incumbent upon the plaintiff in the judgment to show that the judgment debtor had title to the land. Roller v. Carithers (5 App. D. C. 368).

A plea to scire facias to revive a judgment entered upon power of attorney to confess judgment is sufficient which states that the defendant was never served with process, hadn't authorized anyone to appear for him. nor confessed judgment, nor waived service of process, nor submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the court. Harper v. Cunningham (8 App. D. C. 430).

CONVERSION INTO ACTION

Scire facias is a judicial writ, which may, however, be converted into an action by appearance and plea thereto by defendant. If not so converted, it remains a judicial writ merely, the life of which is ended and its force spent after a year and a day from the date of issuance. Collins v. McBlair (29 App. D. C. 354).

SUFFICIENCY

A scire facias to enforce a judgment, addressed to named parties as devisees of judgment debtor is fatally defective as it does not allege that judgment debtor was dead at the time the writ was issued, that he left a will under which addressees succeeded as sole devisees, and failed to describe this realty. Waters v. Taylor (52 App. D. C. 135, 284 Fed. 639).

TOLLING OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Where judgment was entered in favor of appellant in 1934 against one who, though a citizen, was in enemy country, the statute of limitation was suspended during World War II, and an order denying motion to revive and extend the judgment should be reversed. Salvoni v. Pilson (C. A. D. C. 1950, 181 F. 2d 615, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 227, certiorari denied, 70 S. Ct. 1030, 339 U. S. 981, 94 L. Ed. 922).

§ 15–108 [24: 328]. Purchase-money mortgage superior to prior judgment.

Where real property is sold and conveyed and, at the same time, a mortgage or deed of trust thereupon is given by the purchaser to secure the payment of the whole or any part of the purchase-money, the lien of the said mortgage or deed of trust on the property shall be superior to that of a previous judgment or decree against the purchaser. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1381, ch. 854, § 1216.)

§ 15–109 [24: 329]. Decree confirming sale vests title in purchaser and is notice when registered in land records—Court may order conveyance.

In case of the sale of things, real or personal under a decree in equity, the decree confirming the sale shall divest the right, title, or interest sold out of the former owner, party to the suit, and vest it in the purchaser, without any conveyance by the officer or agent of the court conducting the sale; and the decree shall be notice to all the world of this transfer of title when a copy thereof shall be registered among the land-records of the District; but the court may, nevertheless, order its officer or agent to make a conveyance, if that mode be deemed preferable, in particular cases. (R. S., D. C., § 793; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 75, § 6.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 15–110 [24: 330]. Decree to have effect of conveyance when defendant refuses to convey.

In all cases where a decree shall be made for a conveyance, release, or acquittance, and the party against whom such decree shall pass shall neglect or refuse to comply therewith, such decree shall stand, be considered and taken, in all courts of law and equity, to have the same operation and effect as if the conveyance, release, or acquittance had been executed conformably to such decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1205, ch. 854, § 101.)

§ 15–111 [24: 331]. Payment of amount of judgment and costs into court stays execution, and property discharged—Judgment remains for further breaches.

In any action upon any bond or bonds, or on any penal sum for nonperformance of any covenants or agreements in any indenture, deed or writing contained in case the defendant or defendants, after judgment entred, and before any execution executed, shall pay unto the court where the action shall be brought, to the use of the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or his or their executors or administrators, such damages, so to be assessed, by reason of all or any of the breaches of such covenants, together with the costs of suit, a stay of execution of the said judgment shall be entred upon record; or if by reason of any execution executed, the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or his or their executors or administrators shall be fully paid or satisfied all such damages so to be assessed, together with his or their costs of suit, and all reasonable charges and expences for executing the said execution, the lands, or goods of the defendant, shall be thereupon forthwith discharged from the said execution, which shall likewise be entred upon record; but notwithstanding in each case such judgment shall remain, continue, and be, as a further security to answer to the plaintiff or plaintiffs, and his or their executors or administrators, such damages as shall or may be sustained for further breach of any covenant or covenants in the same indenture, deed, or writing, contained, upon which the plaintiff or plaintiffs may have a scire facias upon the said judgment against the defendant, or against his heir, terre-tenants, or his executors or administrators suggesting other breaches of the said covenants, or agreements, and to summon him or them respectively to shew cause why execution shall not be had or awarded upon the said judgment, upon which there shall be the like proceeding as was in the action of debt upon the said bond or obligation for assessing of damages upon trial of issues joined upon such breaches or inquiry thereof, upon a writ to be awarded in manner as aforesaid; and upon payment or satisfaction in manner as aforesaid, of such future damages, costs, and charges, as aforesaid, all further proceedings on the said judgment are again to be stayed, and so toties quoties, and the defendant's lands or goods shall be discharged out of execution, as aforesaid. (8 and 9 W. 3, ch. 11, § 8, 1697; Kilty's Rep., p. 244; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 604; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 69, § 14.)

Chapter 2.—EXECUTIONS

Sec.

15–201. Execution—When issued—Within three years after removal of suspension—Returnable in sixteen days.
15–202. Alias writs.
15–203. Return.
15–204. Scire facias.
15–205. Fiat.
15–206. Lien of execution.
15–207. Marshal, deputy marshal, and coroner to indorse date of receipt on writs of execution.
15–208. Death of judgment debtor after delivery to marshal.
15–209. Judgment of municipal court—As a lien—Not levied on real property.
15–210. On what fieri facias may be levied.
15–211. Levy on money.
15–212. Levy on equitable interest in chattels pledged.
15–213. Land or rent not to be seized for debt if chattels sufficient to pay.
15–214. Appraisement—Notice by advertisement.
15–215. Change of marshal.
15–216. Defective sale—Subrogation of purchaser—No refund.
15–217. Remedy of marshal.
15–218. Decree in equity—Revival.

§ 15–201 [24: 271]. Execution—When issued—Within three years after removal of suspension—Returnable in sixteen days.

Where the right to issue an execution is not suspended by agreement or by an injunction or by an appeal operating as a supersedeas, a writ of execution may be issued immediately on the rendition of the judgment or at any time within three years thereafter; and where the right to issue the same is suspended by any of the causes aforesaid said writ may be issued within three years after the removal of the suspension, and every such writ shall be returnable on or before the sixtieth day after its date. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1074.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appeal as a Supersedeas

"Unless an appeal operates as a supersedeas, execution of the judgment may be had immediately." Byrne v. Morrison (25 App. D. C. 72); Sechrist v. Bryant (52 App. D. C. 286, 286 Fed. 456).

The appellant appealed from the decree entered in the equity suit; but filed no supersedeas bond for a stay of execution upon the decree, and consequently a writ of execution might have issued at any time thereafter. Fletcher v. Kellogg (55 App. D. C. 97, 2 Fed. (2d) 315).

Construction With Other Laws

If this section regarding issuance of execution was in conflict with subsequently adopted District of Columbia Emergency Rent Act, § 45–1601 et seq., to the extent of the conflict this section was required to give way to said § 45–1601 et seq. Myers v. H. L. Rust Co., 1943 (134 F. 2d 417, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 218).

Decree Must Be Final

Decree of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in general term was not a final decree in the sense that a writ of execution can be issued upon it. Bieber v. Fechheimer (9 App. D. C. 548).

Executors and Administrators

The code provides expressly for actions and judgments against executors and administrators and for the issuance of writs of fieri facias thereon, and there is no reason to doubt that this contemplates the use of attachment and garnishment. Fishel v. Kite (69 App. D. C. 360, 101 Fed. (2d) 685).

Power of Court to Vacate Sale

Until the sheriff or marshal makes return of the writ and of the manner of his service of it, and the court is enabled to judge of the propriety of such service, the debtor can not be barred of his right of objection and to have the sale vacated on the ground of irregularity. It is only required of him that he should act promptly before any rights of innocent parties have intervened. Hart v. Hines (10 App. D. C. 366).

There is a difference between an attempt by a court to revise one of its judgments, after the expiration of the term in which that judgment was entered, and the assertion by the court of power to set aside an execution sale. This is especially true when the sale had not been confirmed by judicial order. Shipley v. Shamwell (41 App. D. C. 267).

Property Subject to Execution

No property but that in which the judgment debtor has a legal title is subject to execution at law. Starr v. United States (8 App. D. C. 552).

Satisfaction by Garnishee

A garnishee who, in good faith, satisfied a claim of attaching creditor without waiting for judgment against him, is not liable on a subsequent attachment. Smith v. Shapiro (61 App. D. C. 66, 57 Fed. (2d) 432).

§ 15–202 [24: 272]. Alias writs.

If the execution be issued and returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, within said period of three years, an alias writ may be issued at any time during the life of the judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1075.)

§ 15–203 [24: 273]. Return.

If the return shall be omitted to be made on or before the return day expressed in the writ it may nevertheless be made afterwards as of that date. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1358, ch. 854, § 1076.)

§ 15–204 [24: 274]. Scire facias.

If said writ shall not be issued within the time allowed therefor, as aforesaid, it shall not be issued until a scire facias has been issued upon said judgment and a fiat has been rendered thereupon. Said fiat shall be deemed a renewal of the judgment, and the same rule shall apply thereto in relation to the issuing of execution thereon as to the original judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1077.)

The death of the judgment debtor after the execution has been delivered to the marshal shall not affect his authority to proceed against the property bound by it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1080.)

§ 15–209 [24: 278]. Judgment of municipal court—As a lien—Not levied on real property.

An execution issued on a judgment of the municipal court shall not be a lien on the personal property of the judgment defendant except from the time when it is actually levied, and then it shall have priority over any execution issued out of said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia after said levy. It shall not be levied on real estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1081; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

AMENDMENT

The 1909 act changed the name of the "justice of the peace court" to "municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

SUPERIORITY OF LIENS

A lien of garnishment is superior to lien of subsequent attachment against the same property. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

§ 15–210 [24: 279]. On what fieri facias may be levied.

The writ of fieri facias may be levied on all goods and chattels of the debtor not exempt as aforesaid, and upon gold and silver coin, bank notes or other money, bills, checks, promissory notes, or bonds, or certificates of stock in corporations owned by said debtor, and upon money owned by him in the hands of the marshal or of a constable (coroner) charged with the execution of such writ, and such fieri facias issued from said District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may be levied on all legal leasehold and freehold estates of the debtor in land. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1082; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 540, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the word "legal" after the word "all" in the last clause of the sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

LICENSES

Where §§ 25–106 and 25–107 providing for issuance of license to sell alcoholic beverages also provided for transfer and assignment of such license, the license was a "property right" subject to levy, under execution, to satisfy a judgment of Municipal Court. Rowe v. Colpoys, 1943 (137 F. 2d 249, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 75, 148 A. L. R. 488, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 190, 320 U. S. 783, 88 L. Ed. 470).

§ 15–211 [24: 280]. Levy on money.

If the fieri facias is levied on money belonging to the judgment defendant the marshal shall not expose the same to sale, but shall account for it as money collected, but bills or other evidences of debt levied upon shall be sold as other personal property is sold, and the marshal is hereby authorized and empowered to indorse the same to pass title to the purchaser. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1083.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Certain income or benefit not subject to execution, see notes to § 15–201.

§ 15–212 [24: 281]. Levy on equitable interest in chattels pledged.

The interest of the debtor in personal chattels lawfully pledged for the payment of a debt or performance of a contract, or held by a trustee and in which the debtor's interest is only equitable, may be levied upon in the hands of the pledgee or trustee without disturbing the possession of the latter, and the lien thus obtained may be enforced by proceedings in equity. In other cases of equitable interest of the judgment debtor in personal chattels execution may also be levied thereon and the lien thus obtained may be enforced by proceedings in equity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1084; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the last sentence.

§ 15–213 [24: 282]. Land or rent not to be seized for debt if chattels sufficient to pay.

Land or rent shall not be seized for any debt, as long as the present goods and chattels of the debtor do suffice to pay the debt, and the debtor himself be ready to satisfy therefor. (9 Hen. 3, ch. 8, § 1, 1225; Kilty's Rep., p. 205; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 12; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 223, § 4.)

§ 15–214 [24: 283]. Appraisement—Notice by advertisement.

Where not herein otherwise provided all property levied upon, except money, shall be appraised by two sworn appraisers and sold at public auction for cash; personal property after ten days' notice by advertisement, and leasehold and freehold estate in land after a twenty days' previous notice by advertisement, containing a description sufficiently definite to be embodied in a conveyance of the title. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1085; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "where not herein otherwise provided."

§ 15–215 [24: 297]. Change of marshal.

If the marshal or coroner die, be removed from office, or become otherwise disqualified from executing a writ of execution received by him, the same may be executed and returned by his deputy or successor in office. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1361, ch. 854, § 1101; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted the words "or coroner" in the first line.

§ 15–216 [24: 298]. Defective sale—Subrogation of purchaser—No refund.

If upon the sale of property under execution the title of the purchaser is invalid by reason of a defect in the proceedings, the purchaser may be subrogated to the rights of the creditor against the debtor to the extent of the money paid by him and applied to the debtor's benefit, and to that extent shall have a lien on the property sold against all persons except bona fide purchasers without notice; but the creditor shall not be required to refund the purchase money on account of the invalidity of the sale. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1361, ch. 854, § 1102.)

§ 15–217 [24: 299]. Remedy of marshal.

Where the marshal or any other officer to whom execution has been delivered levies upon and sells in good faith property not subject thereto and applies the proceeds thereof toward the satisfaction of the judgment, and a recovery is had against him for its value, the officer, on payment of said value, may, on motion and due notice thereof to the defendant, have the satisfaction of said judgment vacated, and execution shall issue thereon for his use as if said levy and sale had not been made. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1362, ch. 854, § 1103.)

§ 15–218 [24: 300]. Decree in equity—Revival.

The aforegoing provisions (this chapter) shall be applicable to an unconditional decree in equity for the payment of money. Such decree may be revived by scire facias, and the same writs of execution may be issued thereon within the same time and have the same effect as liens, and shall be executed and returned in the same manner as if issued upon a common-law judgment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1362, ch. 854, § 1104.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Executors and Administrators

The code provides expressly for actions and judgments against executors and administrators and for the issuance of writs of fieri facias thereon, and there is no reason to doubt that this contemplates the use of attachment and garnishment. Fishel v. Kite (69 App. D. C. 360, 101 Fed. (2d) 685).

§ 15–302 [24: 285]. Scire facias unnecessary.

Attachment may be issued at any time during the life of the judgment, without issuing a scire facias previously thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1359, ch. 854, § 1087.)

§ 15–303 [24: 286]. On what attachment may be levied.

An attachment may be levied upon the judgment debtor's goods, chattels, and credits. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1088; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

Amendment

The 1902 amendment struck out the section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above. The former section read: "An attachment may be levied upon the judgment debtor's credits due him from third persons and upon his interest in letters patent for inventions issued by the United States."

§ 15–304 [24: 287]. Interrogatories — Answers under oath within ten days—Oral examination.

In all cases of attachment the plaintiff may exhibit interrogatories in writing, in such form as may be allowed by the rules or special order of the court, to be served upon any garnishee concerning any property of the defendant in his possession or charge or any indebtedness of his to the defendant at the time of the service of the attachment or between the time of such service and the filing of his answers to said interrogatories; and the garnishee shall file his answers, under oath, to such interrogatories within ten days after service of the same upon him. In addition to the answers to written interrogatories required of him, the garnishee may, on motion, be required to appear in court and be examined orally, under oath, touching any property or credits of the defendant in his hands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1089.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

Statute contemplates (1) "the garnishee answering interrogatories, (2) oral examination of the garnishee, supplementing the answers to the interrogatories, (3) traverse by plaintiff of the garnishee's answer, after the oral examination, and (4) the determination of the issue joined by traverse." When the record shows only the first of these steps the trial court is correct in denying the motion for summary judgment. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

When the usual written interrogatories were directed to the garnishee and she answered that she was indebted to defendant in the principal suit and that this indebtedness, in the amount of $300, had been established by stipulation filed in an equity suit between her and the defendant then pending in the District Court, and when the stipulation was filed as an exhibit and recited that the named amount was "in compromise of all the various claims and counterclaims between the parties" and if plaintiff was not satisfied with this answer, he had means of testing its accuracy and truthfulness. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

Form

A garnishee is not excused from answering a proper question, merely because it is inaptly combined with improper queries in a single interrogatory where the proper question is clear and easily separable. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

Oral Examination

The provision in this section and § 15–309 do not affect the right of the plaintiff to examine the garnishee orally under oath, without waiting for a traverse of the answer. Flynn v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (60 App. D. C. 82, 47 Fed. (2d) 978).

The right to oral examination supplementing the information obtained in the garnishee's answer is permitted in express statutory terms. Young v. Nicholson (70 D. C. App. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

Where the garnishee's answer on its face shows the uncertainty as to the ownership of deposits, it is error to refuse plaintiff the right to examine the garnishee orally. Young v. Nicholson (70 D. C. App. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

§ 15–305 [24: 288]. How attachments levied—Copy of writ—Notice—Garnishee's liability for retention.

Attachments shall be levied upon credits of the defendant in the hands of a garnishee by serving him with a copy of the writ of attachment and of the interrogatories accompanying the same, and a notice that any property or credits of the defendant in his hands are seized by virtue of the attachment. It may be levied upon debts due to the defendant upon any judgment or decree by a similar service upon the debtor owing the same.

The garnishee, in any case in which the property or credits attached or sought to be attached is held by him in the name of or for the account of another than the defendant, shall retain such property or credits during the period pending determination by the court of the propriety of the attachment or the rightful owner of such property or credits, and, during such period, shall incur no liability whatsoever for such retention. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1090; Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 8 (b).)

AMENDMENT

The 1939 amendment added the second paragraph.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSONAL PROPERTY IN HANDS OF TRUST COMPANY

Personal property in the hands of a trust company may be garnished. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

SUBSEQUENT CREDITOR

To rule that after writ of attachment has been served on garnishee a subsequent attaching creditor might seize the property so garnished would be inconsistent with the intent and purpose of the law. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

§ 15–306 [24: 289]. Money in hands of marshal, coroner, executor, and administrator attachable.

Attachments may be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of the marshal or coroner, and shall bind the same from the time of service, and shall be a legal excuse to such officer for not paying or delivering the same as he would otherwise be bound to do. Attachments may also be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of an executor or administrator, and shall bind the same from the time of service; but if the executor or administrator shall make return to the writ that he can not certainly answer whether the defendant's share of the money or property in his hands will prove sufficient to pay the plaintiff's debt, no judgment of condemnation shall be rendered as against such executor or administrator until the passage by the Probate Court of his final or other account showing money or property in his hands to which the defendant is entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1091; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 541, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the second sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEFENDANT

The "defendant" referred to is one who has a right to money in the hands of an administrator or executor of an estate which is subject to a judgment against him. Sanford v. Sanford (52 App. D. C. 315, 286 Fed. 777).

§ 15–307 [24: 290]. Preservation of property seized—Perishable property.

The court may make all orders necessary for the preservation of the property attached, and if the same be perishable or for other reasons a sale of the same shall be expedient, may order that the same be sold and the proceeds paid into court and held subject to its order. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1093.)

Any garnishee or stranger to the suit who may make claim to the property attached as hereinafter provided, may plead to the attachment, and such plea shall be considered as raising an issue without replication, and any issue of fact thereby made may be tried by the court or by a jury impaneled for the purpose, if either party desire it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1094.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSION OF OWNERSHIP

Where answers of bank disclosed deposits in the names of appellants individually, and appellants in their affidavits in support of their motion to quash as well as in their verified pleas averred that the said deposits belonged to them, they can not complain if court takes their statements as true and condemns such deposits to satisfy a default judgment against them personally. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

OWNERSHIP OF FUND

Neither the answer of the garnishee nor the information obtained in the oral examination is conclusive upon the court in respect of the true ownership of the fund. Young v. Nicholson (70 App. D. C. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

§ 15–309 [24: 292]. Traversing garnishee's answers—Costs and counsel fee.

If any garnishee shall answer to interrogatories that he has no property or credits of the defendant or less than the amount of the plaintiff's judgment, the plaintiff may traverse such answer as to the existence or amount of such property or credits, and the issue thereby made may be tried as provided in the last aforesaid section; and in such case, where judgment is rendered for the garnishee, the plaintiff shall be adjudged to pay to the garnishee, in addition to his taxed costs, a reasonable counsel fee; and if such issue be found for the plaintiff, judgment shall be rendered as if possession of the property or credits had been confessed by the garnishee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1095.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PLAINTIFF MAY TRAVERSE

The plaintiff may traverse the garnishee's answer, and the issue thereby made may be tried before the court or by a jury if either party so desire. Young v. Nicholson (70 App. D. C. 351, 107 Fed. (2d) 177).

If plaintiff is not satisfied with answer to written interrogatories, he has means of testing its accuracy and truthfulness. Dickinson v. Brooks (71 App. D. C. 106, 108 Fed. (2d) 4).

§ 15–310 [24: 293]. Trial of right to attached property—Right to jury trial.

Any person may file his petition in the cause, under oath, at any time before the final disposition of the property attached or its proceeds, not being real estate, setting forth a claim thereto or an interest in or lien upon the same; and the court, without other pleadings, shall inquire into the claim, and, if either party request it, impanel a jury for the purpose, who shall be sworn to try the question involved as an issue between the claimant as plaintiff and the parties to the suit as defendants, and the court may make all such orders as may be necessary to protect any rights of the petitioner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1360, ch. 854, § 1096.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSION OF OWNERSHIP

Where appellants have stated in affidavits and in verified pleadings that deposits in bank belonged to them absolutely, they can not complain that the issue as to such credits was not determined as provided in this section. Ostrow v. McNeal (68 App. D. C. 69, 93 Fed. (2d) 228).

§ 15–311 [24: 294]. Judgment of condemnation of property—Sale—Application of funds.

Where the attachment has been levied upon specific property, on the return by the marshal judgment of condemnation of the same may be entered, and so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's judgment may be sold under a fieri facias; or, if said property shall have been sold under interlocutory order of the court, the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied to the plaintiff's claim by order of the court. § 15–313 [24: 296]. Refusal to deliver possession of property sold—Order to show cause—Possessor may show superior title.

When real estate is sold by virtue of any execution, and the judgment defendant or any person claiming under him since the rendition of the judgment is in actual possession of the property and refuses to deliver possession thereof to the purchaser upon demand made therefor, it shall be lawful for the court, on the application of the purchaser, to require the person so in possession to show cause why possession should not be delivered according to said demand, and, if no good cause be shown, to issue a writ of habere facias possessionem, requiring the marshal to put the purchaser in possession. If the party in possession shall allege under oath a title derived from the judgment debtor prior to the judgment or a title superior to that of the defendant, said writ shall not issue, but the purchaser may have his remedy by an action of ejectment or the summary remedy in the municipal court as herein provided in sections 11–703, 11–704, 11–710, 11–713, 11–724 to 11–729, 11–731, 11–732, 11–735 to 11–748 and 22–805, 22–806. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1361, ch. 854, § 1100; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134.)

AMENDMENT

The 1909 act changed the name of the "justice of the peace court" to "municipal court."

Chapter 4.—EXEMPTIONS

Sec.

15–401. Exempt property of householder—Property in transitu—Exception—Debt for wages.
15–402. Mortgage by husband of exempt property.
15–403. Earnings—Exemptions.

§ 15–401 [24: 311]. Exempt property of householder—Property in transitu—Exception—Debt for wages.

(a) The following property, being the property of the head of a family or householder residing in the District of Columbia, or of a person who earns the major portion of his livelihood in the District of Columbia, being the head of a family or householder, regardless of his place of residence, shall be free and exempt from distraint, attachment, levy, or seizure and sale on execution or decree of any court in the District of Columbia.

First. All wearing apparel provided for all persons within the household, being members of the immediate family of the household, not in excess of $300 per person.

Second. All beds, bedding, household furniture and furnishings, sewing machines, radios, stoves, cooking utensils, not exceeding $300 in value.

Third. Provisions for three months' support, whether provided or growing.

Fourth. Fuel for three months.

Fifth. Mechanics' tools and implements of the debtor's trade or business amounting to $200 in value, with $200 worth of stock or materials for carrying on the business or trade of the debtor. This exemption shall also apply to merchants.

Sixth. The library, office furniture, and implements of a professional man or artist, to the value of $300.

Seventh. One horse or mule; one cart, wagon, or dray and harness, or one automobile or motor-controlled vehicle not exceeding $500 in value if used principally by the debtor in his trade or business.

Eighth. All family pictures; and all the family library, not exceeding in value $400.

(b) Such exemptions shall be valid when the property is in transitu the same as if at rest; but no property named and exempted in this section shall be exempted from attachment or execution for any debt due for the wages of servants, common laborers, or clerks, except the wearing apparel, beds, and bedding and household furniture for the debtor and family.

(c) For the purpose of this section the person who is the principal provider for the family shall be deemed to be the head thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1362, ch. 854, § 1105; Dec. 20, 1944, 58 Stat. 817, ch. 610, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Dec. 20, 1944, cited to text, amended section generally.

NOTES TO DECISION

ACTUAL RESIDENCE

Under this section, the requirement as to actual residence relates to the time of the issuance of the writ, and if a wage earner then is an actual resident, he is entitled to the protection of the statute. Fidelity Sav. Co. v. Fawcett (57 App. D. C. 285, 22 Fed. (2d) 591).

UNLAWFUL SEIZURE

In action for damages for unlawful seizure of plaintiff's truck on writ of fieri facias, that court had quashed the levy, deciding that truck was exempt from seizure was not res judicata of existence of malice or want of probable cause, nor was it competent evidence for plaintiff on such issues. Lee v. Dunbar (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 178).

Where question whether this section comprehended a motor vehicle had not been authoritatively decided, and there was substantial authority for view that motor vehicles were not exempt, "probable cause" existed for judgment creditor to seize a motor dump truck on writ of fieri facias, so as to preclude recovery of damages, notwithstanding return of truck was ordered by court which decided that truck was exempt from seizure and sale under this section. Lee v. Dunbar (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 178).

Where only evidence of actual damages was loss of use of truck wrongfully attached during 5-day period, judgment had remained unpaid more than 30 days and truck owner's operator's permit and registration certificate had been suspended so that operation of truck during 5-day period would have constituted a criminal offense, recovery would be limited to nominal damages, if any. Lee v. Dunbar (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 178).

§ 15–402 [24: 312]. Mortgage by husband of exempt property.

No deed of trust, assignment for the benefit of creditors, bill of sale, or mortgage upon any exempted articles shall be binding or valid unless signed by the wife of the debtor, if he be married and living with his wife. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1362, ch. 854, § 1106.)

§ 15–403 [24: 313]. Earnings—Exemptions.

(a) The earnings, salary, insurance, annuities, or pension or retirement payments, not otherwise exempted, not to exceed $100 each month, of any person residing in the District of Columbia, or of any person who earns the major portions of his or her livelihood in the District of Columbia, regardless of place of residence, who provides the principal support of a family, for two months next preceding the issuing of any writ or process against him, from any court or officer of and in said District, shall be exempt from attachment, levy, seizure, or sale upon such process, and the same shall not be seized, levied on, taken, reached, or sold by attachment, execution, or any other process or proceedings of any court, judge, or other officer of and in said District: Provided, however, That where husband and wife are living together, the aggregate of the earnings, salaries, insurance, annuities, and pension or retirement payments of the husband and wife shall be the amount which shall be determinative of the exemption of either in cases arising ex contractu.

(b) The earnings, salary, insurance, annuities, or pension or retirement payments, not otherwise exempted, not to exceed $60 each month for two months preceding the date of attachment of all persons residing in the District of Columbia, or of persons who earn the major portions of their livelihood in the District of Columbia, regardless of place of residence, who do not provide for the support of a family, shall be entitled to like exemption from attachment, levy, seizure, or sale. All wearing apparel belonging to such persons, not exceeding $300 in value, and mechanic's tools not exceeding $200 in value, shall also be exempt.

(c) A notice of claim of exemption, or motion to quash attachment or other process against exempt property or money, may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court either by the debtor, his spouse, or a garnishee, and thereupon the court, after due notice, shall promptly act upon the notice, motion, or other claim of exemption. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1363, ch. 854, § 1107; Dec. 20, 1944, 58 Stat. 818, ch. 610, § 2.)

Chapter 1.—ACCOUNT

Sec.
16–101. Parties to action.
16–102. Accounts at law referred to auditor—Discharge of jury—Procedure as in equity—Report filed and notice given—Judgment after thirty days, unless exceptions filed—Form of exceptions—Certificate of counsel and affidavit of exceptant.
16–103. Trial of exceptions—Part not excepted adjudged conclusive.
16–104. Where issues at trial of exceptions are numerous, may be considered separately by the same jury or by different jury.
16–105. General, frivolous, immaterial, or informal exceptions.
16–106. Judgment entered after trial of exceptions by jury.

§ 16–101 [24: 51]. Parties to action.

Actions of account shall and may be brought and maintained against the executors and administrators of every guardian, bailiff and receiver; and also by one joint-tenant and tenant in common, his executors and administrators, against the other, as bailiff for receiving more than comes to his just share or proportion, and against the executor and administrator of such joint-tenant or tenant in common. (4 Ann, ch. 16, § 27, 1705; Kilty Rep., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat. p. 664; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 447, § 34.)

§ 16–102 [24: 52]. Accounts at law referred to auditor—Discharge of jury—Procedure as in equity—Report filed and notice given—Judgment after thirty days, unless exceptions filed—Form of exceptions—Certificate of counsel and affidavit of exceptant.

In actions at common law grounded upon an account, or in which it may be necessary to examine and determine upon accounts between the parties, the court, in its discretion, at any stage of the cause, may order the accounts and dealings between the parties to be audited and stated by the auditor of the court or by a special auditor to be appointed by the court for the purpose; in which case, if a jury shall have been sworn, they shall be discharged. The course of proceedings before the auditor shall be the same as in cases in equity referred to him. When his audit is completed the auditor shall file his report and account in the clerk's office and give notice thereof to the parties or their attorneys, and at the expiration of thirty days after said notice judgment may be entered, on motion of either party, in accordance with said report and account, unless exceptions are filed thereto for errors in law or fact therein. The party excepting thereto shall point out particularly the item or items in such report and account excepted to, and state the grounds of such exception, and annex to his exceptions a certificate of counsel that, in his opinion, the matters of law therein stated are well founded in law, and an affidavit of such party that the exceptions are not filed for delay, and that the allegations of fact in said exceptions are true to the best of his knowledge and belief, and a copy of said exceptions shall be served on the opposite party or his attorney. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1230, ch. 854, § 254; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 528, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "true" the words "to the best of his knowledge and belief."

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Masters, reference to, see Rule 53.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This chapter of the code does not deprive a party, in a proper case, of a trial by the common law triers of fact, but provides a simple and workable method by which he may secure it. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505), citing, with approval, Simmons v. Morrison (13 App. D. C. 161).

APPLICATION OF STATUTE

The statute applies only to actions at law wherein a mutual accounting between the parties is involved. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

CONSENT TO REFERENCE

A failure to object to an order of reference is equivalent to a consent thereto. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

Consent to a common-law reference, however, which does not amount to a stipulation of reference for a finding of law and fact, does not amount to a waiver of a trial by jury, if by proper exception issues of fact can be framed for submission to a jury. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (52 App. D. C. 194, 285 Fed. 928).

EXCEPTIONS

"It is the right of parties who file exceptions to withdraw them. They are not bound to let them stand because other parties may find it to their advantage to have them retained." Other parties could have taken their own exceptions. Gilbert v. Washington Benefit Assn. (21 App. D. C. 344). See also United States v. Groome (13 App. D. C. 460); American Ice Co. v. Eastern Trust & Banking Co. (17 App. D. C. 422, affd. 188 U. S. 626, 47 L. Ed. 623, 23 Sup. Ct. 432).

The allowance of amendments to exceptions is also within the court's discretion. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

If there are no disputed facts, it is not error to refuse to submit an exception to the jury. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

"The exceptions, to be sufficient to avoid judgment on the report, must respond to the original issues made by the pleadings, as further defined and limited by the approved findings of the auditor. If proper exceptions are filed, in so far as they dispute the findings of fact by the auditor, they created issues to be submitted to the jury. and, upon the issues so defined, the trial will proceed in all respects as if no reference or report had been made." Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

"Failure to except to a finding (of the auditor), as we understand the statute, is equivalent to an admission that it is correct." Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

"As we understand chapter 4 of the Code (§§ 16–102 to 16–106), the party defeated before the auditor must except to his ultimate finding, and to every other finding which he believes prejudicially affects that finding, and must state with particularity the grounds of each exception. In other words, he must show the relation between the subordinate finding and the ultimate one, and that, if his theory is correct, the ultimate one is wrong in whole or in part." Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

Exceptions cannot be to matters de hors the report. Weinstein v. Julius Lansburgh Furn. & Carpet Co. (51 App. D. C. 271, 278 Fed. 580).

FINDINGS OF AUDITOR

"The findings of a master or an auditor, concurred in by the court below, are to be taken as presumptively correct, and will be permitted to stand unless some obvious error has intervened in the application of the law or the principles of the decree under which he acts, or some important mistake has been made in the evidence, and which has been clearly pointed out and made manifest." France v. Coleman (29 App. D. C. 386, dism. 207 U. S. 601, 52 L. Ed. 359, 28 Sup. Ct. 258), citing Richardson v. Van Auken (5 App. D. C. 209); Grafton v. Paine (7 App. D. C. 257, dism. 168 U. S. 704, 42 L. Ed. 1212, 18 Sup. Ct. 942); Smith v. American Bonding & Trust Co. (12 App. D. C. 192); Hutchins v. Munn (28 App. D. C. 271, affd. 209 U. S. 246, 52 L. Ed. 776, 28 Sup. Ct. 504). See also Consaul v. Cummings (24 App. D. C. 36).

In the absence of exceptions under a general submission, the auditor's report when admitted on trial before a jury is prima facie evidence both of the facts and conclusions of fact therein contained. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd. (51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886). (See also 52 App. D. C. 194, 285, Fed. 928.)

POWER TO MAKE REFERENCE

Court has inherent power to make references in actions at law to the same extent as in equity. A compulsory reference with power to determine issue is impossible in view of constitutional provisions. But no reason exists why a compulsory reference to simplify and clarify the issues and to make tentative findings cannot be made at law, when occasion arises, as freely as in equity. Eichberg v. United States Shipping Bd .(51 App. D. C. 44, 273 Fed. 886).

Reference of complicated questions of fact to an auditor to hear the evidence and make findings of fact has long been recognized as an appropriate proceeding in an action at law, and, in this case, no reason is shown why it should be transferred from law to equity side. United States Shipping Bd. Merchant Fleet Corp. v. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co (64 App. D. C. 247, 77 Fed. (2d) 370).

SELECTION OF AUDITOR

The selection of a special auditor is within the discretion of the trial court. Lincoln v. Virginia Portland Cement Co. (49 App. D. C. 33, 258 Fed. 505).

§ 16–103 [24: 53]. Trial of exceptions—Part not excepted adjudged conclusive.

When such exceptions are filed, the court shall enter the cause on the trial calendar of the term in which they are filed in its proper place, and the issues made by said exceptions shall be tried and determined in the same manner as other issues of law or fact made by the pleadings in an action at common law, and any part of such report and account not so excepted to shall be adjudged to be conclusive between the parties on such trial. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 255.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION WITH FEDERAL COURT RULES

Rule 53 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., under which absence of exceptions to auditor's report does not make auditor's findings conclusive, invalidates contrary provision of this section. Shima v. Brown, 1942 (133 F. 2d 48; 77 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 982, 318 U. S. 787, 87 L. Ed. 1154).

LAW GOVERNING

Under Rule 53 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C., the absence of exceptions to a master's report in jury action does not make the master's findings conclusive. Shima v. Brown, 1942 (133 F. 2d 48, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 982, 318 U. S. 787, 87 L. Ed. 1154).

In jury action to recover for board including room, defendant was not prejudiced by district court's refusal to let defendant withdraw exceptions to auditor's report, since presence or absence of exceptions was immaterial under Rule 53 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C. which makes auditor's findings mere evidence unless parties stipulate that they shall be final. Shima v. Brown, 1942 (133 F. 2d 48, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 982, 318 U. S. 787, 87 L. Ed. 1154).

In jury action to recover for board including room, the district court was bound by Rule 53 of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, following § 723c of 28 U. S. C. under which absence of exceptions to auditor's report does not make his findings conclusive, and properly refused to confirm the auditor's report. Shima v. Brown, 1942 (133 F. 2d 48, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 982, 318 U. S. 787, 87 L. Ed. 1154).

§ 16–104 [24: 54]. Where issues at trial of exceptions are numerous, may be considered separately by the same jury or by different jury.

If, in the opinion of the court, such issues are so numerous as to create confusion the court may, in its discretion, direct evidence to be received and considered by the jury as to a part of said issues, and direct the jury to retire and conclude as to the same before hearing the evidence as to the other issues, and this to repeat as often as may be necessary, the final conclusion of the jury as to all the issues to be announced as their verdict; or may submit the different issues to the same jury at different times for their separate verdicts thereon, or submit such issues to different juries; or may pursue such other course as the rules of the court may prescribe to facilitate the determination of such issues. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 256.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16–102.

§ 16–105 [24: 55]. General, frivolous, immaterial, or informal exceptions.

If only general, immaterial, or frivolous exceptions are made or they are filed without the certificate of counsel and affidavit of exceptant, required as aforesaid, they may be overruled by the court or a justice at chambers, on notice and motion, and judgment entered as if no exceptions had been filed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 257.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16–102.

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Formal exceptions unnecessary, see Rule 46.

§ 16–106 [24: 56]. Judgment entered after trial of exceptions by jury.

Upon the conclusion of such trial or trials the court shall enter judgment upon the auditor's report as affirmed or corrected by the findings of the jury. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1231, ch. 854, § 258.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FORM OF AUDITOR'S REPORT

As to modification by Court of Appeals of decree approving auditor's report, because defective in form, see Eclipse Bicycle Co. v. Farrow (23 App. D. C. 411, revd. on other grounds 199 U. S. 581, 50 L. Ed. 317, 26 Sup. Ct. 150).

Chapter 2.—ADOPTION

Sec.

16–201. Jurisdiction—Consent of petitioner's spouse—Residence requirements—Data to be furnished—Investigation and report—Exceptions.
16–202. Persons who must consent—Adoptee—Parents, natural and adoptive—Consent of father of illegitimate adoptee not necessary—Circumstances.
16–203. Decree of adoption—Satisfaction of court—Adoptee to have lived with adopter six months—Board of Public Welfare.
16–204. Notice to Vital Statistics Bureau, Health Department—New record made—Original birth certificate sealed.
16–205. Relationship of adoptee and adopter—Rights of inheritance and succession qualified—Adoptee's family name—Given name.
16–206. Records open to inspection upon court order only—Records sealed—Application for leave to inspect—Docket of adoption proceedings.
16–207. Provisions not retroactive—Former orders and decrees valid.

§ 16–201 [15: 1a]. Jurisdiction—Consent of petitioner's spouse—Residence requirements—Data to be furnished—Investigation and report—Exceptions.

Jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia to hear and determine petitions and decrees of adoption of any adult or child (hereinafter called adoptee) with authority to make such rules, not inconsistent with this section and sections 16–202 to 16–207, as shall bring fully before the court for consideration the interests of the adoptee, the natural parents, the petitioner, and any other properly interested party. No petition shall be considered by the court unless petitioner's spouse joins in the petition or consents to the adoption.

Jurisdiction is conferred if either of the following circumstances exist:

(1) If petitioner is a legal resident of the District of Columbia;

(2) If petitioner has actually resided in the District of Columbia for at least one year.

The petition shall state, so far as known, the name, age, race, occupation, and address of the natural parents, when known, and of the petitioner, whether the petitioner is married or single, the age and sex of the adoptee, the property owned by the adopted, and such other facts as the court may require.

The court shall thereupon, if the adoptee is under twenty-one years of age, issue a rule with copy of the petition attached, which shall be served in such manner as the court shall therein direct, directed to all parties to the petition who do not appear and consent to the adoption, and to the Board of Public Welfare to verify the allegations of the petition, to make a thorough investigation for the purpose of ascertaining if the adoptee is a proper subject for adoption and if the home of the petitioner is a suitable one for the adoptee and within a period not in excess of ninety days to report its findings with recommendations to the court. If an investigation already has been made by a social agency approved by the court, the Board of Public Welfare shall accept it instead of making one itself: Provided, That the foregoing provisions of this section relating to investigations and reports by the Board of Public Welfare or an approved social agency shall not apply, if an investigation has already been made by a recognized religious or fraternal organization, having under its care minors for adoption, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and if such organization appears in the proceeding and reports to the court the results of its investigation and its recommendations with respect to the adoption. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 806, ch. 774, § 1; June 20, 1939, 53 Stat. 844, ch. 226.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The former section conferring jurisdiction of adoptions was repealed by § 7 of the 1937 act, and is set out as a compiler's note to § 16–207.

AMENDMENT

The 1939 amendment changed the word "thirty" in the last paragraph to "ninety."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONTROL OF CHILD BY COURT

The court was without jurisdiction of adoption proceeding where both the child and the child's custodian were in Virginia and so not in court's control. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

FUNCTION OF COURT

In adoption proceeding, it is function of District Court, not of appellate court, to determine the best interests of the infant. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

The provision of this section that the court shall, by special rules, insure that the interests of natural parents are fully before it, means that the court shall insure, to the fullest practicable extent, that the failure of the father of an adoptee born out of wedlock to acknowledge the adoptee is a definitive act. In re Adoption of a Minor. (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

NOTICE

In proceeding for adoption of illegitimate child, notice to the father is not jurisdictional but requirement is one of procedure and of essential fact; the father's name and location being known and he having been afforded no opportunity to present to the court an acknowledgment of the adoptee. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

This section requires that known natural father receive official notice unless he voluntarily appears and consents pursuant to some unofficial notice or knowledge. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

PROCEEDING AS STATUTORY

Adoption proceedings are statutory in character. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

PURPOSE OF STATUTE

Protection of adoptees and their interests is a dominant purpose of the adoption act. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

The process of adoption is for the protection of the child when the natural parents, if living, either repudiate, in the case of the mother, or fail to admit, in the case of the father, their responsibilities. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

REPORT OF BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE

An investigation by and the report of the Board of Public Welfare may not, in all cases, satisfy the statutory requirement that the interests of the adoptee be fully protected, as where no report was made as to the character of an absentee natural parent when this was a vital issue, assuming that the board was authorized to make such an investigation. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

§ 16–202 [15: 1b]. Persons who must consent—Adoptee—Parents, natural and adoptive—Consent of father of illegitimate adoptee not necessary—Circumstances.

If adoptee is under twenty-one years of age, no decree of adoption shall be made unless the court shall find that the following persons have consented to the adoption: Adoptee, if fourteen or more years of age; and the natural parents or adoptive parents by a previous adoption, if living. The consent of the father of an adoptee born out of wedlock shall not be necessary unless he has both acknowledged the adoptee and contributed voluntarily to its support. The consent of a parent who is a minor shall not be voidable because of that minority.

If adoptee shall have attained the age of twenty-one years or over, the only consents which shall be required are those of such adoptee, and its spouse, if any.

The consent of a natural parent, or parents, or adoptive parents by a previous adoption, may be dispensed with (1) where after such notice as the court shall direct it shall appear to the court that such person or persons can not be located; (2) where they have been permanently deprived of custody of the adoptee by court order; (3) where it shall appear to the court that they have abandoned the adoptee and voluntarily failed to contribute to his or her support for a period of at least one year next preceding the date of the filing of the petition; or (4) where investigation has shown to the satisfaction of the court extraordinary cause why such consent should be dispensed with. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

"Acknowledgment," within this section is a definitive acknowledgment. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

Natural father's acknowledgment of child, making it necessary to obtain his consent to adoption, must be established by definitive act and not by testimony concerning his actions and attitude from his initial knowledge of probable birth of child until the hearing. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

A natural father's failure to acknowledge child need not be affirmatively registered with court to permit adoption of child without his consent, but father cannot be concluded thereby if he is unaware that occasion for action has arisen. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

APPEARANCE OF ADOPTEES

Boys 12 and 14 years old, respectively, in proceedings to adopt them, should appear for examination by the court in order to bring their interests before it, when no one legally capable of representing them appears. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

APPLICATION FOR STAY

In proceeding for adoption of minor, where father's application for stay on ground that his ability to defend was seriously affected by reason of his military service, was supported by uncontested affidavits, denial of the application without finding whether father's ability to conduct defense was materially affected by reason of his military service was error. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1943 (136 F. 2d 790, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 48).

DISCRETIONARY POWER OF COURT

Since "extraordinary cause" must be established to the satisfaction of the court, a broad measure of discretion is vested in the District Court, and its decision on "this question" will be disturbed only on a showing that there has been a grave abuse of this discretion. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

FATHER'S RIGHTS

Under this section, the rights of the father of an illegitimate child in respect to adoption are the same as if the child were legitimate, if the father chooses to assert those rights. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

FEDERAL LAWS STAYING PROCEEDINGS

50 U. S. C. App., § 521, making mandatory the staying of proceeding when application is made on behalf of one in military service unless in court's opinion ability of "defendant" to conduct defense is not materially affected by reason of his military service, includes proceeding for adoption of minor child of person in military service. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1943 (136 F. 2d 790, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 48).

In proceeding for adoption of a minor wherein the minor's father filed application for stay on ground that his ability to defend was seriously affected by reason of his military service, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, 50 U. S. C. App., §§ 501 et seq., and 521, made it trial judge's duty to find whether the father's ability to conduct defense was materially affected by reason of his military service. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1943 (136 F. 2d 790, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 48).

The father of an illegitimate child, if he had been formally notified of adoption proceedings, would have had rights under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, 50 U. S. C. App. § 521. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

GUARDIAN AD LITEM

A request for the appointment of a guardian ad litem made by an absentee natural parent should be granted, in the absence of a rule otherwise providing. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

NATURAL PARENTS

"Natural parents" within this section includes the father of an illegitimate child, particularly in view of provision of this section specifying circumstances under which consent of father need not be secured. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

In this section prohibiting adoption decree unless court finds that natural parents have consented, use of plural "parents" confers basic right of consent upon natural father. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

NOTICE

In proceeding for adoption of illegitimate child, notice to the father is not jurisdictional but requirement is one of procedure and of essential fact; the father's name and location being known and he having been afforded no opportunity to present to the court an acknowledgment of the adoptee. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

PRESENCE OF CONSENTING PERSON AT HEARING

Under this chapter, consent of natural mother accompanying petition for adoption of an illegitimate infant is sufficient, and she need not be actually present, consenting at time of hearing. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

PROCEDURE GENERALLY

In adoption proceedings, the existence of consents of the parents, facts which justify failure to secure them and circumstances which permit their being dispensed with, are part of the procedure of reaching a just judgment. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

QUESTIONS OF FACT

Whether natural father acknowledged child and contributed voluntarily to its support, so as to require his consent to adoption, are questions of fact. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

SUFFICIENCY OF CONSENT

Where, two months prior to birth of illegitimate child, mother signed paper consenting to adoption after having obtained advice of her family physician and the mother acknowledged execution of the consent the day after the birth of the child, the consent was sufficient to satisfy statutory requirements. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

In adoption proceeding, record established that consent of natural mother was voluntarily given and was given with knowledge of its consequences. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

SUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE

Evidence warranted refusal to permit adoption of illegitimate child whose natural father was in naval service when child was born and when mother consented to adoption, on ground that he acknowledged child, contributed to its support and definitively refused to consent to adoption when official opportunity was offered. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 928).

VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS

Payments which father voluntarily sent to mother of child born out of wedlock, which were large in proportion to his pay, and which were sent during period from beginning of his receipt of pay until after child had been placed in custody of proposed adopters, were "voluntary contributions" within this section. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

The provision, in this section, that consent of the father of an adoptee born out of wedlock shall not be necessary unless he has both acknowledged the adoptee and contributed voluntarily to its support, does not require that the contribution occur after birth of the child. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

In proceedings for adoption of illegitimate child, whether payments by father were voluntary contributions to support of the child, within meaning of this section, was a question of law. In re Adoption of a Minor (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 870, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 138).

WITHDRAWAL OF CONSENT

A natural mother, who has freely and voluntarily given consent to adoption of her illegitimate child, cannot, without cause, withdraw that consent and thus prevent the adoption when the adoptive parents have accepted the child, paid expenses of pre-natal and post-natal care, made a home for the child, and in all respects satisfied requirements of this chapter governing adoption. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

In adoption proceeding involving question whether natural mother, who had freely and voluntarily given consent to adoption of her illegitimate child, could withdraw that consent, the fact that Board of Public Welfare and guardian ad litem appointed to represent the interest of the infant recommended against adoption was not controlling where both recommendations were made on assumption that the natural mother, as a matter of law, rightfully withdrew her consent. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

§ 16–203 [15: 1c]. Decree of adoption—Satisfaction of court—Adoptee to have lived with adoptor six months—Board of Public Welfare.

After considering the petition, the consents, and such evidence as the parties and any other properly interested person may wish to present, the court may enter a final decree of adoption if it is satisfied (a) that adoptee is physically, mentally, and otherwise suitable for adoption by the petitioner; (b) that the petitioner is fit and able to give the adoptee a proper home and education; and (c) that the change will be for the best interests of adoptee.

No final decree of adoption shall be entered unless the adoptee shall have been living with the adoptor at least six months prior to the filing of the petition. If, however, it shall appear in the interests of the adoptee, the court may enter an interlocutory decree for adoption, which decree shall by its terms automatically become a final decree of adoption on a day therein named, which shall not be more than six months from the entry of such interlocutory decree unless such decree shall be set aside for cause shown. If it shall appear in the interests of the adoptee, the Board of Public Welfare shall visit the adoptee during the period of the interlocutory decree at regular intervals. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPEALS

An aggrieved party may appeal from a final order of the District Court in an adoption proceeding. Barnes v. Paanakker (72 App. D. C. 39, 111 Fed. (2d) 193).

APPEARANCE

Where summons in adoption proceeding was delivered to child's legal custodian in another jurisdiction, his letter to clerk of court stating that he was not interested in outcome of suit and that letter was to be treated as his answer to the summons was not an "appearance," but a mere acknowledgement of summons. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

CONTROL OF CHILD BY COURT

The provision of this section that no final decree in adoption proceedings shall be entered unless child has lived for at least six months with adopting parents, and that an interlocutory decree may become final at the end of six months, contemplates placing child in custody of adopting parents at time of interlocutory decree, and indicates intent that child must be within the court's control. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

The court was without jurisdiction of adoption proceeding where both the child and the child's custodian were in Virginia and so not in court's control. Wathen v. Ugast, 1944 (143 F. 2d 160, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 162).

EVIDENCE, ADMISSIBILITY

In adoption proceeding, reports from guardian ad litem appointed to represent interest of infant and from Board of Public Welfare, and such other information and advice as might be available, were admissible on issue of best interests of infant. In re Adoption of a Minor, 1944 (144 F. 2d 644, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 191, 156 A. L. R. 1001).

§ 16–204 [15: 1d]. Notice to vital Statistics Bureau, Health Department—New record made—Original birth certificate sealed.

Notice of a final decree of adoption shall be sent to the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Health Department. This Bureau shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name and with the names of the adopter and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the order of the court and such sealed package shall be opened only by order of court. If the adoption occurred outside of the District of Columbia, upon filing with the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Health Department a certified copy of the final decree of adoption, the Bureau shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name with the names of the adopters, and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the certified copy of the final decree of adoption; and such sealed package shall be opened only by order of a court of competent jurisdiction. If the birth occurred outside of the District of Columbia, the clerk of the court shall, upon petition by the adopter, furnish him with a certified copy of the final decree of adoption. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 807, ch. 774, § 4; June 6, 1940, 54 Stat. 235, ch. 244; June 26, 1946, 60 Stat. 314, ch. 499.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 6, 1940, added to the last sentence.

The act of June 26, 1946, cited to text, added the third sentence relating to adoptions occurring outside the District of Columbia.

§ 16–205 [15: 1e]. Relationship of adoptee and adopter—Rights of inheritance and succession qualified—Adoptee's family name—Given name.

Entry of a final decree of adoption shall establish the relation of natural parent and natural child between adoptor and adoptee for all purposes including mutual rights of inheritance and succession the same as if adoptee was born of adoptor, except that adoptee shall not inherit from collateral relatives of or the parents of adoptor although such collateral relatives and parents of adoptor shall have the right of inheritance from adoptee. All rights and duties including those of inheritance and succession between adoptee, his or her natural parents, their issue, collateral relatives, and so forth, shall be cut off. In the event one of the natural parents shall be the spouse of petitioner, then the rights and relations as between adoptee, such natural parent, and his or her parents and collateral relatives, including mutual rights of inheritance and succession, shall in nowise be altered.

The family name of the adoptee shall be changed to that of adoptor unless the decree shall otherwise provide, and the given name of the adoptee may be fixed or changed at the same time. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION OF STATUTE

Although the petiitoner is an adopted child of decedent, her maternal grandmother, and was such at the time of decedent's death, the adoption decree being prior to August 25, 1937, § 16–205 does not cut off her right of distribution from the estate of the decedent and she is entitled to the sole distribution. In Re Penfield's Estate (D. C. D. C., 1949, 81 F. Supp. 622).

CONSTRUCTION

The question of the right of petitioner to inherit from her natural aunt, though her relationship to her natural father was cut off by the 1937 Act, is governed by provisions of section 16–205, which by its very terms is prospective since the whole concept of adoption was altered by the new act and relates to the decrees entered under it. Hall v. Scarlett (C. A. D. C. 1950, 181 F. 2d 277, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 165).

§ 16–206 [15: 1f]. Records open to inspection upon court order only—Records sealed—Application for leave to inspect—Docket of adoption proceedings.

Records and papers in adoption proceedings, after the petition is filed and prior to the entry of a final decree, shall be open to inspection by the parties or their attorneys and members of the Board of Public Welfare or their agents, upon order of the court. Upon the entry of a final decree the Board of Public Welfare and the clerk of the court shall seal all papers in the proceedings. Said seals shall not be broken, and said papers shall not be inspected by any person, including the parties to the proceeding, except upon order of the court. Application for leave to inspect papers in adoption proceedings shall be by petition and shall be granted only for extraordinary cause shown. The court may appoint a master to consider and investigate the facts upon which such a petition is based, who shall make his findings and recommendations to the court.

The clerk of the court shall keep a docket of all adoption proceedings which shall only be inspected upon order of the court upon the same conditions hereinabove set out for the inspection of papers. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 6.)

§ 16–207 [15: 1g]. Provisions not retroactive—Former orders and decrees valid.

The provisions of sections 16–201 to 16–207 shall have no retroactive effect and shall not be construed as affecting in any way the rights and relations obtained by any decree of adoption entered prior to August 25, 1937, and all proceedings instituted and pending on August 25, 1937, shall be carried to their final determination in accordance with the provisions of section 395 of the Act of March 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1252, ch. 854, as if sections 16–201 to 16–207 had not been enacted, and all orders and decrees entered therein shall remain valid and binding on all parties thereby affected. (Aug. 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 808, ch. 774, § 7.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

Section 7 of the act of 1937 contains the following as its first sentence: "Section 395 (title 15, sec. 1, New Code) of the Code of Law of the District of Columbia is hereby repealed." This is the section referred to above and was set out as follows in D. C. Code, 1929 Edit., title 15, § 1: "Section 1. Adoption.—Jurisdiction is hereby conferred on any judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia to hear and determine any petition that may be presented by a person or a husband and wife residing in the District of Columbia, praying the privilege of adopting any minor child as his or her or their own child, and making such minor child an heir at law. If the judge shall find, upon the hearing of such petition, that the petitioner is a proper person to have custody of such child, and that the parent or parents or guardian of such child have given their permission for such adoption, he shall enter an order upon the records of the court legalizing such adoption and making such child an heir at law of such petitioner, the same as if such child was born to such petitioner. If the child has no parent or guardian the judge shall appoint a guardian ad litem. (Feb. 26, 1895, 28 Stat. 687, ch. 134; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1252, ch. 854, § 395.)"

NOTES TO DECISIONS

APPLICATION OF STATUTE

The non-retroactive provisions of § 16–207 have application only to proceedings in the District under the 1901 Act, completed before or pending at the time of the effective date of the Act of August 25, 1937, but they clearly evidence its policy that other provisions of the latter Act, including those cutting off the rights of the adoptee to inherit from natural parents and collateral relatives, should not be construed as having application contrary to such policy. In Re Penfield's Estate (D. C. D. C., 1949, 81 F. Supp. 622).

CONSTRUCTION

The question of the right of petitioner to inherit from her natural aunt, though her relationship to her natural father was cut off by the 1937 Act, is governed by provisions of section 16–205 which by its very terms is prospective since the whole concept of adoption was altered by the new act and relates to the decrees entered under it. Hall v. Scarlett (C. A. D. C. 1950, 181 F. 2d 277, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 165).

16–333. Attachment applies to joint credits, agents, trustees—Judgment protects garnishee — Not applicable to partnerships.
16–334. Attachment dockets.
16–335. Attachment provisions of code apply to municipal court.

§ 16–301 [24: 121]. Attachment before judgment—Bond and affidavit—Causes.

In any action at law in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia or the municipal court of said District, for the recovery of specific personal property, or a debt, or damages for the breach of a contract, express or implied, if the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, either at the commencement of the action or pending the same, shall file an affidavit showing the grounds of his claim and setting forth that the plaintiff has a just right to recover what is claimed in his declaration, and where the action is to recover specific personal property stating the nature and, according to affiant's belief, the value of said property and the probable amount of damages to which the plaintiff is entitled for the detention thereof, and where the action is to recover a debt stating the amount thereof, and where the action is to recover damages for the breach of a contract setting out, specifically and in detail, the breach complained of and the actual damage resulting therefrom, and also stating either, first, that the defendant is a foreign corporation or is not a resident of the District, or has been absent therefrom for at least six months; or, second, that the defendant evades the service of ordinary process by concealing himself or temporarily withdrawing himself from the District; or, third, that he has removed or is about to remove some or all of his property from the District, so as to defeat just demands against him; or, fourth, that he has assigned, conveyed, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, convey, dispose of, or secrete his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors; or, fifth, that the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which the action is brought, the clerk shall issue a writ of attachment and garnishment, to be levied upon so much of the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, and credits of the defendant as may be necessary to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff: Provided, That the plaintiff shall first file in the clerk's office a bond, executed by himself or his agent, with security to be approved by the clerk, in twice the amount of his claim, conditioned to make good to the defendant all costs and damages which he may sustain by reason of the wrongful suing out of the attachment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 445; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 563, ch. 153.)

Compiler's Note

Section 9 of act of March 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, provided as follows: "The provisions of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia relating to attachments shall apply to attachment proceedings in said Municipal Court." This is set out as § 16–335 hereof.

Amendment

The 1920 amendment deleted the words "supported by the testimony of one or more witnesses" after the word "affidavit," and added the words "or municipal court."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Affidavits

Affidavits in an attachment proceeding become a part of the record on appeal. Barbour v. Paige Hotel Co. (2 App. D. C. 174).

An affidavit fully complies with the statute which states the ultimate fact substantially in its terms, without stating in connection therewith the probative facts which may be necessary to be shown in case of traverse. The same rule applies also to the allegation of the intent with which the act may have been done. Wielar v. Garner (4 App. D. C. 329).

It is ordinarily sufficient in an affidavit for attachment to follow the words of the statute substantially without stating the probative facts which go to show the ultimate conclusion. Cissell v. Johnston (4 App. D. C. 335).

Though the affidavit preceding the issuance of the writ may be so defective as to warrant a reversal of the judgment by an appellate court, such defect will not deprive the court of the jurisdiction acquired by the writ levied upon defendant's property. The proceeding being in rem, the levy of the writ "is the one essential requisite to jurisdiction." Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194).

Affidavit in attachment before judgment required need not employ the precise language of this section, but words must be sufficiently similar to those of this section to allow drawing of conclusion which is called for by the exact language of this section. Rieffer v. Home Indem. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 26, modified, 1948, 62 A. 2d 371).

Affidavit in support of attachment before judgment alleging that defendant left the District of Columbia at a time shown by affidavit to be within six months before filing of affidavit, that defendant's present whereabouts were unknown, and that defendant had temporarily withdrawn himself from district, was fatally defective for not alleging that defendant was evading the service of ordinary process by his withdrawal. Rieffer v. Home Indem. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 26, modified, 1948, 62 A. 2d 371).

Bond

Where an attachment is issued against the property of one of several defendants, the bond properly runs to him and not to the other defendants against whom attachment did not issue. Bradford v. Brown (22 App. D. C. 455).

If the bond is defective, the defendant may move to quash the attachment. Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194). See also Hayes v. Conger (36 App. D. C. 202).

Bond is sufficient if it is twice the amount sued upon; "uncertain costs and interest which may accrue during litigation are no part of a plaintiff's claim at the date of suit." Rhodes v. Bowling Green White Stone Co. (43 App. D. C. 298).

A surety on a bond given under section 454 of the Code (§ 16–310) can not object, except in case of fraud, to defects in original affidavits which render the attachment merely voidable. National Surety Co. v. Poates (43 App. D. C. 334).

The requirements of this section as to the filing of a bond are not superseded by the act of April 19, 1920 (41 Stat. 564), section 479a of the Code (§ 28–2403). Tri-State Motor Corp. v. Standard Steel Car Co. (51 App. D. C. 109, 276 Fed. 631).

Breach of Contract

Where defendant did not sound his case in tort, as he might have done, but sued specifically for breach of the lease agreement, charging that defendant had damaged the premises in breach of the lease agreement, such allegations brought his claim within the provisions of the attachment statute. Fink v. Katz (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 813).

Burden of Proof

To sustain writ of attachment, plaintiff had burden of proving that defendant was a nonresident. D'Elia & Marks Co. v. Lyon (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 647).

Construction

In order for an attachment before judgment to be issued, the defendant must not be a resident of the District. The statute clearly prescribes residence, as distinguished from domicile, as the controlling factor. A man's residence is where he actually dwells and must be a fixed and permanent abode. Fink v. Katz (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 813).

Executors and Administrators

"Neither executors nor administrators are named in the section as subject to attachment, and as the attachment of the property of an estate is obviously inconsistent with the law of administration, nothing less, we think, than express authorization would warrant." Jordan v. Landram (35 App. D. C. 89), citing Graham v. Fitch (13 App. D. C. 569), referring to foreign executors, compare § 16-313.

FOREIGN CORPORATION

A foreign corporation, notwithstanding its exclusive engagement in business in the District, its organization for that purpose only, and the continuous presence of its secretary and treasurer therein, is a nonresident and subject to attachment as such. Barbour v. Paige Hotel Co. (2 App. D. C. 174).

INTEREST IN TRUST

In suit by divorced wife of trust beneficiary to establish interest in trust fund, wife could not recover fund due as alimony or for the benefit of creditors, in absence of personal service on beneficiary or an attachment of his equitable interest in fund after execution of bond. Buchanan v. National Sav. & Trust Co., 1944 (146 F. 2d 13, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 278).

JURISDICTION

When debtor leaves city taking all cash with him and leaves no information as to where he is going or when he will return, a creditor after making unsuccessful attempts to locate him is justified in assuming that he left for the purpose of evading the process and a writ of attachment will lie. Wilkins & Co. v. Hillman (8 App. D. C. 469).

The question of the jurisdiction of the court to issue the attachment must be decided solely upon the sufficiency of the declaration, regardless of defenses available to defendant since these are waived by its motion to dissolve the attachment. Orenstein & Koppel, Aktiengesellschaft v. Koppel Industrial Car Equipment Co. (59 App. D. C. 221, 38 Fed. (2d) 532).

MEMBER OF CONGRESS

A member of Congress, present in the District to attend its sessions, is to be regarded (in the absence of a plain, unequivocal statement to the contrary) as a resident of the state which he represents, and therefore a nonresident of the District within the meaning of the attachment statute. Howard v. Trust Co. (12 App. D. C. 222), citing Robinson v. Morrison (2 App. D. C. 105).

NONRESIDENT

"Nonresident", as used in this section, must be taken in its ordinary and usual signification. D'Elia & Marks Co. v. Lyon (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 647).

Whether defendant was subject to attachment as a nonresident would be determined as of time of issuing and serving writ of attachment. D'Elia & Marks Co. v. Lyon (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 647).

That defendant had an established office in the District of Columbia and presumably was available for personal service was not material in determining whether he was a "nonresident" within this section. D'Elia & Marks Co. v. Lyon (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 647).

Evidence that physician with office in District of Columbia boarded up his Maryland home and, with his family, moved to expensive apartment in the District of Columbia under one-year lease, intending to move back to Maryland when he could afford it, authorized quashing of attachment of physician's property on ground that physician was not a "nonresident" of the District of Columbia. D'Elia & Marks Co. v. Lyon (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 647).

Where nonresident taxicab operator's taxicab driver was lured into the District of Columbia in order that taxicab might be attached there the court would in order to protect its process quash the attachment and direct return of cash deposit which was made in lieu of bond to perform judgment of the court. Guardian Management Corp. v. Huffman (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 472).

That defendant as a common carrier regularly sent its taxicabs into the District of Columbia would not change the effect of procuring the presence of defendant's taxicab in the District by misrepresentation in order that the taxicab might be attached. Guardian Management Corp. v. Huffman (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 472).

PROPERTY ATTACHED

Attachment may be levied against property of the defendant in the possession of the plaintiff. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

Under this and following sections credits may be attached as well as chattels. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

REMOVAL OF PROPERTY

A mere suspicion that the defendant intends to remove his property from the District is not sufficient to justify an attachment. Mackenzie v. Crouse (35 App. D. C. 291).

SPENDTHRIFT TRUST

A spendthrift trust may under some circumstances be subjected to the obligation to support a wife or child, but enforcement of such obligation requires either personal service on beneficiary or an attachment of his equitable interest in the fund after execution of bond. Buchanan v. National Sav. & Trust Co., 1944 (146 F. 2d 13, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 278).

STATEMENT OF DAMAGES

Attachment statute is not only meant to apply to those actions for damages for breach of contract which are precisely liquidated and ascertained. The object of the statute is to require such a statement of the damages suffered as will be informing to the defendant and enable him to prepare himself to meet the issue tendered. Suter v. Lockwood Dental Co. (45 App. D. C. 92).

§ 16-302 [24: 122]. Notice—Service—Personal and by publication—Form.

Every such writ shall require the marshal to serve a notice on the defendant, if he be found in the District, and on any person in whose possession any property or credits of the defendant may be attached, to appear in said court on or before the twentieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after service of such notice, and show cause, if any there be, why the property so attached should not be condemned and execution thereof had; and the marshal's return shall show the fact of such service. If the defendant is returned "Not to be found," such notice shall be given by publication to the following effect, namely:

In the District (Municipal) Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

A B, plaintiff,
versus
C D, defendant. } At law. Numbered —.

The object of this suit is to recover (here state it briefly) and to have judgment of condemnation of certain property of the defendant levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy the plaintiff's claim.

It is, therefore, this —— day of ——, ordered that the defendant appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the day of the first publication of this order, to defend this suit and show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the suit will be proceeded with as in case of default.

By the court:

—— ——, Justice.

And every such order shall be published at least once a week for three successive weeks or oftener, or for such further time and in such manner as may be ordered by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 446.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The alternative name "Municipal" has been inserted by the compiler in conformity with § 11–703, which gives the Municipal Court jurisdiction in attachment proceedings "in which the claimed value of the personal property or the debt or damages claimed, exclusive of interest and costs does not exceed $1,000." See also compiler's note to § 16–301.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CREDITS

The court cites and construes Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752), and says it is unable to discover a distinction that would permit the attachment of chattels and not of credits. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

One purpose of this section is to protect the rights of third parties in whose possession the property may be. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

PARTIES

Under this and following sections, the Attorney General must be made a party in suit to compel the payment of a judgment of condemnation, where such officer has succeeded the Alien Property Custodian. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

PROPERTY IN SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Property in a safe-deposit box in a trust company is subject to garnishment. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

§ 16–303 [24: 123]. Interrogatories — Answers within ten days—Oral examination.

In all cases of attachment the plaintiff may exhibit interrogatories in writing in such form as may be allowed by the rules or special order of the court, to be served on any garnishee, concerning any property of the defendant in his possession or charge, or any indebtedness of his to the defendant at the time of the service of the attachment, or between the time of such service and the filing of his answers to said interrogatories; and the garnishee shall file his answers under oath to such interrogatories within ten days after service of the same upon him. In addition to the answers to written interrogatories required of him, the garnishee may, on motion, be required to appear in court and be examined orally under oath touching any property or credits of the defendant in his hands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 447.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ANSWER BY CORPORATION

Quaere: Where a corporation garnishee may answer per alium through an agent or must answer per se, through its officers. Particularly when no effort was made to examine deponent orally as to the scope of his authority. International Seal Co. v. Beyer (33 App. D. C. 172). Compare Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194), as to authority of agent to execute bond.

An affidavit signed by the president, secretary, or other proper officer of a corporation is prima facie to be considered the act of the corporation. International Seal Co. v. Beyer (33 App. D. C. 172).

A corporation garnishee may make answer, subscribed and sworn to by a representative of the corporation as "associate counsel." Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Flynn (60 App. D. C. 108, 48 Fed. (2d) 1020).

FAILURE TO ANSWER IN TIME

Upon failure of garnishee to answer within time limit, adverse party must apply to enforce such default. A failure to do so is a tacit consent to an extension of time within which the answer may be filed. Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23).

It is not necessary to secure leave of court to file the answer after expiration of time limit, when no steps have been taken to enforce default. Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23).

Court cites Banville v. Sullivan (11 App. D. C. 23, 29), and says the limitation there is not for the benefit of the pleader, but for his opponent, and, if the opponent fails to take advantage of the default, failure to plead in time will be deemed waived. Shannon & Luchs Constrn. Co. v. Reichelderfer (61 App. D. C. 36, 57 Fed. (2d) 402).

NOTICE

When the garnishment is served on the garnishee, the suit becomes a suit in personam against the garnishee and he is entitled to notice. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

ORAL EXAMINATION

This section permits of an oral examination of the garnishee as broad as the one in writing, and can be invoked although garnishee has not admitted in his written answers that in fact he has property or credits of the defendant in his hands. Fidelity Sav. Co. v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (55 App. D. C. 180, 3 Fed. (2d) 351).

A traverse of the answer is not a condition precedent to the exercise of the right to require oral examination. Flynn v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (60 App. D. C. 82, 47 Fed. (2d) 978).

SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Trust company must answer interrogatory as to whether or not defendant has a safe-deposit box. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

§ 16–304 [24: 124]. Additional attachments.

Upon the application of the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney, other attachments founded on the original affidavits may be issued from time to time, to be directed, executed, and returned in the same manner as the original, and without further publication, against a nonresident or absent defendant, and without additional bond, unless required by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1259, ch. 854, § 448.)

§ 16–305 [24: 125]. Sufficiency of bond.

In case the defendant or any other person interested in the proceedings is not satisfied with the sufficiency of the surety or sureties or with the amount of the penalty named in the bond aforesaid, he may apply to the court for an order requiring the plaintiff to give an additional bond in such sum and with such security as may be approved by the court; and in case of the plaintiff's failure to comply with any such order the court may order the attachment to be quashed and any property attached or its proceeds to be returned to the defendant or otherwise disposed of, as to the court may seem proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 449.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Defendant has the right when not satisfied with the sufficiency of the surety on the bond or amount of its penalty to apply for order requiring plaintiff to give additional bond or, if the bond is defective, move to quash the writ. Moses v. Hayes (36 App. D. C. 194).

§ 16–306 [24: 126]. Debts not due — Affidavit — Supported by witnesses—Causes—Bond—Dismissal without prejudice.

A creditor may maintain an action and have an attachment against his debtor's property and credits, as aforesaid, where his debt is not yet due and payable, provided the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney shall file in the clerk's office, at the commencement of the action, an affidavit, supported by the testimony of one or more witnesses, as to the amount and justice of the claim and the time when it will be payable, and also setting forth that the defendant has removed or is removing or intends to remove a material part of his property from the District with the intent or to the effect of defeating just claims against him should only the ordinary process of law be used to obtain judgment against him, and shall also comply with the condition as to filing a bond prescribed by section 16–301. The plaintiff in such case shall not have judgment before his claim becomes due; and in case the attachment is quashed the action shall be dismissed, but without prejudice to a future action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 450.)

§ 16–307 [24: 127]. Traversing affidavits—Counter-affidavits—Quashing writ of attachment—Trial of issue—Notice—Oral testimony—Jury.

If the defendant in any case shall file affidavits traversing the affidavits filed by the plaintiff the court shall determine whether the facts set forth in the plaintiff's affidavits as ground for issuing the attachment are true, and whether there was just ground for issuing the attachment; and if, in the opinion of the court, the proofs do not sustain the affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney the court shall quash the writ of attachment; and this issue may be tried by the court or a judge at chambers after three days' notice. The said issue may be tried as well upon oral testimony as upon affidavits, and, if the court shall deem it expedient, a jury may be impaneled to try the issue. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 451.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

Evidence sustained finding that fraud relied on as basis for attachment of automobile had not been proved and that the attachment should be quashed. Davis v. Trumbull (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 622).

JOINDER OF DEFENDANTS

A single defendant may move to quash an attachment even though he is not joined by other defendants. Davis v. Trumbull (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 622).

JURY TRIAL

The right to trial by jury is governed by this section and not by rule of Municipal Court dealing with right to trial by jury. Davis v. Trumbull (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 622).

Where defendant filed an affidavit traversing plaintiff's affidavit on which writ of attachment was issued and request for jury trial was made on a Saturday, and judge offered to set motion for jury trial on the following Monday, and plaintiff's counsel said he could not be ready until the following Wednesday or Thursday, whereupon the judge ordered the hearing to proceed without a jury, there was no improper exercise of discretion. Davis v. Trumbull (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 622).

REVIEW

The credibility of witnesses and the weight to be given to their testimony could not be determined on appeal from order of Municipal Court quashing writ of attachment. Davis v. Trumbull (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 622).

SERVICE OF PROCESS

Where motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment rested on claim that service on defendant had not been made and that Small Claims Branch of District of Columbia Municipal Court acquired no jurisdiction over defendant, motion was sufficiently broad to include by implication an attack on service of process, and irregularity was cured by subsequent filing of motion to quash service, and filing of motion to vacate judgment and quash attachment was "special" and not "general appearance", and going to trial on merits after denial of such motion did not preclude defendant from raising jurisdictional question on appeal. Ellerbe v. Goldberg (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 232).

§ 16–308 [24: 128]. Property subject to attachment—Lien.

Attachments may be levied on the lands and tenements, whether leasehold or freehold, and personal chattels of the defendant not exempt by law, whether in the defendant's or a third person's possession, and whether said defendant's title to said property be legal or equitable, and upon his credits in the hands of a third person, whether due and payable or not, and upon his undivided interest in a partnership business. Every attachment shall be a lien on the property attached from the date of its delivery to the marshal, and if different persons obtain attachments against the same defendant the priorities of the liens of said attachments shall be according to the dates when they were so delivered to the marshal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 452.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CHATTELS SUBJECT TO DEED OF TRUST

Attachment is proper against chattels which are subject to a deed of trust as the deed of trust is in favor of the plaintiff in the suit in which the attachment is issued. Richmond v. Cake (1 App. D. C. 447).

DEPOSITS

Where judgment creditor to collect judgment attached judgment debtor's deposit account, evidence sustained judgment rejecting debtor's contention that the funds attached were trust funds not subject to attachment. Laughlin v. Bank of Commerce & Savings, 1943 (134 F. 2d 530, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 312).

PAYMENT ON ACCOUNT—ANOTHER CONTRACT

Where judgment debtor has made a deposit with company on account of the purchase price under another contract, such funds may not be reclaimed by the judgment debtor without the seller's consent, and, being payable upon a contingency, is not subject to garnishment by the judgment creditor. Wheeler v. Thomas ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 702).

PROCEEDS OF SALE

Proceeds of the sale of property in the hands of a purchaser from a foreign receiver who brought the property into this jurisdiction (and was vested with title and a right to sell the same) are not subject to attachment by domestic creditor of original owner. Jenkins v. Purcell (29 App. D. C. 209, 9 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1074).

RENTS ACCRUING AFTER SERVICE

Rents which accrued after service of the garnishment constituted a contingent liability when the garnishment was levied and was not subject to garnishment. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Attachment may be levied against safe-deposit box. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

"THIRD PERSON" MAY BE PLAINTIFF

Attachment may be levied against property of the defendant in the possession of the plaintiff. Harriman v. Richardson (51 App. D. C. 24, 273 Fed. 752).

WAIVER OF EXEMPTION

Funds of an individual in possession of District of Columbia or its officers are not subject to attachment or garnishment in an ordinary proceeding to recover on a debt or other like claim, but exemption is allowed only for convenience of municipality and may be claimed by it alone and not by another, and the District of Columbia may waive it. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

The exemption of District of Columbia from attachment or garnishment, in an ordinary proceeding to recover on a debt or other like claim against an individual whose funds are held by the District, is waived by a failure or refusal to claim the exemption. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

§ 16-309 [24: 129]. How levied on real property—Service of copy and notice.

The attachment shall be sufficiently levied on the lands and tenements of the defendant by said property being mentioned and described in an indorsement on said attachment, made by the officer to whom it is delivered for service, to the following effect, namely:

Levied on the following estate of the defendant, AB, to wit: (Here describe) this —— day of ——.

C D, Marshal.

And by service of a copy of said attachment, with said indorsement, and the notice required by section 16–302 on the person, if any, in possession of said property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1260, ch. 854, § 453.)

§ 16-310 [24: 130]. How levied on personal chattels.

The attachment shall be levied upon personal chattels by the officer taking the same into his possession and custody, unless the defendant shall give to the officer his undertaking, to be filed in the cause, with sufficient security, to the following effect, namely:

A B, plaintiff,
versus
C D, defendant. } At law. Numbered —.

The defendant and ——, his surety, in consideration of the discharge from the custody of the marshal of the property seized by him, upon the attachment sued out against the defendant, on the —— day of ——, anno Domini nineteen hundred ——, in the above entitled cause, appear, and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, hereby undertake, for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, and administrators, or successors or assigns, to abide by and perform the judgment of the court in the premises in relation to said property, which judgment may be rendered against all the parties whose names are hereto signed.

(Signed) C D.
E F.

Or unless the person in whose possession the property is attached shall give to the officer, to be filed in the cause, an undertaking in the following form or to the same effect, namely:

A B, plaintiff,
versus
C D, defendant. } At law. Numbered —.

Whereas by virtue of an attachment issued in the above-entitled suit, the United States marshal for the District of Columbia has attached certain property in the hands of the undersigned E F, as garnishee, namely, (here describe) of the value of —— dollars; and now, therefore, the said E F and G H, as surety, appearing in said suit, and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, hereby undertake for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, and administrators to abide by the judgment of the court in relation to said property, and that if the same shall be condemned to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, judgment may be rendered against all of the undersigned for the value of said property and costs, to be executed against them, and each of them, unless said property shall be forthcoming to satisfy the judgment of condemnation.

(Signed) E F.
G H.

And in either of said cases the attachment shall be sufficiently levied by the taking of the undertaking, as above provided for; and in the latter case the recital of the undertaking shall contain a sufficient description of the property and its value, which value shall be ascertained by an appraisement to be made under direction of the officer and returned with the writ. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1261, ch. 854, § 454; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "administrators" the words "or successors or assigns," and deleted the word "seal" and the brackets inclosing the same following the signatures on both forms.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section was not unconstitutional. United Surety Co. v. American Fruit Product Co. (238 U. S. 140, 59 L. Ed. 1238, 35 Sup. Ct. 828).

WAIVER

Where non-resident taxicab owner procured release of attached taxicab by cash deposit instead of giving bond as required by this section such irregularity was waived and case was required to be disposed of as if bond had been given to perform judgment of the court. Guardian Management Corp. v. Huffman (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 472).

§ 16-311 [24: 131]. Release from attachment—Undertaking—Acceptance by marshal—Marshal's liability—Undertaking approved by court—Judgment after release.

Either the defendant or the person in whose possession the property was may obtain a release of the same from the attachment, after it has been taken into the custody of the marshal and the writ has been returned, by giving the undertaking required of him as aforesaid, with security to be approved by the court.

The plaintiff may except to the sufficiency of the undertaking accepted as aforesaid by the marshal and, if the exceptions be sustained, the court shall require a new undertaking, with sufficient surety, by a day to be named, in default of which he shall be liable to the plaintiff on his official bond for any loss sustained by the plaintiff through such default.

Either the defendant or the person in whose possession credits are attached may obtain a release of the same from the attachment by filing an undertaking with security to be approved by the court.

If property or credits attached be released upon an undertaking given as aforesaid, and judgment in the action be rendered in favor of the plaintiff, it shall be a joint judgment against both the defendant and all persons in said undertaking for the appraised value of the property or the amount of the credits. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1261, ch. 854, § 455; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 564, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "rule the marshal to file" in the second paragraph, and inserted in lieu thereof the word "require."

The 1920 amendment added the third paragraph, and changed the wording of the first sentence in the last paragraph which formerly read: "If the property attached be delivered to the defendant upon his executing an undertaking as aforesaid * * *".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This section was not unconstitutional. United Surety Co. v. American Fruit Product Co. (238 U. S. 140, 59 L. Ed. 1238, 35 Sup. Ct. 828).

DUTY TO OBTAIN RELEASE—MEASURE OF DAMAGES

When the plaintiff's car was taken from him, he could have procured its return immediately by giving an undertaking under this section, and it was his duty to do so and thus to reduce the defendant's liability, except if he were financially unable to do so. Moses v. Lockwood (54 App. D. C. 115, 295 Fed. 936, 33 A. L. R. 1467).

REMEDY AGAINST SURETY

Bond given under this section to obtain release of attached property is binding upon defendant's surety notwithstanding the fact that defendant was declared bankrupt within four months thereafter. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Shepherd (56 App. D. C. 117, 11 Fed. (2d) 563).

In taking judgment solely against the main defendant, together with the subsequent step against the garnishee as outlined, defendant in error waived his right to pursue his remedy against the surety. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Hurley (63 App. D. C. 377, 72 Fed. (2d) 927).

UNDERTAKING AS WARRANTING RELEASE

Where judgment debtor tendered an undertaking with security to perform outstanding judgment against him, the judgment debtor was not prejudiced by court's refusal to release attachment of money, since it could make no difference to the judgment debtor whether he paid the amount out of the attached funds or out of the security which he tendered with his undertaking. Laughlin v. Bank of Commerce & Savings, 1943 (134 F. 2d 530, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 312).

UNDERTAKING—TIME FOR FILING

Under this section, right to release of attachment by filing an undertaking is granted solely where the attachment is made before judgment. Bank of Commerce & Savings v. Laughlin (D. C., D. C. 1941, 38 F. Supp. 755).

Where judgment debtor tendered an undertaking with security to perform outstanding judgment against him, and asked court to release attachment, the request was properly denied, since this section authorizes release of attachment before judgment but not after judgment. Laughlin v. Bank of Commerce & Savings, 1943 (134 F. 2d 530, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 312).

§ 16–312 [24: 132]. How levied on credits—Copy of writ—Notice—Interrogatories—Partnership—Retention by garnishee—Liability—Avoidance by advance payment of salary or wages.

(a) The attachment shall be levied on credits of the defendant, in the hands of a garnishee, by serving the latter with a copy of the writ of attachment and of the interrogatories accompanying the same, and a notice that any property or credits of the defendant in his hands are seized by virtue of the attachment, besides the notice required by section 16–302; and the undivided interest of the defendant in a partnership business shall be levied on by a similar service on the defendant's partner or partners.

The garnishee, in any case in which the property or credits attached or sought to be attached is held by him in the name of or for the account of another than the defendant, shall retain such property or credits during the period pending determination by the court of the propriety of the attachment or the rightful owner of such property or credits, and, during such period, shall incur no liability whatsoever for such retention.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any employer to pay salary or wages to an employee in advance of the time the same shall be due and payable, for the purpose of avoiding or preventing an attachment or garnishment against the earnings or salary of such employee, and such advance payment, as to the attaching creditor, shall be void: Provided, That after the service of one writ of attachment or garnishment on a judgment against an employer, any payment of salary or earnings thereafter before the time when said salary or earnings are due and payable, made within a period of six months after the date of service of said writ or before the earlier satisfaction of such judgment, whichever is the earlier, shall as to such attaching creditor be presumed to be in violation of this subsection and shall cast upon the said employer the burden of proving that such advance payment or payments were not for the purpose of avoiding the attachment of such salary or earnings. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 456; Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 8 (a); Dec. 20, 1944, 58 Stat. 819, ch. 610, § 4.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of Apr. 5, 1939, cited to text, added the second paragraph.

The act of Dec. 20, 1944, cited to text, amended section by inserting "(a)" preceding "The attachment", and by adding subsec. (b).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADVANCE PAYMENTS

Evidence is quite clear that employer did not make an advance payment to employee on last working day and hence the code provision does not apply. American Nat. Red Cross v. Jameson (C. A. D. C. 1949, 178 F. 2d 717; 85 U. S. App. D. C. 381).

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

The writ of attachment and interrogatories served upon Alien Property Custodian whose office was later abolished and whose duties descended to Attorney General were not binding upon Attorney General. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

EFFECT OF SERVICE

Court cites Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149) and says the effect of the service of the writ of garnishment was to place the property of the judgment debtor in the garnishee's hands in custodia legis. International Finance Corp. v. Jawish (63 App. D. C. 262, 71 Fed. (2d) 985).

MONEY PAYABLE UPON CONTINGENCY OR CONDITION

Money payable upon a contingency or condition is not subject to garnishment until the contingency has happened or the condition has been fulfilled. Wheeler v. Thomas ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 702).

PROPERTY IN SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

"Property of a defendant in a safe-deposit box of a trust company is either in the possession of the defendant or in the possession of the trust company. If it is in the possession of the defendant, under the code, it appears liable to attachment and execution. If it is in the possession of the trust company, such company may be garnisheed therefor, as in possession of personal property of the defendant capable of being seized and sold on execution." Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

§ 16–313 [24: 133]. Levy upon judgment or decree—Money in hands of marshal, coroner, executor, and administrators—No judgment against executor or administrator, until passing of account.

Attachments may be levied upon debts owing by any person to the defendant upon judgment or decree by a similar service upon such party as in section 16–312 directed; but execution may issue for the enforcement of such judgment or decree, notwithstanding the attachment, provided that the money collected upon the same be required to be paid into court to abide the event of the proceedings in attachment and applied as the court may direct.

It may also be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of the marshal or coroner, and shall bind the same from the time of service, and shall be a legal excuse to the officer for not paying or delivering the same, as he would otherwise be bound to do.

The attachment may also be levied upon money or property of the defendant in the hands of an executor or administrator, and shall bind the same from the time of service; but if the executor or administrator shall make return to the writ that he can not certainly answer whether the defendant's share of the money or property in his hands will prove sufficient to pay the plaintiff's debt, no judgment of condemnation shall be rendered as against such executor or administrator until the passage by the probate court of his final or other account showing money or property in his hands to which the defendant is entitled. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 457; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The name "orphan's court" was used in the 1902 act; this name has been changed to the "probate court." See § 11–501.

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment added the last paragraph.

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 16–301. Jordan v. Landram (35 App. D. C. 89).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AGENT, ATTACHMENT AGAINST

This section authorizes attachment of money or property in the hands of an agent or custodian of an executor. Frank v. Malone, 1942 (126 F. 2d 651, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 296).

JUDGMENT RENDERED IN ANOTHER COURT

Money judgment secured by dry dock company against the United States Shipping Board could not be attached by another corporation which held a money judgment against the dry dock company, because the debt was evidenced by a judgment rendered in another court. United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corp. v. Hirsch Lbr. Co. (59 App. D. C. 116, 35 Fed. (2d) 1010).

§ 16–314 [24: 134]. Property attached—Preservation—Sale of perishables—Receiver.

The court may make all orders necessary for the preservation of the property attached during the pendency of the suit; and if the property be perishable, or for other reasons a sale of the same shall appear expedient, the court may order that the same be sold and its proceeds paid into court and held subject to its order on the final decision of the case.

And if it shall seem expedient, the court may appoint a receiver to take possession of the property, who shall give bond for the due performance of his duties, and, under the direction of the court, shall have the same powers and perform the same duties as a receiver appointed according to the practice in equity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 458.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

RESTRAINING SALE

This section quoted in full and applied in suit to restrain sale of property to satisfy original trust thereon. Jackson v. Finance Corp. (59 App. D. C. 309, 41 Fed. (2d) 103, cert. den. 282 U. S. 851, 75 L. Ed. 754, 51 Sup. Ct. 29).

§ 16–315 [24: 135]. Pleas by garnishee.

A garnishee in any attachment may plead any plea or pleas which the defendant might or could plead if he had appeared to the suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 459.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NOTICE

The garnishee is entitled to notice and an opportunity to be heard. United States ex rel. Ordmann v. Cummings (66 App. D. C. 107, 85 Fed. (2d) 273).

§ 16–316 [24: 136]. Who may defend—Issue—Trial by jury.

Any defendant, any garnishee, any party to a forthcoming undertaking, or the officer who might be adjudged liable to the plaintiff by reason of such undertaking being adjudged insufficient, or any stranger to the suit who may make claim, as hereinafter provided, to the property attached, may plead to the attachment; and such pleas shall be considered as raising an issue without replication, and any issue of fact thereby made may be tried by the court or by a jury impaneled for the purpose, if either party desires to. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 460.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Provision of §§ 454, 455, D. C. Code 1901 (§§ 16–310, 16–311), that surety submits to the jurisdiction of the court, and to a joint judgment, does not deprive surety of property without due process of law. United Surety Co. v. American Fruit Product Co. (238 U. S. 140, 59 L. Ed. 1238, 35 Sup. Ct. 828, dism. writ of error 40 App. D. C. 239).

§ 16–317 [24: 137]. Traverse of answers of garnishee—Trial of issue—Costs and counsel fee.

If any garnishee shall answer to interrogatories that he has no property or credits of the defendant, or less than the amount of the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff may traverse such answer as to the existence or amount of such property or credits, and the issue thereby made may be tried as provided in section 16–316; and in all such cases where judgments shall be entered for the garnishee the plaintiff shall be adjudged to pay to the garnishee, in addition to the taxed costs, a reasonable counsel fee. And if such issue be found for the plaintiff, judgment shall be rendered as if possession of the property or credits has been confessed by the garnishee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 461.)

PROCEDURE FOR INTERROGATORIES

The procedure permitted by § 447, D. C. Code 1901 (§ 16–303) is not limited or modified by this section. Fidelity Sav. Co. v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (55 App. D. C. 180, 3 Fed. (2d) 351).

TIME FOR RETURN

"In the absence of a statutory limitation, an attachment return must be made within a reasonable time, or it will be held to be discontinued." Simpson v. Minnix (30 App. D. C. 582).

Where attachment had been outstanding for 11 years, and no issue joined on garnishee's return, it will be deemed abandoned and the action discontinued, and a scire facias may issue to revive the judgment. Simpson v. Minnix (30 App. D. C. 582).

TRAVERSE NOT NECESSARY FOR ORAL EXAMINATION

Court cites Fidelity Sav. Co. v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (55 App. D. C. 180, 3 Fed. (2d) 351), and says it was not necessary for the plaintiff to traverse the answer of the garnishee, in order to exercise the right of examining the garnishee orally under oath. Flynn v. Potomac Elec. Power Co. (60 App. D. C. 82, 47 Fed. (2d) 978).

§ 16–318 [24: 138]. Claimant to attached property may petition—Right to trial—Issue—Jury trial.

Any person may file his petition in the cause, under oath, at any time before the final disposition of the property attached or its proceeds, except where it is real estate, setting forth a claim thereto or an interest in or lien upon the same, acquired before the levy of the attachment; and the court, without other pleading, shall inquire into the claim, and, if either party shall request it, impanel a jury for the purpose, who shall be sworn to try the question involved as an issue between the claimant as plaintiff, and the parties to the suit as defendants, and the court may make all such orders as may be necessary to protect any rights of the petitioner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1262, ch. 854, § 462.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS.

RECOVERY AFTER "FINAL DISPOSITION"

In a replevin action against the United States marshal to recover goods seized under writ of attachment, a plea that the plaintiff should have proceeded under this section comes too late when made after close of plaintiff's case. Splain v. B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. (53 App. D. C. 300, 290 Fed. 275).

§ 16–319 [24: 139]. No judgment against garnishee until action against defendant is determined—Release of garnishee.

If the defendant in the action has been served with process, final judgment shall not be rendered against the garnishee until the action against the defendant is determined. If in such action judgment is rendered for the defendant, the garnishee shall be discharged and shall recover his costs, and the property attached or its proceeds shall be restored to the garnishee or to the defendant, as the case may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 463.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NO JUDGMENT AGAINST DEFENDANT

Where no judgment has been rendered against defendant a judgment by default against garnishee is void. James E. Colliflower & Co. v. McCallum-Sauber Co. (61 App. D. C. 390, 63 Fed. (2d) 366).

§ 16–320 [24: 140]. Judgment of condemnation of attached property.

If in such action judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant, and it shall appear that the plaintiff is entitled to a judgment of condemnation of the property attached, the court shall proceed to enter such judgment in the attachment as in sections 16–321 to 16–332 directed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 464.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Section 30 of the Trading with the Enemy Act (45 Stat. 254), providing that money or property in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian should be subject to attachment in accordance with the provisions of the Code of the District of Columbia, was construed to authorize a decree of condemnation against such money or property, notwithstanding the further provision in section 30 that "nothing in this section shall be construed as authorizing the taking of actual possession, by any officer of the court, of any money or other property held by the Alien Property Custodian or by the Treasurer of the United States." Sutherland v Kreisch (59 App. D. C. 351, 41 Fed. (2d) 974).

§ 16–321 [24: 141]. Attachment in replevin action.

If the action be to replevy specific personal property and the same has not been replevied, other property may be attached in said action to recover damages and costs, and if the same be adjudged, the proceedings shall be the same as herein provided in other cases of money claims. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 465.)

§ 16–322 [24: 142]. Condemned property sold under fieri facias—Proceeds of sale under interlocutory order applied to claims.

If, in any form of action, specific property has been attached and remains under the control of court, judgment of condemnation of the same shall be entered, and so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the demand of the plaintiff shall be sold under fieri facias; or if the said property shall have been sold under interlocutory order of the court, the proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied to the plaintiff's claim by order of the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 466; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the following last paragraph: "If the property attached be an undivided interest in a partnership business, judgment of condemnation thereof shall be entered and the same shall be sold in the same manner as last aforesaid."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MAY DISREGARD ATTACHED PROPERTY

Where there are two judgments, one a personal judgment and the other one of condemnation, "it would be unreasonable to hold that the plaintiff must look for his satisfaction to the latter alone. He is entitled to realize his personal judgment out of any property of the judgment debtor which he finds available for the purpose; and he may wholly disregard the attached property, if he so desires." Adriance, Platt & Co. v. Heiskell (8 App. D. C. 240).

§ 16–323 [24: 143] Judgment against garnishee for credits admitted or found, less reasonable attorney's fee and costs—Judgment for whole amount if garnishee defaults.

If a garnishee shall have admitted credits in his hands, in answer to interrogatories served upon him, or the same shall have been found upon an issue made as aforesaid, judgment shall be entered against him for the amount of credits admitted or found as aforesaid, not exceeding the plaintiff's claim, less a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court, and costs, and execution had thereon; but if said credits shall not be immediately due and payable, execution shall be stayed until the same shall become due; and if the garnishee shall have failed to answer the interrogatories served on him, or to appear and show cause why a judgment of condemnation should not be entered, judgment shall be entered against him for the whole amount of the plaintiff's claim, and costs, and execution had thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 467.)

CITED

Referred to but not construed in International Seal Co. v. Beyer (33 App. D. C. 172).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FAILURE TO APPEAR AND SHOW CAUSE

The lower court was without power to enter judgment against the garnishee unless it failed to appear and show cause, or to answer. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Flynn (60 App. D. C. 108, 48 Fed. (2d) 1020).

MOTION TO VACATE

Motion to vacate default judgment against garnishee was addressed to discretion of trial court. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

In considering merits of garnishee's motion to vacate default judgment, garnishee's conduct is for court's consideration in determining whether delay in answering writ was due to inadvertence or indifference. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

Where motion to vacate default judgment against garnishee was based on grounds of misunderstanding that garnishee was required to answer garnishment in ten days after service, and advice of counsel that garnishment did not have to be answered until trial of another suit, but neither motion nor its amendment was verified or accompanied by affidavit and record did not disclose that evidence was offered to support the allegations, denial of motion was not an abuse of discretion. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

RENTS ACCRUING AFTER SERVICE NOT CREDITS

Rents not accrued before service of garnishment are not credits but merely contingent liabilities. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Wrenn (67 App. D. C. 94, 89 Fed. (2d) 838).

REVIEW

Appellate court cannot reverse trial court's denial of garnishee's motion to vacate default judgment against garnishee unless denial of motion was an abuse of discretion. Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

Order denying motion, filed within term at which judgment was entered, to vacate default judgment against garnishee, is not an "appealable order". Ray v. Bruce (D. C. 1943, 31 A. 2d 693).

§ 16–324 [24: 144]. After undertaking, judgment of condemnation of chattels and against garnishee and surety—Judgment satisfied if chattels delivered to marshal.

If the property attached has been delivered to or retained by a garnishee, upon his executing an undertaking as provided in section 16–310, judgment of condemnation of said property shall be rendered, as provided in section 16–322, and judgment shall also be entered that the plaintiff recover from the garnishee and his surety or sureties the value of said property, not exceeding the plaintiff's claim, the said judgment to be entered satisfied if said property be forthcoming and delivered to the marshal, undiminished in value, within ten days after said judgment; otherwise, execution thereof to be had against said garnishee and his surety or sureties; and if said property shall be so delivered to the marshal the same shall be sold by him under fieri facias to satisfy said judgment of condemnation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 468.)

§ 16–325 [24: 145]. Judgment protects garnishee.

Any judgment of condemnation against a garnishee, and execution thereon, or payment by such garnishee in obedience to the judgment or any order of the court, shall be a sufficient plea in bar in any action brought against him by the defendant in the suit in which the attachment is issued, for or concerning the property or credits so condemned. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1263, ch. 854, § 469.)

§ 16–326 [24: 146]. Fraudulent assignments.

If the ground upon which an attachment is applied for be that the defendant has assigned, conveyed, or disposed of his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, the attachment may be levied upon the property alleged to be so assigned or conveyed in the hands of the alleged fraudulent assignee or transferee, as a garnishee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 470.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Fraudulent conveyances generally, § 12–401 et seq.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCLOSURE OF SAFE-DEPOSIT BOX

Upon an allegation that defendant has made a fraudulent assignment to his wife and son to defraud his creditors, a garnishee may be compelled to disclose whether the wife or son has rented a safe deposit box from it. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Susquehanna Coal Co. (26 App. D. C. 149).

PRESUMPTION OF INTENT

"Where an instrument contains provisions, the necessary legal effect of which is to work a fraud upon creditors, the assignor is conclusively presumed to have intended the reasonable consequences of his own act," and the property in his hands is subject to attachment. Cissell v. Johnston (4 App. D. C. 335).

§ 16–327 [24: 147]. Garnishee entitled to benefit of section 16–307—Attachment quashed at instance of garnishee.

The said garnishee may have the same benefit of section 16–307 as the defendant in the action; and if the court shall be of opinion, upon the hearing of the affidavits filed, that the attachment ought not to have issued or to have been levied on the property claimed by said garnishee, the said attachment may be quashed as to the said garnishee and the said levy set aside. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 471.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COUNSEL FEES

Where there is no finding by the court in favor of the garnishee upon the issue made between him and the plaintiff, and by agreement sale was made and distributed, garnishee is not entitled to counsel fee. Russell v. Moderns Restaurant (65 App. D. C. 90, 80 Fed. (2d) 533).

§ 16–328 [24: 148]. Garnishee may plead that he was bona fide purchaser—Trial of issue.

If the said levy shall not be so set aside, the said garnishee may plead that he was a bona fide purchaser from the defendant for value without notice of any fraud on the part of said defendant, and such plea shall be held to make an issue, without any further pleading in reply thereto; and said issue may be tried as directed in section 16–316. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 472.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

This section provides that if the levy shall not be set aside, the garnishee may plead that he was a bona fide purchaser without notice of any fraud on the part of the defendant, and said plea shall make an issue to be tried by the court or by the jury if either party desires it. Morimura v. Samaha (25 App. D. C. 189).

ISSUE MADE

An issue may be made between the attaching creditor and the garnishee as to whether the attachment should have been issued and levied on the property. Russell v. Moderns Restaurant (65 App. D. C. 90, 80 Fed. (2d) 533).

§ 16–329 [24: 149]. Judgment for garnishee—Costs and attorney's fee—Attachment dissolved if judgment for defendant.

If said issue is found in favor of the said garnishee, judgment shall be rendered in his favor for his costs and a reasonable counsel fee. If said issue be found against such garnishee, but judgment in the action is rendered in favor of the defendant, the said attachment shall be dissolved, and said garnishee shall recover his costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 473.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

This provision is constitutional. Morimura v. Samaha (25 App. D. C. 189).

COUNSEL FEE NOT ALLOWED

Attorney's fee not allowed when issue found against garnishee. Morimura v. Samaha (25 App. D. C. 189).

"REASONABLE COUNSEL FEE"

What is a reasonable fee in a particular case is within the discretion of the court. Morimura v. Samaha (25 App. D. C. 189).

§ 16–330 [24: 150]. Judgment of condemnation of property if issues found against defendant and garnishee.

If the said issue is found against said garnishee and judgment in the action is rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant, or the defendant, not being found, has failed to appear in obedience to the order of publication against him, if it shall appear upon the verdict of a jury that the claim of the plaintiff against said defendant is well founded, a judgment of condemnation of the property attached shall be rendered, as directed in section 16–320. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 474.)

§ 16–331 [24: 151]. Trial of issues.

All issues raised by pleas to the attachment, in any case, may be tried at the same time as the issues raised by the pleadings in the action, or separately, as the convenience of the court may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 475.)

CITED

United States ex rel. Robertson v. Banard (24 App. D. C. 8).

§ 16–332 [24: 152]. Bill in equity.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed as depriving a judgment creditor of the right to file a bill in equity to enforce his judgment against an equitable interest in real or personal estate of the judgment defendant, or to have a conveyance of the real or personal estate by said defendant, made with intent to hinder, delay, and defraud his creditors, set aside. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 476.)

Whenever a writ of attachment shall be served on any bank, trust company, savings bank, or other banking institution, including national banks, or on any other corporation, association, or person as garnishee, and such garnishee holds a credit or property for two or more persons, including the person whose credit or property is sought to be attached, or holds a credit or property for any person as agent or trustee or in any other representative capacity without designation of the principal or beneficiary, such credit or property shall not be subject to withdrawal by any person, but shall be held by the garnishee until the attachment shall have been dismissed or otherwise disposed of by the court. If the credit or property is condemned, payment or delivery thereof as ordered by the court shall be a complete discharge of the garnishee from all liability to any person in respect of said credit or property. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to apply to a credit or property of a partnership. (May 15, 1928, 45 Stat. 534, ch. 568, § 3.)

§ 16–334 [24: 154]. Attachment dockets.

The clerk of said court shall keep an attachment docket, in which, as well as in the regular docket, shall be entered all attachments levied upon real estate, with a description, in brief, of the real estate so levied upon; and said attachments shall be indexed in the names of the defendant and of any person in whose possession said property may have been levied upon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1264, ch. 854, § 477.)

§ 16–335 [24: 155]. Attachment provisions of Code apply to municipal court.

The provisions of the Code of Law of the District of Columbia relating to attachments shall apply to attachment proceedings in the municipal court. (Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. 1312, ch. 125, § 9.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

16–409. Decree of annulment or divorce a vinculo dissolves property rights—Jurisdiction of court to determine property rights.
16–410. Alimony pendente lite—Suit money—Counsel fees—Enforcement—Enjoining disposition and sequestration of property—Custody of children.
16–411. Permanent alimony—Retention of dower.
16–412. Alimony when divorce is in favor of husband.
16–413. Jurisdiction retained as to alimony and custody of children.
16–414. Prior name of wife may be restored.
16–415. Maintenance of wife and minor children—Enforcement.
16–416. Petition for divorce—Proceedings.
16–417. Co-respondents—Made defendants—Service.
16–418. Court to assign attorney in uncontested cases—Compensation.
16–419. Proof required—Decree on default.
16–420. Law not retroactive.
16–421. When decree for annulment or absolute divorce effective.
16–422. Suit to determine validity of marriage.

§ 16–401 [14: 61]. Bona fide residence required—Terms.

No decree of nullity of marriage or divorce shall be rendered in favor of anyone who has not been a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia for at least one year next before the application therefor, and no divorce shall be decreed in favor of any person who has not been a bona fide resident of said District for at least two years next before the application therefor for any cause which shall have occurred out of said District and prior to residence therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 971; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 539, ch. 453, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

The 1935 amendment deleted the words "not a resident of the District of Columbia" and inserted in lieu thereof the words following the word "anyone" and ending "therefore"; and changed the word "three" to "two."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

EVIDENCE

"The statute in no way changes the rules of evidence but is designed primarily to prevent this jurisdiction from becoming a haven for those seeking divorce." Creel v. Creel (43 App. D. C. 82).

Evidence supported finding that wife, suing for divorce, was a resident of New York and not of the District of Columbia, and justified decree dismissing suit. Metcalf v. Metcalf, 1944 (142 F. 2d 102, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 51).

FOREIGN DECREES

A divorce granted in any State according to its laws by a court having jurisdiction of the cause and of both the parties is valid and effectual everywhere. Sears v. Sears (67 App. D. C. 379, 92 Fed. (2d) 530).

GOOD FAITH

Residence for purpose of divorce must be in good faith. Downs v. Downs (23 App. D. C. 381).

INSTRUCTIONS

An instruction in a prosecution for perjury committed in a divorce action that "residence required does not necessarily mean the technical, legal domicile, but does mean that locality where the social life of the parties is lived, and that locality where the greatest publicity will be given by litigation concerning his status" was erroneous and standing alone would require reversal. McFarland v. U. S. (C. A. D. C. 1949, 174 F. 2d 538, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 19).

JURISDICTION

The voluntary appearance of the defendant in such cases does not confer jurisdiction. Winston v. Winston (50 App. D. C. 321, 271 Fed. 551).

Jurisdiction in divorce suit not shown, by reason of nonresidence. Rollings v. Rollings (60 App. D. C. 305, 53 Fed. (2d) 917); Marcum v. Marcum (61 App. D. C. 332, 62 Fed. (2d) 871); Ridgeway v. Ridgeway (61 App. D. C. 395, 63 Fed. (2d) 458).

Where wife's former marriage to another had been annulled by decree of chancery court of Mississippi wherein the other but not the wife was then domiciled, and wife was not served with process there or anywhere else except by publication and entered no appearance, regardless of whether the annulment was entitled to full faith and credit in District of Columbia, it was within power of district court to recognize it in wife's suit for limited divorce against husband by subsequent marriage. Shima v. Shima, 1942 (130 F. 2d 809, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 370).

District Court was without jurisdiction of a bill for divorce where plaintiff had not been a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia for at least one year before filing her complaint. Clark v. Clark (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 722).

If court does not have jurisdiction of the original bill for divorce, it is without jurisdiction of the cross-bill and it will be treated as a mere auxiliary suit or as a dependency upon the original bill, and, when the original bill is dismissed for lack of jurisdiction, the cross-bill must also be dismissed. Clark v. Clark (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 722).

LAW APPLICABLE

When Congress has enacted a complete set of divorce and marriage laws for the District of Columbia, it is to these laws, rather than to those preserved out of the past relationship with the State of Maryland, that must be looked to for guidance and control in the determination of a question. Hoage v. Murch Bros. Constr. Co. (60 App. D. C. 218, 50 Fed. (2d) 983).

LOCUS OF ACTS

Where the parties are residents of the District and sue for a divorce for acts committed therein it is not error to introduce evidence showing acts of cruelty commenced in another jurisdiction and culminating in this District. Creel v. Creel (43 App. D. C. 82).

Where offense was committed beyond the District of Columbia plaintiff must affirmatively aver in the bill, and prove as a fact at the trial, a bona fide residence here for a period of three years; and such averment and proof is jurisdictional. Winston v. Winston (50 App. D. C. 321, 271 Fed. 551).

RESIDENCE

One who was married in the District of Columbia and resided there for 14 years does not lose such residence by temporarily residing in another state, without intending to abandon the domicile here. Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987).

Naval officer who was born and lived in Washington, D. C., may obtain divorce in that jurisdiction although he was a registered voter in New Jersey. Dennett v. Dennett (63 App. D. C. 252, 71 Fed. (2d) 975).

In wife's action for divorce where proof showed that parties were married in the District of Columbia in October 1939, and had obtained license upon representation that both resided there, and husband had lived in the District continuously since 1935, and testified that he meant to remain in District so long as he could work and make a living, and there was no evidence that husband had a fixed and definite intent to return to state of his former residence, proof showed that plaintiff was a "bona fide resident" of the District for the year preceding the filing suit for divorce. Rogers v. Rogers, 1942 (130 F. 2d 905, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 297).

Under this section "residence" means "domicile" Rogers v. Rogers, 1942 (130 F. 2d 905, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 297).

Persons are "domiciled" in the District of Columbia who live there and have no fixed and definite intent to return and make their homes where they were formerly domiciled. Rogers v. Rogers, 1942 (130 F. 2d 905, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 297).

Where wife, suing for divorce, had been absent from her former home in District of Columbia since 1923, in meantime she had been in China, Massachusetts, and New York, and had recently voted in New York and had continued to reside in New York City, but she testified that she had never abandoned her domicile in the District of Columbia, in deciding the issue of fact with regard to her intention, the court properly gave substantial weight to all of the facts. Metcalf v. Metcalf, 1944 (142 F. 2d 102, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 51).

In action by husband for divorce, finding that husband had been for the required period a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia was not clearly erroneous. Jeffe v. Jeffe (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 24).

Plaintiff could not at the same time qualify as a legal voter of New York and sue for divorce in the District of Columbia as a resident of the city of Washington. Moritz v. Moritz (D. C. Sup. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 267).

§ 16–402 [14: 62]. Decree annulling marriage.

A decree annulling the marriage as illegal and void may be rendered on any of the grounds mentioned in sections 30–101, 30–103 as invalidating a marriage. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 965.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

FRAUD

Fraud in its procurement will vitiate the contract upon which marriage is based as well as any other contract, and will justify its annulment by the courts. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

JURISDICTION

The court of the domicile of the parties has jurisdiction to annul a marriage contracted elsewhere, but, in determining whether such a decree will be rendered, the court of the forum will be governed by principles of marriage law of state which, under the appropriate conflicts of law rule, determine validity of marriage in question, and marriages in violation of strong "public policy" of the domiciliary state can be declared void in a proceeding there. Hitchens v. Hitchens (D. C., D. C. 1942, 47 F. Supp. 73).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

Plain purpose of the law is to prohibit divorce or annulment of marriage upon the mere statement of one of the parties without corroborative evidence. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

LUNATIC

A person who has been allured or entrapped into a marriage with an insane person is not required to procure an adjudication of such insanity in an independent proceeding before he or she could be permitted to institute a suit directly for the annulment of the marriage. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

PARTIES

Proceeding in equity on behalf of a lunatic to annul a marriage contracted during infancy is properly brought by his next friend; however, the committee should be made a party defendant. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

§ 16–403 [14: 63] Causes for divorce a vinculo and for divorce a mensa et thoro and for annulling marriages.

A divorce from the bond of marriage or a legal separation from the bed and board may be granted for adultery, desertion for two years, voluntary separation from bed and board for five consecutive years without cohabitation, final conviction of a felony involving moral turpitude and sentence for not less than two years to a penal institution which is served in whole or in part. A legal separation from bed and board may be granted for cruelty: Provided, That where a final decree of divorce from bed and board heretofore has been granted or hereafter may be granted and the separation of the parties has continued for two years since the date of such decree, the same may be enlarged into a decree of absolute divorce from the bond of marriage upon the application of the innocent spouse: Provided further, That marriage contracts may be declared void in the following cases:

First. Where such marriage was contracted while either of the parties thereto had a former wife or husband living, unless the former marriage had been lawfully dissolved.

Second. Where such marriage was contracted during the lunacy of either party (unless there has been voluntary cohabitation after the lunacy) or was procured by fraud or coercion.

Third. Where either party was matrimonially incapacitated at the time of marriage and has continued so.

Fourth. Where either of the parties had not arrived at the age of legal consent to the contract of marriage (unless there has been voluntary cohabitation after coming to legal age), but in such cases only at the suit of the party not capable of consenting. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 966; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 539, ch. 453, § 1.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The act of 1935 repealed D. C. 1929, title 14, § 64, which section provided as follows:

"64. In suits for divorce a vinculo a divorce a mensa et thoro may be decreed.—Where a divorce from the bond of marriage is prayed for, the court shall have authority to decree a divorce from bed and board if the causes proved be sufficient to entitle the party to such relief only. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 968.)"

AMENDMENT

The section of the 1901 act was repealed by the 1935 act. The earlier act read as follows:

"A divorce from the bond of marriage may be granted only where one of the parties has committed adultery during the marriage: Provided, That in such case the innocent party only may remarry, but nothing herein contained shall prevent the remarriage of the divorced parties to each other: And provided, That legal separation from bed and board may be granted for drunkenness, cruelty, or desertion: And provided * * *", followed by the words of the present section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTRUCTION

There is no provision in the statute which permits the application of the doctrine of revival after condonation prior to institution of suit for divorce. Stea v. Stea (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 625).

CRUELTY

Mental cruelty as well as physical cruelty must be such as to endanger and impair the wife's health. Kimmell v. Kimmell (C. A. D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 340, 84 U. S. App. D. C. 177).

DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

When facts show occasional instances, within the three years, of disgusting and sometimes protracted intoxication, it falls short of establishing the state of habitual drunkenness required by the statute. Acker v. Acker (22 App. D. C. 353).

Under particular circumstances the trial court should grant a limited divorce although there is no specific prayer for such a decree. O'Neil v. O'Neil (55 App. D. C. 40, 299 Fed. 914).

If parties to a marriage separated by agreement without cohabitation for more than eight years under the old law and one month under the new law, the actual status of the parties should be recognized and the separation be regarded as a ground for divorce rather than require that the separation should continue for four years and eleven months more before a divorce could be granted. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

Legal separation from bed and board is authorized for various grounds including cruelty. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

ADMISSIBILITY OF EVIDENCE

In wife's action for annulment of marriage on ground of husband's matrimonial incapacity, psychiatrist who had examined husband should have been permitted to answer question as to whether husband was matrimonially incapacitated at time of marriage as result of psychogenic causes, notwithstanding that his diagnosis as to husband's impotence would rest largely upon history and symptoms described to him by husband. Kaufman v. Kaufman (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 519).

ADULTERY

Foundation principle underlying connivance, and essential to its establishment, is that plaintiff must have consented, either expressly or impliedly, to the adultery. Bateman v. Bateman (42 App. D. C. 230).

Husband's suspicions of wife, his failure to put obstacles in her way, and his desire for divorce did not amount to "connivance", so that finding that wife committed adultery without her husband's connivance was based on sufficient evidence. Shima v. Shima, 1942 (130 F. 2d 809, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 370).

ANNULMENT

In proceedings to annul a void marriage, especially where it is so declared by statute, the rule of pari delicto and the equitable principle of "clean hands" are inapplicable, since in such cases the State becomes a third party. Simmons v. Simmons (57 App. D. C. 216, 19 Fed. (2d) 690, 54 A. L. R. 75).

BURDEN OF PROOF

In divorce suit based on voluntary separation for five years, party contending that a voluntary separation ceased to be voluntary has burden of proving that contention. Bowers v. Bowers, 1944 (143 F. 2d 158, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 146).

CAPACITY

Matrimonial incapacity as result of impotence as ground for annulment may be result of psychogenic causes as well as result of physical defects. Kaufman v. Kaufman (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 519).

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE

Where ceremonial marriage of parties was void because it occurred before annulment of husband's former marriage to another had become final, but the parties continued their cohabitation after the annulment became final, there was a valid common law marriage, and wife was not entitled to annulment because of the invalidity of the ceremonial marriage. Utterback v. Utterback (App. D. C. 1947, 71 F. Supp. 231).

Action to annul ceremonial marriage on ground that at time of marriage, annulment of husband's prior marriage to another had not become absolute, was required to be considered in the light of the fact that the District of Columbia was a common law marriage jurisdiction. Utterback v. Utterback (App. D. C. 1947, 71 F. Supp. 231).

CRUELTY

"It is difficult to lay down any definite rule as to what constitutes cruelty within the provisions of this statute. It is clear, we think, that it is not necessary that the conduct be limited to such physical treatment as would endanger life or health. * * * The conduct of the offending party, in the absence of assault, may be such as to make life intolerable and thereby amount to such cruel treatment as to justify a decree of separation. * * * It is sufficient if the evidence, in the absence of physical violence, establishes conduct which creates a state of mind which operating upon the physical system produces bodily injury." Waltenberg v. Waltenberg (54 App. D. C. 383, 298 Fed. 842). On cruelty, see also Snow v. Snow (48 App. D. C. 448, cert. den. 250 U. S. 641, 63 L. Ed. 1185, 39 Sup. Ct. 492).

Evidence held not to establish cruelty warranting a divorce. Trice v. Trice (55 App. D. C. 328, 5 Fed. (2d) 543).

"Cruelty" may be shown, without physical violence, but not by mere incompatibility. Taylor v. Taylor (62 App. D. C. 316, 67 Fed. (2d) 582); Holt v. Holt (64 App. D. C. 280, 77 Fed. (2d) 538).

A limited divorce may be granted for cruelty. Helvestine v. Helvestine (67 App. D. C. 121, 89 Fed. (2d) 970).

DEFINITIONS

While statute does not declare length of time drunkenness, cruelty, or desertion must continue, "there is no difficulty in arriving at the legal definition of the terms employed." Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

DENIAL OF INTERCOURSE

"The wife's denial to the husband of matrimonial intercourse is not, of itself, ground for divorce." Underwood v.

Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553), citing Steele v. Steele (1 McArthur (8 D. C.) 505).

DESERTION

One unjustifiably deserted need not seek a reconcilement. Underwood v. Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553).

Ill temper and differences over financial matters are not sufficient to justify desertion. "Acts justifying desertion must be such as would support a decree for divorce." Underwood v. Underwood (50 App. D. C. 323, 271 Fed. 553).

"No definite period of desertion is prescribed. Intent, therefore, plays an important part in determining the question. While actual separation and intention to desert must exist together to constitute desertion, it is apparent that they need not be identical in their commencement. Thus, if the departure antedates the intention to desert, the period of desertion dates from the time such intention was formed (Hitchcock v. Hitchcock (15 App. D. C. 81)), while if the intention to desert antedates the departure, the period commences to run from the time of the latter." Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005). See also Blandy v. Blandy (20 App. D. C. 535).

The present law of the District authorizes absolute divorce for desertion. Atkinson v. Atkinson (65 App. D. C. 241, 82 Fed. (2d) 847).

An unrevoked separation agreement in the absence of other circumstances bars a divorce on the ground of desertion but where other circumstances are present, the agreement becomes merely one of the factors to be considered and the question must be determined upon its merits in each case. The important consideration is whether the separation of the parties was consented to or acquiesced in by the innocent party, who except for such consent or acquiescence would have been privileged to secure a divorce upon the ground of desertion. Parks v. Parks (68 App. D. C. 363, 98 Fed. (2d) 235).

Desertion for a period before the passage of this act may be added to time subsequent, before institution of absolute divorce proceedings, to make up the two years provided for herein. Richardson v. Richardson (72 App. D. C. 67, 112 Fed. (2d) 19).

Dismissal of wife's action for divorce on ground of desertion was unauthorized where husband, without wife's consent, left home following a quarrel and wife had done nothing which would justify a divorce by husband and had unsuccessfully urged husband to return. Miller v. Miller, 1940 (114 F. 2d 596, 72 App. D. C. 348).

Generally, a husband is guilty of "desertion" if he lives apart from wife without her consent, unless wife is guilty of acts which would justify a divorce. Miller v. Miller, 1940 (114 F. 2d 596, 72 App. D. C. 348).

Where separation of husband and wife occurred in February, 1936, but full and complete marital relations were reestablished in February, 1940, and the reestablished relation was again terminated after February 23, 1940, alleged desertion of wife was not continuous for a period of more than two years next preceding the commencement of action by husband for absolute divorce on September 10, 1940, and therefore complaint was required to be dismissed. Bledsoe v. Bledsoe (D. C., D. C. 1942, 43 F. Supp. 784).

ENLARGEMENT OF FINAL DECREE

Where separation continued for more than two years since the date of the separation decree, but prior to an application of enlargement for a final decree of divorce, the parties resumed marital relations and thereafter the relationship was again severed and more than two years elapsed before the filing of the application herein, the motion for absolute divorce is not available as a basis because separation had not continued for two years since the date of such decree. Stea v. Stea (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 625).

FOREIGN DECREE

When petitioner presented to the Virginia court the grounds on which he sought release, gave notice to the respondent of the suit, and when she appeared, especially as she maintains and raised the question whether he had standing to sue, it would be unreasonable to hold that his domicile in Virginia was not sufficient to entitle him to obtain a divorce having the same force in the District as in that State. Davis v. Davis (305 U. S. 32, 83 L. Ed. 26, 59 Sup. Ct. 3).

Virginia decree, lawfully obtained, constitutes a valid divorce a vinculo, entitled to full faith and credit in the Supreme Court of the District when there drawn in question. Bloedorn v. Bloedorn (64 App. D. C. 199, 76 Fed. (2d) 812).

Divorce obtained in Maryland on grounds not recognized in the District, which was the matrimonial domicile, would be held valid. Atkinson v. Atkinson (65 App. D. C. 241, 82 Fed. (2d) 847).

A divorce obtained by a person legally domiciled in the District who leaves it and goes into a state solely for the purpose of obtaining a divorce and with no purpose of residing there permanently, is invalid, and the District, being the bona fide residence, may forbid the enforcement within its borders of a decree of divorce so procured. Sears v. Sears (67 App. D. C. 379, 92 Fed. (2d) 530).

FRAUD

Concealing pregnancy at time of marriage as fraud, see Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160). See also Alexander v. Alexander (36 App. D. C. 78).

LACHES AND ESTOPPEL

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of marriage because of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree from another, court ordered wife's complaint dismissed on theory that prior marriage had not been terminated and wife's motion to vacate judgment and for new trial was not timely made, overruling of wife's motion could not be considered a determination against the wife of issues of laches and estoppel presented by her motion since it was assumed that the trial court properly overruled the motion on the ground that the motion was too late and did not pass on the merits of the motion. Ruppert v. Ruppert, 1942 (134 F. 2d 497, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 65).

Under marriage and divorce statutes of District of Columbia, in determining the effect to be given irregular foreign divorce decree, the doctrines of "laches" and "estoppel" may be applied not only in annulment actions but also in divorce action where attack upon marriage by a party thereto is made by way of defense. Ruppert v. Ruppert, 1942 (134 F. 2d 497, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 65).

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

Congress intended by the enactment of 1935 (§§ 16–401, 16–403, 16–409, 16–421) to liberalize and enlarge the divorce laws of the District of Columbia, both as to existing and prospective conditions. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

In passing the act of August 7, 1935 (§§ 16–401, 16–403, 16–409, 16–421), it was the intention of Congress to liberalize the grounds for divorce. Helvestine v. Helvestine (67 App. D. C. 121, 89 Fed. (2d) 970).

The purpose of liberalizing amendment to divorce statute was to permit termination in law of certain marriages which have ceased to exist in fact. Vanderhuff v. Vanderhuff, 1944 (144 F. 2d 509, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 153); Boyce v. Boyce (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 229).

LEGITIMACY

While the courts of the District will refuse a husband or wife relief from a remarriage willfully contracted in violation of the laws of the District, and will not enforce the obligations of the marital status so assumed, if such enforcement will result in benefit or advantage to the wrongdoer only, judicial cognizance may be taken of such status in order to preserve and protect the rights of children and innocent persons. Olverson v. Olverson (54 App. D. C. 48, 293 Fed. 1015).

The courts do not look with favor on the construction of a law, if not unavoidable, which declares children illegitimate. Thomas v. Murphy (71 App. D. C. 69, 107 Fed. (2d) 268).

LUNATIC

Suit to annul marriage of lunatic may be filed by next friend, and need not be filed by his committee, although in such case the committee should be made a defendant. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

MAINTENANCE

To entitle a wife, seeking a limited divorce, to a temporary allowance for maintenance, she must live separate and apart from her husband. Cooper v. Cooper ((D. C.-D. C.), 30 Fed. Supp. 151).

Where parties enter into a ceremonial marriage and live together for 19 years, the wife, having every right to assume that her former husband from whom she had heard nothing for more than 10 years before her marriage was dead, may sue for separate maintenance upon separation. It could not be presumed that the former husband had remained alive for the 30 years, and the circumstances would establish a common-law marriage upon the death of the former husband in case he was alive at the time of the second ceremonial marriage. Williams v. Williams ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 612). To same effect, see Parrella v. Parrella, 33 Fed. Supp. 614).

MEDICAL SERVICES

Municipal court has no power to compel a husband to provide funds for his wife's separate maintenance. Accordingly judgment obtained by physician for professional services rendered to wife against husband must be dismissed. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

"MORAL TURPITUDE"

Violation of the Harrison Act, although said act was passed as an exercise of the government's taxing power, involved control of narcotics and was a felony involving "moral turpitude" within meaning of act. Menna v. Menna (70 App. D. C. 13, 102 Fed. (2d) 617).

PLEADING

A suit for a limited divorce and alimony or, in the alternative, for separate maintenance, states two causes of action, distinct not only in the nature of the relief sought but also in the statutory causes for which it may be granted. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26), 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

PRESUMPTIONS

Where wife voluntarily left husband and there was no evidence or contention that wife afterwards changed her mind and wished to return, law presumes that she did not wish to do so. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

PRIOR DIVORCE INVALID

A divorce to a husband in Virginia being invalid, his subsequent marriage was void, his wife acquired no rights, nor his children, except to have their legitimacy declared. Frey v. Frey (61 App. D. C. 232, 59 Fed. (2d) 1046).

PRIOR DIVORCE INVALID

In wife's divorce action, husband's motion for new trial on ground that wife's divorce decree from another was invalid because of fraud perpetrated on court in respect of wife's residence presented a "question of fact" and decision granting new trial was not so wanting in evidential support as to be arbitrary. Ruppert v. Ruppert, 1942 (134 F. 2d 497, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 65).

PROCEEDINGS

A proceeding for absolute divorce may be either by a new suit or by a petition in an old suit for a limited divorce in which the defendant has been brought in by rule to show cause. Stern v. Stern (D. C. Sup. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 266).

RECRIMINATION

Recrimination is not an absolute bar to a divorce. Vanderhuff v. Vanderhuff, 1944 (144 F. 2d 509, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 153).

A husband's invalid marriage to another did not preclude husband and lawful wife from ending their separation and resuming life together, and the remarriage was immaterial to action for divorce by husband under five-year provisions of this section, since recrimination is no longer a defense to a divorce suit. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

REMARRIAGE

District law, forbidding remarriage of guilty party (provision subsequently eliminated from law by amendment) to divorce, does not render invalid subsequent remarriage in Florida. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684, revg. 62 App. D. C. 262, 66 Fed. (2d) 567, reh. den. 292 U. S. 615, 78 L. Ed. 1474, 54 Sup. Ct. 861).

A remarriage elsewhere in disregard of the statute, even when both parties remained domiciled in the District, is not void ab initio, but, at most, voidable, and a voidable marriage cannot be annulled after death of either spouse. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684, revg. 62 App. D. C. 262, 66 Fed. (2d) 567, reh. den. 292 U. S. 615, 78 L. Ed. 1474, 54 Sup. Ct. 861).

Provision that after divorce for adultery the innocent party only may remarry was eliminated by 1935 amendment. Thomas v. Murphy (71 App. D. C. 69, 107 Fed. (2d) 268).

"SEPARATION FROM BED AND BOARD"

The phrase "legal separation from bed and board" is a synonymous term with divorce a mensa et thoro. Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

Divorce a vinculo matrimonii is final, while separation from bed and board is only a partial divorce. Maschaur v. Maschaur (23 App. D. C. 87).

"SEPARATION FROM BED AND BOARD"

The fact that husband and wife, after separation, continued to live under the same roof and shared in the use of the same dining table did not establish that there was no "separation from bed and board," where they did not occupy the same room and alternated in the use of the table to avoid friction. Boyce v. Boyce (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 229).

Under this section as amended in 1935, a divorce a mensa et thoro establishes a permanent status which can be changed only by revocation of the decree or by absolute divorce for cause arising since the decree or by the enlargement of the decree into a decree of absolute divorce upon the application of the innocent spouse. Parks v. Parks (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 919, reversed on other grounds, 116 F. 2d 556).

SUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE

Evidence sustained judgment denying husband a divorce under this section. Butler v. Butler (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 203).

Evidence, consisting of wife's uncontradicted testimony as to husband's impotence at time of marriage, corroborated by record of prior annulment suit against husband in which a former wife obtained an annulment upon ground of fraudulent misrepresentation of his matrimonial capacity, was sufficient to require judgment of annulment on ground of matrimonial incapacity. Kaufman v. Kaufman (App. D. C. 1948, 164 F. 2d 519).

Evidence justified denial of limited divorce for cruelty to either husband or wife. O'Neal v. O'Neal (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 538).

There was sufficient evidence to find cruelty, taking into consideration that appellant was and is an admittedly nervous woman. Kimmell v. Kimmell (C. A., D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 340).

A wife seeking a divorce under the District Code is not required to live separate and apart from the husband further than to segregate herself from him so as to avoid condoning acts which she charges as the basis for divorce. The essential thing is not separate roofs but separate lives so as to abandon with apparent permanency of intention the relation of husband and wife. Hurd v. Hurd (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 68; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 62).

That the parties to a divorce continue their residence in the same dwelling is merely a fact which is evidentiary on the question as to whether they are living together as husband and wife. Hurd v. Hurd (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 68; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 62).

Where appellant attacked a limited divorce granted for cruelty upon the ground of insufficient evidence, and testimony showed no physical violence or abuse and no evidence that the wife's health had suffered by reason of husband's mistreatment and neglect, the charge of cruelty was not proved and the judgment awarding the divorce should be reversed. Moore v. Moore (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 38, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 16).

The evidence was sufficient to support the granting of a limited divorce for cruelty in favor of appellee. Reilly v. Reilly (C. A., D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 108, appeal pending).

TERMINATION OF DECREE

Final divorce decree, which changes the fundamental relationship of parties, terminates wife's right to receive alimony under a preceding separation decree predicated on her status as a wife. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

Alimony, awarded in decree for divorce a mensa et thoro subject to further order of court, was automatically terminated by decree a vinculo matrimonii in which no provision for or reference to payment of alimony was made, even though the decree a vinculo was obtained pursuant to provisions of local rules for enlargement of decree. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

VACATION OF RESIDENCE

Where court denied limited divorce for cruelty to either party, and wife had purchased residential property with her own funds, and continued presence of the husband therein constituted a threat to wife's health, and the parties had already voluntarily separated, court would compel the husband to move from the residence upon the petition of the wife. O'Neal v. O'Neal (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 538).

VOLUNTARY SEPARATION

Provision authorizing divorce on voluntary separation for five years without cohabitation, retroactively applied, held valid. Tipping v. Tipping (65 App. D. C. 222, 82 Fed. (2d) 828).

To same effect as original annotation, see Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

Record justified decree awarding husband absolute divorce on ground of five years' voluntary separation, notwithstanding wife had previously obtained limited divorce or separation, with maintenance, in New York, on ground, among others, of cruelty which made it unsafe and improper for her to cohabit with her husband. Clemens v. Clemens, 1944 (143 F. 2d 24; 79 U. S. App. D. C. 116, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 76, 323 U. S. 736, 89 L. Ed. 590).

The fact that separation resulted from husband's fault was not a defense to husband's suit for absolute divorce under this section. Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

Where husband deserted wife, without cause, on April 18, 1932, and parties did not live together thereafter, and husband filed suit on May 6, 1938, for absolute divorce, and wife, although wishing that husband would return, silently acquiesced in separation, husband was entitled to divorce, since wife's acquiescence made separation "voluntary", within less than a year after it began, within contemplation of this section. Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

That wife had obtained a limited divorce from husband did not prevent husband from subsequently obtaining an absolute divorce on ground of separation or of voluntary separation. Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

A separation agreement signed by husband and wife after husband deserted wife was no defense to husband's suit for absolute divorce where separation had been voluntary for more than five years before commencement of suit. Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

A deserted spouse need not make attempts to end the separation in order to obtain a divorce, and even actual unwillingness on her part to take the deserter back does not prevent her from obtaining a divorce. Parks v. Parks, 1940 (116 F. 2d 556, 73 App. D. C. 93).

A husband was entitled to divorce on ground of voluntary separation for five years, where separation was originally voluntary on both sides and wife failed to establish that her subsequent requests that husband return to her were made in good faith. Bowers v. Bowers, 1944 (143 F. 2d 158, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 146).

Under this section authorizing divorce for voluntary separation for five consecutive years, divorce is authorized if both parties voluntarily and continuously acquiesce in separation during five years, even though separation was not originally voluntary on both sides. Bowers v. Bowers, 1944 (143 F. 2d 158, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 146).

Under this section authorizing divorce for voluntary separation for five consecutive years, divorce is unauthorized if either party does not voluntarily and continuously acquiesce in separation during five years, even though separation was originally voluntary on both sides. Bowers v. Bowers, 1944 (143 F. 2d 158, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 146).

Under this section authorizing absolute divorce on ground of five years' voluntary separation without cohabitation, if wife's leaving of husband was influenced by unkindness or even cruelty that is immaterial under this section, since provocation or justification for an act is not to say that the act is involuntary. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

When separation is continued more than five years and neither party has tried to end it, a divorce should be granted. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

Husband's silent acquiescence in continued separation made the separation "voluntary" in the statutory sense less than six months after it began. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

For plaintiff to be entitled to a divorce under this section, it must be established that the separation was voluntary at the outset, or that the defendant's silent acquiescence made the separation voluntary, in the statutory sense. Butler v. Butler (App. D. C. 1946, 154 F. 2d 203).

Where husband and wife after separation continued to occupy separate rooms under the same roof, but had no marital relations, and ate at different times, although using the same table, and husband silently acquiesced therein for more than five years, wife was entitled to divorce under this section on ground of voluntary separation from bed and board for five consecutive years without cohabitation. Boyce v. Boyce (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 229).

Under provision of this section authorizing an absolute divorce on ground of voluntary separation from bed and board for five consecutive years without cohabitation, where the separation was not voluntary on part of wife for the full term of five consecutive years, fact that the court also found that the parties for all practical purposes had been unmarried since 1939 did not entitle the husband to a divorce. Martin v. Martin (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 20).

Under provision of this section authorizing an absolute divorce on the ground of voluntary separation from bed and board for five consecutive years without cohabitation, "voluntary" connotes an agreement and unless the parties agreed to live apart, separation is not voluntary. Martin v. Martin (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 20).

Action for absolute divorce on the ground of voluntary separation for five years, brought approximately three years after defendant was granted a divorce a mensa et thoro, was premature. Parks v. Parks (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 919, reversed on other grounds, 116 F. 2d 556).

A separation for five consecutive years between husband and wife is "voluntary" under the evidence so as to entitle plaintiff to divorce under statutes notwithstanding that separation was originally caused by desertion by plaintiff husband. Helfgott v. Helfgott (C. A., D. C. 1950, 179 F. 2d 39, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 409)

§ 16–404 [14: 65]. Revocation of divorce a mensa et thoro—Joint application.

In all cases where a divorce from bed and board is decreed it may at any time thereafter be revoked by the court upon the joint application of the parties to be discharged from the operation of the decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 969.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

REPEAL

The 1935 amendment to sections 401, 403, 409, 421 of this title did not effect the repeal of this section providing for a revocation of a decree of divorce a mensa et thoro upon joint application of the parties. Parks v. Parks (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 919, reversed on other grounds 116 F. 2d 556).

§ 16–405 [14: 66]. Causes arising after divorce a mensa et thoro.

Where a divorce from bed and board has been decreed the court may afterwards decree an absolute divorce between the parties for any cause arising since the first decree and sufficient to entitle the complaining party to such decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 970.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ENLARGEMENT OF FINAL DECREE

The motion for enlargement of the decree of limited divorce into one of absolute divorce is denied but without prejudice to an independent action by the plaintiff for an absolute divorce if she has grounds therefor in accordance with § 16–405. Stea v. Stea (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 625).

§ 16–406 [14: 67]. Issue of annulled marriage—Legitimacy.

In case any marriage shall be declared by decree to have been void on account of either party having a former wife or husband living, if it shall appear that said marriage was contracted in good faith by the other party and in ignorance of said obstacle to the marriage, that fact shall be found and declared by the decree, and in such case the issue of said marriage shall be deemed to be the legitimate issue of the parent who was capable of contracting. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 972.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

MARRIAGE—WHEN VOID

When divorce decree was obtained in Virginia through falsehood, any subsequent marriage by either party is void. Frey v. Frey (61 App. D. C. 232, 59 Fed. (2d) 1046).

§ 16–407 [14: 68]. Issue of a lunatic's marriage—Legitimacy.

Where a marriage is declared null and void on account of the idiocy or lunacy of either party at the time of the marriage the issue of the marriage shall be deemed legitimate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 973.)

§ 16–408 [14: 69]. Issue of a marriage dissolved by divorce—Legitimacy.

A divorce for any of the causes herein provided for shall not affect the legitimacy of the issue of the marriage dissolved by such divorce, but the legitimacy of such issue, if questioned, shall be tried and determined according to the course of the common law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 974.)

§ 16–409 [14: 69a]. Decree of annulment or divorce a vinculo dissolves property rights—Jurisdiction of court to determine property rights.

Upon the entry of a final decree of annulment or divorce a vinculo, in the absence of a valid antenuptial or postnuptial agreement in relation thereto, all property rights of the parties in joint tenancy or tenancy by the entirety shall stand dissolved and the court, in the same proceeding in which such decree is entered, shall have power and jurisdiction to award such property to the one lawfully entitled thereto or to apportion the same in such manner as shall seem equitable, just, and reasonable. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 974a, as added Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 540, ch. 453, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCRETION OF COURT

Where in annulment proceedings, trial court excluded evidence of wife's contribution toward the purchase of a house and where the record shows that husband's counsel, without having offered evidence, expressly rested except for the identification of the parties, there was no error or abuse of discretion in the court's subsequent ruling that it was too late for counsel of husband to make a proffer of testimony. Nelson v. Nelson (C. A., D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 1021, 84 U. S. App. D. C. 167).

DUTY OF COURT

District court has the right and duty under the statute to exercise a sound judicial discretion in adjusting the property rights of the parties. Slaughter v. Slaughter (C. A. D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 129, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 301).

INAPPLICABILITY OF STATUTE

In a suit for limited divorce for cruelty, section does not apply since its provision for apportionment relates only to property in which a tenancy, joint or by entireties, dissolves by operation of § 16–409 through a decree for absolute divorce or nullity of marriage. Reilly v. Reilly (C. A., D. C. 1950, 182 F. 2d 108, appeal pending).

JURISDICTION

This section does not deprive district court of jurisdiction to determine ownership of property in District of Columbia formerly held in tenancy by entirety by persons divorced by a foreign decree, there being no agreement or other decree respecting the property. Scholl v. Scholl (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 672, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

Where ownership of house, proceeds from its occupancy under lease executed by defendant, and disposition of furniture were issues presented by complaint for divorce, but defendant pleaded that she had been granted an absolute divorce from plaintiff by a foreign decree, court had jurisdiction to resolve disputed ownership of rents and furniture notwithstanding court dismissed action for divorce because of foreign divorce decree. Scholl v. Scholl (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 672, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 292).

Where decree in proceeding for annulment of marriage incorporated by reference purported property settlement agreement which defendant claimed provided for alimony, error, if any, was in decreeing a sum over and above amount of property settlement itself, and such error, if any, did not oust court of jurisdiction to enter the decree. Moran v. Moran (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 925).

PROPERTY RIGHTS

Under this section, giving the court the right to adjudicate the title to property held in common, the court did not abuse its discretion in awarding to the husband, on his application for divorce, sole ownership of real estate which was purchased from a joint account established by him, the wife having been guilty of breaching the marriage vows. Richardson v. Richardson (71 App. D. C. 26, 112 Fed. (2d) 19).

While the court has the right and duty to exercise a sound judicial discretion in adjusting the property rights of the parties, it is an abuse of discretion, upon awarding the husband a divorce, to fail to award to the husband ownership of property when the wife furnished no part of the money necessary to acquire the property and has completely forfeited her interest in it by failure to live up to the marriage covenants. Oxley v. Oxley (App. D. C. 1946, 159 F. 2d 10).

District Court for District of Columbia had power in annulment proceeding to settle property rights of parties even if there had been no agreement between parties. Moran v. Moran (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 925).

It does not necessarily follow that the court would have abused its discretion if it had awarded appellant more than the amount she had contributed to the purchase of the house, and there was certainly no abuse thereof in limiting her to that amount. Slaughter v. Slaughter (C. A., D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 129, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 301).

SUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE

An award of real property to plaintiff wife in divorce proceeding on finding that she had purchased the property from proceeds of sale of a lot and premises, title to which was in her name and which she had previously purchased out of her own funds was sustained by the evidence. Bilsborough v. Bilsborough (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 933).

§ 16–410 [14: 70]. Alimony pendente lite—Suit money—Counsel fees—Enforcement—Enjoining disposition and sequestration of property—Custody of children.

During the pendency of a suit for divorce, or a suit by the husband to declare the marriage null and void, where the nullity is denied by the wife, the court shall have power to require the husband to pay alimony to the wife for the maintenance of herself and their minor children committed to her care, and suit money, including counsel fees, to enable her to conduct her case, whether she be plaintiff or defendant, and to enforce obedience to any order in regard thereto by attachment and imprisonment for disobedience. The court may also enjoin any disposition of the husband's property to avoid the collection of said allowances, and may, in case of the husband's failure or refusal to pay such alimony and suit money, sequestrate his property and apply the income thereof to such objects. The court may also determine who shall have the care and custody of infant children pending the proceedings. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 975; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "whether the husband or wife" and inserted in lieu thereof the word "who" in the last sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Court may award alimony pendente lite without passing on merits of litigation. Sparks v. Sparks (25 App. D. C. 356). See also Lesh v. Lesh (21 App. D. C. 475).

Suit to set aside divorce and for maintenance in personam, and wife may not create jurisdiction by seizure of property and notice by publication. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

This section purports to authorize an award pendente lite only as incident to a suit for divorce or one for annulment. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

ABSCONDING HUSBAND

This section authorizes the rendering and enforcement of personal decrees for temporary alimony and it may well be extended to include the case of an absconding husband when the matrimonial domicile of husband and wife is within jurisdiction of the court. Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980).

ANNULMENT

When suit was for the annulment of the marriage, and not for a divorce, the court might allow alimony pendente lite, but it had no power to award to the defendant permanent alimony. Alexander v. Alexander (36 App. D. C. 78); Payne v. Payne (54 App. D. C. 149, 295 Fed. 970).

COLLECTION AFTER DISMISSAL

Installments of alimony pendente lite previously accruing are collectible after entry of a final judgment dismissing action for divorce. Cole v. Cole (D. C., D. C. 1946, 67 F. Supp. 134).

COSTS AND COUNSEL FEES

"Without regard to whether or not the wife succeeds in her litigation, we think that under section 975 of the Code (§ 16–410) she is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees for services rendered in prosecuting her case and to costs of the suit." Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517).

Counsel fees of a husband who was plaintiff in divorce proceedings cannot be allowed against the corespondent. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

The wife was entitled to present her case, and the court may compel a husband to pay counsel fee for the wife, while refusing because of her misconduct to compel the payment of alimony. Myers v. Myers (55 App. D. C. 224, 4 Fed. (2d) 300).

Although there had been no lawful marriage between the parties, either under the statutes or at common law, because plaintiff had a legal husband living, the court was authorized to require defendant to pay a reasonable counsel fee to plaintiff's counsel for their services. Tendler v. Tendler (56 App. D. C. 296, 12 Fed. (2d) 831); criticized as to existence of marriage in Williams v. Williams ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 612), and Parrella v. Parrella ((D. C.-D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 614).

The fact that the court found against the wife did not affect the rightfulness of the allowance for counsel fees. Friedenwald v. Friedenwald (57 App. D. C. 13, 16 Fed. (2d) 509).

Order for "suit money" could not be entered after divorce suit had abated by reason of the plaintiff's death. Bailey v. Scott (57 App. D. C. 142, 18 Fed. (2d) 184).

The court is not required to hear and pass upon the evidence relating to the final issues involved before granting allowance to wife for suit money and counsel fees. Martin v. Martin (57 App. D. C. 173, 18 Fed. (2d) 823).

Counsel fees to wife in divorce proceedings; enforced by contempt proceedings. Boardman v. Carey (62 App. D. C. 152, 65 Fed. (2d) 600).

Upon dismissal of complaint the allowance of costs and counsel fees is within the discretion of the trial court. Shellman v. Shellman (68 App. D. C. 197, 95 Fed. (2d) 108).

Where husband appealing from judgment in divorce action granting a divorce to husband but giving custody of two children to wife and awarding wife alimony, counsel fees, and suit money, filed notice of appeal on June 27, 1940, and on July 2, 1940, the husband filed a supersedeas bond, the district court had jurisdiction on that date, to enter an order allowing suit money and counsel fees to wife in respect of appeal. Jaffe v. Jaffe, 1941 (124 F. 2d 233, 74 App. D. C. 394).

If counsel for wife knowingly participates to husband's injury in wife's wrongful or inequitable conduct in connection with a divorce suit, counsel should not be assisted by the court in collecting a fee from the injured husband. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

An attorney who conducts a wife's divorce case properly has a claim of his own against the husband for fees independent of and superior to any claim of the wife. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

Since attorney's liens are of an equitable nature, the court's action in forcing a husband to pay the fees of his wife's attorney in a divorce suit should be limited by equitable considerations. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

Where, on appeal from order denying divorced husband's motion to set aside a previous order of court appointing a sequestrator for pension payments due from District of Columbia to husband who had failed to make payments directed by divorce decree, application was made for allowance of counsel fees to wife's attorney, allowance of $200 would be reasonable. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

Where dismissing on her own motion a wife's complaint for divorce, the District court acted within its discretion in denying fees to her attorney. Neudecker v. Philpot (C. A. D. C. 1949, 174 F. 2d 668, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 28).

Custody of Children

Welfare of the child is a matter of paramount consideration at all times and under all circumstances. Slack v. Perrine (9 App. D. C. 128).

Courts, looking principally to the welfare and happiness of the children, will award their care and custody to the one party or the other as will best promote child's interest and general welfare. Wells v. Wells (11 App. D. C. 392).

When custody of children is involved "the courts do not act to enforce the right of either parent, but to protect the interest and general welfare of the children." Stickel v. Stickel (18 App. D. C. 149).

Interest of infants is even paramount to the claim of both parents. Seeley v. Seeley (30 App. D. C. 391, 12 Ann. Cas. 1058, cert. den. 209 U. S. 544, 52 L. Ed. 919, 28 Sup. Ct. 570).

This section authorizes the court to determine who shall have the care and custody of infant children pending proceedings for divorce. Since the court had jurisdiction of the appellant and of the subject-matter, it was his duty to obey the order, irrespective of whether or not it was erroneous. Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

Equity will interfere to protect children from cruelty or from immoral influences, and may even deprive parents of the care of their own children. Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359).

Disposition of the custody of the child rests in the sound discretion of the court, subject to the rule that its welfare is the paramount thing to be considered. Snow v. Snow (52 App. D. C. 39, 280 Fed. 1013).

A father who is a party to divorce proceedings cannot, by contract or otherwise, avoid, or relieve himself from, his primary obligation to maintain a minor child. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

Other things being equal, a child's mother should be preferred to its grandmother in determining the matter of custody, and mother's actual custody should not be disturbed while divorce suit was pending. Kirk v. Kirk (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 589, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 183).

In child custody case, where district court, acting through different judges, had on four or five previous occasions found wife an unsuitable person to have custody, order requiring that custody be delivered to divorced husband was not abuse of discretion. Steele v. Steele (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 562).

In child custody case, either party is entitled to have his evidence presented through mouths of his witnesses rather than by affidavits. Steele v. Steele (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 562).

In child custody case, where plaintiff's counsel, in order to obtain hearing at early date and out of order, agreed to submit case on affidavits, court's refusal of request at trial to hear testimony of child, then nine years of age, was not error, not only because matter was in trial court's sound discretion, but also because to have granted request would have violated conditions on which case was set down for hearing, particularly where stenographic transcript of child's evidence given in police court was before trial court for consideration. Steele v. Steele (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 562).

Discretion of Court

"The granting of alimony pendente lite is a matter within the sound discretion of the trial court." Dunnington v. Dunnington (45 App. D. C. 277); Jacobi v. Jacobi (45 App. D. C. 442).

The trial court may in its discretion award counsel fees to wife regardless of the outcome of her divorce suit, and right of wife's attorney to fees is not vitiated by wife's wrongful conduct. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

The entry of final judgment pending special appeal which challenged District Court's right to refuse to consider a motion for alimony pendente lite because movant had declined to appear before Domestic Relations Commissioner did not foreclose matter of allowance of alimony pendente lite, and refusal of motion for the reason stated having been improper, District Court had power, upon return of the case to exercise a sound judicial discretion as to whether a pendente lite allowance should be made and, if so, as to the amount. Kernan v. Kernan (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 232).

Enforcement of Order

An order for alimony and attorney's fees pendente lite in a divorce proceeding is in effect a personal decree, and can only be enforced in a foreign jurisdiction after personal service upon the defendant, regardless of the statutory provisions in the state or jurisdiction where the divorce proceeding is pending. Publication may be substituted for personal service of process upon any defendant in a divorce proceeding in this District. Johnston v. Johnston (64 App. D. C. 87, 74 Fed. (2d) 774).

Failure to make payments for maintenance of minor children not enforceable by imprisonment for contempt. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

Order requiring payments for maintenance of children is enforceable against father, who is not divorced, by imprisonment. Ebert v. Ebert (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 226, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 69).

In divorce action, defendant could be cited for contempt for noncompliance with maintenance order by service of motion on his counsel, since contempt proceedings are incidental to pending cause. Ebert v. Ebert (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 226, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 69).

Husband's obligation to pay installments of alimony as they accrue is enforceable by execution, sequestration, or contempt proceedings. Cole v. Cole (D. C., D. C. 1946, 67 F. Supp. 134).

Where divorce decree directed husband to make monthly payments to wife for her maintenance and support of minor child but husband moved from District of Columbia and stopped making payments and District did not appeal from order appointing a sequestrator for pension payments due to the husband from District and was making no claim to exemption, the husband should not be permitted to make the claim of exemption. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

After entry of final judgment dismissing wife's action for divorce, husband would be adjudged guilty of contempt of court for failure to pay installments of alimony pendente lite accruing before entry of such judgment. Cole v. Cole (D. C., D. C. 1946, 67 F. Supp. 134).

This section providing that, in event a husband fails or refuses to pay alimony, court may sequester his property and apply the income to its payment, is applicable to pension payments due husband from District of Columbia. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

Under this section providing that during pendency of suit for divorce court shall have power to require husband to pay alimony to wife and to enforce obedience to order by attachment and imprisonment for disobedience, only so long as divorce suit is pending does court have authority to require husband to pay alimony and to enforce obedience by attachment and imprisonment. Cole v. Cole (App. D. C. 1947, 161 F. 2d 883).

Failure to pay installments of alimony which had accrued under a pendente lite order could not be punished by contempt proceedings after suit for divorce, in which temporary allowance was made, had been dismissed by order containing no reference to unpaid installments. Cole v. Cole (App. D. C. 1947, 161 F. 2d 883).

Exemptions

Payments of disability insurance are not exempt under § 35–717 from liability for alimony and support of divorced wife. Schlaefer v. Schlaefer (71 App. D. C. 350, 112 Fed. (2d) 177).

JUDGMENT AGAINST PROPERTY

Court may, in case of the husband's failure or refusal to pay such alimony and suit money, sequestrate his property and apply the income to such object but when husband does not default in paying instalment of alimony when due, a writ will not lie. Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987).

An order to sequestrate property of the absent defendant, within the immediate jurisdiction of the court, is quasi in rem, issued to satisfy a personal claim on specific property. Thus the court acquires jurisdiction to render a judgment essentially in rem affecting such property, notwithstanding the absence of the owner from the state. Thompson v. Tanner (53 App. D. C. 3, 287 Fed. 980).

JURISDICTION OF EQUITY

Equity is ancillary and not antagonistic to the law, and where a statute precludes the authority to make an allowance, equity can not be invoked to aid in its circumvention. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

Independent of statute, a court of chancery has jurisdiction over the custody and maintenance of a minor child. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

LIABILITY OF HUSBAND

Decree awarding alimony pendente lite is a final order, and husband is liable therefor although he finally prevail. Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

"In a divorce proceeding the husband is primarily liable for the costs." Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

PROPERTY

In making provision for the wife's sustenance, the term "property" requires a liberal interpretation. Schlaefer v. Schlaefer (71 App. D. C. 350, 112 Fed. (2d) 177).

PROPERTY SUBJECT TO PAYMENT

A decree for payment of alimony against a non-resident brought before the court by constructive or extra-territorial service is void except as to property which is within the court's jurisdiction, and which has been specifically proceeded against in the divorce action. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

Order of District Court of District of Columbia directing resident of Virginia who was personally served in Virginia, to pay alimony pendente lite, was "in personam" and void for lack of jurisdiction, in absence of any acts by non-resident to subject himself to court's authority, and in absence of a claim of, right to, or lien on any personalty in District of Columbia. Gaines v. Gaines (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 521, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 260).

RECOVERY BACK OF PAYMENTS

An order for payment of alimony pendente lite is in effect a final order enforceable by immediate execution, and though it is revocable and may be rescinded by court and may wholly fall by a final decision on the merits adverse to petitioner, as long as it remains in effect to the extent to which it has been enforced by payment or execution, it is an absolute finality and money so paid cannot be recovered back. Cole v. Cole (D. C., D. C. 1946, 67 F. Supp. 134).

REPAYMENT OF UNAUTHORIZED FEE

Where order, denying husband's motion pending determination of referred question as to husband's damages from wife's suing out an injunction tying up husband's funds, to stay condemnation of his attached funds, for his wife's counsel fees in dismissed divorce suit, was reversed and the fees had been paid from the attached funds, the District Court would be authorized to require counsel to repay the fees if he were not entitled to retain them, notwithstanding such counsel had not been made a party to husband's appeal from the order. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

SEQUESTRATION OF PENSION PAYMENTS

Where divorced husband was entitled to pension payable out of Policeman's and Fireman's Relief Association of District of Columbia, divorced wife was not entitled to appointment of sequestrator to collect pension from disbursing officer of the District for payment to wife in satisfaction of her alimony claim. Rone v. Rone, 1944 (141 F. 2d 23, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 369).

SET OFF

Where judgment dismissing wife's suit for divorce and taxing husband with wife's counsel fees determined neither the facts nor the law with regard to husband's right to set off, against claim for counsel fees, damages sustained by wife's suing out of an injunction tying up husband's funds, husband would be allowed to set off such damage against the claimed fees if wife's attorney knowingly participated in wrongful issuance of injunction, notwithstanding allowance of fees had become final. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

Where District Court dismissed wife's suit for divorce and taxed husband with her counsel fees, if court should find that wife's attorney knowingly participated in wrongful suing out of injunction by wife to tie up husband's funds, husband would be allowed to set off his damage from the injunction against the claim for counsel fees. Shima v. Shima, 1944 (139 F. 2d 533, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 265, 150 A. L. R. 1179).

§ 16–411 [14: 71]. Permanent alimony—Retention of dower.

When a divorce is granted to the wife, the court shall have authority to decree her permanent alimony sufficient for her support and that of any minor children whom the court may assign to her care, and to secure and enforce the payment of said alimony in the manner before mentioned, and may, if it shall seem fit, retain to the wife her right of dower in the husband's estate. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 976.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AMOUNT

Husband who had abandoned his wife and child and who was earning $6,000 a year was directed to pay $200 a month for the maintenance of wife and child and $500 attorney's fees. Noffsinger v. Noffsinger (D. C., D. C. 1943, 50 F. Supp. 810).

In divorce suit, order requiring husband to pay wife $30 on the 6th and 21st day of each month until court's further order was clear, although court stated that payments would apply on previous New York judgment for maintenance. Clemens v. Clemens, 1944 (143 F. 2d 24, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 116, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 76, 323 U. S. 736, 89 L. Ed. 590).

Where divorced husband's income is large, divorced wife is entitled not merely to subsistence but to maintenance in manner which station of life of parties makes appropriate, but court should not make award so high as to cause financial difficulties and personal embarrassment on part of husband which would impair his earning capacity. Russell v. Russell (App. D. C. 1944, 142 F. 2d 173).

Amount of alimony award above average level of income should not be set without safeguards against improvident expenditures which impair future security of divorced wife or children. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753; 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

Alimony, when allotted, measures the husband's duty of support. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

ARREARS

No contempt where arrears are due to personal injuries. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

A husband who had income of $160 per month was properly punished for contempt for failure to pay $45 per month alimony awarded to wife, where only excuse offered for alleged inability to pay alimony was that husband voluntarily contributed to support of his mother and his invalid brother and therefore had no funds with which to make the payments. Kelly v. Kelly, 1943 (137 F. 2d 254, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 97).

One who has no money or tangible property may be punished for contempt for failure to pay alimony award, if he makes no honest effort, considering his physical and mental capabilities, to work and earn money to pay alimony. Kelly v. Kelly, 1943 (137 F. 2d 254, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 97).

On wife's motion to adjudicate arrears of alimony, trial court acted properly in enforcing full payment of accrued alimony notwithstanding children who were minors when award was made had reached majority at time default in payment commenced. Lockwood v. Lockwood (App. D. C. 1947, 160 F. 2d 923).

Award Under Prior Law

Provision in 1901 Code, § 978 (§ 16–413) that a case where permanent alimony has been awarded under 1901 Code, § 976 (this section) shall still be considered open for any further orders operates only prospectively, and the court can not set aside or reduce sums determined and past due. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

Discretion of Court

In awarding alimony, limited discretion of court is based on standards which are necessarily vague, but where income of divorced husband is small the problem only involves giving the wife a decent subsistence if it is possible. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

Divorced Father

Act which defines the power of a court to make a support-money order against a husband for the benefit of a wife and minor child, does not embrace the case of an order against a divorced father. See § 980, 1901 Code (§ 16–415). Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

Effective Date

Any allowance of alimony which is to be effective after suit for divorce has ceased to pend must be made under this section regarding permanent alimony. Cole v. Cole (App. D. C. 1947, 161 F. 2d 883).

Increase of Alimony

Where, in a petition for an increase in an alimony award, the petitioner alleged that she was without knowledge of the provisions of the decree awarding alimony, and that she had accepted the monthly payments provided therefor under protest, an affidavit asserting that petitioner was present in court when the decree was signed, when undenied, was sufficient to overcome petitioner's allegation that she had no knowledge of the provisions of the decree. Moran v. Moran ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 227).

A claim for an increase in alimony, based on an allegation that the decree was entered by mistake, will be denied, where the motion was not made until more than six months after the judgment was taken. Moran v. Moran ((D. C.-D. C.), 31 Fed. Supp. 227).

Where divorce decree required husband to pay wife $900 a month for alimony and $100 for support of one of their two children who required special schooling, award amounted to between 40 and 50 per cent. of husband's entire income, husband had remarried, and his position as an executive required certain standards which, if not maintained, would impair his usefulness to his employer, and pleadings indicated that his living standards were not as high as those of his divorced wife, an increase in award was not justified, even though wife was required to pay income tax on alimony which she received. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

Any decrease in divorced wife's net income because of taxes or any other reason which brings it below what is necessary for her station in life may be considered in granting an increase in alimony, but increase must be based on examination of needs of wife in light of present size of divorced husband's income, not on theory of equitable tax adjustment. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

Where alimony award to divorced wife is above average level of income, the moral obligations of husband, such as obligation to his mother-in-law, by second marriage, as well as legal obligations of husband, should be considered in determining divorced wife's petition for increase in alimony. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

If divorced wife's application for increase in alimony was to be decided against husband without a hearing, all controverted issues and all legitimate inferences raised by the pleadings were required to be resolved in his favor. Russell v. Russell, 1944 (142 F. 2d 753, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 44, 153 A. L. R. 1037).

Presumptions

Where moving party comes before court asking for enlargement of a limited divorce decree and for final severance of bonds of matrimony, movant must be presumed to be requesting the full relief to which she believes herself entitled. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

Remission of Instalment

Decree as to alimony is final as to instalments of alimony in arrears, and court cannot remit them. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

Res Judicata

Order of District Court in divorce action denying motion to modify judgment confirming stipulation of parties whereby husband agreed to pay permanent alimony and determining that the stipulation was a contract but that divorce judgment approving stipulation did not award alimony was res judicata precluding relitigation of the question in the Municipal Court in a suit to enforce the stipulation. Woodruff v. Woodruff (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 538, affirmed 176 F. 2d 72, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 424).

Sequestration of Pension Payments

Section 16–410 providing that, in event a husband fails or refuses to pay alimony, court may sequester his property and apply the income to its payment, is applicable to pension payments due husband from District of Columbia. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

Where divorce decree directed husband to make monthly payments to wife for her maintenance and support of minor child but husband moved from District of Columbia and stopped making payments and District did not appeal from order appointing a sequestrator for pension payments due to the husband from District and was making no claim to exemption, the husband should not be permitted to make the claim of exemption. Montgomery v. Montgomery (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 634).

Termination of Prior Alimony Decree

Final divorce decree, which changes the fundamental relationship of parties, terminates wife's right to receive alimony under a preceding separation decree predicated on her status as a wife. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

Alimony, awarded in decree for divorce a mensa et thoro subject to further order of court, was automatically terminated by decree a vinculo matrimonii in which no provision for or reference to payment of alimony was made, even though the decree a vinculo was obtained pursuant to provisions of local rules for enlargement of decree. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

§ 16–412 [14: 72]. Alimony when divorce is in favor of husband.

If the divorce is granted on the application of the husband, the court may, nevertheless, require him to pay alimony to the wife, if it shall seem just and proper. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 977; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words "but in such cases the husband may appeal" at the end of this section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ALIMONY AWARD

Under our Code, alimony may be awarded to a wife even though the divorce was granted on the application of the husband, if it would seem just and proper to the court. Quarles v. Quarles (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 57; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 41).

AMOUNT OF AWARD

Where husband, who was awarded a divorce on ground of wife's adultery, had a substantial business and an income of about $12,000 a year, wife, who had not been repaid $2,000 which she had advanced to husband for purchase of family home, was without means, and trial lasted five days and required considerable preparation, sums of $2,000 in cash, $50 a week alimony for support of wife and two minor children, or $75 if wife ceased to occupy husband's house free of rent, $825, in addition to $175 previously paid, as wife's counsel fees in district court, and $150 suit money and $300 counsel fees in respect of husband's appeal directed to be paid to wife by husband were reasonable. Jaffe v. Jaffe, 1941 (124 F. 2d 233, 74 App. D. C. 394).

That wife's counsel represented co-respondent as well as wife in trial of husband's divorce action based on ground of adultery did not show that award to wife of $825, in addition to $175 previously paid, as counsel fees in the district court and $300 counsel fees in respect of husband's appeal were excessive. Jaffe v. Jaffe, 1941 (124 F. 2d 233, 74 App. D. C. 394).

The record does not support the award of alimony to wife when there is no evidence that she contributed either her funds or her industry in the accumulation of the property by her husband, and no loss, either financial or by way of security, or status, was suffered by reason of her marriage, and upon consideration of other compelling factors of an equitable nature. Quarles v. Quarles (C. A. D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 57; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 41).

Judgment of the trial court in determining whether an award of alimony to a guilty defendant is just and proper will not be disturbed unless an abuse of discretion is made, manifested by the record. Evidence here was sufficient to sustain monthly payment of $65.00 for alimony. Schulz v. Schulz (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 59; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 43).

CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

A court may in its discretion award custody of children to the unsuccessful defendant in a divorce action. Jaffe v. Jaffe, 1941 (124 F. 2d 233, 74 App. D. C. 394).

EFFECT OF AGREEMENT

Where the court did not require husband to pay alimony, but only approved an agreement by which the parties adjusted their respective property rights and all claims for alimony, the decree cannot be considered open for a future order in that respect, at least in the absence of fraud or mistake. Heckman v. Heckman (D. C., D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 687).

RETENTION OF JURISDICTION

Jurisdiction may be retained to enter further orders respecting alimony and care and custody of child. Davis v. Davis (61 App. D. C. 48, 57 Fed. (2d) 414).

SCOPE OF REVIEW

Ordinarily, the trial court's determination of the propriety of the award under all the circumstances will not be disturbed unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Quarles v. Quarles (C. A., D. C. 1949, 179 F. 2d 57; 86 U. S. App. D. C. 41).

WAIVER OF APPEAL

Right to appeal is lost by acceptance of alimony. Harris v. Harris (67 App. D. C. 85, 89 Fed. (2d) 829).

Where judgment granted plaintiff husband an absolute divorce but also awarded alimony and counsel fees to wife, and after entry of judgment husband paid monthly to wife the alimony as well as the counsel fees, appeal by wife was subject to dismissal upon ground that, having accepted benefits of judgment, she was precluded from appealing therefrom. Stein v. Stein (C. A., D. C. 1948, 170 F. 2d 162).

§ 16–413 [14: 73]. Jurisdiction retained as to alimony and custody of children.

After a decree of divorce in any case granting alimony and providing for the care and custody of children, the case shall still be considered open for any future orders in those respects. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 978.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Setting aside or reducing sums determined and past due, see note to § 16–411. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ARREARS

Decree as to alimony is final as to installments of alimony in arrears. Caffrey v. Caffrey (55 App. D. C. 285, 4 Fed. (2d) 952).

Provision in § 978 (§ 16–413) that a case where permanent alimony has been awarded under § 976 (§ 16–411) shall still be considered open for any further orders operates only prospectively, and the court can not set aside or reduce sums determined and past due. Biscayne Trust Co. v. American Security & Trust Co. (57 App. D. C. 251, 20 Fed. (2d) 267).

"CARE AND CUSTODY OF CHILDREN"

Phrase "care and custody of children," includes maintenance, since plainly a child cannot be cared for without being fed, clothed, and otherwise maintained. Elkins v. Elkins (55 App. D. C. 9, 299 Fed. 690).

Marriage of a daughter may constitute a good and sufficient reason for modification of a previous order for support and maintenance. Davis v. Davis (68 App. D. C. 240, 96 Fed. (2d) 512).

To same effect as first paragraph of original annotation, see Evans v. Evans (D. C., D. C. 1941, 36 F. Supp. 12).

The District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia may, independently of statute, provide for care and custody of children in divorce cases. Evans v. Evans (D. C., D. C. 1941, 36 F. Supp. 12).

Where the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia acquired jurisdiction over custody and maintenance of child of parties to divorce suit, the court's jurisdiction continued for all proper purposes concerning the custody and maintenance of the child. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

After submitting themselves to jurisdiction of court in divorce proceedings, parents cannot by their agreement deprive court of power to control custody and maintenance of child. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

In divorce proceeding the court must retain a continuing jurisdiction with respect to custody and maintenance of minor child. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

A child's claim against his father for maintenance is not subsidiary to that of the mother. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307, 146 A. L. R. 1146).

Where District Court of United States for District of Columbia granting divorce failed to make provision regarding custody or maintenance of minor child, but parties filed stipulation for maintenance and support giving mother custody but requiring father to make payments for support, fact that mother had supported the child and the child had had support did not affect the duty of the father to render it, relieve him of the burden, or deprive the court of power to compel him to discharge it or to force him to reimburse the mother for what she had expended on that account. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

Where stipulation for support of infant child was made part of record in divorce proceeding in District Court of United States for District of Columbia, the district court had continuing and exclusive jurisdiction over custody and maintenance of child and the municipal court did not have jurisdiction of action to recover amount alleged to be due under the stipulation. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

Court's jurisdiction, having attached to child custody case, continued undisturbed to final conclusion of case. Steele v. Steele (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 562).

COUNSEL FEES

An order for payment of counsel fees in connection with the collection of alimony and support, is an order "in those respects" within the meaning of this section, and the case was "open" for the purposes of this order. Junghans v. Junghans (72 App. D. C. 129, 112 Fed. (2d) 212).

DISCRETION OF COURT

Trial court has large discretion in awarding custody of minor child and cause will remain open for any further orders found to be proper. Warner v. Warner (58 App. D. C. 34, 24 Fed. (2d) 609).

Alimony within trial court's discretion. Dependent on circumstances. Garrett v. Garrett (61 App. D. C. 309, 62 Fed. (2d) 471).

JURISDICTION OF COURT

Where the court did not require the husband to pay alimony, but only approved an agreement by which the parties adjusted their respective property rights and all claims for alimony, the decree cannot be considered open for a future order in that respect, at least in the absence of fraud or mistake. Heckman v. Heckman (D. C. D. C. 1949, 83 F. Supp. 687).

PROCEEDING IN PERSONAM

Claim for maintenance is essentially a proceeding in personam and there can be no attachment, seizure, or taking of the property until after the decree has passed. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

STIPULATIONS

In divorce suit, it was duty of court to act for the protection of minor child and where parties filed stipulation, for maintenance and support of the child, it was proper to assume that the official duty of the court was performed. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

Even though stipulation for maintenance and support of child was not incorporated in divorce decree, it would be granted equal effectiveness as if it had been incorporated in decree to extent that it received the tacit approval of the court and was carried out by the parties. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

In a divorce suit where court approves stipulation for maintenance and support of child, it is better practice to incorporate stipulation into the decree. Emrich v. McNeil, 1942 (126 F. 2d 841, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

Court ratification and confirmation of a stipulation for permanent alimony as a contract for support and maintenance does not convert the stipulation into a decree for alimony. Woodruff v. Woodruff (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 538, affirmed 176 F. 2d 72, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 424).

Where stipulation for permanent alimony was ratified and confirmed by the court as a contract for support and maintenance, husband could not after stipulation was filed and submitted on behalf of both parties resist enforcement on the ground that he did not intend to be bound by the agreement. Woodruff v. Woodruff (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 538, affirmed 176 F. 2d 72, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 424).

Stipulation for alimony whereby husband, who had deserted his wife and was under legal and moral obligation to provide for her support, agreed to pay permanent alimony in consideration of which wife refrained from seeking court award of alimony and counsel fees was amply supported by consideration. Woodruff v. Woodruff (D. C. Mun. App 1948, 60 A 2d 538, affirmed 176 F 2d 72, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 424).

TERMINATION OF SEPARATION DECREE

Alimony, awarded in decree for divorce a mensa et thoro subject to further order of court, was automatically terminated by decree a vinculo matrimonii in which no provision for or reference to payment of alimony was made, even though the decree a vinculo was obtained pursuant to provisions of local rules for enlargement of decree. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

The power under this section which district court has to award permanent alimony in case of a proceeding for final divorce, whether it is on original complaint or on petition for enlargement of limited decree, is discretionary with trial court. Holmes v. Holmes (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 737).

§ 16–414 [14: 74]. Prior name of wife may be restored.

In granting a divorce from the bond of marriage the court may restore to the wife her maiden or other previous name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 979.)

§ 16–415 [14: 75]. Maintenance of wife and minor children—Enforcement.

Whenever any husband shall fail or refuse to maintain his wife and minor children, if any, although able so to do, the court, on application of the wife, pendente lite and permanently, may decree that he shall pay her, periodically, such sums as would be allowed to her as pendente lite or permanent alimony in case of divorce for the maintenance of herself and the minor children, if any, committed to her care by the court, and the payment thereof may be enforced in the same manner as directed in regard to the payment of permanent alimony. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 980; June 20, 1949, 63 Stat. 213, ch. 228.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 20, 1949, cited to text, amended the section by inserting the words "pendente lite and permanently" preceding "may decree", "pendente lite or" preceding "permanent alimony" the first time it appears, "if any" preceding "committed" and "the payment of" preceding "permanent alimony" the second time it appears.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Under the statute "the power of the court to grant separate maintenance can be exercised only where the 'husband shall fail or refuse to maintain his wife and minor children,' if any, although able so to do." Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517), citing Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

Statute does not require that husband and wife live "separate and apart." Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

ADMISSIBILITY OF EVIDENCE

Proof regarding motivation of husband's conduct, justification for wife's departure from family home, and the necessity, if any, for her maintenance apart from her husband, is admissible in action of wife for separate maintenance. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

AMOUNT OF AWARD

Evidence was sufficient to sustain an order of $150 per month for the support and maintenance of wife and three children. Wedderburn v. Wedderburn (54 App. D. C. 193, 295 Fed. 1014).

Lower court, having first obtained jurisdiction of the parties under the bill for maintenance, had the power and the right to enter a decree for maintenance and as shown in the circumstances the allowance of the amount of alimony should be sustained as a proper allowance. Marcum v. Marcum (61 App. D. C. 332, 62 Fed. (2d) 871).

Award Pendente Lite

This section makes no provision for an award pendente lite as an incident to a suit for separate maintenance. Pedersen v. Pedersen (71 App. D. C. 26, 107 Fed. (2d) 227).

Counsel Fees

The District Court has authority to award counsel fees in a wife's action for separate maintenance. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

In action by wife for separate maintenance, evidence of cruelty of husband is relevant on question of how much maintenance the husband should be required to pay. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

Wife's attorney's fee of $125 was ordered paid by husband in wife's maintenance action, where husband's income was not ample to justify more, notwithstanding services of wife's counsel warranted a higher amount. Hodge v. Hodge (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 379).

Discharge of Order

"The amount and the continuation of the allowance will remain subject to the control of the equity court," and should the parties be reconciled or should the husband provide a suitable home and invite the wife to occupy it, the order for maintenance will be discharged. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff (26 App. D. C. 520). Distinguished Marschalk v. Marschalk (45 App. D. C. 455).

Discretion of Court

Where a bill for maintenance makes out a prima facie case, the complainant is entitled to an allowance pendente lite for support, the amount of which is within the sound discretion of the trial court. Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

Matter of granting or refusing temporary alimony is committed to sound discretion of trial court, and will not be disturbed by reviewing court, unless discretion has been abused. Reed v. Reed (52 App. D. C. 35, 280 Fed. 1009); Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

In wife's suit for maintenance, awards of maintenance pendente lite and suit money were within District Court's discretion under its general equity powers. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

Dismissal

A motion to dismiss a complaint for maintenance was required to be denied notwithstanding defendant introduced affidavit and a supplemental answer disclosing that defendant had obtained an absolute divorce from plaintiff in Arkansas wherein he claimed to have obtained a legal residence, since court could consider only facts set forth in complaint which disclosed an existing marriage of parties who were residents of Maryland and that defendant was temporarily within the District. Brandenburg v. Brandenburg (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 562).

Divorced Father

This section defines the power of a court to make a support-money order against a husband for the benefit of a wife and minor children, but does not embrace the case of an order against a divorced father. Rapeer v. Colpoys (66 App. D. C. 216, 85 Fed. (2d) 715).

Equity Jurisdiction

Equity has jurisdiction to grant maintenance as an independent relief. Rhodes v. Rhodes (36 App. D. C. 261), following Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299). See also Lesh v. Lesh (21 App. D. C. 475), holding such jurisdiction not superseded by this section.

Where father was worth over a million dollars, $50 a month was not adequate for care and education of son of 18, custody of whom had been awarded to mother by Nevada divorce decree, and it was duty of court to compel father to provide adequate support under its general equity powers. Schneider v. Schneider, 1944 (141 F. 2d 542, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 383).

Suits for maintenance have been regarded in the District as equitable rather than legal. Franklin v. Franklin (C. A. D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d, 12, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 385).

The power of the court of equity to adopt its remedial relief to existing conditions and circumstances should not be curtailed. Franklin v. Franklin (C. A. D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 12, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 385).

Foreign Decree

Decree of divorce obtained by husband in Virginia barred wife's action for maintenance in the courts of the District of Columbia. Thompson v. Thompson (266 U. S. 551, 57 L. Ed. 347, 33 Sup. Ct. 129).

A Florida divorce decree obtained by husband who went to Florida solely for purpose of obtaining the divorce, and with no bona fide intention of remaining therein permanently or indefinitely, was not entitled to full faith and credit in the District of Columbia, so as to bar wife's action for maintenance. White v. White (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 157, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 156).

In absence of any showing of invalidity, Florida judgment granting absolute divorce to husband barred right of wife to maintenance, notwithstanding wife had instituted suit for maintenance in District Court for District of Columbia and had obtained an order granting temporary maintenance prior to time husband instituted Florida divorce suit. Gullet v. Gullet (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 17, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 73, see also 174 F. 2d 531, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 12).

Where husband took 40 hour annual leave from Washington job and went to Mexico for divorce, remaining there for not more than eight days, returning to Washington before decree was signed, husband was not a bona fide resident of Mexico, and decree obtained by him was not binding on District Court for District of Columbia in wife's subsequent action for support and maintenance. Hodge v. Hodge (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 379).

Maryland court's judgment of acquittal in bigamy prosecution following husband's remarriage after Mexican divorce did not settle question of validity of divorce in wife's action for maintenance brought subsequent to both Maryland judgment and Mexican divorce. Hodge v. Hodge (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 379).

Imprisonment for Nonpayment

Under this section, authorizing imprisonment for enforcement of permanent maintenance and §§ 16–410, 16–411, for enforcement of alimony during pendency of divorce suit and § 11–327, permitting enforcement of interlocutory orders by same process as final decrees, court had no power to imprison husband for failure to pay awards of maintenance pendente lite and suit money, in wife's suit for maintenance. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

Judgment

Where wife brought action for divorce from bed and board, or, in alternative, for separate maintenance, judgment for separate maintenance was a finality as to every matter which was offered and received to sustain or defeat the case. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

A judgment for separate maintenance requires some basis for its support. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

Legitimacy of Child

The presumption of legitimacy of a child, corroborated by the mother's sworn statement that her husband, defendant in suit for maintenance, was the father of the child, and affidavits of third parties detailing circumstances strongly corroborative of the claim, is not overcome by the husband's denial of paternity, supported by the professional opinion of a physician, based on an examination of defendant more than a year later, that he was sterile at the time conception occurred. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

MAINTENANCE ARREARS

An unfair burden would be imposed upon appellee if, after he had contributed directly to the support of his children and had otherwise acted in accordance with assurance that appellant wanted no money from him, he were now to be required to pay her large accumulations of arrears for maintenance. Franklin v. Franklin (C. A. D. C. 1948, 171 F. 2d 12, 83 U. S. App. D. C. 385).

MAINTENANCE AS ALIMONY

This section authorizing award of maintenance to a wife in such sums as would be allowed as permanent alimony in case of divorce assimilates maintenance, at least as regards amount, to alimony within rule that alimony is largely discretionary and may be granted to a wife who is at fault or denied against a husband who is at fault and that its amount is elastic. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

MEASURE OF SUPPORT

Alimony, when allotted, measures the husband's duty of support. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

NONRESIDENT PARTIES

Where complaint for maintenance states an existing marriage and that plaintiff and defendant are residents of Maryland and that defendant husband is temporarily within the District, practice is for the District Court for the District of Columbia, to take jurisdiction. Brandenburg v. Brandenburg (D .C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 562).

PERMANENT ALIMONY

Question of permanent alimony could be judicially considered only on the granting of a divorce or on application of the wife for maintenance. Payne v. Payne (54 App. D. C. 149, 295 Fed. 970).

In view of this section providing for the allowance of money for the maintenance of a wife upon her application therefor whenever the husband fails or refuses to maintain her, permanent alimony may be granted in an annulment action. Parrella v. Parrella, 1941 (120 F. 2d 728, 74 App. D. C. 161).

PROCEEDING IN PERSONAM

When suit is for maintenance it is a proceeding in personam, and wife could not by attachment or seizure take the property until after the decree has passed. Bliss v. Bliss (60 App. D. C. 237, 50 Fed. (2d) 1002).

RES JUDICATA

A judgment in prior action between same parties is res judicata on the points and matters in issue and adjudicated in such action. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

Even if subsequent action is for different cause of action, a right, question, or fact determined in prior action must, as between same parties, be taken as conclusively established, so long as judgment in prior action remains unmodified. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

Decree on wife's cross-complaint denying divorce, but allowing temporary and permanent alimony and dismissing both husband's divorce complaint and wife's cross-complaint, was not res judicata precluding subsequent action by wife for support and maintenance. Hodge v. Hodge (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 379).

An issue of how much defendant should pay his wife for necessaries litigated in District Court was res judicata between husband and wife and District Court alone had the power to reopen and modify decree. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE

Municipal Court has no power to compel a husband to provide funds for his wife's separate maintenance. Accordingly, judgment obtained by physician against husband for professional services rendered to wife must be reversed. Irwin v. Hawfield (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 926).

SUFFICIENCY OF ALLEGATIONS

Wife suing for limited divorce and failing to establish any dereliction on the part of the husband is not entitled to maintenance under section 980, D. C. 1901 (§ 16–415). Towson v. Towson (49 App. D. C. 45, 258 Fed. 517).

Although cruelty was alleged in bill for maintenance on ground of failure to support, it was sufficient. Cissell v. Cissell (61 App. D. C. 271, 61 Fed. (2d) 679).

A wife may state a cause of action for maintenance when she alleges that her husband has failed or refused to maintain her, although able to do so, and an allegation of cruelty is not necessary. Gill v. Gill, 1945 (147 F. 2d 154, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 357).

SUIT BY NONRESIDENT WIFE

A suit for maintenance may be maintained by a nonresident wife against a resident husband. Tolman v. Tolman (1 App. D. C. 299).

The District Court for the District of Columbia properly accepted jurisdiction of wife's action for maintenance where the parties had lived together in the District for ten years, then moved to Maryland, just over the District line, where they lived until separation, and husband then moved back to the District, where he had since lived and worked, except for period of temporary residence in Florida, where he attempted to obtain divorce. White v. White (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 157, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 156).

SUPPORT OF CHILD

A child's claim to paternal support, unlike a claim by a wife in separate maintenance and support proceedings, is not affected by the merits of the controversy between the spouses. A father's obligation to contribute to the support of a child born of marriage is unqualified, and maintenance pendente lite for the child must be provided. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

A child's claim for maintenance is not subsidiary to that of the mother. Howard v. Howard (72 App. D. C. 145, 112 Fed. (2d) 44).

Where domicile of father and minor son was in District of Columbia, duty imposed by this section on father to provide adequate support for his son existed in spite of Nevada divorce decree containing inadequate support provisions. Schneider v. Schneider, 1944 (141 F. 2d 542, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 383).

A suit by mother as next friend of minor son is proper proceeding to enforce duty of father to provide adequate support for his minor son. Schneider v. Schneider, 1944 (141 F. 2d 542, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 383).

The measure of father's duty to provide adequate support for minor son was present needs of son and ability of father to provide for him. Schneider v. Schneider, 1944 (141 F. 2d 542, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 383).

§ 16–416 [14: 76]. Petition for divorce—Proceedings.

All applications for divorce or for a decree annulling a marriage shall be made by complaint to the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, and the proceedings thereupon shall be the same as in equity causes, except so far as otherwise herein provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 963; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329; June 21, 1949, 63 Stat. 215, ch. 233.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

The 1902 amendment added a paragraph which provided for disposal of divorce actions pending December 31, 1901. This paragraph has been omitted herefrom.

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 21, 1949, cited to text, substituted the word "complaint" in lieu of "petition" and the words "United States District Court" in lieu of "District Court of the United States".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ACTION EQUITABLE

A divorce proceeding in this jurisdiction is equitable in character. Moncure v. Moncure (51 App. D. C. 292, 278 Fed. 1005).

JURISDICTION OF DISTRICT COURT

The "public policy" of the District of Columbia does not require its courts to take jurisdiction of a matrimonial dispute between two persons who are neither domiciled in the District nor even residents thereof, especially where there is no showing that the welfare of children, rights of property, or other public interests in the District are affected. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

Under the doctrine "forum non conveniens" the District Court's jurisdiction of actions for separate maintenance between nonresidents domiciled elsewhere should not be exercised unless unusual circumstances justify trial in the District of Columbia. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

The District Court properly accepted jurisdiction of a wife's action for separate maintenance, even though husband and wife were nonresidents domiciled outside the District of Columbia, where husband's work when not traveling was in the District and husband's domicile was uncertain, both parties lived a few miles away, and husband at one time lived in the District. Melvin v. Melvin, 1942 (129 F. 2d 39, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 56).

Where District Court was without jurisdiction of original complaint for divorce because of lack of plaintiff's required residence, it could not entertain the cross-bill, and bill would be dismissed, with the dismissal of the original bill. Clark v. Clark (D. C., D. C. 1948, 79 F. Supp. 722).

QUESTIONS OF FACT

In wife's divorce action, husband's motion for new trial on ground that wife's divorce decree from another was invalid because of fraud perpetrated on court in respect of wife's residence presented a "question of fact" and decision granting new trial was not so wanting in evidential support as to be arbitrary. Ruppert v. Ruppert, 1942 (134 F. 2d 497, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 65).

SUMMONS

Where wife obtained a limited divorce from husband, and thereafter she filed a petition for enlargement of the decree into a decree for absolute divorce, and rule to show cause was issued, but husband refused to appear, rule to show cause would be discharged, and wife was required to proceed by summons. Stern v. Stern (D. C. Sup. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 266).

§ 16–417 [14: 77]. Co-respondents—Made defendants—Service.

In all divorce cases where adultery is charged the person or persons with whom the adultery is charged to have been committed shall be made defendant or defendants and brought in by personal service of process or by publication as in other cases. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 983.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Bill alleging adultery with two persons without making them party to suit, was not maintainable. Nelson v. Nelson (60 App. D. C. 156, 49 Fed. (2d) 680).

COUNSEL FEES

Counsel fees of husband plaintiff cannot be assessed against the co-respondent as costs. Eichelberger v. Symons (53 App. D. C. 116, 288 Fed. 654).

DEFENSE BY CO-RESPONDENT

Quaere: Whether co-respondent can plead condonation by plaintiff. Holden v. Matteson (38 App. D. C. 128).

IDENTITY UNKNOWN

It is not necessary to make co-respondent a party if his identity cannot be determined or he is known only by a fictitious name. McLarren v. McLarren (45 App. D. C. 237).

§ 16–418 [14: 78]. Court to assign attorney in uncontested cases—Compensation.

In all uncontested divorce cases, and in any other divorce or annulment case where the court may deem it necessary or proper, a disinterested attorney shall be assigned by the court to enter his appearance for the defendant and actively defend the cause, and such attorney shall receive such compensation for his services as the court may determine to be proper, such compensation to be paid by the parties as the court may direct. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 982; June 20, 1949, 63 Stat. 213, ch. 229.)

AMENDMENTS

The act of June 20, 1949, cited to text, inserted the words "or annulment" preceding "case".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CITED

Referred to but not construed in Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

CONTEMPT

In divorce action, where an attorney was appointed for defaulting defendant and final decree granting divorce ordered defendent to pay a fee to attorney but this section providing compensation for attorney so appointed, made no provision for enforcement of payment of compensation, attorney could not enforce payment of his fee by way of contempt proceeding. Robinson v. Robinson (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 397).

§ 16–419 [14: 79]. Proof required—Decree on default.

No decree for a divorce, or decree annulling a marriage, shall be rendered on default, without proof; nor shall any admission contained in the answer of the defendant be taken as proof of the facts charged as the ground of the application, but the same shall in all cases, be proved by other evidence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 964.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See note to § 16–403.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIONS

Admissions of adultery by wife, having been freely made, were rightly received in evidence against her. Holden v. Matteson (38 App. D. C. 128).

The testimony of a party to a divorce suit need not be corroborated when it is undisputed, the suit is contested and no collusion appears, though testimony is necessary and admissions in pleadings are not enough. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

CONFESSIONS

"In Michalowicz v. Michalowicz (25 App. D. C. 484) it was ruled that this provision of the code is declarative of the general rule of practice in such cases and was not intended to prohibit all evidence of confessions that may have been made by a party. 'But,' said the court, 'to warrant a decree of divorce the confessions must be well established, direct, and certain, free from suspicion of collusion, and corroborated by independent facts and circumstances.'" Cogswell v. Cogswell (49 App. D. C. 31, 258 Fed. 287).

NATURE OF PROOF REQUIRED

In divorce proceedings, evidence of wife's adultery must be clear and convincing. Mere circumstances of suspicion are not sufficient. Krous v. Krous (41 App. D. C. 200); Symons v. Symons (51 App. D. C. 69, 275 Fed. 1015); Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987), citing Glennan v. Glennan (3 App. D. C. 333); McKitrick v. McKitrick (49 App. D. C. 109, 261 Fed. 451); Topham v. Topham (50 App. D. C. 229, 269 Fed. 1013).

Proof of an adulterous disposition and opportunity to commit offense warrant a finding of adultery. Allen v. Allen (52 App. D. C. 228, 285 Fed. 962).

Where testimony is in conflict, "the finding of the lower court will not be disturbed, unless it is palpably wrong."

Cole v. Cole (52 App. D. C. 302, 286 Fed. 764). See also Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359).

"But that rule does not require proof beyond the possibility of doubt, nor does it necessarily require proof by eye witnesses of the actual offense. Nor do we overlook the rule that the testimony of hired detectives in such cases should be scrutinized with great caution." Stewart v. Stewart (52 App. D. C. 323, 286 Fed. 987). See also Allen v. Allen (52 App. D. C. 228, 285 Fed. 962) (testimony of detectives).

PURPOSE

It is the purpose of law of District of Columbia to require caution in granting of uncontested divorces and to prevent the granting of default decrees, without proof. Stone v. Stone, 1943 (136 F. 2d 761, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 5).

WITNESS

"In the case of Bergheimer v. Bergheimer (17 App. D. C. 381), we held that in divorce cases the parties to a suit are not competent to testify as witnesses in their own behalf. Therein we followed the ruling of the general term of the Supreme Court of the District in the case of Burdette v. Burdette (2 Mackey (13 D. C.) 469) and the uniform rule of practice in this District. And this rule, we think, is not affected by section 1068 of the Code (§ 14–306). * * * This section must be taken as qualified by section 964 of the Code (this section), which provides a special rule of evidence for divorce cases." Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

This section has no relation to the competency of the witnesses of the parties to the suit. Early v. Early (49 App. D. C. 123, 261 Fed. 1003).

The parties to a divorce suit are competent witnesses. Buford v. Buford (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 567).

§ 16–420 [14: 80]. Law not retroactive.

The provisions of this chapter shall not invalidate any marriage solemnized according to law before January 1, 1902, or affect validity of any decree or judgment of divorce pronounced before January 1, 1902. (Mar. 3. 1901, 31 Stat. 1345, ch. 854, § 967.)

§ 16–421 [14: 81]. When decree for annulment or absolute divorce effective.

No final decree annulling or dissolving a marriage shall be effective to annul or dissolve the marriage until the expiration of the time allowed for taking an appeal, nor until the final disposition of any appeal taken, and every final decree shall expressly so recite. Every decree for absolute divorce shall contain the date thereof and no such final decree shall be absolute and take effect until the expiration of six months after its date. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 567, ch. 153, § 983a; Aug. 7, 1935, 49 Stat. 540, ch. 453, § 4.)

AMENDMENT

The 1920 act provided for an interlocutory decree and a waiting period of 90 days before final decree was entered, but did not postpone effectiveness for 6 months.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Meaning and purpose of this provision is to prevent the remarriage of and preserve the status quo of the parties until the losing party may have his or her full legal rights and the law should be satisfied when that result is accomplished. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (58 App. D. C. 107, 25 Fed. (2d) 531).

ASSAULT DURING COVERTURE

Action against former husband for assault committed after decree of absolute divorce had been entered, but before expiration of six months period when decree would become effective, could be maintained as against contention that a married woman may not sue for assault committed on her by her husband during coverture. Steele v. Steele (D. C., D. C. 1946, 65 F. Supp. 329).

DEFENSE TO POLYGAMY

Since plaintiff had been legally divorced in the District while the parties were domiciled there, and the decree became effective unconditionally and irrevocably, she was thereafter an unmarried woman and could not be guilty of polygamy. Loughran v. Loughran (292 U. S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219, 54 Sup. Ct. 684).

§ 16–422 [14: 82]. Suit to determine validity of marriage.

When the validity of any alleged marriage shall be denied by either of the parties thereto the other party may institute a suit for affirming the marriage, and upon due proof of the validity thereof it shall be decreed to be valid, and such decree shall be conclusive upon all parties concerned. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1346, ch. 854, § 981.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMINISTRATIVE DETERMINATION

An adjudication that a marriage is invalid may ordinarily be made only by a court of competent jurisdiction after trial at which all interested parties have an opportunity to be heard, and it is questionable whether an administrative agency, such as the Veterans' Administration, the Navy Department, or the War Department, has any authority to hold a marriage invalid in an ex parte manner on basis of its own investigation. Snyder v. Buck (D. C., D. C. 1948, 75 Supp. 902, reversed 179 F. 2d 466, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 428, certiorari granted 70 S. Ct. 837, 339 U. S. 951, 94 L. Ed. 723).

REMARRIAGE BEFORE APPEAL DATE

A wife's remarriage before time had expired for taking appeal from husband's annulment decree, was valid. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (58 App. D. C. 107, 25 Fed. (2d) 531).

16–533. Injunction against ejectment dissolved unless rent and costs lodged with court within forty days after answer—Possession not to be restored to lessee unless all rent and costs paid.
16–534. Payment or tender of all rent and costs before trial of ejectment, proceedings cease—If tenant restored by equity no new lease necessary.

§ 16–501 [24: 161]. Parties.

Every action of ejectment shall be brought in the name of the real claimant and may be brought against the person actually occupying the premises claimed, either in person or by tenant, or against both the claimant and his tenant, or other occupant claiming under him, or, if they be not actually occupied, against some person exercising acts of ownership thereon adversely to the plaintiff. If a lessee be made a defendant at the suit of a party claiming against the title of his landlord such landlord may appear and be made a party defendant in the place of his lessee. And any person claiming to be in possession may, on motion, be admitted to defend the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 984; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

Amendment

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "tenant" in the first sentence, the words "or against both the claimant and his tenant, or occupant claiming under him."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Equity—Jurisdiction to Enjoin

When equity has jurisdiction to enjoin prosecution of an action of ejectment involving three tracts of land, so far as two tracts are concerned, on ground that defendants have no adequate remedy at law, it will assume jurisdiction as to the third tract to terminate the litigation even though the defendants would have a remedy as to said third tract. Camp v. Boyd (35 App. D. C. 159, affd. 229 U. S. 530, 57 L. Ed. 1317, 33 Sup. Ct. 785).

Estoppel

Strict rules of estoppel are present when the parties in both actions are the same, when they are parties in interest, not only asserting in both instances the right of possession, but the title to the property. Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

Historical

The abolition of fictions in pleading in the District of Columbia by act June 1, 1870 (16 Stat. 146, ch. 115) and providing that all actions for the recovery of real estate in the District should be commenced in the name of the real party in interest, did not abolish the action of ejectment or make any other alteration in the form of the action, or extend limitations. Hogan v. Kurtz (94 U. S. 773, 24 L. Ed. 317).

British statutes prohibiting conveyance of lands held adversely are obsolete in this District. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

Pleading

It seems to be unnecessary to plead the statute of limitations where the general issue has been pleaded in actions of ejectment. McMillan v. Fuller (41 App. D. C. 384).

Where defendant pleads the general issue, and was found in possession of the land demanded, his plea must be construed as making defense for the whole. Marine R. & Coal Co. v. United States (49 App. D. C. 285, 265 Fed. 437).

Possession—Judgment Reversed on Appeal

"Where in ejectment a party in possession has been ejected from the premises under a judgment found upon appeal or writ of error to be erroneous, the party so dispossessed is entitled to restitution of the premises." Wilson v. Newburgh (42 App. D. C. 407).

The court is without jurisdiction to permit the plaintiff to retain possession under such reversed judgment, conditioned upon paying the original occupant a monthly rental pending further litigation. Wilson v. Newburgh (42 App. D. C. 407).

Presumption as to Judgment

The doctrine as to the inconclusiveness of judgments of ejectment has been abrogated by section 1002 of the Code (§ 16–518). Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

Proof of Title

For exceptions to the rule that plaintiff in ejectment must recover on strength of his own title, see Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

Marshal's deed of land which shows levy upon and sale of property under judgment is not sufficient to show title to the land in the grantee, but the grantee must prove the judgment and the execution. Rowlett v. Nash (38 App. D. C. 598).

One in peaceable possession of property, either in person or by tenant, is presumed to be in lawful possession, and "he was entitled to recover possession from a mere trespasser without further proof of title." Nash v. Rawlett (41 App. D. C. 456). See also Bradshaw v. Ashley (180 U. S. 59, 45 L. Ed. 423, 21 Sup. Ct. 297, affg. 14 App. D. C. 485); Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affg. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25); Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

Right of Action

Action of ejectment may be commenced by an claimant to property against anyone occupying the premises, either in person or by tenants, or against any person exercising acts of ownership adversely to the plaintiff Spruill v. Brooks (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 204).

§ 16–502 [24: 162]. Tenant served in ejectment must give notice to landlord.

Every tenant, to whom any declaration in ejectment shall be delivered for any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall forthwith give notice thereof to his or her landlord or landlords, or his, her, or their bailiff or receiver, under penalty of forfeiting the value of three years improved or rack rent of the premises so demised or holden in the possession of such tenant, to the person of whom he or she holds; to be recovered by action of debt. (11 Geo. 2, ch. 19, § 12, 1738; Kilty Rep., p. 251; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 737; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 332, § 61).

Cross Reference

See note to §13–201.

§ 16–503 [24: 163]. Declaration—Form—Adverse possession.

The plaintiff in his declaration must describe the premises claimed with reasonable certainty, and set forth distinctly the nature and quantity of the estate claimed by him in the same, and it shall be sufficient for him to state in addition thereto that the plaintiff was possessed of the premises, and while he was so possessed the defendant entered wrongfully into possession of the same and withholds the possession thereof from the plaintiff, or wrongfully detains such possession, or that the defendant is wrongfully exercising acts of ownership thereon. Such acts of ownership, however, unaccompanied with possession shall not, except as hereinafter provided, be held to amount to an adversary possession, so as to make it necessary for the plaintiff to sue in order to avoid the bar of the statute of limitations. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 985.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Pleading generally, § 13–201 and notes.

§ 16–504 [24: 164]. Counts.

The declaration may contain several counts and several parties may be named as plaintiffs, jointly in one count and separately in others. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 986.)

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

See Rules 2, 7–25, 54 (b), 55 (a), (d), 56, 67.

§ 16–505 [24: 165]. Proof necessary.

It shall be sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to a verdict to show that he is entitled, as against the defendant, to the immediate possession of the premises claimed and that the defendant is in possession thereof, holding adversely to the plaintiff, or is exercising acts of ownership over the same adversely to the plaintiff; except that in an action by one or more joint tenants or tenants in common against their cotenants, the plaintiffs shall be required to prove an actual ouster or some other act amounting to a denial of the plaintiff's title and his exclusion from the enjoyment of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 988.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DEFENSE—ADVERSE POSSESSION

Defense of adverse possession held established. Holtzman v. Douglas (168 U. S. 278, 42 L. Ed. 466, 18 Sup. Ct. 65, affg. 5 App. D. C. 397).

OUSTER NOT PRESUMED

"Ouster will not be presumed, but there must be a showing of positive acts of hostility." Lyon v. Bursey (42 App. D. C. 519).

PROOF OF TITLE

Where plaintiff and defendant do not claim through common source of title, plaintiff must "show a complete chain of title from the sovereign, either the English crown, the State of Maryland, or the United States," particularly when neither plaintiff nor those under whom he claims was ever in possession of the property. Bursey v. Lyon (30 App. D. C. 597). See also Anderson v. Reid (10 App. D. C. 426); Scott v. Herrell (27 App. D. C. 395); Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

TENANTS IN COMMON

"One tenant in common is not liable to his cotenant for use and occupation, unless there has been an actual ouster of the cotenant, or acts amounting to that." Lyon v. Bursey (42 App. D. C. 519).

§ 16–506 [24: 166]. Legal title in mortgagee or trustee—Possession.

It shall be no bar to the plaintiff's recovery that the legal title to the property claimed is outstanding in another as mortgagee or trustee under a mortgage or deed of trust to secure a debt unless such mortgagee or trustee, or those claiming under him, has taken possession of the premises; or unless the defendant claims under such mortgagor or grantor in the deed of trust. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1347, ch. 854, § 989; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the words following the word "trustee" where it first appears, which read, "if the mortgage or deed of trust has been satisfied and the plaintiff would be entitled to an unconditional decree for the release or reconveyance of the property to him, nor shall the mortgagee or trustee in such case be entitled to maintain an action of ejectment against the party so entitled," and inserted in lieu thereof the words that follow the word "trustee."

§ 16–507 [24: 167]. Vendor in valid contract, entitling vendee to decree of specific performance may not recover in ejectment.

Where real property has been sold under a written contract executed by the vendor, and there has been such a performance of its terms by the vendee as would entitle him to a decree in equity for a conveyance of the legal title, without condition, such vendor shall not be entitled at law, any more than in equity, to recover said property from the vendee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 990.)

§ 16–508 [24: 168]. Several judgments against defendants occupying distinct parcels in severalty.

If it appears on the trial that some of the defendants occupy distinct parcels of the property claimed, in severalty, the plaintiff, if entitled to recover, may in the discretion of the court, have several judgments against the respective parties, according to the proof of occupancy. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 992; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "may" the words "in the discretion of the court."

§ 16–509 [24: 169]. Recovery of less than is claimed.

The plaintiff, under a claim to certain described premises, may recover less than the whole property claimed, and, under a claim to an entire property, may recover an undivided part thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 993.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DISCLAIMER OF OTHER PART

Where plaintiff claims only a portion of the land sued for, he may, under this section, disclaim as to the other part. Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

§ 16–510 [24: 170]. Joint tenants and tenants in common.

Joint tenants must sue jointly in ejectment, but tenants in common may sue either jointly or separately, and any numbers of tenants in common, less than the whole number entitled, may sue jointly in reference to their undivided interests. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 994.)

§ 16–511 [24: 171]. Recovery of mesne profits and damages—Separate count.

The plaintiff may embody in his declaration, in a separate count, a claim for the mesne profits received by the defendant from the property sued for or for the clear value of the use and occupation thereof extending to the time of the verdict, and also damages for waste or injury to the premises during said period; and if the jury find for the plaintiff they may, at the same time, find and assess the said mesne profits, or the value of said use and occupation and the amount of said damages; and, besides a judgment for the recovery of the property, there shall be rendered a judgment against the defendant for the amount so found by the jury, except in the case provided for in section 16–519. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 995; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 537, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment struck out the words "to the defendant during his occupation thereof, and during the plaintiff's ownership thereof, within a period commencing three years before the commencement of the suit and" following the word "thereof."

§ 16–512 [24: 172]. Landlord and tenant—Recovery of furniture, arrears in rent, damages—Separate counts.

If the action be by a landlord against his tenant, the plaintiff may embody in his declaration, in separate counts, a claim for furniture if leased with the realty, for arrears of rent due at the termination of the tenancy, a claim for double rent in cases authorized by this code from the termination of the tenancy to the verdict for possession, and a claim for damages for waste or injury to the premises or furniture during the defendant's occupancy of the same and before the commencement of the suit; and if the jury find for the plaintiff, they may at the same time find the amounts due for arrears of rent and for double rent and for damages as aforesaid, and judgment shall be rendered accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 996.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

AMOUNT OF VERDICT

In action for rent, where defendant admitted liability for a fixed amount and claimed a credit for repairs made, and the evidence was conflicting, some items of defense were hard to prove, and jury had no purely mathematical basis upon which to rest its verdict, a verdict for less than amount demanded, but for more than amount admitted by defendant, would not be disturbed. Shlopak v. Davison (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 126).

In action for rent where defendant admitted liability for a limited amount, and jury returned a verdict for less than amount demanded, but more than amount admitted to be due by defendant, and verdict was accepted by plaintiff, defendant was in no position to complain that verdict should have been a verdict for all or nothing. Shlopak v. Davison (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 126).

§ 16–513 [24: 173]. Plaintiff may sue separately for rent or damages.

The plaintiff in ejectment shall not be bound to join his claim for rent or damages with his claim for the recovery of the land and his omission to do so shall not prevent him from suing for the same separately. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1348, ch. 854, § 997.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONCURRENT ACTIONS

A landlord could maintain action against tenant in District of Columbia District Court for arrears of rent and an action against tenant in the municipal court for possession of leased premises. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400, modified, 1947, 54 A. 2d 144).

NATURE OF POSSESSORY ACTION

A landlord's action for possession of leased premises for nonpayment of rent is statutory substitute for the ancient remedy of ejectment. Service Parking Corp. v. Trans-Lux Radio City Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 47 A. 2d 400, modified, 1947, 54 A. 2d 144).

§ 16–514 [24: 174]. Expiration of title pending suit—Damages.

If the title of the plaintiff in ejectment shall expire after the commencement of the suit but before the trial, and but for said expiration he would have been entitled to recover, the verdict shall find such facts, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to recover his damages sustained by the wrongful withholding of the possession. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 998.)

§ 16–515 [24: 175]. Defense of adverse possession—Inclosure.

In an action to recover vacant and unimproved lots of ground it shall not be necessary, in order to maintain the defense of adversary possession, to show that the premises in controversy had been inclosed; but if it appear that the property had been assessed for taxation to the defendant, or those under whom he claims, and that he or they had regularly paid the taxes on the same and were the only persons who had exercised control over the same for a period of fifteen years before the bringing of the action, such facts shall be the equivalent of possession by actual inclosure. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 999.)

COMPILER'S NOTE

This section was duplicated in D. C. Code, 1929 Edit., and appeared therein as title 24, § 175 and title 25, § 2 (Quiet Title Proceedings).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

IN GENERAL

Defense of adverse possession held established by payment of taxes on lot and collection of rent from one who used it as stoneyard. Holtzman v. Douglas (168 U. S. 278, 42 L. Ed. 466, 18 Sup. Ct. 65, affg. 5 App. D. C. 397).

"The evidence on behalf of the defendant made out a clear case of actual, exclusive, continuous, open, and adverse possession of the premises for more than 20 years by her and those under whom she claimed, and had the effect to create in her a good and sufficient title." Briel v. Jordan (27 App. D. C. 202).

ADVERSE POSSESSION

Proof that plaintiff and his predecessors held vacant and unimproved land openly, notoriously, exclusively, and adversely for statutory period, and during that period paid taxes on the land established title in plaintiff by "adverse possession" under District of Columbia law without proof that acts of ownership other than assessment to and payment of taxes by the plaintiff and his predecessors were exercised by them continuously during the period prescribed by this section. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

Under District of Columbia law, title to vacant and unimproved land is established by "adverse possession" where claimant shows that for 15 years the land was assessed to him or his predecessors in claim, and that he or they regularly paid the taxes, and exercised other acts of dominion over the property, though not necessarily continuously during the entire period, and that no one else including the legal title holder had done so. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

Congress, in enacting this section which provided that proof of facts specified should be the equivalent of "possession by actual inclosure", intended to make proof of such facts sufficient for creation of title by adverse possession. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

The purpose of this section was to make proof of facts specified therein, not only the equivalent of possession by actual inclosure, but also of intent to claim adversely. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

EFFECTIVENESS OF TITLE SO SECURED

When title is secured by adverse possession an attempted dedication by the record owner is ineffectual to vest title in the District of Columbia. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

LIMITATIONS

This section referred to section 201 of Title 12, and plaintiff could establish title to such lands by adverse possession upon proof of payment of taxes regularly for 15-year period, even though the period did not immediately precede the bringing of the action. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

OCCUPATION BY MISTAKE

Where one entitled to eight acres of land by mistake takes eleven acres, and occupies the entire tract adversely, such error can not be held to operate against his acquisition by such adverse possession of the three wrongfully occupied acres. Johnson v. Thomas (23 App. D. C. 141).

Occupation by grantee, although by mistake, of land beyond boundaries as specified in deed vests in him an indefeasible title if his possession has been actual, open, notorious, exclusive, and adverse for the statutory period. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

PERSONS WITHIN SECTION

Congress, in enacting this section, did not intend to limit the substantive effects of the section to specific procedural situation described, and the section was applicable to plaintiff who claimed land by adverse possession and brought action to obtain payment of a condemnation award which had been made in favor of plaintiff and was deposited in registry of court when defendants asserted title to the condemned land. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

POSSESSION BY INCLOSURE

Under Maryland law, the phrase "possession by inclosure" embraced all possessory elements necessary for adverse possession, and the court would assume that such meaning was carried over to this section, which provided that proof of certain facts should be the equivalent of "possession by inclosure", in view of fact that the provision was drawn with a view to Maryland law. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

PRESUMPTION THAT POSSESSION FOLLOWED TITLE

Where railroad tracks were on the land, and when plaintiff exhibits a series of deeds purporting to convey the property, the last one to itself, it is to be presumed that possession followed the title until dispossession by the defendant took place. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, P. & C. R. Co. (23 App. D. C. 587, affd. 199 U. S. 247, 50 L. Ed. 175, 26 Sup. Ct. 25).

PUBLIC HIGHWAY

Quaere: Whether one may acquire title by adverse possession of a portion of a public highway outside of the boundary of the city of Washington. Rudolph v. Peters (35 App. D. C. 438, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 446).

PURPOSE

This section was not intended as revenue-enforcing measure nor as measure which would make acquisition of title by adverse possession more difficult than it had been previously, and the obvious purpose of the provision was to dispense with necessity for showing that acts of dominion other than assessment and payment of taxes had been continuous throughout the limitation period when no other person had exercised control within it. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

This section was intended to modify and not merely to codify the previously existing common law. Faulks v. Schrider, 1940 (114 F. 2d 587, 72 App. D. C. 308).

RECOVERY AGAINST TRESPASSER

One in adverse possession for less than statutory period, and who has never voluntarily relinquished possession, may recover as against a subsequent trespasser. Bradshaw v. Ashley, (14 App. D. C. 485, affd. 180 U. S. 59, 45 L. Ed. 423, 21 Sup. Ct. 297). See also Staffan v. Zeust (10 App. D. C. 260).

§ 16–516 [24: 176]. Verdict.

If the plaintiff's title be established by proof, the verdict of the jury shall be generally for the plaintiff as to the whole or part of the property or interest claimed in the declaration, as the case may be; if, on the contrary, the plaintiff fail to make satisfactory proof of title, the verdict shall be for the defendant as to the whole or part of the property, as the case may be, and it may be for the plaintiff as to part and for the defendant as to other part thereof, and judgment shall be rendered according to the verdict, except as hereinafter provided. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1000; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "property" the words "or interest."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

JUDGMENT FOR PART OF PROPERTY

Under this section, plaintiff may recover a less portion than the whole sued for. Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576).

§ 16–517 [24: 177]. Verdict of not guilty—Judgment for defendant—Costs—Future actions.

If it appear on the trial that the defendant did not wrongfully enter into possession of the property sued for, or exercise acts of ownership over the same adversely to the plaintiff, as aforesaid, the verdict of the jury shall be that the defendant is not guilty, and thereupon judgment shall be rendered in favor of the defendant against the plaintiff for the costs of the action, but such judgment shall not be a bar to a future action by the plaintiff against the defendant for the recovery of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1001.)

§ 16–518 [24: 178]. Judgment conclusive as to title.

Any final judgment rendered in an action of ejectment shall be conclusive as to the title thereby established as between the parties to the action and all persons claiming under them since the commencement of the action. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1002.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

COMMON LAW ABROGATED

"The doctrine of the common law as to the inconclusiveness of judgments of ejectment has been abrogated in this District" by code section 984 (§ 16–501) and this section. Lyon v. Bursey (36 App. D. C. 235).

JUDGMENT IS "FINAL"

A judgment in ejectment, appealed from, is a final judgment. Reed v. Allen (286 U. S. 191, 76 L. Ed. 1054, 52 Sup. Ct. 532, revg. 60 App. D. C. 346, 54 Fed. (2d) 713).

§ 16–519 [24: 179]. Recovery for improvements—Notice—Good faith—Directions to jury—Measure of damages.

If at any time before the trial the defendant shall give notice that if the verdict of the jury shall be in favor of the plaintiff's title the defendant will claim the benefit of permanent improvements that may have been placed on the property by the defendant or those under whom he claims, and shall offer evidence at the trial tending to show that he or those under whom he claims had peaceably entered into possession of the premises in controversy under a title which he or they had reason to believe and did believe to be good, and had erected valuable and permanent improvements on said property, which were begun in good faith before the commencement of the suit, the jury shall be directed, in case they find in favor of the plaintiff's title and also find that such permanent improvements were made by the defendant, or those under whom he claims, under the circumstances aforesaid, to assess—

First. The damages of the plaintiff, being the clear value over and above taxes and necessary expenses of the use and occupation of the property, exclusive of said improvements, during the whole period of the occupation of the same to the date of the verdict, and also any damage done to the property, by waste or otherwise, by said parties during said occupation.

Second. The present value of any permanent improvements which may have been placed on the premises by the defendant or those under whom he claims.

Third. The present value of the property of the plaintiff without and exclusive of said improvements. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1349, ch. 854, § 1003; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the following: from the second paragraph following the word "improvements," the words "to the defendant and those under whom he claims": from the third paragraph following the word "value," the words "to the plaintiffs"; and, from the fourth paragraph following the word "value," the words "to the defendant."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

OCCUPANT IN GOOD FAITH

This section "is limited to those who enter into possession of the premises under a title which they had reason to believe, and did believe, to be good, and erect valuable and permanent improvements in good faith." Robinson v. Hillman (36 App. D. C. 576). See also Armstrong v. Ashley (22 App. D. C. 368), holding that grantee of an occupant in good faith can have no better right than his grantor had to an equitable lien for improvements, citing Anderson v. Reid (14 App. D. C. 54) and stating that the rule therein announced "has now, at least to some extent, been modified by the code in section 1003 (this section)."

§ 16–520 [24: 180]. New trial as to assessment.

If either party shall feel aggrieved by said assessment he may, within four days after the verdict, move to set the assessment aside, and the court may, for good cause shown, set the same aside and order another jury to be empaneled in the cause to make a new assessment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1004; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment deleted the first sentence which read as follows: "In addition to the evidence offered at the trial as to said values, the jury may be directed to view the premises, and their said assessments shall be returned with their verdict and recorded with the same"; and changed the word "three" to "four."

§ 16–521 [24: 181]. Judgment for damages in excess of improvements.

If the damages of the plaintiff, assessed as aforesaid, shall exceed the value of said permanent improvements as ascertained by the jury, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a judgment for the excess in like manner as directed in section 16–511. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1005.)

§ 16–522 [24: 182]. Improvements and damages offset.

If the value of said improvements, so ascertained, shall equal but not exceed the plaintiff's damages, as found by the jury, the plaintiff shall only be entitled to judgment for the recovery of the property sued for and costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1006.)

§ 16–523 [24: 183]. Election of plaintiff to pay excess or tender deed.

If the value of said improvements shall be found by the jury to exceed the damages of the plaintiff, the plaintiff may elect either to pay to the defendant the amount of said excess or to demand of the defendant the value of the plaintiff's property, without the improvements, as fixed by the jury, and tender to the defendant a deed for said property, with all the plaintiff's right, title, and interest in the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1007.)

§ 16–524 [24: 184]. Judgment and writ of possession after payment for improvements.

If the said plaintiff shall pay to the defendant, within the time fixed therefor by the court, or, in case of his refusal to accept the same, shall pay into court for his use the amount of such excess of the value of said improvements over the damages of the plaintiff, the plaintiff shall be entitled forthwith to a judgment and writ of possession. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1008.)

§ 16–525 [24: 185]. Judgment and writ of possession after refusal of tender of deed by plaintiff.

If the plaintiff shall tender a deed as aforesaid to the defendant and demand the value of his property without the said improvements, as found by the jury, and the defendant shall fail or refuse to pay the same within the time fixed therefor by the court, the plaintiff shall, in like manner, be entitled to a judgment and writ of possession; and in case the plaintiff shall be a minor, the court may authorize said deed to be executed by his guardian. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1009.)

§ 16–526 [24: 186]. Judgment for defendant after plaintiff's refusal to pay excess or tender deed.

If the plaintiff shall fail or refuse either to pay the defendant the excess of the value of the improvements over the amount of the plaintiff's damages, or to tender a deed to the defendant, as aforesaid, and accept from him the value of the plaintiff's property, exclusive of the improvements, as aforesaid, the defendant may pay said value into court for the use of the plaintiff, and thereupon the defendant shall be entitled to a judgment in his favor, but without costs, which judgment shall be a bar to any future action by the plaintiff against the defendant to recover said property for cause theretofore existing. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1350, ch. 854, § 1010.)

§ 16–527 [24: 187]. Remedy of remainderman to gain possession of estate—Affidavit of concealed death of life tenant—Order to produce—Commissioners—Presumption of death upon failure to produce.

Any person or persons who hath or shall have any claim or demand in or to any remainder, reversion or expectancy in or to any estate, after the death of any person within age, married woman, or any other person whatsoever, upon affidavit made in the court of chancery, by the person so claiming such estate, of his or her title, and that he or she hath cause to believe that such minor, married woman, or other person is dead, and that his or her death is concealed by such guardian, trustee, husband, or any other person, shall and may once a year, if the person aggrieved shall think fit, move the chancellor to order, and they are hereby authorized and required to order such guardian, trustee, husband, or other person, concealing or suspected to conceal such person, at such time and place as the said court shall direct, on personal or other due service of such order, to produce and shew to such person and persons (not exceeding two) as shall in such order be named by the party or parties prosecuting such order, such minor, married woman, or other persons aforesaid; and if such guardian, trustee, husband, or such other person, as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to produce or shew such infant, married woman, or such other person, on whose life any such estate doth depend, according to the directions of the said order, that then the court of chancery is hereby authorized and required to order such guardian, trustee, husband, or other person, to produce such minor, married woman, or other person concealed, in the said court of chancery, or otherwise, before commissioners to be appointed by the said court, at such time and place as the court shall direct, two of which commissioners shall be nominated by the party or parties prosecuting such order, at his, her or their costs and charges; and in case such guardian, trustee, husband, or other person, shall refuse or neglect to produce such infant, married woman, or other person so concealed, in the court of chancery, or before such commissioners, whereof return shall be made by such commissioners, and that return filed, in either or any of the said cases, the said minor, married woman, or such other person so concealed, shall be taken to be dead, and it shall be lawful for any person claiming any right, title or interest in remainder or reversion, or otherwise. after the death of such infant, married woman, or such other person so concealed, as aforesaid, to enter upon such lands, tenements and hereditaments, as if such infant, married woman, or other person, so concealed were actually dead. (6 Ann, ch. 18, § 1, 1707; Kilty's Rept., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 675; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 356, § 6.)

Cross Reference

See note to § 13–201.

§ 16–528 [24: 188]. Remedy of remainderman to gain possession of estate—Life tenant beyond the seas—Commissioner may be ordered to make view of life tenant and report to court—Presumption of death—Right to enter.

If it shall appear to the said court by affidavit, that such minor, married woman, or other persons, mentioned in section 16–527, for whose life such estate is holden, is, or lately was at some certain place beyond the seas in the said affidavit to be mentioned, it shall and may be lawful for the party or parties prosecuting such order, as aforesaid, at his, her, or their costs and charges, to send over one or both the said persons appointed by the said order, to view such minor, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden; and in case such guardian, trustee, husband or other person concealing or suspected to conceal such persons, as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to produce or procure to be produced to such person or persons, a personal view of such infant, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden, that then and in such case such person or persons are hereby required to make a true return of such refusal or neglect to the court of chancery, which return shall be filed, and thereupon such minor, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden, shall be taken to be dead; and it shall be lawful for any person claiming any right, title or interest, in remainder, reversion or otherwise, after the death of such infant, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden, to enter upon such lands, tenements and hereditaments, as if such infant, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden, were actually dead. (6 Ann, ch. 18, § 2, 1707; Kilty's Rept., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 675; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 356, § 7.)

§ 16–529 [24: 189]. Rights of life tenant protected—Reentry—Damages.

If it shall afterwards appear upon proof, in any action to be brought pursuant to sections 16–527, 16–528, that such infant, married woman, or other person, for whose life any such estate is holden, were alive at the time of such order made, then it shall be lawful for such infant, married woman, guardian or trustee, or other person having any estate or interest, determinable upon such life, to reenter upon the said lands, tenements or hereditaments, and for such infant, married woman, or other person, having any estate or interest determinable upon such life, their executors, administrators or assigns, to maintain an action against those who, since the said order, received the profits of such lands, tenements or hereditaments, or their executors or administrators, and therein to recover full damages for the profits of the same received, from the time that such infant, married woman, or other person, having any estate or interest determinable upon such life, were ousted of the possession of such lands, tenements or hereditaments. (6 Ann, ch. 18, § 3, 1707; Kilty's Rept., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 676; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 357, § 8.)

§ 16–530 [24: 190]. Rights of life tenant not disturbed if found to be living.

If any such guardian, trustee, husband or other person or persons, holding or having any estate or interest, determinable upon the life or lives of any other person or persons, shall by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the said court of chancery, make appear, that he, she or they have used his, her, or their utmost endeavours to procure such infant, married woman, or other person or persons, on whose life or lives such estate or interest doth depend, to appear in the said court of chancery, or elsewhere, according to the order of the said court in that behalf made; and that he, she or they can not procure or compel such infant, married woman, or other person or persons so to appear, and that such infant, married woman, or other person or persons, on whose life or lives such estate or interest doth depend, is, are or were living at the time of such return made and filed, as aforesaid, then it shall be lawful for such person or persons to continue in the possession of such estate, and receive the rents and profits thereof for and during the infancy of such infant, and the life or lives of such married woman, or other person or persons, on whose life or lives such estate or interest doth or shall depend. (6 Ann, ch. 18, § 4, 1707; Kilty's Rept., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 677; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 357, § 9.)

§ 16–531 [24: 191]. Persons holding over after life estate—Liable as trespassers—Measure of damages.

Every person who, as guardian or trustee for any infant, and every husband seized in right of his wife only, and every other person having any estate determinable upon any life or lives, who after the determination of such particular estates or interests, without the express consent of him, her or them, who are or shall be next, and immediately entitled, upon and after the determination of such particular estates or interests, shall hold over and continue in possession of any manors, messuages, lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be and are hereby adjudged to be trespassers; and every person and persons, his, her and their executors and administrators, who are or shall be entitled to any such manors, messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments, upon or after the determination of such particular estates or interests, shall and may recover in damages against every such person or persons so holding over, as aforesaid, and against his, her or their executors or administrators, the full value of the profits received during such wrongful possession, as aforesaid. (6 Ann, ch. 18, § 5, 1707; Kilty's Rept., p. 247; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 677; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 357, § 10.)

§ 16–532 [24: 192]. Lessee barred of relief if rent and costs not paid and bill for relief filed within six months after execution in ejectment executed—Mortgagee of lease in same position.

In case the lessee or lessees, his, her, or their assignee or assignees, or other person or persons claiming or deriving under the said leases, shall permit and suffer judgment to be had and recovered on ejectment, and execution to be executed thereon, without paying the rent and arrears, together with full costs, and without filing any bill or bills for relief in equity, within six calendar months after such execution executed; then, and in such case, the said lessee or lessees, his, her, or their assignee or assignees, and all other persons claiming and deriving under the said lease, shall be barred and foreclosed from all relief or remedy in law or equity, and the said landlord or lessor shall from thenceforth hold the said demised premisses discharged from such lease; and if on such ejectment verdict shall pass for the defendant or defendants, or the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be nonsuited therein, then in every such case such defendant or defendants shall have and recover his, her, and their full costs: provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to bar the right of any mortgagee or mortgagees of such lease, or any part thereof, who shall not be in possession, so as such mortgagee or mortgagees shall and do, within six calendar months after such judgment obtained, and execution executed, pay all rent in arrear, and all costs and damages sustained by such lessor, person or persons intitled to the remainder or reversion, as aforesaid, and perform all the covenants and agreements, which on the part and behalf of the first lessee or lessees are and ought to be performed. (4 Geo. 2, ch. 28, § 2, 1731; Kilty's Rept., p. 249; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 705; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 326, § 46.)

§ 16–533 [24: 193]. Injunction against ejectment dissolved unless rent and costs lodged with court within 40 days after answer—Possession not to be restored to lessee unless all rent and costs paid.

In case the said lessee or lessees, his, her, or their assignee or assignees, or other person or persons, claiming any right, title, or interest, in law or equity, of, in, or to the said lease, shall, within the time aforesaid, file one or more bill or bills, for relief in any court of equity, such person or persons shall not have or continue any injunction, against the proceedings at law on such ejectment, unless he, she, or they do or shall within forty days next after a full and perfect answer shall be filed by the lessor or lessors of the plaintiff in such ejectment, bring into court, and lodge with the proper officer such sum and sums of money, as the lessor or lessors of the plaintiff in the said ejectment shall, in his, her, or their answer, swear to be due and in arrear, over and above all just allowances, and also the costs taxed in the said suit, there to remain till the hearing of the cause, or to be paid out to the lessor or landlord, on good security, subject to the decree of the court; and in case such bill or bills shall be filed within the time aforesaid, and after execution is executed, the lessor or lessors of the plaintiff shall be accountable only for so much, and no more, as he, she, or they shall really and bona fide, without fraud, deceit, or wilful neglect, make of the demised premises, from the time of his, her, or their entring into the actual possession thereof, and if what shall be so made by the lessor or lessors of the plaintiff, happen to be less than the rent reserved in the said lease, then the said lessee, or lessees, his, her, or their assignee or assignees, before he, she, or they shall be restored to his, her, or their possession or possessions, shall pay such lessor or lessors or landlord or landlords, what the money so by them made, fell short of the reserved rent, for the time such lessor or lessors of the plaintiff, landlord or landlords, held the said lands. (4 Geo. 2, ch. 28, § 3, 1731; Kilty's Rept., p. 249; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 707; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 327, § 47.)

§ 16–534 [24: 194]. Payment or tender of all rent and costs before trial of ejectment, proceedings cease—If tenant restored by equity no new lease necessary.

If the tenant or tenants, his, her, or their assignee or assignees, do or shall, at any time before the trial in such ejectment, pay or tender to the lessor or landlord, his executors or administrators, or his, her, or their attorney in that cause, or pay into the court where the same cause is depending, all the rent and arrears, together with the costs, then, and in such case, all further proceedings on the said ejectment shall cease, and be discontinued; and if such lessee or lessees, his, her, or their executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, upon such bill filed as aforesaid, be relieved in equity, he, she, and they, shall have, hold, and enjoy the demised lands, according to the lease thereof made, without any new lease to be thereof made to him, her, or them. (4 Geo. 2, ch. 28, § 4, 1731; Kilty's Rept., p. 249; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 707; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 328, § 48.)

LAND FOR DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

§ 16–601 [25: 41]. Condemnation authorized — Petition—Commissioners.

Whenever land in the District is needed by the commissioners of the District for sites of schoolhouses, fire or police stations, or for a right of way for sewers, or for any other municipal use authorized by Congress, and the same can not be acquired by purchase from the owners thereof at a price satisfactory to the officers of said District authorized to negotiate for the same, application may be made to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia by petition in the name of said commissioners for the condemnation of said land or said right of way and the ascertainment of its value. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 483; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment deleted the words "for the use of the United States or" after the word "needed," and the words "of the United States or" after the word "name."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

HISTORICAL

On March 1, 1929, Congress changed the method of procedure in condemnation cases in the District of Columbia and different methods were provided for the United States (§§ 16–601 to 16–619). Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

ABANDONMENT OF PROCEEDINGS

The Commissioners have the right to discontinue and abandon a condemnation proceeding; and such abandonment need not be in toto, but may be in parte. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (62 App. D. C. 237, 66 Fed. (2d) 217).

APPROPRIATION NOT MADE

The fact that Congress has made no appropriation for payment of the land condemned at the time condemnation proceedings are instituted is no defense. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

COMMISSIONERS

Commissioners of the District have no power to acquire land by condemnation, except by express authority of Congress. Dougherty v. Galliher (58 App. D. C. 166, 26 Fed. (2d) 538).

Where power to condemn property for public use has been conferred on municipal officers, it rests with such officers to determine whether it shall be exercised and when and to what extent it shall be exercised, and so long as they do not abuse the power delegated to them, courts are powerless to inquire into motives which actuate them or the propriety of the contemplated improvement. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

CONSTRUCTION

The words "authorized by Congress" limit only the preceding phrase "or for other municipal purposes," and have no reference to the preceding phrases. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

This statute must be strictly construed; if doubt exists as to authority of commissioners to condemn it must be resolved in favor of the landowner. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

DISCRETION OF MUNICIPAL OFFICERS

An appellate court will not interfere with the report of Commissioners to correct the amount of damages, except in cases of gross error, showing prejudice or corruption. Hence, for an error in the judgment of Commissioners in arriving at the amount of damages there can be no correction, especially where the evidence is conflicting. Seufferle v. Macfarland (28 App. D. C. 94).

When power of condemnation is vested in municipal officers "it rests with such officers to determine whether it shall be exercised, and when and to what extent it shall be exercised." Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

FEE SIMPLE ESTATE

Where land is condemned for school purposes, in absence of special circumstances, it would be reasonable to presume that no estate less than obsolete title is sufficient. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC FIELD

Land to be condemned for high school athletic field is to be used for "educational" purposes within the meaning of the zoning regulations, and such field may be located in a residential district. Commissioners of District of Columbia v. Shannon & Luchs Constr. Co. (57 App. D. C. 67, 17 Fed. (2d) 219).

Appropriation for school athletic field authorizes condemnation proceedings by District. Commissioners of District of Columbia v. Shannon & Luchs Constr. Co. (57 App. D. C. 67, 17 Fed. (2d) 219).

PETITION, SUFFICIENCY OF

Where District of Columbia's petition in condemnation proceeding alleged that land was necessary for purpose of acquiring a site for school purposes, error, if any, in failure to declare that fee simple estate was being condemned could not be raised by collateral attack on order of condemnation, in absence of record affirmatively showing that a lesser estate than a fee simple would have served the public purpose for which the land was sought. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

SCHOOL SITES

To condemn land for school sites, district assessor may not testify as expert witness. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (60 App. D. C. 186, 50 Fed. (2d) 336). But see § 14–309 which changes this rule.

WIDENING STREET

Under the provisions of this statute, condemnation proceedings may be instituted for widening any street. Nealy v. Hazen (63 App. D. C. 239, 71 Fed. (2d) 692).

§ 16–602 [25: 42]. Petition for condemnation — Contents.

Such petition shall contain a particular description of the property selected, with the names of the owners thereof and their residences, so far as the same may be ascertained, together with a plan of the land to be taken. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 484; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

§ 16–603 [25: 43]. Jury—Special list—Qualifications—Procedure for drawing.

The jury commission of the District of Columbia shall prepare a special list of persons having the qualifications of jurors, as prescribed by section 11–1417, and being also freeholders of the District of Columbia. The jury commission shall from time to time as may be necessary write the names contained in said special list on separate and similar pieces of paper, which they shall so fold or roll that the names cannot be seen, and shall place the same in a special box to be provided for the purpose, and shall thereupon seal and lock said special box, and after thoroughly shaking the same shall deliver it to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia for safekeeping; but the same shall not be unsealed or opened except by said jury commission. From time to time, as ordered by the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or one of the justices thereof holding a special term for the trial for condemnation proceedings, the jury commission shall publicly break the seal of said special box and proceed to draw therefrom by lot and without previous examination the names of such number of persons as the said court may from time to time direct to serve as jurors in condemnation proceedings, and certify the names so drawn to the clerk of said court. At the time of each drawing of condemnation jurors from said special box there shall be in said special box the names of not less than one hundred persons possessing the qualifications hereinbefore prescribed. Except as in this section specially provided, sections 11–1401 to 11–1420, inclusive, so far as the same may be applicable, shall govern the qualifications of said jurors in condemnation cases and the duties and conduct of said jury commissioners under this section. No person shall be eligible to serve as a condemnation juror who has served as such juror within one year. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 484a, as added Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 565, ch. 153, § 484a; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

Amendment

The 1929 amendment deleted the words "commissioner or" after the word "condemnation," and the words "commissioner or" after the word "such" in the last sentence.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Duty of Court

The court has the duty of guiding and directing the jury commission to the end that proper representation is had of all eligible citizens on general juries and also on the special panels in eminent domain proceedings. In re Condemnation of Lots Nos. 2, 27, 803, etc., in Square 3960 (D. C., D. C. 1945, 58 F. Supp. 832).

Jury, Definition of

The "jury" in eminent domain proceedings in the District of Columbia is an inquest or commission appointed by the court under this section and differs from an ordinary jury in that its members must be freeholders, need not be unanimous, and may number more or less than 12. In re Condemnation of Lots Nos. 2, 27, 803, etc., in Square 3960 (D. C., D. C. 1945, 58 F. Supp. 832).

Powers of Discretion

This section requiring the jury commission to prepare for eminent domain proceedings a special list of freeholders of the District of Columbia having the qualifications of jurors imports a broad discretion in the commission. In re Condemnation of Lots Nos. 2, 27, 803, etc., in Square 3960 (D. C., D. C. 1945, 58 F. Supp. 832).

Preparation of Jury Lists

The jury commission should prepare with great care not only the general jury lists but also the lists of jurors for eminent proceedings and keep the lists fluid so that some persons will not be frequently re-called while others, including Negroes, are not called. In re Condemnation of Lots Nos. 2, 27, 803, etc., in Square 3960 (D. C., D. C. 1945, 58 F. Supp. 832).

§ 16–604 [25: 44]. Citation to owners—Owners under disability—Selection of jury—Appraisal.

The said court holding a District Court of the United States, shall thereupon cite all the owners and other persons interested to appear in said court, at a time to be fixed by the court, to answer said petition; and if it shall appear to the court that there are any owners or other persons interested who are under disability, the court shall give public notice of the time at which it will proceed with the matter of condemnation; and at such time, if it shall appear that there are any persons under disability who have appeared or who have not appeared, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for each such person, and shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon appoint a jury of five capable and disinterested persons, to which jury the court shall administer an oath or affirmation that they are not interested in any manner in the land to be condemned, and are not related to the parties interested therein, and that they will, without favor or partiality, and to the best of their judgment, appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in such lands. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 485; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 565, ch. 153; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1437, ch. 439.)

Amendments

The 1920 amendment inserted the words "and shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon," in that part of the section following the second semicolon, and added the words "under such regulations as to notice and hearing as shall seem meet" at the end of the section, which words have been deleted by the 1929 amendment.

The 1929 amendment raised the number of jurors appointed from three to five.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In General

This section is mandatory and was intended by Congress to require a party in a condemnation proceeding to bring his objections and exceptions to the attention of the court within twenty days, the time limit prescribed, or else be taken to have waived them. Walker v. Hazen (67 App. D. C. 188, 90 Fed. (2d) 502).

§ 16–605 [25: 44a]. Declaration of taking—Contents—Deposit of estimated compensation—Transfer of title to District of Columbia—Compensation—Interest—Deficiency—Excess—Surrender of possession.

The petitioners may file in a cause, with the petition or at any time before judgment, a declaration of taking, signed by the commissioners, declaring that said lands are thereby taken for use of the District of Columbia. Said declaration of taking shall contain or have annexed thereto—

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which the said lands are taken;

(2) A description of the lands taken sufficient for the identification thereof;

(3) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands taken for said public use;

(4) A plan showing the lands taken;

(5) A statement of the sum of money estimated by the commissioners to be just compensation for the land taken.

Notwithstanding the provisions of section 16–608, upon the filing of said declaration of taking and the deposit in the registry of the court, for the use of the persons entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in the declaration, title to the said lands in fee simple absolute, or such less estate or interest therein as is specified in the declaration, shall vest in the District of Columbia, and the lands shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the District, and the right to just compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto. Said compensation shall be ascertained and awarded in said proceedings and established by judgment therein, and the judgment shall include, as part of the just compensation awarded, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum on the amount finally awarded as the value of the property as of the date of taking, from said date to the date of payment; but interest shall not be allowed on so much thereof as shall have been paid into the registry. No sum so paid into the registry shall be charged with commissions or poundage.

Upon the application of the parties in interest, the court may order that the money deposited in the registry of the court, or any part thereof, be paid forthwith for or on account of the just compensation to be awarded in said proceeding. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands, or any parcel thereof, shall exceed the amount of the money so received by any person entitled thereto, the court shall enter judgment against the District for the amount of the deficiency. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands, or any parcel thereof, shall be less than the amount of the money so received, the court shall have the power to enter judgment against the party or parties receiving the same for the amount representing the difference between the amount received and the amount awarded by the jury as fair compensation, and writs of execution may be issued thereon within the same time and have the same effect as liens, and shall be executed and returned in the same manner as if issued upon a common-law judgment.

Upon the filing of the declaration of taking, the court shall have power to fix the time within which and the terms upon which the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioners. The court shall have power to make such orders in respect of incumbrances, liens, rents, taxes, assessments, insurance, and other charges, if any, as shall be just and equitable. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 485a, as added July 8, 1932, 47 Stat. 647, ch. 462.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ABANDONMENT

Where a fee simple estate is acquired in condemnation proceeding, the doctrine of abandonment does not apply. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

NONUSE, EFFECT OF

Where District of Columbia's petition in condemnation proceeding alleged that land was necessary for purpose of acquiring a site for school purposes, the District obtained a fee simple absolute upon deposit in court of the damages awarded to the owners and title to premises did not revert back to the original owners because of nonuse by the District for school purposes. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

§ 16–606 [25: 45]. Objections to jurors—Appraisement.

The court, before accepting the jury, shall hear any objections that may be made to any member thereof, and shall have full power and authority to pass upon any such objection, and to excuse any juror or cause any vacancy in the jury, when empaneled, to be filled; and after the jury shall have been organized and shall have viewed and examined the land and premises affected by the condemnation proceeding, they shall proceed, in the presence of the court, to hear and receive such evidence as may be offered or submitted on behalf of the District of Columbia and by any person or persons having any interest in the proceeding. When the hearing is concluded, the jury, or a majority of them, shall return to the court, in writing, their appraisement of the value of the interests of all persons, respectively, in such land, where said appraisement shall be recorded. In making their decision, the jury shall take into consideration, whenever a part only is taken, the benefit to the remainder of the tract, and shall give their appraisement accordingly. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 486; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out this section of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

INSTRUCTIONS

In condemnation proceeding, instruction authorizing jury to appraise property at its full market value is not appropriate if anything less than fee is condemned. O'Hara v. District of Columbia, 1945 (147 F. 2d 146, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 302, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1183, 325 U. S. 855, 89 L. Ed. 1975).

PAYMENT AS CONDITION PRECEDENT

Owner cannot be divested of his property until payment has been made. Macfarland v. Elverson (32 App. D. C. 81).

"PERSONS IN INTEREST"

In the proceeding before the appraisal commissioners, the District has a right to be heard and therefore is one of the "persons in interest" therein mentioned. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

WITNESSES

It was error to allow a District assessor to testify as an expert witness in proceedings to condemn land for school sites, and certain other municipal purposes. Johnson v. Reichelderfer (60 App. D. C. 186, 50 Fed. (2d) 336). But see § 14–309 which changes this rule.

§ 16–607 [25: 46]. Objections and exceptions to appraisement—New jury.

The said court shall hear and determine any objections or exceptions that may be filed to any appraisement of the jury and shall have the power to vacate and set any appraisement aside, in whole or in part, when satisfied that it is unjust or unreasonable, in which event the court shall order the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court may direct, and from among the persons so drawn the court shall thereupon appoint a new jury of five capable and disinterested persons, who shall proceed as in the case of the first jury: Provided, That if vacated in part the residue of the appraisement as to the land condemned shall not be affected thereby: And provided further, That the objections or exceptions to the appraisement shall be filed within twenty days after the return of the appraisement to the court: And provided further, That the appraisement of the new jury shall be final when confirmed by the court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 487; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 566, ch. 153; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENTS

The 1920 amendment struck out § 487 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof a new section which in turn was struck out by the 1929 amendment and the section was made to read as above.

The 1901 act provided that the marshal should summon a jury of seven disinterested men, not related to anyone interested, to meet and view the premises, giving the parties at least six days' notice of the time and place of meeting. Under the 1920 act, the court ordered the jury commission to draw from the special box the names of as many persons as the court might direct, from which the court should appoint a jury of seven capable and disinterested persons for the same purpose.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECISION UNDER PRIOR LAW

The words "any of the parties interested" in § 487 of the 1901 Code (this section) were not to be given such a restricted meaning as to include only owners of the land and to exclude the party equally interested in the proceeding, namely, the District. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

Pending an appeal, the lower court may prevent removal or disturbance of improvements until after a view thereof may be had by the jury impaneled or to be impaneled in a condemnation case. In re Acquisition of Original Lot 14, and Assessment and Taxation Lot in Washington, D. C. (60 App. D. C. 216, 50 Fed. (2d) 981.)

IN GENERAL

This section provides for the summoning of a jury by the marshal and requires the jury to take certain benefits into consideration in returning their verdict. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

It was the intent of Congress to make these proceedings adversary throughout and allow either party to invoke the jury hearing provided by this section. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

APPRAISAL BY JURY

Jury award of almost $2,000 less than the lowest estimate of the District experts was held to be unjust and unreasonable and sufficient grounds for authorizing reversal for new appraisal. Branson v. Reichelderfer (62 App. D. C. 129, 65 Fed. (2d) 280).

It was the province of the jury to weigh the evidence after seeing and hearing all the witnesses and viewing the premises, and trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to set aside verdict. Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

SETTING ASIDE VERDICT

In condemnation proceeding, the court does not have the power to set aside the verdict of a jury in the absence of plain errors of law, misconduct, or grave error of fact indicating plain partiality or corruption. Johnson v. Hazen (69 App. D. C. 151, 99 Fed. (2d) 384).

§ 16–608 [25: 47]. Payment of award—Transfer of title.

If the appraisement of the jury should not be objected to by the parties interested, it shall be confirmed by the court, or, if the appraisement of the new jury is confirmed by the court, the commissioners of said District shall pay the amount awarded by the jury out of the appropriation made therefor or deposit the same in the same manner as directed in section 7–215, and thereupon the land condemned shall become and be the property of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 488; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 488 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

§ 16–609 [25: 48]. Court to fix time for return of verdict.

In every case involving the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, at the close of the hearing thereof, the court shall fix a time in which the jury shall return its verdict or to report to the court the reasons why said verdict or appraisement can not be returned by the time fixed: Provided, That the court shall have the power, within its discretion, to extend the time for the return of the verdict or appraisement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 489; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1438, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 489 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

§ 16–610 [25: 49]. Proceedings may be abandoned by Commissioners—Liability.

It shall be optional with the Commissioners to abide by the verdict of the jury and occupy the land appraised by them, or, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court in its order confirming the verdict, to abandon the same: Provided, however, That if such condemnation proceeding shall be abandoned, the court shall award to the owner or owners of the property involved therein such sum or sums as will in the opinion of the court reimburse such owner or owners for all reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable counsel fees, incurred by him or them in such proceeding; and the sum or sums so awarded shall constitute a judgment or judgments against the District of Columbia: Provided further, That no such owner shall be entitled to such reimbursement in any case where the proceeding is abandoned at the request or with the consent of the owner of such property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 490; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1439, ch. 439; July 11, 1947, 61 Stat. 312, ch. 228.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 490 of the 1901 act and inserted in lieu thereof the above section.

Act July 11, 1947, cited to text, added the two provisos.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ABANDONMENT OF PROCEEDING

This section makes it optional with the Commissioners to abide by the verdict of the jury or, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court, to abandon the proceeding. Beyer v. Brownlow (51 App. D. C. 92, 276 Fed. 460).

§ 16–611 [25: 50]. Pending proceedings and suits by United States not affected.

Nothing herein contained in sections 16–601 to 16–610 shall affect any suit or proceeding begun prior to March 1, 1929, pending on March 1, 1929, or thereafter to be instituted by or on behalf of the United States for the condemnation of land for any purpose; but all such suits and proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with existing law or such laws as hereafter may be enacted. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1266, ch. 854, § 491; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329; Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1439, ch. 439.)

AMENDMENT

The 1929 amendment struck out § 491 of the 1901 act, as amended by the 1902 act, and inserted in lieu thereof the above section. The sense of the former section is now contained in § 16–610.

LAND IN EXCESS OF NEEDS

§ 16–612 [25: 50a]. Excess condemnation or purchase—Commissioners or agencies of the United States may acquire excess land.

In order to promote the orderly and proper development of the seat of government of the United States, the commissioners of the District of Columbia, or agencies of the United States authorized by law to acquire real estate, are authorized and empowered to acquire, in the public interest, by gift, dedication, exchange, purchase, or condemnation, fee simple title to land, or rights in or on land or easements or restrictions therein, within said District, for public uses, works, and improvements authorized by Congress, in excess of that actually needed for and essential to the usefulness of such public uses, works, and improvements, in order to preserve the view, appearance, light, and air and to enhance the usefulness of such public works and improvements to prevent the use of private property adjacent to such public works and improvements in such a manner as to impair the public benefit derived from the construction thereof, or to prevent inequities or hardship to the owners of adjacent private property by depriving them of the beneficial use of their property. (Apr. 11, 1935, 49 Stat. 152, ch. 57, § 1.)

§ 16–614 [25: 50c]. Appropriations available for purchase of excess land.

Whenever land is purchased as provided in sections 16–612 to 16–618, in excess of that needed in connection with a particular project or improvement, any and all appropriations available for the payment of the purchase price, costs, and expenses incident to such project or improvement are hereby authorized for use in the payment of the purchase price, costs, and expenses of any and all excess land purchased in connection with such project or improvement, as provided in said sections. (Apr. 11, 1935, 49 Stat. 153, ch. 57, § 3.)

§ 16–615 [25: 50d]. Proceedings for condemnation of excess land—Payment of awards, damages, and costs—No assessment for benefits.

Whenever excess land is condemned by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, in accordance with the provisions of sections 16–612 to 16–618, the condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of such land shall be in accordance with sections 16–601 to 16–611, and/or sections 7–301 to 7–305, 7–313 to 7–318 and 7–320 to 7–323: Provided, That any and all appropriations available for the payment of awards, damages, and costs in condemnation proceedings under sections 16–601 to 16–611 are hereby authorized for use in the payment of awards, damages, and costs in any and all condemnation proceedings under said sections for the acquisition of excess land, as provided in sections 16–612 to 16–618: Provided further, That any and all appropriations available for the payment of awards, damages, and costs in condemnation proceedings under sections 16–601 to 16–611 and/or sections 7–301 to 7–305, 7–313 to 7–318 and 7–320 to 7–323 are hereby authorized for use in the payment of awards, damages, and costs in any and all condemnation proceedings under said sections 16–601 to 16–611 and/or said sections 7–301 to 7–305, 7–313 to 7–318 and 7–320 to 7–323, for the acquisition of excess land as provided in sections 16–612 to 16–618: And provided further, That in any and all cases where such excess land is condemned, no assessments for benefits shall be levied by the jury in respect to the acquisition of said excess land. (Apr. 11, 1935, 49 Stat. 153, ch. 57, § 4.)

§ 16–616 [25: 50e]. Proceedings for condemnation of excess land by agencies of the United States—Payment of award, damages, and costs.

Whenever excess land is condemned by agencies of the United States, other than the commissioners of the District of Columbia, as provided in sections 6–612 to 6–618, the condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of such land shall be in accordance with sections 16–619 to 16–644, or any law or laws in effect at the time of such condemnation for the acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States: Provided, That any and all appropriations available for the condemnation of land under sections 16–619 to 16–644, are hereby authorized for use in the payments of awards, damages, and costs in any and all condemnation proceedings under sections 16–619 to 16–644 for the acquisition of excess land, as provided in sections 6–612 to 6–618. § 16–617 [25: 50f]. Existing laws pertaining to condemnation or acquisition of streets, alleys, or land not affected.

None of the provisions of sections 16–612 to 16–618 shall be construed as repealing any provisions of existing law pertaining to the condemnation or acquisition of streets, alleys, or land, or the law or laws relating to the subdividing of lands in the District of Columbia. (Apr. 11, 1935, 49 Stat. 154, ch. 57, § 7.)

Compiler's Note

Section 7 of the 1935 act contains an additional phrase, before the first word of the section above, which reads "with the exception of section 6." This refers to § 6 of the said act, which reads as follows: "That the portion of the Act approved February 25, 1907, entitled 'An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to amend an Act entitled 'An Act to establish a Code of Laws for the District of Columbia,' regulating proceedings for condemnation of land for streets".' (34 Stat. 930, ch. 1195, § 491g), reading: 'And where part of any lot, piece, parcel, or tract of land has been dedicated for the opening, extension, widening, or straightening of the street, avenue, road, or highway, the jury, in determining whether the remainder of said lot, piece, parcel, or tract is to be assessed for benefits, and the amount of benefits, if any to be assessed thereon, shall also take into consideration the fact of such dedication and the value of the land so dedicated' is hereby repealed."

If any provision of sections 16–612 to 16–618 is held invalid, the remainder of said sections shall not be affected thereby. (Apr. 11, 1935, 49 Stat. 154, ch. 57, § 8.)

ACQUISITION OF LAND IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA FOR USE OF THE UNITED STATES

§ 16–619 [25: 100]. Condemnation of land for United States—Proceeding by Attorney General in District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia.

Whenever the head of any executive department or independent bureau, or other officer of the United States, or any board or commission of the United States, hereinafter referred to as the acquiring authority, has been, or hereafter shall be, authorized by law to acquire real property in the District of Columbia for the construction of any public building or work, or for parks, parkways, public playgrounds, or any other public purpose, such acquiring authority shall be, and hereby is, authorized to acquire the same in the name of the United States by condemnation under judicial process whenever in the opinion of such acquiring authority it is necessary or advantageous so to do; and in every such case the Attorney General of the United States, upon the request of such acquiring authority, shall cause a proceeding in rem for such condemnation to be instituted in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, holding a special term as a District Court of the United States, which court is hereby vested with jurisdiction of all such cases of condemnation with full power to hear and determine all issues of law and fact that may arise in the same. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1415, ch. 416, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Act permitting head of executive department to obtain realty in the District of Columbia for public buildings is constitutional as against the contention that it is invalid in that "it does not provide for the payment of damages to the owner of the land and the vesting of title in the United States contemporaneously." Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. United States (66 App. D. C. 77, 85 Fed. (2d) 243, cert. den. 299 U. S. 565, 81 L. Ed. 416, 57 Sup. Ct. 27).

SITES FOR GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS

Under authority of this and other acts the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to acquire site for Department of Interior building. Potomac Elec. Power Co. v. United States (66 App. D. C. 77, 85 Fed. (2d) 243, cert. den. 299 U. S. 565, 81 L. Ed. 416, 57 Sup. Ct. 27).

§ 16–620 [25: 101]. Procedure—Petition—Contents.

Every such condemnation proceeding shall be instituted by filing in said court a verified petition which shall contain or have annexed thereto the following:

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which the lands are to be acquired.

(2) A description of the lands to be acquired sufficient for the identification thereof. Where such lands, taken together, constitute all privately-owned land in any square in the City of Washington it shall be sufficient to designate the same by the number of the square as the same appears on the records of squares in the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia.

(3) A plan showing the lands to be acquired.

(4) The names of the owners of the lands to be acquired, so far as ascertainable by reasonable inquiry, and of the persons in actual and open possession of the same. If it shall appear from the land records of the District of Columbia that a right, title, interest, or estate in said lands was formerly vested in any person who is known, or may be presumed, to be deceased, which right, title, interest, or estate, if valid and subsisting, would be adverse to the person in present possession claiming to be owner of said lands, and the names of the heirs or devisees of such deceased person are not known, it shall be sufficient to describe them in the petition and in any order of citation or publication or other process thereon as "the unknown heirs or devisees" of such deceased person. And such designation shall be valid and effective to all intents and purposes as if all persons claiming by, through, or under said deceased person had been specifically named.

(5) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands which petitioner intends to acquire for the public use stated.

(6) A prayer that said lands be condemned and taken for the use of the United States and that the title to the same in fee simple, or such estate or interest as may be specified, be vested in the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1415, ch. 416, § 2.)

§ 16–621 [25: 102]. Citation and notice.

The court shall cause public notice of the institution of such proceeding to be given by an order of citation requiring all persons claiming to have any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired, or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same, and all persons occupying the same, to appear in said court on a day to be named in said order of citation to answer the petition and make claim for the compensation to which they deem themselves entitled. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 3.)

§ 16–622 [25: 103]. Contents of citation.

Such order of citation shall contain a description of the lands to be acquired sufficient for the identification thereof and the names of the persons given in the petition as claiming to have any right, title, interest, or estate in said lands or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same and as occupying the same. If any such person is alleged in said petition to be a nonresident of the District of Columbia, the order of citation shall also state the last place of residence of such person, if known. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 4.)

§ 16–623 [25: 104]. Publication of citation.

Said order of citation shall be published at least once a week for three consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the District of Columbia. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 5.)

§ 16–624 [25: 105]. Service of citation.

The court shall also direct service of a copy of said order of citation before the return date of the said order upon each of the persons named therein who is, so far as ascertainable by reasonable inquiry, residing or sojourning at the time within the District of Columbia. The court shall also require a copy of said order of citation to be mailed, postpaid, to such of the persons named therein as may be shown by said petition or affidavit to be nonresidents of the District of Columbia, such copy to be addressed to such persons at their last-known places of residence. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 6.)

§ 16–625 [25: 106]. Default in appearance—Consent presumed.

In default of appearance on or before the return day specified in said order of citation (or on or before such further day as the court for cause shown may allow for the purpose) every person having any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands described in said order, or entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same or entitled to the possession of, or occupying the same, shall be deemed to have consented to the taking and condemnation of said lands for the public purpose stated at and for such compensation as may be finally awarded therefor in the proceeding and shall be bound by all orders, judgments, and decrees that may be entered in said proceeding. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 7.)

§ 16–626 [25: 107]. Appearance after default.

The court may, by order, upon application and for cause shown, at any time prior to final judgment permit any person claiming any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same to appear in said proceeding upon such terms and conditions as the court may direct. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1416, ch. 416, § 8.)

§ 16–627 [25: 108]. Guardians ad litem.

If any person having, or claiming to have, any right, title, interest, or estate in the lands to be acquired, or entitled, or claiming to be entitled, to compensation in respect of the taking of the same, or entitled or claiming to be entitled, to the possession of the same, appears to be under legal disability by reason of infancy, insanity, idiocy, or other like cause, the court, after the return day specified in the order of citation, upon the application of any person interested, shall appoint some suitable person as guardian ad litem to appear for such person under disability. Failure to apply for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for any such person under disability shall not affect the validity of the proceedings. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1417, ch. 416, § 9.)

The petitioner may file in the cause, with the petition or at any time before judgment, a declaration of taking signed by the authority empowered by law to acquire the lands described in the petition, declaring that said lands are thereby taken for the use of the United States. Said declaration of taking shall contain or have annexed thereto—

(1) A statement of the authority under which and the public use for which said lands are taken.

(2) A description of the lands taken sufficient for the identification thereof.

(3) A statement of the estate or interest in said lands taken for said public use.

(4) A plan showing the lands taken.

(5) A statement of the sum of money estimated by said acquiring authority to be just compensation for the land taken.

Upon the filing of said declaration of taking and of the deposit in the registry of the court, to the use of the persons entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in said declaration, title to the said lands in fee simple absolute, or such less estate or interest therein as is specified in said declaration, shall vest in the United States of America, and said lands shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the United States, and the right to just compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto; and said compensation shall be ascertained and awarded in said proceeding and established by judgment therein, and the said judgment shall include, as part of the just compensation awarded, interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum on the amount finally awarded as the value of the property as of the date of taking, from said date to the date of payment; but interest shall not be allowed on so much thereof as shall have been paid into the registry. No sum so paid into the registry shall be charged with commissions or poundage.

Upon the application of the parties in interest, the court may order that the money deposited in the registry of the court, or any part thereof, be paid forthwith for or on account of the just compensation to be awarded in said proceeding. If the compensation finally awarded in respect of said lands or any parcel thereof shall exceed the amount of the money so received by any person entitled, the court shall enter judgment against the United States for the amount of the deficiency.

Upon the filing of a declaration of taking, the court shall have power to fix the time within which and the terms upon which the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. The court shall have power to make such orders in respect of encumbrances, liens, rents, taxes, assessments, insurance, and other charges, if any, as shall be just and equitable. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1417, ch. 416, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Section permitting the advance taking of property for public use and providing for judgment against the United States with six per cent. interest until paid does not violate the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. Lee v. United States (61 App. D. C. 153, 58 Fed. (2d) 879).

LIABILITY FOR LOCAL ASSESSMENT

Where landowners contended that while proceeding to condemn land for street purposes instituted by District of Columbia was pending, Federal Government filed declaration of taking against their property and took title thereto whereupon compensation was paid to them by the Federal Government and that thereafter land was no longer subject to assessment for benefits by District of Columbia, issue thus tendered was not appropriate for decision in the condemnation proceeding. Brown v. District of Columbia, 1944 (143 F. 2d 374, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 148).

§ 16–629 [25: 110]. Setting date for trial—Jury—Selection—Qualifications.

When all the persons who have been summoned or published against in said case, as hereinbefore provided, have either answered or are in default as aforesaid, and all persons under legal disability have answered by their guardians ad litem, or in the judgment of the court ample opportunity has been given for the same, the case shall be regarded as ready for trial, and, upon the application of any party to said suit, the court shall forthwith set an early date to be especially fixed by it, not less than ten nor more than twenty days from the date of such application, for the trial of the issues of law and fact raised in said case, and the ascertainment of the compensation or damages to be awarded for the taking of the lands to be condemned. The court shall thereupon order the jury commission to draw from the special box provided for by law the names of as many persons, not less than twenty, as the court may direct, and to certify said names to the clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as a panel of prospective jurors. The persons so certified shall be thereupon summoned by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia to appear in said court on the day specially fixed for the trial of said cause. Before selecting or impaneling said jury, the court may, in its discretion, cause a second, third, or other further list of prospective jurors to be drawn, certified, and summoned in like manner. From the persons so certified and summoned, the court, after examination on oath and in open court as to their qualifications, shall select and impanel a jury of five capable and disinterested persons who shall have the qualifications of jurors as prescribed by law for the courts of the District of Columbia, and in addition thereto shall be freeholders of said district and shall not be in the service or employment of the United States or of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

VALUATION OF PROPERTY

Instruction was proper which stated that recent bona fide sales under fair market conditions, or recent contracts of sale under like conditions of any lot or lots, parcel or parcels within the limits of the area to be condemned, or in the vicinity thereof, or so situated as to have a bearing upon the market value of the land to be condemned, may be considered by the jury in so far as such sales or sale contracts may reasonably be regarded as throwing light upon the fair market value of the land to be condemned. Loughran v. United States (62 App. D. C. 57, 64 Fed. (2d) 555).

§ 16–630 [25: 110a]. Oath of juror.

To the jurors so selected and impaneled the court shall administer an oath or affirmation that they are not interested in any manner in the lands to be condemned and that they are not to their knowledge related to any person interested therein, and that they will impartially and to the best of their judgment ascertain, appraise, and award just compensation for the lands to be condemned and taken in said proceeding. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 12.)

§ 16–631 [25: 110b]. Jury to view lands—Parties.

After being selected, impaneled, and sworn, and before hearing the evidence, the jury shall be taken by the marshal upon the lands to be acquired at a time to be fixed by the court in order to view the said lands; and all parties in interest, their attorneys, and representatives shall have the right to be present at such view. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 13.)

§ 16–632 [25: 110c]. Trial—Measure of compensation.

After such view and the jury shall have returned to the court, the trial of said cause shall be proceeded with before the court and jury. Any person who has appeared in the cause claiming any right, title, interest, or estate in the land to be taken, or compensation on account of the taking of the same, shall have the right to submit evidence concerning the value of such land, parcel by parcel, the nature and extent of his right, interest, or estate therein, and the compensation justly due for the taking of the same. No new structure or substantial alteration of a permanent nature, the purpose or natural effect of which is to enhance the value of the land to be taken, erected, or made thereon after the institution of the condemnation proceedings shall be taken into consideration in assessing and awarding compensation for said land. If the land to be valued shall have been taken by virtue of a declaration of taking, as provided in sections 16–619 to 16–644, said land shall be valued for the purposes of compensation as of the date of such taking; and if, by act of the owner or other party claiming to be entitled to compensation, the value of the land for the use for which it is to be taken has been diminished, as by cutting trees, excavating, grading, or otherwise altering its physical condition, allowance, if petitioner so elects, shall be made in assessing compensation for such diminution in value. Every party, whether petitioner or respondent, may except to any ruling of the court admitting or excluding evidence, granting, rejecting, or modifying prayers for instruction, or other ruling made in the cause in like manner as in other civil trials. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1418, ch. 416, § 14.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

BURDEN OF PROOF

In a condemnation proceeding, the party who offers evidence to prove the price paid for parcels other than those involved following negotiation and purchase, has the burden of establishing as a preliminary fact that purchase was made without compulsion, coercion, or compromise. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

EVIDENCE

In condemnation proceeding for acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States, opinion evidence concerning whether price paid by defendant for one lot in issue was reasonable was properly excluded, where evidence related to a sale made 15 years before commencement of proceeding, and record failed to reveal witness' qualifications to testify concerning changed conditions or to give other than hearsay testimony. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

In a condemnation proceeding, the reception of evidence offered to prove the price paid for parcels other than those involved following negotiation and purchase calls for the exercise of discretion by the trial court. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

In condemnation proceeding for acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States, exclusion of evidence of an offer to purchase made to property owner by a third person was not error where consideration offered consisted in part of other property and consequently involved collateral issues concerning its value. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

In condemnation proceeding for acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States, even if evidence offered to prove price paid by the United States following negotiation and purchase for parcels other than those of defendants was admissible, exclusion of that evidence was not error where defendants did not establish as a preliminary fact that purchase was made without compulsion, coercion, or compromise. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

§ 16–633 [25: 110d]. Verdict.

At the close of the evidence the court shall charge the jury as in other trials at law and furnish them with a written form to be used in returning their verdict. The members of the jury may separate when not engaged in the consideration of their verdict. When the jury, or a majority thereof, shall have agreed upon their verdict they shall, through their foreman, so notify the court, which shall thereupon pass an order setting a day for the return of the verdict in open court. The verdict shall be in writing subscribed by the jurors concurring therein, and shall set forth, parcel by parcel, the compensation to be paid for the taking of the lands to be condemned. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 15.)

§ 16–634 [25: 110e]. Power to set aside verdict—Procedure for new trial.

The court shall have power to set aside or vacate the verdict of the jury, or any award contained therein, and to grant a new trial upon the same grounds as in other trials at law and upon the ground that said verdict, or any award contained therein is, in the judgment of the court, grossly excessive, or inadequate, or otherwise unreasonable or unjust. In case the verdict or any award contained therein is set aside or vacated, the court shall award a new trial with respect to the lands as to which said verdict or such award is set aside or vacated; and the court shall fix a date for a new trial and order a new panel of prospective jurors to be drawn, certified, and summoned as hereinbefore provided; and the cause shall be proceeded with as if no such verdict or award had been rendered. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 16.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Motion for New Trial

Where in a proceeding by the United States to condemn property in the District of Columbia, appellant did not file motion for a new trial, but objected to the finding of the jury as if action had been brought by the District; said objection was treated as motion for new trial. Willis v. United States (69 App. D. C. 129, 99 Fed. (2d) 362).

Permissive Nature of Proceedings

The provisions appearing in § 16–634 et seq. relating to acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States concerning motions for new trial and other proceedings after verdict are "permissive", in sharp contrast to corresponding provisions appearing in § 16–607 relating to acquisition of land for the District of Columbia. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

§ 16–635 [25: 110f]. Motion for new trial—Judgment final.

No motion for a new trial or to set aside or vacate the verdict, in whole or in part, or any award contained therein, shall be made after the expiration of twenty days, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, from the rendition thereof; and if no such motion be filed within such time, the verdict and the award or awards contained therein shall become final and conclusive, and judgment shall be entered thereon. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1419, ch. 416, § 17.)

§ 16–636 [25: 110g]. Judgment.

In the event that any verdict or any award contained therein shall become final by lapse of time or that any motion filed to set aside or vacate the same or to grant a new trial in respect thereof shall have been denied or overruled, the court shall enter judgment against the United States in favor of the parties entitled for the sum or sums awarded as just compensation, respectively, for the lands condemned for the use of the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 18.)

§ 16–637 [25: 110h]. Payment of judgment.

Any final judgment rendered against the United States under any provision of sections 16–619 to 16–644 shall have like force and effect as a money judgment rendered against the United States by the Court of Claims in a suit in respect of which the United States has expressly consented to be sued; and the amount of any such final judgment shall be paid out of any specific appropriation applicable to the case, if any such there be; and when no such appropriation exists, said judgment shall be paid in the same manner (except with respect to interest) as judgments rendered by the Court of Claims in cases under its general jurisdiction. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 19.)

§ 16–638 [25: 110i]. Appeal—Deficiency judgment.

Any party aggrieved by any final judgment in a proceeding under sections 16–619 to 16–644 may appeal therefrom to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and upon such appeal said court shall have power to review said judgment and affirm, reverse, or modify the same as on appeals in other actions at law. No such appeal, nor any bond or undertaking given therein, shall operate to prevent or delay the vesting of title to said lands in the United States, but upon the filing of a declaration of taking or (if no declaration of taking is filed) upon payment to the party entitled or deposit in the registry of the court, of the amount awarded by any judgment, title shall vest in the United States, saving to all parties their right to just compensation. In the event that the compensation finally awarded and adjudged for such lands shall exceed the amount awarded and adjudged by the judgment appealed from, said court shall enter judgment for the deficiency with interest as hereinbefore provided. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 20.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Right to Appeal

Defendants were not foreclosed from maintaining an appeal from judgment entered in condemnation proceeding by their failure to move to set aside the verdict and for a new trial, where proceeding was brought to acquire land in the District of Columbia for use of the United States. Hannan v. U. S., 1942 (131 F. 2d 441, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 118).

§ 16–639 [25: 110j]. Payment of compensation into court—Vesting of title.

Payment into the registry of the court for the use of all parties entitled of the sum of money adjudged to be just compensation for the lands to be condemned and taken, or for any parcel thereof, or any interest therein, shall constitute payment of such compensation. Upon such payment, the petitioner shall be entitled to an order declaring that the title to the lands in respect of which such compensation is so paid is vested in the United States of America. The money so paid into the registry of the court shall be deemed to be vested in the persons owning or interested in said lands, according to their respective estates and interests, and said money shall take the place and stand in lieu of the lands condemned. The court, upon the application of the petitioner or of any party in interest, shall have power to determine and direct who is entitled to receive payment of the money so paid into the registry, and may, in its discretion, order a reference to the auditor of the court or a special master to ascertain the facts on which such determination and direction are to be made. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1420, ch. 416, § 21.)

§ 16–640 [25: 110k]. Delivery of possession.

In cases in which possession shall not have been awarded pursuant to a declaration of taking, when the adjudged compensation shall have been paid into the registry as directed in the judgment of the court and a certified copy of such judgment, with a certificate of the clerk of the court showing such payment, has been served upon the person in possession of said lands, such person shall, upon demand, deliver possession thereof to the petitioner. In case possession is not delivered when so demanded, the petitioner may apply to the court without notice (unless the court shall require notice to be given) for a writ of assistance, and the court, upon proof of the service of the copy of the final order or judgment and certificate of the clerk showing payment as aforesaid, shall thereupon cause such writ to be issued, which shall be executed in the same manner as when issued in other cases for the delivery of possession of real property. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 22.)

§ 16–641 [25: 110*l*]. Amendments.

In all proceedings under sections 16–619 to 16–644 the court shall have power at any stage of the proceeding to allow amendments in form or substance in any petition, citation, summons, process, answer, declaration of taking, order, verdict, or other proceeding, including amendment in the description of the lands sought to be condemned, whenever such amendment will not impair the substantial right of any party in interest. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 23.)

§ 16–642 [25: 110m]. General provisions.

In all proceedings under sections 16–619 to 16–644 where the mode or manner of conducting the proceeding is not expressly provided for by law, the court shall have power to make all necessary orders and give all necessary directions to carry into effect the object and intent of sections 16–619 to 16–644 and of the several Acts of Congress heretofore or hereafter enacted conferring authority to acquire lands for the use of the United States. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 24.)

§ 16–643 [25: 110n]. Provisions for saving pending proceedings.

The repeal, express or implied, of any existing law or the alteration or amendment thereof by virtue of anything in sections 16–619 to 16–644 contained shall not affect (1) any act done or any right, including the right to appeal, accruing or accrued under the law so repealed, altered, or amended, or (2) any suit or proceeding pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, or the Supreme Court of the United States upon writ of error, appeal, certificate, writ of certiorari, or upon application for writ of error, appeal, certificate, or writ of certiorari at the time of the taking effect of sections 16–619 to 16–644; but all suits and proceedings shall be proceeded with and disposed of in the same manner and with the same effect as if sections 16–619 to 16–644 had not been passed, save and except only that in any condemnation suit or proceeding for the condemnation of land for the use of the United States pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia in which commissioners of appraisement shall not have been appointed by the court at the time of the taking effect of sections 16–619 to 16–644, the trial of said condemnation suit or proceeding shall proceed and be conducted from that point forward in accordance with sections 16–619 to 16–644; and all evidence as to the value of the property to be condemned and taken shall be given before the court and jury as in sections 16–619 to 16–644 prescribed and the matter shall be proceeded with and disposed of in the same manner and with like effect as if the proceeding had been originally begun and the petition filed and all prior proceedings had under and pursuant to the provisions of sections 16–619 to 16–644 and after the taking effect of the same. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1421, ch. 416, § 25.)

§ 16–644 [25: 110*o*]. Proceedings on behalf of the District of Columbia, not affected by sections 16–619 to 16–644.

Sections 16–619 to 16–644 shall not affect any suit or proceeding begun, pending, on March 1, 1929, or hereafter to be instituted under sections 16–601 to 16–611 by or on behalf of the commissioners of the District of Columbia for the condemnation of lands for sites of schoolhouses, fire or police stations, or for a right of way for sewers, or for any other municipal use; but as to all such suits and proceedings, and the right of said commissioners to institute the same, said sections 16–601 to 16–611 shall be and remain in full force and effect as if said sections had not been made. (Mar. 1, 1929, 45 Stat. 1422, ch. 416, § 26.)

Chapter 7.—GAMING TRANSACTIONS

Sec.
16–701. Contracts growing out of gaming transactions to be void.
16–702. Suits to recover losses at gaming.

Sec.
16–703. Defendant relieved upon discovery and repayment of losses.
16–704. Winning more than $26.67 by fraud—Penalty.
16–705. Penalty for assaulting, beating, or fighting on account of money won by gaming.
16–706. Deceits and fraud in gaming—Penalty—How recovered.
16–707. Certain gaming contracts void—Penalty—How recovered.

§ 16–701 [19: 101]. Contracts growing out of gaming transactions to be void.

All notes, bills, bonds, judgments, mortgages, or other securities or conveyances whatsoever, given, granted, drawn, or entered into, or executed by any person or persons whatsoever, where the whole or any part of the consideration of such conveyances or securities, shall be for any money, or other valuable things whatsoever, won by gaming or playing at cards, dice, tables, tennis, bowls or other game or games whatsoever, or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do game at any of the games aforesaid, or for the reimbursing or repaying any money knowingly lent, or advanced for such gaming or betting, as aforesaid, or lent or advanced at the time and place of such play, to any person or persons so gaming or betting, as aforesaid, or that shall, during such play, so play or bet, shall be utterly void, frustrate, and of none effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever; any statute, law, or usage to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding: and that where such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, shall be of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or shall be such as encumber or affect the same, such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, shall enure and be to and for the sole use and benefit of, and shall devolve upon such person or persons as should or might have, or be entitled to such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, in case the said grantor or grantors thereof, or the person or persons so encumbering the same, had been naturally dead, and as if such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, had been made to such person or persons so to be entitled after the decease of the person or persons so incumbering the same; and that all grants or conveyances to be made for the preventing of such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, from coming to, or devolving upon such person or persons hereby intended to enjoy the same, as aforesaid, shall be deemed fraudulent and void, and of none effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever. (9 Ann, ch. 14, § 1, 1710; Kilty's Rept., p. 248; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 689; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 243, § 12.)

Compiler's Note

This section sets forth a British statute continued in force by virtue of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1189, ch. 854, § 1). It was obviously impossible to modernize the language of this statute.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Credit Transactions

Contracts growing out of gaming transactions are declared by law to be void, but credit transactions could not be deemed gaming within the meaning of the statute in absence of rule of law which says that one who sells on credit has no standing in court because he knew or should have known that the purchaser was a bad credit risk. Universal Jewelry Company, Inc. v. McIver (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 226).

Effect of Negotiable Instruments Law

Insofar as this chapter may or would, if in force, affect the validity of negotiable instruments embraced by the Negotiable Instruments Law they are inconsistent with the provisions of the last-mentioned act, and are to that extent repealed and are no longer, as to negotiable instruments, in force in the District of Columbia. Wirt v. Stubblefield (17 App. D. C. 283).

§ 16–702 [19: 102]. Suits to recover losses at gaming.

Any person or persons whatsoever, who shall, at any time or sitting, by playing at cards, dice, tables, or other game or games whatsoever, or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do play at any of the games aforesaid, lose to any one or more person or persons so playing or betting, in the whole, the sum or value of twenty-six dollars and sixty-seven cents, and shall pay or deliver the same, or any part thereof, the person or persons so losing, and paying and delivering the same, shall be at liberty, within three months then next, to sue for and recover the money or goods so lost, and paid or delivered, or any part thereof, from the respective winner and winners thereof, with costs of suit, by action of debt founded on this section, to be prosecuted in any court of record, in which actions or suits no more than one imparlance shall be allowed; in which actions it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to allege, that the defendant or defendants are indebted to the plaintiffs, or received to the plaintiff's use, the monies so lost and paid, or converted the goods won of the plaintiff's to the defendant's use, whereby the plaintiff's action accrued to him, according to the form of this section, without setting forth the special matter; and in case the person or persons who shall lose such money, or other thing, as aforesaid, shall not, within the time aforesaid, really and bona fide, and without covin or collusion, sue, and with effect prosecute for the money, or other thing, so by him or them lost, and paid or delivered, as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful to and for any person or persons, by any such action or suit, as aforesaid, to sue for and recover the same, and treble the value thereof, with cost of suits, against such winner or winners, as aforesaid; the one moiety thereof to the use of the person or persons that will sue for the same, and the other moiety to the use of the District of Columbia. (9 Ann, ch. 14, § 2, 1710; Kilty's Rept., p. 248; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 690; Md. Act 1781, ch. 16, § 1; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 244, § 13 R. S., D. C., 837; Md. Act 1777, ch. 6, § 1.)

Cross Reference

See Compiler's Note to § 16–701.

§ 16–703 [19: 103]. Defendant relieved upon discovery and repayment of losses.

Upon the discovery and repayment of the money, or other thing so to be discovered and repaid, as aforesaid, the person or persons, who shall so discover and repay the same, as aforesaid, shall be acquitted, indemnified, and discharged from any further or other punishment, forfeiture, or penalty, which he or they may have incurred by the playing for, or winning such money or other thing so discovered and repaid, as aforesaid. (9 Ann, ch. 14, § 4, 1710; Kilty's Rept., p. 248; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 691; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 244, § 15.)

§ 16–704 [19: 104]. Winning more than $26.67 by fraud—Penalty.

If any person or persons whatsoever, at any time or times, do, or shall, by any fraud or shift, cousenage, circumvention, deceit, or unlawful device or ill practice whatsoever, in playing at or with cards, dice, or any the games aforesaid, or in or by bearing a share or part in the stakes, wagers or adventures, or in or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do or shall play, as aforesaid, win, obtain or acquire to him or themselves, or to any other or others, any sum or sums of money or other valuable thing or things whatsoever, or shall at any one time or sitting, win of any one or more person or persons whatsoever, above the sum or value of $26.67, that then every person or persons so winning by such ill practice, as aforesaid, or winning at any one time or sitting above the said sum or value of $26.67, and being convicted of any of the said offences, upon any indictment or information to be exhibited against him or them, for that purpose, shall forfeit five times the value of the sum or sums of money, or other thing so won, as aforesaid; and in case of such ill practice, as aforesaid, shall be deemed infamous; and such penalty to be recovered by such person or persons as shall sue for the same by such action, as aforesaid. (9 Ann, ch. 14, § 5, 1710; Kilty's Rept., p. 248; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 691; Md. Act 1780, ch. 23, § 3; Md. Act 1781, ch. 16, § 1; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 245, § 16.)

Compiler's Note

The original British statute set out in this section provided for an amount of 10 pounds. This amount was reduced by the codifiers to a dollar equivalent of $26.67. The dollar equivalent was reached by a consideration of the Maryland act of 1781 (ch. 16, §§ 1, 2), which provided that all fines could only be imposed in current money at the rate in value of 7 shillings 6 pence for $1, or "Spanish milled pieces of 8," which was the Spanish dollar declared to be of the value of 100 cents. § 16–706 [19: 106]. Deceits and fraud in gaming—Penalty—How recovered.

If any person or persons do, or shall by any fraud, shift, cousenage, circumvention, deceit, or unlawful device, or ill practice whatsoever, in playing at or with cards, dice, tables, tennis, bowls, kittles, shovelboard; or in or by cock-fightings, horseraces, dogmatches, or foot-races, or other pastimes, game or games whatsoever, or in, or by bearing a share, or part of the stakes, wagers, or adventures, or in, or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do, or shall play, act, ride or run, as aforesaid, win, obtain, or acquire to him or themselves, or to any other or others, any sum or sums of money, or other valuable thing or things whatsoever, that then every person and persons so offending, as aforesaid, shall ipso facto forfeit and lose treble the sum or value of money, or other thing or things so won, gained, obtained or acquired; the one moiety thereof to the District of Columbia; and the other moiety thereof unto the person or persons grived, or who shall lose the money, or other thing or things so gained; so as every such loser and person grieved in that behalf, do, or shall prosecute and sue for the same within six calendar months next after such play: and in default of such prosecution, the same other moiety to such person or persons as shall or will prosecute or sue for the same within one year next after the said six months expired: And the said forfeiture shall or may be sued for, or recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information; and all and every such plaintiff or plaintiffs, informer or informers, shall in every such suit and prosecution have and recover his and their treble costs against the person offending and forfeiting, as aforesaid. (16 Car. 2, ch. 7, § 2, 1664; Kilty's Rept., p. 239; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 476; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 242, § 10; R. S., D. C., § 837.)

§ 16–707 [19: 107]. Certain gaming contracts void—Penalty—How recovered.

If any person or persons shall at any time or times, play at any of the said games, or any other pastime, game or games whatsoever (other than with and for ready money) or shall bett on the sides or hands of such as do, or shall play thereat, and shall lose any sum or sums of money, or other thing or things so played for, exceeding the sum of two hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixty-seven cents at any one time or meeting, upon ticket or credit, or otherwise, and shall not pay down the same at the time when he or they shall so lose the same, the party and parties who loseth or shall lose the said monies, or other thing or things so played or to be played for, above the said sum, shall not in that case be bound or compelled, or compellable to pay or make good the same; but the contract and contracts for the same, and for every part thereof, and all and singular judgments, statutes, recognizances, mortgages, conveyances, assurances, bonds, bills, specialties, promises, covenants, agreements and other acts, deeds and securities whatsoever, which shall be obtained, made, given, acknowledged or entered into for security or satisfaction, of, or for the same, or any part thereof, shall be utterly void and of none effect: And that the person or persons so winning the said monies, or other things shall forfeit, and lose treble the value of all such sum and sums of money, or other thing or things, which he shall so win, gain, obtain or acquire, above the said sum, the one moiety thereof to the District of Columbia; and the other moiety thereof to such person or persons as shall prosecute or sue for the same within one year next after the time of such offence committed; and to be sued for by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information; and that every such plaintiff or plaintiffs, informer or informers, shall in every such suit and prosecution, have and receive his treble costs against the person and persons offending and forfeiting as aforesaid. (16 Car. 2, ch. 7, § 3, 1664; Kilty's Rept., p. 239; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 477; Md. Act, 1781, ch. 16, § 1; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 243, § 11; R. S., D. C., § 837.)

Sec.

16–801. Petition—Sufficiency—Issuance of writ by court or justice.
16–802. Service of writ—Return.
16–803. Evasion of writ.
16–804. Refusal to produce—Forfeiture—Penalty.
16–805. Right to true copy of commitment—Forfeiture.
16–806. Inquiry into cause of detention—Bail—Bond.
16–807. Traversing return.
16–808. Right of parent, guardian, committee, or husband to writ.

§ 16–801 [24: 201]. Petition—Sufficiency—Issuance of writ by court or justice.

Any person committed, detained, confined, or restrained from his lawful liberty within the District, under any color or pretense whatever, or any person in his or her behalf, may apply by petition to the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, or any justice thereof, for a writ of habeas corpus, to the end that the cause of such commitment, detainer, confinement, or restraint may be inquired into; and the court or the justice applied to, if the facts set forth in the petition make a prima facie case, shall forthwith grant such writ, directed to the officer or other person in whose custody or keeping the party so detained shall be, returnable forthwith before said court or justice. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1143.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ALIENS

Immigration officers have jurisdiction under the statute to exclude an alien who is not entitled under some statute or treaty to come into the United States, yet if the alien is entitled, of right, by some law or treaty, to enter this country, but is nevertheless excluded by such officers, the latter exceed their jurisdiction; and their illegal action, if it results in restraining the alien of his liberty, presents a judicial question for the decision of which the courts may intervene upon a writ of habeas corpus. Lem Moon Sing v. United States (158 U. S. 538, 39 L. Ed. 1082; 15 Sup. Ct. 967).

A petition for habeas corpus ought not to be entertained unless the court is satisfied that the petitioner can make out at least a prima facie case. United States v. Sing Tuck (194 U. S. 161, 48 L. Ed. 917, 24 Sup. Ct. 621).

Habeas corpus will lie to test the legal authority of the Secretary of Labor to deport alien contract laborers and to revoke the permit of entry. Bata Shoe Co. v. Perkins ((D. C.–D. C.), 33 Fed. Supp. 508).

ALLEGATIONS OF PETITION

Habeas corpus petition alleging unlawful confinement of petitioner because he was incompetently represented by counsel who advised him to plead guilty due to arrangement for a light sentence, but not alleging that petitioner misunderstood the nature of the charges or that he did not knowingly plead guilty or was coerced by judge or prosecutor to enter the plea, was properly dismissed. Thompson v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 842).

If prior application for writ of habeas corpus has been made, in same case, by petitioner or in his behalf, petition should so state and such other facts and documents should be set out as will allow judge properly to determine whether issues presented by present petition were decided in former proceeding. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 9, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 325 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Mere general assertions of incompetency or disinterest on part of counsel do not constitute prima facie showing required by this section to support a petition for writ of habeas corpus. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus should state by what authority respondent purports to detain petitioner, and, if that authority is a warrant of commitment, a copy of it, together with the transcript of record, or its essential parts, in proceeding which resulted in the commitment should be attached to or set out in the petition. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Mere mistakes of counsel cannot be reviewed on a petition for habeas corpus and, to justify a writ on allegations regarding incompetency of attorney, an extreme case must be disclosed. Jones v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 14, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 254). Council v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 249; see also 177 F. 2d 22, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 74, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 880, 94 L. Ed. 114).

AMENDMENT OF PETITION

If petition for writ of habeas corpus is insufficient in substance, the judge to whom it is presented may, in interest of justice, permit or require its amendment, especially where petition is product of petitioner's own inexpert draftsmanship. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

APPOINTMENT OF COUNSEL

Court passing on sufficiency of petition for writ of habeas corpus is not required to appoint an attorney for petitioner and no deprivation of constitutional rights results from failure to do so. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

A prisoner may not obtain a writ of habeas corpus on sole ground that counsel, properly appointed by court to defend him, acted incompetently or negligently during the criminal proceeding. Diggs v. Welch (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 667, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1576, 89 L. Ed. 2002).

Where petition for writ of habeas corpus stated a cause of action entitling petitioner to discharge from custody if allegations thereof were true and petitioner made affidavit stating that he was a poor person unable to pay costs, petitioner was entitled to appointment of competent counsel under the forma pauperis statute, 28 U. S. C. §§ 832 to 836. Ex parte Rosier, 1942 (133 F. 2d 316, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 214).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus alleging that, prior to trial in criminal prosecution, petitioner was brought from Virginia to the District of Columbia without extradition proceedings in spite of his protest and his unwillingness to waive extradition, presented no substantial question, and denial of petition without appointment of counsel for defendant was not error. Sheehan v. Huff, 1944 (142 F. 2d 81, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 391, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 1287, 322 U. S. 764, 88 L. Ed. 1591).

Where petition for a writ of habeas corpus charged, in effect, that attorney appointed by court to represent petitioner in a criminal case gave petitioner such bad advice through negligence or ignorance in connection with entering his plea that he could not be said to have been represented by competent counsel, but there was no allegation that court did not select counsel with care, and with due regard for petitioner's constitutional rights, appellate court was required to presume that court appointed a reputable member of bar in whom it had confidence. Diggs v. Welch (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 667, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1576, 89 L. Ed. 2002).

Where a petition for writ of habeas corpus has been presented, legally sufficient on its face to start the court's machinery in motion, the judge should appoint either a guardian or counsel to represent the petitioner in the further stages of the proceeding. Overholser v. Treibly, 1945 (147 F. 2d 705, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 389, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 38, 89 L. Ed. 2002).

Coercion or Restraint

Alleged fact that petitioner had been seized and deprived of his liberty by police force and had been lodged in a cell and held in custody incommunicado and brutally beaten, for purpose of having petitioner make confession of guilt, was not sufficient to justify issuance of writ of habeas corpus, where no confession had been received or offered in evidence in criminal trial and petitioner was under no coercion when he appeared in court at criminal trial. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Consideration of Petition

A petition for writ of habeas corpus must be carefully considered by judge regardless of source of the petition, and the petition should not be scrutinized with technical nicety nor duty of consideration discharged as a mere matter of routine. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Construction

This section must be so interpreted as to preserve, in full vigor, the writ of habeas corpus, but it is necessary to give full meaning to all the language of the section and thus protect the writ from abuse. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 9, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 325 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Duty of Court

Where prisoner filed letter as petition for writ of habeas corpus, action of court in designating competent counsel to take such steps as might seem advisable in protection of rights of prisoner was proper and fully within court's discretion, but views of counsel could not be a substitute for duty of court to determine its action in respect to the writ from petition itself and return and traverses filed thereto. Jones v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 14, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 254).

Federal Prisoner

A court in the District of Columbia does not have jurisdiction to issue a writ of habeas corpus against Attorney General of the United States or his representative on petition of a federal prisoner confined outside the District, although Attorney General designates place of confinement of person convicted of an offense against the United States. Sanders v. Bennett (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 19).

Insanity Cases

Habeas corpus is available to inmate of hospital for insane, not for purpose of determining inmate's mental condition, but as a method of initiating an appropriate procedure for determination of the inmate's mental condition. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

"Habeas corpus" is a proper remedy to challenge the continued confinement in mental hospital of persons who claim to be restored to mental health. De Marcos v. Overholser, 1943 (137 F. 2d 698, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 131, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 157, 320 U. S. 785, 88 L. Ed. 472, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 813, 88 L. Ed. 491).

Issuance by Court of Appeals

Application for habeas corpus to the various District Judges within District must first be shown before justice of federal appellate court will entertain application for writ of habeas corpus. In re Gersing, 1944 (145 F. 2d 481, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 245).

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia cannot entertain an original petition for writ of habeas corpus, since no statute confers such jurisdiction upon the court. In re Greene, 1944 (140 F. 2d 175, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 320).

Appropriate procedure to procure writ of habeas corpus in District of Columbia should have been to address petition to District Court or one of the twelve judges thereof, and petition addressed to one of the justices of the United States Court of Appeals would be denied. In re Holzworth (D. C., D. C. 1947, 74 F. Supp. 388).

Issuance of Writ

When a petition for writ of habeas corpus is presented to a judge with a request for leave to file it, the judge may, if petitioner is not entitled to a writ, deny leave to file it. Young v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 843).

Alleged inconsistencies in the proof and insufficiency of evidence on which to sustain conviction were matters reviewable only on appeal and would not support issuance of writ of habeas corpus. Young v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 843).

After a petition for writ of habeas corpus has been filed, if it satisfies statutory requirements, the judge should issue the writ forthwith. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Jurisdiction

Courts in the District of Columbia may issue writs of habeas corpus directed to those in direct charge of penal institutions of the District which happen to be located just outside its borders, since it is the duty of the District to adjudicate matters arising out of the conduct of its own institutions. Sanders v. Bennett (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 19).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus can challenge jurisdiction of court which committed petitioner by showing either that court had no jurisdiction to try petitioner or that during its proceeding his constitutional rights were so far denied that the court lost jurisdiction. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus should establish jurisdiction of court by showing place of petitioner's confinement, that it is within territorial jurisdiction of court, name, and address of person in whose custody petitioner is restrained, and any other jurisdictional facts which nature of case may require. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

District Court has jurisdiction of habeas corpus proceedings filed by inmates of the District of Columbia Reformatory at Lorton, Virginia, despite the fact that the institution is not within the District. Burns v. Welch (App. D. C. 1947, 159 F. 2d 29).

District Court was without jurisdiction to entertain petition for writ of habeas corpus attacking petitioner's original conviction, where petitioner was held in jurisdiction solely by reason of writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Pelley v. Mathews U. S. Marshal (App. D. C. 1947, 163 F. 2d 700, 82 U. S. App. D C. 264, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 113, 392 U. S. 811, 92 L. Ed. 388, rehearing denied 68 S. Ct. 207, 332, U. S. 832, 92 L. Ed. 406).

United States District Court for District of Columbia has authority to entertain petitions for habeas corpus on behalf of persons confined in the District workhouse at Occoquan, Virginia, or in the District of Columbia Reformatory at Lorton, Virginia, though located outside the District. In re Flick (D. C., D. C. 1948, 76 F. Supp. 979, affirmed 174 F. 2d 983, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 70, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 879, 94 L. Ed. 114, rehearing denied 70 S. Ct. 158, 338 U. S. 940, 94 L. Ed. 114).

United States District Court for District of Columbia is without jurisdiction to issue habeas corpus to test legality of imprisonment of a person incarcerated in the American Occupation Zone of Germany by judgment of a United States Military Tribunal, though there might be no other tribunal in which relief could be had. In re Flick (D. C., D. C. 1948, 76 F. Supp. 979, affirmed 174 F. 2d 983, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 70, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 879, 94 L. Ed. 114, rehearing denied 70 S. Ct. 158, 338 U. S. 940, 94 L. Ed. 114.

Justices May Issue

The justices of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia have power to issue writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Downey v. United States (67 App. D. C. 192, 91 Fed. (2d) 223).

Nature of Writ

The writ of habeas corpus in respect of lunacy is one of relief rather than of original adjudication. Barry v. Hall (68 App. D. C. 350, 98 Fed. (2d) 222).

"Habeas corpus" can be sought only to effectuate a prisoner's immediate release, and not to test the legality of imprisonment at some future time. Pope v. Huff, 1941 (117 F. 2d 779, 73 App. D. C. 170, certiorari denied 62 S. Ct. 134, 314 U. S. 669, 86 L. Ed. 535, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 299, 314 U. S. 713, 86 L. Ed. 568, rehearing denied 62 S. Ct. 358, 314 U. S. 714, 86 L. Ed. 569).

Habeas corpus proceeding is not a "criminal proceeding" within provision of U. S. Const. Amend. for assistance of counsel. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 9, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 325 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

The use of writ of habeas corpus extends to those exceptional cases where conviction has been in disregard of constitutional rights of accused and where writ is only effective means of preserving his rights. Jones v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 14, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 254).

Parole Eligibility

Eligibility to parole cannot be tried in habeas corpus. Jones v. Welch (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 769, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 253).

Where allegations of petition for habeas corpus related to manner in which parole board arrived at its decision not to admit petitioner to parole, the petition was properly denied. Jones v. Welch (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 769, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 253).

Procedure on Application

It is the usual procedure on an application for a writ of habeas corpus in a Federal court for the court to issue the writ and on the return, to hear and dispose of the case but it may without issuing the writ consider and determine whether the facts alleged by the petition, if proved, would warrant discharge of the prisoner. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 2, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

Where petition for writ of habeas corpus stated a cause of action entitling petitioner to discharge from custody if allegations were true, failure to accord petitioner a hearing in respect of the merits of his petition was error. Ex parte Rosier, 1942 (133 F. 2d 316, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 214).

Representation by Counsel

The mere fact that an accused was not represented by counsel is not in itself a sufficient basis for granting a writ of habeas corpus. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Rule to Show Cause

If, upon consideration of a petition which has been filed, it appears that petitioner is not entitled to writ of habeas corpus, the court should refuse to issue it, but, if allegations of petition are inconclusive, the judge may issue rule to show cause why writ should not be granted. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Where rule to show cause why writ of habeas corpus should not be granted has been issued and judge finds from facts exhibited by opposing party that no issue of fact or law is involved, the judge may refuse to grant the writ, in which event it is not necessary to hold a hearing. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Service

The proper person to be served in ordinary habeas corpus proceeding by a federal prisoner confined outside the District of Columbia is warden of penitentiary in which prisoner is confined, rather than an official in District of Columbia who supervises the warden. Sanders v. Bennett (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 19).

Subsequent Petitions

Where judge to whom is presented a petition for writ of habeas corpus, together with a request for leave to file, ascertains that petitioner has on a previous petition had a full hearing on same identical allegations, leave to file second petition should be denied. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Where comparison of present habeas corpus petition with prior petition disclosed that all matters sought to be raised on the second petition with one exception were raised on the prior petition district court would not grant the writ raising the same points tried out in the prior proceeding where there were no extraordinary circumstances. Jordon v. Clemmer (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 539).

Sufficiency of Petition

Petition for writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that petitioner's confinement after expiration of his sentence was illegal, was denied where petitioner had committed a crime while on parole, and the judge imposing the second sentence had no power to make it and the unexpired portion of the first sentence run concurrently. Hammerer v. Huff (71 App. D. C. 246, 110 Fed. (2d) 113).

A petition alleging that petitioner was restrained of his liberty, describing the person detaining him and the place of the detention, and asserting illegality of the restraint by alleging that the petitioner was at the time of the filing of the petition of sound mind and that his original criminal sentence had expired, stated a cause of action for discharge or issuance of a rule to show cause. Ex parte Rosier, 1942 (133 F. 2d 316, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 214).

A petitioner seeking a writ of habeas corpus must make a prima facie case, that is, his petition must show he is entitled to the writ. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Judgment under which petitioner seeking writ of habeas corpus is detained in penal institution is impervious to collateral attack unless his petition sufficiently challenges the jurisdiction of the court which committed him. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus on ground that conviction had been obtained by use of improper evidence and that petitioner had been deprived of effective assistance of counsel was properly denied without hearing, where there was no transcript of proceedings in the criminal trial and petition did not disclose exceptional circumstances. Strong v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 692, followed in 149 F. 2d 30, 2 cases).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus charging, in effect, that attorney appointed by court to represent petitioner in criminal prosecution gave him such bad advice through negligence or ignorance in connection with entering his plea that petitioner did not have effective or competent representation by counsel, was insufficient to require a hearing. Diggs v. Welch (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 667, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1576, 89 L. Ed. 2002).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus, alleging in substance that attorney representing defendant, at trial on charge of forgery, failed to object to admission in evidence of an involuntary confession, failed to call witnesses who would have established innocence of defendant, failed to offer defense although defendant was innocent, and failed to take such steps as would have permitted jury to see a sample of defendant's handwriting after a request for such evidence had been made by a juror, was sufficient and denial of petition without hearing was improper. Jones v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 14, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 254).

TIME FOR APPLICATION

Before trial in District Court where indictment is pending, accused may not test, by means of habeas corpus proceeding, validity of statute which he is charged with having violated. Pelley v. Botkin (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 12, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 251).

Where application for writ of habeas corpus showed that petitioner was held in custody to await trial under an indictment which accused him of violating 18 U. S. C. §§ 9–13 and that petitioner sought to be released solely because of alleged unconstitutionality of said sections, the application was premature. Pelley v. Botkin (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 12, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 251).

WAIVER OF COUNSEL

Where court granted four successive continuances at request of accused, and thereafter accused reported his attempts made to employ certain counsel, declined the court's offer to appoint counsel, did not request another continuance, and said he preferred to represent himself, which he proceeded to do competently, accused waived right to counsel and allegation in support of petition for writ of habeas corpus that he was denied right to have assistance of counsel was frivolous. Koehne v. Matthews (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 889, certiorari denied 69 S. Ct. 654, 336 U. S. 929, 93 L. Ed. 1089, rehearing denied 69 S. Ct. 810, 336 U. S. 944, 93 L. Ed. 1100).

WRIT AS AN APPEAL

The writ of habeas corpus cannot be used for purpose of an appeal, or to retry issues, whether of law or of fact. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 9, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 325 U. S. 890, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

The writ of habeas corpus is not intended to serve the purposes of an appeal. Eury v. Huff, 1944 (146 F. 2d 17, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 289); Fowler v. Gill (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 565, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 167, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 352, 329 U. S. 791, 91 L. Ed. 677, rehearing denied 67 S. Ct. 488, 329 U. S. 832, 91 L. Ed. 705).

Petition for writ of habeas corpus may not be used as a substitute for an appeal or writ of error. Council v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 249; see also 177 F. 2d 22, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 74, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 880, 94 L. Ed. 114).

§ 16–802 [24: 202]. Service of writ—Return.

The said writ shall be served by delivering it to the officer or other person to whom it is directed, or by leaving it at the prison or place at which the party suing it out is detained; and such officer or other person shall forthwith, or within such reasonable time as the court or justice shall direct, make return of the writ and cause the person detained to be brought before the court or justice, according to the command of the writ, and shall likewise certify the true cause of his detainer or imprisonment, if any, and under what color or pretense such person is confined or restrained of his liberty. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1144.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS

Statements made by superintendent of hospital, in response to writ of habeas corpus, that petitioner was insane and dangerous, were entitled to immunity of absolute privilege, and could not be made basis of a libel complaint. Cassel v. Overholser (C. A., D. C. 1948, 169 F. 2d 683, certiorari denied 69 S. Ct. 741, 336 U. S. 939, 93 L. Ed. 1097).

PROCESS

Service on the commissioners of the District, the Director of Public Welfare, and the Superintendent of Penal Institutions, was sufficient to give the District Court jurisdiction to issue habeas corpus in District of Columbia workhouse located outside of the District. Sanders v. Allen (69 App. D. C. 307, 100 Fed. (2d) 717).

Although District Court had jurisdiction of habeas corpus proceeding filed by inmate of the District Reformatory at Lorton, Virginia, the court had no jurisdiction to issue writ directed to the Superintendent of the Reformatory who had neither home nor office in the District but resided at Lorton. Burns v. Welch (App. D. C. 1947, 159 F. 2d 29).

§ 16–803 [24: 203]. Evasion of writ.

On any application for a writ of habeas corpus, if probable cause be shown for believing that the person charged with confining or detaining the person applying or on whose behalf the application is made is about to remove the person so detained from the place where he may then be, for the purpose of evading any writ of habeas corpus or for other purposes, or that he would evade or not obey any such writ, the court or justice shall insert in the writ a clause commanding the marshal to serve the writ on the person to whom it is directed and cause said person immediately to be and appear before the court or justice, together with the person so confined or detained, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the marshal immediately to carry the person charged with the detention, together with the person detained, before the court or justice, and said court or justice shall proceed to inquire into the matter. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1145.)

§ 16–804 [24: 204]. Refusal to produce—Forfeiture—Penalty.

If any officer or other person to whom a writ of habeas corpus may be directed shall neglect or refuse to make return thereof, or to bring the body of the person detained, according to the command of the writ, he shall forfeit to the person detained the sum of five hundred dollars, and besides shall be liable to attachment and punishment as for a contempt. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1146.)

§ 16–805 [24: 205]. Right to true copy of commitment—Forfeiture.

Any person committed or detained, or any person in his behalf, may demand a true copy of the warrant of commitment or detainer, and any officer or other person detaining him who shall refuse or neglect to deliver to him a true copy of the warrant of commitment or detainer, if any there be, within six hours after the demand, shall forfeit to the party so detained the sum of five hundred dollars. (Mar 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1372, ch. 854, § 1147.)

§ 16–806 [24: 206]. Inquiry into cause of detention—Bail—Bond.

On the return of the writ of habeas corpus and the production of the person detained the court or justice shall immediately inquire into the legality and propriety of such confinement or detention, and if it shall appear that such person is detained without legal warrant or authority, he shall immediately be released or discharged; or if the court or justice shall deem his detention to be lawful and proper, he shall be remanded to the same custody, or, in a proper case, admitted to bail, if he be confined on a charge of a bailable criminal offense; and if he be bailed, the court or justice shall require a sufficient bond or recognizance to answer in the proper court, and transmit the same to said court. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1148.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

ADMISSIBILITY OF EVIDENCE

Official hospital records concerning a shooting in a Maine hospital were properly received in evidence in habeas corpus proceeding where issue was whether petitioner was sane or insane. Williams v. Overholser (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 457).

EXAMINATION IN MENTAL CASES

Where petitioner seeks writ of habeas corpus to obtain release from confinement in mental hospital on ground that his mental health is restored, and petitioner demands an examination by independent experts, or in a doubtful case, even in absence of such a demand, it is the right of court to seek assistance of Commission on Mental Health in determining sanity of petitioner. De Marcos v. Overholser, 1943 (137 F. 2d 698, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 131, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 157, 320 U. S. 785, 88 L. Ed. 472, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 813, 88 L. Ed. 491).

In habeas corpus proceeding where petitioner sought release from confinement on ground that his mental health was restored, and requested that court provide expert witnesses in petitioner's behalf, not members of Commission on Mental Health, court denying request should have offered petitioner an examination by the Commission, but defect was cured by petitioner's insistence in appellate court that such relief if offered would be refused. De Marcos v. Overholser, 1943 (137 F. 2d 698, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 131, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 157, 320 U. S. 785, 88 L. Ed. 472, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 813, 88 L. Ed. 491).

Section 21–308 establishing the Commission of Mental Health vests a discretion in court to require the Commission's expert assistance in a habeas corpus proceeding in which by reason of his poverty petitioner is unable to secure the testimony of other professional witnesses. De Marcos v. Overholser, 1943 (137 F. 2d 698, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 131, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 157, 320 U. S. 785, 88 L. Ed. 472, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 813, 88 L. Ed. 491).

In habeas corpus proceeding by petitioner who has been duly committed to hospital for insane, the issue which must ultimately be decided is whether petitioner has sufficiently recovered from mental disease so that he may safely be released, and if despite judgment of hospital staff that petitioner has not recovered, there is substantial doubt on the question, it becomes duty of court to see that a new judgment on petitioner's sanity is made according to statutory procedure. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

If proceeding to determine mental condition of a civilian committed to hospital for insane was originally commenced but was not properly carried out and if judge, to whom petition for writ of habeas corpus is presented, is satisfied that, as a consequence, the petitioner was improperly committed, the judge should order that proceedings be reopened and a proper determination made of the petitioner's present mental condition. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

The frequency with which reexamination regarding present mental condition of a person committed to hospital for insane should be required must depend, in each case, upon the petition presented, the type of insanity for which petitioner was originally committed, time elapsed since last inquiry, and other considerations on record, of which judge is required to take judicial notice. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

In habeas corpus proceeding by petitioner who had been duly committed to hospital for insane pursuant to statutory provisions therefor, the only question before court was whether record raised sufficient doubt as to petitioner's insanity at present time to justify reopening commitment proceeding. Ex parte De Marcos (D. C., D. C. 1946, 65 F. Supp. 231).

EXPERT TESTIMONY

An inmate of hospital for insane, petitioning for writ of habeas corpus, may demand the expert testimony of members of the Commission on Mental Health, or court of its own motion may require such testimony. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

INSANE PERSONS

In habeas corpus proceeding, it is not function of judge to determine mental condition of a person who has been committed for insanity, but purpose of such proceeding is rather to determine whether substantial doubt of insanity exists which requires an order reopening proceeding under which petitioner was originally committed to hospital. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

If original commitment to hospital for insane was made under 24 U. S. C. § 191, which authorizes detention of insane persons in military service on order of military authority, and the judge, to whom petition for writ of habeas corpus is presented, is satisfied that a sufficient showing of present sanity is made, the judge should order that petitioner be released unless, within a reasonable time specified, the proper military authority orders his recommitment. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Where there was evidence in habeas corpus proceeding that petitioner, who had been convicted of manslaughter in Canada and sentenced to life imprisonment prior to his removal to United States, continued to be a person of unsound mind and was not a proper person to be at large, he should be committed to custody of superintendent of hospital of which he had been an inmate pending disposition of appeal from order discharging him, or further order of court. Overholser v. De Marcos, 1945 (147 F. 2d 145, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 397).

INVOLUNTARY CONFESSIONS

The question whether an involuntary confession was received in evidence in criminal prosecution could not be retried by habeas corpus. Eury v. Huff, 1944 (146 F. 2d 17, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 289).

JUDICIAL NOTICE

In ruling on petition for writ of habeas corpus, court could take judicial notice of its record showing a denial of a prior petition for habeas corpus. Rookard v. Huff, 1944 (145 F. 2d 708, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 291).

In habeas corpus proceeding by bankrupts who had been committed to jail for failure to comply with order directing them to turn over certain assets to bankruptcy trustee, justice of federal appellate court could take judicial notice of fact that on former appeals of the bankrupts it was clearly made to appear that bankrupts had been guilty of gross fraud upon bankruptcy court. In re Gersing, 1944 (1945 F. 2d 481, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 245).

Jurisdiction of Military Commission

Charge that enemies with purpose of destroying war materials and utilities entered or after entry remained in United States territory without uniform alleged an offense which the President was authorized to order tried by military commission and the President's order convening the commission and laying down the procedure to be followed on trial before the commission and for review of its findings and sentence and the procedure followed by the commission were lawful so that the accused were not entitled to discharge on habeas corpus. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 2, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

Writs of habeas corpus were properly denied petitioners held in custody for trial before military commission appointed by the President, on grounds that the President was authorized to order trial before commission, that commission was lawfully constituted and that petitioners were held in lawful custody. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 1, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

Moot Questions

Where husband had been improperly imprisoned for contempt for noncompliance with order awarding maintenance pendente lite and suit money, in wife's suit for maintenance, the fact that he had been released from custody on giving bond for satisfaction of contempt judgment did not require dismissal of appeal from order denying writ of habeas corpus as "moot", since husband was in custody of law and was restrained of his liberty. Bates v. Bates, 1944 (141 F. 2d 723, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 14).

New Evidence

Contention on habeas corpus petition that the murder for which petitioner was convicted did not take place as alleged could not be raised by writ of habeas corpus but only on a motion for new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Jordon v. Clemmer (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 539).

Presumptions

Presumption existed that staff of hospital for insane was competent and that its opinion regarding sanity of an inmate, based on observation and treatment, was correct. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

In determining whether evidence in habeas corpus proceeding by petitioner who had been duly committed to hospital for insane raised doubt regarding validity of judgment of hospital staff sufficient to require reopening of commitment proceeding, presumption that persons legally committed to hospital for insane are insane was to be considered. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

The presumption in favor of regularity of judicial proceeding must be fully indulged in habeas corpus proceeding. Jones v. Huff (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 14, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 254).

Purpose

A hearing on habeas corpus is not intended as a substitute for functions of a trial court. Pelley v. Botkin (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 12, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 251).

Remand

Where petition for habeas corpus was inexpertly drawn by unschooled petitioner but petition did allege as defects in proceedings leading to imprisonment that petitioner was denied assistance of counsel at preliminary hearing and arraignment, that he was innocent of alleged crime, that his prior prison record was called to jury's attention and that his counsel failed to take promised appeal, order dismissing petition would be reversed and case remanded for amendment of petition and hearing on the merits. Council v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 249; see also 177 F. 2d 22, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 74, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 880, 94 L. Ed. 114).

Release of Petitioner

In habeas corpus proceeding, judgment should not order unconditional release of a person committed for insanity. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

A person held in hospital for insane because of insanity should not be ordered released, unconditionally, in a habeas corpus proceeding. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

If a civilian is committed to hospital for insane without a judicial determination of his mental condition, the judge in habeas corpus proceeding, should order that the petitioner be released unless, within a reasonable time specified, a proper proceeding shall have been commenced to secure such a judicial determination. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

A parole violator, who was returned to prison without permitting counsel who had previously represented prisoner to appear in his behalf or permitting his employer to testify, was entitled to release in habeas corpus proceeding. Fleming v. Tate (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 848).

Res Judicata

The rule of res judicata does not apply in habeas corpus proceedings but the trial judge to whom petition is presented may examine the record in making his determination whether its allegations are sufficient, and he may do so even without issuing a rule to show cause. Rookard v. Huff, 1944 (145 F. 2d 708, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 291).

Where contention that jurors in second criminal trial were not impartial was made and supported by evidence in second habeas corpus proceeding which was dismissed and third petition for writ of habeas corpus showed that new evidence was in petitioner's possession when he filed second petition, and no reason was offered for not presenting the proof in second proceeding, controlling weight was properly given to the prior adjudication, and third petition was properly dismissed. Pope v. Huff, 1944 (141 F. 2d 727, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 18).

The doctrine of res judicata does not apply to habeas corpus proceedings, but the fact that same issues have been decided in a former proceeding may, as a matter of judicial discretion, be given controlling weight. Pope v. Huff, 1944 (141 F. 2d 727, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 18); Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Where District Court had jurisdiction in first instance to try petitioner and, before trial, had denied a motion to suppress evidence, the admission of the evidence was not such a denial of constitutional rights as to cause district court to lose jurisdiction, and writ of habeas corpus sought on theory that court had lost jurisdiction was properly denied. Fowler v. Gill (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 565, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 167, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 352, 329 U. S. 791, 91 L. Ed. 677 rehearing denied, 67 S. Ct. 488, 329 U. S. 832, 91 L. Ed. 705).

A determination in habeas corpus proceeding is not strictly res judicata but the court will not grant a second writ raising the same point that was thoroughly tried out and determined in the prior proceeding, except under extraordinary circumstances. Jordon v. Clemmer (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 539).

Review

Presentation for judicial review of petition for writ of habeas corpus is the "institution of a suit" so that the denial by federal district court of leave to file the petition was a "judicial determination" reviewable on appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and reviewable in the Supreme Court by certiorari. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 2, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

On application for leave to file petition for habeas corpus to determine authority of the President to order accused charged with violating the law of war tried by military tribunal and on petition for certiorari to review orders of district court denying application for leave to file petition for habeas corpus, the Supreme Court was not concerned with any question of guilt or innocence of the petitioners. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 2, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

Where first specification of charge against accused set forth violation of the law of war triable by military commission on application for leave to file petitions for habeas corpus and for certiorari to review orders of district court denying applications for such leave, the Supreme Court would not consider whether other charges were sufficient. Ex parte Quirin, 1942 (63 S. Ct. 2, 317 U. S. 1, 87 L. Ed. 3, affirming 47 F. Supp. 431).

Allegedly erroneous rulings on questions of evidence could be considered only on an appeal from the criminal sentence itself and could not be availed of in a habeas corpus proceeding, since the "writ of habeas corpus" is not a substitute for such an appeal. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

Where charges that accused was not adequately represented in criminal trial and that he was denied the right of the assistance of counsel in perfecting appeal from judgment of conviction were not within the issues in habeas corpus hearing, and there was no finding of fact in respect of either of them, the reviewing court could not consider those charges on appeal from final order entered in habeas corpus proceeding. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

Where evidence was conflicting as to whether person seeking discharge on writ of habeas corpus was insane, conclusions of trial court which discharged the writ on ground that petitioner was still insane could not be disturbed on appeal. Williams v. Overholser (App. D. C. 1945, 151 F. 2d 457).

Right to Jury Trial

In habeas corpus for release from an insane asylum petitioner is not entitled to jury trial, although the court may call a jury to render an advisory verdict. Barry v. White (62 App. D. C. 69, 64 Fed. (2d) 707).

The right to a jury trial does not exist on the issue of insanity in a habeas corpus proceeding. De Marcos v. Overholser, 1943 (137 F. 2d 698, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 131, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct. 157, 320 U. S. 785, 88 L. Ed. 472, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 204, 320 U. S. 813, 88 L. Ed. 491).

In habeas corpus proceeding by petitioner who had been duly committed to hospital for insane pursuant to statutory provisions therefor, the record raised sufficient doubt as to petitioner's insanity at present time to require a reexamination of his mental condition by the Commission on Mental Health in accordance with § 21–308 et seq. under which he was committed. Ex parte De Marcos (D. C., D. C. 1946, 65 F. Supp. 231).

Scope of Review

The scope of review on habeas corpus is limited to examination of the jurisdiction of the court whose judgment of conviction is challenged and does not include the consideration of guilt or innocence of the petitioner. Evans v. Rives, 1942 (126 F. 2d 633, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 242).

A judgment of conviction in criminal case cannot be attacked in habeas corpus proceeding except on jurisdictional grounds. Blount v. Huff, 1944 (144 F. 2d 21, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 204, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 276, 323 U. S. 787).

Facts of record with regard to what occurred at a trial cannot be attacked on habeas corpus. Williams v. Huff, 1944 (142 F. 2d 91, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 31).

Even if postponement of sentence under first conviction until after second conviction vitiated sentence imposed under first conviction, eligibility to parole, which might be affected, could not be tried in habeas corpus. Pope v. Huff, 1944 (141 F. 2d 727, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 18).

In habeas corpus proceeding by petitioner who had been duly committed to hospital for insane, the only question before court was whether evidence raised a doubt regarding validity of judgment of hospital staff sufficient to require reopening of commitment proceeding. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

Where writ of habeas corpus is sought on ground that court which committed petitioner lost jurisdiction because of denial of petitioner's constitutional rights, the writ may be used not only to search record, but to inquire into facts regardless of whether they appear on record, thus giving to person in custody a judicial inquiry into truth and essence of the causes of his detention. Dorsey v. Gill (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 857, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1580, 89 L. Ed. 2003).

Where petitioner had been brought to the District of Columbia from a federal penitentiary outside the District on a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum, petitioner could not in habeas corpus proceeding to obtain his release under the prior writ have the court examine alleged errors in the prior trial which resulted in his confinement in penitentiary. Noble v. Botkin (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 228, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 354).

On writ of habeas corpus, District Court had no jurisdiction to review on merits a revocation of a parole by the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole of District of Columbia, and only issue was whether petitioner had been deprived of his legal rights by manner in which revocation hearing was conducted. In re Tate (D. C., D. C. 1946, 63 F. Supp. 961).

When directed to an inquiry into cause of imprisonment in judicial proceedings, scope of review on habeas corpus extends only to questions affecting jurisdiction of the court and sufficiency in point of law of the proceedings. Council v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 249; see also 177 F. 2d 22, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 74, certiorari denied 70 S. Ct. 150, 338 U. S. 880, 94 L. Ed. 114).

The guilt or innocence of the petitioner is a matter that cannot be reviewed in a habeas corpus proceeding which is limited to questions of jurisdiction and questions of constitutional rights. Jordon v. Clemmer (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 539).

Sufficiency of Evidence

Sufficiency of evidence to support a conviction is not jurisdictional and is not open to review in habeas corpus proceeding. Eury v. Huff, 1944 (146 F. 2d 17, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 289).

Evidence was insufficient to sustain order in habeas corpus proceeding discharging petitioner from custody of hospital for insane on ground that petitioner was sane. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

In habeas corpus proceeding by inmate of hospital for insane, that inmate's conduct in hospital was orderly, was not, standing alone, evidence that inmate should be released. Overholser v. De Marcos (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 23, certiorari denied 65 S. Ct. 1579, 89 L. Ed. 2002, rehearing denied 66 S. Ct. 16, 90 L. Ed. 490).

Evidence was insufficient to sustain finding in habeas corpus proceeding that seventeen-year-old boy intelligently waived his constitutional right to counsel in criminal case. Williams v. Huff, 1945 (146 F. 2d 867, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

In habeas corpus proceeding, record sustained determination that petitioner continued to be of unsound mind and justified judgment recommitting her to custody of authorities at hospital. Anders v. Overholser (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 151).

Trial Proceedings

A petition for writ of "habeas corpus" may properly be used to challenge the jurisdiction of a court, but it cannot be used to review inconsistencies or even errors of law committed by a court of competent jurisdiction which are proper matters for review on appeal, but not on appeal from an order dismissing a petition for writ of habeas corpus. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

Where petitioner, seeking writ of habeas corpus, had been adjudged guilty of contempt for failure to comply with order requiring him to turn over assets of deceased's estate, inconsistency, if any, between the turnover order which assumed that petitioner had possession of assets, and verdict of jury that petitioner had disposed of assets other than to the use of deceased, was not proper subject for review on habeas corpus. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

Where petitioner, seeking writ of habeas corpus, had been adjudged guilty of contempt for failure to comply with order requiring him to turn over assets of deceased's estate, alleged inconsistency between contempt decree and the turnover order, based on alternative nature of the turnover order, and the theory that a remedy at law was elected by entering judgment, with execution as at law, on the verdict evaluating the eloigned assets was not a proper subject for review on habeas corpus. Watkins v. Rives, 1942 (125 F. 2d 33, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 109).

Writ of habeas corpus cannot be used to inquire into official misconduct occurring prior to indictment and having no bearing on procedure of trial or upon jurisdiction of trial court. Eury v. Huff, 1944 (146 F. 2d 17, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 289).

The use of writ of habeas corpus on ground that, during trial, defendant's constitutional rights were so far denied that court lost jurisdiction, is not justifiable unless circumstances are so exceptional that it is the only means of preserving those rights. Fowler v. Gill (App. D. C. 1946, 156 F. 2d 565, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 167, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 352, 329 U. S. 791, 91 L. Ed. 677 rehearing denied 67 S. Ct. 488, 329 U. S. 832, 91 L. Ed. 705).

TRIAL PROCEDURE

Where petitioner founded his habeas corpus petition on U. S. Const. Amend. 6, charging that he was not confronted with witnesses against him, in that police deliberately withheld certain persons from testifying, but it appeared that petitioner was present at trial when government witnesses were called and that his counsel cross-examined those witnesses, petitioner's real charge was not denial of the right of confrontation as such, but suppression or concealment of evidence or favorable witnesses, which the reviewing court could assume would have been a denial of "due process of law" in violation of U. S. C. Const. Amend. 5. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

Evidence, including uncontradicted showing that names of certain witnesses were not only known to accused's counsel at time of criminal trial, but also that "police incidental" on which those names were written was in possession of his counsel at that time, refuted accused's charges, made the basis of a petition for habeas corpus, that accused was not confronted with witnesses against him, in that police deliberately withheld certain persons from testifying, and that jurisdiction to convict and sentence accused was lost through denial of a constitutional right under U. S. C. Const. Amend. 5. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

In habeas corpus proceeding, evidence was insufficient to show that subpoenas issued to witnesses in accused's behalf were not served and that thereby accused was denied compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his own behalf. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

An accused could not properly through his counsel argue to the jury in a criminal case that the testimony of named witnesses not called by the government must have been unfavorable to the government and contend in habeas corpus proceeding that he did not know of those witnesses. Curtis v. Rives, 1942 (123 F. 2d 936, 75 U. S. App. D. C. 66, affirming 36 F. Supp. 408).

Where substance of petitioner's allegation was that he pleaded guilty on advice of his counsel and received a longer sentence than both hoped would be imposed, the petition was not sufficient to show that petitioner did not intelligently consent to waiver of jury trial and summary denial of petition for writ of habeas corpus was not improper. Monroe v. Huff, 1944 (145 F. 2d 249, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 246).

Failure of counsel to file appeal, not discovered by accused until after time for appeal had elapsed, was not alone ground for discharge on habeas corpus. Council v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 165 F. 2d 249).

WAIVER OF COUNSEL

In habeas corpus proceeding presenting issue whether 17 year old boy competently and intelligently waived right to counsel in criminal case, the District Court should have taken evidence and determined whether, in light of his age, education and information, and all other pertinent facts, he sustained burden of proving that his waiver was not competently and intelligently made. Williams v. Huff (App. D. C. 1944, 142 F. 2d 91, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 31).

Where record in prosecution for assault with dangerous weapon showed that accused was informed of his right to counsel and undertook to waive the right, but did not show that the waiver was competently and intelligently made, that issue was required to be determined in habeas corpus proceeding. Williams v. Huff, 1944 (142 F. 2d 91, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 31).

Record of previous conviction which showed that accused was advised of his constitutional right to counsel which he expressly waived could not be attacked by oral testimony in habeas corpus proceeding. Williams v. Huff, 1945 (146 F. 2d 867, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

Where petitioner seeking writ of habeas corpus was seventeen years old at time of his plea of guilty, it created an inference of fact that his waiver of constitutional right to counsel was not intelligent, and corroborated testimony that he entered plea on advice of other prisoners who informed him that such a plea would give him a better chance for probation. Williams v Huff, 1945 (146 F. 2d 867, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 326).

Evidence of extreme nervousness and depression failed to establish, as ground for setting aside sentence on habeas corpus, incompetency of accused to waive indictment, trial by jury, and representation by counsel, and plead guilty to informations charging housebreaking and grand and petit larceny. Solis v. Clemmer (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 155, certiorari denied 68 S. Ct. 1519, 334 U. S. 860, 92 L. Ed. 1781).

§ 16–807 [24: 207]. Traversing return.

Any person at whose instance or in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus has been issued may traverse the return thereto, or plead any matters showing that there is not a sufficient legal cause for his confinement or detention, and the court or justice may issue process for witnesses or for the production of papers, which shall be served and enforced in like manner as similar process issued in a cause depending in court, if the court or justice shall be satisfied of the materiality of the testimony proposed to be adduced. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1149.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

DECREE OF STATE COURT

In habeas corpus proceeding in the District for the custody of a minor child, a decree, in a state court having jurisdiction, awarding divorce and the custody of the child, is conclusive. Burrowes v. Burrowes (64 App. D. C. 392, 78 Fed. (2d) 742).

§ 16–808 [24: 208]. Right of parent, guardian, committee, or husband to writ.

Any person entitled to the custody of another person, unlawfully confined or detained by a third person, as a parent, guardian, committee, or husband, entitled to the custody of a minor child, ward, lunatic, or wife, upon application to the court or a justice as aforesaid, and showing just cause therefor, under oath, shall be entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, directed to the person confining or detaining as aforesaid, requiring him forthwith to appear and produce before the court or justice the person so detained, and the same proceedings shall be had in relation thereto as hereinabove authorized, and the court or justice, upon hearing the proofs, shall determine which of the contesting parties is entitled to the custody of the person so detained, and commit the custody of said person to the party legally entitled thereto. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1150.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CHILD'S WELFARE, DETERMINATION OF

Where only action taken because of mother's violation of order awarding custody to grandfather was to cut off meager sum of $5 a week alimony and $15 a week for support of children, neither the violation of the order nor the retaliation could be given weight in determining question of children's present welfare, in habeas corpus proceeding instituted by grandfather after the children had become accustomed to home their mother had established and to schools of city in which the mother resided. Cook v. Cook, 1943 (135 F. 2d 945, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 388).

In habeas corpus proceeding by parent to obtain custody of child, what is best for the child, rather than the natural right of the parent, is the controlling factor. Holtsclaw v. Mercer, 1944 (145 F. 2d 388, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 252).

The rights of parent to child are secondary to welfare of child and the child's well-being is the paramount consideration. Holtsclaw v. Mercer, 1944 (145 F. 2d 388, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 252).

When jurisdiction of court is invoked to determine custody of a minor child, the court acts, not as an arbiter between contesting parents determining adversary rights in human chattels, but as parens patriae, protecting the child whose custody is in dispute and making its award solely according to the interest and welfare of the child, regardless of the settled or transient character of the parents' residence, or even of a child abandoned by its parents. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

In proceeding involving custody of children, where the pleadings and evidence reveal a situation which required action, court must act on behalf of the children and for their protection, regardless of anything previously said or done by any court, and the function of the Court of Appeals is only to review the question whether the trial court properly exercised its discretion with a view to the present welfare of the children. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

In determining custody of children, the question for the court is the welfare of the children which overrides all other considerations, even where the proceeding is in habeas corpus, and the rights of the parents must yield to the interests and welfare of the children. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

EVIDENCE

Evidence justified trial court in awarding custody of a minor child to its father as against the claims of the divorced mother who had been awarded the child's custody by decree in another state. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

EXAMINATION OF PARENTS' QUALIFICATIONS

In proceeding involving custody of children, the decision should not be based upon the adversary rights of the parents, but courts should require that the interest of the children be brought fully before it, and for this purpose the court should call to its aid experienced and disinterested persons, such as its probation officers or social workers in the Board of Public Welfare to make an unbiased examination of the qualifications of the parents and the circumstances which surround the children. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

FOREIGN DECREE

An order of the Maryland court awarding custody of a child to divorced mother, did not preclude a court of equity from assuming concurrent jurisdiction and passing subsequent orders relating to the custody of the child as its present welfare and happiness might warrant. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

A West Virginia order awarding custody of a minor to paternal grandmother, and adjudging the minor's mother in contempt for taking the child to the District of Columbia, was not binding on District of Columbia court in habeas corpus proceeding, although entitled to due weight, since ultimate question was the child's present and future welfare. Kirk v. Kirk (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 589, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 183).

Where order of West Virginia court awarding custody of minor to paternal grandmother was grounded on circumstance that the child could best recover from illness in the grandmother's home, but child had recovered from illness and was residing with the mother in the District of Columbia, the West Virginia order was not binding on the District of Columbia court which should determine, with the aid of whatever information might be obtainable from disinterested and experienced observers, what custody would best promote the child's welfare. Kirk v. Kirk (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 589, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 183).

FULL FAITH AND CREDIT

A California decree determining custody of a child as between divorced parents, which decree was subject to modification at any time during minority of the child, was not entitled to full faith and credit in the District of Columbia in subsequent proceedings in which the paramount consideration was the child's welfare. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

Even in a case in which the full faith and credit clause is fully applicable to a judgment of another state, the judgment is entitled to credit only as to issues considered and judicially determined, and in a custody case, such a judgment is entitled only to qualified consideration in another state where there are changes in circumstances. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

JURISDICTION

Where grandfather to whom New York court had awarded custody of minor children, instituted habeas corpus proceeding to obtain custody from their mother who had established home for them in District of Columbia, court had jurisdiction and owed to the children who were in District of Columbia duty to protect them and do things which appeared to be best for them without regard to anything any other court had previously done. Cook v. Cook, 1943 (135 F. 2d 945, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 388).

In habeas corpus proceeding for custody of a minor child, where the father had been for some time a government employee stationed in Washington, D. C., and the child had been living with him just over the district line in Maryland for a year and a half, they were in a real sense members of the District of Columbia community and district court had jurisdiction to determine question of custody notwithstanding that the father had taken possession of the child in violation of decree of another state. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

If the court of the jurisdiction in which a child is found concludes that its custodian is unfit, the child may be taken from him and given to another. Langan v. Langan (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 979).

Children in the District of Columbia are subject to the jurisdiction of its courts as to matters of custody. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

LUNATIC

The writ of habeas corpus in respect of lunacy is one of relief rather than of original adjudication. Barry v. Hall (68 App. D. C. 350, 98 Fed. (2d) 222).

PRESUMPTIONS

The presumption that small children are better off with their mother is entitled to weight in determining their custody. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

RES JUDICATA

In habeas corpus proceeding by grandfather to obtain custody of three minor children from their mother, prior order of New York court awarding custody to the grandfather was not "res judicata" on question of present welfare of the children where the mother had provided an adequate home for them and they had become accustomed to schools of city in which mother resided. Cook v. Cook, 1943 (135 F. 2d 945, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 388).

An order regarding custody of minor children is conclusive regarding all matters prior to its promulgation, but doctrine of "res judicata" cannot settle question of children's welfare for all time to come, and it cannot prevent a court at a subsequent time from determining what is best for the children at that time. Cook v. Cook, 1943 (135 F. 2d 945, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 388).

Judgments adverse to the father, both in North Carolina and in the District of Columbia, which he had failed to obey, were not res judicata of subsequent action brought by the children by their next friend to determine their custody so as to deprive the District Court of jurisdiction. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

A custody award is subject to change, upon a proper showing, so long as the court has control of the child, and when the child comes under the control of another jurisdiction, its courts have equal power, and only to the extent that issues presented in the earlier case were judicially determined does the doctrine of res judicata and the full faith and credit clause apply. Boone v. Boone (App. D. C. 1945, 150 F. 2d 153).

Father's removal, after Pennsylvania habeas corpus decree awarding him custody of child, from apartment in which he was living with sister and brother-in-law to another apartment in which he lived alone with 7-year-old child who was without supervision during the day while father was engaged with his employment was such a substantial change in conditions surrounding child that Pennsylvania decree was not res judicata, and custody of child would be awarded to mother who was fit and proper person to care for child and who lived with parents in good residential district of Washington. Matthews v. Matthews (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 560).

"Unlawfully Confined or Detained"

Habeas corpus not the proper remedy where the child was not unlawfully confined or detained. Church v. Church (50 App. D. C. 237, 270 Fed. 359); Burrowes v. Burrowes (64 App. D. C. 392, 78 Fed. (2d) 742.)

Where father residing in Pennsylvania was awarded custody of child during school year by Pennsylvania decree, and mother residing in District of Columbia was awarded custody of child during Christmas and summer holidays, and mother refused to deliver child to father at end of summer holiday, habeas corpus in United States District Court for District of Columbia was the father's proper remedy. Matthews v. Matthews (D. C., D. C. 1948, 80 F. Supp. 560).

Chapter 9.—JOINT CONTRACTS

Sec.
16–901. Joint and several—Contracts—Definition.
16–902. Death of joint contractor.
16–903. Merger.
16–904. Death after suit brought—Legal representatives.
16–905. Proof of joint liability not necessary—Judgment.
16–906. Separate compromise.

§ 16–901 [24: 261]. Joint and several — Contracts — Definition.

Every contract and obligation entered into by two or more persons, whether partners or merely joint contractors, whether under seal or not, and whether written or verbal, and whether expressed to be joint and several or not, shall for the purposes of suit thereupon be deemed joint and several. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1205.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Decisions Under Prior Law

In the case of a joint and several contract, an unsatisfied judgment against one of the promisees is no bar to a subsequent action against the other; and the statute places a joint contract for the payment of money on the same footing as a several contract, with respect to the right of suit thereon. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

A creditor should not be allowed to sue jointly and separately at the same time, nor prosecute more than one suit, if all the parties bound by the contract can be proceeded against together in a single action. Harris v. Leonhardt (2 App. D. C. 318).

If the contract be joint or joint and several, and the parties be sued jointly, the recovery must be general against the parties, but as to the married woman defendant, the award of execution must be against her sole and separate estate acquired and held under the statute, at the date of the judgment if real estate, or at time of delivery of execution to the marshal, if personal. Magruder v. Belt (7 App. D. C. 303).

Issues having been joined a nonsuit may be entered as to the minors, and the suit proceeded against the remaining adult defendants. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

Executor of Joint Obligor

Executor of a deceased joint obligor may be sued at law with his coobligor. White v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460. Writ of error dism. 218 U. S. 684, 54 L. Ed. 1208, 31 Sup. Ct. 219).

Nonsuit as to Minors

In a suit against the owners of property, some of whom are minors, to recover a brokerage commission, it is proper, under this section and § 1209 (§ 16–905), after issue joined to enter a nonsuit as to the minors and proceed against the remaining defendants. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

Remedial in Effect

This section "merely affects the remedy. It relates wholly to procedure. It does not convert a joint instrument into a joint and several instrument, or change a joint obligor into a joint and several obligor. The contract and the relations of the obligations of the contractors remain unchanged." White v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (34 App. D. C. 460. Writ of error dism. 218 U. S. 684, 54 L. Ed. 1208, 31 Sup. Ct. 219).

§ 16–902 [24: 262]. Death of joint contractor.

If one or more of such persons shall die, his or their executors, administrators, or heirs shall be bound by said contract in the same manner and to the same extent as if the same were expressed to be joint and several. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1206.)

Cross Reference

See notes to § 16–901.

§ 16–903 [24: 263]. Merger.

If an action be brought against all the parties to such contract, but service of process is had against some only of the defendants, or an action is brought against and service had on some only of the parties, a judgment against the parties so served shall not work an extinguishment or merger of the cause of action on which such judgment is founded as respects the parties not so served, but they shall remain liable to be sued separately. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1207.)

§ 16–904 [24: 264]. Death after suit brought—Legal representatives.

If any one of several defendants in an action shall die after the commencement of the action, his legal representatives may be made parties thereto as directed in sections 12–101 to 12–116. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1208.)

§ 16–905 [24: 265]. Proof of joint liability not necessary—Judgment.

In actions ex contractu against alleged joint debtors it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to prove their joint liability as alleged in order to maintain his action, but he shall be entitled to recover, as in actions ex delicto, against such of the defendants as shall be shown by the evidence to be jointly indebted to him, or against one only, if he alone is shown to be indebted to him, and judgment shall be rendered as if the others had not been joined in the suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1209.)

CROSS REFERENCE

See notes to § 16–901.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NONSUIT AS TO MINORS

Issues having been joined, a nonsuit was entered as to the minors, and the suit proceeded against the remaining defendants; this was proper under the Code. Rhees v. Morris (52 App. D. C. 27, 280 Fed. 1001).

§ 16–906 [24: 266]. Separate compromise.

Any one of several joint debtors, when their debt is overdue, may make a separate composition or compromise with their creditors, with the same effect as is provided in the case of parties in sections 41–101 to 41–131, 41–201 to 41–204, on partners. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1380, ch. 854, § 1210.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NO RELEASE OF OTHER JUDGMENT DEBTORS

Compromise with one of several judgment debtors, and an entry of a satisfaction of the judgment as to him, will not operate as a release of the other judgment debtors. Bunch v. United States ex rel. Keppler (40 App. D. C. 156).

RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Mandamus has been abolished insofar as the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia is concerned; similar relief may be obtained by appropriate action or motion as may be prescribed by rules of court, see Rule 81 (b).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS

Writs of mandamus may still be issued by Circuit Courts of Appeals. National Bondholders Corp. v. McClintic ((C. C. A. 4), 99 Fed. (2d) 595); Armour & Co. v. Kloeb ((C. C. A. 6), 109 Fed. (2d) 72).

MINISTERIAL DUTY

As the Comptroller General was not charged with duties requiring the exercise of judgment or discretion, but was called upon to perform a purely ministerial function, mandamus lies to compel him to certify a voucher for refund of immigration fines which were made through error of government officers. McCarl v. United States ex rel. Societa Ligure di Armamento (58 App. D. C. 319, 30 Fed. (2d) 561).

Statute being mandatory and clear, the duty of the appellant to admit the appellee to the public schools of the District was purely ministerial. Mandamus is the orthodox remedy to compel the performance of a ministerial duty. Ballou v. Kemp (68 App. D. C. 7, 92 Fed. (2d) 556).

Mandamus may compel performance of a ministerial duty or compel performance of an act involving discretion, but it cannot direct the discretion. Thomas v. Vinson (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 636).

Where duty in a particular situation is so plainly prescribed as to be free from doubt and equivalent to a positive command, it is regarded as being so far "ministerial" that its performance may be compelled by mandamus unless there is provision or implication to the contrary. Thomas v. Vinson (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 636, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 346).

OFFICIAL DUTIES

Where the performance of official duties requires an interpretation of the law which governs that performance, the interpretation placed by the officer upon the law will not be interfered with unless it is clearly wrong and the official action arbitrary and capricious. Hammond v. Hull, 1942 (131 F. 2d 23, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 830, 318 U. S. 777, 87 L. Ed. 1145).

The courts have no general supervisory powers over the executive branches or over their officers which may be invoked by writ of mandamus. Hammond v. Hull, 1942 (131 F. 2d 23, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 830, 318 U. S. 777, 87 L. Ed. 1145).

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Mandamus, being a remedial process, is not within the statute of limitations, but is within the discretion of the court, and application to compel restoration to government service is barred by laches of twenty months. Laches as a bar. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane (249 U. S. 367, 63 L. Ed. 650, 39 Sup. Ct. 293).

USE OF MANDAMUS IN GENERAL

Mandamus is the proper remedy when a case is outside the discretion of the inferior court, and is one of irregularity, or against law, or of flagrant injustice, or without jurisdiction. Ex parte Bradley (7 Wall. (74 U. S.) 364, 19 L. Ed. 214).

Where an administrative remedy is available, it must generally be first exhausted before judicial relief may be obtained by writ of mandamus or otherwise. Hammond v. Hull, 1942 (131 F. 2d 23, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 830, 318 U. S. 777, 87 L. Ed. 1145).

Mandamus should issue only when the duty of the officer to act is clearly established and plainly defined and the obligation to act is peremptory. Hammond v. Hull, 1942 (131 F. 2d 23, 76 U. S. App. D. C. 301, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 830, 318 U. S. 777, 87 L. Ed. 1145).

A petition for mandamus to review action of trial court in treating petitioner's complaint as an application for writ of habeas corpus would be denied, since petitioner's remedy was by appeal, and mandamus may not be used as a substitute for appeal. In re De Marcos, 1944 (139 F. 2d 841, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 187).

Mandamus lies to compel the performance of a plain legal duty, not to control the way in which administrative discretion is exercised. Prince v. Klune (App. D. C. 1945, 148 F. 2d 18).

Writ of mandamus may not be used as a substitute for appeal. In re Fullam (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 141, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 273).

Mandamus never lies except where there is no other remedy McMurtrey v. Clark (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 703, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 294, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 492, 329 U. S. 805, 91 L. Ed. 687).

A writ of mandamus neither creates nor confers power to act, but may be used only to compel exercise of powers already existing. McMurtrey v. Clark (App. D. C. 1946, 157 F. 2d 703, 81 U. S. App. D. C. 294, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 492, 329 U. S. 805, 91 L. Ed. 687).

Where duty is not plainly prescribed but depends on statute or statutes, the construction and application of which is not free from doubt, it is regarded as involving character of judgment or discretion which cannot be controlled by mandamus. Thomas v. Vinson (App. D. C. 1946, 153 F. 2d 636, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 346).

Mandamus is employed to compel action, when refused, in matters involving judgment and discretion, but not to direct the exercise of judgment or discretion in a particular way nor to direct the retraction or reversal of action already taken in the exercise of either. Edgerton v. Kingsland (App. D. C. 1948, 168 F. 2d 128).

USE OF MANDAMUS IN PARTICULAR CASES

In action by a contractor against the Emergency Fleet Corporation to have a claim submitted to the audit of the Comptroller General, mandamus is the proper remedy. United States ex rel. Skinner & Eddy Corp. v. McCarl (275 U. S. 1, 72 L. Ed. 131, 48 Sup. Ct. 12).

For use of mandamus in particular cases (since 1910), see United States ex rel. Thomson v. Custis (35 App. D. C. 247) (to board of medical advisors to compel issuance of license to practice); United States ex rel. Phillips v. Ballinger (35 App. D. C. 520) (to Secretary of Interior to vacate order disbarring attorney); Rudolph v. Moshewvel (37 App. D. C. 76) (to Commissioners, District of Columbia, to compel medical board to examine fireman dismissed for physical disability); United States ex rel. Hammond v. Custis (37 App. D. C. 449) (to board of medical advisors to compel issuance of license to practice); United States ex rel. Todd v. Gongwer (37 App. D. C. 555) (to Auditor of Treasury to compel consideration of claim for longevity pay); United States ex rel. Moser v. Myer (38 App. D. C. 13) (to Secretary of Navy to compel placing of relator's name on retired list); United States ex rel. McKenzie v. Fisher (39 App. D. C. 7) (to Secretary of Interior to compel issuance of land patent); Kalbfus v. Siddons (42 App. D. C. 310) (to compel restoration to public office); Prail v. Stafford (42 App. D. C. 383) (to compel justice of District Court, District of Columbia, to enter final decree on mandate of Court of Appeals); United States ex rel. Newman v. City & Suburban Co. (42 App. D. C. 417) (to compel respondent to condemn land for street extension); Persing v. Daniels (43 App. D. C. 470) (to compel restoration of employee to service of United States); United States ex rel. Bowlegs v. Lane (43 App. D. C. 494); Lane v. Duncan Townsite Co. (44 App. D. C. 63, affd. 245 U. S. 308, 62 L. Ed. 309, 38 Sup. Ct. 99); Hoglund v. Lane (44 App. D. C. 310, affd. 244 U. S. 174, 61 L. Ed. 1066, 37 Sup. Ct. 558); United States ex rel. Reynolds v. Lane (45 App. D. C. 50) (to compel Secretary of Interior to approve or disapprove lease); Ewing v. United States ex rel. Fowler Car Co. (45 App. D. C. 185) (to Commissioner of Patents to compel direction of interference in patent cases), revd. on the ground that the proper remedy was a suit in equity (244 U. S. 1, 61 L. Ed. 955, 37 Sup. Ct. 494); Blair v. United States ex rel. Hellman (45 App. D. C. 353) (to school board to compel restoration of relator as a teacher); Handel v. Lane (45 App. D. C. 389); Richards v. Davison (45 App. D. C. 395) (to assessor, District of Columbia, to compel issuance of license to conduct dance hall). United States ex rel. Schwerdtfeger v. Brownlow (45 App. D. C. 412) (to commissioners, District of Columbia, to compel placing of relator's name on fireman's pension roll); Hight v. McCoy (46 App. D. C. 238) (to compel justice, District Court, District of Columbia, to sign bill of exceptions); United States ex rel. Coal Co. v. Lane (46 App. D. C. 443); United States ex rel. Ashley v. Roper (48 App. D. C. 69) (to compel Secretary of Treasury to abrogate decision construing act of Congress); LeCrone v. McAdoo (48 App. D. C. 181, dism. 253 U. S. 217, 64 L. Ed. 869, 40 Sup. Ct. 510) (to compel Secretary of the Treasury to pay over fund to petitioner); United States ex rel. McDonald v. Lane (49 App. D. C. 234, 263 Fed. 630); United States ex rel. McDuffie v. Hawley (50 App. D. C. 137, 269 Fed. 479) (to Board of Dental Examiners to compel issuance of license to dentist); United States ex rel. Anderson v. Simon (50 App. D. C. 199, 269 Fed. 715) (to school board to restore teacher); United States ex rel. Russell v. District of Columbia (50 App. D. C. 296, 271 Fed. 370); Weeks v. United States ex rel. Creary (51 App. D. C. 195, 277 Fed. 594) (to Secretary of War to vacate discharge and restore to rank in Army); United States ex rel. Norris v. Forbes (51 App. D. C. 248, 278 Fed. 331) (to Director of Bureau of War Risk Insurance to compel payment of insurance); Robertson v. United States ex rel. Baff (52 App. D. C. 177, 285 Fed. 911) (to review proceedings disbarring attorney from Patent Office and compel restoration).

Where trial judge had rejected affidavits of bias and prejudice because they failed to comply with statutory requirements both as to time of filing and as to manner of certification and had refused to disqualify himself and trial was in progress, federal appellate court would not issue writ of mandamus or prohibition. Dilling v. U. S., 1944 (142 F. 2d 473, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 47).

Where district court had ruled on petitioner's motion in forma pauperis for transcript of record, indictment and judgment containing sentence and order of commitment for use in preparing a motion to vacate judgment, mandamus would not lie to review determination of district court. In re Fullam (App. D. C. 1945, 152 F. 2d 141, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 273).

Mandamus to compel payment of widow's allowance by Paymaster General of Navy was inappropriate remedy in view of fact that act to be performed was not purely ministerial, but widow was entitled under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54c, 28 U. S. C., to whatever judgment evidence warranted, irrespective of whether it was precise relief prayed for in complaint, and hence, under provision of Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U. S. C. § 1009, that any applicable form of relief might be granted, judgment in favor of widow would be given form of a mandatory injunction directing necessary payment, though complaint prayed for relief in nature of mandamus. Snyder v. Buck (D. C., D. C. 1948, 75 F. Supp. 902, reversed 179 F. 2d 466, 85 U. S. App. D. C. 428, certiorari granted 70 S. Ct. 837, 339 U. S. 951, 94 L. Ed. 723).

§ 16–1002 [24: 212]. Defendant to show cause—Service.

Upon the filing of such petition the court may lay a rule requiring the defendant therein named to show cause, within such time as the court may deem proper, why a writ of mandamus should not issue as prayed, a copy of which rule shall be served upon such defendant by a day to be therein limited. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1274.)

§ 16–1003 [24: 213]. Defendant's answer—Verification.

The defendant, by the day named in such order, unless for cause shown the court shall extend the time, shall file an answer to such petition, fully setting forth all the defenses upon which he intends to rely in resisting such application, which shall be verified by his affidavit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1275.)

§ 16–1004 [24: 214]. Pleadings and further proceedings.

The petitioner may plead to or traverse all or any of the material averments set forth in said answer, and the defendant shall take issue or demur to said plea or traverse within five days thereafter unless for cause shown, the court shall extend the time; and such further proceedings shall thereupon be had in the premises for the determination thereof as if the petitioner had brought an action for a false return. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1276; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "thereafter" the words "unless for cause shown, the court shall extend the time."

§ 16–1005 [24: 215]. Time of trial of issue.

If issue shall be joined on such proceedings, the same shall stand for trial at as early a day as the court shall appoint. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1277.)

§ 16–1006 [24: 216]. Trial — By jury — Damages and costs—Granting writ.

Such issues shall be tried by a jury if both parties in writing require it, otherwise they shall be heard and determined by the court; and in case a verdict shall be found for the petitioner, or if the court upon hearing determine for the petitioner, or judgment be given for him upon demurrer or for want of a plea, such petitioner shall thereupon recover his damages and costs as he might have done in an action for a false return, to be levied by execution, and a peremptory writ of mandamus shall be granted thereon without delay against the defendant. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1278.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

PERSONAL LIABILITY OF GOVERNMENTAL OFFICER

The fact that this section allows the petitioner to recover damages in the same proceeding does not justify the retention of the petition to charge the secretary personally, since damages are only incident to the allowance of the writ. Le Crone v. McAdoo (253 U. S. 217, 64 L. Ed. 869, 40 Sup. Ct. 510).

§ 16–1007 [24: 217]. Judgment for defendant—Costs.

If judgment shall be given for the defendant he shall recover his costs of suit, to be levied in the manner aforesaid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1279).

§ 16–1008 [24: 218]. Defendant's default—Granting of writ—Costs.

If the defendant shall neglect to file his answer to the petition by the day named in the order of the court, after being served with notice thereof, the said court shall thereupon proceed to hear the said petition ex parte, within five days thereafter, and if it shall be of opinion that the facts and law of the case authorize the granting of a mandamus as prayed, it shall thereupon without delay order a peremptory mandamus to issue, and shall also adjudge to the petitioner his costs of suit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1280.)

§ 16–1009 [24: 219]. Denial of writ on defendant's default—Costs.

If the court shall, upon such ex parte hearing, be of opinion that the facts and law of the case do not authorize the granting of a mandamus, it shall dismiss such petition with costs. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1281.)

§ 16–1010 [24: 220]. Appeal—Bond.

In case of an appeal by the defendant the court shall fix the penalty of the appeal bond necessary to be given to stay the execution or enforcement of the order appealed from. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1282.)

Chapter 11.—CHANGE OF NAME

Sec.
16–1101. Proceeding for change of name—By petition.
16–1102. Notice—Contents.
16–1103. Decree.

§ 16–1101 [24: 351]. Proceeding for change of name—By petition.

Any person, being a resident of the District, desiring a change of name may file a petition in the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia holding an equity term setting forth the reasons therefor and also the name desired to be assumed. In case the applicant is an infant, such petition shall be filed by the parent, guardian, or next friend to said infant. The court shall have power, in its discretion, to grant the prayer of such petition. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1298; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment changed the section to read as above. The 1901 act read as follows: "Any person of full age, being a resident of the District and desirous to have his name changed, may file a petition in the supreme court setting forth the reasons therefor and also the name desired to be assumed."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

NOT APPLICABLE TO CORPORATIONS

Sections 16–1101 to 16–1103 do not apply to corporations. American Elementary Elec. Co. v. Normandy (46 App. D. C. 329).

§ 16–1102 [24: 352]. Notice—Contents.

Notice of the filing of such petition, containing the substance and prayer thereof, shall be published once a week for three consecutive weeks in some newspaper in general circulation published in the District prior to the hearing of the petition. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1394, ch. 854, § 1299; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

The 1902 amendment inserted after the word "published," the first time it appears, the words "once a week."
